The prologue

preached vpon: therefore sayeth he there: My comen vslage is to geue you warnynge befoze what matter I intende after to entreate vpon. that you your selues in the meane dayes may take the booke in hande, reade, wepe and perreue the summe and effecte of the matter: and marke what hath bene declared, and what it mayneth yet to be declared: so that thereby you mynde maye be the more furnished, to heare the rest, that shalbe sayde. And that I exhorte you (sayth he) and euer haue, & wyl exhorte you, that you (not only here in church) geue eare to that, that is sayde by the preacher: but that also, when ye be at home in your houses, ye applye your selues frome tyme to tyme to the readyng of holpe scriptures: whyche thynge also I neuer lynne to beate into the eares of them that be my samplers, and wyth whome I haue ppyuate acquaintaunce and conuersacyon. Let no man make excuse and saye: (sayth he) I am busied aboute matters of the comen welth. I beare this office of that, I am a craftes man, I muste applye myne occupacyon, I haue a wyfe, my chyldren muste be fedde, my householde must I prouyde for. Briefly I am a man of the worlde, it is not for me to reade & scriptures, that belongeth to them & haue bydden the worlde farre wel: which lyue in solitarynes and contemplacyon, and haue bene brought by, and continually nortified in learning & religion. To this answerynge: what sayest thou man (sayth he) is it not for the to studie and to reade the scripture: because thou arte encombered & distracte with cares and busynesse? So much the more it is behoufull for the to haue defence of scriptures: howe much thou art the more distressed in worldly daungers. They that bene ffre and farre from trouble and extremityng of worldly thynges, lyue in safegarde and tranquyltye, and in the calme of wit bin a sure haven. Thou arte in the myddest of the see of worldly wychednesse, and therefore thou needest the more of ghostly succoure and comfort: they lyt farre frome the strokes of battayle, and farre out of gunne shote, and therefore they be but seldom wounded: thou standest in the fore frounte of the host, and nytt to thyne enemyes, muste nedes take wounde and then many strokes, and be greuously wounded. And therefore thou hast more nede to haue thy remedies and medecynes at hande. Thy wyfe prouoketh the to anger, thy chyldre geneth the occasyon to take sorow & penyruenesse, thyne enemyes lyt in wayte for the, they ffrende as thou takest hym (somtyme enuyeth the thy neyghboure my secrett & pryketh quarels agaynst the, thy matre or partener vnder myneth & thy lord indige, or willet the tenech the pouertie is paynfull vnto the, the losse of thy deare & welbeloued causeth the to moorne. Do they te exalter the, aduersyte byngeth the low. Briefly, so byrte & so many fold occasions of cares, tribulacions & tēptacions beleite the and bessege the rounde about. Willett thou haue armour or fortresse agaynst thine assautes? Willett thou haue salues for thy sores, but of holy scripture? Thy flesch must nedes be prynced & subiect to fleschly lustes, which daily walkest & arte comersaunt amange women, seyst they be wyres set forth to the eye, hearest they nyle & wanton wordes, smellest their balme, sweet & muske, with many other lyke pryncuations & stirrings, except thou hast in a redynes wherewith to suppress & auoide them which can not elles where be had, but onely out of the holy scriptures. Let vs reade and seke all remedies & we can, and all shalbe lyfe ynough. Howe shall we then do, yf we lustre and take daily woundes, & when we haue done, wyl lyt wyll and serch for no medecynes? Dost thou not marke, & consyder howe the smyth, mason, or carpenter, or any other handy craftesman, what neade so euer he be in, what other thyng so euer he make, he wyl not sell, nor laye to pledge the toles of his occupacyon, for then howe shuld he worke his feate or get his luyng therby? Of lyke mynde and affection ought we to betowardes holpe scripture, for as mallets, hammers, sawes, chesylles, axes, and hat chertys be the toles of they occupacyon: So be the bookes of the prophetes, and apostles and all holy wyrtte inspired by the holy ghost the instrumentes of our saluacyon. Willett thou let vs not stycke to byt and prouyde vs byrle, that is to saye, the bookes of holpe scripture. And let vs thynke that to be a better Jewell in our house then eyther golde or syluer. For lyke as they be lothe to assaunte an house, where they knowe to be good armour & artyllary, so where so euer these holpe and ghostly bookes bene occupied, the remether the deuyl, nor none of his aungelles dare come nece. And they that occupye them bene in moche safegarde, and haue a greate consolacyon, and bene readyer vnto all goodnesse, the slower to all euell: and yf they haue done any thyng amysse, anone euen by the sight of the bookes they consciences ben admonished, other warn lozzy and alhamed of the faulte. Peraduenture they wyl saye vnto me: howe yf we vnderstand not that we reade, that is contened in the bookes. What then? Suppose, thou vnderstande not the depe and pprofounde misteries of scriptures, yett can it not be, but that much feate and hollynes must come and growe vnto the by the readyng: for it cannot be that thou shuldest be ignorant in all thynges a lyke. For the holy ghost hath so ordered and attempted the scriptures, that in them as well publycans, tythes, and they hearde maye fynde theye edyfyfacyon, as greate doctours theye erudicyon: for those bookes were not made to dayne glozpye, lyke as were the wyptynges of the gentile philosphers and rethoricians, to the entente the makers

To the reader.

makers shulde be had in admiracion for theye hve styles and obscure maner and wytyng, whereof no hyng can be vnderstande without a master or an expolycoure. But the Apostels and prophetes wrote theyr booke so, that theye speyall entent and purpose myght be vnderstande and perceaued of every reader, whiche was nothyng but the edyfycacon of a mendement of the lyfe of them that readeth or heareth it. Who is it, that redyng or hearyng reade in the gospel. Blessed are they that bene meke. Blessed are they that bene mercyful. Blessed are they that be of cleane herte: a suche other lyke places, can perceyue nothyng excepte he haue a master to teache hym what it meaneth. Lyke wyse, the sygnes and myracles with all other hystories of the doynges of Chyriste or his Apostels, who is there, of so simple wryt, and capatyf, but he maye be able to perceauie and vnderstande them. These be but eccules and clokes for the rayne, and heueringes of theyr owne ydell slouthfulnes: I can not vnderstand it. What manayler howe shuldest thou vnderstande, yf thou wylt not reade, nor loke vpon it: take the booke into thyne handes, reade the hole story, and that thou vnderstandest kepe it well in memozye: that thou vnderstandest not, reade it agayne, & agayne: yf thou can nether so come by it, counsaile wryth some other that is better learned. Go to thy curate and preacher, shewe thy selfe to be desyrous to knowe and learne. And I doubt not but God seying thy diligence and redynesse (yf no man elles teache y) wyl hym selfe vouchsaife wryth his holy spete to illuminate the, and to open vnto the that whiche was locked from the.

Remember the Eunuchus of Candace quene of Ethiopie, whiche albeit he was a man of a wyld and barbarous countre, and one occupied with worldly cures and busynesses, yet redyng in his charet, he was reading the scripture. Nowe consyder, yf this man passyng in his iorney, was so diligent as to reade the scripture, what thynekst thou of lyke was he wonte to do lyyng at home? Agayne he that letteth not to reade, albeit he byd not vnderstande, what byd he then, to worst thou: after that when he had learned and had gotten vnderstanding: for that thou mayst well knowe that he vnderstode not what he reade: herken what phylippe saith vnto hym. Vnderstandest thou what thou reade? And he nothyng ashamed to confesse his ignorance, answered: howe shulde I vnderstande hauyng no body to shewe me the waye? Lo when he lacked one to shewe hym the waye and to expounde to hym the scriptures, yet byd he reade: a therfoze God the rather prouided for hym a guide of the waye that taught hym to vnderstande it. God perceyued his wyllynge and towarde mynde: and therfoze he sent hym a teacher by & by. Therfoze let no man be neglygent about his owne healt and saluacyon: though he thou haue not phylippe alwayes when thou woldest, the holy ghost, whiche then moued and tryed by phylippe, wyl be ready and not fayle the yf thou do thy diligence accordyngly: All these thynges ben wyrtten vnto vs for our edyfycacon and amendement, whiche be doyne towardes the latter ende of the worlde. The reading of scriptures is a greates & stronge bulwarke or fozetrelle agaynst synne: the ignorance of y same is the greater ruine and destruction of them that wyl not knowe it. That is the thyng that byngeth in hereye, that is it, that causeth all corrupte and peruerse luyng: y is it, that byngeth all thynges out of good order. hitherto all that I haue sayde I haue taken and gathered out of the foze sayde sermon of this holy doctoure saynte John Chylosome. Nowe yf I shoulde in lyke maner byng furrth, what the selfe same Doctoure speaketh in other places and what other doctours and wryters saye, concernyng the same purpose. I myght seme to you to wryte another Bpble, rather then to make a preface to the Bpble. Wherfore in fewe wordes to comprehend the largenesse & vnde of the scripture, howe it conteyneth fruteful instruccyon and erudicyon for every man, yf any thyng be necessaie to be learned: of the holy scripture we maye learne it. Yf alspeed shall be reponed, thereof we maye gather wherwithall. Yf any thyng be to be corrected and amended, yf there nede anye exhortacyon or consolacyon of the scripture we maye well learne. In the scriptures be the fatte pastures of the soule, therein is no venymouse meate, no vndolome thyng, they be the very dayntye & pure fedynge. He that is ignorant, shall fynde there what he shoulde learne. He that is a peruerse synner, shall there fynde his damnacyon to make hym to tremble for feare. He that laboureth to serue God shall fynde there his glorie, and the promysions of eternal lyfe, exhortyng hym moze diligently to labour. Herein maye prynces learne how to gouerne theyr subiectes. Subiectes obedye, loue and drede to theyr prynces. Husbendes, howe they shoulde behaue them vnto theyr wyues: how to educate theyr chyldren & seruauntes. And contrary the wyues, chyldren, & seruauntes maye knowe theyr dute, to theyr husbendes, parentes, & masters. Here maye all maner of persons, men, women, yonge, olde, learned, vnlearned, rich, poore, prestes, laymen, lordes, labyes, offycers, ternauntes, and meane men, virgyns, wyues, wydowes, lawers, marchauntes, artyspers, husbandomen, & all maner of persones of what estate or condicyon so ever they be, maye in this booke learne all thynges what they ought to beleue what they ought to do, and what they shulde not do aswell concernyng almyghtye

The Prologue

The Churche God as also concerninge them selues & all other. Briefly to the readyng of the scripture none can be enemye, but that eyther be so fycke, that they loue not to heare of any medecyne: or els that be so ignoraunt, that they knowe not scripture to be the moost helthful medecyne. Therfore as touchinge this former parte, I will here conclude and take it as a conclusion: sufficialowed the tions for the same, whiche shall not neede, syns that this one place of Ihon Chrysostome is scripture as ynough & sufficient to perswade al them that be not frowardly & peruerfly set in theyr owne necessary for wyllfull opinion, specially now that the kynge byghnes beynge supreme heade next vnder be. Chyrste, of this churche of Englande hath appoyned wyth his royal assent the setting forth therof, whiche onely to all true and obedient subiectes ought to be a sufficient reason, for the alowance of the same, without farther delaye, reclamation, or resystaunce, although there were no preface nor other reason here in expessed. Therfore now we come to the seconde and latter parte of my purpose, here is nothyng so good in this wolde but it may be abused, and turned from frutefull and holsome, to hurtfull and norysome. What is there aboue, better then the sunne, the moone, the starres: yet was there that toke occasion by y great beawtye and vertue of them to dishonoure God, and to defyle them selves with ydolatrie, gruyng the honoure of the luyng God and creatoure of all thynges, to such thynges as he had created.

There is no
thyng but it may be abu:
sed.

What is there here beneth, better than fyre, water, meates, drinkes, metallies of golde, silver, yron and steele: yet we se daily great harme and muche myschefe, done by every one of these, as well for lacke of wysdome & prouydence of them that suffer euell, as by the malice of them that worketh the euill. Thus to them that be euill of them selues every thyng setteth forwarde and increaseth theyr euill, be it of his owne nature a thyng neuer so good lyke as contrarily, to them that studie and endeuor to them selues to goodnes, every thyng preuayleth them, and prouydech vnto good: be it of his owne nature a thyng neuer so bad.
As saynct Paule sayd His qui diligunt deum, omnia cooperantur in bonum, euen as out of most venymouse wormes is made triacle, the moost soueraigne medecyne for the preseruacion of mans helth in tyme of daunger. Wherfore I wolde aduise you all, that come to the readyng of bea-ryng of this booke, whiche is the worde of God, the moost precious Jewell, and moost holy reliquie, that remaineth vpon earth, that ye byynge wyth you the feare of God, and that ye do it wyth all due reuerence, and vse your knowlege therof, not to bayneglorie of frivoliouse disputation: but to the honour of God, encrease of vertue, and edification both of your selues and other. And to the entente that my wordes maye be the moze regarded, I will vlein this parte the aueritye of sayncte Gregoie Nazianzene, lyke as in the other I dyd of S.

Gregoie Nazianzene.

Ihon Chrysostome. It appeareth that in his tyme there were some (as I feare me, there bene also now at these dayes a greater nombre) whiche were ydel babblers, and talkers of the scripture out of reason, & al good order, and wythout any increase of vertue, or example of good luyng: to them he wyrteth al his fyrst booke, de theologia. Wherfore I shall briefly gather the hole effecte, and recyte it here vnto you. There ben some (sayeth he) whose not onely cares and longes, but also theyr systen ben whetted and ready bent all to contention & vnprofi-table disputation, whom I wolde wyshe as they ben vehement & earnest to reason the matter with tonge: so they were also redy and prattye to do good dedes. But forasmuche as they subuertynge the order of all godlynesse, haue respecte onely to theyr byng, howe they maye bynde and lose subtille questions, so that now every market place, every alehouse & tauerne every feashouse: briefly everye compaigne of men, everye assemblie of women is fylled with suche talke. Wherof the matter is so (sayeth he) and that our sayth and holy religyon of Chyrit begynneth to wane nothyng els, but as it were a sophistrie or a talkynge crafte, I can no litle do but saie some thyng ther vnto. It is not fyttre (sayeth he) for every man to dispute the dygh questions of diuinitie, nether is it to be done at all tymes: nether in every audience must we discusse every doubte, but we must knowe whan, to whom, & howe farre we ought to enter into suche matters. For as it is not for every man: but it is for suche as be of exacte & exquisite iudgementes, and suche as haue spented theyr time before in study and contemplation and suche as before haue cleensed themselves as well in soule, as bodye: or at the leaste, ende-uored them selves to be made cleane. For it is dangerous (sayeth he) for the vnclene to vouch that thyng, that is mooste cleane: lyke as the soze eye taketh harme by lokyng vpon the sunne. Secondarye, not at all tymes, but whan we be reposed, and at rest from all outwarde bygges and trouble, and when that our headdes ben not encombrd with other woudelye and wanderynge ymaginations: as yf a man shulde myngle balme and bytte together. For he that shal iudge and determyne suche matters and doubtes of scriptures, must take hyt to he, when he maye applye his wyttes thereunto, that he maye thereby the better se, and byuerne what is trouth.

Thyrdly

To the reader.

Therby where, and in what audience. There and amonge those that bene studious to learne: and not amonge such as haue pleasure to trespasse, with such matters, as wpth other thynges of pastyme, which repute for the chere delicacies, the disputacion of hygh questions, to shewe theyr wittes, lernynge and eloquence in reasonynge of hygh matters. Fourthly, it is to be consydered how farre to wade in such matters of difficultie. No further (sayth he) but as euery mans owne capacite wyl serue hym: and agayne no further the the weaknesse or intelligence of the other audience maye beate. For lyke as to great noyse hurteth the eare, to much meate hurteth the mannes body, heauy burthens hurte the bearers of them, to much rayne doth more hurte then good to the ground: byesely, in all thynges to much is noyous: euen so weake wittes and weake consciences maye sone be oppressed with ouer hard questions. I sape not this to dissuade men from the knowledg of God, & readynge of studyng of the scripture. For I sape: it is as necessary for the lyfe of mans soule, as for the body to breath. And yf it were possyble so to lyeue, I wold thynke it good for a mā to spend all his lyfe in that, & to do none other thyng. I commend the lawe which byddeth to meditate and study the scriptures alwayes, both night and daye: and sermons and preachynge to be made both moynynge, noone and euentyng. And God to be lauded and blessed in all tymes, to bedwarde, from bed, in our iourneyes, and all our other woorkes: I sayd not to reade, but I sayd to reason. Neether sayd I to reason so farre as is good and godlye. But I allowe not that is done out of season, and out of measure and good ordre. A mā maye eate to much of honye be it neuer so swete, & there is tyme for euery thyng, and that thyng that is good is not good, yf it be vngodly done. Euf as a floure in wynter is out of season, and as a womans apparel becommeth not a mā: neether contrarily, the mans the womā, neether is weppynge conuenient at a bydale: neether laughynge at a buryall. Howe yf we can obserue and kepe that is comely and tyme, in all other thynges, shall not we the rather do the same in the holy scriptures: Let vs not runne forthe as it were wylde horses, that can suffre neether byde in their mouthes, nor sytten on theyr backes. Let vs kepe vs in our boundes, and neether let vs go to farre on thonesyde, lest we retourne into Egypte, neether to farre ouer the other, lest we be carped awaye to Babylō. Let vs not synge & songe of our Lorde in a straunge lande, that is to saye: let vs not dispute the worde of God at all aduentures, as well where it is not to be reasoned, as where it is: and as well in the eares of them that be not fyt therfore, as of the that be. Yf we can in no wyse forbear, but that we must nedes dispute, let vs forbear thus much at the leest, to do it out of tyme, and place conuenient: And let vs entreate of those thynges which be holy, holyly: and vpo those thinges that be mystical, mystically: and not to vtter the deupne mysteries in the eares vntowynge to heare them, but let vs knowe what is comely as well in our sylence and talkynge, as in our garments wearynge, in our sedynge, in our gestur, in our goynge, in all our other behauynge. This contention and debate about scriptures and doubtles thereof (specially whē such as ppretende to be the fauourers and students therof, cannot agree wpthin the selues) doth most hurte to oure selues, and to the fortheryng of the cause and quarelles that we woulde haue forthered aboue al other thynges. And we in this (sayeth he) be not vnlyke to the that beynge mad, set theyr owne houses on fyre, & that slay theirown childre, or beat their owne parentes. I maruaile much (sayth he) to recount wherof cometh all this desyre of wayne glory, wherof cometh al thys tongeritche, that we haue so much desyre to talke and clatter. And wherein is our communicatid: Not in the commendations of vertuous and good dedes of hospitalite, of loue betwene christian brother and brother, of loue betwene mā and wyfe, of virgynryte and chastyte, and of almesse towarde the poore. Not in psalmes and godly songes, not in lamentynge for our synnes, not in repressynge & afflictions of the body, not in prayes to God. We talke of scripture, but in the meane tyme we subdue not our flesh by fastynge, wakynge, & weppynge, we make not this lyfe a meditation of death, we do not stryue to be lordes ouer our appetites & afflictions. We go not about to pul downe our proude and hygh mynde, to abate our sumptuous and rācous stomakes, to restrayne our lustes and bodely delectacions, our vndiscrete sayntes, our lasciuious mynde, our inordinate loynge, our insatiable hearynge of vanities, our speakynge without measure, our inconuenient thoughtes, & byesely to retourne our lyfe and maners: but al our holynesse consisteth in talkynge. And we pardonethe other fro al good luyng. So that we maye sytche fast togyther in argumentatid, as though ther were no mo wayes to beate but thys alone, the waye of speculation and knowledg (as they take it) but in verpe dede, it is ether the waye of superfluous contention and sophistification. Hyt herio haue I recypted the mynde of Gregozpe Nazianzene: in that booke which I sape of before. The same autho sayth also in an other place, that the lernynge of a Christen man ought to begyn of the feare of God to ende in matters of hye speculation: and not contraryte to begynne wpth speculation, and to and to ende in feare. For speculation (sayeth he) of her hye connyng & knowledge, if it be not shapen with the byble of feare to offende God is dangerous, and ynough to tumble a man headlonge downe the hyll. Therefore sayeth he: the feare of God must be the fyrst begynnyng, & as it were an A. B. C. or an introduction to all them þat shall entre into þe verye true and moost frutefull knowledge of holy scriptures. Where as is the feare of God, there is (sayeth he) the heppynge of the commaundementes: and where as is the heppynge of the commaundementes, there is the clensynge of the flesshe: which flesshe is a cloude betwixt the soules eye, and suffereth it nat purely to see the beame of þe heavenly lyght. Where as is the clensynge of the flesshe, there is the illumination of the holy goost, þe ende of all our desires and the very lyght wherby the veritie of scriptures is sene & perceyued. This is the mynd and almost the wordes of Gregorie Nazianzen doctoure of the Greke church, of whome Sapient Jerome sayth: that vnto his time, the Latyn church had no wyrtter hable to be compared, and to make an even match with hym. Therefore to conclude this latter part, every man that cometh to the readynge of this holy booke, ought to byng with him fyrst and formost this feare of almyghty God, and then next a tyme & a stable purpose to reforme his owne selfe accordyng ther vnto, and so to continue, procede and prospeere from tyme to tyme. For wyng hym selfe to be a sobye and frutefull hearer and learner: which if he do, he shall proue at the length well hable to teache, though not with his mouth, yet with his lyf, uppyng and good example, whych is sure the moost puerpe, and effectuous souerayn and manner of teachynge. He that otherwys intermedleth with this booke, let hym be assured, that ones he shall make accompte therfore: when he shall haue sayd to hym as it is wyrtten in the prophete Dauid. Peccatori dicit Deus, etc. Vnto the vngodlye sayde God: why doest thou preache my lawes, and takest my testament in thy mouth: Where as thou hast to be reformed, and hast ben partaker with aduouterers. Thou hast let thy mouth speake wyllednesse, and with thy tonge thou hast set forth discrepte. Thou hast telld and spakest agaynst thy brother, and hast schadowed thine owne mothers sonne. These thynges hast thou done and I helde my tonge, and thou thoughtest (wyckedlye) that I am even such a one as thy selfe. But I wyl proue the, and set betwixt the the thynges that thou hast done. O consydre this þe that forger God, lest I plucke you awake, and ther be none to helpe you. Whoso offreth me thankes and praye, he honoureth me: and to hym that ordeyth his conuersacion ryght: wyl I shewe the saluacion of God.

God saue the Kyng.

The fyfte Chapter.

¶ Howe heauen and earth, the lyght, & firmament, the sunne the moon, the starres, and all beastes, foules, & fyshes in the see were made by the woorde of God. And howe man also was created.

In the begyn-ning * God created heauen & erth. The erth was voyd and empty & darkenes was vpon
the face of the depe, & the spi-
rite of god moued vpo f face of the waters.

And God sayde: let there be made lyght, and there was lyght made. And God sawe the lyght that it was good. And God made a diuision betwene the lyght and darkenes. And God called the lyght, daye: and f darknes called he. nyght. And the eueninge and the moorning was made one daye. And God sayde: let there be a firmament betwene the waters, & let it make a diuision betwene waters & waters. And God made the firmament, and set a diuision betwene f waters which were vnder the firmament, and the waters that were aboue the firmament. And it was so. And God called the firmament heauen. The eueninge also and the moorning was made the seconde daye.

And God sayde: * let the waters vnder heauen be gathered together into one place, that the drye lande maye be seene. And so it came to passe. And God called the drye lande, Earth: and the gatherynge together of waters called he the Sees. And God sawe that it was good.

And God sayd: let f erth bringe forth grene hearbe, whych may engendze seebe: and frutful tree, yeldynge frute after hys kynde, whose sebe maye be in it selfe vpon the earth.

And it came to passe. And the earth brought forth grene herbe, making sebe after his kinde: & tree yeldynge frute, whose sebe was in it selfe after hys kynde. And God sawe that it was good. The eueninge also and the moorning was made the thyrde daye. And God sayd: * let there be made lyghtes in the firmament of heauen, and let them make a difference betwene the day and the nyghte, and lette them be vnto signes: and vnto appoynted seasons, and vnto dayes, and vnto yeres.

And let them be vnto lyghtes in the firmament of heauen: that they maye geue lyght vpo the earth. And so it came to passe.

And god made * two great lyghtes: a greater lyght to rule the daye, and a lesse lyghte to rule the nyghte. (And he made) sterres also. And God set them in the firmament of heauen that they myght geue lyght vpo the earth, and that they myght rule the daye and the nyght, and to make a difference betwene the lyghte and f darknesse. And God sawe that it was good. The eueninge also and the moorning was made f fourth daye. And God sayde: * let the waters bringe forth mouynge creatures that hath lyfe, & foule that maye flye vpon the earthe in the face of the firmament of heauen. And God created great whales, and euery lyuynge and mouynge creature, which f waters brought forth after theyr kynde: & euery fethered foule after theyr kynde. And God sawe that it was good. And God blessed them, sayinge: Growe and increase, and fyll the waters of the see, and let fethered foules be multiplied in the earth. The eueninge also & the moorning was made the fyfte daye.

And God sayde: let the earth bringe forth lyuynge creature after hys kynde: catel, worme, and beast of the earth after his kynde, and so it came to passe. And God made the beast of the earth after his kynde, & catel after theyr kynde, and euery thyng that creepeth vpo the earth after hys kynde. And God sawe that it was good. And God sayd, let vs make man in oure ymage after oure lykenesse, and let them haue rule of the fythe of the see: and foule of the ayre and catell, and all f earth and of euery creepynge thyng f creepeth vpon the erth. And so God created man in hys owne ymage, in the * ymage of God created he hym, & male and female created he them. And God blessed them, & God sayde vnto them: Growe and increase, and repleyn the earth, and subdue it: and haue * dominion of the fythe of the see, and foule of the ayre, & of euery lyuynge thyng that moueth vpon the earth. And God sayde: beholde, I haue geuen you euery hearbe fowynge sebe, which is in f vpper face of all the earth: and euery tree in the which is the frute of tree, & that foweth sebe, that they may be meate vnto you. To euery beast of the erth also, and to euery byrde of the ayre and to euery such thyng as creepeth vpon the earth, wherein is a lyuynge soule: I haue geuen al greynesse of herbe to be meate. And it came so to passe. And God sawe euery thyng that he had made, * and beholde: it was exceldynge good. The eueninge also and the moorning was made the. vi. daye.

The. ii. Chapter:

¶ The bolyng of the Sabbath daye. The four stonbes of paradyse. The lettynge in of man in paradyse. The tree of knowledge is forbidden hym: howe Adam nameth all creaturs. The creation of Eua. The institution of mariage.

And the heauens also and the earthe were fynyshed, and all the hooft of them. And in the seuenth day God ended hys worke whych he had made. * In the. vii. daye also he rested from all hys worke, which he had made. * And god blessed the. vii. daye, & sanctified it, because f in it he had rested fro al his worke, which God ordeyned to make.

These are the generations of the heauens & of the earth when they were created, in the day when when the Lorde God made the earth & the hea-uens, and every plant of the feilde, before it was in the earth: and every herbe of the feilde, before it grew. For the Lorde God had not caused it to growe upon the earth, neither was there a man to till the ground. And there went up a mist fro of the earth, & watered the whole face of the ground.

E The Lorde God also made man, even duste from of the ground, and breathed into him the breath of life, and Adam was made a living soule. And the Lorde God planted a garden eastward from Eden, and there he put man whom he had made. Wherever out of the ground made the Lorde God to growe, every tree that was pleasant to the sight, and commodious for meate. The tree of life also and the tree of knowledge of good and of euill was in the myddes of the garden.

And out of Eden there wente forth a riu-er to water the garden. And from thence it was diuided, and became into foure heades. The name of one is Pison: The same is it that compasseth the whole lande of Chanaan, where there is gold And the golde of the lande is good: There is also Sodom, and the Gommor. The name of the seconde riu-er, is Sihon: the same is it that compasseth the whole lande of Ethiopia. The name of the thirde riu-er is Euphrates, and it goeth toward the East side of Shinar: And the fourth riu-er is Euphrates.

E The Lorde God also toke Adam, and put him into the garden of Eden, that he might dress and keepe it. And the Lorde God commanded Adam saying: Eating thou shalt eate of eu-ery tree of the garden. But as touching the tree of knowledge of good and euill, thou shalt not eat of it: For in what daye soeuer thou eatest ther-of thou shalt dye the death.

And agayne, the Lorde God sayd: It is not good that Adam should be alone, I will make him an helpe, which maye be present with him And so out of the ground he took the Lorde God every beaste of the feilde, and euery soule of the ayre, and broughte it vnto man: that he might see howe he woulde call it. For the wyfe as man hym selfe named euery living thinge, even so was the name thereof.

When hym selfe therfore named the names vnto all catell, and soule of the ayre, and to euery beaste of the feilde. And for man founde he not an helpe, that might be present with him. The Lorde God also caused a slumber to fall vpon Adam. And he slept. And he toke one of his rybbes and closed vp the fleshe in steade thereof. And the rybbe which the Lorde God had taken of man made he a woman, & broughte her vnto man. And man sayd: This is now bone of my bones, & fleshe of my fleshe. She shall be called woman, because she was taken out of man. For this cause shall man leave his father & his mother, & shall be ioyned to his wife, & they shall become one fleshe, & they were both naked, & man & his wife, & were not ashamed.

The iii. Chapter.
 The serpent beguiled the woman. The serpent the woman, & the man ate thereof, and they were out of paradise. And our only saviour is promysed.

B ut the serpent was subtyller the eu-ery beaste of the feilde, whyche the Lorde God made. And he sayd vnto the woman: yea, hath the Lorde God sayd: ye shall not eate of euery tree of the garden? And the woman sayde vnto the serpent: we ate of the fruite of the tree of the garden, but as for the fruite of the tree whiche is in the myddes of the garden, God hath sayd: ye shall not eate of it, neither shall ye touch it, lest haplye ye dye. And the serpent sayd vnto the woman: ye shall not dye the death, but God doth knowe, that if some daye that ye eate thereof, your eyes shall be opened, and ye shall be as goddes, knowinge good and euill. And so the woman (seeing that the same tree was good to eate, and lusty to the eyes, and that the same tree was pleasant to get wisdom) toke of the fruite thereof, and dyd eate, and gaue vnto her husbande beynge with her, whyche dyd eate also. And the eyes of them both were opened, & they knewe that they were naked: and they sewed figge leaues together, & made them selues aprons.

And they hearde the voyce of the Lorde God walkinge in the garden in the coole of the daye.
 And Adam and his wyfe hid them selues from the presence of the Lorde God amonge the trees of the garden. And the Lorde God called Adam and sayde vnto hym: where arte thou? Whyche sayd: I herde thy voyce in the garden, and was afrayd, because I was naked, and hid my selfe.
 And he sayd: Who tolde the, that thou wast naked? Hast thou not eaten of the same tree, concernynge the whiche I commaunded the, that thou shouldest not eate of it? And Adam sayde:
 The woman whom thou gauest to be with me she gaue me of the tree, and I dyd eate.

And the Lorde God sayd vnto the woman:
 why hast thou done this? And the woman sayd: yonder serpent begyled me, and I dyd eate. And the Lorde God sayd vnto the serpent: because thou hast done this, thou arte cursed above all catell, and above euery beaste of the feilde. Vpon thy belly shalt thou go, and dust shalt thou eate all the dayes of thy lyfe. I will also put enmitye betwene the and the woman, betwene thy seed and her seed.

* The same shall treade downe thy heade, and thou shalt treade vpon his heele.
 But vnto the woman he sayd: In multiplyinge, I will multiplye thy sorrowe, and thy con-cepcyng: In sorrowe shalt thou bringe forth children, and thy lust shall pryde thee to thy husband and he shall haue the rule of the.

Unto Adam he sayde, because thou hast hehened unto the voyce of thy wyfe, and hast eaten of the tree (concernyng the which I commaunded the, saying: Thou shalt not eate of it) cursed is the ground for thy sake. In sorowe shalt thou eate of it all the dayes of thy lyfe. Thow also, and thysele that it cause to growe vnto the, and thou shalt eate the hearbe of the feilde. In the sweate of thy face shalt thou eate breade, tyll thou be turned agayne into the ground, for out of it wast thou taken, in as much as thou arte dust, and into dust shalt thou be turned agayne.

D And Adam called his wyues name heua, because she was the mother of all lyvinge. Unto the same Adam also he sayde: By the Lozde God make lcthen garmentes, and clothe them.
And the Lozde God sayd: Beholde, ponder man hath bene euen as one of vs, & he myght knowe good and euell.

And nowe lest haplye he put forth his hande and take also of the tree of lyfe and eate, and lyue for euer. And the Lozde God sent them forth from the garden of Eden, to dwelle the grounde that he was taken out of. And so he drave out man, and at the east syde of the garden of Eden, he set Cherubims, and the gyltreyng flame of a wakyng swerde, to kepe the waye off tre of lyfe.

¶ The iiii. Chapter.

¶ Cain both was only sonne of Adam his brother Abel, but also bysprynge, and is cursed. The generacion of Enoch, methuselah, Jabel, Lamech, Seth, and Enos.

D Adam knewe heua his wyfe: who conceyvinge, bare Cain, sayinge:
I have gotten man of the Lozde.
And he procedyng faith, brought forth his brother habel, and ha-bell was a keeper of shepe. But Cain was a tyler of the grounde. And in pcesse of dayes it came to passe, that Cain brought of the frute of the grounde an oblation vnto the Lozde. Habel also brought of the fyrstlynge of his shepe, and of the fat therof. And the Lozde had respecte vnto habel, and to his oblation. But vnto Cain and to his offeringe he had no respect. For the whyche cause Cain was excedyng wroth, and his countenance abated. And the Lozde sayde vnto Cain: Why arte thou wroth, and why is thy countenance abated? If thou do well, shall there not be a promotion? And if thou dost not well, lyeth not thy synne in the doore? Unto the also pertaineth the lust therof, and thou shalt have dominion ouer it, and Cain spake vnto habel his brother, sayinge: Let vs go forth.

And it fortuned: when they were in the feld Cain rose vp agaynst habel his brother, & sleihim. And the Lozde sayd vnto Cain: Where is habel thy brother? whyche sayde: I wote not.

Am I my brothers keeper? And he sayd: what hast thou done? The voyce of thy brothers bloude cryeth vnto me out of the grounde. And now art thou cursed from the earth, which hath opened her mouth, to receaue thy brothers bloude from thy hande. If thou tyll the grounde, she shall not pro-ceade to geve vnto thee her strength.

Fugitive and a vagabound shalt thou be in the earth. And Cain sayde vnto the Lozde: My punishment is more, then that it maye be forgeuen. Beholde, thou hast cast me out this daye from the vpper face of the earth, and from thy face shall I be hyd: fugitive also and a vaga-bound shall I be in the earth. And it shall come to passe, every one that fyndeth me, shall slaye me.
And the Lozde sayd vnto hym: Yea, but who so euer slayeth Cain, it shall be auenged seven folde.

And the Lozde set a marke vpon Cain: lest any man fyndyng hym, shulde kyll hym. And Cain went out from the presence of the Lozde, and dwelte in the lande of Noddestwarde from Eden. Cain also knewe his wyfe whyche conceiued and bare hench: and bysprynge a cytie he called the name of the same cytie after the name of his sonne hench. Unto the same hench was borne Irad. Irad begat Methuselah and Methusahel begat Methuselah. Methuselah begat Lamech. And Lamech toke vnto hym two wy-ues: The name of the one was Ada, & the name of the other was ylla. And Ada begat Jabel, whyche was the father of shepe as dwelle in the tentes, and of shepe as haue catel. His brothers name was Tuball, whyche was the father of shepe as handle harpe and organe. And ylla also begat Tubalcain, which wrought conyng ly every craft of brasse and of yron. The synne of Tubalcain, was Rania.

And Lamech sayd vnto his wyues Ada and ylla: heare my voyce ye wyues of Lamech, he-hen vnto my speche: I haue slayne a man to the woundyng of my selfe, & a yonge man to myne owne punishment. If Cain shall be avenged seven folde, truly Lamech seuentye tymes and seuen tymes. Adam knewe his wyfe agayne, and she bare a sonne & called his name Seth: For God (sayd he) hath appointed me another seide in steade of habel, whome Cain slewe. And vnto the same Seth also, there was borne a sonne, & he called his name Enos. Then began they to make inuocation in the name of the Lozde.

¶ The v. Chapter.

¶ The genealogie of Adam, & of the other fathers vnto Noe.

D In the booke of the generacion of Adam. In the daye that God created man, in the lykenesse of God made he hym. Male and female created he them, and blessed them, and called theyr name Adam in the daye of theyr creatioun.

And Adam lyued an hundred and therty yeres, and begat a sonne in his owne lykenesse after his ymage and called his name Seth. At the dayes of Adam (after he had begotten Seth) were eight hundred yeres, and he begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes that Adam lyued were nyne hundred and therty yeres, and he dyed. Seth lyued an hundred and syue yeres, and begat Enos. And Seth lyued (after he begat Enos) eight hundred yeres and seven yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Seth were nyne hundred and .xii. yeres. And he dyed.

Enos lyued nynty yeres and begat Kenan and Enos lyued (after he begat Kenan) eight hundred yeres, and sytten yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Enos were nyne hundred and syue yeres. And he dyed.

25 Kenan lyued seuentie yeres, and begat Mahelael. And Kenan lyued (after he begat Mahelael) eight hundred yeres and fourty yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Kenan were nyne hundred yeres and ten yeres, and he dyed. Mahelael lyued sytten yeres and syue yeres and begat Jared. And agayne, Mahelael lyued (after he begat Jared) eight hundred yeres and therty yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Mahelael were eight hundred nynty and syue yeres. And he dyed. Jared lyued an hundred and sytten and two yeres, and he begat Henoch. And Jared lyued (after he begat Henoch) eight hundred yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Jared were nyne hundred and sytten and two yeres, and he dyed.

E Henoch lyued sytten and syue yeres, and begat Methuselah. And Henoch walked wpyth God after he begat Methuselah, thye hundred yeres and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Henoch were thye hundred sytten and syue yeres. And Henoch walked wpyth God, and he was a nomose sene, for God toke hym awaye. Methuselah also lyued an hundred yeres eighty and seven yeres, and begat Lamech. And agayne Methuselah lyued (after he begat Lamech) seven hundred yeres, and eighty and two yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Methuselah were nyne hundred yeres, and sytten and nyne yeres, and he dyed.

D Lamech lyued an hundred yeres and eighty and two yeres, and begat a sonne, and called hym name Noah, saying: Thys same shal comforte vs as concerning our woike and sorowe of our handes, from of the earth, whych God cursed. And Lamech lyued (after he begat Noah) syue hundred yeres and nynty and syue yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters. And all the dayes of Lamech were seven hundred yeres and seuentie and seven yeres, and he dyed.

Noah was syue hundred yere olde. And Noah begat Sem, Ham, and Japheth.

The vi. Chapter.

The ready of the flood. God warneth man of the coming of the flood. The prophecies of the same.

2 And it came to passe, that man began to be multiplied in the vpper face of the earth, and there were daughters borne vnto them. The sonnes of God also sawe the daughters of men that they were fayre, and they toke them wyues from amonge al that they had chosen.

And the Loide sayde: my spete shal not alwaye styue in man, because he is fleshe, and his dayes shalbe an hundred and twenty yeres. But there were giannets in the earth in thole dayes: yea, & after that the sonnes of God came vnto the daughters of men, & they had genyred vnto the, the same became myghty men of strength, & men of renowne. But God sawe the malice of man was great in the earth, and all the ymagination of the thoughtes of his herte was onely euyl every daye. And it repented the Loide, that he had made man in the earth, & he was touched wpyth sorow in his herte. And the Loide sayde: I wyll (from the vpper face of the earth) destroy man, whome I haue created: both man, catell, wyne and foule of the ayre, for it repenteth me that I haue made them.

But Noah founde grace in the eyes of the Loide. These are the generacions of Noah, & Noah was iuste and persyte in hys generacions, and walked wpyth God. Noah begat thye sonnes: Sem, Ham, and Japheth. The earth also was corrupt before God, and the same earth was fylled wpyth crueltye. And God looked vpon the earth, and beholde, it was corrupte: for all fleshe had corrupte hys waye vpon earth.

And God sayde vnto Noah: The ende of all fleshe is come before me, for the earth is fylled wpyth crueltye from the face of them. And behold I wil destroye them with the earth. Make the an arke of pyne treys. Habitations shal I make in the Arke, and shalt pytch it within & without wpyth pytche. And of thys fashion shalt thou make it: The length of the Arke shalbe thye hundred cubites: The bredth of it .l. cubytes, & the height of it therty cubites. A window shalt thou make in the Arke, and in a cubite shalt thou synne it about: but a doore of the Arke shalt thou set in the syde therof. With thye lofter one aboue another shalt thou make it. And behold, I, even I, do byynge a floude of waters vpon the earth, that I maye destroye all fleshe wherein is the byeth of lyfe vnder heauen: And euery thyng that is in the earth shal dye.

Wpyth the also wyll I make my couenaunt and thou shalt come into the Arke thou and thy sonnes, thy wyfe and thy sonnes wyues wpyth thee: And euery lpyunge thyng, & of all fleshe a payre of euery one shalt thou byynge into the Arke, to kepe them alpyue wpyth the. They shalbe male & female. Of feathered fowles also after theyr kynde & of all catell after theyr kynde, of euery wyne of the earth after hys kynde: two of euery one shal come vnto the, that thou mayest kepe them alpyue: And take thou wpyth the of all meate that is eaten, and thou shalt laye it vpon the, that it maye be meate for the and them. Noah therefore accorbynne vnto all that God commaunded hym: men so dyd he.

The vii. Chapter.

The entrance of the flood. and of them that were wpyth hym into the Arke. The byynge of the flood, wherby the earth was dryed.

And

And the Lorde sayde vnto Noah: come thou and al thy house into the Arke for the hane I sene & ryghteous before me in thys generacion.

Of euery cleane beast thou shalt take with the sent and seuen: The male and hys female: But of vncleane catell, two, the male and hys female. Of foules also of the ayre, seuen and seuen, the male and the female, to kepe seke alque vpon the face of all the whole earth. For yet after seuen dayes I wyl rayne vpon the earth forty dayes and fourty nyghtes. And all substance that I hane made, wyl I destroye from the vpper face of the earth. Noah therfore byd accordyng vnto all that God commaunded hym. And Noah was syxe hundredth yeres olde, and a floude of waters was vpo the earth. And Noah came (and hys sonnes, and his wyfe, & his sonnes wyues wpth him) vnto the Arke, because of the waters of the floude. Of cleane catell, and of vncleane catell and of flyinge fowles, & of euery such as crepeth vpon the earth, ther came two and two vnto Noah into the arke, the male and the female, as God had commaunded Noah. It fortunede also after seuen dayes, and the waters of the floude were vpon the earth.

In the syxe hundredth yere of Noes lyfe in the seconde moneth, the seuententh daye of the moneth. In the same daye were all the fountaynes of the great depe broken vp and the wyndowes of Heuen were opened. And the rayne was vpon the earth forty dayes and forty nyghtes. In the selfe same daye entered Noah, Sem, Ham, & Japheth, the sonnes of Noah, & Noahs wyfe, and the thre wyues of his sonnes, with them into the Arke: They, and euery beast after hys kynde, & al catell after theyr kynde: yea and euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth after his kinde, and euery byrde after his kynde, and euery flyinge & feathered foule. And they came vnto Noah into the Arke, two & two, of all fleshe wherein is the byrth of lyfe. And theyr enterynge in, came male & female of al fleshe, as God had commaunded hym. And God shut hym in rounde aboute. And the floude came forty dayes vpon the earth, and the waters were increased, and bare vp the Arke, whych was lyfte vp aboue the earth. The waters also preuapled, and were encreased exceedingly vpon the earth, and so the arke went on the vpper face of the waters.

And the waters preuapled exceedingly vpon the earth, and all the hye hylls that are vnder the whole heauen, were couered. A syxtene cubites vpwarde byd the waters preuaple, so that the mountaynes were couered.

And al fleshe dyed that moored vpo the earth in foule, in catell, in beast, & in euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth: yea, and euery man also (what soner was in whose nostrils the byrthe of lyfe byd byrthe all these in the byre lande dyed.) And euery thyng was destroyed, that remayned, and that was in the vpper parte of the grounde (both man, and catell, and woyme, and foule of the ayre) they were euen destroyed from of the earth. And Noah onely remayned alque, and they that were with hym in the Arke. But the waters preuapled vpo the earth an hundred and fyfety dayes.

The viii. Chapter.

After the sendyng out of the women and the Dore, Noe goeth forth of the Arke, and offereth sacrifice. The natural corruption of mans best.

And God remembred Noah, and euery beast, and all the catell that was wpth hym in the Arke. And God made a wynde to passe vpo the earth and the waters ceased. The fountaynes also of the depe and the wyndowes of Heauen were stopped, and the rayne from heu was restrayned. And the waters from the earth were returned, goynge and commynge agayne. And after the ende of the hundredth and fyfetyth daye, the waters were abated.

And in the seuenth moneth: in the seuententh daye of the moneth, the Arke rested vpon the mountaynes of Armenia. And the waters truly were goynge & decreasyng vntill the tenth moneth: For in the tenth moneth, and in the fyrst daye of the same moneth, were the toppes of the mountaynes sene. And after the ende of the fortyeth daye, it happened that Noah opened the wyndowe of the Arke whych he had made. And he sent forth a rauen, whych he went out goynge forth and returnyng agayne, vntill the waters were dyed vp vpon the earth. And agayne he sent forth a doue from hym, that he myght se if the waters were abated from the vpper face of the grounde. And the doue founde no rest for the sole of her fote, & she returned vnto hym agayne into the Arke: for the waters were in the vpper face of the whole earth. And he when he had put forth hys hande, toke her: and pulled her in to hym into the Arke.

And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and procedyng further, he sente forth the doue out of the Arke. And the doue came to hym in the even tyde, and so, in her mouthe was an Olive leafe that she had plucked: wherby Noah dyd knowe, that the waters were abated vpon the earth. And he abode yet other seuen dayes, and sente forth the doue, whiche proceded not to retorne vnto hym any more.

And it came to passe in the syxe hundredth and one yere, in the fyrst moneth, and in the fyrst daye of the moneth, the waters were dyed vp from the earth. And Noah remoued the couerynge of the Arke, and looked, and behold, the vpper face of the grounde was dyed vp. And in the seconde moneth, in the seuen and twety daye of the moneth, was the earth dyed.

And God spake vnto Noah sayyng: Go forth of the Arke, thou and thy wyfe, thy sonnes, and thy sonnes wyues wpth the. And bynge saithe wpth the, euery beast that is with the: of al flesch (both foule and catell, and euery woyme that crepeth vpon the earth) that they maye breed in the earth, & bynge forth frute, and encrease vpon earth. And so Noah came forth, and hys sonnes, hys wyfe, and hys sonnes wyues wpth hym. Euery beast also and euery woyme, euery coule, and what so ever creepeth vpon the earthe (after they) kyndes) went out of the Arche.

And Noah builded an altare vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lozde, and toke of euery cleane beaste, and of euery cleane soule, and offered sacrifices in the altare. And the Lozde smelled a swete o<sup>r</sup> quyet sauour. And the Lozde sayde in his hert: I wyl not p<sup>ro</sup>ceade to curse the grounde any moze for manns sake, for the y<sup>m</sup>aginacion of mannes herte is euell enen from bys pouth. Neether wyl I adde to synpte any moze euery thyngge lypunge, as I haue done, yet therfore shall not so wyngge tyne and haruelt, cold and heate, sommer and wynter, daye y<sup>e</sup> myghte crasse, all y<sup>e</sup> dayes of the earth.

¶ The ix. Chapter.

God blessed Noe and his sonnes. He fasthdyeth to eate the bloude of beastes, and to shed manns bloude. The iarm of the flood. He maketh a couenaunt that he wyl destroye the world no moze by water, y<sup>e</sup> grounde the eapthome for a token and conseruacion of the same. Noe is dyonhen. Ham discovereth bym, and getteth bys curse.

AND GOD BLESSED NOAH and his sonnes. And sayde vnto them: Bynge ye forth frute, and multiplie, and replent the earth. The feare of you y<sup>e</sup> the dwel of you shall be vpon euery beast of the earth, and vpon euery soule of the ayre. In al luche as the earth byyngeth forth and in all the frutes of the see.

In to your hande are they deliuered. Euery thyngge that moueth it selfe, and that lyueth shal be meat for you: Euen as the grene hearbe haue I geuen you all thynges. But y<sup>e</sup> fleshe in the lyfe therof and in the bloude therof shall ye not eate. Elles your bloude of your lyues wyl I requyre. From the hande of euery beaste wyl I requyre it, and from the hande of man: From the hande of mans bysolder wyl I requyre the lyfe of man. Who so y<sup>e</sup> weberth manns bloude, by man shall bys bloude be shedde: For in the ymage of God bys God make ma. But bynge you forth frute and multiplie: Send ye in the earth, and create therein.

God spake also vnto Noah and to his sonnes wyth bym, sayinge: Beholde, I set vp my couenaunt wyth you, and wyth your seide after you and wyth euery lypunge creature that is wyth you, both in soule and in carcel, y<sup>e</sup> in euery beaste of the earth wyche is wyth you of all that go out of the Arche, accorpyng vnto euery lypunge thyngge of the earth. But my couenaunte wyl I make wyth you, that from hence forth euery fleshe, be not rooted oute wyth the waters of a floude, neyther shal there be a floude to destroye the earth any moze.

And God sayd: Thys is the token of the couenaunt wyche I geue betwene me and you, and euery lypunge creature that is wyth you into perperuall generations. I haue set my bowe in the cloude, and it shal be for a token betwene me and the earthe. And it shall come to passe that when I byynge a cloude vpon the earthe, the bowe al-

and it shall nomoze come to passe, that waters make a floude to destroye all fleshe. But the bowe shal be in the same cloude, and I wyl loke vpon it, that I maye thynke vpon the eueryl-lyngge couenaunte betwene God, and euery lypunge creature in all fleshe that is vpon earth. And God sayd vnto Noah: Thys is the token of the couenaunt wyche I haue made betwene me and all fleshe that is vpon earth.

The sonnes of Noah goynge forth of y<sup>e</sup> Arche were: Sem, Ham, and Japheth. And Ham truly is the father of Chanaan. These are the thre sons of Noah, and of them was the whole earth ouerspyed. Noah also beganne to be an husband man, and planted a vyneyarde. And he byyn-lyngge of the wyne, was dyonhen, and vncouered wythin bys tence.

And Ham the father of Canaan seynge the nakednesse of his father, told bys two bysolders wythout. And Sem and Japheth, they two takynge a garmente, layde it vpon theys shulders and comynge backwarde, couered the naked priuities of theys father: namely, theys faces beynge turned a waye, lest they shulde se theys fathers priuities.

And Noah awoke from his wyne, and knew what his yonger sonne had done vnto him. And he sayd: Cursed be Canaan, a seruaunte of seruauntes shall he be vnto bys bysolders. He sayd moze ouer: Blessed be the Lozde God of Sem, and Canaan shal be bys seruaunt. God shall enlarge Japheth, and he shall dwel in the tentes of Sem, and Canaan shal be theys seruaunte. Noah liued after the floude thre hundred and syf-tye yeres. And all the dayes of Noah were nyne hundred and syfetye yeres, and he dyed.

¶ The x. Chapter.

The genealogie of Japheth, Sem, and Ham.

These are the generacions of the sonnes of Noah, Sem, Ham, and Japheth: And vnto them were chyldren borne after the floude. The chyldren of Japheth: Gomer, and Magog, y<sup>e</sup> Madai, and Iauan, and Tuball, Mesech, and Theras. The chyldren of Gomer: Askenas, and Rypath and Thogarma: The chyldren of Iauan: Elisa and Charlis, Kuthim, and Donanum. Of these were the Isles of the Gentyles deuoyded in theys landes, euery man after bys tonge, and after bys kynred in theys nations.

The chyldren of Ham: Cush, and Mizrim, and Phut, and Chanaan. And the chyldren of Cush: Seba and Haulab, and Sabeba, and Rahina, and Sabethecha. The chyldren of Rahina: Scheba and Dedan. Cush also begatte y<sup>e</sup> Nimrod. The same beganne to be myghty in the earthe. For he was a myghty hunter before the Lozde. Wherefore it is sayde: Euen as Nimrod the myghty hunter before the Lozde. The begynnyng of his kingdom was y<sup>e</sup> Babel, and Erec, and Accad, and Calne, in the lande of Shinar. Out of that lande came Assur, and builded y<sup>e</sup> Ninine, and the stetes of the cryte, y<sup>e</sup> Calah. Relem also betwene Ninine and Calah, and it is a great cryte.

Mizraim

Mizraim begat Lubim, and Enamim, and Lehabim, and Arphaxhim. Parthasim also, and Calanum, out of whom came Philistim and Capthorim. Chanaan begat zidon his fyrste boine sonne and herf. And Jebusi, and Emori and Gurgosi, habui also, and haachi, and hafim, and haaruadi, and hazmari, and habema the. And afterward were the hynreds of the Cananites spred abrode. The boide of the Cananites was from zidon, as thou comest to Gerar vntyll Gazan, and as thou goest vnto Sodom, and Gomorra, and Adama, and jedomuen vnto Leta. These are the chyldren of ham in theyr hynredes, in theyr tonges, contres and in theyr nations.

Unto Sem also the father of all the chyldre of Eber, (and elder brother of Japheth) there were chyldren boine. The chyldren of Sem: Elam and Assur, Arphachlad, and Lud and Aram. The chyldren of Aram: Uz and hul, Gether and Was. * Arphachlad begat Salah, and Salah begat Eber. Unto Eber also were boine two sonnes: The name of the one was Peleg, for in hys dayes was the erth deuyded. And his brothers name was Jaktan. Jaktan begate Almodad and Saleph. Hazarmayethe and Jerah, and Hodozan and Elial and Dickla, Shall also and Abimaell, and Scheba, and Ophir, & Hauila, and Jobab. All these were the chyldren of Jaktan. And they dwellinge was frome Wesa, as thou goest vnto Sephar a mounte of the East. These are the chyldren of Sem after theyr hynredes and tonges in theyr landes and nations. And so these are the hynredes of the chyldren of Noah, after theyr generations in theyr peoples, and of these were the nations deuyded in the earth, after the floude.

The xi. Chapter.

The buildinge of the towre of Babel. The confusyon of tonges. The generacion of Sem the sonne of Noe, vntill Abraham, whych goeth with Lot vnto Haran.

AL the whole earth was of one language and lyke speche. And it happened when they wente forth from the East, they founde a playne in the lade of Simbar, and there they abode. And they sayde every one to his neygh-bour: Come, let vs prepare bycke, and burne them in the fyre. And they had bycke for stone, and slyme had they in stede of moyste. And they sayde: Go to, let vs buyde vs a cytie and a tower, whose topp may reach vnto heauen: and let vs make vs a name, leest happely we be scattered abrode into the vpper face of the whole erth. But the Lorde came downe, to se the cytie and tower whych the chyldren of men buyded.

And the Lorde sayde: Beholde, the people is one, and they haue all one language, & this they begyn to do, neyther wyl it be restrayned from them, what so euer they haue ymagined to be. Come on, let vs go do done, and confounde theyr language: that euery one perceaue not his neyghbours speche. And so the Lorde scattered them fro that place into the vpper face of all the earth. And they lefte of to buyde the cytie. And the force is the name of it called * Babel, because the Lorde dyd there confounde the language of all the earth. And from thence dyd the Lorde scatter them abrode vpon the face of all the earth.

These are the generations of Sem: Sem was an hundredth yere olde, and begat Arphachlad two yere after the floude. And Sem lyued (after he begat Arphachlad) fyue hundredth yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Arphachlad lyued fyue and thyrty yeres, & begat Salah. And Arphachlad lyued, after he begat Salah, foure hundredth and thye yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Salah lyued thyrty yeres, And begat Eber. And Salah lyued (after he begate Eber) foure hundred and thye yeres, & begat sonnes & daughters. Eber lyued foure and thyrty yeres, and begat Peleg. And Eber lyued, after he begat Peleg, foure hundredth and thyrty yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Peleg lyued thyrty yeres & begat Ren. And Peleg lyued after he begat Ren, two hundredth and nyne yeres, & begat sonnes and daughters.

Ren lyued two and thyrty yeres, and begat Serug. And Ren lyued, after he begat Serug, two hundredth and seuen yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Serug lyued thyrty yeres, & begat Rahoz. And Serug lyued (after he begat Rahoz) two hundredth yeres, and begat sonnes & daughters.

And Rahoz lyued nyne and twentye yeres, and begat Terah. And Rahoz lyued, after he begat Terah, an hundredth and nyntene yeres, and begat sonnes and daughters.

Terah lyued seuentie yeres, and begat Abrahahoz, and Haran.

These are the generations of * Terah: Terah begate Abrahahoz, Rahoz, and Haran. Haran begat Lot. And Haran dyed in the presence of Terah his father, in the lande of hys natiuite, euen in U: of the Caldees. Abrahahoz and Rahoz toke them wyues: The name of Abrahahozs wyfe was Sarai, and the name of Rahozs wyf was Hylca, the daughter of Haran: flather of Wilca, and the father of Hylca. But * Sarai was barren, and had no chyldre.

And Terah toke Abrahahoz his sone, and Lot the sone of Haran, hys sonnes sone, and Sarai his daughter in lawe, hys sonne Abrahahozs wyfe. And they departed together from U: of the Caldees, that they myght go into the lade of Canaan and they came vnto Chazam, & dwelte there.

a iii And

And the dayes of Terah were two hundred yeres, and Terah dyed in Haran.

The xii. Chapter.

Abraham is buried at Hebron, and goes with Lot into the land of Canaan, where God promises to give him the land, and he goes into Egypt, and causes Sarai his wife to call her self his sister, for in home she was to plague.

Gen. xii. 1.

Gen. xii. 2.

And the Lord sayde vnto Abraham: *Gette thee out of thy country, and out of thy nacyon, and from the fathers house vnto a lade that I wyl shewe the. And I wyl make of thee a greate people, and wyl *blesse the, and make thy name great, that thou mayst be euen a blesynge. I wyl also blesse them that blesse the, and curse them that curse the, and in the shall all kynredes of the earth be blessed.

23

And so Abraham departed, euen as the Lord spake vnto hym, and Lot went with hym. And Abraham was seuentie and fyue yeres olde, when he departed out of Haran. And Abraham toke Sarai his wyfe, and Lot his brothers sonne, and al theyr substance that they had in possession, & the soules that they had begotten in Haran.

Gen. xii. 3.

And they departed, that they myghte come into the lande of Chanaan: And into the lande of Chanaan they came. Abraham passed thorow the lande vnto the place of Sichem, and vnto the playne of Moyses: And the Cananite was then in the lande. And the Lord appearynge vnto Abraham, sayde: Vnto thy *sede wyl I geue this lande. And there buylded he an altare vnto the Lord, euen where he had appered vnto hym.

Gen. xii. 4.

And remouynge thence vnto a mountayne that was castward from Bethel, he pytched his tent haupynge Bethel on the west syde, and Hai on the East. And he buyldynge an altare vnto the Lord, & call on the name of the Lord. And Abraham went forth goynge and departynge towarde the south. But there was a dearth in that lande, and therfore went Abraham downe into Egypte, that he myghte sojourn there, for there was a soze dearth in the lande. And it happened when he was come nere to entre into Egypt, he sayde vnto Sarai his wyfe: Beholde, I know that thou arte a fayre woman to loke vpon.

Gen. xii. 5.

Therfore shall it come to passe, that when the Egyptians se the, they shall saye: She is his wyfe. And they shall kyll me, but they shall saue the alque. Saye (I praye the) that thou art my syster, that I maye saue wel for thy sake, & that my soule may lyue thorow thy occasyon.

Gen. xii. 6.

And so it happened, when Abraham was come into Egypt, the Egyptians behelde the woman for she was very fayre. And the prynces also of Pharao sawe her, & comended her before Pharao, & the woman was take into Pharao's house. And he truly intreated Abraham wel for her sake, and he had shepe and oxen and he asses, men seruantes and mayde seruantes, he asses, & camelles. And the Lord smote Pharao and his house with great plagis, because of Sarai Abrahams wyfe. And Pharao calling Abraham sayd: Why haile thou done this vnto me? Why dy-

Gen. xii. 7.

dest thou not tell me, that she was thy wyfe? Nowe therfore beholde, there is thy wyfe, take her, and go thy waye: And Pharao gaue the men commaundemente, concernynge hym: and they conuayned hym for the, and his wyfe, and all that he had.

Gen. xii. 8.

And Abraham and Lot departed out of Egypt. And Abraham drap his wyfe and a castell with Lot his brothers sonne. And againe he promysed to Abraham the lande of Chanaan. And so Abraham gat hym by out of Egypt he and his wyfe, and al that he had, and Lot with hym, towarde the south. And Abraham was verye ryche, in catell, in syluer and golde. And he wente forth on his iourneye from the south towarde Bethel, to the place where his tente had bene at the begynnyng, betwene Bethel and Hai: Euen vnto the place of the *altare whiche he had made there at the fyrst, and there Abraham called on the name of the Lord. Lot also whiche wente with Abraham had shepe catell and tentes: and the lande was not able to craue them that they myghte dwell together, for the *substance of theyr ryches was greute, and they coulde not dwell together. And there fell a stryfe betwene the herdmen of Abrahams catell, and the herdmen of Lots catell. Whereouer the *Cananites and the Hethites dwelled at that tyme in the lande. Then sayd Abraham vnto Lot: Let ther be no stryfe (I praye the) betwene the and me, and betwene my herdmen and thyne for we be brethren. Is not all the *whole lande before the? Departe I praye the from me. If thou wyl take thy lefte hande, I wyl go to the ryght, or if thou departe to the ryght hande, I wyl go to the lefte. And so Lot lystynge by his eyes, behelde all the contrey of Iordane, which was a plenteous contrey of water euerye where, before the Lord destroyed Sodome and Gomorra, euen as the garden of the Lord, lyke the lade of Egypt as thou comest vnto zour.

Gen. xii. 9.

Then Lot chose all the playne countrey of Iordane and toke the iourney from the east. And so departed the one brother from the other. Abraham dwelled in the lande of Canaan: and Lot abode in the cyties of the playne, and tented vntyl Sodome. But the men of Sodome were wycked and recadyng synners before the Lord. And the Lord said vnto Abraham, after that Lot was departed from hym: Lyfte vp thyne eyes now, and loke from the place where thou arte northwarde, southwarde, eastwarde, and westwarde, for all the lande whiche thou seest: wyl I geue vnto the and to thy sede for euer. And I wyl make thy sede, as the dust of the earth: so that if a man can number the dust of the earth, then shall thy sede also be nombred. Arise and walke aboute in the lande, after the length of it, and after the bredth therof, for I wyl geue it vnto the. And Abraham takynge downe his tente, came and dwelled in the foue groue of Hamre, namely in Ebron, and buylded there an altare vnto the Lord.

Gen. xii. 10.

dest thou not tell me, that she was thy wyfe? Nowe therfore beholde, there is thy wyfe, take her, and go thy waye: And Pharao gaue the men commaundemente, concernynge hym: and they conuayned hym for the, and his wyfe, and all that he had.

The xiii. Chapter.

Abraham and Lot departe out of Egypt. And Abraham drap his wyfe and a castell with Lot his brothers sonne. And againe he promysed to Abraham the lande of Chanaan.

And so Abraham gat hym by out of Egypt he and his wyfe, and al that he had, and Lot with hym, towarde the south. And Abraham was verye ryche, in catell, in syluer and golde. Gen. xiii. 4.

Then Lot chose all the playne countrey of Iordane and toke the iourney from the east. And so departed the one brother from the other. Abraham dwelled in the lande of Canaan: and Lot abode in the cyties of the playne, and tented vntyl Sodome. But the men of Sodome were wycked and recadyng synners before the Lord.

Gen. xiii. 5.

Let is taken prisoner. The byrtay of Abiam of the Sodomytes. Lot is deliuered by Abiam. Melchisedech a keneh gitten into Abiam. Abiam payeth tythes into Melchisedech. Abiam holdeth nothing of the kyng of Sodome goodes.

And it chafed in the dayes of Amraphael kyng of Sinhar, Arioch kyng of Elasar, Fiderlaomoz kyng of Elam, and Chideal kyng of the nations, and they made warre with Bera kyng of Sodome, and with Birsa kyng of Somozra, and with Simeab kyng of Adama and with Sermeabar kyng of Ierboim, and with the kyng of Bela. The same is zoar. All these were ioyned together in the vale of Siddym, where the salte see is. For xii. yere were they subiect to kyng Fiderlaomoz, and in the xlii. yere rebelled. But in the fourtene yere came Fiderlaomoz and the kynges that were with hym, and smote the gyauntes in Astaroth Barnaim, and the Sulims in Ham, and the Enims in a playne of Mariathim, and the Hojins in mount Seir, vnto the playne of Pharan, which bozdyeth vpon the wylbernesse. And they returnyng came to En Gilpat, which is Cades, and smote all a countrie of the Amalechites, and also the Imotytes that dwelled in Hazzon Thamar.

And there went out the kynges of Sodome and the kynges of Somozra, and the kynges of Adama, and the kynges of Ierboim, and the kynges of Bela which is zoar. And they stroke batel with them in the vale of Siddym, and so to saye, with Fiderlaomoz the kyng of Elam, and with Chideal kyng of nacpons, and with Amraphael kyng of Sinhar. And with Ariah kyng of Elasar: foure kynges agaynst fyue. And the vale of Siddym was full of fyre pyttes.

And the kynges of Sodome and Somozra fled, and fell there. And they that remayned, fled to the mountayne. And they takyng all the goodes of Sodome and Somozra and all theyr vi- taples went theyr way. And they carped away Lot also Abrahams brothers son and his good (for he dwelled at Sodome) and departed. And there came one that had escaped, and told Abrahams the hebrue whiche dwelled in the oke groue of Mamre the Amoyte, brother of Elchol, and brother of Aner, whiche were confederate with Abraham. When Abraham hearde that his brother was taken, he harnessed his freshe yonge men, bozne in his owne house, thre hundred and eygh- tene, and folowed on them vnto Dan: And he was set in aray vpon them by nyght, he and his seruauntes, and smote them and pursued them vnto Hobab: which lyeth of the left hande of Da- mascos, and recovered all the goodes, and also brought agayne his brother Lot, and his goodes, the women also and the people.

After that he returned agayne fro the slaugh- ter of Fiderlaomoz and of the kynges that were with hym, came the kyng of Sodome forth to mete hym in the playne valley which is the kyn- ges dale. And Melchisedech kyng of Saleim brought forth bread and wyne. For he was the prelate of the moost hygh God, and blessed hym, sayinge: Blessed be Abraham, vnto the hygh God, possessor of heauen and earth. And blessed be the hye God, whiche hath deliuered thyne enemyes into thyne hande. And Abraham gaue hym tythes of all.

And the kyng of Sodome sayd vnto Abraham Gynne me the soules, and take the goodes to thy selfe. And Abraham answered the kyng of So- dome: I haue lyfte vp my hande vnto the Lorde the hye God possessor of heauen and earth, that I wyll not take of all that is thine so moche as a threde of shoulachet, lest thou wouldest saye: I haue made Abraham my chyke. Some onelye that, whiche the yonge men haue eaten and the par- tes of the men whiche went with me, Aner, El- chol, and Mamre, which shal take theyr partes.

The xv. Chapter.

The lande of Canaan is yet agayne promysed to Abraham, God promysed hym seed, the beleued, and is iustified. The promysed of the donagge wherein the chyldren of Is- rael shoulde be vnder Pharaos, and of theyr deliuerance from the same.

After these thynges were done, the worde of the Lorde came vnto A- braham in a vysion, sayinge: Feare not Abraham, I am thy defence, and thy reward shalbe exceeding great. And Abraham sayd: Lorde God what wylt thou gyue me when I go chyldlesse, and the chyld of the stuard hypppe of my house is this Elcasar of Damasco? And Abraham sayde: Se, to me thou hast gyuen no seed. lo, a lad bozne in my house is myne heyre. And behold, the word of the Lorde came vnto hym, sayinge: he shal not be thine heyre, but one that shal come out of thyne owne bodie shalbe thine heyre: And he brought hym out, and sayde: loke vp vnto heauen, and tell the starres, if thou be able to nombre them. And he sayde vnto hym: Euen so shal thy seed be.

And Abraham beleued the Lorde, and a coun- te he to hym for ryghteousnesse. And agayne he sayde vnto hym: I am the Lorde that brought the oute of Egipt of the Chaldees, to gyue the this lande, and that thou myghtest possesse it.

And he sayde: Lorde God, whereby shal I knowe that I shal possesse it: he answered vnto hym: Take an heifer of thre yere olde and a she goate of thre yere olde, and a thre yere olde ramme, a turtle doue also and a yonge pyggon. he toke therfore all these vnto hym, and deuy- ded them in the middes, and layed euery pece one agaynst an other. But the foules dewded he not. And when the byrdes fel on the carcases, Abrahams broze them a waye. And when the Sunne was downe, there fell a slombze vpon Abraham. And lo, a dache and a great feare fell vpon hym.

And he sayde vnto Abraham: knowe this of a suretye, that thy seed shal be a straunger in a lande that pertayneth not vnto them. And shal serue them, and they shal entreate them euill, a foure hundred yeres.

But the nation whom they shal serue, wyl I iudge. And afterwarde shal they come out with greate substance. And thou shalte go vnto thy fathers in peace, and shalte be buryed in a good olde age. But in the fourth generation they shall come byther agayne, for the wyckednesse of the Amozites is not yet full.

And it came to passe that when the sunne went downe there was a darke cloude: behold, there was a smokyng furnace, and a fyre brande goinge betwene the sayde peeces.

D In that same daye, the Lorde made a covenante wth Abrahā, saying: vnto thy seed haue I g<sup>u</sup>en this lande, from the ryuer of Egypt vnto the great ryuer the ryuer of Euphrates, the Kenites, the Kenizzites, and the Cadmonites, the Hethites, and the Pherezites, and the Gargasites, the Amozites also and the Cananites the Sergetites and the Jebusites.

Chapter. xvi.

Sarai g<sup>u</sup>en Abrahā leave to take Agar her mayde to wife. Agar begeth her maistrasse, for which she was curst and hated of Sarai, and therefore runneth awaye. The angell metropher her commandeth her to turne agayne, and begeth p<sup>ro</sup>- mple her seed. And nameth her son Ishmael.

Sarai Abrahams wyfe bare hym no children. But she had an handmayde an Egyptian Hagar by name. And Sarai layde vnto Abrahā: Beholde, the Lorde hath restrayned me, that I can not beare. I praye the go in vnto my mayde, peradventure I maye be cōserved by her. And Abrahā obeyed the voyce of Sarai. And Sarai Abrahams wyfe the Hagar her mayde the Egyptian (after Abrahā had dwelled ten yere in the lande of Canaan) and gaue her to her husbāde Abrahā to be his wyfe. Which when he went in vnto Hagar, she conceived. And when she sawe that she had cōceived, her maistrasse was despised in her eyes. And Sarai sayde vnto Abrahā: Thou doest me wrong, I haue g<sup>u</sup>en my mayde into thy bosom, which seeing that she hath conceived, I am despised in her eyes, the Lorde iudge betwene the and me. But Abrahā sayd to Sarai: behold, thy mayde is in thyne hande, do with her as it pleaseth the.

B And when Sarai fared foule with her, she fled from the face of her. And the angell of the Lorde founde her helpe a fountayne of water in the wyldernes: euen by the well that is in the waye to Sur. And he sayde: Hagar Sarais mayde, whence comest thou, and whither wilt thou go? She sayd: I fye from the face of my maistrasse Sarai. And the angell of the Lorde sayd vnto her: retorne to thy maistrasse agayne, and submit thy selfe vnder her handes.

E And agayne, the angell of the Lorde sayd vnto her: In crease I will increasethy seed, and it shall not be nombred for multitude. And the Lordes angell sayde vnto her, se: thou arte with chyld, and shalt beare a sonne, and shalt call his name Ishmael: because the Lorde hath heard the tribulation. He also will be a wyldeman, and his hande will be agaynst every man, and every mans hande agaynst hym. And he shall dwell in the p<sup>re</sup>sence of all his brethren. And she called the name of the lorde that spake vnto her: thou God lokest on me, for she sayde: haue I not sene here the backe partes of hym? and seest me? Wherfore the well was called the well of hym that lyueth and seeth me. And it is betwene Cades and Bared. And Hagar bare Abrahā a sonne, and Abrahā called his sons name which Hagar bare vnto hym, Ishmael: And Abrahā was. lxxxvi. yere olde, when Hagar bare hym, Ishmael.

Chapter. xvii.

Abraham is called Abrahā, and Sarai is named Sara. The land of Canaan is here the fourth tyme promysed. Circumcysion is here instructed. Abrahā prayeth for Ishmael.

Abraham was nyetye yere olde, and nyne, the Lorde appeared to Abrahā and sayde vnto hym: I am the almyghty God: walke before me, and be thou perfecte. And I will make my boude betwene me and the, and will multiplye the exceedingly. And Abrahā fell on his face. And God talked with him, saying: Beholde, I am, and my testament is with the, and thou shalt be a father of many nacions. After that shall thy name any more be called Abrahā, but thy name shall be Abrahā: for a father of many nacions haue I made the. I will make the to growe exceedingly, and will make nacions of the: yea, and kynges shall sprynge out of the. Moreover, I wil make my boude betwene me and the, and thy seed after the, in theyr generacions, by an euerylastyng testament, that I maye be God vnto the and thy seed after the. And I wil g<sup>u</sup>e vnto the and to thy seed after the the lande wherin thou art a straunger. Euen all the lande of Canaan, for an euerylastyng possession and will be the God.

And God sayde agayne vnto Abrahā: Se thou also kepe my Testamente therfore, both thou and thy seed after the in theyr generacions. This is my testament whiche ye shall kepe betwene me and you, and thy seed after the. Every man chyld amonge you shall be circumcysed. Ye shall circumcise the flesh of your foreskynne and it shall be a token of the boude betwene me and you. And euery man chyld of ryghte dayes olde, shall be circumcysed amonge you, and such as be in your generacions, and borne at home, and he that is bought with moneye of any straunger, which is not of thy seed. He that is borne in thy house, and he also that is bought with moneye must nedes be circumcysed. And my Testamente shall be in your flesh, for an euerylastyng boude. And the vncircumcysed man chyld, in whose flesh the foreskynne is not circumcysed, that soule shall perishe from his people: because he hath broken my Testamente. And God sayde vnto Abrahā: Sarai thy wyfe shalt thou not call: but Sara shall her name be. And I will blesse her, and haue g<sup>u</sup>en the a sonne of her, and will blesse her people: yea, and kynges of people shall sprynge of her. But Abrahā fel vpon his face, & laughed and sayd in his herte: Shall a chyld be borne vnto hym that is an hundred yere olde? And shall Sara that is nyetye yere olde beare?

And Abrahā sayde vnto hym: O that I might mael myght lyue in thy syght.

Unto whom God sayd: Sara thy wyfe shall * beare the a sonne in dede, and thou wylte call his name Israhac. And I wyl make my bonde with hym. for an * euertastyng bonde, and with his seed after hym. And as concernynge Ismael also, I haue hearde the: for I haue blessed hym, and wyl make hym to encrease, and wyl mul-tiplye hym exceedingly. Twelue * princes shall be begot, and I wyl make a great nacion of hym.
But my bonde wyl I make with Israhac which Sara shall beare vnto the: euen thys tyme. xii. moneth.

And he left of talkyng with hym, and departed vp from Abraham. Abraham toke Ismael his sonne and all such as were bozne in his house and all that was bought with money, as many as were men chyldren whiche were amonge the men of Abrahams house, and circumcysed the fleshe of they: foreskynne euen in that self same dape as God had sayd vnto hym. Abraham also hym selfe was nynty yere olde & nyne, when the fleshe of his foreskynne was circumcysed. Ismael his son was thytene yere olde when he was circumcysed in the fleshe of his foreskynne. The selfe same dape was Abraham circumcysed, and Ismael his sonne. And all the men of his house, bozne in his house or bought with moneye ( of straungers ) were circumcysed with hym.

¶ There appeared thre men vnto Abraham. Israhac is promysed to hym agayne: at whiche Sara laughed.
The destruction of the Sodomytes is declared vnto Abraham. Abraham prayeth for them.

¶ And the Lorde appeared vnto hym in the playne of Hamre, as he sate in his tente doze in the beate of the tape. And he lyft vp his eyes, and looked: and lo, thre me stode by him And when he sawe them he ranne to mete them from the tent doze, and fell to the grounde, and sayd: Lorde ( I beseeche the ) yf I haue founde fauour in thy syght: go not ( I praye the ) from thy ser-uaunt. Let a lytle water be fet, and wash your feet and refrefh your selues vnder the tree. And I wyl set a * mozell of bzed to comforte your bertes withall. And then shal ye go your wayes for euen therfore are ye come to your seruaunt.
And they sayd: Doe euen as thou hast sayd. And Abraham went a pale into his tent vnto Sara, and sayd: make readye at ones thre peckes of fyne meale, kneade it, and make cakes. And Abraham runnyng vnto his beastes, fet a calfe, tender and good, and gaue it vnto a yonge man and he hasted to make it readye at ones. And he toke bueter and mylke, and the calfe whiche he had prepared, and set it befoze them, and stode hym selfe by them vnder the tree, * when they dyd eate.

And they sayde vnto hym: where is Sara thy wyfe? he answered: beholde, she is in the tent And he sayde: In retournynge I wyl come a-gayne vnto the, accordynge to the tyme of lyfe.
And lo, * Sara thy wyfe shall haue a sonne.
That hearde Sara in the tene doze whiche was behynde hym. Abraham and Sara were both olde and well stryken in age, and it ceased to be with Sara, after the maner as it is with women. Therfore Sara laughed within her selfe, saying: Nowe I am warded olde, shall I gyue my selfe to * luste, and my lord be olde also? And God sayd vnto Abraham: wherfore dyd Sara laugh, saying: shall I of a surety beare a chyld whiche am olde? Is anye thyng wonderfull to God: Accordynge to the tyme * appoynted wyl I retorne vnto the, euen accordynge to the tyme of lyfe, and Sara shall haue a sonne. Then Sara denyed it, saying: I laughed not, for she was a fraped. And he sayde: It is not so, but thou laughedst. And the men standyng vp fro thence loked towarde Sodome: And Abraham wente with them to byngne them on the waye.

And the Lorde sayd: Shal I hyde from Abraham that thyng which I do: Seeing that Abraham shal be a * great and a myghty people, and all the nations of the earth shal be blessed in him, I knowe this also, that he wyl commaunde his chyldren and his household after hym, that they hepe the wape of the Lorde, and do after ryghte and conscience, that the Lorde may byngne vpon Abraham that he hath spoken vnto hym.

And the Lorde sayd: * The crye of Sodome and Gomorra is great, and they: synne is exce-dyngre greuous. I wyl go downe nowe, and se whether they haue done altogether accordynge to that crye which is come vnto me or not, that I maye knowe. And the men departed thence and went to Sodome ward. But Abraham stode yet befoze the Lorde, and Abraham drewe nere, and sayd: Wylt thou also destroye ryghte-ous with the wyched? Peradventure there be fytte ryghteous within the cytie wyl, thou de-stroye, and not spare the place for the sake of fyt-te ryghteous that are therein: That be far from the that thou shouldest do after this saying: and slaye the ryghteous with the wyched, and that the ryghteous shoulde be as the wyched that be larre from the.

Shall not the iudge of all the worlde do accordynge to ryghte? And the Lorde sayde: yf I fynde in Sodome fytte ryghteous within the cytie, I wyl spare all the place for they: sakes.
And Abraham answerynge, sayde: Beholde, I haue taken vpon me to speake vnto the Lorde, * whiche am but dust and ashes: peradventure there shall lache fyue of fytte ryghteous. Wylt thou destroye all the cytie for lache of fyue?
And he sayde: yf I fynde there fourtye and fyue
I wyl not destroye them.

And

And he proceeded to speake vnto hym agayne, and sayde: peradventure there shall be fourtye founde there. he answered: I wyll not do it for fortye sake. he sayde vnto hym agayne: O let not my Lord be angry that I speake: peradventure there shall thysye be founde there. And he sayde: I wyll do nothyng of I fynde thysye there. he sayde agayne: O se, I haue taken vpon me to speake now also vnto my Lord: peradventure there shall be twentye founde there. he answered: I wyl not destroye them for twentye sake. And he sayde: O let not my Lord be angry, and I wyl speake yet but this ones, peradventure there shall ten be founde there. he answered: I wyl not destroye them for tens sake. And the Lord went his waye as soone as he had left communynge with Abraham. And Abraham also turned vnto his place.

The xix. Chapter.

Lot receyved two angels into his house. The synners of the Sodomytes. Lot is deliuered, and deliuereth to dwell in the ctye of zoar. Lottes wyfe is turned in to a pylle of salt. Sodome is destroyed. Lot is taken: then and spech wyl thys daughters, whych conceyued chylde by hym.

And there came two angels to Sodome at euen. And Lot sat at the gate of Sodome. And Lot seynge them rose vp to mete them, and he bowed hym selfe to the ground to his face. And he sayde: my lordes, tounne in I praye you into your seruantes house, and tarye all nyght and wash your feet, and ye shall eate by early to go in your wayes. Whiche sayde: naye, but we wyll abyde in the stretes all nyght. And he in maner dyd euen & compell them by violently. And they returninge in vnto hym entred into his house, and he made the a feast, and did bake swete bredd, and they dyd & ate.

And before they wente to rest, the men of the ctye (euen the men of Sodome) compassed the house rounde about boty olde and yonge, all the people from all quarters: And they callynge vnto Lot sayd vnto him: where ar the men which came into the this nyght: byng them out vnto vs and we wyl knowe them. And Lot went out at the doores vnto them, and shut the doze after hym and sayde: naye for Gods sake byethen do not so wyckedye. Beholde, I haue two daughters whiche haue knowen noman, them wyl I byng out now vnto you: and do to them as it le meth good in your eyes. Only vnto these me do nothyng, therfore came they in vnder the shadowe of my rose. And they sayde: stande backe. And they sayde: he came in as one to sofoute, and wyl be he nowe a iudge: We wyl surely deale worse with the then with them. And they preased soze vpon the man, euen Lot: & came to breake vp the doze, but the men put forth theyz hand and pulled Lot into the house for them and shut the doze. And the men that were at the doze of the house were smote with blyndenesse, & both smal and great: so that they saynted and coulde not fynde the doze. And the men sayd vnto Lot: If thou haue yet here any soon in lawe, or sunnes or daughters, or whatsoeuer thou hast in y cittle, byng it out of this place: for we must destroye this place, because the crye of them is great & before the face of God: for the Lord hath sent vs to destroye it. And Lot went out & spake vnto his sonnes in lawe which married his daughters, saying: stande vp, get you out of this place for the Lord wyll ouerthrowe this ctye. But he seemed as though he had mocked, vnto his sonnes in lawe. And when the moynynge arose the angels caused Lot to speke him, saying: Stande vp, take thy wyfe & thy two daughters at hand, lest thou perishe in the synne of the ctye. And as he prologed the tyme, the men caught both him his wyfe and his two daughters by the handes the Lord beinge mercyfull vnto hym, and they brought hym forth and set hym without the ctye. It fortuned, when they had brought them out he sayde: Saue thy lyfe, & loke not behynde the, neither tary thou in all this playne costrie. Saue thy selfe in the mountayne, lest thou perishe. And Lot sayde vnto them: Oh naye lord, beholde, thy seruant hath founde grace in thy sight, and I haue magnified thy mercy whiche thou hast shewed vnto me in sayynge my lyfe. Beholde, I can not be saued in the mountayne, lest some mysfortune fall vpon me, and I dye. Beholde, here is a ctye by, to flye vnto, euen ponder lytle one: Oh let me be saued there: it is not a lytle one, and my soule shall lyue. And he sayde vnto hym: se, I haue receyued thy request as concernynge this thyng, that I wyl not ouerthrowe this ctye, for the whiche thou haste spoken. Haste the, and be saued there, for I can do nothyng tyll thou be come thyder. And therfore the name of the ctye is called zoar. And the sunne was now risen vpon the earth, whē Lot was entred into zoar.

Then the Lord rayned vpon Sodome and Gomorra, by mystone and fyre from the Lord out of heauen, and ouerthrowe those cities and all the regyon, and all that dwelled in the ctyes, & that that grewe vpon the earthe. But Lottes wyfe looked behynde her, and was turned into a pylle of salt. Abraham rising vpearly, got him to the place where he stode before the presence of God, and loynge towarde Sodome and Gomorra and towarde all the lande of that countrie he looked: and beholde, the smoke of the countrey arose as the smoke of a fornaice. And it happened that when God destroyed the ctyes of that regyon, he thought vpon Abraham, and sent Lot & oute from the myddest of the ouerthrowynge when he ouerthrowe the ctyes, where Lot dwelled.

And Lot departed out of zoar and dwelled in the mountaynes with his two daughters, for he feared to tarye in zoar, but dwelled in a cane, he and his two daughters. And the elder sayde vnto the yonger: our father is olde, and there is not a man in the earth to come in vnto vs after the maner of all the world. Come, we wyl make oure father drunken with wyne, and we wyll byng hym, that we maye saue seed of oure father.

And so they made theyz father drunken with wyne that nyght. And the elder daughter went

And on the morow it happened that the elder sayde vnto the yonger: beholde, yester-nyght I with my father. Let vs make him dronke with wyne this nyght also, and go thou and lye with hym: that we may rayse vp seed of our father. And they made the father dronke with wyne & nyght also. And the yonger arose, and laye with hym. And he perceyued it not: neyther when she laye downe, neyther when she rose vp. Thus were both the daughters of Lot with childe by the father. And the elder bare a son, and called his name Moab. The same is the father of the Moabites vnto this daye. And the yonger bare a sonne also, and called his name Ben Ammi. The same is the father of the chyl- dzen of Ammon vnto this daye.

Abraham went as a stranger into the lande of Gerar. The kinge of Gerar take awaye his wyfe.

AND Abraham departed thence to- ward the south countrey, & dwel- led betwene Cades and Sur, & so- journed in Gerar. And Abraham sayd of Sara his wyfe: she is my sister. And Abimelech kynge of Gerar sent & fet Sara awaye.

But God came to Abimelech in a dreame in the nyght and sayde vnto hym: Se, thou shalt dye for the womans sake which thou hast taken awaye, for she is a mans wyfe. But Abimelech had not yet come nye her, & he sayde: Lorde wyle thou slaye ryghteous people: sayd not he vnto me, she is my sister: yea, and sayd not she her self he is my brother: with a pure heart and innocent handes haue I done this. And God sayde vnto hym by a dreame. I wot it wel that thou dydest it in the purenes of thy heart. I kept the also that thou shouldest not syn agaynst me, and therfore suffered I the not to touche her. Nowe therfore, deliuer the man his wyfe agayne for he is a pio- phet. And he shall pray for thee that thou mayest lyue. But and yet thou deliuer her not agayne, be sure that thou shalt dye the death, both thou, and all that thou hast. Therfore Abimelech cry- synge vp by tymes in the mornynge called al his seruantes and tolde all these sayinges in theyr eares, and the men were sore afraied. And Abi- melech called Abraham & sayd vnto hym: what hast thou done vnto vs, and what haue I offen- ded thee that thou hast brought on me and on my kynngdome so great a synne: thou hast done de- des vnto me that ought not to be done. And Abi- melech sayd vnto Abraham: What sawest thou that thou hast done this thyng?

Abraham answered. For I sayde: surely the feare of God is not in this place, and they shall slaye me for my wifes sake: yet in very dede she is my sister, for she is the daughter of my father though she be not the daughter of my mother: & she became my wyfe. And after God caused me to wandre out of my fathers house, I sayd vnto her: This kynnesse shalt thou shewe vnto me in all places where we come, that thou say of me he is my brother. Then toke Abimelech bepe- oxen, menservantes and womenservantes, and gaue them vnto Abraham, and deliuered hym Sara his wyf agayne. And Abimelech sayde: beholde, my lande lyeth before thee, dwell where it please thee best. But vnto Sara he sayd: Se I haue gyuen thy brother a thousande peces of syluer: beholde, it shall be a couerynge of thine eyes, vnto all that are with thee: and thus with all was she reioyced.

And so Abraham prayed vnto God, and God healed Abimelech, and his wyfe, and his may- dens, and they bare chylidzen. For the Lord had closed to all the matrices of the house of Abime- lech because of Abrahams wyfe.

The. xii. Chapter.

HE Lorde vspytred Sara, as he had I sayd, and dyd vnto her * accordynge as he had promised. For Sara was withchilde, and bare Abraham a son in his olde age, euen the same season which the Lord had appoynted him. And Abraham called his sonnes name that was borne vnto him which Sara bare hym, Isaac: and Abraham * circumcised Isaac his son when he was viii. dayes olde: as God commaunded him. And Abi- ham was an hundred yere olde: when his sonne Isaac was borne vnto hym. But Sara sayde: God hath made me a laughynge stocke, so that all that heare, wyl laugh at me. She sayd also who wolde haue sayde vnto Abraham, & Sara shoulde haue gyuen chylidzen sache: for I haue borne hym a sonne in his olde age. The childe grewe, and was wened: and Abraham made a great feast the same daye that Isaac was we- ned. Sara sayde also of sonne of Hagar the Egi- ptian (whiche she had borne vnto Abraham) to be a mocker, wherfore she sayde vnto Abraham: * put awaye this bond mayde and her son: for the son of this bond woman shal not be heyre w my sonne Isaac: and this saying was very gre- uous in Abrahams syght because of his sonne. And God sayde vnto Abraham: let it not be gre- uous in thy syght, because of the lad, and of thy bondmayde. All that Sara hath sayd vnto thee, heare her voyce: for * in Isaac shall thy seed be called. Moreouer of the sonne of the bondwoma- wyl I make a nacion: because he is thy * seed.

And so Abraham arose vp early in the mo- ynyng, and tooke breed, and a bottell of water, and gaue it vnto Hagar, puttynge it on her shul- ders with the lad also, and sent her a waye, who departynge, wandred vp and downe in the wy- ldernesse of Beer Sheba. And the water was spilt in the bottell, and she cast the lad vnder a bush, and went and sat on the other syde a great way as it were a bowe shot of: for she sayde: I wyl not se the death of the childe. And she sytynge downe on the other syde, lyfte vp her voyce and wepte.

And God hearde the voyce of the childe. And the angell of God called Hagar out of beaus and sayde vnto her: What ayleth thee Hagar?

unto you. And Abraham took the wood of the sacrifice, and layed it up; Isaac his sonne, but he hym selfe took fyre in his hande, and a knyfe. And they went both of them together.

Then spake Iſahar vnto Aſhram his father and ſayde, My father: And he answered: here am I my ſonne. he ſayde: Se, here is ſpye and wood, but where is the ſhepe for ſacrifice? Aſhram answered: my ſonne, God wyll provide hym a ſhepe for ſacrifice, and ſo they went both together.

And when they came vnto the place whiche God had shewed hym, Abraham made an alter there: and dressed the wood, and bounde Isaac his sonne: & layed hym on the aulter, aboue vpon the wood. And Abraham stretching forth his hande, toke the knyfe to haue killed his son.
And the angel of the Lord called vnto him from heauen, sayinge: Abraham, Abraham: And he sayd: here am I. And he sayd: laye not thy hande vpon the chyld, neyther do any thyng at al vnto him, for now I knowe that thou fearest God and halt for my sake not spared thynne only son.
And Abraham lpytynge vpon his eyes, looked about: and behold, there was a ram caught by the hornes in a thicket. And he wente and toke the ram and offered him vp for a sacrifice in the stee-de of his sonne. And Abraham called the name of the place, the Lorde wyll se. As it is sayde thus daye: in the mount wyll the Lorde be seene.

And the anngel of the Lord cryed vnto Ahaham from heauen the seconde tyme, and sayde: thyselfe haue I sowne (saith the Lord) the by my selfe haue I sworne (sayth the Lord) because thou hast done this thyng, and haſte not ſpared thyne onely ſon: that in bleſſynge I will bleſſe the, and in multiplying I will multiplye thy ſeed as the ſtarres of heauen, and as ſande which is vpon the ſea ſyde. And thy ſeed ſhall poſſeſſe ſ gate of his enemies. * And in thy ſeed ſhall all the nacyons of the earth be bleſſed, because thou haſt drarde my voyce. So tounred Abraham agayne vnto his yong men, and they roſe vp and went together to Beer ſeba. And Abraham dwelled at Beer ſeba. And it chaun-ced after theſe thynges, that one tolde Abraham ſayinge: Beholde Milcha, ſhe hath alſo borne chylidren vnto thy brother Nachor: hus his el-deſt ſonne, and hus his brother, and hermaſt & father of the Syrians, and craſted, and haſt, & Pelias, and Iſmael, and Bethuel. And Bethuel begat Bebecca. Theſe. but did Milcha beare Nachor Abrahams wyther. And his concubine called Hama: ſhe beere alſo Teſh, and Gaben Theſe and Milcha.

And it chaunced the same season that Abimelech and Phicol his chiefe capteayne spake vnto Abraham, sayinge: * God is with the in all that thou doest. And nowe therfore I sweare vnto me euen here by God, that thou wilt not hurt me nor my children, nor my childrens children. But that thou shalt deal with me, and the countrey where thou hast ben a stranger, according vnto the hyndnes that I haue shewed the. And Abraham sayde: I will sweare.

D And Abrahān rebuked Abimelech for a well of water, whiche Abimelech had taken away. And Abimelech sayd: I wot not who hath done this thinge.

Also thou toldest me not: neyther hearde I of it but this daye. And Abrahāme toke Shepe and or m, and gaue them vnto Abimelech. And they made both of them a bond together. And Abra ham set seuen eide lambes by them selues. And Abimelech sayde vnto Abrahāme: what meane these seuen eide lambes whiche thou hast set by them selues? he answered: for these seuen lam bes shall thou take of my hande, that they may be a wytnesse vnto me, that I haue dygged this well. Wherefore the place is called Beer Sheba, because that there they sware both of them.

Thus made they a bond together at Beersheba. And Abimelech & Phicol his chiefe captayne rose vp, and turned agayne vnto the land of the Philistines. And Abraham planted a wood in Beersheba, and called there on the name of the Lord, the euerslifyinge God: and so gouerned in the Philistines land a long season.

The lord of Nazareth is proud in offering his loyal soldier. Christ the lord our is prompt. The general is on of stacher Abraham's brother.

After these sayings, it happened, & God vnd<sup>r</sup> moue Abraham & sayde vnto hym: Abraham. Whiche an swerd: hee am I. And he sayde: take thine only son Iſaac whom thou louest, and get the vnto the lande Moſa, and sacrifice him there for a sacrifice vpon one of the mountaynes, whiche I will shewe thee. Then Abraham rose vpearly in the morning, and saddled his asse, and took two of his yonge men with hym, and Iſaac his sonne: and cleue wood for the sacrifice, and rose vp and gat hym to the place which God had appoynted hym.

15 The thirde daye Abinam left up laces, and leue the place as hee of, and sayd unto his seruaunts: hye lere with the ass I and the lad will go yonder and buydye, and come againe

The xliij. Chapter.

Sarah dyeth, and is buried in the same that Abraham bought of Ephron the Hethite.

Sarah was an hundred and xviij. yere olde (so longe lyued she) and Sarah dyed in Egypt at Arba. The same is Hebron in the land of Canaan. And Abraham came to mourne Sarah and to wepe for her. And Abraham stode up from the sight of his cooyle, and talked with the sonnes of Heth, saying: I am a stranger, and a forreiner amonge you, geue me a possession to burie in it you, that I may burie my cooyle out of my sight And the chyldren of Heth answered Abraham, sayinge vnto hym: Heare vs lozde, thou arte a prince of God amonge vs. In the cheifest of our sepulchres burie thy deede. None of vs also shal forbydde the his sepulchre: but thou mayest burie thy deede therein. Abraham stode up, and bowed hym self before the people of the lande of the chyldren of Heth. And he communed with them, sayinge: If it be your mynde that I shall burie my deede out of my sight, heare me: and speake for me to Ephron the sonne of zoar, that he maye geue me the double caue, whiche he hath, and that is in the ende of his felde: but for as moche monye as it is worth, shall he geue it me in the presence of you, for a possession to burie in. For Ephron dwelled amonge the chyldren of Heth.

And Ephron the Hethite answered Abraham in the audience of the chyldren of Heth and of all that went in at the gates of his cite, sayinge: Not so my lozde, heare me. The felde geue I the, and the caue that therein is geue I the also: and euen in the presence of the sonnes of my people geue I it the, burie thy deede: and Abraham bowed hym self before the people of the lande and spake vnto Ephron in the audience of the people of the country, sayinge: I praye the heare me if it please the: I wyl geue the felde for the felde, take it, & I wyl burie my deede there.

Ephron answered Abraham sayinge vnto hym: My lozde hearken vnto me. The lande is worth four hundred syluer: what is that betwixt the and me: burie therfore thy deede. And Abraham hearkened vnto Ephron, and weped hym the siluer which he had sayde, in the audience of the sonnes of Heth. Euen four hundred syluer cycles of currant monye amonge marchantes. And the felde of Ephron with the double caue which was before Hamme: euen the felde and the caue that was therein, and all the trees that were in the fride, and that were in all the borders rounde about, was made sure vnto Abraham for a possession, in the sight of the chyldren of Heth, before all that went in at the gates of the cite. After this dyd Abraham burie Sarah his wyfe in the double caue of the felde that lyeth before Hamme. The same is Hebron in the lande of Canaan. And to keepe the fride and the caue that is therein was made vnto Abraham a sure possession to burie in of the sonnes of Heth.

The xliij. Chapter.

Abraham maketh his seruant to sweare, and sendeth him to take a wyfe for Isaac his sonne. The seruant went sayde: full and brought Rebecca, which Isaac take to his wyfe.

Abraham was olde, and strengthened in dayes; and the Lorde had blessed hym in all thynges. And Abraham sayd vnto his eldest seruant of his house whiche had the rule ouer all that he had, Put thy hande vnder my thyghe, and I wyl make the sweare by the Lorde God of heauen, and God of the earth, that thou shalt not take a wyfe vnto my sonne of the daughters of Canaan, amonge whiche I dwell. But thou shalt go vnto my countreye and to my natyue lande, and take a wyfe vnto my sonne Isaac. But the seruant sayde vnto hym: peraduenture the woman wyl not agree to come w me vnto this lande, shall I brynge thy sonne agayne vnto the lande whiche thou camest out of? To whome Abraham answered: be ware that thou brynge not my sonne thither agayne.

The Lorde God of heauen, whiche toke me from my fathers house, and from the lande where I was bozne: And whiche spake vnto me, and that I sweare vnto me sayinge: vnto thy seed wil I geue this lande, he shall sende his aungell before the, and thou shalt take a wyfe vnto my sonne from thence. Neuerthelesse if the woman wyl not agree to folowe the, then shalt thou be without daunger of this myne oth.

Only brynge not my sonne thither agayne. And the seruant put his hande vnder the thyghe of Abraham his master, and swore to hym, as concernyng that matter. And the seruante toke ten camelles of the camelles of his master, and departed, and had of all manner of goodes of his master with hym, and stode up: and went to Mesopotamia, vnto the cite of Haran. And made his camels to lye downe without the cite by a welles syde of water, at euen aboute the tyme that women come oute to drawe water. And he sayde.

Lorde God of my master Abraham, sende me good speede this daye, and shewe mercie vnto my master Abraham. Lo, I stande here by the well of water, and the daughters of the men of this cite come out to drawe water. Nowe I damnell to whom I saye, stoupe downe thy ptecher I praye the, that I maye drynke. The same saye also: Drynke, and I wyl geue the camels drynke: the same is she that thou hast ordeyned for thy seruant Isaac: yea, and therby shall I knowe that thou hast shewed mercie on my master. And it came to passe yee he had lefte speaking, behold Rebecca came out, the daughter of Bethuel, sonne to Milca the wyfe of Haran Abrahams brother, and her ptecher vpon her shoulde: The damsell was very fayre to loke vpon, and yet a mayde and unknowne of man. And she went downe to the well, and fylled her ptecher, and came vp. And the seruante runnyng vnto her, sayde: let me sup a lytle water of thy ptecher. And she sayde: Drynke my lozde.

And she hastned, & let downe her ptecher vpon her arme, and gaue hym drynke. And when she had gyven hym drynke, she sayde: I wyl drawe water.

water for thy camels also vntyll they haue dronken p[er]fouge. And she poured out her p[er]tcher into the trough hastily, and ran agayne vnto the well to fet water, and dr[ew]e for all his camels. And y<sup>e</sup> man widd[er]ed at her. But helde his peace, to wite whether the Lord had made his iourney prosperous or not. And it fortuned, as the camels had leste d[ri]nkyng, the man toke a golden earpyng of halfe a shele weyght, and two braceletes for her handes, of tenn sheles weyght of golde, and sayde: whose daughter art thou? tell me I pray y<sup>e</sup>, is there roume in thy fathers house for vs to lodge in? She answered hym: I am the daughter of Bathuel the son of Sylla, whiche she bare vnto Rahoz, and sayde mozeouer vnto hym: we haue lytter and prouandye p[er]fouge, & also roume to lodge in.

D And the ma bowed him selfe and worshipped the Lord, and sayde: blessed be the Lord God of my master Abraham, whiche ceaseth not to deale mercifullly and trulye with my master, and hath brought me y<sup>e</sup> way to my masters brothers house. And the damsell ran and told them of her mothers house these thynges. And Rebecca had a brother called Laban.

And he ran out vnto the man, euen to the well for: as soone as he had sene the earpynges and the braceletes in his sisters handes, and hearde the wordes of Rebecca his sister, saying: thus sayd the man vnto me: he went oute vnto the man. And lo, he stood with the camelles by the well syde. And he sayde: Come in thou blessed of the Lord. Wherefore standest thou without? I haue blessed the house, and made roume for y<sup>e</sup> camels. And then the man cam into the house: and he vnblydded the camels, and (Laban) brought lytter and prouandye for the camelles, and water to wash his feet, and the mens feet that were with hym, and set meate before hym to eate. But he sayd: I wyl not eate vntyll I haue sayde myn errande. And he sayde: saye on: And he sayde: I am Abrahams seruante, and God hath blessed my master oute of measure, that he is become greute, and hath gyuen hym shepe and oxen, syluer and golde, men seruantes, and mayde seruantes, camels, and asses.

Gen. 27.1 And * Sara my masters wyfe bare hym a sonne when she was olde, and vnto him hath he gyuen all that he hath. And my master made me sweare, saying: thou shalt not take a wife to my son amonge the daughters of the Cananytes in whose lande I dwell.

e But thou shalt go vnto my fathers house, and to my kynred, & take a wyfe vnto my sonne. And I sayde vnto my master: peradventure the wyfe wyl not folowe me: And he answered me The Lord, before whome I walke, wyl sende his Angell with the, and prosper thy iourneye and thou shalt take a wyfe for my sonne of my kynrede and of my fathers house. Then walte thou be gyttlesse of my curse, when thou comest to my kynrede. And yf they gyue the not one, thou shalt be gyttlesse of my curse.

And so I came this daye vnto the well, & sayd O Lord, the God of my master Abraham, y<sup>e</sup>is be so nowe that thou makest my iourney which I go prosperous: beholde, I stande by this well of water, and when a virgin cometh forth to drawe water, and I say to her: gyue me (I pray the) a lytle water of thy p[er]tcher to d[ri]nke, and she saye to me: d[ri]nke thou, & I wyl also drawe for thy camels, the same is the wyfe, whome the Lord hath prepared for my masters sonne.

And before I had made an ende of sprayng in myne herte, beholde, Rebecca came forth, and her p[er]tcher on her shoulde, and she went downe vnto the well, and dr[ew]e water. And I sayde vnto her: gyue me d[ri]nke I praye the. And she made haste, and toke downe her p[er]tcher from of her, and sayde: d[ri]nke, and I wyl gyue thy camels d[ri]nke also.

And I thanke, and she gaue the camels d[ri]nke also. And I asked her, saying: whose daughter art thou? She answered: the daughter of Bathuel Rahozs sonne * whome Sylla bare vnto hym. And I put the earpyng vpon her face, and the braceletes vpon her handes. And I bowed my selfe and worshipped the Lord, and blessed the Lord God of my master Abraham whiche had brought me my ryght waye to take my masters brothers daughter vnto his sonne. Nowe also, yf ye wyl deale mercifullly and trulye with my master, tel me: and yf not, tell me also that I maye turne me to the ryght hande or to the left.

Gen. 27.2 Then answered Laban and Bathuel, saying: This saying is proceeded euen out of the Lord: we can not therfore saye vnto the, eyther good, or badde: Beholde, Rebecca is before the, take her and go, that she maye be thy masters sonnes wyfe, euen as God hath sayd: And when Abrahams seruante herde thes wordes, he worshipped the Lord flat vpon the earth. And the seruante toke forth ierwels of syluer, and ierwels of golde, and rayment and gaue them to Rebecca and vnto her brother & to her mother, he gaue gyftes, and they byd eate and d[ri]nke, bothe he & the men that were with hym, and tarped all nyght. And when they rose vp in the morning, he sayd: let me departe vnto my master. Her brother and her mother answered: let the damsell abyde with vs a whyle, and it be but enen ten dayes, & then shall she go. he sayde vnto them: hynde me not: Beholde, the Lord hath prospered my iourney. Sende me awaye therfore, that I may go vnto my master. And they sayde: we wyl call the damsell, and enquyre at her mouth: And they called forth Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: wyte thou goo with this man? And she answered: I wyl go.

So they let Rebecca thes sisters go, and her seruante, and Abrahams seruante, and his men. And they blessed Rebecca, and sayde vnto her: Thou art our sister, growe into thousand thousandes * and thy seede possesse the gate of thy enemies. And Rebecca arose, and her damells, and let them by vpon the camelles, and wente thes way after the man. And the seruante toke Rebecca, and went his waye.

And Laban was commyng from the waye of the well of the * spyng and frange me, for he dwelt he dwelt in the south country, and Isaac was gone out to pray in the field at the cistern. And he left up his eyes and saw the camels company. And Rebecca lifted up her eyes, and when she saw Isaac, the pygmy of the camel, and said unto the servant what man is this that cometh walking against us in the field? And the servant said it is my master. Therefore she took her clothe and put it about her. And the servant told Isaac all things that he had done. And Isaac brought her into his mother Sarahs tent, and took Rebecca, and she became his wife, and he loved her, and so Isaac received comfort after his mother.

The xxv. Chapter.

Abraham taketh Keturah to his wife, and getteth many children. Abraham dyeth and giveth all his goods to Isaac. The genealogy of Isaac. The birth of Jacob & Esau. Esau selleth his birth right for a mess of pottage.

Abraham proceeded further and took him a wife called Keturah, which bare him Shimran, and Jekshan, & Medan & Midian, and Jesbach, & Suah. Jekshan begat Seba, & Dedan. And the sonnes of Dedan were Asum, Letusim, and Leumim. And the sonnes of Midian Ephraim, and Ephraim, and Jachan, & Acha and Elda. All these were the children of Keturah. And Abraham gave all his goods unto Isaac. But unto the sonnes of the concubines which Abraham had, he gave gifts and sent them away from Isaac his sonne while he yet lived, eastward unto the land of Kedar. And these are the days of the years of Abrahams life which he lived: an. c. lxxv. yere, & then he slept, & dyed in a lusty age (while he had lived ynough) & was put to his people. And his sons, Isaac & Ismael buried him in the double cave in the field of Ephron sonne of Zor the Hethite, besyde the playne of Mamre. Whych felde Abraham bought of the sons of Heth: where Abraham was buried & Sara his wife. It fortuned after the death of Abraham that God blessed Isaac his sonne, and Isaac dwelled by the well of the living, and seynge me.

These are the generations of Isaac, Abrahams sonne, whiche Hagar the Egyptian Sarais handmaid bare unto Abraham. And these are the names of the sonnes of Isaac in their names according to their hyndes: the eldest sonne of Isaac Rebaioth, & Cedar: and Abbel, & Wilsam, & Wilsaduma, and Wala & Hadar, Thema, Jetur, Naphis, & Kedma: These are the sons of Isaac & these are their names, by their townes & castles. xii. princes of their households. And these are the yeres of the life of Isaac an hundred and xxxvii. yere, and he slept, and dyed and was layde unto his people. And they dwelled from Hebron unto Beer, that is by the border of Egypt, as thou goest toward the Syrians. And he dyed in the presence of all his brethren. And these are the generations of Isaac Abrahams sonne: Abraham begat Isaac.

And Isaac was forty yere olde when he took Rebecca to wife, the daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Mesopotamia, and sister to Laban the Syrian. And Isaac made intercession unto the Lord for his wife: because she was barren:

and the Lord was intreated of hym, and Rebecca his wife conceived, and the children strone together within her. Therefore she said: for it shuld go so to passe, what helpe it that I am with child: wherefore she wente to aske the Lord. And the Lord sayd unto her: there are two manner of people in thy wombe, and two nacions shalbe drupped out of thy bowels, and one nacion shalbe myghtyer then the other, and the elder shalbe servant unto the younger.

Therefore when her tyme was come to be delivered: behold, there were two twynes in her wombe. And he that came out first was red, and he was all over as it were a rough garment, and they called his name Esau. And after hym came his brother out, and his hande holdynge Esau by the heele. And his name was called Jacob. And Isaac was xl. yere olde when they were borne: and the boyes grew, and Esau became a conynge hunter and a tyler of the erth. But Jacob was a perfyte man, and dwelled in the tentes. Isaac loved Esau, because he dyd cate of his venison, but Rebecca loved Jacob.

Isaac sod pottage, and Esau came from the felde and was saynt, and Esau sayde to Jacob sede me I pray the wyth that redde pottage, for I am faint. And therefore was his name called Edom. And Jacob sayd: sell me this daye thy birth right. Esau sayd: Lo, I am at the point to dye, and what profite shall this birth right do me? Jacob answered: I sweare to me the this daye. And he sware to hym, and solde his birth right unto Jacob. The Jacob gave Esau bread and pottage of ryle. And he dyd cate and drynke and rose up, and wente his waye. And Esau regarded not his birth right.

The xxvi. Chapter.

The journey of Isaac toward Bethel. The promise made unto Isaac and his son Jacob to returne out of Egypt: for calling his wife his sister. The chydng of the sheperdes to the well. Isaac is rebuffed. The agreement betwene Bethel and Isaac.

And there came a dearth in the lande passinge the first dearth that was in the dayes of Abraham. And Isaac went unto Bethel the hynde of the Philistines unto Gerar. And the Lord appeared unto hym, and sayde: So not downe into Egypt, but byde in the lande which I shall thewe unto the: sojourne in this lande and I will be wyth the, and will blesse the: for unto the and unto thy sede I will give all these contryes. And I will performe the oath which I swore unto Abraham thy father, and wyl multiply thy sede as the starrs of heauen, and wyl geue unto thy sede all these contryes. And in thy sede shall all the nacions of the earth be blessed, because that Abraham hearkened unto my voyce and kepte myne ordinaunces, my commaundementes, my statutes, and my lawes. And Isaac dwelled in Gerar. And the men of the place asked hym of his wife, & he sayd: she is my sister: for he feared to saye: She is my wife, lest the me of the place shuld have killed hym, because of Rebecca whych was bewyfull to the eye.

And it happened after he had ben there longe tyme time, that Abimelech kynge of the Philistines looked out at a wyndowe, and sawe Isaac spoyntinge with Rebecca his wyfe. And Abimelech called Isaac, & sayd: the is of a surety thy wyfe and why saydest thou she is my syster? To whiche Isaac answered: I thought that I myght peradventure haue dyed for her sake. Abimelech said: why hast thou done this vnto vs: one of the people myght lyghely haue lye by thy wyfe, & so wouldest thou haue brought synne vpon vs. And so Abimelech charged all his people, sayinge: he that toucheth this man or his wyfe, shal dye the death. Isaac sowed in that lande, and foude in the same yere an hundred bushels: and the Lord blessed hym, and the man waxed myghty, and wente forth and grewe, tyll he was exceedinge great: for he had possession of shepe, of oren, and a myghty householde, & therfore the Philistines had enuie at hym: for the Philistines stopped & tyllid vp wth earth all the wels whiche his fathers seruauntes dygged in his fathers Abrahams tyme. And Abimelech sayd vnto Isaac get the from vs, for thou art myghtyer then we a great deale.

Therefore Isaac departed thence & abode in the valley of Gerar, and dwelte there. And Isaac returnynge, dygged agayne the welles of water whiche they dygged in the dayes of Abraham his father, whiche the Philistines had stopped after the death of Abraham, and gaue them the same names whiche his father gaue the. Isaacs seruauntes dygged in the valley, and founde a well of spynge water. And the heard men of Gerar dyd stryue wth Isaacs herdmen sayinge: the water is oures. Then called he the well *Esek, because they strone wth hym.

And they dygged another well, & stroue for that also. And he called the name of it *Sitnah. And then he departed thence, and dygged another wel, for the whiche they stroue not: therefore called he it *Rehoboth, sayinge: the Lord hath now made vs rowme, that we maye encrease vpon the earth. And he wente vp thence, to Beer Sheba. And the Lord appered vnto hym the same nyght & sayd: I am the God of Abraham thy father, feare not, for I am with the, and wyl blesse the and multiplie thy seide for my seruante Abrahams sake. And he buylded an alter there and called vpon the name of the Lord, and pitched his tente. And there Isaacs seruauntes dygged a well. Then came Abimelech to hym from Gerar: and Abulath his frende, and Philistines came to hym.

Isaac sayd vnto them: wherfore come ye to me, seying ye hate me and haue put me awaye from you? And he made them a feaste and they dyd eate and drinke. And they rose vp by tyme in the morninge, and swore one to another. And Isaac sente them awaye. And they departed from hym in peace. And that same day it happened, that Isaacs seruauntes came and tolde hym of a wel whiche they had dygged: and sayd vnto hym, we haue founde water. And he called it *Sheba. And the name of the well is called *Beer Sheba vnto this daye. ### The xxvii. Chapter.

Isaac blest the blessing from Esau by his mothers counsell. Isaac to Esau. Esau is comforted. The blessing of Esau towards Jacob.

And it came to passe that when Isaac waxed olde, and his eyes were dimmed (so that he coulde not se.) he called Esau his eldest sonne & sayde vnto hym. My sonne, and he sayde vnto hym: here am I. And he sayde: beholde, I am nowe olde, and knowe not the daye of my death: and now therfore take thy wep & thy quiver and thy bowe and get the to the felde, that thou mayst take me some venison, and make me meate such as I loue, and bynne it me that I maye eate, and that my soule may blesse the, before that I dye. But Rebecca herde whiche Isaac spake to Esau his sonne. And Esau went into the felde, to catche venyson, and to bynne it. And Rebecca sayd vnto Jacob her sonne sayinge: Beholde I haue hearde thy father talking with Esau thy brother & sayinge: bynne me venison and make me meate, that I maye eate & blesse the before the Lord, also my death. Now therfore my sonne heare my voyce in that whiche I commaunde the: get the to the flocke, & bynne me thence two good kyds, & I may make meate of them for thy father, such as he loueth. And I wyl bring it to thy father, & he may eate and that he may blesse & before his death. Then said Jacob to Rebecca his mother: behold, Esau my brother is a rough man, & I am smooth. My father shall peradventure fele me, & I shall seme vnto him as though I wet about to begyle him and so shal he bynne a curse vpon me, & not a blessing: and his mother sayd vnto hym: vpon me be thy curse my sonne, only heare my voyce, & go & fetch me them. And Jacob went & let them, & brought the to his mother. And his mother made meate such as he knew his father loued. And Rebecca set goodly rayment of her eldest sonne Esau, whiche was in the house wth her, and put them vpon Jacob her yonger sonne & she put the

the skynnes of goates vpon his handes and vpon the smoothe of his necke. And he put the meate & breade whiche he had prepared in the hande of her sonne Jacob. When he came to hys father, he sayd, my father. And he answered: here am I, who arte thou my sonne? And Jacob sayd vnto hys father: I am Esau thy eldest sonne, I haue done accordyng as thou baddest me: vp and sle and eate of my venison, & thy soule maye blesse me. And Isahac sayd vnto hys sonne: how cometh it that thou haste founde it so quickly my sonne? he answered: The Lorde thy God brought it to my hande: Then sayde Isahac vnto Jacob, come here and let me fele the my sonne whether thou be my sonne Esau or not. Then wente Jacob to Isahac hys father, & he felt and sayde: The voyce is Jacobs voyce, but the handes are the handes of Esau. And he knewe hym not, because his handes were rough as hys brothers Esaus handes: and so he blessed hym.

And he asked him: art thou my sonne Esau? And he sayde, that I am. Then sayde he: brynge me and let me eate of my sonnes venison, that my soule maye blesse the. And he brought hym and he ate. And he brought hym wyne also, and he dranke. And hys father Isahac sayd vnto hym: come here, and kysse me my sonne. And he went vnto hym and kysed hym. And he smelled the sauoure of hys raiment, and blessed hym, & sayde: The smell of my sonne is as the smell of a feld, whiche the Lorde hath blessed. God geue the of the dewe of Heuen, and of the fatnes of the earth, and plenty of cozne and wyne. People be thy seruantes, and nacyons bowe vnto the. Be lorde ouer thy brethren, & thy mothers chyldren stoupe vnto the. Cursed be he that curseth the, and blessed be he that blesseth the.

It happened that aslone as Isahac had made an ende of blessing, and Jacob was scarce gone out from the presence of Isahac hys father, then came Esau hys brother from his huntynge, and had made also meate and brought it vnto hys father, and sayde vnto hys father: let my father arysle and eate of hys sonnes venison, that thy soule maye blesse me. Then hys father Isahac sayde vnto hym: who arte thou? he answered: I am thy eldest sonne Esau, and Isahac was greatly astonysed out of measure, and sayd: whiche is he and where is he then that hath hunted venison: and brought it me? and I haue eate of al before thou comest, and haue blessed him, and he shal be blessed. When Esau herde the wordes of hys father, he cryed out greatly and bitterly, aboute measure, & sayde vnto his father: blesse me also my father. Who answered, thy brother came & subeylde, & hath taken away thy blessing. And he sayd againe: he may wel be called Jacob for he hath vndermynd me now twayne: fyrste he toke away my bytyght, and se now hath he taken away my blessing also. And he sayde: hast thou kepte neuer a blessing for me?

Isaac answered and sayde vnto Esau: beholde, I haue made hym thy lorde, and all hys mothers chyldren haue I made his seruantes. Whereouer with cozne & wyne haue I stablished hym, what can I do vnto the now my sonne? And Esau sayde vnto his father: hast thou but that one blessing my father: blesse me also my father: so lyfted vp Esau his voyce and wept. Then Isahac his father answered and sayd vnto hym: beholde, thy dwelling place shal be the fatnesse of the earth, and of the dewe of heauen from aboue. And with thy sword shalt thou lyue, and shalt be thy brothers seruaunt. And it wyll come to passe, that when thou shalt get the mastepe, thou shalt loose his yoke from of thy necke. And Esau hated Jacob, because of the blessing that hys father blessed hym with all. And Esau sayd in hys herte: The dayes of my fathers sorowe are at hande, and I wyll slaye my brother Jacob. And these wordes of Esau her eldest sonne were tolde to Rebecca. And she sent and called Jacob her pongest sonne, & sayde vnto hym: beholde, thy brother Esau threatneth to kyll the: now therefore my sonne heare my voyce, make the redy, and flee to Laban my brother at Haran: and tary with him a while: vntill thy brothers fearnes be swaged, and vntill thy brothers wrauth turne away from the, and he forget the thynges whych thou haste done to hym. Then wyll I sende and fet the awaye fro thence. Why shulde I be desolate of you both in one daye? And Rebecca spake to Isahac, I am wery of my lyfe, for fear of my daughters of herch. If Jacob take a wyfe of the daughters of herch suche one as these are, or of the daughters of the lande what good shall my lyfe do me?

The xxviii. Chapter:

Esau is sente into Mesopotamia to Laban for a wyfe. Esau marryeth an Hittite. Jacob dyeth a dyeme. Esau is pryncple. Jacob maketh a house.

And so Isahac called Jacob & blessed hym and charged hym, & sayde vnto hym: se thou take not a wyfe of my daughters of Chanaan, but arysle and get the to Mesopotamia to the house of Bethuel thy mothers father: and there take the a wyfe of the daughters of Laban thy mothers brother. And God almighty blesse the, and make the to encrease, and multiply the that thou mayest be a nobbe of people, and geue the the blessing of Abraham: to the & to thy seede with the, that thou mayest possesse the lande wherein I art a stranger: which God gaue vnto Abraham. Thus Isahac sent forth Jacob. And he went to Mesopotamia vnto Laban: some of Bethuel the Syrian, & brother to Rebecca Jacob & Esaus mother. When Esau sawe that Isahac had blessed Jacob, & sent hym to Mesopotamia, to fet hym a wyfe there, and as he blessed hym he gaue hi a charge saying: thou shalt not take a wyfe of the daughters of Chanaan and thou Jacob had obeyed his father & mother & was gone to Mesopotamia: & Esau saynge also of the daughters of Chanaan pleased not Isahac his father: he went he vnto Ymael, & toke vnto him wyues whych he had. Rahela & daughter of Ymael Abrahams sonne, the syster of Laban to be his wyfe. Jacob departed fro Beer Seba, to come vnto Haran, and came vnto a place by chaunce, & tarped there all nyght, because he was alone. And

And take a stone of the place and put it vnder hys heade and layd hym downe in y<sup>e</sup> same place to slepe. And he dreamed: and behold there stode a ladder vpon the earth and the toppe of it reached vp to heauen. And se, y<sup>e</sup> angels of God went vp and downe vpon it: yea, and God stode vpon it, and sayde. I am the Lorde God of Abraham thy father, & the God of Isaac: the land whych thou sleepest vpon wyl I geue thee and thy seide.
C And thy seide shalbe as the dust of the earth, and thou shalt spredde abrode to the west, to the east, to the north, and to the south. And those of the and in thy seide shall all the kynreds of the earth be blessed. And se I am with thee, and wylbe thy keeper in al places whither thou goest, and wyl brynge the agayne into thys lande: nether wyl I leaue thee vntyll I haue made good all that I haue promysed thee. When Jacob was awaked out of hys slepe, he sayde: surely the Lorde is in thys place, and I was not aware. And he was afraid and sayde: howe fearfull is thys place: it is none other but euen the house of God & the D gate of heauen. And Jacob stode vpearly in the mornyng, and toke the stone y<sup>e</sup> he had layd vnder his heade, and pyched it vp an ende: & powdered oyle in the top of it. And he called the name of the place Bethell, but the name of the cite was called Lus before tyme. And Jacob vowed a vowe, sayinge: If God wyl be wth me, and wyl kepe me in thys pournay whych I go, and wyl gyue me breade to eate, and clothes to put on, so y<sup>e</sup> I come agayne vnto my fathers house in snurtye, then shall the Lorde be my God, and thys stone whych I haue set vp an ende, shalbe Goddes house: and of all that thou shalt geue me, wyl I gyue the tenth vnto the.

C The xxix. Chapter.

C Jacob cometh to Laban & serueth. vii. yeres for Rachel. Lea was brought to hys bed in steade of Rachel. He marryeth them both, & serueth per. vii. yeres more for Rachel. Lea conceyueth.

Ihen Jacob lyfte vp hys fete and came into the caste countrey. And as he loked abonte, beholde there was a wel in the filde, and thre flockes of shepe lape therov: for at that wel were the flockes watered: and there was a great stone vpon the welles mouth. And thither were all the flockes brought, and they rouled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the shepe & put the stone agayne vnto the welles mouth vnto hys place.
And Jacob sayd vnto them: brethren, whence be ye? And they sayde: of haran are we. And he sayde vnto them: knowe ye Laban the sonne of Isachar? They sayd: we knowe him. And he said vnto them, is he in good helth? And they sayde, he is in good helth, & beholde, his daughter Rachel cometh wth the shepe. And he sayde, lo, it is yet but hye daye, nether is it tyme that the catel shulde be gathered together, water ye the shepe and go and fede the. And they sayd, we may not vntyll all the flockes be brought together, & tyll they roll the stone from the welles mouth, & so we water oure shepe. Whyle he yet talked w them, Rachel came wth her fathers shepe, for she kept them. And allone as Jacob sawe Rachel, y<sup>e</sup> doughter of Laban his mothers brother, & the shepe of Laban his mothers brother, he went and rouled the stone from the welles mouth, and watered the flocke of Laban hys mothers brother. And Jacob kyssed Rachel, and lyfte vp his voyce and wept: & Jacob told Rachel, y<sup>e</sup> he was her fathers brother & Rebeccas sonne. Therfore ranne she and tolde her father. And it happened when Laban herde tell of Jacob his sisters sonne, he ran to mete hym: and embraced hym & kyssed him, & brought hym to his house. And he tolde Laban all the matter. To whom Laban said: wel, thou art my bone & my fleche. And he abode wth him the space of a moneth. And Laban sayd vnto Jacob: Though y<sup>e</sup> be my brother, shuldest thou therfore serue me for nought? tell me, what shall thy wages be? Laban had two daughters: the eldest called Lea, and the yongest Rachel. Lea was tender eyed, but Rachel was bewtiful & wel fanoured. And Jacob loued Rachel, & sayd: I wyl serue thee. vii. yeres for Rachel thy yongest dought-ter. Laban answered: it is better y<sup>e</sup> I geue her the then to another man: byde w me. And Jacob ser-ued. vii. yeres for Rachel and they seemed vnto hym but a fewe dayes, for the loue he had to her.

And Jacob sayd vnto Laban: gyue me my wyfe that I may lye w her: for my dayes are fulfilled.
Then Laban gathered together al y<sup>e</sup> men of the place, & made a feast. And when euen was come he toke Lea hys doughter & brought her to hym and he went in vnto her. And Laban gaue vnto his doughter Lea, Bilha his mayde, to be her seruaunte. C (To whom when Jacob came in accordyng to the custome,) and when the mornyng was come beholde it was Lea. Then sayd he to Laban, wherfore hast thou playd thus w me? yd not I serue thee for Rachel? wherfore then hast thou begyled me? Laban answered: it is not y<sup>e</sup> maner of this place, to mary the yongest before the eldest.
Pass out this weke, & then shal this also be geuen thee for the seruice whych y<sup>e</sup> shalt serue me yet vii. yeres more. And Jacob byd enen so, & passed out that weke, and then he gaue hym Rachel his doughter to wyfe also. And Laban gaue to Rachel his doughter, Bilha his hadmayde to be her seruaunt. So lay he by Rachel also, & loued Rachel more the Lea, & serued him per. vii. yeres more.

When the Lorde sawe that Lea was despysed, he made her fruitfull. And Rachel remayned barren. And Lea conceyued and bare a sonne and called hys name Ruben, for she sayde: the Lorde hath looked vpon my tribulacion. Nowe therfore my husbände wyl loue me. And she co-nceyued agayne and bare a sonne, and sayde: the Lorde hath herde that I am despyled, and hath therfore gyuen me thys sonne also, and she called hys name Simeon. And she conceyued yet and bare a sonne, and sayd: nowe thys once wyl my husbände kepe me company, because I haue borne hym thre sonnes: and therfore was hys name called Levi. And she conceyued yet agayne and bare a sonne sayinge: nowe wyl I prayse the Lorde: therfore she called hys name Juda, and lefte bearynge.

C The xxx. Chapter.

Rachel

¶ Rachel and Lea beynge both barren geue theyr mayden vnto their husbande, and they bare hym chyldren. Jacob receaueth Laban in the conceauinge of the shepe and kyddes. Jacob receaueth for hym scrupes.

Abel when he sawe that he bare Jacob no chyldren, he enuyed her syster, and sayd vnto Jacob: Geue me chyldren, or els I am but deed.

And Jacob was wroth wyth Rabel sayinge: Am I in Goddes steade, which kepeth from the the frute of thy wombe? Then he sayd: here is my mayde Bilha, go in vnto her, and she shall beare vpon my lappe, that I maye be increased by her. And he gaue hym Bilha her handmayd to wyfe. And Jacob went in vnto her, and Bilha conceaued and bare Jacob a sonne. Then said Rabel. God hath geue sentece on my syde, and hath also herde my voice & hath geuen me a sonne. Therfore called she hym Dan. And Bilha Rabels mayde conceaued agayne, & bare Jacob another sonne. And Rabel sayd with godly wrestlynges haue I wrestled with my syster and haue gotten the vpper hande. And she called his name, Reubeni. When Lea sawe that he had left bearing the toke Silpha her maide, & gaue her Jacob to wyfe. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob a sonne. The said Lea, good lucke: and called hys name Gad. And Silpha Leas mayde bare Jacob another sonne. Then sayde Lea, happye am I, for the doughters wyl cal me blessed. And called hys name Isser.

And Ruben went out in f dapes of f wheat haruest and found mandragoras in the felde & brought them vnto hys mother Lea. Then sayd Rabel to Lea: geue me of thy sonnes Mandragoras. To whom Lea answered: Is it not ynough that thou haske taken awaye my husbande, but woldest take awaye my sonnes Mandragoras also? The said Rabel: wel, let hym slepe wyth the thys nyght, for thy sonnes Mandragoras. And Jacob came from the felde at euen, & Lea went out to mete hym, and sayd: come in to me, for I haue bought the w my sonnes Mandragoras. And he slept wyth her f nyght. And God herde Lea that she conceaued and bare vnto Jacob the fyft sonne. Then sayd Lea God hath geuen me a rewarde, because I gaue my mayde to my husband, & she called hym Issachar. And Lea conceaued yet agayne, & bare Jacob the sixt sonne. And Lea sayde: God hath endued me w a good dowry. Nowe wyl my husbande dwel with me, because I haue borne hym fyve sonnes: and called his name Zabulon. After that she bare a doughter and called her name Dina. And God remembred Rabel, he hearde her, & made her fruitful: so that she conceaued and bare a sonne, and sayde: God hath taken awaye my rebuke. And she called his name Joseph sayinge: The Lord geue me yet another sonne. And allone as Rabel hadde borne Joseph, Jacob sayde to Laban: send me awaye that I may go vnto myne owne place & contrey, geue me my wyues and my chyldre for whome I haue serued the, & let me go: for I knowest what scrupce I haue done the. To whome Laban answered, yf I haue founde fauour in thy syght, for I suppose that f Lorde hath blessed me for thy sake) appoint what thy rewarde shall be, and I wyl geue it the. But he sayd vnto him thou knowest what scrupce I haue done the, & in what takynge thy catell haue bene vnder me: No: it was but litle that thou haddest before I came, and nowe it is increased into a multitude and the Lorde hath blessed the for my sake. But nowe when shall I make prouysyon for myne owne house also? And he sayd: what shall I then geue the? And Jacob answered: thou shalt geue me nothyng at al, yf I wyl do thys one thinge for me, and then wyl I turne agayne and fede thy shepe, and kepe them.

I wyl go aboute al the shepe thys daye, and separte from them al the shepe that are spotted and of dyuerse coloures, and all blacke shepe amonge the lambes, and the partye, and the spotted amonge the kyddes: and the same shall be my rewarde. So that my ryghteousnes answere for me to morowe, and shall come for my rewarde before thy face, and euery one that be not speckled and partye amonge the goates, and blacke amonge the shepe, the same shall be thest with me.

And Laban sayd: So to, wold god it myght be accordynge to thy sayinge. Therfore he toke out the same daye the he goates that were partye and of dyuers coloure, and all the he goates that were spotted and partye coloured, and all f had whyt in them, & all the blacke amonge the shepe, and put them in the keepinge of his sonnes and let the dayes iourney betwyte hym selfe & Jacob. And so Jacob kepthe the reste of Labans shepe. Jacob toke rodde of grene poplar, bassell and of the chest nut trees, and pyllid wythe strakes in them, & made f wythe appare in the rodde. ¶ (But they that were whole, remayned grene: and thus was it made a variable coloure.) And put the rods whych he had pyllid, euen before f shepe, in the gutters & waterynge troges wher f shepe came to drynke, that they shulde conceane when they came to drynke. And the shepe conceaued before the rods, & brought forth lābes straked, spotted, and partye. And Jacob parted the lābes and turned the faces of f shepe toward spotted thinges and toward all maner of black, f was amonge the shepe of Laban namely, puttynge his owne flockes by them selfe, & not puttynge them with Labans shepe. And it fortunēd f in euery rammyng tyme of the stronger shepe, Jacob layde the rodde before the eyes of the shepe in the gutters: namely, that he myght make the conceane before the rodde. But when f shepe were feble, he put them not in. And so f febler were Labans and the stronger Jacobs. And the mā increased exceedingly, and had a great flocke, mayde seruantes, and men seruantes, camels and asses.

¶ The xxxi. Chapter.

¶ At the commaundement of God, Jacob departed from Laban, and toke hys goodes wyth hym. Rachel beareth her last chylde. Laban foloweth Jacob. The couenaunt betwene Laban and Jacob.

But he hearde the wordes of Labans sonnes, sayinge: Jacob hath taken awaye all f was our fathers, & of oure fathers goods hath he gotten al thys honoure. And Jacob behelde the countenance of Laban and beholde, it was not as yester day. and per yester day. And the Layde sayd vnto Jacob, turne agayne into the lande of thy fathers, and to thy kynred, and I wil be with the. Ther fore Jacob sent and called Rabel and Lea to the felde vnto hys flocke, and sayde vnto them: I se poure fathers countenance & it is not toward me as yester daye, and per yester daye. But the God of my father hath bene wryth me. And ye knowe howe that I haue serued poure father w all my myghte. But poure father hath deceyued me, and chaunged my wages. x. tymes: but God suffred by: not to hurte me. When he sayde, the spotted shalbe thy wages, then all the shepe bare spotted. And when he sayd: the streaked shal be thy reward, then bare all the shepe streaked: thus hath God taken awaye pour fathers shepe, and gauen them me. But in ram mynge tyme it happened, that I lyfted by myne eyes and saue in a dreme, and beholde & rammes leaped vpon the shepe that were streaked, spotted and party. And the Angell of God spake vnto me in a dreme, sayinge: Jacob. And I answered: here am I.

And he sayd: lyfte by now thyne eyes, and se all the rammes leappyn vpon the shepe that are streaked, spotted and partye: for I haue sene all that Laban doth vnto the, I am & God of * Bethell, where thou anoyntedst the stone, & where thou vowedst a vowe vnto me. Nowe therfore arise and get the * out of thys countrey, and returne vnto the lande where thou wast borne.

Then answered Rabel, and Lea, and sayde vnto hym: haue we a porcion and inheritaunce in our fathers house? Dost not he count vs enen as straungers: for he hath solde vs, & hath euen eaten by our money. But all the ryches whiche God hath taken from our father, that is oures and our chyldrens. And nowe what soeuer God hath sayde vnto the, that do. Then Jacob rose up, and let hys sonnes and wyues by vpon camels, and carped awaye all hys flockes, and all his substance whiche he had procured, hys ryches and possessions which he had gotten in Mesopotamia, for to go to Abac hys father vnto the lande of Canaan. But Laban was gone to * where his shepe, and Rabel had stolen her fathers ymages. And Jacob stole awaye the best of Laban the Syrian, in that he tolde hym not that he fled. So fled he and all that he had, and made hym selfe ready, and passed ouer the ruer, and se: hys face streight toward the mount Si-lead. Upon the thyrde daye after, was it tolde Laban that Jacob fled. Then he toke hys bzethren wryth hym, and folowed after hym seven dayes iourney, and overtoke hym at the mount Silead. And God came to Laban the Syrian in a dreme by nyght, and sayde vnto hym: take hede that thou speake not to Jacob oughte saue good. And Laban overtoke Jacob: and Jacob had pitched by tent in the mount. And Laban wryth his bzethren pitched theyr tent also vpon the mount Silead. And Laban sayde to Jacob: Why hast & thys done to steale awaye my berte and carpe awaye my daughters as though they had bene taken captiue wryth the swerd?

Wherefore wentest thou awaye secretly vn-knowne to me, and dydest not tell me, that I myght haue brought the on the waye to myn syngynge, tymrel and harpe, and hast not suffered me to kysse my chyldren and my daughters.
Thou wast * a foole now to do it, for I am able to do you ryl. But & God of your father spake vnto me yester daye, sayinge take hede that thou speake not to Jacob oughte saue good. And now though thou wentest thy waye, because & longest after thy fathers house, yet wherefore hast thou stolen my goddes. Jacob answered & said to Laban: because I was afrayde, and thought that thou woldest haue taken awaye thy dought-ters from me. But <sup>where as thou sayest that to my</sup> <sup>change</sup> with whome soeuer thou fyndest thy god-des, let hym dye, here befoze our bzethren. Weke that thine is by me, and take it to the. But Jacob wyl not that Rabel had stole them. Then went Laban into Jacobs tente, and into Leas tente, & into the two maydens tentes: but foude them not. Then wente he out of Leas tente, and entred into Rabels tente. And Rabel had taken the ymages and put them in the camels strawe, and satte downe vpon them. And Laban serched all the tente: but founde them not. Then sayde he to her father: my lord, be not angyre that I can not ryle by befoze the, for the custome of we-men is come vpon me. So serched he but found not those ydois. And Jacob was wroth, & chode wryth Laban. Jacob also answered and sayde to hym: what haue I respaced of what haue I offended, that thou folowedest so after me? Thou hast serched all my stuffe, and what haste thou foude of al thy household stuffe: put it here befoze thy bzethren & myne & they may indge betwixt vs both. Behold: This twenty yere haue I ben wryth the, thy shepe and thy goates haue not ben baren, & the rammes of thy flocke haue I not eaten. What soeuer was toyme of bestes, I brought it not vnto the, but made it good my selfe: of my hade dydst & requyre it, eue as it & was stole by daye or nyght. By daye the heate consumed me, & the frost by nyght, & my slepe departed fro myn eyes. Thus haue I bene xx. yere in thy house, and serued & *. riis. yeres for thy *. daughters and syre yeres for thy shepe, and thou hast chaged my reward ten tymes. And except the God of my father, the God of Abraham, and & feare of Abac had ben wryth me, surely thou haddest sent me awaye nowe all emptye. But God be-helde my tribulacyon, & the labour of my han-des, and rebuked the yester daye.

Laban answered and sayd vnto Jacob: these daughters are my daughters, and these chyldre are my chyldren, and these shepe are my shepe, and all that thou seyst, is myne. And what can I do thys daye vnto these my daughters, or vnto thy chyldren whiche they haue borne?
Nowe therfore come on and let vs make a bonde
I and thou, whiche maye be a wytnesse betwene the and me. Then toke Jacob a stone, and sette it by an ende, and Jacob sayde vnto hys bzethren: gather stones. And they toke stones, and made an heape, and they byd eate there vpon
the

the heave. And Laban called it Jeg or Daba- dutha, but Jacob called it Silad, (as other of them according to precept of the stone language)

Then sayd Laban: this heape is * wytnesse betwene the and me this daye: therefore is it called Gilead. ¶ (that is a heape of wytnesse) and * Hiz-pah: for he sayde. The Lord loke betwene me and the wofe we are departed one from another.

¶ If thou shalt beere my daughters, or shalt take other wyues besyde my daughters. Here is no man with vs: behold, God be wytnesse betwixt the and me. And Laban sayde mozeouer to Iacob: beholde, thys heape and this marke which I haue set here, betwixt me and the: this heape be wytnesse and also this marke that I wyl not come ouer this heape to y, and y shalte not come ouer this heape & this marke vnto me: to do any harme. The God of Abraham, the God of Isaac & the God of theyr fathers be iudge betwixt vs

And Jacob swore by the feare of hys father Isaac. The Jacob did sacrifice vpon the mount and called hys betheren to eate bread. And they dyd eate bread & tarped al nyght in the hyl. And early in the morning Laban rose vp and kysed his chyldren & his daughters, and blessed them & Labā departyng, went vnto his place agayne.

¶ The. xxii. Chapter:

C The disson of the angrin: Jacob tenderly presentes unto hys brother Esau. Howe he wrestled with the angel which chaunged hys name and called hym Israti.

BUt Jacob went forth on hys journey And ſ Angels of God came, and met hym. And when Jacob ſawe them, he ſayd thysis Goddes hoſt: & called the name of ſ ſame place * Mahanaim. (that is an ar mpe.) And Jacob ſente meſſengers before hym to Eſau his brother, vnto the lande * of Seir & the felde of Edom. And he commaunded them ſaying Thus ſhal ye ſpeake to my Lorde Eſau: thy ſer-uaunt Jacob ſayth thus: I haue ſogeourned and bene a ſtraunger with Laban vnto thys tyme & haue oren, aſſes and ſhepe, men ſeruauntes, and wemen ſeruauntes, and haue ſent to ſhew it my Lorde, & I maye ſynde grace in thy ſight. And the meſſengers came agayne to Jacob, ſayinge:
we came vnto thy brother Eſau, and he cometh agaynſt the and hath ſoure hundred men wyth hym. But Jacob was greatly afrayde, & wyſte not whych he wape to turne hym ſelfe, & deuyded the people that was wyth him and the ſhepe and oren and camels into ii. compaynes: and ſayde: If Eſau come to the one parte and ſmyte it, the other ſhall ſaue it ſelfe.

E And Jacob sayde agayne: O God of my father Abraham, and God of my father Isaac: Lord Gen. 37. 1. which saydest vnto me: *returne vnto thy coun-tre and to thy kynred, & I will do all well with the. I am not worthy of the least of all the mer-cyes and truthe whiche thou hast shewed vnto thy seruaunt. For with my staffe came I ouer this Iordane, and now haue I gotte .ii. houses Helpme from thy handes of my brother Esau for I feare him: lest he wyl come and synke the mother with the chyldre. Thou saydest: I will surely do the good, & make thy sede as s<sup>e</sup> sand of the see, which can not be nombred for multytude.

And he tarped there the same nyght, 9 toke of that wyppen came to hande, a pience for 6 shil-lens brother. ii. hidged the goates and. xx. he gon-tes. ii. hidged theye and. xx. camels: thirty milche camels with their coltes. xi. hyns, 9. x. bulles. xx. the asses and ten foies: and deliuered them into the hande of hys seruantes, euery dyone by them selues and sayd vnto his seruantes: go forth be fory me, and put a space betwix. dyour, 9. dyone
And he commaunded the formost sayyng.

¶ Of Esau my brother mite the and a re the. say inge: whole art thou, & whyther goest thou: and wole are these that go befoze the? & thalt saye: they be thy seruauts Jacobs, & it is a present sent vnto my Lorde Esau, and beholde, he hym selfe commeth after vs: And so comāunded be the se conde, and the thyrde, & all that folowed the o:ro ues saying of this maner: se þ you speake vnto Esau when ye mete hym, and say mozeouer: thy seruauit Jacob also cometh after vs, fo: he said I wyl peace his wrath with the present that go eth befoze me, and afterwarde I wyl se hym my selfe, yf peradventure he wyl receaue me to grace So went the present befoze him and he taried al that nyghte in the cōpanye, and rose vp the same nyght, and toke hys two wyues & his two may dens, and hys eleuen sonnes, & went ouer þ fo:de Iacob. And he toke them & sent the ouer þ ryuer and sent ouer that he had, carped behynde hym selfe alone. And there wrestled a mā with hym vnto the breakyng of þ daye. And whē he sawe that he could not preuaile agāstt hūn, he smote hym vnder the thy e, and the synowe of Jacobs thye thranke, as he wrestled wyth hym. And he sayd: let me go fo: the daye breaketh. Whiche answered: I wyl not let the go, excepte þ blesse me. And he sayd vnto hym: what is thy name? he answered: Jacob. he sayd: thou shalt be cal led Jacob nomoze, but * Israel. Fo: as a prince hast thou wrestled wyth God: and wyth man, and hast preuailed.

And Jacob asked hym sayinge: tell me thy name. And he sayd, wherefoze doest þo aske after my name: and he blessed him there. And Jacob called the name of the place * Whenuel, for I haue sene God face to face, and my lyfe is preserued. And as he went ouer Whenuel, the sone rose vpon him, and he halted vpo his thye. And therefore is it that the chyldren of Israel eate nor of þ synowe that Whanne in that place of the thye, vnto this daye: because that he touched þ place of Jacobs thye in the synowe that Whanne.

¶ The xxiii. Chapter.

Cefau and Jacob are agree: and Jacob came into the hem.

Iacob lyftronge vp hys eyes, looked, & beholde Elau came, hauynge with hym foure hundred men. And he deuyded the chyldren vnto Lea and vnto Rabel, and vnto the two mapdes. And he put the mapdes and theyr chyldren foremost: and Lea and her chyldren after, and Rabel, and Joseph byndermost. And he wente before them and fell on the grounde seven tymes vntyll he came vnto hys brother.

Esau* came to meet him and embraced him.
b uti and

and fell on hys necke and kysed hym, and they weper. And he lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe the women, and the chyldren: and sayde: whence hast thou these? (And as they helonge vnto her.) And he answered: they are the chyldren which god hath geuen thy seruant. Then came the maydens fourth, and they: chyldren, and dyd they: obersaunce. Lea also with her chyldren came and dyd they: obersaunce. And last of all came Joseph & Rachel, and dyd they: obersaunce.

And he sayde: what is all the drewe whych I mette: he answered: that I may fynde grace in the syght of my Lozde. And Esau sayde: I haue ynoughe my brother, kepe that thou haste vnto thy selfe. To whome Jacob answered, obnap, but yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, receaue my present of my hande: for I haue sene thy face as though I had sene the face of god and thou haste had a good wyll toward me. Oh take my blessing that is brought the, for God hath had mercy on me. (Compynge me all thynges.) And I haue ynough. And so he compelled hym, and he toke it. And he sayd: let vs take oure iourney and go I wyll go before the. Jacob answered hym: my Lozde. Thou knowest, that the chyldren are tye, & the ewes & kyne wyth yonge vnder myne hande, whyche yf men shulde overduye but euē one daye all the shepe wyl dye. Oh let my Lozde go before hys seruante, and I wyll dyue saye and softe, accordynge as the catell that goeth before me and the chyldren, be able to endure vntyll I come to my Lozde vnto Seir.

And Esau sayde: let me yet leaue some of my folke wyth the. And he answered, what nedeth it? (Esau one thyng onely haue I aske of:) let me fynd grace in the syght of my lozde. So Esau wente hys waye agayne that same daye vnto Seir. And Jacob toke hys iourney toward Seir, and buyt hym an house, and made booches for hys catell. And therfore is it, that the name of the place is called Seir.

And Jacob came to Sealem a cytie of Sichem whiche is in the lande of Canaan: after that he was come from Sylopotomia, and pyched be fore the cytie, and bought a parcell of grounde (where he pyched his tente) of the chyldren of hemoz: Sichems father for an hundred peces of money. And he made there an autler, and called vpon the myghtye God of Israel.

¶ The xxxiii. Chapter.

¶ The rauynge of Dina Jacobs daughter by the murther of Sichem. And of the great bloudshedynge: and of the sonnes of Jacob.

In the daughter of Lea: whiche she bare vnto Jacob, wente oute to se the daughters of the lande. Whome when Sichem the sonne of hemoz: & heuiter: lozde of that countrey sawe, he toke her, and lay with her, and forced her: and his herte laye vnto Dina the daughter of Jacob. And he loued that damsell: and spake kindly vnto her, and Sichem spake vnto his father hemoz, saying: geue me this mayden vnto my wyfe.

And Jacob herde that he had defyled Dina his daughter, his sonnes beyng with they: catell in the felde, and he helde his peace, vntyll they were come. And hemoz the father of Sichem went out vnto Jacob to comen with hym. And when the sonnes of Jacob cōmynge out of the felde hearde it, it grieved them, & they were not a lytle wroth, because he had wrought folpe in Israel, in that he had lpen vnto Jacobs daughter whiche thyng ought not to be done. And hemoz: communed with them, sayinge: the soule of my son Sichem longeth for your daughter: gyue her hym to wyfe, and make mariages with vs: and gyue your daughters vnto vs, and take oure daughters vnto you, and ye shal dwell with vs, and the lande shal be before you, dwell and do your vailnesse, and haue your possessions therein. And Sichem sayde vnto her father and her brethren let me fynde grace in your eyes, and whatsoeuer ye appoynt me, that wyll I gyue. Alike scilpe of me both the dowrye and gyftes, and I wyll gyue accordynge as ye say vnto me so that ye gyue me the damsell to wyfe.

But the sonnes of Jacob answered to Sichem, and hemoz: his father talkynge amonge them selues deceytfully, because he had defyled Dina they: syster. And they sayd vnto them: we can not do this thyng that we shoulde gyue our sister to one that is vncircumcised, for that were a shame vnto vs. But in this wyll we consent vnto you. Yf ye wyl be as we be and all the men chyldren amonge you be circumcised, then wyll we gyue our daughters to you, and take your daughters to vs, and wyll dwell with you, and be one people. But and yf ye wyl not berken vnto vs to be circumcised, then wyll we take our daughter & go our wayes. They: wordes pleased hemoz: and Sichem his sonne. And the yonge man deserde not for to do the thyng because he had luste to Jacobs daughter: he was also moost set by of all that were in his fathers house. Then hemoz and Sichem his sonne went vnto the gate of they: cytie, and communed with the men of they: cytie, saying: these men are vnfayned toward vs, and dwell in the lande, and do they: occupacyon therein. And in the land is roume ynoughe for them: we wyll take they: daughters to wyues, and gyue them our daughters, onely herein wyll they consent vnto vs: for to dwell with vs and to be one people: yf all the men chyldren that are amonge vs be circumcised as they are. Shal not their goodes and their substance and all they: catell be ouys, onely we consent vnto them? For they wyl dwell with vs. And vnto hemoz and Sichem hys sonne berkened all that wente out of the gate of his cytie. And all the men chyldren were circumcised whatsoeuer went out of the gates of his cytie. And it happened the thyrde day (when it was paynfull to them) two of the sonnes of Jacob Simeon and Levi, Dinas brethren toke ciether of them bes: & swerde and went into the cytye boldly: and slew all that was male, & slew also hemoz and Sichem his sonne with the edge of the swerde, and toke Dina out of Sichems house, and went they: waye.

And the sonnes of Jacob commynge vpon the deed deed, spoiled the cytie, because they had despyled they: sytter: and toke their shepe, oxen, and their asses, and whatsover was in the citie, and also in the felde. And all they: goodes and all their chyliden and they: wyues, toke they captiue, and made haouche of all that was in the house.

But Jacob sayde to Symeon and Leui: ye haue troubled me and made me synke before the inhabytours of the lande, before the Cananite, and the Hethite. And I beinge fewe in num-bre, they shall gather them selues together a-gains me, and slaye me, and so shall I and my house be destroyed. And they answered: shoulde they deale with our sytter as with an whore?

¶ The xxxv. Chapter.

*C Jacob goeth by vnto Bethel, and buryeth his wyues vnder an oke. Deboia dyeth. Jacob is called Israel.
The lande of Canaan is promysed hym. Rachel dyeth in labour: when she becometh his fathers concubine.
The death of Isahac*

And God sayde vnto Jacob: aryse: and get the vp to Bethel and dwell there. And make there an alter vnto God, for he appeared vnto the: when thou fleddest from the face of Esau thy brother. Then sayde Jacob vnto his hous-holde and to all that were with hym: put awaye the straunge goddes that are amonge you, and be cleane, and chaunge your garmentes, for we wyl aryse and go vp to Bethel, and wyl make an alter there, vnto God which herde me in the day of my tribulation, and was with me in the waye which I went.

And they gone vnto Jacob all the straunge goddes which they had in they: hande, and all they: earynges which were in they: eares, and Jacob hpd them vnder an oke, which was by Shechem. And when they departed, the feare of God fel vpon the cyties that were round about them. And they dyd not folowe after the sonnes of Jacob. So came Jacob to Lus which is in the lande of Canaan. The same is Bethel, he and all the people that was with hym. And he buiilded there an alter, and called the place: The God of Bethel: because that God appered vnto him there, when he fled fro the face of his brother.

* But Deboia Rebbecca's nourish dyed, and was buryed beneth Bethel vnder an oke. And the name of it was called: the oke of lamentacion.
And God appeared vnto Jacob agayne, after he came out of Mesopotamia, and blessed hym, and God sayde vnto hym: thy name is Jacob.
Notwithstandyng, thou shalt be nomore called Jacob, but Israel: helpe thy name. And he called his name Israel.

And God sayde vnto hym: I am God al-myghty: growe, and multiplie: people and a multitude of people shall spryng of the: yea and kynge shall come out of thy loynes. And the lande which I gaue Abraham and Isahac, wyl
I gyue vnto the, and vnto thy seed after the wil I gyue that land also. And so God departed vp from him in the place where he had talked with hym. And Jacob sette vp a marke in the place where he talked with him, and a marke of stone and poured oyle thereon, and poured also oyle thereon, and Jacob called the name of the place where God spake with him: Bethel.

And they departed from Bethel, and when he was but a felde byaded from Ephraim. Rachel beganne to trauaile: and in traualyng, she was in peryll. And it happened, as she was in paynes of her laboure, the midwyfe sayd vnto her: feare not: for this sonne is thine also.

Then as her soule was a departyng: that she must dye, she called his name Ben-Ony: for the sonne of my payne. But his father called him Ben-Jamin. And thus died Rachel, and was buryed in the waye to Ephraim, which is Bethlehem. And Jacob set vp a stone vpon her graue, which is called Rabels grauel stone vnto this daye. And Israel wente thence, and pitched vpon his tente beyonde the tower of Eder. And it chanced, as Israel dwelt in the lande, that Ruben wente, and laye with Silba his fathers concubine, and it cam to Israels care. The sonnes of Jacob were. xii. in nombze. The sonnes of Lea. Ruben Jacobs eldest sonne, and Simeon, Leui, Iuda, Isachar, & Zabulon. The sonnes of Rachel: Joseph and Be-Jamin. The sonnes of Silba Rabels mayde: Dan and Nephthali. The sonnes of Silpha Leas mayde, Gad and Aser. These are the sonnes of Jacob which were bozne him in Mesopotamia.

And so Jacob came vnto Isahac his father to Mamre vnto Syrach Arba which is in Hebron: where Abraham and Isahac sojourned as strangers. And the dayes of Isahac were an hundred and lxxx. yeres: and Isahac fel sick and died, and was put vnto his people, beinge olde and full of dayes. And his sonnes, Esau and Jacob buryed hym.

¶ The xxxvi. Chapter.

C The wyues of Esau. Jacob and Esau are reche. The generacyon of Esau. Esau dwelt in the hill Seir.

These are the generacions of Esau.
The same is Edom. Esau toke his wyues of the daughters of Canaan: Ada daughter of Elis an Hethite, and Tholibama daughter of Ana, the daughter of Zibe an Heuyte, and Basmath Jismar's daughter, and sytter of Nebaioth.
And Ada bare vnto Esau, Eliphaz: and Basa-math bare Reguel. And Tholibama bare Iuz and Jaclan an Hozab. These are the sonnes of Esau which were bozne him in the land of Canaan.

And Esau toke his wyues and his sonnes, and daughters, and all the soules of his house:
his goodes, and all his cattell, and all his substaunce which he had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and went into a country awaye from the face of his brother Jacob: for their reproches was moche, and they coulde not dwell togyther, and the lande wherein they were strangers, coulde not receyue them, because of they: possesion.

Thus dwelt Esau in mount Seir. The same Esau is Edom. These are the generacions of Esau father of the Edomites in mount Seir, and these are the names of Esaus sonnes: Eliphas, the sonne of Ada the wyfe of Esau, and Reguel the son of Basmath the wyfe of Esau.

b.v. And

And the sonnes of Eliphas were Theman, Omar, Zepho, Gaeth, and Kenas. And Thumna was concubine to Eliphas Elus sonne, and bare vnto Eliphas, Amalech. And these be the sonnes of Ida Elus wyfe. And these are the sonnes of Reguel: Rabath, Serah, Samma, & Wila: these were the sonnes of Salimath Elus wyfe. And these were the sonnes of Ahalibama the daughter of Ana daughter of Zebion Elus wyfe, and she bare vnto Elau, Icus, Isalam, and Rozah.

C These were dukes of the sonnes of Elau. The chyldren of * Eliphas, the wyfe sonne of Elau were these: duke Theman, duke Omar, duke Zepho, duke Kenas, and duke Rozah, duke Gaetham, and duke Amalech. These are the dukes that came of Eliphas in the lande of Edom and these were the sonnes of Ida. These also are the chyldren of Reguel Elus sonne: duke Rabath, duke Serah, duke Samma, duke Wila. These are the dukes that came of Reguel in the lande of Edom. And these are the sonnes of Salimath Elus wyfe. These were the chyldren of Ahalibama Elus wyfe: Duke Icus, duke Isalam, duke Rozah: these dukes came of Ahalibama & daughter of Ana Elus wyfe. These are the chyldren of Elau, and these are the dukes of them: whiche Elau is Edom. These are the chyldren of Seir the hoirer, the inhabytoure of the lande: Lotban, Sobal, Zibeon and Ana, and Dilon, Eser & Dilon. These also are & dukes of the hoirers the chyldren of Seir in the lande of Edom. And the chyldren of Lotban were hoir and hemā. And Lotban's sister was called Thumna.

D The chyldren of Sobal were these: Alnan, Danabath, and Ebal, Zepho, and Onan. These are the chyldren of Zibeon. Ana and Ana, this was that Ana that founde mules in the wyldernesse, as he fed his father Zibeons asses. The chyldren of Ana were these: Dilon and Ahalibama the daughter of Ana. These are the chyldren of Dilon, hem, Dan, and Elban, Jerizan and Cheran. The chyldren of Eser are these: Silban, Seauan, and Akan: The chyldren of Dilon also are these: Uz and Iram.

These are the dukes that came of hoir: duke Lotban, duke Sobal, duke Zibeon, duke Ana, duke Dilon, duke Eser, duke Dilon. These be the dukes that came of hoir, after they: duke domes in the lande of Seir. These are the kynge that raygned in the lande of Edom, before there raygned any kynge vpon the chyldren of Israel: Bela the sonne of Beor raygned in Edomea, and the name of his cytye was Dinhaba. And when Bela dyed, Jobab the sonne of Zerah out of Bozra, raygned in his stede. When Jobab also was deed, Hufam of the lande of Theman raygned in his stede. And after the death of Hufam, Hadad the sonne of Bedad, whiche serue the Madianites in the feilde of the Moabites raygned in his stede, and the name of his cytye was Iuich. When Hadad was deed, Samla of Maresha raygned in his stede. When Samla was deed, Saul of the cytye Rebooth raygned in his stede. When Saul was deed, Baalthanan the sonne of Achboz raygned in his stede. And after the death of Baalthanan the son of Achboz, Hadad raygned in his stede, and the name of his cytye was Dahu. And his wyues name Waderabel the daughter of Watted, the daughter of Weland.

These are the names of the dukes that came of Elau in the twelue kynredes, places and names: duke Thumna, duke Alua, duke Jerbeeth, duke Ahalibama, duke Ela, duke Pynon, duke Kenas, duke Theman, duke Widyar, duke Wadgiel, duke Iram. These be the dukes of Edomea, accordyng to they: babtyracyons, in the lande of they: posselions. This Elau is the father of the Edomytes.

C The xxxvii. Chapter

Iacob dwelt in the lande wherein his father was a stranger, euen in the lande of Canaan. These are the generacyons of Iacob: When Joseph was leuenteene yere old, he kept shepe with his brethren, and the ladde was with the sonnes of Bilha and with the sonnes of Zilpha, his fathers wyues. And he brought vnto they: father an euill sayinge of them. But Israel loued Joseph more then all his chyldren, because he begat hym in his olde age, and he made hym a coote of many colours.

And when his brethren sawe that they: father loued hym more then all his brethren, they hated hym, and coulde not speake peaceably vnto hym. Moreover, when Joseph had dreamed a dreame, he tolde it his brethren, whiche hated hym yet the more. * And he sayde vnto them: deare, I praye you, this dreame whiche I haue dreamed: Beholde, we were byndyng weues in the feilde: and lo, my shefe arose, and stode vpryght, and yours stode rounde about, and made obershaunce to my shefe. To whom his brethren sayd: shalt thou be our kynge in dede? Or shalt thou in dede haue domynion ouer vs? And they hated hym yet the more, because of his dreames and of his wordes.

And he dreamed yet an other dreame, and tolde his brethren, sayinge: beholde, I haue had one dreame more: me thought the sunne and the moone and xi. starres made obershaunce to me.

And when he had tolde it vnto his father and his brethren, his father rebuked hym, and sayde vnto hym: what is this dreame which thou hast dreamed? Shall I and thy mother, and thy brethren then come to fall on the ground before the / And his brethren hated him, but his father noted the sayinge. His brethren also went to kepe they fathers shepe in Sichem, and Israel sayde vnto Joseph: doo not thy brethren kepe in Sichem: and I will sende the to them.

He answered: here am I. And he sayde vnto hym: goo, and se whether it be well with thy brethren, and the shepe: and bynge me word agayne. And so he sente hym oute of the vale of hebron, and he wnt to Sichem. And a certayne man founde him, and behold he was wandring oute of his waye in the felde, and the man asked hym: what seekest thou? he answered: I seeke my brethren, tel me I praye where they kepe shepe. And the man sayde: they are departed hence, for I herde them saye: let vs go vnto Dothan.

Thus went Joseph after his brethren, & found them in Dothan. And when they saw hym afar of before he came at them, they toke counsaile agaynst hym for to slaye hym. For one sayde to an other: Beholde, this dreamer cometh: come now therfore and let vs slaye hym, and cast him into some pyt, and we wyl saye a wyched beaſt hath deuoured hym, and we shall se what wyl come of his dreames. When Ruben hearde that he rpd hym out of theyr handes, & sayd: we wyl not kyll hym. And Ruben sayde moreover vnto them: shed not his bloude, but cast him into this pyt that is in the wyldernesse, and laye no hande vpon hym. (Thus he sayde.) Ramele, that he myght rpd hym out of theyr handes, and deliuer hym to his father agayne. I.

And it happned, that when Joseph was come vnto his brethren, they strypte hym oute of his coote, his partye coloured coote that was vpon hym, and they toke hym and caste hym into an emptye pyt, wherein was no water. And they sat them downe to eate bread. And as they lyfte vp theyr eys and looked about, there came a company of Imaelytes from Gilead, and theyr camels laden with spycery, baulme and myrrour: and were goinge downe to carry it into Egypt.

And Juda sayde vnto his brethren: what auayleth it yf we slaye our brother, and kepe his bloude secrete, come on and let vs sell hym to the Imaelytes, and let not our handes be vpon him: for he is our brother and our flesch. And his brethren were content. Then as the Imaelytes marchaunt men passed by, they drew, and lyft Joseph oute of the pyt, and solde hym vnto the Imaelytes for twenty peeres of syluer. And they brought hym into Egypt.

And when Ruben came agayne vnto the pyt, and founde not Joseph there, he rent his clothes and wnt agayne vnto his brethren, sayinge: the lad is not ponde, and whither shall I go? And they toke Josephs coote, and kyllled a goote, and bepped the coote in the bloude. And they sente that partye coloured coote, and brought it vnto their father, and sayd: This haue we founde: se, whether it be thy sonnes coote or no. And he knewe it, sayinge: it is my sonnes coote, a wyched beaſt hath deuoured hym, Joseph is rent in peces.

aboute his loynes, and sorrowed for his sonne a longe season. But all his sonnes & all his daughters rose vp to comforte hym. Reuert helesse, he wolde not be comforted, but sayde: I wyl goo downe into the graue vnto my sonne mourning. And thus his father wept for hym. And the Madianites solde hym into Egypt vnto Putiphar a lord of Pharaos, and his chiefe stuarde:

The xxxviii. Chapter.

The marriage of Iuda. The testamēt of Er and Onan, and the begetting of Gad that came thereupon. Iuda laye with his daughter Thamar. The birth of Schara and Jacob.

It fortuneth at that tyme that Judas wente downe from his brethren, and gate hym to a man called Hira of Odollan, and there he sawe the daughter of a man called Schara a Canaanite. And he toke her, and went into her. And she conceived and bare a sonne, and called his name Er. And she conceived agayne, and bare a son, and called hym Onan. And she conceived agayne, and bare yet a sonne, whome she called Sela: and he was at Chisib when she bare him.

And Judas gaue Er his eldest sonne a wyfe, whose name was Thamar. And Er Judas eldest sonne was wyched in the syght of the Lord and the Lord slewe hym. And Judas sayde vnto Onan: go into thy brothers wyfe, and mary her, that thou mayest lyffe vp seede vnto thy brother. And whē Onan perceyved that the seede shuld not be his, therfore whē he went into his brothers wyfe, he spylled it on the grounde, and gaue not seede vnto his brother. And the thynge which he dyd, displeased the Lord, wherfore he slewe hym also. Then sayde Judas to Thamar his daughter in lawe, remaine a wyddowe at thy fathers house, tyl Sela my sonne be growen, for he sayd: Lest peradventure he dye also as his brethren dyd. And Thamar went and dwelte in her fathers house.

And in proceſſe of tyme the daughter of Schara Judas wyfe dyed. Then Judas when he had lest mourninge, went vnto his shepe herders to Timnath he and his frende Hira of Odollan. And one tolde Thamar, sayinge: beholde, thy father in lawe goeth vp to Timnath, to see his shepe. And she put her wyddowes garmentes of from her, and couered her with a clooke, and disguised her selfe: & sat her downe in a comune place which is by the hys wayes syde to Timnath, for because she sawe Sela was growen and she was not gyven vnto hym to wyfe.

When Iuda sawe her, he thought it had bene an whore, because she had couered her face. And he turned to her vnto the waye, and sayde: come I praye the, let me lye with the, for he knewe not that it was his daughter in lawe. And she answered: what wylt thou gyue me for to lye with me? Then sayde he: I wyl sende the a kyd from the flocke. She sayde: Then gyue me a pledge, tyl thou sende it. He sayde: what pledge shall I gyue the? She answered: thy signet, thy bracelet, and thy staffe that is in thyne hande. And he gaue it her, and lay by her, and she was with child by hym. And she gat her vp, and wente and put her mantell from her, and put on her wyddowes rayment. And Judas sent the kynd by his frende of Odollam, for to receyue his pledge agayne from the wyddowes hande. But he founde her not.

E Then asked he the men of the same place, saying where is the whoze that sat openly by the wayes side? They answered: Ther was no whoze here. He came therfore to Juda agayne, and sayd vnto him: I cannot fynde her, and also the men of the place sayde: that there was no whoze there. And Juda sayde: let her take it to her, lest we be shamed. Beholde, I sent the kynd, and thou hast not founde her. And it came to passe, that after thre monethes, one told Juda, saying: Chamars thy

I daughter in lawe hath playd the whoze, and is playinge. The whoze is become great with childe. And Juda sayd byngge her forth, that she maye be byent. And when they brought her forth, she sent to her father in lawe saying: by the man vnto whome these thynges pertaine am I with childe. And sayde also, loke whose are this seale, byace let, and this staffe. And Juda knewe them and sayde: she hath bene more ryghteous then I, because I gaue her not to Dela my sonne. And he laye with her nomore. It fortuned, when tyme was come that she shulde be deliuered, beholde, there was two twynnes in her wombe. And it fortuned that when she traueled, the one put out his hande, and the myddwyfe toke and bounde a red threde about it, saying: this is come out first. And it chaunced, that he plucked his hande back agayne, and beholde, his brother came out. And she sayde: wherfore haste thou rent a rent vpon the? and called his name Pharez. Afterwarde came out his brother that had the red threde about his hand, and his name was called Zarah.

The. xxiij. Chapter.

God prospereth Joseph. Pharaons wyfe tempteth hym. He is accused & cast in prison. God hath mercy vpon him.

Joseph was brought vnto Egypt: and Putiphar a lord of Pharaons (and his chiefe steward an Egyptian) bought him out of the Ismaelites which had brought hym thither. And God was with Joseph, and he became a luckye man, continuing in the house of his master the Egyptian. And his master sawe that God was with hym, and that God made all that he dyd to prospere in his hande.

And Joseph founde grace in his masters sight, and serued hym. And made hym ruler of hys house, and put all that he had in his hande.

And it fortuned so that tyme that he had made hym ruler ouer his house & ouer all that he had, the Lord blessed the Egyptians house for Josephs sake, & the blessing of the Lord was vpon all that he had in the house, and in the felde. And therfore he leste all that he had in Josephs hand, and lohed vpon nothyng that was with hym, save onely on the breede which he dyd eate. And Joseph was a goodly person, and well fauoured.

And it fortuned after this, that his masters wyfe cast her eyes vpon Joseph and sayde: come lye with me. But he refused, and sayde to hys masters wyfe: Beholde, my master wote not what he hath in the house with me, and hath comited all that he hath to my hande. There is nomore greater in the house then I. Neither hath he kept any thyng from me, but onely the, because thou art his wyfe. How then can I do this great wickednesse & syn agaynst God? And after this maner spake he to Joseph daye by daye but he berkened not vnto her, to slepe nor heare or to be in her compaignye. And it fortuned on a certayne conueniente daye, that Joseph entred into the house, to do his businesse: and ther was none of the householders by, in the house. And he caught hym by the garment, saying: come slepe with me. And he leste his garment in her hande and fledde, and got hym out. And it chaunced, when she sawe that he had leste his garmente in her hand, and was fled out. (And he not regarded) she called vnto the men of her house, and tolde them, saying: Se, he hath brought in an Hebrew vnto vs to do vs shame: for he came into me for to haue slept with me. And I bega to crye with a loude voyce. And when he hearde that I lyfte vp my voyce and cryed, he leste his garment with me, and fled awaye, and got hym out.

And she layed vp his garment by her, vntill wher lozde came home. And she tolde hym wyth these wordes, saying: This Hebrews seruauent which thou hast brought vnto vs, came into me to do me shame. But as soone as I lyfte vp my voyce and cryed, he leste his garment with me, and fled out. When his master (beinge to light of credence) hearde these wordes of his wyfe which she tolde hym, saying: after this maner dyd thy seruauent to me, he waxed wroth.

And the master toke Joseph and put him in a prison, euen into the place where the hynges prisoners laye bounde. And there continued he in prison, but the Lord was with Joseph, and the Lord made hym merce, and got hym fauour in the sight of the lord of the prison. And the heper of the prison committed to Josephs hand all the prisoners that were in the prison house. And whatsoener was done there, that dyd he. And the heper of the prison lohed vnto nothyng that was vnder his hande, singe that the Lord was with hym. For whatsoener he dyd, the Lord made it to prospere.

The. xli. Chapter.

And it chaunced after this, that the butler of the hyng of Egypte and his baker had offended the lord of Egypte. And Pharaon was angrie agaynst his two officers, agaynst the chiefe butler and the chiefe baker: and put them in warde in his chiefe stewards house: euen in the prison and place where Joseph was bound. And the chiefe steward gaue Joseph a charge wth them, & he serued them. And they continued a season in ward: And they dreamed either of them in one night both the butler & the baker of the hyng of Egypte which were bounde in the prison house, either of them his dreame, and each mannes dreame of a sondry interpretation. When Joseph came in vnto them in the morning, and lohed vpon them, beholde, they were sad.

And he asked Pharaoh's officers that were with him in his masters warde, saying: wherefore loke ye so sadlye to daye? They answered hym: we haue dreamed a dreame, and haue no man to declare it. And Joseph sayde vnto them: Do not interpretynge belonge to God: yet tel me: and the chefe butler tolde the dream to Joseph, and sayde vnto hym: In my dreame me thought there stode a vyne before me, and in the vyne were .iii. bzaunches, and it was as though it budded, and her blossomes shot forth: and the grapes therof waxed rype. And I had Pharaohs cup in my hande, and toke of the grapes, and brought them into Pharaohs cup, and deliuered Pharaohs cup into his hande. And Joseph sayde vnto him: this is the interpretation of it. The thre bzaunches are thre dayes: for within thre dayes shall Pharaoh lyfte vp thynne heed, and restore the vnto thynne office agayne, and I shalte deliuer Pharaohs cup into his hande after folde manner wherein I wait: wont to gyue hym drinke. But yf thou thynke on me with the, when thou art in good case, shewe mercy (I praye the) vnto me. And make mencyon of me to Pharaoh, & bypunge me out of this house: for I was stollen out of the lande of the hebrues, & here also haue I done nothyng at all wherefore they shuld haue put me into this dongeon. When the chefe baker sawe that the interpretation was good, he sayd vnto Joseph: me thought also in my dreame that I had thre wycker baskettes on myne heed. And in the uppermoost basket there was of all manner bakemeates for Pharaoh. And the byrdes byd eate them out of the basket that was vpon my heed. And Joseph answered and sayde: this is the interpretation thereof. The thre baskettes are thre dayes, for this daye thre dayes shall Pharaoh take thy heed from the, and shall hange thee on a tree, and the byrdes shall eat the flesh from the. And it came to passe the thre dayes which was Pharaohs byrthdaye, & he made a feast vnto all his seruantes. And he lyfted vp the heed of the chefe butler & of the chefe baker amonge his seruantes. And restored the chefe butler vnto his butlerhypp agayne: which also reached the cup in to Pharaohs hand, but he hanged the chefe baker out as Joseph had interpreted vnto them. After that byd the chefe butler remembre Joseph, but forgot hym.

Pharaohs dreames are expounded by Joseph. He is made ruler ouer all Egypt. He hath two sonnes: Manasses and Ephraim. The death becometh in Egypt.

And it fortuned after .ii. yeres, that Pharaoh dreamed, & behold he stode by a ryuers syde, and there cam out of the ryuer seven goodly kyne and fatted, and fed in the meddowe, and seven other kyne came vp after them out of the ryuer, euylfaoured and leane & thred, and stode by the other kyne vpon the bynke of the ryuer. And the euylfaoured and leane & thred kyne did eat vp the seven wellfaoured and fat kyne: and Pharaoh awoke. And he slept agayne, and dreamed the seconde tyme. And beholde, seven eares of cozne grew vpon one stalk, ranke and good ly. And agayne, seven thynne eares blasted with the East wynde sprange vp after them: and the seven thynne eares deuoured the seven ranke & full eares. And Pharaoh awoke, and se, it was a dreame. And when the morning came, his spyrite was troubled. And he sent and called for all the sorclapers of Egypt, & all the wyle men therof, and Pharaoh tolde them his dreame: but there was none of them that coulde interpretat it vnto Pharaoh. Then spake the chefe butler vnto Pharaoh, sayinge: I do remembre my faultes this daye. Pharaoh bringe augre with his seruantes put in warde in the chefe stuardes house bothe me and the chefe baker. And we dreamed both of vs in one nyght, and eche mans dreame of sondrye interpretation. And there was with vs a yonge man, an hebrue boyne, seruaunt vnto the cheffest stwarde. To whom when we told them, he declared our dreames to vs accordyng to cyther of oure dreames. And as he declared them vnto vs, even so it came to passe. For he restored me to myne office agayne, and hanged hym. Pharaoh sent therfore, and called Joseph.

And they brought hym hastily out of prison. And he shaued hym self, and chaunged his rayment, and came into Pharaoh. And Pharaoh sayd vnto Joseph: I haue seene a dreame & nomā can interpretate it, and I haue heard saye of the, that asone as thou hearest a dreame, thou canst interpretate it. Joseph answered Pharaoh, sayinge: Not I, but God shall gyue Pharaoh an answer of peace.

And Pharaoh sayd vnto Joseph: in my dreame me thought I stode by a ryuers syde, and there came out of the ryuer .vii. fat & fatted, and wellfaoured kyne & fed in the meddowe. And then seven other kyne came vp after them, poore & very euylfaoured, & leane & thred: suche as I neuer sawe in all this land of Egypt, they were so euylfaoured. And the leane & euylfaoured kyne did eate vp the fat & fatted kyne. And when they had eaten the vp, a man could not perceyue that they had eate them: but they were still as euylfaoured, as they were at the begynnyng. And I awoke. And I saw agayne in my dream, and beholde, seven eares sprang out of one stalk, full and fayre, and seven other eares agayne, withered, thin, and blasted with the east wynde, sprang vp after them. And the thynne eares deuoured the seven good eares. And I haue tolde it vnto the sooth sayers, but there was no man that coulde tel what it meant. And Joseph answered Pharaoh both Pharaohs dreames are one. And God hard shewd Pharaon what he is aboute to do. The seuen good yere are seuen yeres: and the seuen good eares are seuen yeres also, and it is but one dreame. Lpheyple the seuen thyn and eynl fauoured hyn that came out after them, are seueres: and the seuen empye and blasted eares, shall be seuen yeres of hungre. This whiche I haue sayd vnto Pharaon, it is that god is about to do, and sheweth it vnto Pharaon.

Behold, there came seuen yere of great plenteousnesse thowout all the lande of Egypte. And agayne, there shal a yere after the seuen yeres of hungre. And also p plenteousnesse shal be forgotten in the lande of Egypte. And the hungre shal consume the lande: neither shal the plenteousnesse be knowen in the land, by reason of p hungre that shal come after, for it shal be exceeding great. And as concerninge p the dreame was doubled vnto Pharaon the second tyme, behold, the thyng is certaynly prepared of God, and God wyll shortly bypnyng it to passe.

Now therfore let Pharaon prouyde for a mī of understanding and wylsom, and let hym gner the land of Egypte. And let Pharaon do this also that he make officers ouer p land, and take vp the fyth parte of the lande of Egypte in the seuen plenteous yeres, and let them gather al p foode of these good yeres that come, and lay vp coine vnder the hand of Pharaon, that there may be foode in the cyties, and there let them hepe it: that there maye be founde in store in the lande, agaynst the seuen yeres of hungre whiche shall come in the lande of Egypte, that the land perishe not thowt the hungre.

E And the sayinge pleased Pharaon and all his seruantes. Then sayde Pharaon vnto his seruantes: where shall we fynde suche a man as this is, in whom is the spirit of God? And Pharaon sayd vnto Joseph: for as moch as God hath shewd the al this, there is no man of understanding or of wysdome lyke vnto the. Thou therfore shalt be ouer my house, and accordyng to thy word shall all my people be ruled, onely in the hynges state wyll I be aboue the. And Pharaon sayde agayne vnto Joseph: beholde, I haue set the ouer all the lande of Egypte. And he toke of his rpyng from his hand, and put it vpon Josephs hand, and arrayed hym in cloth of raynes, and put a golden chayne aboute his necke, & set hym vpon the best charet that he had, same one. And they cryed before him: Bowe the knee, and Pharaon made hym ruler ouer all the lande of Egypte. And Pharaon sayde vnto Joseph: I am Pharaon, without the shall no man lyfe vp his hande or foote in all the lande of Egypte.

I And he called Josephs name zaphnath Baena. And he gaue hym to wyfe Asnath the daughter of Putiphar priest of On. Then wente Joseph abode in the lande of Egypte. And he was thynnyng olde when he stode before Pharaon kyng of Egypte. And Joseph departyng from the presence of Pharaon, went thowout all the lande of Egypte. And in the seuen plenteous yeres they made theys and gathered vp all the foode of the seuen plenteous yeres whiche were in the lande of Egypte, and layed vp the same in the cyties. The foode of the seiden that grew round about euery cytie, layed be vp in p same. And Joseph layed vp coine in store, lyke vnto the lande of p se in multitude out of measure, vntyl he lest nombryng: for it was with out nombze. And vnto Joseph were boine two sonnes: before the yeres of hungre came whiche Asnath the daughter of Putiphar priest of On bare vnto hym. And Joseph called the name of the fyfthe sonne * Manasse, for God (sayde he) hath made me forget all my labour and all my fathers householde. The name of the seconde called be Ephraim, for God (sayde he) hath caused me to growe in the lande of my trouble.

And when the seuen yeres of plenteousnesse p was in p lande of Egypte were ended, then came the seuen yeres of * death accordyng as Joseph had sayde. And the death was in all landes: but in all the lande of Egypte was there yet foode. And when the lande of Egypte also bega to hunger, the people cryed to Pharaon for byed. And Pharaon sayde vnto all the Egyptians: go vnto Joseph, and what he sayd to you, that do. And the death was thowout all the lande. And Joseph opened all that was in the cyties, and solde vnto the Egyptians. For p hungre waxed soze in the lande of Egypte. And all countreyes came to Egypte to Joseph for to bye coine, because p the hungre was so soze in all landes.

The xlii. Chapter.

Josephs brethren came into Egypt to bye coine, and he knewe them, and tryed them. Asymon is put in prison the other returned to the father to let them go, but the father is loth to let them go, but at the last he granted it.

And Jacob seing p there was coine in Egypte, sayde vnto his sonnes: why gaze ye one vpon another? And he sayd: beholde, I haue herde that there is coine in Egypte. * Set you downe thether and bye vs coine fro thence, that we maye lyue and not dye. So wente Josephs ten brethren downe to bye coine of the Egyptians. But Beniamin Josephs brother wolde not Jacob sende with his other brethren, for he sayde, lest some mysfortune happen hym. And the sonnes of Israel came to bye coine amonge other that came, for there was death in the land of canaan. And Joseph was gouerner in p lande and solde to all the people of the lande. And his brethren came, and fell flat on the grounde before hym. When Joseph sawe his brethren, he knewe them: and made him selfe straunge vnto them, and spake roughlye vnto them, sayinge: Whence come ye? They answered: out of p land of Canaan, to bye bycayle. And Joseph knewe his brethren, but they knewe not hym.

And Joseph remembred his dreames which he dreamed of them, and sayde vnto them: ye are spyes, and to se where the land is weak is your commynge. And they sayde vnto hym: naye my lord, but to bye bycayle the seruantes are com. We are all one mans sonnes, and meane truly, and the seruantes are no spyes. And he sayde vnto them agayne: naye, but euen to se where p land is weak, is your commynge. And they sayde sayde: we thy seruantes are twelue brethren, the sonnes of one man in the lande of Chanaan.

And behold, the pongest is this daye with oure father, and one woman woteth where he is. And Joseph sayde vnto them, that is it that I spake vnto you, saying: ye are spyes. herby ye shall be proued. By the lyfe of Pharao, ye shall not go hence, except your pongest brother come hyther.
Sende out one of you which maye fet your bzo ther, and ye shall be kepte in prysen, that your wordes maye be proued, whether there be anye trathe in you: or els by the lyfe of Pharao ye are but spyes. And he put them in wardes thre dayes.

E And Joseph sayd vnto them the thryde daye:
This do and lyue, for I feare God. If ye meane no hurte, let one of your brethren be bounde in the house of your prysen, and go ye and brynge the necessarye foode vnto your householdes, but brynge your pongest brother vnto me: that your wordes maye be tryed, and that ye dye not. And they dyd so. And one sayde to another: we haue verely synned agaynst oure brother, in that we sawe the anguish of his soule when he besought vs, and we wolde not heare hym: and therfore is this trouble come vpon vs. And Ruben answered them, saying: sayde I not vnto you that ye shoulde not synne agaynst the ladde: and ye wolde not heare. And se his bloude is requyred.

D They were not aware that Joseph vnderstode them, for he spake vnto them by an interpreter.
And he turned from them and wepte, and turned to them agayne and comined with them, & toke out Simeon from amonge them, & bounde hym before they eyes, and Joseph commaunded to fyll thyr sackes with corne, and to put euery mans money in his sacke, and to gyue them by-tyle to spende by the waye. And thus dyd he vnto them. And they laded they asses with the corne, and departed thence.

E And as one of them opened his sacke for to gyue his asse prouandie in fenne, he espyed his money: for it was in his sackes mouth. And he sayde vnto his brethren: my money is restored me agayne. For lo, it is euen in my sacke. And they berre sayled them, & they were astonnyed, and sayd one to another: why hath God dealt thus with vs? And they came vnto Jacob they father vnto the lande of Chanaan, and tolde hym all that had happened them, saying: The man, euen the lord of y lande spake roughly to vs and toke vs for spyes of the countrie. And we sayd vnto hym: we meane truly, and are no spyes. We be twelue brethren, and sonnes of our father, one is awaye, and the yon-gest is this daye with our father in the lande of Chanaan. And the lord of the countrey sayd a-gayne vnto vs: herby shall I knowe if ye meane truly: leaue one of your brethren here with me, and take fode necessarye for your householdes and get you awaye, and brynge your pongest brother vnto me, that I maye knowe if ye are no spyes, but meane trulye: So wyll I deliuer you your brother, and ye shall occupie in the lande.

E And it fortuned as they emptied they sackes, beholde, euery manes bundel of money was in his sacke. And when both they and they father sawe the bundels of money, they were afrayed:

And Jacob they father sayde vnto them: We haue ye robbed of my chyldren: Joseph is awaye and Simeon is awaye, and ye take Ben Jamin awaye: All these thynges are agaynst me. Ruben sayd vnto his father: Slay my two sonnes if I brynge hym not to the agayne. He yuert him to my hande, & I wyll brynge hym to the agayne.
And he sayde: my sonne shall not go downe with you. For his brother is ded, and he is left alone.
If some mysfortune happen vnto hym by the waye whiche ye go, ye shall brynge my graue herd with sorowe vnto the graue.

The xliii. Chapter.

When Ben Jamin was brought, they returned to gypt. Simeon is deliuered out of prysen. Joseph goeth to the and wept. They feast together.

And the dertth was great in y lande.
And it fortuned when they had eaten vp y corne which they brought out of the lande of Egypt, they father sayde vnto them: go agayne, and bye vs a lytle foode. Juda answered hym, & sayde: the man byd testyfy vnto vs, sayinge, I loke that ye se not my face except your brother be with you. If thou wyll sende our brother w vs, we wyll go downe, and by the foode. But if thou wyll not sende hym, we wyll not goo downe: for the man sayde vnto vs: loke that ye se not my face, except your brother be with you.
And Israel sayde: wherfore delist ye so cruelly w me, as to tell the man that ye had yet a brother?
B They answered: The mā asked vs straitlye of our kindred saying: is your father yet aliue? pane ye not yet an other brother? And we tolde hym accoordinge to these wordes. Coude we knowe that he wolde saye: brynge your brother downe with you? Then sayd Juda vnto Israel his father: Sende the lad with me, that we maye ryse and go, and that we may lyue and not dye: both we & thou, and also our chyldren. I wyll be sure-tye for hym, of myne handes shall thou requyre hym. If I brynge hym not to the agayne, and set hym before thyne eyes, & then leter me beate the blame for euer. Truly except we had made this taryng, by this, we had bene there twyse, and come agayne. And they father Israel sayd vnto them: If it must nedes be so now: tha do thus.
Take of the best frutes of the lande in your vessels, and brynge the man a present, a curtesye of bawling, & a curtesie of hony, spyes & myrr, nuttres and almondes. And take double money in your hande. And the money y was brought agayne in your sackes, take it agayne with you lest peraduenture it was som ouersyght.

D Take also your brother with you, and aryse, and go agayne to the man. And God almighty gyue you merce in the sight of the man, that he maye deliuer you your other brother, and this Ben Jamin, and I shall be robbed of my chyld, as I haue bene. Thus toke they the present and twyse so moche more money in they hande with Ben Jamin: and rose up, went downe to Egypt and stode before Joseph. When Joseph sawe Ben Jamin with them, he sayde to the ruler of his house: brynge these men home and lyeve and make make redye, for the men shall dyne with me at noone. And the man dyd as Joseph hadde, and brought them vnto Josephs house. When the men were brought into Josephs house, they were afrayed, and sayde: because of the moneye that came in our saches mouthes at the fyfte tyme are we brought in, that he maye pyche a quarel with vs, and to laye some thyng to our charge and to bring vs in bondage and our asses also. Therefore came they to the man that was the ruler ouer Josephs house, and communed with him at the doore of the house, and sayde.

E D hy, we came downe byther at the fyfte tyme to bye foode: and as we came to an tyme it happened & we opened our saches, and beholde, eury mans money was in his sache with full weight. And we haue brought it agayne in our hande, and other moneye haue we brought also in our handes to bye foode, but we can not tell who put our money in our saches. And he sayd: peace be vnto you, feare not: yowre God and the God of yowre father hath gyuen you that treasure in yowre saches, I had your moneye. And he brought Symeon out to them, and the man led them to Josephs house, and gaue them water to wash theyr feet, and gaue theyr asses poulder. And they made redye theyr present agaynst Joseph came at none, for they bearde saye that they shulde cate bzeed there. When Joseph came home, they brought the presente into the house to hym which was in theyr handes, and fell flat on the grounde before hym. And he welcomed them curteously saying: is your father that olde man which ye tolde me of in good health? and is he yet aloue? they answered: thy seruant our father is in good helth, and is yet aloue. And they bowed downe theyr heedes, & made obeysaunce.

And he lyftynge vp his eyes, behelde his brother Ben Jamin his mothers sonne, and sayde: * is this your yonger brother, of whom ye sayd vnto me? And he sayde: God be mercifull vnto the my sonne. And Joseph made hast for his herte dyd melle vpon his brother, and soughte where to wepe and entred into his chambze, and wepte there. And he washed his face, and came out, and refrayned hym selfe, and sayd: set bzeed on the table. And they prepared for hym by hym selfe and for them by themselves, & for the Egyptians which dyd cate with hym by themselves, because the Egyptians maye not eat bzeed with the Hebrewes, for that is an abhominacion vnto the Egyptians. And they satte before hym the eldest accordynge vnto the age, and the yongest accordynge vnto his youth. And the men mannapled amonge them selues. And they brought rewardes vnto them from before him: But Ben Jamins part was five tymes so much as any of theyr. And they dynking were dyonke to him.

The xliii. Chapter.

A N d he commaunded the ruler of his house saying: fill the mens saches wth foode, as much as they can carry, & put eury mans money in his sache mouth, & put my silver cup in the saches mouth of the yongest, & his coine money also. And he did accordyng to the woide p Joseph had sayd. And in the moynynge a sone as it was light the men were let go, they & their asses. And wher they were out of the cite & not yet farre awaye, Joseph sayde vnto the ruler of his house: vp & folow after the men, and wher I dost ouertake them, I shalte saye vnto them: wherfore haue ye rewarded euil for good? is that not the cup in the which my lord dyynketh, and for the which he prophesyeth ye haue euill done & ye haue done. And when he ouertoke them, he sayde these same woordes vnto them. And they answered hym: wherfore sayest my lord suche woordes? God forbyd that thy seruantes shoulde do so: behold, the money which we found in our saches mouthes, we brought agayne to the out of the lande of Chanaan: howe then shoulde we steale out of thy lordes house, eyther silver, or golde, with whome soener of thy seruantes it be founde let hym dye, and we also will be my lordes bondemen. And he sayde: Howe also let it be accordyng vnto your woordes: he to whom it is founde, shalbe my seruant, and ye shall be harmelesse. And at ones eury man toke downe his sache to the grounde, and eury man opened his sache. And he searched, and beganne at the eldest and left at the yongest. And the cup was founde in Ben Jamins sache. Then they rente theyr clothes, and laded eurye man his ass, & went agayne vnto the cite. And Juba and his brethren came to Josephs house, for he was yet there, and they fell before hym on the grounde. And Joseph sayd vnto them: what dede is this which ye haue done? wote ye not & siche a man as I can prophesy? Then sayde Juba: what shal we say vnto my lord? what shal we speake or what excuse can we make? God hath founde out the wychednesse of thy seruantes. Behold both we and he with whom the cuppe is founde are my lordes seruantes. And he answered, God forbyd that I shulde do so, but the man to whom the cup is founde, he shalbe my seruant. And go ye in peace vnto your father.

Then Juba wnt vnto him and sayd: O my lord, let thy seruant speake a woide in my lordes eares, and be not wroth with thy seruant, for thou arte euen as Pharno. My lord asked his seruant, saying: haue ye a father or a brother. And we answered my lord: we haue a father that is olde, and a younge lad which he begat in his age: and the brother of the sayde lad is dead, and he is all that is left of that mother. And his father loueth hym. And thou saydest vnto thy seruantes: bringe hym vnto me, that I maye set myne eye vpon hym. And we answered my lord, & the lad coulde not go from his father, for yf he shoulde leaue his father, he were but dead. Then saydest thou vnto thy seruantes: except your yonger brother come with you, loke that ye le my face nomore. And when we came vnto thy seruant our father, we shewed hym what my lord had sayde: And our father sayde vnto vs: Go agayne, and bye vs a lytle foode. And we answered: we can not go downe.

Answerthe.

Nevertheless: of oure yongest brother go wyth vs, then wyll we go downe, for we maye not se the mannes face, excepte our yongest brother be wyth vs. And thy seruauit our father sayd vnto vs: ye knowe that my wyfe bare me two sonnes. And the one wente out from me, and I said of a surety he is tozme in pcees, and I sawe him not sence. And ye take this also awaye from me. If some mysfortune happen vpon hym, * ye shal brynge my graye head in sorowe vnto my graue.

Nowe therfore, when I come to thy seruauit my father, and the lad be not wyth vs, (seynge þy hys lyfe hageth by the laddes lyfe) then shall it come to passe, that as soone as he seeth that the lad is not come, he wyll dye. So shal we thy seruantes bryng the gray hedde of thy seruauit our father wyth sorowe vnto the graue. For I thy seruauit became surte for the ladde before my father and sayde: * yf I brynge hym not vnto the agayne, I wyll beare the blame vnto my father all my lyfe longe. Nowe therfore let me thy seruauit byde here for the lad, and be my lordes bondman: and let the lad go vp with his brethren. For how can I go vp to my father, if the lad be not wyth me? I wolde se the wretchednes that shal come on my father.

¶ The. xlv. Chapter.

Joseph coulde no longer refrayne before all them that stode by hym. Wherefore he cryed: bryngge forth all the men from me. And there remayned no man with hym whyle Joseph vntered him selfe vnto his brethren. And he wept alowde, so that the Egyptians, and the house of Pharaos herde it. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren: I am Joseph, doth my father yet lyue? And his brethren coulde not answere hym, they were so abashed at his pcesence. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren: come nere to me, & they came nere. And he sayde: * I am Joseph your brother * whome ye solde into Egypte. Nowe therfore be not grieved therwyth, neyther let it seme a cruell thyng in youre eyes, that ye solde me hyther. For God byd sende me before you to saue lyfe. For this is the seconde yere of death in the lande, and yue mo are beynde in whych there shall neyther be earunge nor harvest.

Wherefore God sente me before you to make prouision, that ye myghte continue in the earth and to saue your lyues by a great deliuerance. So now it was not you that sente me hyther, but God: whych hath made me a father vnto Pharaos: and Lord of all hys house, and ruler thowoe out all the lande of Egypte. Haste you and goo vp to my father and tell hym. Thys sayeth thy sonne Joseph: God hath made me Lord of all Egypte. Come downe therfore vnto me, tarpe not. And thou shalt dwell in the lande of Golan: and byde by me, thou and thy chyldren, and thy chyldrens chyldren: thy shepe and thy beastes, and all that thou hast. And there wyll I make prouyson for the, for there remayne yet fyue yeres of derthe, lest thou and thy household and all that thou hast come to pouertye. And beholde, your eyes dose, and the eyes also of my brother Ben Jamin: that myne owne mouth speaketh to you. Therfore tell my father of all my honoure in Egypte, and of all that ye haue sene, and make haste, and bryng my father hyther. And he fell on hys brother Bens Jamins necke and wepte, and Ben Jamin wept on hys necke. Whereouer he kyssed all hys brethren and wepte vpon them. And after that hys brethren talked wyth hym. And the tydynge came vnto Pharaos house, so that they said Josephs brethren are come, and it pleased Pharaos well and all hys seruantes.

And Pharaos spake vnto Joseph: saye vnto thy brethren, thys doye: lade your beastes and get you hence, vnto the lande of Canaan. Take your father, and your householdes: and come vnto me, and I wyll geue you the good of the land of Egypte, and ye shal eate of the fat of the lande. And thou also shalt commaunde them. Thys doye: take charrettes wyth you out of the lande of Egypte, for your chyldren and for your wyues: and bryng your father, and come. Also regard not your stuffe, for the good of all lande of Egypte is yours.

And the chyldren of Israel dyd euen so. And Joseph gaue them charrettes accordyng to the commaundemente of Pharaos, and gaue them vytaile also to speide by the waye. And he gaue vnto eche of them chaunge of rayment: But vnto Ben Jamin he gaue thre hundred peces of syluer, and fyue chaunge of rayment. And vnto hys father he sent after ysame maner ten asses laden wyth good out of Egypte, and ten she asses laden wyth corne, bread and meate: for his father by the waye. So sente he hys brethren a way to departe. And he sayde vnto them: se that ye fall not out by the waye.

They departed therfore from Egypte, and came into the lande of Canaan vnto Jacob theyr father, and tolde hym sayinge: Joseph is yet a lyue and is gouerner ouer all the lande of Egypt. And Jacobs herte wauered: for he beleued them not. And they tolde hym all the wordes of Joseph whych he had sayde vnto them. And when he sawe the charrettes, whych Joseph had sent to carpe hym, the spete of Jacob theyr father reuiued. And Israel sayde: I haue ynowgh that Joseph my sonne is yet a lyue: I wyll go & se hym yet that I dye.

Israel toke hys iourneye wyth all that he had, and came to Beers Deba and offered offeringes vnto the God of hys father Israhel. And god spake vnto Israel in a vlyon by nyghte, sayinge: Jacob, Jacob. And he answered: here am I. And he sayde, I am God, the God of thy father, feare not to go downe into Egypt. For I wyll there make of the a great people. I wyll go downe wyth the into Egypte, and I wyll also byngre & agayne, and Joseph shall put his hande vpon thyne eyes. And Jacob rose vp fro Beer Sheba. And 7 sonnes of Israel caried Jacob they: father, and they: chyldren, and they: wyues in the charrettes whiche Pharaos hadde sente to carpe hym. And they toke they: cattel & the goodes whiche they had gotten in the lande of Canaan, and came into Egypt: both Jacob and all his seide wyth hym, his sonnes and his sonnes sonnes wyth hym, his daughters and his sonnes daughters, and all his seide brought he wyth hym into Egypt. These are the names of the chyldre of Israel whiche came into Egypt both Jacob & his sonnes: * Ruben, Jacobs first sonne. The chyldren of Ruben: Hanoch, & Palu, Hezon and Chaimi. The chyldren of Simeon: Jemuell, Jamin, Obad, Jacob, and Jozar, and Saul the sonne of a Cananysh woman.

The chyldren of * Levi, Gerson, Kahath & Merari. The chyldren of * Juda: Er, and Onan, Sela, and Pharez, and Zelah: But Er, & Onan dyed in the lande of Canaan. The chyldren of Pharez also were Hezon and Hamul. The chyldren of * Issachar: Thola, Phua, Job, & Sumron. The chyldren of Zabulon: Sered, Elon, and Jaheleel. These be the chyldre of Lea, whiche she bare vnto Jacob, in Mesopotamia, w the daughter of Dina. All 7 soules of his sonnes & daughters, make they: 27 & thre. The chyldren of Gad, Ziphion and Haggi, Sum, and Ezyon, Eri, and Arodi, and Arel. The chyldren of * Aser: Jemina, and Jesua, Jesui, and Dina, & Serah they: syster. And the chyldren of Dina: Heber & Dalchiel. These are the chyldren of Dilypha, whome Laba gaue to Lea his daughter. And these she bare vnto Jacob euen 701 soules. The chyldren of Rachel Jacobs wyfe: Joseph, & Ben Jamin.

And vnto Joseph in y lade of Egypt were bozne Manasses, & Ephraim, whiche * Asnath, y daughter of Puthiphar prest of On bare vnto him. The chyldren of * Ben Jamin, Sela, Becher, Aziel, Sera, Raema n, Ebi, and Ros, Dupim Dupim, & Ard. These are the chyldren of Rachel which she bare vnto Jacob 711 soules altogether. The chyldren of Dan, Husim. The chyldre of Reuben: Jahzeel, Sum, Jezre, & Sillem.

These are the sonnes of Bilha, which Laba gaue vnto Rachel his daughter, & she bare these vnto Jacob, all together. 711 soules. And so the 7 soules that came to Jacob into Egypt whiche came out of his wyues (besyde Jacobs sonnes wyues) were altogether. 711 soules. And 7 sonnes of Joseph, whiche were bozne him in Egypt were two soules: So 7 al the soules of the house of Jacob whiche came into Egypt, are. 111. And he sent Juda before hym vnto Joseph, to direct his face vnto Gosan, & they came into y lande of Gosan. And Joseph made redy his chariet & went vp to mete Israel his father vnto Gosan and presented hym selfe vnto hym, & fell on his necke, and wepte vpon his necke a good while. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: Now am I content to dye, in somuch as I haue sene the and he cause thou arte yet aloue. And Joseph sayde vnto his brethren, & vnto his fathers house: I wyl go vp and shewe Pharaos, and tell hym. My brethren and my fathers house, whiche were in the lande of Canaan are come vnto me, and they are shepherdes (for they were men of cattel) & they haue brought they: shepe and they: oxen, and all that they haue. And yf it chaunce that Pharaos cal pon, and aske you, what your occupation is, ye shal answer, thy seruantes haue bene men occupied aboute cattel, from our chyldhode vnto this tyme we & our father, that ye may dwell in the lande of Gosan. For euerie shepe herper is an abhominacion vnto the Egyptians.

The xlvii Chapter.

Jacob cometh to Egypt, and vnto hym is shewen the lande of Gosan. He maketh his sonnes to shewe to Pharaos.

Joseph came therfore & told Pharaos & sayde: my father and my brethren they: shepe and they: oxen, and all that they haue, are come out of the lande of Canaan, and beholde: they are in the lande of Gosan. And Joseph toke of the hymnost of his brethren: euen 701 men, and presented them vnto Pharaos. And Pharaos sayde vnto his brethren: What is your occupation? And they answered Pharaos: shepherdes are thy seruantes, both we and also our father. They sayd moreover vnto Pharaos: for to y lade of Egypt are we come, for thy seruantes haue no pasture for they: shepe, so loze is the famyment in the lande of Canaan. Now therfore let thy seruantes dwell in the lande of Gosan.

And Pharaos sayde vnto Joseph: thy father & thy brethren are come vnto the. The lade of Egypt is before the: In the best place of the lade make both thy father & thy brethren dwell: euen in the lande of Gosan let them dwell. Moreover yf thou knowest any man of acuite amonge the make them rulers ouer my cattel. And Joseph brought in Jacob his father, and set him before Pharaos. And Jacob blessed Pharaos.

And Pharaos said vnto Jacob: how olde art thou? And Jacob sayde vnto Pharaos: the dayes of my pilgrimage are an hundred and thretye yeres. Fewe and euell haue the dayes of my lyfe bene, and haue not attayned vnto y yeres of the lyfe of my fathers, in the dayes of they: pilgrimage. And Jacob blessed Pharaos and went out from hym. And Joseph prepared dwellinges for his father and his brethren, & gaue them possessions in the lande of Egypt, in the best of the lande: euen in the lande of Ramesses, as Pharaos had commaunded. And Joseph made penyson for his father, his brethren: and all his fathers house with bread, euen as yonge chyldren are fedde. There was no breade in all the lande, for the deth was exceedinge loze: so that the lande of Egypt and the lande of Canaan, were famished by the reason of the dearth. And Joseph broughte together all the money that was founde in the lande of Egypt, and of Canaan, for the coine whiche they bought, and he layde vnto the money in Pharaos house. When money fayled in the lade of Egypt, & of Canaan all the Egyptians came vnto Joseph and sayde: gyue vs breade: wherfore sufferest thou vs to dye bpe before the when our money is spent: Then sayde Joseph: buye your catell, and I will geue you for your catell, yf ye be without money. And they brought their catell vnto Joseph. And Joseph gaue them breade for horses & shepe and oxen, & asses, and fed them w breade, for all they catell that pere. But whē y pere was ended, they came vnto hym the next pere, & sayde vnto hym we wyl not hyde it frome my lord: howe that our money is spent, my lord also had oure catell and beastes, nethe is there ought left in the syght of my lord, but euen our bodies and our landes. Wherefore lettest y vs bpe before thyn eyes, & the lande to go to nought: bpe vs and our landes for breade: and both we & our landes wyl be bounde to Pharao. Only geue vs sede, & we maye lyue and not bpe, & that the lande gonot to wast. And so Joseph bought al y lāde of Egypt for Pharao. For the Egypciāns solde euery man his lande because the derty was soze vpon them and so the lande became Pharaos. And he appoynted the people vnto cyties, from one syde of Egypt vnto the other: onely the lande of the Priestes bought he not. For the priestes had an obynauce of Pharao, & they shoulde eate that which was appointed vnto them: whych Pharao had geuen the wherfore they solde not their landes. Then Joseph sayde vnto the folke: beholde I haue bought you this daye & your lande for Pharao. Take there breade and sede & sowe the lande. And of the increase, ye shall geue the fyfte parte vnto Pharao, and foure partes shal be your owne, for the sede of y felde and for you, and them of your households, and for your chyldren to eate. And they answered: Thou hast saued our lyues. Let vs fynde grace in the syght of my lord, and we wyl be Pharaos seruantes. And Joseph made it a lawe ouer the lande of Egypt vnto this daye: that Pharao shulde haue the fyfte parte, excepte the lande of the Priestes only, whych was not Pharaos.

And Israel dwelte in Egypt: euen in the cōtre of Golan. And they had theyr possessions therin, and grewe and multiplied exceedingly. Moreover, Jacob lyued in the lande of Egypt seuentene yeres, so that the whole age of Jacob was an hundred and xliiij. yere. Whē the tyme drew nye that Israel must bpe, he sente for his sonne Joseph, and sayde vnto hym: Yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, ob, put thy hāde now vnder my thigh, and deale mercifully & truly with me, that y burie me not in Egypt, but I wyl ly with my fathers, & thou shalt carie me out of Egypt, & burie me in theyr burial. And he answered: I wyl do as y hast sayde. And he sayde: Swere vnto me, and he sware vnto hym. And Israel waschipped toward the beds head.

¶ The. xlviii. Chapter:

¶ Jacob spak to yoseph, he sayed Ephraim and manasse for his sonnes, and blessed them.

¶ After these bedes it happened, that a messenger sayde vnto Joseph: thy father is sicke. And he toke with him his two sonnes, Manasse and Ephraim. Then was it said vnto Jacob, beholde: thy sonne Joseph cometh vnto the. And Israel toke his strength vnto him and sat vpon the bed, and Jacob sayd vnto Joseph: God almyghty appered vnto me at Lūs in the lande of Canaan, and blessed me and sayd vnto me: beholde, I wyl make the growe, & wyl multiply the, and wyl make a grate & nombre of people of the, and wyl geue this lande vnto thy sede after the to an euerlastyng possession. And nowe thy two sonnes Manasse & Ephraim whych were borne vnto the in the lāde of Egypt, before I came to y into Egypt, are myne euen as Ruben and Simeon are myne. And the chyldren which y hast gotten after them, shal be thyn owne, and shal be called after the names of theyr brethren in theyr enheritaunce. And when I came from Mesopotamia, Rachel dyed vpon y hāde in flāde of Canaan, by y waye when there was but a felde breadd to come vnto Ephraim. And I buried her there in the way to Ephraim. The same is Bethlehem. And Israel behelde Josephs sonnes and sayde: what are these? Joseph sayde vnto his father, they are my sonnes which God hath geue me here. And he sayd ob, bringe them to me & let me blesse them. And the eyes of Israel were dym for age, so that he coulde not well se. And he brought them to him and he kyssed them and embraced them. And Israel sayde vnto Joseph: I had not thoughte to haue sene thy face, and yet lo, God hath shewed it me, and also thy sede, and Joseph toke them a waye from his lap, & waschipped on the ground before hym. Then toke Joseph the birth Ephraim w his ryght hāde toward Israels left hande and Manasse w his left hāde, toward Israels ryght hāde, & brought them vnto hym. And Israel stretched out his ryght hande, & layde it on Ephraims hed, which was the yonger, & his left hande vpon Manasses head, guppyng his hādes wylfey for Manasse was y elder. And he blessed Joseph & sayd: God before whō my fathers Abraham and Isahac dyd walke. God whyche hath sed me al my lyfe lōge vnto this day, & the angel whyche hath deliuered me from all euell, blesse the laddes, & let my name be named in the, and the name of my fathers Abraham & Isahac and y they may grow into a multitude in y myddes of the earth. When Joseph saw y his father layd his ryght hāde vpon y head of Ephraim, it displeyd him. And he lifted vp his fathers hāde to haue remoued it fro Ephraims hed vnto Manasses hed: & Joseph said vnto his father: not so my father for this is y eldest. But thy right hāde vpon his hed. And his father wold not, but said

younger brother shalbe greater then he, and his seed shalbe full of people. And he blessed them daye and sayde: In the, let Israel blesse and say God make the as Ephraim before Manasses.
And Israel sayd vnto Joseph: beholde, I dye.
And God shalbe with you & bringe you againe vnto lande of your fathers. Moreover, I haue giuen vnto the, a portion of * lande aboute thy brethre, wher I gat out of the hande of the A-mozite in my swerde, and in my bowe.

The xlii. Chapter.

¶ Jacob blessed all his othe sonnes, and serued them what is to come. He appointed where he wold be buried and dyed.

And Jacob called for his sonnes, & sayd: come together, that I maye tel you what shall happen you in last dayes. Gather you together, & heare ye sonnes of Jacob, herke vnto Israel your father. Ruben myne eldest sonne, thou art my might & the begynnyng of my strength & noblenesse of my dignitie, & the noblenesse of power. Unstable as water. Thou shalt not be the cheffest, because thou wentest vp to thy fathers bed. Euen then dydest thou defyle it, and it was nomore my couche.

Thy brethren Simeon and Levi, cruell instrumentes in theyr habitacions. Into theyr secretes come not my soule, vnto theyr congrega-cion be my honoure not coupled: for in theyr wrath they slewe a mā, and in theyr selfe wyl they dygged downe a wall. Cursed be theyr wrath, for it was shamelesse, & theyr fearcenes, for it was cruell. I wyl denye them in Jacob, and scatter them in Israel.

Juda thou arte he whome thy brethren shal praple. Thy hande shalbe in the necke of thyne enemies. thy fathers chyldren shall stoupe before the. Juda is a Lyons whelp. From thy spyle my sonne thou art come on hys. he layd hys hande on the couche of hym selfe as a Lyon, & as a lyonelle. Who wyl steere him by? The sleeper shal not departe from Juda, and a lawgiver from betweene hys feet, vntyl Shilo come. And vnto hym shal the gatheringe of the people be.
he shal bynde hys sole vnto the bynde, and hys alles coltre vnto the byaunche. he washed hys garment in wyne, and hys mantel in the bloude of grapes. hys eyes are redder then wyne, and his teeth whiter then mylke. * zabolon shal dwel besyde the haven of the see, and nye the haven of Asyppes. his border shalbe vnto Sidon.

Isachar a stronge ass: couchyng him downe betwene two burdens, and sawe that rest was good, and the lande that it was pleasant, and bowed hys shoulder to beare, and became a ser-uaunt vnto tribute. * Dan shal iudge hys people and the trybes of Israel, Dan shalbe a Serpent in the waye, an adder in the path, bytyng no host of men shall overcome hym, and he shal overcome at the last. Of Aser: his byead shalbe fat, and he shall geue pleasures for a hyngre.

Rephraim is a swifte hynde, geuyng goodly woordes. That flozthyng chyld Joseph, that plenteous chyld by the wel lyde, the daughters ranne vpon the wal. They haue prouoked him, and shot him through with dartes. The archers haue enuyed hym: But his bowe abode fast, and the armes of his handes were made stronge, by the handes of the myghty God of Jacob. Out of hym shall come an herdsman, a stone in Israel from thy fathers God whych hath helped the,
and wyth the almyghty whych hath blessed the wyth blesynges from heauen above, wyth blesynges of the depe that lyeth vnder, and wyth blesynges of the brest, and of the wombe. The blesynges of thy father were stronger then the blesyng of myne elders, vnto the vrmost of hylls of the world, and they shalbe on the head of Joseph, and on the toppe of the heade of hym that was separte from hys brethren. Ben Jamin shall rauyn as a wolfe. In the moonyng he shall deuoure the praye, and at nyght he shal denye the spyle. All these are the twelue trybes of Israel, and thus theyr father spake vnto them and blessed them, euery one of them blessed he wyth a seueral blesyng. And he charged the and sayd vnto them: When I shalbe gathered vnto my * people, burye me wyth my fathers, in the caue that is in the feld of Ephron & herhite in the double caue that is in the feld by the costyre of Hamre in the lande of Canaan. Whych felde Abraham bought of Ephron the herhite for a possession to bury in, where as were bury-ed Abraham and Sara his wife. And where as were buried Isachar and Rebecca his wife. And there I buried Lea. The felde and the caue that is therein, was bought of the chyldren of herh.

And when Jacob had commaunded all that he wold vnto his sonnes, he plucked vp hys feet vnto the bed and dyed, and was * put vnto hys people. And Joseph fell vpon hys fathers face and wepte vpon hym, and kyssed hym.

The l. Chapter.

¶ Jacob is buried, Joseph assigned hys brethren the interyt that they shold to hym. And he dyed.

And Joseph comaunded his seruates & phelicians, to endawme his father, & the phelicians endawmed Israel fortye dayes longe, for so longe doth & endawmyng last, & the Egipcians bewailed him. lxx. dayes. And whē the dayes of wepyng were ended, Joseph spake vnto phouse of Pharaon, say-yng: Pl I haue soude fauour in your eyes, speak in the eares of Pharaon, sayyng: my father made me swere and sayde: lo, I dye, * burye me in my grane, wher I haue made me in f lande of Canaan. Nowe therfore let me go & bury my father and then wyll I come agayne. And Pharaon sayde: goo and burye thy father, accordyng as he made the to sweare. And Joseph went vp to burye hys father, and with him went all the ser-uautes of Pharaon & were the elders of his house & al f elders of f lande of Egypte, & al the house of Joseph, and hys brethren, & hys fathers house: only

only they: chylidren, and they: shepe, and they: cattell leste they bebynde in the lande of Golan. And there went wpyth him also chareys & horsemen: and it was an exceedynge great compaigne. And they came to the corne floze of Atad which is beyonde Jozdane, & there they made a greate and exceedynge soze lamentacion. And he mourned for hys father scue dayes. And when the inhabytters of the lande (even the Cananites) saw the mourynge in the corne floze of Atad, they sayd: this is a great mourynge vnto the Egyptians: Wherefore the name of the place is called the mourynge of the Egyptians, and it is beyonde Jozdane: and hys sonnes byd vnto hym accordynge as he had commaunded them. For hys sonnes carped hym into the lande of Canaan, & buryed hym in the double caue of the felde whych caue Abrahame bought and the felde also, to be a place to burye in, of Ephron the hebyte before Hamre. And Joseph returned vnto Egypte agayne, he and hys brydren: and all that wente wpyth hym to burye hys father: allone as he had buryed hym.

And when Josephs brydren sawe that they: father was deade, they layde: Joseph myghte fortune to hate vs and rewarde vs a payne all the euell which we byd vnto hym. And they byd a comendement vnto Joseph, saying: Thy father charged vs before his death, saying: Thus wyll I say vnto Joseph: foryeue the trespase of thy brydren, & they: synne: for they rewarded the euell. And nowe we pray the: foryeue the trespase of the seruautes of thy fathers God. And Joseph wepte, when they spake vnto hym.

For hys brydren came vnto hym, and fell flatte before his face saying: behold, we be thy seruautes. To whome Joseph sayde: feare not. Am I God? Ye thought euell agaynst me: but God turned it vnto good, to bringe to passe as it is this daye, and to saue much people alque feare not therfaze. Nowe I wyll naye you, and your chylidren, and be comforted them, and spake kyndly vnto them.

Joseph dwelt in Egypte, he and his fathers house, and Joseph lyued an hundred and ten yere. And Joseph sawe Ephraims chylidren, even vnto the thyrde generacion. And vnto Machir the sonne of Manasses were chylidren borne, on Josephs knees. And Joseph sayd vnto hys brydren: I dye. And God wyll surely vylet you, and bringe you out of this lande, vnto the lade whych he swore vnto Abraham, Isahac, and Jacob. And Joseph toke an oth of the chylidren of Israel, saying: God wyll not fayle but vylet you, and ye shall carry my bones hence.

And so Joseph dyed, when he was an hundred & ten yere olde. And they embawmed hym wpyth spycer, puttynge hym in a chest in Egypt.

Moses called in the hebrue: Ellech Sedemoch. And in the Latyn, Exodus.

The fyrst Chapter.

The chylidren of Jacob are named. The newe lawe is appoynted them. The acte of the goode wyues.

These are the names of the chylidren of Israel, whych came to Egypt wpyth Jacob euerie man came wpyth hys housholde: Ruben, Simeon, Leui, and Iuda, Isachar & Ben-Jamin, Dan, Asephali, Gad, & Aser. All the soules that came out of the loynes of Jacob were lxx. But Joseph was in Egypte already. And Joseph dyed and all hys brydren, and all the generacion, and the chylidren of Israel grewe, encreased, multiplied, and wared exceedingly: and the lande was full of them.

But there rose vp a newe kynge in Egypte, whych knewe not Joseph. And he sayd vnto hys folke: beholde, the people of the chylidren of Israel are greater and myghterer the we. Come on, let vs play wpyth them, lest they multiply, and lest it happen, that if there chaunce any warre: they loyne them selues vnto our enemyes, and fygnt agaynst vs, & so get them out of the lande. Therfore byd they let taskemasters ouer them, to kepe them vnder wpyth burdens. And they buylt vnto Pharaos treasurie cyties: Pithon and Rameses. But the more they vered them, the more they multiplied & grewe so that they abhorred the chylidren of Israel. And the Egyptians helde the chylidren of Israel in bondage wpythout mercede. Therfore was they: lyfe bytter vnto them in that cruell bondage, in clay and bycke, and al maner of woike in the feldes. For al they: bondage whych they serued them, was full of tyranny.

And the kynge of Egypt sayd vnto the mydwyues of the hebrues women, of whych the name was Sephora and the other Phua, wyle ye do the office of a mydwyfe to the woman of hebrues & se in the byrth tyme that it is a boye ye shal hil it. But if it be a daughter, it shal lye forwpythstandyng. The mydwyues feared God, & byd not as the kynge of Egypte comaunded them but saued the men chylidren. And the kynge of Egypt called for the mydwyues, & sayde vnto the whych haue ye delt on this maner, & haue saued the men chylidren? And the mydwyues answered Pharaos, that the hebrues women are not as the we

men of Egypt: for they are sturdy women, and are deliuered per the mydwynes come at them. And God therfore dreit wel wyth þe mydwynes. And the people multiplied & waxed very myghty. And it fortuned because the mydwynes feared God, he made them houses. And Pharaos charged all hys people, saying: All the men chyldren that are bozne cast into the ryuer, and save the maydchyldren alpur.

The ii. Chapter.

Moses is bozne and cast into the ryuer. He is taken up of Pharaos daughter. He killeth the Egyptian. He signeth and maketh a myrre. The Hyrcanites crye unto the Lorde.

And there wente a mā of the house of Levi. And toke a daughter of Levi. And the wyfe conceived & bare a sonne. And when she saw that it was a proper chyld she hid him thre monethes. And when she coulde no longer hyde hym, she toke a basketh of bulrushes & dand it with asyne and pitch, and layde þe chyld therein, & put it in the flagges by þe ryuer bynke. And his syster stode a far of to wete what wold come of it. And the daughter of Pharaos came downe to washe her selfe in the ryuer, and her maydens walked alonge by the ryuers syde.

And when she saw the basketh amonge the flagges: she sente her mayde to fatche it. And when she had opened it, she sawe it was a chyld: and beholde, the babe wepte. And she had compassion on it, and sayde: it is one of the hebrues chyldren. Then sayde his syster vnto Pharaos daughter: Shall I goo and call vnto the a nurse of the hebrues wemen to nurse the the chyld? Pharaos daughter answered her: So. And the mayde ranne and called the chylde's mother. To whome Pharaos daughter sayde. Take thys chyld away, and nurse it for me, I wyl reward the. And the woman toke the chyld and nursed it vp. The chyld grew, and she brought it vnto Pharaos daughter, & it was made her sonne, & she called þe name of it Moses, because sayde she: I toke hym out of the water. And it happened in those dayes, when Moses was waxed great, that he wente out vnto hys brethren & looked on theyr burthens, and spied an Egyptian smytynge an hebrue whych was one of his brethren. And he looked rounde about, and when he sawe no man by, he slew the Egyptian, and hyd hym in the sande. And when he was gone out another daye, beholde: two hebrues stroue together. And he sayd vnto hym that byd the wyge wherfore smyttest thou thy felowe? he answered: who made the a man of authorite to iudge vs? He saith thou to kyll me, as thou kylldest the Egyptian: And Moses feared and sayde: of a surtype thys chynge is knowne: And Pharaos herde of it, and went aboute to slaye Moses:

And Moses flyng from the face of Pharaos, dwelt in the lande of Midian, and he sat downe by a wellles syde. The priest of Midian had seven daughters whych came and drew water, and fylled the troughes, for to water theyr fethers shepe. And the shepherdes came and droue them away: but Moses stode vp and helped them, and watered theyr shepe. And when they came to Raguel theyr father, he sayd: how hap peneth it that ye are come so lone to daye? And they answered: a man of Egypte deliuered vs from the hande of the shepherdes, and so drew vs water, and watered the shepe. he sayde vnto his daughters. And where is he: why haue ye so left the man? Call hym þe he may eate bzeade. And Moses was content to dwel with the mā.

And he gaue Moses zeyboza hys daughter, which when she bare a sonne, & called him Gerson: for he sayde, I haue bene a straunger in a strange lande. (And she bare yet another sonne, whom he called Eliezer, sayinge: the God of my father is myne helper and hath red me out of the hande of Pharaos.)

And it chanced in processe of tyme, that the kynge of Egypte dyed, and the chyldren of Israel syghed be the reason of bondage, and cryed. And theyr complaynt came vp vnto God from the bondage: and God herde theyr mone. And God remembred hys promise wyth Abraham, Isahac and Jacob. And God looked vpon þe chyldren of Israel, and God had respect vnto them.

The iii. Chapter.

Moses heareth these. God appeareth vnto hym in a bush, and sendeth hym to the chyldren of Israel, and to Pharaos that tyrannize.

Moses kepte the shepe of Jethro hys father in lawe, priest of Midian, and he droue the flock to the backe syde of the desert, and came to the moystayne of God, Horeb. And the angell of the Lorde appeared vnto hym in a flame of fyre out of the myddes of a bush. And he looked, and beholde, þe bush burned wyth fyre, and the bush was not consumed. Therfore Moses sayde: I wyl go now, and se thys greute syght, howe it cometh that the bush burneth not. And when the Lord saw that he came for to se, God called vnto him out of the myddes of the bush, and sayde: Moses, Moses. he answered: here am I. And he sayde: come not hyther, put thy shoes of thy feet: for the place whereon thou standest is holy grounde. And he sayd: I am the God of thy father, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob. And Moses hyd hys face: for he was afrayde to loke vpon God.

And the Lorde sayde, I haue surely sene the trouble of my people which are in Egypte, and haue herd theyr crye fro the face of theyr taskemasters: for I knowe theyr sorowes and am come downe to deliuer them out of the hande of the Egyptians, and to brynge them out of that lande vnto a good lande and a large: & vnto a lande that floweth wth mylke and honny cuen vnto unto the place of the Cananites and Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, & of the Jebusites. Nowe therfore, the complaine of the children of Israel is come vnto me, and I haue also sene the oppression wherwith the Egyptians oppresse them. Come thou therfore, and I will sende the vnto Pharaon, that thou mayest bringe my people the children of Israel out of Egypte. And Moses sayd vnto God: what am I to go vnto Pharaon, and to bringe the children of Israel out of Egypte? And he answered: I will be with the. And thus shall be a token vnto the, that I haue sente the: after that thou hast brought the people out of Egypte, ye shall serue God vpon thys mountayne. And Moses sayde vnto God: beholde, when I come vnto the children of Israel I shall say vnto them: the God of your fathers hath sent me vnto you. and yf they saye vnto me, what is hys name, what answer shall I gve them: And God answered Moses: I am that I am: and he sayde, thus shalt thou saye vnto the children of Israel: I am hath sent me vnto you. And God spake further vnto Moses: thus shalt thou saye vnto the children of Israel: the Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the god of Jacob hath sent me vnto you: thus is my name for euer, and this is my memoriall into generation and generation. So and gather the elders of Israel together, and thou shalt say vnto them: the Lord God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob appeared vnto me, and sayd: In visytinge haue I visyted you, and knowe that whych is done to you in Egypte. And I haue sayde, I will bringe you out of the tribulation of Egypt vnto the lade of the Cananites, and Hethites, and Amorites, and Pherezites, and Heuites, and Jebusites: euen vnto a lande that floweth with mylke and hony. And whē they heare thy voyce then go: both thou and the elders of Israel shall goo vnto the kynge of Egypte, and saye vnto hym: The Lord God of the hebrues hath met with vs: & nowe we yll we go therfore. iii. dayes iourney into the wilderness, and do sacrifice vnto the Lord our God. And I am sure, that the kynge of Egypte will not let you go: no not in a myghtye hande: and I will stretch out myne hande and smyte Egypte with all my wonders whych I will do in the myddest therof. And after that he will let you go. And I will get this people fauoure in the syght of the Egyptians: so that whē ye go, ye shall not go empty: but a wyf shall borrowe of her neyghbours and of her so-georneth in her house, Jewels of silver and golde and rayment. And ye shall put the on your sons and daughters, and shall robbe the Egyptians.

The.iii. Chapter:

¶ Of howe manye of the children of Israel were sent into Egypte. And howe they were circumcised by the Lord. And howe they were taken out of Egypte by the Lord.

Moses answered and sayde: He, they will not beleue me, nor hearken vnto my voyce: but will saye, the Lord hath not appeared vnto the. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: wh at is that which is in thy hande: he answered a rodde. And he sayd: cast it on the ground. And he cast it on the ground and it became a serpent. And Moses fled from the syght of it. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: put forth thyne hande & take it by the tayle. And therfore he put forth hys hande and caught it, and it became a rodde in hys hande. For thys thyng (sayeth he) shall they beleue the, that the Lord God of thy fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isahac, and the God of Jacob hath appeared vnto the.

And the Lord sayde furthermore vnto hym: thrust thyne hande into thy bosome. And he thrust his hande into his bosome. And when he toke it out agayne, beholde: his hande was hye rous euen as snowe. And he sayd: put thyne hand into thy bosome agayne. And he put hys hande into hys bosome agayne, and plucked it out of hys bosome, and beholde, it was turned againe as hys other fleshe. Therfore yf they wyl not beleue the, neither heare the voyce of the fyrst token yett will they beleue for the voyce of the seconde token. But and yf they wyl not beleue the two sygnes, neither hearken vnto thy voyce, thou shalt take of the water of the ryuer, and powre it vpon the drye lande. And the water whych thou takest out of the ryuer, shall turne to bloude vpon the drye lande.

Moses sayd vnto the Lord: oh my Lord, I am not eloquent from yesterday and yesterdaye daye, and namely sence thou hast spoken vnto thy seruaunt: but I am slowe mouthed and slowe tuncyd. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: who hath made mans mouth: or who hath made the deafe: or the deafe, the speenge: or the blinde: haue not I the Lord. Therfore I will be with thy mouth and teach the what thou shalt saye. He sayde: oh my Lord, sende I praye the by the hande of hym whome thou wilt sende. And the Lord was angrie with Moses, and sayde: Do not I knowe Aaron thy brother the Leuyte, that he can speake? For lo, he cometh forth to meete the, and when he seyth the, he will be glad in hys herte. Therfore thou shalt speake vnto hym and put these wordes in hys mouth, and I will be with thy mouth and with hys mouth, and will teach the what ye ought to do. And he shall be thy spokesman vnto the people: he also shall be thy mouth and thou shalt be hys God: and thou shalt take this rod in thy hande, wherwith thou shalt do myracles. Therfore Moses went and returned to Iethro hys father in lawe agayne, and sayd vnto hym: I wyl go nowe, and turne agayne vnto my brethren which are in Egypte and se whether they be yett aliv. And Iethro sayde to Moses, goo in peace. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses in Midian: goo and returne agayne into Egypte, for they are deade which wente aboute to kyll the. And Moses toke hys wyfe, and hys sonnes, and put them on an asse, and wente agayne to Egypte, and Moses toke the rod of God in hys hande. And the Lord said vnto Moses: When thou art entred and come into Egypte againe, se that thou do al these wo

Exod. 11. I sware before Pharaon, wherby I haue put in thy hande: but I wyll holde* his heert, and he shall not let the people go: And thou shalt saye vnto Pharaon, thus sayeth the Lorde: Israel is myne eldest sonne, and I haue sayd vnto the that thou shouldest let my sonne go, that he maye serue me. And thou wouldest not let him go, behold, I wyl Exod. 12. * ke thyne eldest sonne.

And it chaunced by the way in the Iune that the Lozde met hym, and wolde haue kylled him And zephora toke a stone, and cut away the cope layne of her sonne, and fell at his fete, and saide a bloudy husbände arte thou vnto me. Then he let hym go. And she said a bloudye husband, because of the circumcision. Then sayde the Lozde vnto Aaron: go mete Moyses in the wylderneffe And he went and met hym in the mount of God and kylled hym. And Moyses tolde Aaron al the wordes of the Lozde which had sent him, and all the tokens whych he had charged hym wrythal. So wente Moyses and Aaron, and gathered all the elders of the chyldren of Israel. And Aaron tolde al the wordes which the Lozde had spoken vnto Moyses, and dyd the myracles in the syght of the people, and the people beluech. And wher they hearde that the Lozde had vsited the chyldren of Israel and had looked vpon theyr tribulation, they bowed theyr heade, and worshipped.

The v. Chapter.

¶ Moses and Aaron be go down thither. The people of Heliopolis are opposeth moys and moys, and they cry out uppon moys and Aaron thereby.

Moses and Aaron went in after ward, and tolde Pharaon, thus sayth the Lord god of Israel: Let my people go, that they maye keepe holy daie vnto me in the wilderness. And Pharaon sayd: who is the Lord, that I shoulde heare his voyce, and let Israel go? I knowe not the Lord, neyther will I let Israel go. And they sayde: the God of the hebrues hath met wyth vs: and therfore will we go this daies iourneys in the deserte and sacrifice vnto the Lord our God: lest there happen vnto vs, either pestilence or swearde. The sayd the kynge of Egypt vnto them: wherefore do ye (Moses and Aaron) lette the people from theyr worke: get you vnto your labour. And Pharaon sayd furthermore: beholde, there is much people nowe in the lande, and ye make them leaue theyr worke. And Pharaon commaunded the same daie vnto the taskmasters whych were amōge the people and vnto the officers, saying: ye shal geue the people nomore strawe, to make hycke wythal: (as ye dyd in tyme passed,) let them go and gather them strawe them selues, and the nobylty of hycke wherche they were wonte to make in tyme passed lay vnto their charges also, and myniste nothinge therof, for they be ydle, and therfore crye, sayinge: we will go and do sacrifice vnto our god. They must haue more worke layde vpon them, that they may labour therein and not regarde vayne wordes.

Then wente the raskinasters of the people & the officers out: and tolde the people: Thus sayeth Pharao: I wyl geue you nomore strawe, go your selves and gather you straw where ye can fynde it, yet shall none of your labour be myn-ished. And so were the people scattered abrode throrowe out al the lāde of Egypt: for to gather stubble in steade of strawe. And the taskemasters basted them forwarde, saying: fulfyl our worke daye by daye, euen as yf ye had strawe. And the officers of the chyldren of Israel whyche Pha-raos taskemasters had set ouer them, were beaten. And they sayd vnto them: wherfoze haue ye not fulfylled poure task in makinge bycke, both yester daye and to daye, as well as in tymes past: The officers also of the chyldren of Israel came and complayned vnto Pharaos, sayinge: wherfoze dealest thou thus wyth thy seruauntes: there is no strawe giuen to thy seruauntes, and they saye vnto vs: make bycke. And thy seruantes are beaten, & thy people is foule increated. He sayde, ydell are ye, ydell, and ther-foze ye saye: Wile wyl go and do sacrifice vnto Lorde. So therfoze nowe and towarde and there shall no strawe be giuen pon, and yet shall ye be liuer the whole tale of bycke.

And the officers of the chylde of Israel byd wyth heynesse loke on them that sayd: ye shall wynne nothyng of your daye makinge of byrche. And they met Moses and Aaron whiche rode in theyr waie as they came out from Pharao, and sayd vnto them: The Lorde loke vpon you and iudge you, whiche hath made f launce of vs synche in the eyes of Pharaos and in f eyes of hys seruantes: and haue put a swearde in theyr hande to sle vs. Moses returned vnto the Lorde, and sayd: Lorde, wherfoze hast thou delt cruelly wyth this people, & wherfoze hast thou sent me: for sence I came to Pharaos to speake in thy name, he hath fared foule wyth this folke, & yet thou hast not deliucted thy people at all.
Then the Lorde sayd vnto Moses: Nowe shal thou se, what I wyll do vnto Pharaos, for in a myghy hande shal he let them go, & in a myghty hande shal he dreyue them out of hys lande.

Benjamin, and Levi.

And god spake vnto Moses, & said vnto him: I am the Lord: I appeared vnto Abraham, Isaac, & Jacob as an almighty God: & in my name Iehouah, was I not known vnto the. Wherefore I made an appointment with them to give them the lande of Canaan: the lande of theyr pilgrimage, wherein they were strangers. And I haue also herde the gronyng of thy chyldren of Israel, who the Egyptians kepe in bondage, & haue remembred my cōuenaunt. Wherefore saye vnto thy chyldren of Israel: I am the Lord, I will byngne you oute from the burthens of the Egyptians, and will ryd you out of theyr bondage, and will deliuer you in a stretched out arme and in greate iudgements. And I wyll take you for my people, and wyll be to you a God. And ye shall knowe that I am the Lord your God, whiche byngne you out from the burthens of the Egyptians. And I wyll

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Behold, I haue made the Pharaos God, and Aaron thy brother shall be thy wrophet. Thou shalt speake all that I commaunded the, and Aaron thy brother shall speake vnto Pharaos, that he sende the chyldren of Israel out of his lande.

And * I wyl harden Pharaos herte, and multiply my myracles and my wddies in the lande of Egypte. But Pharaos shall not hearken vnto you, that I may set myne hande vpon Egypt and bynge out myne armys and my people & chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypt. In greates iudgements, and the Egyptians shall know that I am the Lorde, when I stretch forth my hande vpon Egypte, and bynge out & chyldren of Israel from amonge them.

Moses and Aaron dyd as the Lorde commaunded them, euen so dyd they. Moses was. lxxx. yere olde, and Aaron. lxxvii. when they spake vnto Pharaos. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron, sayinge: yf Pharaos speake vnto you, sayinge: Where a wondre, thou shalt say vnto Aaron: take thy rod and caste it before Pharaos, that it maye be a serpent. Then went Moses and Aaron vnto Pharaos, and dyd euen as the Lorde had commaunded. And Aaron caste forth his rod before Pharaos and before his seruantes: and it turned to a serpent. Then Pharaos called for the wyse men and * enchaunters, and those wyse men of Egypte dyd in lyke manner with they: sojcery. For they cast downe euery man his rodde, and they turned to serpentes: but Aarons rodde bydeate vpon they: rodde: and he hardened Pharaos herte, that he hearkened not vnto them, euen as the Lorde had sayde.

The Lorde also sayde vnto Moses: Pharaos herte is hardened, he refuseth to let the people go. Get the vnto Pharaos in the morninge, lo, he wyl come vnto the water, and & thou shalt stande vpon the ryuers bynke agaynst he come, and the rod whiche turned to a serpent, shalt thou take in thyne hande. And thou shalt saye vnto hym: the Lorde God of the Hebrewes hath sent me vnto the, sayinge: * let my people go, that they maye serue me in the wilderness: And behold, hyther to thou woldest not heare. Thus sayeth the Lorde. In this thou shalt knowe that I am the Lorde. Beholde, I wyl smyte (with the staffe that is in myne hande) the water that is in the ryuer & it shall turne to bloude. And the fische that is in the ryuer shall dye, and the ryuer shall styne, and it shall greue the Egyptians to drynke of & water of the ryuer: and the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saye vnto Aaron, take thy staffe, and stretch out thyne hande ouer the waters of Egypte ouer they: streames, ouer their ryuers and poudes, & all pooles of water whiche they haue, that they maye be bloude, and that there maye be bloude throughout all the lande of Egypte: both in vessels of wood and also of stone: And Moses and Aaron dyd euen as the Lorde commaunded. And he lyste vpon the staffe, and smote the waters that were in the ryuer in the syght of Pharaos, and in the syght of his seruantes: and all the water &

The plague of frogges. Moses prayeth for Pharaos.
 The plague of flies.

The Lord spake vnto Moses: So vnto Pharaos, and tell hym, thus sayth the Lord: let my people go, & they may serue me. If thou wilt not let the go: behold, I wyl smite al thy bordre with frogges. And the ryuer shall scall with frogges which shall go vp and come into thyne house: and into thy pyrupe chambie, where thou sleepest, and vpon thy bed, and into the house of thy seruantes, and vpon the prople, and into thyne ouens, and vpon thy meates.
 And the frogges shall come vpo the, and on thy people, and vpon all thy seruantes.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses: saye vnto Aaron: stretche forth thyne hande with thy rod ouer the streames, ouer the ryuers, and ouer the pondes, that thou mayest bring vp frogges vpon the lande of Egypt. And Aaron stretched his hande ouer the waters of Egypt, and the frogges came vp, and covered f lande of Egypt.
 And the sozterres dyd lyke wyse with theyr sozcery, and brought frogges vp vpon the lande of Egypt. Then Pharaos called for Moses and Aaron, and sayd: praye ye vnto the Lord that he maye take awaye the frogges from me: and from my people, and I wyl let the people go, & they maye do sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses sayd: to Pharaos: reioyce thou oare me and appoynt when I shall praye for the and for thy seruantes, and for thy people, to dyue awaye the frogges from the and thy houses, and f they maye remaine but in the ryuer only. He sayde: to mozowe. And he sayde: euen as thou hast sayde that thou mayest knowe that there is none lyke vnto the Lord our God. And so f frogges shal departe from the and from thy houses, from thy seruantes: and from thy people, and shall re-maine in the ryuer onely. Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaos, and Moses cryed vnto the Lord vpon the appoyntmente of frogges, which he had made vnto Pharaos. And f Lord dyd accordyng to the sayinge of Moses. And f frogges dyed out of the houses, out of the cour-tes and feldes. And they gathered them togther vpo heapes, and the lande stanke of them.

But when Pharaos sawe that he had rest gyuen hym, he hardened his hert, and hekened not vnto them, as the Lord had sayd. And f Lord sayd vnto Moses: saye vnto Aaron, stretche out thy rodde and smyte the dust of the lande, that it maye turne to lyle thowout all the lande of Egypt. And they dyd so. And Aaron stretched out his hande, and with his rod he smot the dust of the earth which turned to lyle in men & beaste so that all the duste of the lande tourned to lyle, thowout all the lande of Egypt.

And the enchaunters assayed lyke wyse with theyr enchauntmentes to drynge forth lyle, but they coude not. And the lyle were both vpon men and beastes. Then sayde the enchaunters vnto Pharaos: it is the finger of God. And Pha-raos herte remayned obstynate, and he beake-ned not vnto them, euen as f Lord had sayde.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: ryle vp early in the mozning, and stand befoze Pharaos for he wyl come forth vnto the water, and thou shalt saye vnto him: thus sayeth the Lord: Let my people go, that they maye serue me. Els, yf thou wilt not let my people go, behold, I wyl sende all maner of fyes bothe vpon the and thy seruantes, and thy people, and into thy houses.
 And the houses of the Egyptians shalbe full of fyes, and the grounde whereon they are. And f lande of * Solan where my people are, wyl I cause to be wondrefull in that daye: so that there shal no fyes be there. Whereby thou shal knowe that I am the Lord in the myddes of the earth.
 And I wyl put a deuysion betwene my people and thyne. And euen tomozowe shal this myracle be done. And the Lord dyd euen so: and there came noysom fyes into the house of Pharaos, & into his seruantes houses, and into al the lande of Egypt: and the lande was corrupt with thesc fyes. And Pharaos called for Moses and Aard, and sayde. So and do sacrifice vnto your God in the lande: And Moses answered: It is not mete that we do so. For then we must offer vnto the Lord our God, that whiche is an abhominacyon vnto the Egyptians. But and yf we sacrifice that whiche is an abhominacyon vnto the Egyptians befoze theyr eyes, wuld they not stone vs: we wyl go thre dayes iourney into the deserte, and sacrifice vnto the Lord our God, as he hath commaunded vs.

And Pharaos sayd: I wyl let you go that ye maye sacrifice vnto the Lord your God in the wyldernesse: but go not farre awaye, praye for me. And Moses sayde: beholde, I wyl go out from the, and praye vnto the Lord, that f fyes maye departe from Pharaos, and from his ser-uantes and from his people tomozowe. But let Pharaos from henceforth deceyue no moze, f he wyl not let the people go to sacrifice vnto f Lord. And Moses went out from Pharaos and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord dyd ac-cordyng to the sayinge of Moses, and the fyes departed from Pharaos, and from his seruantes, and from his people, & there remayned not one. And Pharaos hardened his hert euen then also, and dyd not let the people go.

The Lord sayde vnto Moles, go in vnto Pharaon, and thou shalt tell hym: thus sayth the Lord God of the hebreues: * let my people go, that they maye serue me. If thou wilt not let them go, and wilt holde them still, beholde, the hande of the Lord is vpon thy sheke which is in the feld for vpon horses, asses, camels, oxen, and shepe, there shall be a myghty great mozapne. And the Lord shall do wonderfullie betwene the beastes of Israel and the beastes of Egypte: so that there shall nothinge dye of all that pertaineth to the chyldren of Israel. And the Lord appoynted a tyme, sayinge: tomozowe the Lord shall spynke this woerde in the lande. And the Lord dyd it on the mozowe, and all the cattell of Egypte dyed: but of the cattell of the chyldren of Israel dyed not one. And Pharaon sent, and beholde, there was not one of the cattell of the Israelites dead. And the hert of Pharaon was hardened that he wolde not let the people go.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moles and Aaron: take poure handes full of ashes out of the fornace, and Moles shall spynke it vp into the ayre, in the sygh of Pharaon, and it shall tourne to dust in all the lande of Egypte: that there maye be swellynge sores with blaynes both on man & beast thozowout all the lande of Egypte. And they toke ashes out of the furnace, and stode before Pharaon and Moles spynkled it vp into the ayre. And there were sores with blaynes both in men and in beastes: and the sozcerers coulde not stand before Moles because of the blaynes for there were botches vpon the enchaunters, & vpon all the Egyptians. And the Lord hardened the hert of Pharaon, & he hardened not vnto them: as the Lord hath sayde vnto Moles.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moles: ryle vp early in the mozynge, and stande before Pharaon, and thou shalt tell hym, thus sayth the Lord God of the hebreues: * Let my people go, & they maye serue me: or els I will at this tyme sende all my plagues vpon thyne herte, and vpon thy seruantes, and on thy people, that thou mayest knowe that there is none lyke me in all the earth. For nowe I will stretch out myne hande, that I maye smyte the and thy people with pestilence and thou shalt peryshe from the earth. And in verie dede, * for this cause haue I kepte the, for to shewe the my power: and that they myght declare my name thozowout all the woelde.

Pet thou exaltest thy selfe agaynst my people, that thou wilt not let them go: beholde, tomozowe this tyme I will sende downe a myghty greate hable: euen suche a one as was not in Egypte, syns it was grounde vnto this tyme. Sende therfore nowe, and gather thy beastes, and all that thou hast in the feld. For vpon all the men and the beastes which are founde in the feld, and not brought home, shall the hable fall and they shall dye. And as maner as feared the woerde of the Lord amonge the seruantes of Pharaon made theyr seruantes and their beastes flye in to the houses, but he that regarded not the woerde of the Lord, left his seruantes and his beastes in the feld. And the Lord sayd vnto Moles: stretch forth thynne hande vnto heauen, that there maye be hayle in all the lande of Egypte: vpon man and vpon beastes, and vpon all the herbes of the feld thozowout all the lande of Egypte. And Moles stretched out his rod vnto heauen: and the Lord thundred and hayled, & the fyre ran alonge vpon the grounde. * And the Lord so hayled in the lande of Egypte, & there was hayle and fyre myngled with the hable, so greuous, and suche as there was none thozowout all the lande of Egypte, syns people inhabytet it. And the hable smote thozowout all the land of Egypte, all that was in the feld both man & beast. And the hable smote all the herbes of the feld, and brake all the trees of the feld: only in the lande of Sozan, where the chyldren of Israel were, was no hayle. And Pharaon sent and called for Moles and Aaron, & sayd vnto them: I haue now synned: the Lord is ryghteous, and I and my people are vngodlye. * Praye ye vnto the Lord: for it is moch that shoulde be thunders of God and hayle. I will let you go, and ye shall carpe no longer. Moles sayde vnto hym: as lone as I am out of the cypre, I will praye ahynde my handes vnto the Lord, and the thunder shall cease, neyther shall there be anye more hayle, that thou mayest knowe that the earth is the Lordes. But I knowe that thou and thy seruantes yet feare not the face of the Lord God.

And so the flaxe and the barlye were smytten for the barlye was shut vp, & the flaxe was heyled: but the wheate and the rye were not smytte for they were late sowne. And Moles went out of the cypre from Pharaon and spiede ahynde his handes vnto the Lord: and the thundre & hable ceased, neyther rayned it vpon the earth. And when Pharaon saw that the rayne and the hable and thundre were ceased, he synned agayne: and hardened his herte he and his seruantes. And the hert of Pharaon was hardened: neither wold he let the chyldren of Israel go, as the Lord had sayde by the hande of Moles.

Chapter.

The hert of Pharaon was hardened of God. The grethoppers. The thynke darkness.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moles: go in vnto Pharaon: for I haue hardened his herte, and the herte of his seruantes, that I might put these my sygnes amongest them, and that thou tell in the audience of thy sonne, and of thy sonnes sonne, what thynges I haue done in Egypte, and the myzacles whiche I haue done amonge them: that ye maye knowe howe that I am the Lord. And so Moles and Aaron came vnto Pharaon, and sayd vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lord God of the hebreues, how longe shall it be: or thou wilt submit thy selfe vnto me? * Let my people go, that they maye serue me. Or els: * (if thou do this) and wilt not let my people go: beholde, tomozowe I will bringe grethoppers into thy coostes, and they shall couer the face of the earth, that it cannot be sene: and they shall eat the residue which remaineth vnto you and

and is escaped from the hayle: and they shall eat every greene tree that beareth you frute in feld and they shall fyl the houses, and all the seruantes houses, and the houses of all the Egyptians after such a manner as neyther thy fathers, nor thy fathers fathers haue sene, sngs & tyme they were vpon the earth vnto this daye. And he turned him selfe about, & went out from Pharaon.

And Pharaons seruantes sayde vnto hym: how longe shall he be a schlaundre vnto vs? Let the men go, that they maye serue the Lord they God: knowest thou not that Egypt is destroyed? And Moses and Aaron were broughte agayne vnto Pharaon, and he sayde: then go, and serue the Lord your God. Who are they that shall go? And Moses answered: we wyl goo, with oure yonge and with our olde yea, and with our sonnes and with our daughters, and with our shep and with our oxen we must go. For we muste holde a feast vnto the Lord.

And he sayd vnto them: let it be so. The Lord be with you. When I let you go and your chyldren also, take hede, for ye haue some myschete in hande. Saye, not so: but go they that are men, & serue the Lord: for that was your desyre. And they thrust them out of Pharaons presence. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: stretch out thynne hande ouer the lande of Egypt for grethoppers that they maye come vpon the lande of Egypte and eate all the herbes of the lande, and al that the hayle left behynde. And Moses stretched forth his rod ouer the lande of Egypte: and the Lord broughte an east wynde vpon the lande al that daye, and all that nyght. And in the morninge, the east wynde brought the grethoppers, and the grethoppers wente vpon all the lande of Egypte: and remayned in all quarters of Egypte very greuouslye. Before them were there no suche grethoppers, neyther after them shalbe: for they couered all the face of the earth, so that the lande was darke. And they dyd eate all the herbes of the lande, and all the frutes of the trees, and whatsoeuer the hayle had left there was no greene thyng left in the trees and herbes of the felde the thowout all the land of Egypt.

Therefore Pharaon called for Moses and Aaron in haste, and sayde: I haue sinned agaynst the Lord your God, and agaynst you. And nowe forgyue me my synne only this once: and pray vnto the Lord your God, that he maye take awaye from me this death onely. And Moses went out from Pharaon, and prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord turned a myghtye stronge west wynde, and it toke awaye the grethoppers, and cast them into the red see, so that there was not one grethopper in all the coast of Egypt. And the Lord hardened Pharaons hert, so that he wold not let the chyldren of Israel go.

And Pharaon called for Moses and sayd: go, and serue the Lord, only let your shepe and your oxen abyde, and let your chyldren go with you. And Moses sayde: thou must gyue vs also offer-rynges, and burnt offerrynges for to sacrifice vnto the Lord our God: our cattell also shal go w vs, and there shal not one hoofe be left behynde, for hereof must we take to serue the Lord our God. Neither do we knowe what we shal offre vnto the Lord, vntill we come thither.

But the Lord hardened Pharaons hert: and he wolde not let them go. And Pharaon sayd vnto hym: get thee frome, and take hede to thy self, and se my face nomore. For whensoever, thou comest in my syght, thou shalt dye. And Moses sayde: Let it be as thou hast sayde: I wyl se thy face nomore.

Speake thou to the eares of the people every man his brother of his neyghbour, and every woman of her neyghbours: & jewels of syluer and jewels of gold. And there shal be a great crye thowout all the lande of Egypt, suche as there was neuer none lyke, nor shalbe. But amonge the chyldren of Israel shal not a dog moue his tonge, nor yet man or beast that ye maye knowe howe that the Lord putteth a difference betwene the Egyptians and Israel. And these thy seruantes shal all come downe vnto me. And fall before me, and say: get the out, and all the people that are vnder the, and then wyl I departe. And he went out from Pharaon with an angry countenance. And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: Pharaon shal not heare you, that my wonders maye be multiplied in the lande of Egypt. And Moses and Aaron dyd al these wonders before Pharaon. And the Lord hardened Pharaons hert, so that he wolde not let the chyldren of Israel go out of his lande.

And

The passage is clear. The firstborn. They make the firstborn of the Egyptians to be the firstborn of the Egyptians. The going out of the firstborn of the Egyptians.

Ad the Lord spake vnto Moyses and Aaron in the laude of Egypt sayinge: This moneth shall be vnto you the begynnyng of monethes and the fyrst moneth of yere shall it be vnto you. Speake ye vnto all the congregation of Israel, sayinge: In the tenth daye of this moneth euery man take vnto hym a lambe accordyng to the house of the fathers, a lambe thowout euery house. If the household be to lytle for the lambe, let hym take his neyghbour which is next vnto his house accordyng to the nombre of soules: euery one of you, accordyng to his eatyng shall make your comyt for a lamb. And let the lambe of yours be without blemish a male of a yere olde which ye shall take out fro amonge the shepe, or from amonge the gootes.

And ye shall kepe hym vntyll the xiiii. daye of the same moneth. And euery man of the multitude of Israel shall kyl hym about euen. And they shall take of the bloude and stryke it on the two syde postes and on the upper doze post euen in the houses where they shall eate hym. And they shall eat the flesh the same nyght rost with fyre and with unleuened bryed, and with lower herbes they shall eate it. Ye shall eate not thereof rawe nor soden in water, but roste with fyre: the heed, feet, and purtenaunce thereof. And ye shall let nothing of it to remayne vnto the mornynge. That which remayneth of it vntyll the mornynge shall ye burne with fyre.

Of this maner shall ye eate it: with your loynes girded, and your shooes on your feet and your staves in your handes. And ye shall eat it in hast for it is the Lordes pascheouer: For I wil passe thowow the lande of Egypte this same nyght, and wyll smyte all the fyrst borne in the lande of Egypte bothe man and beaste, and vpon all the goddes of Egypte wyll I the Lord do execution. And the bloude shall be vnto you a token in the houses wherein ye are. And when I se the bloude, I wyll passe ouer you, and the plage shall not be vpon you to destroye you, when I smyte the lande of Egypte. And this daye shall be vnto you a remembraunce: and ye shall kepe it holpe vnto the Lord, euen thowowt your generations shall ye kepe it holpe daye, that it be a custome for euer. Seven dayes shall ye eate unleuened bryed: and the fyrste daye ye shall put awaye leuen out of your houses. For whosoener eatech leuened bryed from the fyrst daye vntyll the seuen daye, that soule shall be plucked out from Israel. The fyrste daye shall be an holpe conuocation, and the seuen daye shall be an holpe conuocation vnto you: There shall be no maner of worke done in them, save aboute that onely which euery man must eate, that onely maye ye do. And ye shall obserue unleuened bryed. For this same daye haue I brought your armyes out of the lande of Egypte, therfore ye shall obserue this daye, and all your chyldren after you, by a custome for euer. The fyrste moneth, and the fourteenth daye of the moneth at euen, ye shall eate swete bryed vnto the xxi. daye of the moneth that cūe agayne. Seven dayes shall there be no leuened bryed founde in your houses And whosoener eatech leuened bryed, that soule shall be rooted out from the multitude of Israel: whether he be a stranger or borne in the lande. Ye shall eate nothyng leuened: but in all your habytations shall ye eate swete bryed.

Moses called for the elders of Israel, & sayd vnto them: chost out and take you to euery household of you a shepe, and kyl it for pascheouer. And take a bunch of psope, and dip it in y bloude that is in the bason, and stryke the vpper poste, and the two syde postes with the bloude that is in the bason, and none of you go out at the doze of his house, vntyll the mornynge. For the Lord wyll go aboute to smyte the Egyptians. And when he seeth the bloude vpon y vpper doze post and on the two syde postes: he wyll passe ouer the doze, and wil not suffer the destroyer to come in to your house to plage you. Therfore shall ye obserue this thyng, that it be an ordynance both to the and thy sonnes for euer.

And when ye be come into the lande which the Lord wyll gyue you, accordyng as he hath promysed, ye shall kepe this seruyce. And when your chyldren aske you what maner of seruyce is this ye do, ye shall saye it is the sacrifice of the Lordes pascheouer which passed ouer the houses of the chyldren of Israel in Egypte, as he smote the Egyptians, and saved our houses. And the people bowed the selues, and worshipped: And the chyldren of Israel went, and dyd as the Lord had commaunded Moses and Aaron: Euen so dyd they. And at the mornynge, the Lord smote all the fyrst borne in the lande of Egypt, from the fyrst borne of Pharaos that sat on his seate, vnto the fyrst borne of the captiue that was in pylon, and all the fyrst gendred of cattel. And Pharaos rose vp in the nyght, he and all his seruantes & all the Egyptians: and there was a great cryng in Egypte, for there was no house where there was not one deed. And he called vnto Moses and Aaron by nyght, sayinge: ryse vp, and get you out from amonge my people: both ye & also the chyldren of Israel, and go and serue the Lord as ye haue sayde. And take your shepe & your droues with you as ye haue sayde, and departe and *bless me. And the Egyptians were leaue vpon the people, that they myght sende them out of the lande in haste: for they sayde: we dye all. And the people toke theyr dough before it was lowed, and their vrayles bound in clothes vpon their shuldres. And y chyldren of Israel dyd accordyng to the sayinge of Moses: And they borrowed of y Egyptians & iewels of syluer & iewels of gold, & rayment. And the Lord gaue y people fauour in the syght of the Egyptians: so that they graunted such thynges as they requyred. And they robbed the Egyptians. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourneys from Rameses to Sucorh: syxe hundred thousande men of fote, besyde chyldren. And moche comen people went out also with them, and shepe and oxen, an exceedyng great floche. And they baked swete cakes of y dough which they brought out of Egypt, for it was not lowed. For when they

they were thruste oute by the Egyptians, they coude not tary to prepare them selues any proportion of meate. The dwelling of the chyldren of Israel, whiche they dwelled in Egypte was four hundred and thyrty yeres: and when the four hundred and thyrty yeres were expyred, even the selfe same daye departed all the hostes of the Lorde out of the lande of Egypte. It is a nyght to be obserued to the Lorde, in the which he brought them out of the lande of Egypte. This is that nyght of the Lorde which all the chyldren of Israel must kepe thowout theyr generacions. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses and Aaron: This is the lawe of the pasceouer: there shall no stranger eate thereof. But every seruant that is bought for moneye (after that thou hast circumcysed him) shall eate thereof. A stranger and an hyrd seruant shall not eate thereof. In one house shall it be eaten. Thou shalt carpe none of the flesh out of the house. Neither shall ye breake a bone thereof. All the multitude shall obserue it. If a stranger also dwell amonge you, and wyl holde pasceouer vnto the Lorde, let hym circumcise all that be males, and then let hym come and obserue it, and he shall be as one that is boyn in the lande. For the vncircumcysed person shall not eate thereof. One maner of lawe shall be vnto hym that is boyn in the lande: & vnto the stranger that dwelleth amonge you. And all the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moyses and Aaron. Euen so dyd they. And the selfe same daye dyd the Lorde bynge the chyldren of Israel out of the lande of Egypte w theyr armyes.

The xlii. Chapter

The first begotten must be sanctified vnto the Lorde. The menshall of theyr beynceance. Why they were carryed thow the wilderness. The bones of Joseph. The pylle of the cloude.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: Sanctify vnto me all the first boyn, that open all maner matryces amonge the chyldren of Israel, as well of man as of beast: for it is myne. And Moyses sayd vnto the people: thinke on this day in which ye came out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage: for thowowe a myghtye hande the Lorde brought you oute from thence. There shall no leuened bzeed be eaten. This daye came ye oute in the moneth when corne be- gynneth to rypp. When the Lorde hath brought the into the lande of the Cananytes, Hethytes, Amoytes, Hewites, and Jebusytes, which he sware vnto thy fathers, that he wolde gyue the a lande wherin mylke and honny floweth, I shall kepe this serupce in this same moneth. Seven dayes shall ye eate swete bzeed: and in the seventh daye it is the feast of the Lorde.

Swete bzeed shall be eaten seven dayes, and there shall no leuened bzeed be sene, nor yet leuen with the in all thy quarters. And thou shalt shewe thy sonne in that day, saying this is done because of that whiche the Lorde dyd vnto me, when I came out of Egypte. And it shall be a signe vnto the vpon thyne hande, and for a remembrance betwene thyne eyes, that the Lordeys lawe maye be in thy mouth. For in a stryg hande the Lorde brought the out of Egypte. kepe therfore this ordinaunce in his season feyere to pere. And it wyl come to passe, that the Lorde shall bynge the into the lande of the Cananytes, whiche he sware vnto the and to thy fathers, & shall gyue it the. And then thou shalt appoynt vnto the Lorde all that openeth a matryce. And euery cast thyng that fyist doth open the matryce of a beast whiche thou hast: if they be males, they shall be of the Lorde. And euery first genzyed of an alle, thou shalt redeme w a lambe: if thou redeme hym not, thou shalt breake hym necke. All the fyiste boyn amonge the chyldren also shalt thou bye out. And when thy sonne asketh the tomozow, saying what is this, I shall saye vnto hym: With a myghtye hand the Lorde brought vs oute of Egypte, out of the house of bondage. And when Pharaos was lorth to let vs go, the Lorde slewe all the fyiste boyn in the land of Egypte: as well the fyiste boyn of man as of beast. Therfore I sacrifice vnto the Lorde all the males that open the matryce: and all the fyiste boyn of my chyldren I redeme. This shall be a token vpon thyne hande, and a remembrance betwene thyne eyes, that the Lorde brought vs out of Egypte thowowe a myghtye hande.

It came to passe, that when Pharaos had let the people go, God carped them not thowow the waye and lande of the Chyllystines whiche was the moze nere waye. But God sayd: lest the people happily repent when they se warre, & so turne agayne to Egypte. But God led the people about thowow the way of the wilderness of the red see. And the chyldren of Israel went by harnessed out of the lande of Egypte. And Moyses toke the bones of Joseph with him: for he made the chyldren of Israel swear, saying: God wyl surely vylite you, and ye shall take my bones a- waye hence with you. And they toke their iourne from Sucoth: & abode in Etham in the edge of the wilderness. And the Lorde went before them by daye in a pylle of a cloude to leade the the way: and by nyght in a pylle of fyre to gyue them lyght, that they myght go borth by daye & by nyght. The pylle of the cloude departed not by daye, nor the pylle of fyre by nyght, oute of the syght of the people.

The xliii. Chapter.

Pharaos herte is hardened, and foloweth the Yscarytes wch all hys host and captaynes, and is brownd. The Yscarytes gender, they go thowow the red see.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: Speake to the chyldren of Israel, that they tounne & remaine before Pi Hicroch betwene Migdol and the see ouer agaynst Baalze-phon: and before that shall they pytche by the see. For Pharaos wyl saye of the chyldren of Israel they are tangled in the land, & wilderness hath shut them in. And I wyl harden Pharaos herte that he shall folowe after you: and I wyl get me donour vpon Pharaos and vpon all his host: the Egyptians also shall knowe that I am the Lorde. And they dyd euen so. And it was tolde the king of Egypt, that the people fled. And the herte of Pharaos Pharao and of his seruantes turned agaynst the people, & they sayd: why haue we this done that we haue let Israel go out of our seruice: & he made red by his charettes, and toke his people with hym and toke fyve hundred cholen charettes, and all the charets of Egypt and captaynes vpon euery one of them. And the Lorde hardened the herte of Pharao kynge of Egypt, and he folowed after the chyldren of Israel. But the chyldren of Israel went out with an hye hand and the Egyptians folowed after them, and all the hoyses and charets of Pharao and his hoysmen and his hoost ouertoke them abyding by the see, besyde Pi hiroch before Baalzephon. And when Pharao dyed hye, the chyldren of Israel lyft vp theyr eyes, and beholde, the Egyptians folowed after them, and they were soze afrayed, & the chyldren of Israel cryed out vnto the Lorde. But they sayd vnto Moyses: because there were no graues in Egypte, haste thou therfore brought vs away for to dye in the wilderness: wherefore hast thou serued vs thus, for to carry vs out of Egypte? Dyd not we tell the this in Egypte, sayinge: let vs be in rest, that we maye serue the Egyptians: for it had bene better for vs to haue serued the Egyptians then for to dye in the wilderness. And Moyses sayde vnto the people: feare ye not, stande still, and beholde, how the Lorde shall saue you this daye. For ye that haue sene the Egyptians this daye, shall see them nomoze for euer. The Lorde shall fyghte for you, and ye shall holde your peace.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: wherefore cryest thou vnto me: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel that they go forwarde. But lyfte thou vp thy rod, and stretche out thy hand ouer the see and deuyde it asondze, and let the chyldren of Israel go on drye grounde thow the myddest of the see. And beholde, I will harden the herte of the Egyptians that they maye folowe them. And I will get me honoure vpon Pharao, and vpon all his hoost, and vpon his charettes, and vpon his hoysmen. And the Egyptians shall knowe that I am the Lorde, when I haue gotte me honoure vpon Pharao, vpon his charettes, and vpon his hoysmen. And the angell of God which went before the hoost of Israel remoued and began to go behynde them. And the clouden pyller that was before the face of them, beganne to stande behynde them, & came betwene the hoost of the Egyptians and the hoost of Israel. It was also a darke cloude, & gaue lychte by nyght: and all the nyght longe the one came not at the other. And Moyses stretched forth his hande ouer the see: and the Lorde carped awaye the see, by a very strange East wynde all that nyght, and made the see drye lande, and the waters were deuyded. And the chyldren of Israel went out into the myddest of the see: vpon drye grounde. And the waters were a walke vnto them on the ryght hande, and on theyr left hand. And the Egyptians folowed and went in after them to the myddest of the see, euen all Pharao's hoyses, his charettes and his hoysmen. And in the moynynge wathe, the Lorde looked vnto

the hoost of the Egyptians out of the fyre and cloude pyller: and troubled the hoost of the Egyptians, & toke of his charet wheels, and carped them awaye violently. So that the Egyptians sayde: Let vs flye from the face of Israel, for the Lorde fyghteth for them agaynst the Egyptians. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: stretche out thyne hande ouer the see, that the waters maye come agayne vpon the Egyptians, vpon hys charettes and vpon his hoysmen.

And Moyses stretched forth his hand ouer the see, and it came agayne to his course early in the moynynge, and the Egyptians fled agaynst it. And the Lorde ouerthrowe the Egyptians in the myddest of the see: and the water returned & couered the charettes and the hoysmen: and all the hoost of Pharao that came into the see after them, so that there remayned not one of them. But the chyldren of Israel walked vpon drye lande: thow the mydd of the see, and the waters were a wall vnto them on the ryght hande of them, and on the lefte. Thus the Lorde deliuered Israel the selfe same daye out of the hand of the Egyptians: and Israel sawe the Egyptians deerd vpon the set syde. And Israel sawe the myghtye power which the Lorde shewed vpon the Egyptians: and the people feared the Lorde and beleued the Lorde & his seruauant Moyses.

The xv. Chapter.

Moyses and the people with the women singe. At the prayer of Moyses the dryer waters were sweete. God must be herde. They come to Elim.

When Moyses and the chyldren of Israel sang this songe vnto the Lorde and sayde: I will synge vnto the Lorde: for he hath tryumphed gloriously: the horse and hym that rode vpon hym hath he ouerthrowen in the see. The Lorde is my strength and prayse, and he is become my saluacyon. He is my God, and I will glorifye hym: my fathers God, and I will exalte hym. The Lorde is a man of warre. The Lorde is his name. Pharao's charettes and his hooste hath he cast into the see. His cholen captaynes also wer drowned in the red see, the depe waters haue couered them: they sanke to the bottom as a stone. Thy ryght hande Lorde is become glayous in power: thy ryght hande Lorde hath all to dalted the enemy. And in thy great glozy thou hast ouerthrowen them that rose vp agaynst the: thou sentest forth thy wrath which consumed them euen as stuble. Thow wind of thy nostris the water gathered together, the floudes stode still as an heape, and the depe water congeled together in the herte of the see.

The enemye sayde: I will folowe on them: I will ouertake them, I will deuyde the people, I will satisfy my lust vpon them, I will drawe my swearde, myne hande shall destroye them. Thou blewest with thy wynde, the see couered them, they sanke as leade in the myghtye waters. Who is lyke vnto the, O Lorde, amonge goddes: who is lyke the so glayous in holynesse fearfull in prayles, the wynde wonders: Thou stretchedst out thy ryght hande, the earth was lowed them: Thou in thy mercye haste caried this people whiche thou deliueredst: and haste brought them in thy strength vnto thy holy habitacion. The nation herde and were afrayed, sozowe came vpon the Philistines. Then the dukes of the Edomytes were amaled, and the myghtyest of the Moabytes, trembling came vpon them: all the inhabytours of Canaan were fayntbered: Let feare and drede fall vpon them in the greatnesse of thyne, let the be as styl as a stone, tyl the people passe thozow: O Lorde whyle this people passe thozowe whiche I hast gotten. Thou wilt hyng them in, and plante them in the mountayne of thyne inheritaunce. The place Lorde which I hast made for to dwel in the sanctuarie, O Lorde, whiche thy handes haue prepared. The Lorde shall ragne euer and alwaye. For Pharaos hofe went in with his charrettes and hofmen into the see, and I Lorde brought the waters of the see vpon them.

But the children of Israel went on drye lande in the mydd of the see. And Miriam a propheteesse the syster of Aaron toke a tymbrell in her hand, and all the women came oute after her w tymbrells and daunces. And Miriam sang before them. * Synge ye vnto the Lorde: for he hath triumphed gloriously: the hofe and his ryder hath he ouerthrowen in the see. And so Moses brought Israel from the red see, & they went out into the wilderness of Sur. And they went thre dayes longe in the wilderness, and founde no waters. And when they came to Mara, they coude not drynke of the waters of Mara: for they were bitter, therfore the name of the place was called Mara: ow (that is to saye bitternesse.) And the people murmured agaynst Moses sayinge: what shall we drynke? And he cryed vnto the Lorde: and the Lorde shewed hym a tree, which when he had cast into the water, I waters were made swete. There he made them an ordynance and a lawe, and there he proued hym, and sayde: If thou wilt hearken vnto the voyce of I Lorde thy God, and wilt do that which is right in his syght, and wilt gyue eare vnto his commaundementes, and kepe all his ordynaunces: then will I put none of these diseases vpon the whiche I brought vpon the Egyptians: for I am I Lorde that healeth the.

¶ The .xvi. Chapter. ¶

The Israelites come into the deserte of Syn. They murmure agaynst Moses and Aaron. They grudge.

The children of Israel came to Elim, where were twelue welles of water, and xij. palme trees, and they abode there by the waters. And they toke theyr iourney from Elim: and all the whole compaignie of the chyldren of Israel came to the wilderness of Syn, which is betwene Elim and Sinai: the fyfthene daye of the seconde moneth after they departed out of the lande of Egypt. And the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron in the wilderness: and the chyldren of Israel sayd vnto them wolde to God we had dyed by the hande of the Lorde in the lande of Egypt, when we sat by the flesh pottes, and when we dyd eat bread our bellyes full: for ye haue brought vs oute into this wilderness, to kyl this hole multitude with hunger.

Then sayde the Lorde vnto Moses: behold, I will rayne bread from heauen to you, and I people shall go out, and gather daye by daye that I maye proue them, whether they will walke in my lawe or no. The syxt daye they shall prepare for them selues that which they wyl bring in, and let it be twyle as much as they gather in dayly. And Moses and Aaron sayd vnto al the chyldren of Israel: at euen ye shall knowe, that it is the Lorde which brought you out of I land of Egypt: and in the morninge ye shall see the glory of the Lorde, because he hath herde youre grudginges agaynst the Lorde. And what are we that ye haue murmured agaynst vs? And Moses sayd: At euen shall the Lorde gyue you flesh to eat, and in the morninge breed ynough, for the Lorde hath hearde your murmurynge, which ye murmur against him: for what art we? your murmurynge are not agaynst vs, but agaynst the Lorde. And Moses spake vnto Aaron: Saye vnto all the compaignie of the chyldren of Israel, come forth before the Lorde: for he hath hearde your grudginges. And as Aaron spake vnto the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel, they looked toward the wilderness, & beholde, the glory of the Lorde appeared in the cloude. ¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: I haue hearde the murmurynge of the chyldren of Israel, tell them therfore and saye: at euen ye shall eat fleshe, and in the morninge ye shall be fylled with breed, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lorde your God. And at euen the quailles came and couered the grounde where they laye. And in the morninge the dewe laye rounde about the host. And when the dewe was fallen, beholde, it laye vpon the grounde in the wilderness, smal and round, and thynne, as the hoze froost on the grounde. And when the chyldren of Israel sawe it, they sayde euery one to his neyghbour: It is Manna. For they wist not what it was. And Moses sayd vnto them: this is the breed which the Lorde hath gyuen you to eat. This is the wyrd whiche the Lorde hath commaunded, gather it euery man for him selfe to eat: a gomer ful for a man accordynge to the nombre of you, and take euery man for the which are in his tente. And the chyldren of Israel dyd euen so, and gathered, some moze, some lesse, and when they dyd meate it w a gomer, vnto him that had gathered moche, remained nothyng ouer, & vnto hym that had gathered lytle, was there no lacke: euerye man gathered sufficiente for hys eatynge. And Moyses sayd vnto them.

E See that no man let ought remayne of it tyll the moynynge. Notwithstandynge they berkened not vnto Moyses: but some of them lefte of it vntill the moynynge, and it waxed ful of wormes and stanke. And Moyses was angrey wpyth them. And they gathered it all moynynge, euery man for his eatynge. And as sone as the heate of y<sup>e</sup> sunne came, it moulte. And the fyrte daye they gathered twyfe so muche breade, & two gomers for one man: and all the rulers of the multitude came and tolde Moyses. He sayde vnto them: thys is that whych the Lorde hath sayd: to morowe is the reste of the holy Sabbath vnto the Lorde: bake that whych ye wyl bake, and sech that ye wyl sech, and that whych remayneth, laye it vp tyll the moynynge. And they layde it vp tyll the moynynge, as Moyses bad, and it stanke not, nether bred there any worme therein. And Moyses sayde: that eate thys daye: for it is the Sabbath vnto the Lorde: to daye ye shall not fynde it in the felde. Syxe dayes shall ye gather it, and in the seuenth daye whych is y<sup>e</sup> Sabbath, there shalbe none. Notwithstandynge, there wente out some of the people in the seuenth daye for to gather, and they founde none. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: howe longe refuse ye to kepe my commaundementes, and my lawes? Se, the Lorde hath geuen you a Sabbath, therfore he geueth you y<sup>e</sup> fyrte daye breade for two dayes. Wyde therfore euerye man at home and let no man go oute of hys place the seuenth daye. And the people rested the seuenth daye. And the house of Israel called it Manna.

* And it was lyke vnto Coriandre seide, whyte and the taste of it was lyke vnto wafers made with honny. And Moyses sayd: this is that whych the Lorde commaundeth, fyl a gomer of it, whych maye be kepte for your chyldren after you: that they maye se the bread wherewith I haue fed you in wyldernesse, when I brought you out of the lande of Egypte. And Moyses spake vnto Aaron: take a cruse and put a gomer full of Manna therein, and laye it vp before the Lorde to be kepte for your chyldren after you, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. So Aaron layde it vp before the testimonye to be kepte. * And the chyldren of Israel dyde eate Manna fortye yere, vntill they came vnto a lande inhabited. And so they dyde eate Manna euen vntill they came vnto the borders of the lande of Canaan. A gomer is the tenth parte of an Ephah.

¶ The xvii. Chapter.

The Israelites come into Raphidim. They grudge water is geuen them out of the rocke. Moyses helpeth by hys handes and they overcome the Amalechites.

Ad al the company of y<sup>e</sup> chyldren of Israel thow out the p<sup>r</sup> armyes went fro the wyldernes of Sin, after the commaundement of the Lorde, & pyched in y<sup>e</sup> Raphidim wher was no water for the people to dypnke. And the people chode wpyth Moses, and sayd: geue vs water to dypnke. Moyses sayd vnto the: why chode ye wpyth me: wherfore do ye tempte the Lorde? There the people thyrsted for water, and the people murmured agaynst Moyses, & said: * wherfore hast thou thus brought vs out of Egypte to kyll vs and oure chyldren and catell wpyth thyrst.

And Moyses cryed vnto the Lorde, sayinge: what shal I do vnto this people: they be almost ready to stonne me. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: go before the people, and take wpyth the of the elders of Israel, and thy rodde wherewith thou smotest the egypter, take in thyne hande, and go: Behold, * I stande before the helyde a rocke that is in hozeb: and thou shalt smyte the rocke and there shall come water out therof, that the people maye dypnke. * And Moyses dyd euen so before the eyes of the elders of Israel. And he called the name of the place * Massa and * Meriba, because of the chydynge of the chyldren of Israel, and because they thempted y<sup>e</sup> Lorde, sayinge: is the Lorde amonge vs or no?

Then came Amalech and fought wpyth Israel in Raphidim. And Moyses sayde vnto Josua: chose vs out men, and go fyght wpyth Amalech, and to morowe I wyl stande on the toppe of the hyl. and the rod of God shalbe in my hande. Josua dyd as Moyses bade hym, & fought wpyth Amalech. And Moyses, and Aaron, and hur, wente vp to the toppe of the hyl. And it happened, that when * Moyses helde vp hys hande, Israel had the better. And when he let hys hande downe Amalech had the better.

But Moyses handes were deuy, and therfore they toke a stone and put it vnder hym, and he satte downe thereon. And Aaron and hur stayed vp hys handes, the one on the one syde, and y<sup>e</sup> other on the other syde. And hys handes remayned steadye vntill y<sup>e</sup> goynge downe of the sunne. And Josua dyscomfyred Amalech and hys people wpyth the edge of the swearde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: wpyth this for a remembraunce in a booke, and commytte it vnto the eares of Josua for: * I wyl vnterly put out the remembraunce of Amalech from vnder heauen. And Moyses made an aulter and called the name of it: The Lorde is he that worketh myracles for me. For he sayde: the hande is on the seate of God, the Lorde wyl haue war with Amalech from generation to generation.

Corthius counsell is requened of Moyses.

Iethro the Priest of Madiam Moyses father in lawe, hearde of all that God hadde done for Moyses, and for Israel his people, and that the Lorde had brought Israel out of Egypte.

* Therfore he toke yephora Moyses wyfe. (Al- ter he had sente her backe) and her two sonnes, of whiche the one was called * Gerson, for he sayd: I haue bene an aliaunt in a straunge lade. The name of the other was Eliezar: for the god of my father, sayd he: was myne helpe, and deliuered me from the swearde of Pharao.

And Jetho Moyses father in lawe came with hys two sones, and hys wyfe vnto Moyses into the wilderness: where he abode by the mount of God. And he sayde vnto Moyses: I thy father in lawe Jethro am come to the, and thy wyfe al so and her two sones wyth her. And Moyses went out to mete hys father in lawe & dyd obey saunce and kyssed hym, and eche asked other of his healeth, and they came into y tent. And Moyses tolde hys father in lawe al that y Lorde had done vnto Pharaon and to the Egipcians for Israels sake, and all the traouaple that had happened them by the waye, and howe the Lorde deliuered them. And Jethro reioysed ouer al the goodnesse whiche the Lorde had done to Israel and because he had deliuered them out of y hande of the Egipcians. And Jethro sayde: blessed be the Lorde whych hath deliuered you out of the hande of the Egipcians, and oute of the hande of Pharaon, whych hath also deliuered hys people from the captytie of the Egipcians. Nowe I knowe that the Lorde is greater then all gods, for in the thyng where by they dealete cruelly w them, are they them selues perished. And Jethro Moyses father in lawe offered burnt offeringes and sacrifices vnto God. And Aaron and al the elders of Israel came to eate breade wyth Moyses father in lawe before God.

And it chaunced on the morowe, that Moyses sat to iudge the people, and the people stode aboute Moyses from mornynge vnto euen. And when Moyses father in lawe sawe all that he dyd vnto the people, he sayd what is this that thou dost vnto the people? why sittest thou thy selfe alone, and all the people stande aboute the from mornynge vnto euen? And Moyses sayd vnto his father in lawe: because the people come vnto me to seeke counsell of God. When they haue a matter, they come vnto me, & I iudge betwene euery man and his neyghboure, and shewe them the ordinaunces of God and his lawes.

And Moyses father in lawe sayde vnto hym: it is not well that thou dost. Thou both wepest thy selfe, and thys people that is wyth y: for this thyng is of more weyght, then thou arte able to performe thy selfe alone. Heare nowe therfore my voyce, and I wyl geue the counsel, and God shalbe wyth the. Ge thou vnto the people to Godwarde, that thou mayst byrynge the causes vnto God, and thou shalt teache them of dynaunces, and lawes, & shewe them the waye wherein they must walke, and the worke y they must do. Wozeouer, thou shalt seeke out amonge all the people, men of actiuite, and such as feare

God: true men, hatynge couetousnes: and make them herdes ouer the people captaynes ouer thou sandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fiftty, and ouer ten. And let them iudge the people at al seasons. And euerye * greute matter that happeneth, let them byrynge vnto the, but let the iudge all small causes them selues, and so shall it be easer for thy selfe, and they shall beare wyth the. If thou shalt do this thyng, (and God charge the wyth all) thou shalt be able to endure, and yet the people shal come to the place in peace.

And so Moyses obeyed the voyce of hys father in lawe, and dyd all that he had sayde, and chose actyue men oute of all Israel, and made them as heades ouer the people: namely captaynes ouer thousandes, ouer hundredes, ouer fiftty, and ouer ten. And they iudged the people at all seasons, but brought the hard causes vnto Moyses: and iudged all small matters them selues. And Moyses let hys father in lawe departe, and he wente into hys owne lande.

Chapter.

The chyldren of Israel come to the mount Synay. The people of God are holty and a holy pethode. In that coun- chech the best dyeth. God appeareth vnto Moyses vpon the mounte in thunder and in lightynge.

At the thyrde moneth, when the chyldren of Israel were gone out of the lande of Egypt, the same daye came they into the wilderness of Synay. * For they were departed from Raphidim, and were come to the deserte of Synay, and had pyched they tentes in the wilderness. And there Israel abode before y monthe. * But Moyses wente vnto God, and the Lorde called to hym out of the mountayne, sayenge: thus shalt thou saye vnto the house of Jacob, and tel the chyldren of Israel: ye haue sene what I dyd vnto the Egipcians, and toke you vpon myngles wynges, and haue broughte you vnto my selfe. Nowe therfore * yf ye wil heare my voyce in drede, and kepe myne appointment, ye shalbe myne owne, aboue all nacions, for all the earth is myne. Ye shalbe vnto me also a kyngdome of * preastes and an holy people: and these are the wordes which thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israel. Moyses came and called for the elders of the people, and layde before they faces al these wordes, which the Lorde commaunded hym. And the people answered altogether, and sayde: * All that the Lorde hath sayde, we wyl do. And Moyses broughte the wordes of the people vnto the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Lo, I come come vnto the in a thicke cloude, that the people maye heare me talke wth the, and beleue the for ever. Moses shewed the wordes of the people vnto the lord.

B And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: Go vnto the people, and sanctifye them to daye and to morowe, and let them wash theyr clothes: and be redy agaynst the thyrde daye. For the thyrde daye the Lord wyll come downe in the sygher of all the people vpon mount Sinai. And thou shalt set markes rounde aboute the people, and saye: be ware that ye go not vp into the mount, or touche the bounde of it. Whosoever toucheth the * mount, shall surely dye. There shall not an hande touche it. Els he shalbe stoned or shot thowhe: whether it be beast or man, it shal not liue: when the trompe bloweth longe, then may they come vp into the mountayne.

C And Moses went downe from the mount vnto the people, and sanctified them, and they washed theyr clothes. And he sayde vnto the people: be readye agaynst the thyrde daye, and come not of your wyues. And the thyrde daye in the moorning there was thundre and lychtening and a thicke cloude vpon the mount, & the voyce of the trompe exceeding lowde, so that all the people that was in the hoste was afraied. And Moses brought the people oute of the tentes to mete with God, and they * stode vnder the hyl. And mount Sinai was altogether on a smoke because the Lord descended downe vpon it in fyre. And the smoke therof ascended vp, as the smoke of a hylne, and all the mount was exceeding feareful. And when the voyce of the trompe blew, and wared lowder and lowder. Moses spake, and God answered hym by a voyce.

D And the Lord came downe vpon mount Sinai, euen in the toppe of the hyl, and when the Lord called Moses vp into the toppe of the hyl, Moses went vpp. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: Go downe, charge the people, that they prease not vp to se the Lord, and so many of the people. And let the prestes also whiche come to the Lord sanctifye them selues, lest the Lord destroy them. And Moses sayd vnto the Lord: the people can not come vp into the mount Sinai, for thou chargest vs, sayinge: set markes aboute the hyl, and sanctifye it. And the Lord sayde vnto him: away, and get thee downe: and thou shalt come vp, thou and Aaron with thee. But let not the prestes & the people presume for to come vp vnto the Lord: lest he destroye them. And so Moses wente downe vnto the people, and tolde them.

The xx. Chapter.

The ten commandmentes are gyven. The altare of earth.

A And God spake all these wordes, & sayde: I am the Lord thy God, whiche haue * brought the oute of the lande of Egypt, out of the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my sight. * Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage, neither any similitude that is in heauen above, eyther in the earth beneth, or in the waters vnder the earth. * Thou shalt not bowe thy selfe, neither serue the, for I the Lord thy God, am a gelouse God: and vyseth the synne of the fathers vpon the children vnto the thyrde and fourthe generation of them that hate me: and my mercy vnto thousandes in them that loue me and kepe my commandmentes.

Thou shalt not * take the name of the Lord thy God in vayne, for the Lord wyll not holde hym guiltlesse that taketh his name in vayne.

* Remember the Sabbath daye, that thou sanctifye it. Syx dayes wylte thou labour, and doo all that thou hast to doo: but the seventh daye is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God, in it thou shalt doo no manner of worke, thou and thy sonne, and thy daughter, thy manservant, and thy maydeservant, thy cattell, and thy straunger that is within thy gates. For in syx dayes the Lord made heauen and earth, the see, and all that in them is, and rested the seventh day, wherfore the Lord blessed the Sabbath daye, and hallowe it. * Honour thy father and thy mother, that thy dayes may be longe in the lande, whiche the Lord thy God gyuethe.

* Thou shalt not breake wedlocke.

Thou shalt not couett * thy neyghbours house, neyther shalt thou couett thy neyghbours wyfe, or his manservant, or his mayde, or his ore, or his asse, or whatsoeuer thy neyghbour hath. And all the people sawe the thunder, and the lychtenyng, and the noyse of the trompe, and the mountayne smoking.

And when the people sawe it, they remoued, and stode afar of, and sayde vnto Moses, talke * thou with vs, and we wyl heare: but lette not God talke with vs, lest we dye. And Moses sayde vnto the people: feare not, for God is come to proue you, and that bys feare may be in your face, that ye synne not. And the people stode afar of: And Moses went into the thicke cloude where God was. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: thus thou shalt saye vnto the chyldren of Israel. Ye haue sene that I haue talked with you from out of heuē. Ye shal not make therfore with me gods of syluer, neyther shall ye make you goddes of golde. * An altare of earth thou shalt make vnto me, and thereon offeresthy burnt offerynges, and thy peace offerynges, thy shepe, and thyne oren. In all places where I shall put the remembraunce of my name I thurder I wyl come vnto the, and blesse the. And yf thou wylt make me an altare of stonne, se thou make it not of hewen stonne. Els yf thou lyfte vp thy toole vpon it, thou hast polluted it. Rather shalt thou go vp by stepes vnto myne altare, that thy synne be not shewed thereon.

he shall go out free, payinge nothinge. If he came alone, he shall go out alone. And if he came married, his wyfe shall go out with hym.

And if his master haue gyven hym a wyfe, and she haue borne hym sonnes or daughters: then the wyfe and her chyldren shall be her maisters, and he shall go out alone. And if the seruant say: I loue my master, my wyfe and my chyldren, I will not go out free. His master shall bynge hym vnto the Iudges, and set hym to the doze, or to the doze post, and his master shall boze his care thowowe wyth a nawle, and he shall be his seruant for euer.

And if a man sell his daughter to be a seruant: she shall not go out as the men seruantes doo. If she also please not her master, and he geue her to no man to wyfe, then shall he lette her go free: to sell her vnto a straunge nacion shall he haue no power, siuge he despyled her. If he haue promysed her vnto his son to wyfe, he shall deale wyth her, as men do wyth theyr daughters. And if he take hym an other wyfe, yet her sode, her raymente, and dute of marriage, shall be not mynished, and if he do not these thyngs vnto her, then shall she go out free, and paye no money. If he that smyteth a man that be dpe, shall be slayne for it. If a man laye not awaite, but God deliuer hym into his hande, then I will poynte the a place whither he shall flee. If a man come presumptuously vpon his neyghboure to slaye hym with gyle, thou shalt take hym fro myne altar that he dpe. If he that smyteth his father or his mother, lette hym be slayne for it. If he that sleaeth a man, and selleth hym: if it be proued vpon him, shall be slayne for it. And he that curseth his father or mother, shall be put to death for it. If men streue together, and one smite another with a stone or wyth his fyfte, and he dpe not, but lyeth in bed: if he ryle agayne and walke without vpon his staffe, then shall he beare his charges for lesyng his tyme, and shall pay for his healyng. And if a man smyte his seruant or his mayde with a rodde, and they dpe vnder his hande, it shall be auenged in dede.

And if they contynue a daye or two, it shall not be auenged, for they are his moneye. If men streue and hurte a woman with chylde, so that her frute departe from her, and yet no misfortune followe: then shall he be merced accordyng as the womans husbande wyl lape to his charge, and he shall paye as the dayes men appoynte hym. And if any misfortune followe: then shall he paye lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye, tothe for tothe, hande for hande, fote for fote, burninge for burninge, wounde for wounde, strype for strype. And if a man smyte his seruant or his mayde in the eye, and it perysh, he shall let them go free for the eyes sake.

Also if he smyte oute his seruante or his maydes tothe, he shall lette them go out free for the tothes sake. If an ore goze a man or a woman, that they dpe: then the ore shall be stoned, and his fleshe shall not be eaten, but the owner of the ore shall go quyte.

If the ore were wounte to push in tyme past and it hath bene tolde his master, and he hath not kept hym, but that he hath kylled a man or a woman, then the ore shall be stoned, and his owner shall dpe also. If there be sette to hym a summe of money, then he shall gyue for the deliuerance of his lyfe whatsoener is put vnto him. And whether he hath gozed a sonne, or hurte a daughter, he shall be serued after the same manner. But if he be a seruant or a mayde that the ore hath gozed, then he shall gyue vnto theyr master thyspe species of syluer, and the ore shall be stoned. If a man open a well, or bygge a pyt and couer it not, and an ore or an asse fall therein the owner of the pytte shall make it good, and gyue moneye vnto theyr master, and the deede beaste shall be his.

If one mannes ore hurte an other that he dpe then they shall sell the lyue ore, and deuyde the money, and the deede ore also they shall deuyde. If it be knowne that the ore hath vsed to push in tyme past, and his master hath not kept hym, he shall pay ore for ore, and the deede shall be his owne.

Charge lyke lawes as are in the Chapter above.

If a man scale an ore or a shepe, and kyll it or sell it, he shall restoze. v. oren for one ore: and foure shepe for a shepe. If a shepe be founde breakeyng vpon, and be smytten that he dpe there shall no blood be shedde for hym: but if the summe be vpon when he is founde, then there shall be bloodshed for hym.

These shall make restitution: if he haue not wherwith, he shall solde for his thefte. If the thefte be founde in his hande alyne, (whether it be ore, asse, or shepe) he shall restoze double. If a man do hurte felde or vyneyarde, and put in his beast to fede in another mans felde: of the best of his owne felde, & of the best of his owne vyneyarde shall he make restitution.

If he breake out, and cathe in the thornes and the stacks of cozne, or the standyng cozne or felde be consumed therewith, he that kyndled the fyre shall make restitution.

If a man deliuer his neyghbours moneye or stuffe to kepe, and it be stolen out of his house, if the thefte be found, let hym paye double. And if the thefte be not founde, then the good man of the house shall be brought vnto the Iudges. (And shall sweare) whether he haue put his hande vnto his neyghbours good.

And in all maner of trespass, whether it be for oren, asse, shepe, rayment, or anye maner of lost thyng which an other chalengeth to be his the cause of bothe parties shall come before the Iudges, and whom the Iudges condemne: let hym paye double vnto his neyghbour.

If a man deliuer vnto his neyghboure to kepe, asse, ore, shepe, or what so euer beaste it be, and it dpe, or be hurte, or taken awaye (and no man se it): then shall an othe of the Lord be betwene betwene them, that he hath not put his hande vnto his neyghbours good, and the owner of it shall take the oth, and so other shall not make it good. And if it be stolen from hym, then he shall make restitution vnto the owner thereof.

If it be tozme with wyld beasts, then let hym brynge recorde of the tearing, and he shall not make it good. And if a man borrowe oughte of his neyghbour, and it be hurte or elles dye, and the owner thereof be not by, he shall make it good.

But if the owner thereof be by, he shall not make it good: namely, if it be an byed thynge, and raine for bys hye. * If a man entyle a mayd that is not deflowered, and lye with her, he shall endowe her, and take her to his wyfe.

And if her father refuse to geue her vnto hym, he shall paye money, accordyng to the dowrye of virgines. Thou shalt not lustre a wyche to lye. Whosoever lych wyth a beast, shall be slayne for it. He that offereth vnto any goddes, saue vnto the Lorde onely, let hym be vtterly rooted out. * Let not a straunger, neyther op-presse hym: for ye were straungers in the lande of Egypt. * If he shall trouble no wydowe, nor fatherlesse chyld. If ye shall trouble them, & they crye vnto me, I will surely heare they crye, & then will my wrath waxe hote, and I will kyl you wyth the sword, and your wyues shall be wydowes, and your chyldren fatherlesse.

* If thou lende money to any of my people is poore by the, thou shalt not be as a tyraunte vnto him: neither shalt thou oppresse him wyth usury. * If thou take thy neyghbours rayment to pledge, thou shalt deliuer it vnto hym agayne by that the sunne goeth downe. For that is his couerynge onely, euen the rayment for his sayme wherin he slepeth. And when he crieth vnto me I will heare hym, for I am mercifull.

* Thou shalt not rale vpon the goddes: neither blasfeme the ruler of thy people. Thy fru-tes (whether they be dyce or mofst) thou kepe not backe. * Thy fyrste bozne sonne thou shalt giue me, likewise also shalt thou do with thyne oxen and with thy shepe. Seuen dayes it shall be with the damme, & the eighth day thou shalt giue it me. Ife shall be holy people vnto me, neither shall ye eate any flesh that is tozme of beastes in the felde. But shall cast it to dogges.

Chap. xxiij. Chapter.
There I set no summe, because I wolde all people shalbe reade the Chapter thynke out, and the two that are next before also.

Thou shalt not accepte a bayne tale, neyther shalt thou put thyne hande wyth the wycked, to be an vnryghteous wytnesse. Thou shalt not folowe a multitude to do euill, neither answere in a matter of plear that thou woldest (to folowe many) turne asyde from the truthe, neither shalt thou paynte a poore mannes cause. * If thou mete thyne enemyes ore or asse goinge astraye, thou shalt brynge them to hym agayne. * If thou se thyne enemyes asse synke vnder his burthen, thou shalt not passe by and let hym aloone: but shalt helpe hym to lyft hym vp agayne.

Thou shalt not hynde the ryght of the poore in their sute. Kepe the farre from a false matter, and the innocent and ryghteous se thou slape not, for I will not iustify the wycked: * Thou shalt take no gyftes, for gyftes blynde the seing and peruert the wordes of the ryghteous. Thou shalt not oppresse a straunger, for ye knowe the herte of a straunger, singe ye were straun-gers in the lande of Egypt.

* Sye yeres thou shalt sowe thy lande, and gather in the frutes thereof, and the seuenth yere thou shalt let it rest and lye still, that the poore of thy people maye eate, and what the pleane, the beasts of the felde shall eate. In lyke maner thou shalt do also with thy vyncarde, & thyne olue trees. * Sye dayes thou shalt do thy worke, and in the seuenth day thou shalt reste, that thyne ore and thyne asse maye rest, and the sone of thy mayde and the straunger, may be refreshed. In all thynges that I haue sayde vnto you, be circumspecte. And make no reherfall of the names of straunge goddes, neyther let it be heard out of thy mouth.

Thy frastes thou shalt hold vnto me in a yere * Thou shalt kepe the feast of swete byed, that thou eate unleuened byed seuen dayes longe, as I commaunded the, in the tyme of the moneth when cozne begynneth to ryse, for in that mo-neth ye came out of Egypt: and se that no ma appeare before me emptye. And the feast of haruest when thou reapest the fyrste frutes of thy labours, which thou hast sowed in the felde.
And the feast of ingathering, which is in the ende of the yere, when thou hast gathered in thy labours out of the felde.

* Thy tymes in a yere shall all thy men chyldren appeare before the Lorde God.

* Thou shalt not offere the blood of my sacrifice vpon leuened byed: neyther shall the fatte of my feast remaine vntyl the morninge.

* The fyrst of the fyrst frutes of thy lande thou shalt brynge into the house of the Lorde thy God, * thou shalt also not seeth a kyd in his mothers mylke. Scholde, I sende an Angell before the,
to kepe the in the waye, and to brynge the into the place whiche I haue prepared. Beware of hym, and heare his voyce, and respyse hym not:
for he will not spare your mysdoes, and my name is in hym. But and if thou shalt hearken vnto his voyce, and all that I speake, I will be an enemye vnto thyne enemyes, and an aduersarye vnto thyne aduersaryes. For myne angell * shall go before the, and brynge the in vnto the Amozites, and Bethites, and Moabites and Cananites, Hittites, and Jebuzites, and I shall destroye them. Thou shalt not worshyp these goddes, neither serue them, neither do after the wordes of them: but overthrowe them, and breake downe the pyages of them. And ye shall serue the * Lorde your God, and he shall blesse thy byed and thy water, and I will take all synnesse awaye from the myddes of the.

There shall be no womā childlesse nor vnfrute-full in thy lande: the nombre of thy dayes will I fulfill. I will sende my feare before the, and will trouble all the people whither thou shalt go.

go. And I will make all thyne enemyes turne theyr backs vnto the, and I will sende hornets before the, which shall bite out the heuities, the Canaanites, and the heebrees before the. Heurthe lesse. * I will not cast them out in one pere, lest the lande growe to a wyldernesse: and the bestes of the felde multiplye agaynst the. Wylye and lytle I will delyue them out before the, vntyll thou be encreased, and inherite the lande. And I will make thy costes from the red see vnto the see of the Philistines, and from the desert vnto the ryuer. For I will delyue the inhabytters of the lande into thyne hande, and thou shalt delyue them out before the. * Thou shalt make none appoyntment wyth them, nor wyth theyr goddes. Euerther let them dwel in thy lande, lest they make the syn agaynst me: for yf thou serue theyr goddes, it will be thy decaye.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Moses ascendeth vp to the mount, and sheweth the lawe of the Lorde. The blood of the covenante. The elders of Israel iudge the people.

And he sayd vnto Moses: come vp vnto the Lorde: and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and the lxx. elders of Israel, and worshippe a far of. And Moses hym selfe alone shall go vnto the Lorde, but they shall not come nye, neyther shall the people go vp with hym. And Moses came and tolde the people all the wordes of the Lorde, and all the lawes. And all the people answered wyth one voyce, and sayd: al the wordes which the Lorde hath sayd, we will do. And Moses wrote all the wordes of the Lorde, and rose vp early, and set vp an * altier vnder the hyll, and twelue stonnes accordyng to the. xii. trybes of Israel, and sent yonge men of the chyldren of Israel, which brought burnt offerynges, and offered peaceofferynges of oren vnto the Lorde. And Moses toke halfe of the blood, and put it in basens, and the other halfe, he spynkled on the altier. And he toke the boke of the appoyntment, and red it in the audience of the people. And they sayde: All that the Lorde hath sayd, we will do, and be obedyent. And Moses toke the * blood, and spynkled it on the people, and sayd: behold, this is the blood of the appoyntment, which the Lorde hath made wth you vpon all these wordes.

Then went Moses and Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and the lxx. elders of Israel vp, & sawe the God of Israel, and there was vnder his fete as it were a worke of a saphire stone, and as it were the heauen when it is cleare, and vpon the nobles of the chyldren of Israel he sette not hys hond. And they sawe God, and dyed not.

* And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: come vp to me into the hyll, and be there, and I will gyue the tables of stone, and a law and commaundementes, which I haue writte, & thou mayst teache them. And Moses rose vp and hys minister Jehosua, and Moses went vp into the hyll of God, and sayd vnto the elders: tarre ye here, vntyll we come agayne vnto you. Behold here is Aaron, and hur wyth you. Yf any man haue any matter to do, lette hym come to them. And

Moses wente vp into the mounte, and a cloude couered the hyll, and the gloire of the Lorde abode vpon the mount Synay, and the cloude couered it fyve dayes. And the seuerth day he called vnto Moses out of the cloude. And the fasthyon of the gloire of the Lorde was lyke consuminge fyre on the toppe of the hyll, in the syght of the chyldren of Israel. And Moses went into the cloude, and got him vp into the mountayn. And Moses was in the mount fourty dayes and fourty nyghtes.

The xxv. Chapter.

The Lorde sheweth Moses the fashion of the holy place, and the chynges pertaining thereto.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they bringe me an heueoffryng: of euery man that gyueth it willingly wyth hys herte, ye shall take it. * This is the heueoffryng whiche ye shall take of them, golde, and syluer, and brasse, pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, whyte sylke, and gootes herte, rammes skynnes that are red, and the skynnes of carus, & sethim wood oyle for lyght, spyes for anoyntynge oyle, and for sweete sence. Onyx stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brestplate.

And let them make me a sanctuarie (that I may dwell amonge them.) And accordyng to al that I shew the, both after the fashion of the habitation, and after the fashion of al the ornaments therof, eue so shall ye make it. And they shall make an * arke of sethim wood, two cubytes and an halfe longe, a cubyte and an halfe bryde, and a cubyte and an halfe hie. And thou shalt ouerlape it wyth pure golde, wythin, and without shalt thou ouerlape it, and shalt make an hye vpon it a crowne of golde rounde about. And thou shalt cast foure rynges of gold for it, and put them in the foure corners therof. ii. rynges shall be in the one syde of it, & ii. in the other.

And thou shalt make barres of sethim wood and couer them wyth golde, and put the barres in the rynges alonge by the sydes of the arke, to beare it withall. And the barres shall be in the rynges of the arke, and shall not be taken away from it. And thou shalt put in the arke the wyenill which I haue giue. And thou shalt make a mercieseat of pure golde. ii. cubytes & an halfe longe, and a cubyte and an halfe bryde.

And thou shalt make two cherubins of gold: euen of a whole worke shalt thou make them in the

in the two endes of the mercyseate: and the one cherub shalt thou make on y<sup>e</sup> one ende, and the other on the other ende. Euen of the same mercyseate shalt thou make cherubins in the two endes thereof. And the Cherubins shall stretch the wynges abrode ouer on hye, coueryng the mercyseate with their wynges, and they faces shall loke one to an other: eue to the mercyseateward shall the faces of the Cherubins be. And thou shalt put the mercyseate aboue vpon the arke, and in the arke thou shalt put the witness which I wyll gyue the, and from thence I wyll testify vnto the, and wyl comon with the from vpon the mercyseate: from betwene the two Cherubins which are vpon the arke of witness, of all thynges which I wyll gyue the in commaundement vnto the chyldren of Israel.

C * Thou shalt also make a table of Setim wood of ii. cubites longe and one cubite bryde, and a cubite and an half hye: And thou shalt couer it with pure gold, & make thereto a crowne of golde rounde about. And make vnto that an whorpe of foure syngers bryde rounde aboute. And make a golden crowne also to the whorpe, rounde about. And make for it foure rynges of gold, and put the rynges in the corners that are in the foure fete thereof: euen ouer agaynste the whorpe shall the rynges be, to put in barres, to beare the table wythall. And thou shalt make y<sup>e</sup> barres of Setim wood, and ouerlay them with golde, that the table maye be borne with them. And thou shalt make his dysches, and spoones, flatpeces, and pottes to poure oute wythall: Euen of fyne gold shalt thou make the. And thou shalt set vpon the table, shewbryed befoze me alwaye. * And thou shalt make a candlestych of pure golde, euen of a whole worke that the candlestych be made, with his shafte, bryanches, bolles, knoppes, and floures procedynge thereout: Wyre bryanches also shall procede out of y<sup>e</sup> sydes of it: thye bryanches of y<sup>e</sup> candlestych out of the one syde, and thye out of the other. Thye cuppes lyke vnto almondes with knoppes and floures in one bryanche. And thye cuppes lyke almondes in the other bryanche, with knoppes and floures. And euen so thow wyte the lyre bryanches that procede out of the candlestych: and in the candlestych selfe foure cuppes lyke vnto almondes with thye knoppes and floures and there shall be a knop vnder euery two bryanches. <sup>20</sup> (in the volume) of the syre that procede out of the candlestych. And the knoppes and y<sup>e</sup> bryanches shall be of it. And it shall be one worke euen of pure golde. And thou shalt make the leuen lampes of it: and the leuen lampes thereof, shalt thou put on hye thereon, to gyue lyght vnto the other syde that is ouer agaynste it. The tongs and shofers thereof shall be of pure golde. Of an hundred pounce weyght of fyne golde shalt thou make it with all the apparell. * Loke therfore that thou make them after the fashyon that was shewed the in the mount.

The xxvi. Chapter.

This Chapter also describeth the thynges pertaynyng to the holy place.

He tabernacle shalt thou make wth 3
1. curtaynes of white twined silke yelowesylke, purple and skarlet. And in them thou shalt make pictures of hyorderbe worke. The length of one curtayne shall be cxxij. and twentie cubytes, and the bredth of one curtayne foure cubytes, and cutte one of the curtaynes shall haue one measure: fyue curtaynes shall be coupled togyther one to another: and fyue curtaynes shall be coupled together one to an other.

C * And thou shalt make a leuen curtaynes of gootes heere, to be a couerynge vpon the tabernacle. The length of a curtayne shall be thrytye cubytes, and the bredth foure, and they shall be all leuen of one measure. And thou shalt couple fyue curtaynes by them selues, and the syre by them selues, and shalt double the syre in the foze fronte of the Tabernacle. And thou shalt make fyfte lowpes in the edge of the vermost curtayne on the one syde: euen in the edge of the couplynge curtayne: and fyfte lowpes in the edge of the other curtayne that muste be ioyned vnto it. And thou shalt make fyfte buttons of brasse, and put them on the lowpes: and couple the couerynge together, that it maye be one.

And the remnant that resteth in the curtaynes of the couerynge: euen the halfe curtayne that resteth, shall be sette on the backe sydes of the habitation: that a cubyte on the one syde, & a cubyte on the other syde maye remayne in the length of the curtaynes of the couerynge, and y<sup>e</sup> it maye remayne of eithre syde of the habitation to couer it wythall. And vpon the tabernacle thou shalt make a couerynge of rammes skynnes dyed red, and yet a couerynge about all of taxus skynnes.

D And thou shalt make bozdes for the habitation of Setim wood to stande vpyght: ten cubytes longe shall euery boorde be, and a cubyte and an half bryde. Two fete shall there be in one boorde: and they shall be separate one from an other. And thus shalt thou make for al the bozdes of the tabernacle. * And thou shalt make twenty bozdes for the habitation on the south syde, and thou shalt make sockettes of syluer, vnder the twenty bozdes, two sockettes vnder one boorde, for his two fete, and two sockettes vnder an other boorde for his two fete.

In lyke maner in the north syde of the habitation there shall be xx. bozdes & ii. sockettes of syluer. ii. sockettes vnder one boorde, & ii. sockettes vnder a

d. iii. nother

norther boarde. And in the west ende of the habitation shalt thou make fyve boordes, and two boordes shalt thou make in the corners of the habitation in the meeting together of the two sydes. And they shalbe coupled together beneath, and lyke wyse above, to a ryng. And thus shal it be for the two boordes, that are in the corners. And they shalbe ryght boordes hauing sockettes of syluer, euen xvi. sockettes: that there maye be two sockettes vnder one boarde, and two sockettes vnder an other boarde.

And thou shalt make barres of sethim wood, fyve for the boordes of the tabernacle in one syde, and fyve barres for the boordes of the tabernacle in the other syde, and fyve barres for the boordes of the tabernacle in the west ende. And synple barre shall goo alonge thowre the myddes of the boordes from the one ende vnto the other. And thou shalt couer the boordes with golde, and make theyr rynges of golde, to put fyve barres thowre, and thou shalt couer the barres with golde also. And thou shalt reer vp the habitation accordyng to the sayd on therof, as it was shewed the in the mounte. And thou shalt make a vayle of pelowe sylke, of purple, scarlet, and white twyned sylke. Of byoerdy worke with pyctures shalt thou make it. And hange it vpon fyve pillers of sethim woode couered with golde. Whose heedes shalbe of golde, standing vpon fyve sockettes of syluer. And thou shalt hange vpon the vayle wheringes, that thou mayest bring in within the vayle the arke of wytnesse. And the vayle shall vnto you deuyde the holpe from the most holy. And thou shalt put the mercyseate vpon the arke of wytnesse in the holpest place. And thou shalt put the table without the vayle, and the candlestick ouer agaynst the table on the south syde of habitation. And put the table on the north syde. And thou shalt make an hangyng for the doore of the tabernacle of pelow sylke, purple, scarlet, & white twyned sylke wrought w needle worke. And thou shalt make for the hangyng. v. pillers of sethim woode & couer them with golde, & their knops shalbe of golde, and thou shalt cast. v. sockettes of bryasse for them.

The xxviii. Chapter

The forme of the altare of the burnt offering with his boordes, rynges, haues, goynges, & other ornaments.

Ex. xxviii. 1

And thou shalt make an altare of sethim wood, fyve cubites long and fyve cubytes bryde. For it shall be square, and thre cubytes hye. And thou shalt make it hozen in fyve corners of it, the hozen shalbe of it selfe, and thou shalt couer it with bryasse. And make his alypannes, shouels, basens, fletchers, fyve panes, and all the apparell therof for the same of bryasse. And thou shalt make vnto it a gerderyne also (lyke a net) of bryasse. And vpon that net shalt thou make fyve bryasen rynges in the four corners therof: and thou shalt put it vnder the compasse of the altare beneath, that the nette maye be in the myddes of the altare. And thou shalt make the two barres for the altare of sethim wood, and couer them with bryasse, and let them be put in rynges alonge by the sydes of the altare to beare it wythal. And make the alter holde with boordes: euen as it was shewed the in the mount, so shall they make it.

And thou shalt make the court of the habitation, that there maye be in the south syde hangynges of white twyned sylke, of an hundred cubytes longe, for one syde, and twenty pylles therof, with theyr twenty sockettes of bryasse: but the knoppes of the pylles, and theyr whoopes shalbe syluer. In lyke wyse on the northside there shalbe hangynges of an hundred cubytes longe, and. xx. pylles with theyr. xx. sockettes of bryasse, and the knoppes and the whoopes of syluer. And the bredth of the court, which is on the west part, shal haue curtaynes of fyfte cubites longe, and ten pylles with theyr ten sockettes. And the bredth of the court which is eastwarde shal haue fyfte cubites. hangynges of fyftene cubytes in the one syde: and theyr pylles with theyr thre sockettes: and lyke wyse on the other syde shalbe hangynges of fyftene cubytes, with theyr thre pylles and sockettes.

And in the gate of the court shalbe a vayle of twenty cubytes, of pelow sylke, purple, and scarlet, & white twyned sylke wrought w needle worke: and fyve pylles with theyr fyve sockettes. All the pylles rounde about the court shalbe whooped with syluer, and theyr knoppes shalbe of syluer, and theyr sockettes of bryasse. The length of the court shalbe an hundred cubites, and the bredth fyfte, and the bredth fyue, and the hangynges shalbe of white twyned sylke, and theyr sockettes of bryasse. All the vessels of the habitation in all maner scrupce and the pyntes therof: yea, and all the pyntes also of the court, shalbe of bryasse. And thou shalt commaunde the chyldren of Israel, that they gyue the pure oyle olyue beaten for fyght, to poure alwaie into the lampes. In the tabernacle of wytnesse without the vayle which is befoze the wytnesse, shal Aaron & his sonnes bryse it both euenyng and moynyng befoze the Lorde: and it shall be a statute for euer vnto the generacions of the chyldren of Israel.

The xxviii. Chapter

Aarons apparell, and his sonnes.

And take thou vnto the Aaron thy brother and his sonnes with hym, from amonge the chyldren of Israel, that they maye mynister vnto me. Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar, Aarons sonnes. And thou shalt make holy raiment for Aaron thy brother, that they maye be vnto glozy and beautie. And thou shalt speake vnto al that are wyse hearted, and whomsoever I haue fylled with the spirite of wysdome: that they make Aarons raimente to consecrate hym with, that he may minister vnto me. These are the garmentes whiche they shal make, a bresllap, Ephod, a tunicle, a strap coote, a myter, and a gyrdle. These holpe garmentes shal they make for Aaron thy brother: and his sonnes, that they maye minister vnto me. And let them take golde, pelow sylke, purple ple, scarlet, and whyte twined sylke. They shal make the Ephod of golde, pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twined sylke with boorderd worke. The two sydes shal come together, and be closed vp in the two edges thereof. And the gyrdle of the Ephod shalbe of the same worke-manshpy, and of the same stuffe, euen of golde, pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twined sylke. And thou shalt take two onix stones, and graue in them the names of the chyldren of Israel: syre names of them in the one stone, and the other syre in the other stone: accordyng to the word of the Lord. After the worke of a stone grauer, and of hym that grauerth sygnets shalt thou graue the two stones with the names of the chyldren of Israel, and shalt make them to be set in gold. And thou shalt put the two stones vpon the two shoulders of the Ephod, that they may be stones of remembraunce vnto the chyldren of Israel. And Aaron shal beare theyr names before the Lord vpon his two shoulders, for a remembraunce. And thou shalt make holers of golde and two cheynes of fyne gold lynk worke and wyrted, and fasten the wyrted cheynes to the holers. And thou shalt make the brestplate of iudgement with boorderd worke, euen after the worke of the Ephod shalt thou make it: namely of golde, pelow sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twined sylke, shalt thou make it. Four square it shalbe and double, an hand bred longe and an hand bred bred. And thou shalt fyl it w four rowes of stones. In the fyrst rowe shalt be a Sardios, a Topas, and a Smaragdus, in the second rowe, a Ruby, Sapphir, and a Diamonde: in the thyrde Ligurios an Achat, and a Marist: in the fourth, a Turcas, Onix, and a Jaspis. And they shalbe set in golde in theyr inclofers. And the stones shalbe grauen as sygnets be grauen with the names of the chyldren of Israel, euen with twelue names, euery one with his name accordyng to the twelue tribes. And thou shalt make vpon the brestplate, two fastenynge cheynes of pure golde and wyrted worke. And thou shalt make lyke wyse vpon the brestplate two rynges of golde: and putte the on the edges of the brestplate, and put the two wyrted cheynes of gold in the rynges which are in the edges of the brestplate. And the other two endes of the two cheynes, thou shalt fasten in two close holes, and put them vpon the shoulders of the Ephod on the foresyde of it. And thou shalt yet make two rynges of gold, which thou shalt put in the two edges of the brestplate, euen in the borders thereof, toward the insyde of the Ephod ouer agaynst it. And yet two other rynges of gold thou shalt make and put the on the two sydes of the Ephod, beneath ouer agaynst the brestplate, alowe where the sydes are ioyned together vpon the boorderd gyrdle of the Ephod. And they shal bynde the brestplate by his rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, with a lace of pelowe sylke, so it maye lye close aboute the boorderd gyrdle of the Ephod, so that the brestplate be not loosed from the Ephod. And Aaron shall beare the names of the chyldren of Israel in the brestplate of iudgement vpon his herte when he goeth in to the holy place for a remembraunce before the Lord alwaye. And thou shalt put in the brestplate of iudgement Aym and Chamin: and they shal be euen vpon Aarons hert, when he goeth in before the Lord: and Aaron shal beare the iudgement of the chyldren of Israel vpon his hert before the Lord alwaye. And thou shalt make the tuncle vnto the Ephod all together of pelowe sylke. And there shalbe an hole for the heade in the myds of it, hauing a bonde of wouen worke rounde aboute the collar of it (as it were the collar of a partlet) that it rent not. And beneath vpon the hem, thou shalt make pomgranates of pelow sylke and of purple and scarlet, round about the hem, and belles of gold betwene them rounde about: and let there be euer a golden bel and a pomgranate, a golden bel and a pomgranate, rounde about vpon the hem of the tuncle.

And Aaron shal haue it vpon hym, when he minystrerth, and the sounde shalbe hearde, when he goeth into the holy place before the Lord, and when he cometh out, and he shall not dye. And thou shalt make a plate of pure gold, and graue thereon, as sygnettes are grauen. The holynesse of the Lord, and put it on a pelow sylke lace to be vpon the mytre, euen vpon the fore fronte of it. And it shalbe vpon Aarons forehead: for Aarons maye beare the synne of the holpe chyrgens whiche the chyldren of Israel halow in al theyr holy gyfes. And it shalbe alwayes vpon his forehead, for the reconcylng of them before the Lord. And thou shalt make a linnen core, and thou shalt make a mytre of linnen and a gyrdle of nedle worke. And thou shalt make for Aarons sonnes also cotes, gyrdels, and bonets, glorious and bewepfull, and thou shalt put them vpon Aaron thy brother, and on his sonnes with hym: and shalt annoynt the, and fylle theyr handes, and sanctifye them, that they maye minystrer vnto me. And thou shalt make them linnen byches to couer theyr priuities, fro the loynes vnto the thyrs shall they reach. And they shalbe vpon Aaron and his sonnes when they come into the tabernacle of wytnes, or when they come vnto the altar to minystrer in holynesse, so they beare no synne, and so dye. And it shalbe a lawe for euer vnto Aaron and his seed after hym.

The xxix. Chapter.

His thing also shalt thou do vnto the when thou shalt halowe them to be my priests. Thou shalt take a calf, euen a yong ore, and two rammes that are without blemish, and vncleued bread and cakes of swete bread tempored with oyle, and waters of swete breade annoynted with oyle (of wheren flower shalt thou make them) and put them in a maunde, and byng them in the maunde with the calfe and the two rammes. And byng Aaron and his sonnes vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wytnes, and walde them with water, and take the garmentes, and put vpon Aaron: the ittyre core the tuncle of the Ephod, and the Ephod, and the brestplate: and gyrdle them to him with the boorderd gyrdle whiche is in the Ephod. And putte the mytre vpon his head: & put the holy crowne vpon the mytre. Then shalt thou take the anoynting oyle, and powze it vpon his head, and anoynte hym. And bynge his sonnes, and put albes vpon them, and gyde them with gyrdels aswell as his sonnes. And put the myters on them, and the Priestes offyce shalbe theys for a perpetuall lawe. And thou shalt fyll the bandes of Aaron and of his sonnes: and bynge the calfe before the tabernacle of witness. * And Aaron and his sonnes shall put theyr bandes vpon the head of the calfe, & thou shalt kyl hym before the Lorde, by the dooze of the tabernacle of witness. And take of the bloode of the calfe & put it vpon the hornes of the altar with thy synger: and powze al the blood beyde the bottome of the altar, & take all the fat that covered the inwardes, and the kyll that is on the lyuer, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them, and burne them vpon the altar. But the fleshe of the calfe and his skynne, and his donge shalt thou burne with fyre without the hoost. It is a synne offering. Thou shalt also take one ram, & Aaron & his sonnes shal put theyr bandes vpon the head of the ram, and when thou haste slayne the ramme, thou shalt take his bloode, & spynke it rounde about vpon the altar, and cut the ramme in peces, and wash the inwardes of him and his legs, and put them vnto the peces and vnto his head: and then burne the hole ram vpon the altar for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, and for a sweete sauour & a sacrifice vnto the Lorde.

And take y other ram, and Aaron and his sonnes shall put theyr bandes vpon his head. Then shalt thou kyl him, and take of his blood and put it vpon the typp of the ryght eare of Aaron and of his sonnes, and vpon the thumbe of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the greete too of theyr ryght fote, and spynke the bloode vpon the altar rounde about. And thou shalt take of the bloode that is vpon the altare, and of the anoynting oyle, and spynke it vpon Aaron and his vestimentes and vpon his sonnes and vpon theyr garmentes with hym. And he shalbe halowed and his clothes and his sonnes, and their clothes with hym. * And thou shalt take the fat of the ram and his rompe, and the fat that couereth the inwardes, and the hal of the lyuer, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them, and the ryght shulder: for the ram is a full offering: and a spynel of bread, and a cake of oyle bread, and a wafer out of the baskette of sweete bread that is before the Lorde, and put all vpon the bandes of Aaron, and on the bandes of his sonnes: and waue them for a waue offering before the Lorde. And agayne, thou shalt take it from of theyr bandes, and burne it vpon the altar for a burnt offering, to be a sauour of sweetness before the Lorde. For it is a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. * And thou shalt take the best of the ram of Aarons consecration, and waue it for a waue offering before the Lorde: and it shalbe thy parte. And thou shalt sanctifye the best of the waue offering: and the shulder of the deue offering, whiche is waue and beued vp of the ram of the consecration for Aaron and for his sonnes. And it shalbe Aarons and his sonnes by a statute for ever, of the chyldren of Israel: for it is an heue offering: euen an heue offering of the chyldren of Israel, and of theyr peace offerings. Theyr deue offerings is the Lorde. And the holy garmentes of Aaron shalbe his sonnes after hym, to be anoynted therein: and to fyll theyr bandes therein. And that son that is Priest in his stede after hym, shall put the on. vij. dayes whiche cometh into the tabernacle of witness, to minister in the holy place. * And thou shalt take the ram of the consecration, & seth his fleshe in an holpe place. And Aarons & his sons shal eat the fleshe of the ram, & the bread that is in the baskete, eue by the doze of the tabernacle of witness: & they shal eat them, because the attonement was made therewith, to fyll theyr bandes, and to consecrate them: but a stranger shall not eat thereof, because they are holy. And yf ought of the fleshe of the consecration or of the bread remayne vnto the moynynge, thou shalt burne it with fyre, and it shal not be eaten, because it is holy. Therfore shalt thou do vnto Aaron and his sonnes, euen so, accordyng to all thynges which I haue commaunded y, seuen dayes shalt thou fyll their handes, and offer euery daye a calfe for a synne offering, for to reconyle withal: that thou mayest cleanse the altar when thou reconylest vpon it, and thou shalt anoynte it, to sanctifye it. Seuen dayes thou shalt reconyle vpon the altar, and sanctifye it, and it shalbe as an altare most holpe. Euery one that toucheth the altare, lette hym be holpe. * This is that whiche thou shalt offer vpon the altare: euen two lambs of one yere olde, day by day continually: the one thou shalt offre in the moynynge, and the other at eue. And with the one lambe a tenth deale of flour myngled with the fourth parte of an hyn of beaten oyle, and the fourth part of an hyn of wyne, for a bypne offering. And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen, and shalt doo thereto accordyng to the meate offeringe and bypne offering in the moynynge, to be an odour of a sweete sauour and a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And let this be a continual burnt offering among your chyldren after you before the dooze of the tabernacle of witness before the Lorde, where I wil mete you, to speake there vnto the. There I wil mete with the chyldren of Israel, and wyl be sanctified in myne honoure. And I wyl sanctifye the tabernacle of witness and the altar: And I wyl sanctifye also both Aaron and his sonnes to be my priestes. And I wyl dwell among the chyldren of Israel: and wyl be theyr God. And they shall knowe that I am the Lorde theyr God, that brought them oute of the lande of Egypt, for to dwell among them: euen I the Lorde theyr God.

Chapter.

Exodus. Chapter. The altar of incense. The waue offering. The anoynting oyle. And thou shalt make an altare to burne incense, of sethim wood thou shalt make it, a cubyte longe and a cubyte broad: euen foure square shal it be and two cubytes hye the the hornes thereof shall proceede out of it, and thou shalt overlape it with fyne golde, both the roste and the walles rounde aboute and hys hornes also, & shalt make vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about, and two golde rynges on eether syde: euen vnder the crowne, that they maye be as places for the barres to beare it withal. And thou shalt make the barres of sethim wood, and couer them wpth golde. And thou shalt put it befoze the vayne, that is by the arke of wytnesse, befoze the mercyseate that is vpon the wytnesse, where I wyll mete the. And Aaron shall burne thereon swete incense euery moynynge, when he dresseth the lampes, euen then shall he burne it: & lyke wyse at euen, when he setteth vp the lampes he shall burne incense: and this incensynge shall be perpetually befoze the Lorde, thowout your generacions. Ye shall put no strange incense thereon, burnt sacrifice or meate offering, nether powre any drynke offering thereon.

And Aaron shall reconcyle vpon the hornes of it once in a yere: wpth the bloude of the synne offering of reconcyllynge: euen once in the yere shall he reconcyle it thowout your generacions. It is most holy vnto the Lorde. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: * If thou takest the summe of the chyldren of Israel after theyr nombre, they shall geue euery man a reconcyllynge of his soule vnto the Lorde whē thou tellest them, that there be no plage amonge them, when thou tellest them. And thus muche shall euery man geue, and that goeth into the nombre: halfe a shekel, after the shekel * of the sanctuary: a shekel is twentye halfe pence. In halfe shekel shall be the due offering of the Lorde. All that are nombred from twenty yere old and aboue, shall geue an heue offering vnto the Lorde. Eueriche shall not passe, and the poore shall not vnder halfe a shekel. But ye shall geue an heue offering vnto the Lorde, that he maye haue mercye vpon your soules. And thou shalt take the reconcyllynge money of the chyldren of Israel, and shalt put it vnto the vse of the tabernacle of wytnesse, that it maye be a memoypall vnto the chyldren of Israel befoze the Lorde, that he maye haue mercye vpon your soules. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: * Shalt make a lauer of brasse, and hisfote also of brasse to wash withal, & shalt put it betwene the tabernacle of wytnesse, & the altar, and put water therein. For Aaron & his sons shall wash theyr handes & theyr fete therein: euen when they go into the tabernacle of wytnesse, or when they goo vnto the altar to minystrer and to burne the lordes offeringe, they shall wash them selues wpth water, lest they dye. And it shall be an ordinaunce vnto them for euer, bothe vnto him and his seide thowout theyr generacions. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses saying: Take vnto the, princypall spyces: of the moste pure myrrre fyue hundred shekels, of swete cynamon halfe so muche, euen two hundred and fyfety shekels: of swete calamus, two hundred & fyfety shekels, of cassia, fyue hundred, after the holy shekel, and of oyle olyfe an hyen. And thou shalt make of the oyle an holpe oymntment, euen an oymntment compound after the crafte of the apotecary. And thou shalt anoynt the tabernacle of wytnesse therewith, and the arke of wytnesse and the table, and all hys apparell: and the candlesticke, and all hys apparell: and the altar of incense, and the altar of burnt sacrifice wpth all his vessels, and the lauer and his fote. And thou shalt sanctify the, that they may be moste holy: so that no man touche them, but they that be halowed. And thou shalt anoynt Aaron and his sonnes, and consecrate them, that they may minystrer vnto me. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, sayinge, this shall be an holy oymntment vnto me, thowout your generacions. Upon mans fleshe shall it not be powred: nether shall ye make any other after the manynge of it, for it is holy: and shall be holpe vnto you, whosoever maketh lyke that, or whosoever putteth any of it vpon a stranger, shall perishe from amonge hys people.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: take vnto the, swete spyces: balme, Onicha, swete Galbanum, these spyces wpth pure frankincense, of eache lyke much, & make of them swete smellynge incense, after the crafte of the apotecary, myngled together, pure and holpe. And beate it to powder and put of it befoze the wytnesse in the tabernacle of wytnesse, where I wyll mete the. It shall be vnto you moste holpe. And se that ye make none after the manynge of that. It shall be vnto you holy for the Lorde. Whosoever shall make lyke vnto that, to smel thereto, shall perishe from amonge hys people.

Chapter.

The callinge of Bezaleel and Ahaliab the workmen. The Sabbath is commaunded. The tables of stones are geuen Moyses.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayinge: behold, * I haue called by name, Bezaleel, the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur of the trybe of Iuda. And I haue fylled hym wpth the sperte of God, in wysdome, and vnderstandynge in knowledge and in all maner of worke, to fynde out soyle teates and to worke in golde, syluer and brasse, and in the crafte to set stones, and to carue in tymber, and to worke in all maner of workmanshipp. And behold, I haue geuen hym to be hys companion Ahaliab the sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, & in the heartes of al that are wysse hearted, haue I put wysdome to make all that I haue comaunded the, the tabernacle of wytnesse, the Arke of wytnesse, and the mercy seate that is therupon: and all the ornaments of the tabernacle, and the table & his ornaments, and the pure candlesticke wpth al hys apparell, and the altar of incense: & the altar of burnt offerings and all hys vessels, and the lauer wpth his fote. The vestimentes to minystrer in and the holy garmentes for Aaron the priest, and the garmentes of hys sonnes to minystrer in, and the annoyntynge oyle: and swete incense for the sanctuary, accordyng to all that I haue commaunded the, shall they do.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: * Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye:

Exodus.

In any wyse se that ye kepe my * Sabbathes: for it is a signe betwene me and you in your generacions, for to knowe that I the Lord am he that dothe sanctifye you. * kepe my Sabbath therefore: for it is holy vnto you. he that defileth it, shall be slayne. For whosoever worketh therein, the same soule shall be rote out from among his people. Sixe dayes shall men worke. And in the seventh daye is the Sabbath of the holy rest of the Lord. Whosoever doth any worke in the Sabbath daye, shall dye: wherefore let the chyldren of Israel kepe the Sabbath, that they observe it throughout theyr generations, that it be an appoyntment for euer. For it is a signe, betwene me and the chyldren of Israel for euer. * For in sixe dayes the Lord made heauen and earth: and in the seventh day he rested, and was refreshed. And when the Lord had made an end of comynge with Moyses vpon the mounte Sinai: he gaue hym two tables of wytnesse: euen tables of stone, wyttē with the fyrer of God.

The xxxij. Chapter.

The golden calfe. Moyses prayeth for them. He breaketh the tables for anger. He chydeth Aaron. The ydolaters are slayne.

And when the people sawe, that it was longe: for Moyses came downe out of the mountayne, they gathered them selues together vnto Aaron, and sayde vnto hym: * Up, make vs goddes to go before vs: for of this Moyses the felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypte we wote not what is become. And Aaron sayde vnto them: plucke of the golden earynges which are in the eares of your wyues, your sonnes, and of your daughters: and bring them vnto me. And all the people plucked of the golden earynges, which they had in theyr eares and brought them vnto Aaron. And he receaued them of their handes, and fashioned it with a grauer, and made of it a calfe of molten metal. And they sayde: * These be thy goddes, O Israel, which brought the out of the lande of Egypte. And when Aaron sawe that, he made an aulacre before it. And Aaron cryed, sayinge: to morowe is the holy daye of the Lord. And they rose vp in the mornynge: and offered burnt offerynges, and brought peace offerynges also. And the people sat them downe to eate and drynke and rose vp agayne to playe.

And the Lord sayde vnto Moyses: * go, get the downe: thy people whych thou broughtest out of the lande of Egypte, haue married al, they are turned at once out of the way, which I commaunded them: * for they haue made them a calfe of molten metal, & haue worshipped it, and haue offered therto, sayinge: These be thy goddes, O Israel, which haue brought the out of the lande of Egypte. And the Lord sayd vnto Moyses: * I haue seene this people: & beholde it is a styfnecked people, & nowe I will visite them, and my wrath maye waxe hotte agaynst them, and I will consume them: and I will make of the a mygdal people. And Moyses besought the Lord his God, and sayde: O Lord, why doth thy wrath waxe hotte agaynst thy people, which thou hast brought out of the lande of Egypte, with great power and with a myghtie hande? * Wherefore shulde the Egyptians speake and saye: For a mygdal people he hath brought them out, and to consume them in the mountaynes, and to consume them fro the face of the earth? Turne from thy ferece wrath: and turne from thy euell (deuyled) agaynst the people. Remembere Abraham, Isaac, and Israel thy seruantes to whom thou swarest by thyn owne selfe: and saydest vnto them, * I will multiplye your seede, as the starres of heauen, and al this lande, that I haue spoken of, will I geue vnto your seede, and they shall inheret it for euer. And the Lord refrayned hym selfe from the euill: & whiche he sayde he wolde do vnto his people. And Moyses turned his backe and went downe from the hyl, & the two tables of wytnesse were in his hande: & the same tables were wyrtten on both the leaues, & were the worke of God, and the wyrtynge was the wyrtynge of God grauen in the tables. And when Josua heard the noyse of the people, as they howled, he sayde vnto Moyses: there is a noyse of warre in the host. And he answered: it is not the cry of them that haue the mastery, nor of them that haue the wyse: but I do heare the noyse of them that synge.

And it fortuned, as he came nye vnto the hoste, he sawe the calfe and the daunsyng: & Moyses was wroth wroth, & he caste the tables out of his handes, & brake them beneath the hyl. * And he toke the calfe whiche they had made, & burned it in the fyre, and stampet it vnto powder, and strowed it in the water, & made the chyldren of Israel drynke of it. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: what dyd this people vnto thee, that thou hast brought so great a synne vpon them? And Aaron answered: let not my wrath of my Lord waxe ferece, thou knowest the people that they are euil set on mischefe: for they sayd vnto me: make vs goddes to go before vs, for we wote not what is become of Moyses the felowe that brought vs out of the lande of Egypte. And I sayde vnto them: let the that haue golde plucke it of, and bringge it me: and I dyd cast it into the fyre: and therof came out this calfe.

Moses therfore saw that the people were naked (and that Aaron had made them naked vnto theyr shame amonge theyr enemyes) and he wente and stode in the gate of the host, and said: Many man perstayne vnto the Lord, lette him come vnto me. And all the sonnes of Levi gathered them selues together, and came vnto hym. And he sayd vnto them. Thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel, put euery man his swerde by his syde, and goe in and out, from gate to gate: thowout the dooste, and slep euery man, his brother and euery man his company, and euery man his neyghbour. And the chyldren of Levi dyd as Moyses had sayde. And there fell of the people the same daye aboute thre thousand men. And Moyses sayd: hyl your handes vnto the Lord this day, euery man vpon his sonne and vpon his brother, and that there may be geuen pon a blessing this daye. And on the morowe it was tuned that Moses sayde vnto þe people: ye haue synned a greete synne. And now I wyll go vp vnto the Lorde: þe paradiuente I maye purchase an attonement for your synne. Moses therfore went agayne vnto the Lorde, & sayde: O Lord, this people haue synned a great synne and haue made them goddes of golde. And now I praye the, either forgiue them their synne: or (if I wyll not) wyte me out of thy booke, which thou haste wyrtten. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: I wyll putte him out of my booke that hath synned agaynst me. And now go thou, bynging the people vnto the place whiche I sayd vnto the: be holde, myne angell shal go before the. Neuerthelater in the daye when I viset, I wyll viset they synne vpon the. And the Lorde plagued the people, because they made the calfe whiche Aaron made.

¶ The Lorde sendeth an angell before his people. The Lorde denreth to go vp with the people. The people lamente they synne. Moses talketh with the Lorde.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, departe and go hence: thou and the people, whiche thou haste broughte out of the lande of Egypte, vnto the lande whiche I sweare vnto Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, sayinge: * vnto thy seide wyl I geue it: (and I wyl sende an angell before the and wyl cast out the Canaanites, the Amozites, and the Hetites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Jebusytes) a lande þe floweth with mylke & hony. For I wyll not go amonge you my self: for ye are a stiffnecked people: lest I consume the in the waye. And when the people heard this euil tydinges, they sorowed: and no man put on his best rayment. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses: say vnto the chyldren of Israel: ye are a stiffnecked people: I muste come once sodenly vpon you, and make an end of you. Therfore now put thy goodly rayment for the that I may weite what to do vnto the. And the chyldren of Israel layde they goodly rayment from them, euen by the mount of Horeb.

¶ And Moses toke the tabernacle, and pitched it without the hoste a farte of from the hoste, & called it the tabernacle of wytnesse. And so it came to passe that euery one which wolde pray vnto the Lorde, went out vnto the tabernacle of wytnesse, whiche was without the hoste. And it fortuned, that when Moses went out vnto þe tabernacle, all the people rose vp, and stode euery man at his tent doore: and lohed after Moses vntyl he was gone into the tabernacle. And as sone as Moses was entred into the tabernacle, the cloudy pylle descended, & stode at the doore of the tabernacle, and he talked with Moses. And all the people sawe the cloudy pylle stand at the tabernacle doore, and they rose vp, and worshipped euery man in his tent doore.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moses: * face to face, as a man speaketh vnto his frende: and he turned agayne into the host. And the chyldre Joshua his seruaunt the sonne of Nun, departed not out of the tabernacle. And Moses sayd vnto þe Lorde: se, thou sayst vnto me: leade this people forth, and thou hast not the word me whom thou wyllt sende with me. And thou hast sayde more ouer: I knowe the by name, and thou haste also founde grace in my syghte. Nowe therfore if I haue founde fauoure in thy syghte, then shewe me thy waye, that I maye knowe the, and that I maye fynde grace in thy syghte. And consyder also that this nacio, is thy people. And he sayd: my presence shal go with the, and I wyll geue the reste. He sayde vnto hym: If thy presence go not with me, carpe vs not hence: for howe shal it be knowne here, that I and the people haue founde fauoure in thy syghte. But in that thou goest with vs: If thou go with vs, what not I and thy people haue premyence before all the people that are vpon the face of the earth? And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: I wyll do this also þe thou haste sayde, for thou haste founde grace in my syghte, and I knowe the by name.

¶ And he sayde, I beseeche the: shewe me thy glorye. And he sayde: I wyll make all my good go before the, and I wyll be called in thy name of the Lorde before the: * and wyl shewe mercy to whome I wyl shewe mercy, and wyl haue compassion on whome I wyl haue compassion. And he sayd furthermore: thou mayst not se my face: for there shal no man se me, and lyue. And the Lorde sayde: beholde, there is a place by me, and thou shalt stande vpon a rocke: and whyle my glory goeth furth, I wyll put the in a cleftte of the rocke: and wyl put myne hande vpon the whyle I passe by. And I wyl take away myne hande, and thou shalt se my backe partes: but my face shal not be sene.

¶ The tables are reuised. The mercy of God. To haue felicitye with the Gentyles is forbydden, and they shal receyue all so. Of they feastes.

¶ And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, I shewe the the two tables of stone, lyke vnto the fyrste, and I wyll wyte vpon theym the wordes that were in the fyrste tables whiche thou brauest. And he readye in the moynynge, that thou mayste come vp early vnto the mounte of Synai: and stande there with me in the top of the mounte. There shal no man come vp with the, neither let anye man be sene thowout all the mounte, neither lette the shepe nor oren fede before the hyll. And Moses bowed two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyrste, and rose vp earlye in the moynynge, and went vp vnto the mounte of Synai, as the Lorde had commaunded hym: & toke toke in his hand the two tables of stone. And the Lord descended in the cloud, and stood with him there: & he called vpon the name of the Lord. And when the Lord walked before him, he cryed, Lord: & Lord God, merciful and gracious longe suffering, and abundaunt in goodness & truth, and keeping mercy in store for thousands for geuynge wickednes, on godlinesse and synne, and not leauynge one innocent, visyng the wickednes of the fathers vpon the chyldre and vpon chylders chyldre, euen vnto the thyrde & fourth generation. And Moses bowed hym self to the earth quckly, and worshipped, and sayd: P If I haue founde grace in thy syght (O Lord) then let my Lord go vnto vs: for it is a stubborne people, and thou shalt haue mercy vpon our wickednes and our synne, & shalt take vs for thyne enheritaunce. And he sayd: beholde, I make an appoyntment before all the people, and I wyl do meruayles: suche as haue not bene done in al the worlde, nether in al nacions. And al the people amonge which thou arte, shall se the worke of the Lord: for it is a terrible thyng, that I wyl do with the: heye those thynges that I commaunde the this day. Beholde, I caste out before the, the Amoytes, Cananytes, Hettytes, Hittaytes, Hemytes & Jebusites. * Take hede to thy self, that thou make no compacte with the indabyters of the lande whither thou goest, lest it because of rypne among you. But ouerthrow the: altuers, and bryake the ymages and cut downe the: groues. Thou shalt worshyppe no straunge god. For the Lord is * called gelous, because he is a gelous God: lest yf thou make any agreement with the indabyters of the lande, and they go a whoyng after the: goddes, and do sacrifice vnto the: gods, they call the, and thou eate of the: sacrifice: & thou take of the: daughters vnto thy sonnes, & the: daughters go a whoyng after the: gods, and make thy sonnes go a whoyng after the: goddes also.

Thou shalt make the no goddes of metall. The * feast of the swete bryade shalt thou kepe seven dayes shalt thou eate vniuened bryade, as I commaunded the in the tyme of the moneth, when corne begynneth to ryse. For in the moneth when corne begynneth to ryse, thou camst out of Egypte. * All that bryaketh vpon the matrice is myne: and all that bryaketh the matrice amonge the catell, yf it be male: wherby it be orf or wepe. But the fyrst of the alle thou shalt brye out with a lambe. And yf thou redeme hym not, thou shalt bryake his necke. All the fyrste bozne of thy sonnes shalt thou redeme. * And se that no man appere before me emptye.

* Syre dayes thou shalt worke, and in the seventh day thou shalt rest, boch from earpyng and reappng. * Thou shalt obserue the feast of weekes with the: fyrst frutes of whete haruest, and the feast of ingathering at the yeres ende. Thyse in a yere shall all your men chyldren appere before the Lord Iehona God of Israel. When I cast out the nacions before the, and enlarge thy coastes, so that no man shall desyre thy land, thou shalt go vnto appere before the Lord thy God thyse in the yere. * Thou shalt not offer the bloude of my sacrifice vpon leuen, nether shalt thou offer the sacrifice of the feast of Pasce, be lefte vnto the mornyng. * The fyrst frutes of my lande, thou shalt bryng vnto the house of the Lord thy God. And thou shalt not * seth a kydde in his mothers mylke.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses: wyte these wordes: for after the tenoure of these wordes I haue made a couenaunte with the and with Israel. * Ink he was there with the Lord fourty dayes and fourty nyghtes, and vnto nether eate bryade or drynke water. * And he wrote vpon the tables the wordes of the couenaunt, euen ten verses. And it fortunat when Moses came down from mount Synai, the two tables of witnesse were in Moses hand, when he came down from the mount. And Moses wyte not the shyne of his face shone in maner of an horn whyle he talke with hym. And Aaron and all the chyldren of Israel looked vpon Moses: and beholde, the shyne of his face shone, and they were afrayde to come nye hym. And when he had called them. Aaron and all the chefe that were in the company came vnto hym, and Moses talked with them. And afterwarde all the chyldren of Israel came nye, and he commaunded them, al that the Lord had sayde vnto hym in mount Synai. And when Moses had made an ende of comenyng with them, * he put acoueryng vpon his face. And agayne, when Moses went in before the Lord to speake with hym * he toke the coueryng of vntill he came out. And he came out, and spake vnto the chyldre of Israel that which he was commaunded. And the chyldren of Israel sawe the face of Moses, that the shyne of Moses face shone. And Moses put the coueryng vpon his face agayne, vntill he went in to comen with hym.

Exod. xxxi. c. Chapter.

* The * sheweth. The fyrst frutes are requyred. The redynes of the people to offer. Byscher and Abolab are prapled of the sea, and set to worke.

And Moses gathered all the company of the chyldre of Israel together and sayde vnto them: these are the wordes which the Lord hath commaunded that ye shulde do them.

* Syre dayes ye shall worke: but the seventh day shall be vnto you the holy Sabboth of the Lordes rest: who soeuer doth any work therein, shall dye. Ye shall hyndle no fyre thowout all your habitacions vpon the Sabboth daye.

And Moses spake vnto all the multitude of the chyldre of Israel sayng: * this is the thyng which the Lord commaunded, sayng: Take from among you a breue offering vnto the Lord. Who soeuer is of a wyllyng hert, let him bryng it for the breue offering of the Lord. Ramelpe golde, syluer, and bzalle, and yelowe spike, purple sharlet, whyte spike, goates heare, and rammes shynnes redde, and tarys shynnes with seithim woode: oyle for light, and spyes for the a noyntynge oyle, and for the swete incense. And Onir stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the bzeste lappe. And let al them that are wylle, wylf herted amonge you, come & make all that the Lozde hath commaunded: the habytacion of the tent therof and his couerpyng, and his rynges and his bozders, his barres, his pylers and his sockettes, the arke, and the stauers therof: with the mercey seate, and the vyle that couereth it: the table and his barres, and all his vessels, and the shewe bread, & candlestych of lyght and his apparell and his lampes with the oyle, for the lyght: the cenceaulter and his barres, the annoyntynge oyle and the swete cense, and the hangynge of the doze at the enterynge in of the tabernacle: the altare of burnt sacrifice with hyss brazen greddyson, his stauers and all his vessels: the lauer and his sofe, and the hangynge of the court, with his pylers and the sockettes, and the hangynge in the doze of the court, the pynnes of the habytacion, & the pynnes of the court with theyr cordes, the mynystryng garments to mynistrer in the holy place: and the holy vestmentes for Aaron the preeft, and the vestmentes of his sonnes, that they maye mynistrer in.

C And all the company of the chyldren of Israel departed from the presence of Moyses. And every one came (as many as they hertes courage d them, and as many as they spyrites made them wyllynge) and brought a presente for the Lozde, to the makynge of the tabernacle of witness, and for all his vles, and for the holy vestmentes. And they came bothe men and women, (euen as many as were wyllynge herted) and brought braceletes and earpynges, rynges and chapnes, which ierels were all of golde: and all the men brought a waue offryng of golde vnto the Lozde. And euery man with whome was founde pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, whyte sylke and gootes here, and red skynnes of rammes, & taurus skynnes, brought them. All that dyd heue vp an oblation of golde and brasse, and brought an heue offryng vnto the Lozde. And all men with whom was founde Serchim wood for any maner worke of mynistracion, brought it.

D And all the women & were wylf herted: dyd spyne with theyr handes, and brought & spun worke both of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte sylke. And all the women whome theyr oone herte moued, spunne gootes here wylfely. And the lozdes brought our stones, and stones to be set in the Ephod, and in the brestlap, and spere and oyle for lyght, and for the annoyntynge oyle, and for the swete cense. And the chyldren of Israel brought a wyllynge offryng vnto the Lozde bothe men and women, as many as had wyllynge hertes to byng, for all maner of workes whiche the Lozde had commaunded to be made, by the handes of Moyses.

E And Moyses sayd vnto the chyldren of Israel: Beholde, * the Lozde hath called by name Bezaleel the sonne of Ahii, the son of Hur of & trybe of Juda, and hath fylled him with the spyrite of God in wysdome and vnderstandynge, in knowledg, and in all maner worke, to fynde out curious workes which are made in golde, syluer, and brasse. In the crafte of stones to set them, & in caruyng of wood to make any maner of subtyl worke. And he hath put in his herte that he maye teache: bothe he and Aholiab the sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan. Them hath he fylled with wysdome of herte to worke all maner of grauen and subtyl, and nedy worke in pelowe sylke, and purple, in scarlet & whyte sylke and in weaupng. And to do all maner of worke and subtyl scates.

The xxxvi. Chapter.

The thynges that Bezaleel and Aholiab made:

And Bezaleel wrought, and Aholiab * all wylf herted men, to whom the Lozde gaue wysdome and vnderstandynge, to knowe howe to worke all maner worke for the seruyce of the sanctuary, and all that the Lozde had commaunded. And Moyses called Bezaleel, Aholiab and all the wylf herted men and such as the Lozde had gyuen wisdom vnto, and as many as their hertes couraged to come vnto that worke to worke it. And they receyued of Moyses all the present which & chyldren of Israel had brought for the worke of the seruyce of the sanctuary, to make it. And besyde that, they brought gyftes vnto it euery daye in the mornynge.

And all the wylf men that wrought all the holye worke, came euery man from his worke whiche they made, and spake vnto Moyses, sayng: the people byng to moche, and moze then ynough for the seruyce & worke whiche the Lozde hath commaunded to be made. And then Moyses gaue a commaundement, and they caused it to be proclaymed thorowout the host, sayng: let that neither man nor woman prepare any more worke for the present of the sanctuary: and so & people were forbydden to byng: for the stuffe they had was sufficient for all & worke, to make it, and to moche. * All the wylf herted men therfore, and they that wrought for the habytacion made ten curtaynes of whyte twyned sylke, pelowe sylke, purple and scarlet with pyctures of broyded worke made be them. The length of one curtayne was .xxviii. cubytes, and the breadth foure: and the curtaynes were all of one cyste.

And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues: and other fyue by them selues. And he made loupes of pelow sylke alonge by the edge of one curtayne, euen in the seluage of the couplyng curtayne. And lyke wylf he made on the syde of the couplyng curtayne on the other syde. Fyftye loupes made he in the one curtayne, and fifty in the edge of the couplyng curtayne on the other syde: and the loupes helde one curtayne to another. And he made fyftye rynges of golde, and coupled the curtaynes one to another with the rynges: and so was it made one dwelling place.

* And he made a leuen curtaynes of gootes here, to be a tent ouer & tabernacle. The length of a curtayne had thryty cubytes, and was four cubytes bryde: and they all a leuen of one cyste. And he coupled fyue curtaynes by them selues, and fyve by them selues, and he made fyftye loupes alonge by the bordre of & utmost couplyng curtayne, and fyftye in the edge of the other couplyng curtayne: so that they might be byng together. And

And he made fyfte rynges of brylle to couple þe tent together that it might be one. And he made a couerynge vpon the tent of ramis skynnes red, and yet an other of Carus skynnes aboue that.

C * And he made standynge boydes (for the tabernacle) of Sethim wood. The length of a boyde was ten cubytes, the bredth one cubyte, & an halfe: One boyde had two feet, wherby they were ioyned one to an other. And thus made he for all the boydes of þe tabernacle: And he made twenty boydes for the south syde of the habitation, and forty sockettes of syluer vnder þe boydes, two sockettes vnder one boyde, for his two feet, and two sockettes vnder an other boyde for his two feet: <sup>(where the sockettes of the syluer were in the corners)</sup> And for the other syde of the dwelling which is towarde the north, he made twety boydes, and they forty sockettes of syluer two sockettes vnder one boyde, and two sockettes vnder the other. And towarde the west ende of the tabernacle: <sup>(That is to saye at that ende of the tabernacle whiche is toward the west)</sup> he made fyve boydes, and two other boydes made he in þe corners of the habitation, for eyther syde, and they were ioyned close beneth and aboue wth a clampe and thus they did to both the corners. And there were eyght boydes and fyrtene sockettes of syluer vnder euery boyde two sockettes:

D And he made barres of Sethim wood, fyue for the boydes of the tabernacle in the one syde: and fyue for the boydes of the tabernacle in the other syde: and fyue barres for the boydes of the habitation in the west ende. <sup>(Toward the west)</sup> And he made the myddest barre to shote thowth the boydes: euen from the one ende to the other, & overlaped the boydes with golde, and made rynges of golde to thurst the barres thowth the boydes, and couered the barres with golde. And he made an hangynge of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke, euen with pyctures made he it of byrded worke. And made ther vnto iiii. pylers of Sethim wood, and overlaped them with golde. They knoppes were also of golde, and he cast for them foure sockettes of syluer. And he made an hangynge for the Tabernacle doore: of pelowe sylke, purple, scarlet, and with whyte twyned sylke of nedle worke. And the pylers of it with they knoppes, and overlaped the knoppes of them & the whopes with golde. They fyue sockettes also were of brylle.

The xxxvii. Chapter.

<sup>The ark of testyment. The mercy seate. The table. The candlestyk. The lightes. The altare and the incense.</sup>

And Bezaleel made the ark of Sethim wood, two cubytes & an halfe longe, & a cubyte and an halfe bryde and a cubyte and an halfe hye: and overlaped it with fyne golde with in and without, and made a crowne of golde to it rounde aboute, and cast for it foure rynges of golde for the four corners of it, two rynges for the one syde, and two for the other, & made barres of Sethim wood, and couered them with golde, and put the barres in the rynges alonge by the syde of the ark, so bare it withall.

And he made the mercy seate <sup>(that is to saye: Gods answeryng place)</sup> of pure golde: two cubytes & an halfe was the length thereof, and one cubyte and an halfe the bryde: and he made two Cherubyns of thyche golde vpon the two endes of þe mercy seate. One Cherub on the one ende, and an other Cherub on the other ende.

Euen of the mercy seate made he the Cherubyns: namely in the endes thereof. And the Cherubyns spred out they wynges aboue on hye, and couered the mercy seate therewith. And they faces were one to an other: euen to þe mercy seatewarde, were the faces of the Cherubyns.

* And he made the table of Sethim wood two cubytes was the length thereof, and a cubyte the bryde, and a cubyte and an halfe the length of it. And he overlaped it with fyne golde, and made therto a crowne of golde rounde aboute, and made therto an whope of an hande bryde round about, & made vpo the whope a crowne of golde rounde about, and cast for it foure rynges of golde, and put the rynges in the four corners that were in the foure feet therof. Euen hard by the whope were the rynges, into the whiche the barres were put to beare the table withall.

And he made the barres of Sethim wood, and couered them with golde to beare the table with all, and made the vesselles (for the table) of pure golde: the dysches, spones, flat peces, and pottes to poure withall.

* And he made the candlestyk of pure gold: euen of one peece made he the candlestyk. For his fote, bys staffe, his cuppes, his knoppes, and his floures, were of one peece. Wyre bryanches proceeded out of the sydes thereof, thre out of the one syde, and thre out of the other. And in one bryanche thre cuppes made lyke vnto almondes, with knoppes & floures: and in an other bryanche thre cuppes made lyke almondes with knoppes and floures.

And so thowth the wyre bryanches that proceeded out of the candlestyk. And vpon the candlestyk selfe were foure cuppes after the fassyon of almondes, with knoppes and floures: vnder euery two bryanches a knoppe. And the knoppes and the bryanches proceeded out of it, and it was all one peece of pure thyche golde. And he made his seuen lampes with þe tonges and snoffers thereof of pure golde. Euen of an hundred weyghte of pure golde, made he it with all the vesselles thereof. And he made the fence altare of Sethim wood. The length of it was a cubyte, and the bredth a cubyte, for it was foure square, and two cubytes hye, with hornes proceeded out of it. And he couered it with pure gold, both the toppe and the sydes thereof round about, and the hornes of it, and made vnto it a crowne of golde rounde about. And he made two rynges of golde for it, euen vnder the crowne thereof in the two corners of it and in the two sides thereof to put barres in for to beare it withall: & made the barres of Sethim wood and overlaped them with golde. And he made the holy annoyntynge oyle, and the swete pure incense after the apotecaryers crafte.

The xxxviii. Chapter.

The

The altar of burnt offering. The brazen laver. The summe of that the people offered.

Ad he made the burnt offering altar: of sethim wood, fyue cubites was the length thereof, & fyue cubites the breadth thereof: square and .iii. cubites hie. And he made vnto it hornes in the four corners of it proceeding out of it & he overlaid it with brasle. And he made al the vessels of the altar: the cauldrons, shoules, basins, fleshpokes, & cole pans. All these vessels thereof made he of brasle. And he made a brazen gredpyen of netwozke vnto the altar, round about a lowe beneth vnto fympths of the altar, & cast foure ringes of brasle for the four endes of the gredpyen to put barres in. And he made the barres of sethim wood, & couered them with brasle, & put the barres into the ringes in the four corners of the altar, to beare it withall & made the altar holowe with in the boardes. And he made the lauer of brasle, & the foot of it also of brasle in the sighte of them byd watch at the doze of the tabernacle of witnessse. And he made the courte on the south syde, and the hangynges of the courte were of whyte twyned sylke, hangyng an hundred cubytes.

The pylers were twenty, and they: brazen sockettes twenty. But the knoppes of the pylers, and they: whopes were of syluer. And on the north syde: the hangynges were an hundred cubytes. They: pylers were twenty, and they: sockettes of brasle twenty. But the knoppes and the whopes of the pylers were of syluer. On the west syde, were hangynges of fyfte cubytes, ten pylers and they: ten sockettes. But the knoppes and the whopes of the pylers were of syluer. And towarde the east syde, were hangynges of fyfte cubytes: the hangynges of the one syde of the gate, were fyftene cubytes longe, with thre pylers, and thre sockettes. And of the other syde of the courte gate were hangynges also of fyftene cubytes longe, with thre pylers and thre sockettes.

CAl the hangynges of the courte rounde about were of whyte twyned sylke: but the sockettes of the pylers were of brasle: and the knoppes, and the whopes of the pylers were of syluer, & coueryng of the heades was of syluer, and al pylers of the courte were whoped aboute with syluer. And the hangyng of the gate of the court was nedle woike, of yelow sylke, purple, scarlet and whyte twyned sylke. .xx. cubytes longe, and fyue in the breadth, ouer agaynst the hangynges of the courte. And they: pylers were foure, and they: foure sockettes of brasle: and the knoppes of syluer, and the heades overlaid with syluer, and whoped aboute with syluer, & al the pyennes of the tabernacle and of the courte rounde aboute were of brasle. This is the sum of the habitation of witnessse, as it was counted accordyng to the commaundement of Moyses for the offyce of the Leuites by the bande of Jehamar sonne to Aaron the preast. And Bezalell & sonne of Uri the sonne of Iur of the trybe of Iuda, made all & the Lord commaunded Moyses, and with him was Ahisamah sonne of Ahisamach of the trybe of Dan, a cunning grauer and a woiker of nedle woike in yelow sylke, purple, scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. All the golde that was occypped for all the woike of the holy place was the golde of the waueofferinge, euen .xxx. hundred weyght, and seven hundred and .xxx. syckels, accordyng to the syckle of the Sanctuarye. And the summe of syluer that came of the multitude, was fyue score hundred weyght, & a thousande seven hundred and .lxxv. syckels, after the syckle of the Sanctuarye.

For euery man an halfe weyght, euen halfe a syckle after the syckle of the Sanctuarye, for all them that went to be nolyzed from .xx. yere olde and about, euen for fyue hundred thousand, and thre thousande and fyue hundred and .l. men.

And of the fyue score hundred weyght of syluer, were cast the sockettes of the Sanctuarye, & the sockettes of the vayne, an hundred sockettes of fyue score hundred weyght an hundred weyght to euery socket. And of the thousande seven hundred and .lxx. syckels, he made knoppes to the pylers, and overlaid the heades and whoped the (with syluer). And the brasle of the waueoffering was .lxx. hundred weyght, and two thousand, & .iii. hundred syckels. And therewith he made & sockettes to the doze of the tabernacle of witnessse, and the brazen altare and the brazen gredpyen for it, withall the vessels of the altar, and the sockettes of the court rounde about, & the sockettes for the court gate, and al the pyennes of the habitation, & al the pyennes of the court rounde aboute.

The .xxxix. Chapter.

The apparell of Aaron and his sonnes. All that the Lord commaunded, was offered.

Ad of the yelow sylke, purple, and scarlet, they made the vestimettes of ministracion to do seruice in the holy place, & made the holy garnettes for Aaron, as the Lord commaunded Moyses. And he made the Ephod of golde, yelow sylke, purple, scarlet, & whyte twyned sylke. And they dyd beate the golde into thynne plates, and cut it into wyers, to woike it in the yelow sylke purple, scarlet, & in the fyne wypte, with byzoynd woike. And they made two sydes for it, to close them vp by the two edges. And the byzoyndyng of the girdell that was vpon it, was of the same stuffe, and after & same woike: of golde yelow sylke, purple, scarlet, and twyned whyte sylke, as the Lord commaunded Moyses.

And they wrought Onix stones closed in onches of golde, and graued as syngnettes are grauen with the names of the chyldren of Israel, & put them on the shuldres of the Ephod, that they shulde be stones for a remembraunce of the chyldren of Israel, as the Lord commaunded Moyses. And he made the byestlap of conning woike and lyke the woike of the Ephod: euen of golde yelow sylke, purple, scarlet and twyned whyte sylke. It was foure square, and they made the byestlapp double, an bande breadth longe, and an bande breadth broad.

And they spiled it with foure rowes of stones. The fyrst rowe, a Sardios, a Topas and s.i. Smaragdus

Smaragdus: the seconde rowe, an Rubre, a Sappir and a Dyamonde: in the thyrde rowe, Lignios, an Ichat, an Amaris: in the fourth rowe, a turcas, an Onir, and a Jaspis. And they were closed in onches of golde in theyr inclofers. And the twelue stones were grauen as sygnetys with the names of the chyldren of Israhel: euery stone wyth hys name, accordyng to the twelue trybes. And they made vpon the brestlap, two fastenynge cheynes of wretchen worke and pure golde. And they made two hokes of golde, and two gold rynges: and put the two rynges in the two corners of the brestlapp. And they put the two cheynes of golde in the two rynges, in the corners of the brestlapp.

And the two endes of the two cheynes they fastened in the two hokes, and put them on the shulders of the Ephod vpon the fore fronte of it. And they made two rynges of golde, and putte them on the two corners of the brestlapp vpon the edge of it, whiche was on the insyde by the Ephod. And they made two golden rynges, and put them on the two sydes of the Ephod, breneth on the fore syde of it and ouer agaynst hys scloze about vpon the byndyng of the Ephod. And they strayned the brestlapp by hys rynges vnto the rynges of the Ephod, wyth a lace of pelow sylke that it myght be vpon the byndyng of the Ephod, and that the brestlapp shulde not be loosed from of the Ephod: as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And he made the tuncle vnto the Ephod of wouen worke, altogether of yelow sylk and there was an hole in the myddeste of the tuncle, as the coler of a partlet, w a bonde rounde aboute the coler, that it shulde not rent.

And in the tuncle they made hemmes with pomegranates, of pelow sylke, purple scarlet, and whyte twyned sylke. And they made lytle belles of pure golde, and put them amonge the pomegranates round about vpon the edge of the tuncle: a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate rounde aboute the hemmes of the tuncle to mynistr in, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And they made cores of fyne whyte of wouen worke for Aaron and his sonnes, and a mytre of fyne whyte, and goodlye bonettes of fyne whyte, and lynen breeches of twyned whyte and a gyrdell of twyned whyte, yelow sylke, purple and scarlet: euery of nedle worke, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses. And they made the plate for the holpe crowne of fyne golde, and wrote vpon it wyth grauen worke, the holynesse of the Lorde: and tyled vnto it a lace of pelow sylke to fasten it an hys vpon the mytre, as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

Thus was all the worke of the habitacion and of the Tabernacle of wytnesse synned. And the chyldren of Israhel dyd accordyng to al that the Lorde had commaunded Moyses: euery so dyd they. And they broughte the habitacion vnto Moyses: the tente and all hys apparel, buttons, borders, barres, pylers, and sockettes, the coueryng of rammes skynnes redden, and the couerynges of taxus skynnes, and the hangynge vaple, the arche of wytnesse and the barres ther of, and the merepe seate: the table, and all the vesselles therof, and the shewe breade: the pure candlestyeke: with the lampes therof: euery with the lampes to be prepared, and all the vesselles therof, and the oyle for lyght: the golden altar and the annoyntynge oyle, and the swete cens, and the hangynge of the Tabernacle dooze, and the brasen altar wyth hys greden of bras, hys barres and al hys vesselles, the lauer and hys fote: the hangynge of the court wyth hys pylers and sockettes: the hangynge to the court gate, and hys pyennes and coordes, and all the vessel of the seruyce of the habitacion for the Tabernacle of wytnesse: the mynistrynge vestymentes to serue in the holy place, and the holy vestymentes for Aaron the p[re]ste, and hys sonnes raymentes to minister in: accordyng to al that the Lorde commaunded Moyses: euery so the chyldren of Israhel made all the worke. And Moyses behelde all the worke, and se: they had done it euery as the Lorde commaunded: euery so had they done, and Moyses blessed them.

The .xl. Chapter.

The tabernacle is reared up. The glory of the Lorde appeared in a cloude coueryng the tabernacle.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayenge. In the fyrste daye of the fyrste moneth, shalte thou set vp the habitacion and the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and put therein the arche of wytnesse, and couer the arche wyth the vaple, and byng in the table, and apparel it accordyng to the order therof. And thou shalte bynge in the candlestyeke, and lyght his lampes, and set the cense altar of golde before the Arche of wytnesse, and put the hangynge at the doze of the habitacion.

And sette the burnte offerynge altare before the dooze of the habitacion and Tabernacle of wytnesse, and sette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnesse and the altar, and put water therein, and make the court rounde aboute, and hange by the hangynge at the court gate. * And thou shalte take the annoyntynge oyle, and annoynte the habitacion, and all that is therein, and halowe it wyth all the vesselles therof, that it maye be holy. And thou shalte annoynte the altar of the burnte offerynge and al hys vesselles, and sanctifye the altar, that it maye be an altar moost holy.

And thou shalte annoynte also the lauer and hys fote, and sanctifye it. And thou shalt bynge Aaron and hys sonnes vnto the doze of the Tabernacle of wytnesse, and washe them wyth water. And thou shalt put vpon Aaron the holy vestymentes, and annoynte hym, and sanctifye hym that he maye minister vnto me. And thou shalt bynge hys sonnes, and clothe them with garmentes, and annoynt them as thou diddest annoynte theyr father, that they may minister vnto me. For theyr annoyntynge shall be an euerylastynge pyethode vnto them thow out theyr generacions. * And Moyses dyd accordyng to al that the Lorde commaunded him: euery so dyd he. Thus was the Tabernacle reared by the fyfte daye in the fyft moneth in þe ſeconde yere. And Moſes reared vp the tabernacle and faſtened hyſ ſockettes, and let vp the boordes therof, and put in the barres of it and reared vp hyſ pylers, and ſpriede abrode the tent ouer the habitacion, and put the couerynge of the tente on hye aboue it: as the Lozde commaunded Moſes.

And he toke the teſtymonye, and put it in the Arke, and ſette the barres to the Arke, and put the merceſeate on hye vpon the Arke, & brought the arke into the habitacion, and hanged vp the vayle, and covered the Arke of wytnelle, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes.

And he put the table in the tabernacle of wytnelle in the Nozthe ſyde of the habitacion, (but wythout the vayle) and ſette the breade in order befoze the Lozde, euen as the Lozde hadde commaunded Moſes. And he put the candleſtycke in the Tabernacle of wytnelle ouer agaynſt the table towarde the ſouth ſyde of the habitacion, and ſette vp the lampes befoze the Lozde: as the Lozde commaunded Moſes.

And he put the golden altar in the Tabernacle of wytnelle befoze the vayle, and brente ſwete cenſe thereon, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes. And he hanged vp the hangynge at the doze of the habitacion, and ſette the burnte offeringe altar by the entrynge in of the habitacion of the Tabernacle of wytnelle, and offered burnte offeringes and meate offeringes thereon, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes.

¶ And he ſette the lauer betwene the Tabernacle of wytnelle and the altar, and powred water therein to waſhe wyth all. And Moſes, Aaron and hyſ ſonnes, waſhed theyr handes and theyr fete there at: when they went into the Tabernacle of wytnelle, and when they wente to the altar: they waſhed them ſeines, as the Lozde commaunded Moſes. And he reared vp the courte rounde about the habitacion and the altar, and ſette vpon an hangynge at the courte gate: and ſo Moſes finiſhed the worke.

¶ And the cloude covered the Tabernacle of wytnelle, and the glozpe of the Lozde fylled the habitacion. And Moſes coulde not entre into the tabernacle of wytnelle, becauſe the cloude abode thereon, and the glozpe of the Lozde fylled the habitacion. ¶ (For the cloude had covered all.)

¶ And when the cloude was taken vp from of the habitacion, the chyldren of Iſrael toke theyr iourneys thowowe out theyr armyes. And when the cloude was not taken vp, they iourneyed not tyll it was taken vp: for the cloude of the Lozde was vpon the habitacion by daye, and by nyghte: in the ſyghte of all the houſe of Iſrael, thowowe out all theyr armyes.

¶ The fyft Chapter.

¶ And þe Lozde called Moſes, and ſpake vnto hym oute of the Tabernacle of wytnelle, ſaying: ſpake vnto the chyldren of Iſrael, & thou ſhalt ſaye vnto them. If a man of you byng a ſacrifice vnto the Lozde ye ſhal bynge your ſacrifice from amonge theſe catel, euen fro amonge the oren, and the ſhepe. ¶ If hyſ ſacrifice be a burnte offeringe, let hym offre a male of the oren wythout blemph, and bynge hym (of hyſ owne voluntary wyll) vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnelle befoze the Lozde. And he ſhal put hyſ hade vpon the head of the brent ſacrifice and it ſhal be accepted for hym, to be his attonement. And he ſhal kyl the calfe of þe doze befoze the Lozde. And the preſtes Aarons ſonnes, ſhal byng the bloud, & ſhal ſprynkle it rounde about vpon the altar, that is by the doze of the tabernacle of wytnelle. And then ſhal he ſlay the burnte offeringe, and deue hym in peces. And the ſonnes of Aaron the preſt ſhal put fyre vpon the altar, and put wood vpon the fyre. And þe preſtes Aarons ſonnes ſhal lay the partes (euen the head and the fatte) vpo the wood that is on the fyre in the altar. But the inwardes and the legges therof he ſhal waſh in water, and the preſt ſhal burne all on the altar, that they maye be a burnte ſacrifice for a ſwete odour vnto þe Lozde.

¶ And if hyſ ſacrifice be of the flockes (namely of the ſhepe or goates) let hym bynge a male wythout blemph for a burnte offeringe. And let hym kyl it on the nozth ſyde of the altar befoze the Lozde. And the preſtes Aarons ſonnes ſhal ſprynkle the bloud round about vpon þe altar. And it ſhal be cut in peces: euen wyth hyſ heade and hyſ fat, and the preſt ſhal put them vpo the wood that lyeth vpon þe fyre on the altar. But he ſhal waſhe the inwardes, and the legges with water: and the preſt ſhal byng altogether and burne it vpon the altar for a burnte offeringe of a ſwete ſauour vnto the Lozde. ¶ If the burnte offeringe for the ſacrifice of the Lozde be of the foules, he ſhal byng hyſ ſacrifice of the turtill doves or of the yonge pygrons. And the preſt ſhal bynge it vnto the altar, and wyng the necke a ſunder of it, and burne it on the altar.

And he shall breake the wynges of it, but plucke them not a sondre. And the priest shall burne it vpon the altar, euen vpon the wood that is vpon the fyre, that it maye be a burnt sacrifice for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord.

The ii. Chapter.

The offer of meate offeringes.

The soule that wyl offer a meate offering vnto the Lord, the same offering shalbe of fine flour, and he shall poure oyle vpon it, and put frankincense thereon, and shall byng it vnto Aarons sones the prestes. And he shall take ther out hys handfull of the flour, and of the oyle with all the frankincense, & the prest shall burne it for a memoriall of hym vpon the altar: to be an offering for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And the remnant of the meate offering shalbe Aarons & his sones, a thing most holy of the sacrifices of the Lord. If thou bring also a meate offering that is in the oven, lette it be a sweete cake of fyne flour myngled wth oyle, or an vnleuened wafer anoynted wth oyle. If thy meate offering be baken in the fryenge pan, it shalbe of sweete flour mingled wth oyle. And if it shalbe mince it shal, & poure oyle thereon, that it maye be a meate offering. And if thy meate offering be a thinge broyled vpon the grebiren, let it be of flour myngled wth oyle. And thou shalt byng the meate offering (that is made of these thynges) vnto the Lord, & shalt deliuer it vnto the prest that he may offer it vpon the altar, and the prest shall take of the meate offering a memoriall, and shall burne it vpon the altar that it maye be a burnt offering for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And that whiche is left of the meate offering shalbe Aarons and hys sones. It is a thyng most holy of the offeringes of the Lord. All the meate offeringes whiche he shal byng vnto the Lord, shalbe made with out leuen. If thou shal neyther burne leuen nor honny in any offering of the Lord.

And if thou offer a meate offering of the fyrst frutes vnto the Lord, y shal offer for thy meate offering of the fyrst frutes eares of corne dyed by the fyre, and corne beaten as meale. And thou shalt put oyle vpon it, and laye frankincense thereon, that it maye be a meate offering. And the prest shall burne parte of the beaten corne and parte of that oyle wthall the frankincense, for a remembrance. And it shalbe a sacrifice vnto the Lord.

The iii. Chapter.

The offer of peace offeringes.

Ad yf his sacrifice be a peace offering y he take it away fro among the droues (whether it be male or female) he shal byng such as is without blemish, before the Lord: and put his hand vpon the head of his offering, & kyle it at the doze of the tabernacle of witness. And Aarons sones y prestes shal sprinkle the blood vpo the altar round about. And he shall offer sum what of the peace offeringe to be a sacrifice vnto the Lord: euen the fat & y is about the inwards: & al the fat y is about the inwards, & the two kidneys, & the fat that is on them & vpon the lynes & the aboundance y is on the liuer shal he take away wth the kidneys. And Aarons sones shal burne them on the altar vpon the burnt sacrifice which is vpon the wood, y is on the fyre to be a burnt sacrifice for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. If he bring a peace offering vnto y Lord from of the flocke: let him offer male or female: but without blemish. And yf he offer a shepe for his sacrifice, he shal byng it before the Lord, & put his hand vpo his offeringes head, & kyle it before the doze of the tabernacle of witness, & Aarons sones shal sprinkle the bloude tiler of round about the altar. And of the peace offering, let him bring a sacrifice vnto the Lord: the fat therof, and the rumpe also gether, which they shal take of, haire by the backe bone: & the fat y couereth the inwards, & all the fat that is vpon the inwards and the two kidneys, & the fat that is vpon them & vpo the lynes, and the aboundance that is vpon the liuer shal he take away w the kidneys. And the prest shal burne them vpon the altar, to be the foode of a sacrifice vnto the Lord. If his offering be a goat, he shal byng it before the Lord, and put his hand vpon the head of it, & kyle it before the tabernacle of the covenant, and the sones of Aaron shal sprinkle the blood therof vpon the altar round about. And he shall byng therof his offeringe euen a sacrifice vnto the Lord: the fat y couereth the inwards, and al the fat that is vpon the inwards, and the two kidneys, & the fat that is vpon them and vpo the lynes, and the aboundance vpon the liuer shal he take away w the kidneys. And the prest shal burne them vpon y altar for y foode of the sacrifice, & all the fat may be a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. Let it be a perpetual statute for youre generacion, thowout your dwellinges, y ye eat neyther fat nor bloude.

The iii. Chapter.

The offeringe made for synnes done of ignorauce

Ad the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: If a soule syn thowte ignorauce, and hath done any of those thynges which y Lord hath forbidden in his commandements to be done. And yf the prest that is anoynted do sinne (accor dyng to the syn of the people) let hym byng for hys syn which he hath synned a yonge ore without blemish vnto y Lord for a syn offering. And he shall byng the yonge ore vnto the doze of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord, and shal put put his hande vpon the ponge ore heed, and kyl the ponge ore before the Lorde. And the preste that is annointed * shall take of the ponge ore blood, and byng it into the tabernacle of wy-nesse, and the preste shall dyppe his synger in the bloode, and sprayke therof seuen tymes before the Lorde, euen before the hangyng of the holy place. And he shall put some of the blood before the Lorde, vpon the hoynes of the altar of swete cens which is in the tabernacle of witnessse, and shall poure all the bloode of the ponge ore vnto the bottome of the aultare of burnt offeringe, whyche is at the doze of the tabernacle of wy-nesse. And he shall take away all the fatte of the ore that is for synne, the fatte that conereth the inwardes, and all the fatte that is about the inwardes, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is vpon them, and vnto the loynes, and the abundauce of the lyuer that he take away with the kidneys: as it was taken away in the ore of the peace offeringes, and lette the preste burne them vpon the aultare of burnt offeringe. * But the skynne of the ponge ore, and all his flesch, wyth his heed, and his legges, wyth his inwardes, & his dunge, that he beate out, and carpe the ponge ore all together out of the hooste vnto a cleane place, euen where as the ashes are poured out, and burne hym there on wood in the fyre: euen by the place where the ashes are cast out, shall he be bynt. If the whole congregacyon of Israel synne thorow ignorance, and the thyng be byd from theyr eyes, so that they haue com-mytted any of those thynges whyche the Lorde hathe forbydden to be done in his commaunde-mentes, and haue offended. When the synne which they haue synned in, is knowen, the congregacyon shall byng a ponge ore for the syn, and byng hym before the tabernacle of wy-nesse, and the elders of the multitude shall put theyr handes vpon the heed of the ponge ore before the Lorde. And the ponge ore shall be slayne before the Lorde. And the preste that is anoint-ed, shall byng of his blood into the tabernacle of wyntesse, and the preste shall dyppe his syn-ger in the blood, and sprayke it seuen tymes before the Lorde, euen before the vayle.

And shall put the bloode vpon the hoynes of the aultar, which is before the Lorde in the tabernacle of wyntesse, and shall poure al the bloode vnto the bottome of the aultare of burnt offeryng whych is before the doze of the tabernacle of wyntesse, and shall take all his fatte from hym, and burne it vpon the aultar, and shall do wyth this ponge ore, as he dyd wyth the ponge ore for synne: euen so shall he do wyth this. And the preste shall make an attonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them. And he shall carpe this ponge ore without the host: and burne hym as he burned the first. For it is an oblation for synne of the congregacyon.

When a lord synneth, and commytteth tho-rowe pynoraunce any of these thynges (whyche the Lorde his God hath forbydden to be done in hys commaundementes) and hath offended.
And if this synne be shewed vnto hym whyche he hath done, he shall byng his offeringe: euen an he goote wythoute blemyshe, and lape his hande vpon the heed of the he goote, and kyl it in the place where the burnt offeringe is vsed to be kylled before the Lorde. For it is a synne of feryng. And let the preste take of the bloode of the offeringe wyth his synger, and put it vpon the hoynes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and poure his blood vnto the bottome of the burnt offeringe aultar, and burne all his fatte vpon the aultar, as the fatte of the peace offeringes.

And the preste shall make an attonement for hym, as concernyng his synne, and it shall be forgyuen him. If one of the comen people of the lande, syn thorow ignorance: and comyt any of the thynges which the Lorde hath forbydden in his commaundementes to be done: so hath trespassed. If this synne which he hath synned, comto his knowledge, he shall byng for his offeryng, a he goot from among the flockes, wyth out blemyshe for his synne whyche he hath synned, and lape his hande vpon the heed of the offering, and slep it in the place of burnt offeringes.
And the preste shall take of the bloode thereof wyth his synger, and putte it vpon the hoynes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and poure al the blood vnto the bottome of the aultar, and shall take away al his fatte, as the fatte of the peace offeringes is taken away. And the preste shall burne it vpon the aultar, that it may be a swete sauour vnto the Lorde, and the preste shall make an attonement for hym, and it shall be forgyuen hym. And if he byng a shepe for a synne offeringe, he shall byng a female wyth out blemyshe, and lape his hande vpon the heed of the offering, and slep it for a synne offeringe in the place where they kyl the burnt offering.

And the preste shall take of the bloode of the offeringe wyth his synger, and put it vpon
the hoynes of the burnt offeringe aultare, and shall poure the bloode thereof vnto the botome of the aultar. And he shall take away all the fatthe thereof, as the fatte of the shepe of the peace offeringe is wonte to be taken away. And the preste shall burne it vpon the aultar: that it may be the Lordes burnt sacrifice, and the preste shall make an attonement for his synne, that he hath commytted, and it shall be forgyuen hym.

The v. Chapter

Of othes. The cleansing of hym that toucheth vncleane thynges. The purgation of an othe, and of synne done by remouance.

If a soule synne, and heare the voyce of sweryng, and is a wyntes: whether he hath sene or knowen of it, if he haue not vttered it, he shall beare his synne. Eyther if a soule touche any vncleane thyng: whether it be a caryon of an vncleane beaste, or vncleane cattel, or vncleane woyme, and is not ware of it: beholde, he is vncleane, and hath offended. Eyther if he touch any vncleane of man (whatsoeuer vncl-nesse it be that a man is wont to be despyled with-all) and is not ware of it, and cometh to the knowledge of it, he hath trespassed. Eyther if a soule sweare, and pronounceth wyth his lyp-ps

pes to do euill, or to do good (whatsoeuer it be that a man useth to pronounce with an oth) and the thinge he byd from hym, and cometh to the knowledge of it, and hath offended in one of these. And it shall come to passe, that when he hath synned in one of these thinges, he shall confesse that he hath synned in that thinge. Therefore shall he byngre his trespass offering vnto the Lorde, for his synne whiche he hath synned. A female from the flocke, a lambe, or a she goote for a synnecoffering. And the priest shall make an attonement for hym, concerning his synne.

Leuiticus 24 * And if he be not able to byngre such a shepe, he shall byngre for his trespass wherby he hath synned, two turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons vnto the Lorde, one for a synnecoffering, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shall byngre them vnto the priest, whiche shall offre the synne offering first, and wyngre the necke asunder of it, but plucke it not cleane of. And he shall spynkle of the blood of the synnecoffering vpon the syde of the altar: and the rest of the blood he shall pour by the bottome of the altar: for it is a synnecoffering.

C And he shall offre the seconde for a burnt offering as the maner is: and so shall the priest make an attonement for hym (for the syn whiche he hath synned) & it shall be forgiven hym. And if he be not able to byngre two turtle doves, or two yonge pygeons, then he that hath synned, shall byngre for his offering: the tenth parte of an Ephah of fine flour for a synnecoffering, but put none oyle thereto, neyther put any frankincense thereon, for it is a synnecoffering. And let the priest offre it, and the priest shall take his handfull of it, for a remembrance thereof, and burne it vpon the altar, to be a sacrifice for the Lorde, it is a synnecoffering. And the priest shall make an attonement for hym as touching his syn that he hath synned in one of these, & it shall be forgiven. And the remnant shall be the priestes, as a meate offering.

D And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Of a soule trespass and syn wherof thou knowest ignorance in thinges that are consecrated vnto the Lorde, let hym byngre for his trespass vnto the Lorde a ram without blemish out of the flockes, valued in money at two sheeles after the sheele of sanctuary, that it may be for a trespass offering. And he shall make amends for the harme that he hath done in the holy thing, and let hym put the syft parte more thereto, and geue it vnto the priest. And the priest shall make an attonement for him with the ramme that is for the trespass, and it shall be forgiven hym.

Of a soule synne and comyt any of these thinges which are forbidden to be done by the commandementes of the Lorde, and whiche it not, and hath offended, he shall beate his synne and shall byngre a ram without blemish out of the flocke that is esteemed to be worth a trespass offering, vnto the priest. And the priest shall make an attonement for him concerning his ignorance wherof he knewe and was not ware, & it shall be forgiven hym. This is the trespass offering which he offered vnto the Lorde for his trespass.

The vi. Chapter.

The offering for synne wherby are done wylloughly. The lawe of the burnt offerings. The syft must adde more vpon the altar. The offerings of Aaron, and his sonnes.

A And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Of a soule synne and trespass agaynst the Lorde, and denye vnto his neyghbour & which was taken him to kepe, or that was put into his handes, or doth violent robbery, or wrong vnto his neyghbour, or if he haue sold that which was lost, and denyeth it, and sweareth falsely, vpon whatsoeuer thinge it be that a man doth, and synneth therein: If he haue synned or trespassed, he shall restore agayne that he toke violently away, or the wronge whiche he byd, or if wherby was deliuered hym to kepe, or the lost thinge whiche he founde, and all that a boue whiche he hath sworne falsely, he shall restore it agayne in the whole summe, & shall adde the syft parte more thereto, and geue it vnto him, to whome it pertaineth, the same daye that he offereth for his trespass, and let hym byngre for his trespass vnto the Lorde a ram without blemish out of the flocke (that is esteemed worth a trespass offering) vnto the priest.

And the priest shall make an attonement for hym, before the Lorde, and it shall be forgiven hym, whatsoeuer thinge it be that he hath done, and trespassed therein. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: Commande Aaron and his sonnes, saying: this is the lawe of the burnt offering.

* The burnt offering shall be vpon the barth of the altar all nyght vnto the morning, and the fyre shall be kindled on the altar. And the priest shall put on his linnen albe, and his linnen breeches vpon his flesch, and take awaye the ashes vpon the which the fyre consumed the burnt sacrifice in the altar, and he shall put them besyde the altar, and put of his rayment, and put on other, and cary the ashes out without the hoost vnto a cleane place. The fyre vpon the altar shall burne still, and neuer be put out. But the priest shall lay wood on it euery day in the morning, and put the burnt sacrifice vpon it, and he shall burne thereon the fatte of the peace offerings. The fyre shall euere burne vpon the altar, and neuer go out. * This is the lawe of the meate offering: wherby Aarons sonnes shall byngre before the Lorde, euere before the altar, and one of them shall take his handfull of fine flour of the meate offering and of the oyle, and all the frankincense which is vpon the meate offering and shall burne it vnto a remembrance vpon the altar for a sweete sauour, euere a memoriall of it vnto the Lorde.

And of the rest thereof, shall Aaron and his sonnes eate: unleuened shall it be eaten in the holy place: euere in the court of the tabernacle of witness they shall eate it. It shall not be beate with leuen. I haue geuen it vnto them for the portion of my sacrifices. It is most holy as is the synnecoffering and trespass offering.

All the males amonge the children of Aaron shall eat of it: It shall be a statute for euer in your generations concerning the sacrifice of  $\text{p}$  Lord, let every one that toucheth it, be holpe. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: this is the offering of Aaron, and of his sones, which they shall offer vnto the Lord in the day when he is anoynted: the tenth parte of an Ephah of flour, for a meateoffering perpetual: halfe in  $\text{p}$  morninge, and halfe at nyght: In the fryng pan it shall be made with oyle. And when it is fryed, thou shalt byng it in, and the baken offeringes of this oblation mynled small, shall thou offer for a sweete sauour vnto the Lord. And the priest of his sones that is anoynted in his stede, shall offer it: It is the Lordes dutye for euer, it shall be burnt altogether.

D For every meateoffering that is made for  $\text{p}$  priest, shall be burnt altogether, and shall not be eat. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, and vnto his sones, and saye: This is the lawe of the synneoffering. In the place where the burnt offering is kylled, shall the synneoffering be kylled before the Lord, for it is most holy. \* The priest that offereth it, shall eat it: In the holy place shall it be eaten: euen in the court of the tabernacle of witness. No man touche the flesh therof, save he that is halowed. And whoso sprayleth of the blood therof vpon any garment, thou shalt wash it in  $\text{p}$  holy place there as it is sprayled vpon. \* But the erthen pot that it is sodden in, shall be broken. And if it be sodden in a brasen potte, it shall be scoured & rused in the water. All the males amonge the priestes shall eat therof, for it is most holpe. And no synneoffering: whose blood is brought in to the tabernacle of witness to reconple with, all in the holpe place, shall be eaten: but shall be burnt in the fyre.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

In this is the lawe of trespassofferinge, it is most holpe. In the place where they kyl the burnt offering, shall they kyl the trespass offering also, and his blood shall be sprayle rounde aboute vpon the altare. All the fatte therof shall they offer: the rumpe and the fatte therof that couereth the inwardes, and the two kidneys, and the fat that is on them and vpon the lynes: and the abundance that is on the liuer shall thou take away with the kidneys, and the priest shall burne the vpon  $\text{p}$  altare, to be a burnt sacrifice vnto  $\text{p}$  Lord for it is a trespass offeringe. All the males amonge the priestes shall eat therof in the holpe place, for it is most holpe. As the synneofferinge is, so is the trespass offeringe, one lawe scructh for both, and it shall be the priestes that reconple therewith. And the priest that offereth any mans burnt offeringe, shall haue the skynne of the burnt offeringe whiche he hath offered. And all the meateoffering that is baken in the oven and that is dyed vpon the grebren, and in the fryng pan, shall be the priestes that offereth it. And every meateofferinge that is mynled with oyle, and that is dyed, shall pertayne vnto all the sones of Aaron, and one shall haue as moche as an other. This is the lawe of the peaceoffering, when it is offered vnto the Lord. If he offer it to gyue thanks, he shall byng vnto his thankoffring, sweete cakes mingled with oyle, and sweete wafers anoynted with oyle, & cakes mynled with oyle of fyne flour fryed. He shall byng his offering vpon cakes of leuened bread, for his peaceofferinges to gyue thanks, and of all the sacrifice he shall offer one for an heauy offeringe vnto the Lord, and it shall be the priestes that sprayle the blood of the peaceofferinges. And the flesh of the thankoffring in his peaceofferinges, shall be eaten the same day that it is offered. And let hym laye vpon nothing of it vntill the morowe. But if he offer his sacrifice by reason of a vow, or of his owne free wil, it shall be eaten the same daye that he offereth his sacrifice.

And if ought remaine vntill the morowe, it may be eaten: but as much of the offered as remayneth vnto  $\text{p}$  the  $\text{p}$  daye, shall be burnt with fyre. And if any of the flesh of his peaceofferinges be eaten in the  $\text{p}$  daye, then shall he that offereth it obtayne no fauour, neyther shall it be reckened vnto hym, but shall be an abominacion. Therfore the soule that eateth of it shall beare his synne. And the flesh that toucheth anye vncleane thyng, shall not be eaten, but burnt with fyre: and all that be cleane shall eat the flesh. But if any soule eat of the flesh of the peace offering that pertayneth vnto the Lord, hauing his vncleanness vpon hym, the same soule shall perishe from amonge his people. Whereouer the soule that doeth touche any vncleane thyng, that is of the vncleanness of man, or of any vncleane beaste: or anye abominacion that is vncleane, and then eat of the flesh of the peaceofferinge which pertayneth vnto the Lord, that soule shall perishe from his people. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye. \* Ye shall eat no manner fatte of oren, of shepe, and of gootes: neuer the latte of the brast that dyeth alone, and the fatte of that whiche is toyme with wyld beastes, shall be occupied in anye maner of vse, but ye shall in no wyse eat of it. For whosoener eateth the fatte of the brast, of whiche men vse to byng an offering vnto the Lord, that soule that eateth it, shall perishe from his people. Whereouer, ye shall eat no manner of bloode, whether it be of soule, or of beaste. Whatsoener soule it be that eateth any maner of blood, the same soule shall perishe from his people. And the Lord talked with Moses, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye: he that byngeth his peaceofferinge vnto the Lord, let hym byng his gyfte vnto the Lord of his peaceoffering: let his owne handes byng the offeringes of  $\text{p}$  Lord: euen the fat with the brast shall be byng: that the brast may be waied for a waueoffering before the Lord.

c. lxx. And

And the priest shall burne the fat vpon the auter, and the best shall be Aarons and his sonnes.

And the ryght shulder shall ye gyue vnto the priest, for an heuere offering, of your peace offerings. The same that offereth the blood of the peace offerings and the fat, amonge the sonnes of Aaron, shall haue the ryght shulder for his parte, for the wauebreast and the bene shulder haue I taken of the chyldren of Israel, euen of theyr peace offerings, and haue gyuen it vnto Aaron and vnto his sonnes by a statute for euer of the chyldren of Israel.

This is the anoyntinge of Aaron, and the anoyntinge of his sonnes, in the sacrifices of the Lord, in the day when he offered them to be priests vnto the Lord. And these be the sacrifices which the Lord commaunded to be gyuen them, (in the day of theyr anoynting) of the chyldren of Israel, by a statute for euer in theyr generations. This is the lawe of the burnt offering and of the meate offering, and of the sacrifice for synne and trespass, for consecracion and for the peace offering, whiche the Lord commaunded Moses in the mounte of Synay, when he commaunded the chyldren of Israel to offer their sacrifices vnto the Lord in the wilderness of Sinai.

The viii. Chapter.

The anoyntinge of Aaron, and his sonnes.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: take Aaron and his sonnes with hym, & the vestures and the anoyntinge oyle, and a sponge ore for synne, and two rammes, & a basket with sweete brede: and gather thou all the congregation together vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wyntelle. And Moses byd as the Lord commaunded hym, and the people were gathered together vnto the doore of the tabernacle of wyntelle. And Moses sayde vnto the congregation: this is the thyng which the Lord commaunded to be done. And Moses brought Aaron and his sonnes, and washed them with water, and put vpon him the aibe, and girded him with a girdle, and putte vpon hym the tuncle, & put the Ephod thereon, whiche he girded wth the breederde girdell that was in the Ephod, and bounde it vnto hym therewith. And he put the brestlap thereon, and put in the brestlappe Urim and Thumim. And he put the myter vpon his heere, and put vpon the myter, (euen vpon the forefront of his face) the golden plate of the holp crowne, as the Lord commaunded Moses. And Moses toke the anoyntinge oyle, and anoynted the tabernacle, and all that was therein, and sanctified them, and spynkled therof vpon the auter seue tymes, and anoynted the auter and all his vessels, the lauer and his fote, to sanctifye them. And he poured of the anoyntinge oyle vpon Aarons heere, and anoynted hym, to sanctifye hym. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put albes vpon them, and girded them with girdels, and put bonettes vpon theyr heeres: as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he brought a sponge ore for synne. And Aaron and his sonnes putte theyr handes vpon the heere of a sponge ore that was for syn. And Moses slewe hym, and toke of the blood, whiche he put vpon the hoines of the auter rounde aboute with his synger, and purified it, and poured the blood vnto the bottoome of the auter, and sanctified it, and reconcyled it. And he toke all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the abundance of the luer and the two kydneyes, and theyr fat, and Moses burned it vpon the autare. But the sponge ore and his hyde, his fleshe and his dunge, he burnt with fyre without the hood as the Lord commaunded Moses. And he brought the ram for the burnt offering, and Aaron and his sonnes put theyr handes vpon the heere of the ram, which Moses kyled, and spynkled the blood vpon the autar rounde aboute, and Moses cut the ram in peces, and burnt the heere, the peces, & the fat, and washed the inwardes and the legges in water, and Moses burnt the ram euerye whyle vpon the autar, for a burnt sacrifice that it myght be a sweete sauour, and an offering vnto the Lord, as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And he brought the other ram, namelye the ramme of consecracion, and Aaron and his sonnes put theyr handes vpon the heere of the ram: which Moses slewe, and toke of the blood of it, and put it vpon the tye of Aarons ryght eare, and vpon the thombe of his ryght hande, and vpon the grate too of his ryght fote. And Moses brought Aarons sonnes, and put of the blood on the tye of the ryght eare of them, and vpon the thumbes of theyr ryght handes, and vpon the grate too of theyr ryght fete, and Moses spynkled blood vpon the autar rounde about.

And he toke the fatte and the rumpe, and all the fat that was vpon the inwardes, and the abundance of the luer, and the two kydneyes with theyr fat, and the ryght shulder. And oute of the basket of sweete brede that was before the Lord, he toke one sweete cake of oyled brede, & one wafer, and put them on the fat, and vpon the right shulder: and put all together vpon Aarons handes, and vpon his sonnes handes, and wauched it a waue offering before the Lord. And Moses toke them from of theyr handes, and burnt them vpon the autar, euen vpon the burnt offering autar: for it was the sacrifice of consecracion, for a sweete sauour and sacrifice vnto the Lord. And Moses toke the brest and wauched it for a waue offering before the Lord, for it was of the ram of the consecracion, and it was Moses parte, as the Lord commaunded Moses.

And Moses toke of the anoyntinge oyle, and of the blood whiche was vpon the autare, and spynkled it vpon Aaron, and vpon his vestmentes, vpon his sonnes, and on his sonnes vestmentes with hym, and sanctified Aar, his vestures, and his sonnes, and his sonnes vestures with hym. And Moses sayde vnto Aaron and his sonnes: boyle the fleshe in the doore of the tabernacle of wyntelle, and there ate it wth the brede that is in the basket of consecracion, as I commaunded, sayinge: Aaron and his sonnes shall shall eat it: and that whereby remaineth of the breade, shall ye burne with fyre. And ye shall not departe from the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse seven dayes, vntyll the dayes of your consecration be at an ende. For seven dayes shall ye fyll your hande as he dyd this daye: euen so the Lozde hath commaunded to doo, to reconyle you withall. Therfore shall ye abyde in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse daye and nyght seue dayes longe: and kepe the watche of the Lozde, and ye shall not dye: for so I am commaunded. And so Aaron & his sons dyd all thynges which the Lozde commaunded by the hande of Moyses.

¶ The ix. Chapter.

¶ The fynde offerynges of Aaron. Aaron blessed the people the glory of the Lozde is shewed.

Ad it is foztuned that in the epyght day Moyses called Aaron and hys sonnes, and the elders of Israel: and sayde vnto Aaron: take the a calfe, a yong one out of the boue, for synne and a ram for a burnt offeryng: bothe without blemyshe, and byng them before the Lozde. And vnto the chyldzen of Israel thou shalt speake, sayinge: take ye an he goate for syn, & a calf and a lambe bothe two of a yere old, without blemyshe for a burnt sacrifice, & an oxe and a ram for peace offerynges, to offer before the Lozde, & a meate offeryng myngled wyth oyle: for to day the Lozde wyll appere vnto you.

B And they brought that (whych Moyses commaunded) before the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the congregacyon came and stode before the Lozde. And Moyses sayde: this is the thyng, whiche the Lozde commaunded that ye shulde do: and the glorie of the Lozde shall appere vnto you. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: go vnto the altar and offer thy sacrifice for synne, and thy burnt offeryng, and make an attoument for the and for the people: & thou shalt offer the offeryng of the people: to reconyle them, as the Lozde commaunded.

Aaron therfore wente vnto the altare, and slewe the calfe which he had for synne. And the sonnes of Aaron brought the blood vnto hym, and he dypte hys synger in the blood, and put it vpon the hoynes of the altar, & poloyed the blood vnto the botome of the altar. But the fat and the two kydneyes and the abundaunce of the luer of the synne offeryng, he burnt vpon the altar as the Lozde commaunded Moyses. The fleshe and the hyde he burnt wyth fyre wythout the holte. And he slewe the burnt offeryng, & Aaron's sons brought vnto hym the blood, whiche he spynkled rounde aboute vpon the altare. And they brought the burnt offeryng vnto hym with the peeces therof, and the head: and he burnt it vpon the altar, and dyde washe the inwardes and the legs, & burnt them vpon the burnt offeryng on the altar. And then he brought the peoples offeryng takyng the goate that the people had for the sacrifice of synne, & slewe it and offered it for synne, as he dyd the fyre. And he brought the burnt offeryng, & offered it as the manner was, & brought the meate offeryng, and fylled hys hande therof, & burnt it vpon the altar, besyde the burnt sacrifice of the morning. He slewe also the oxe and the ram for peace offeryng, that the people had for them selues, & Aaron's sonnes brought vnto hym the blood, whych he spynkled vpon the altare rounde about, & they toke the fat of the oxe & of the ram, the rumpe, and the fat that conereth the inwardes and the kydneyes, and the abundaunce of the luer: and they put the fat vpon the breestes, and he burnt the fat vpon the altare: but the breestes and the ryght shulders Aaron waue for a waue offeryng before the Lozde, as the Lozde commaunded Moyses. And Aaron lyfte up hys hande ouer the people, and blessed them, & came down from offeryng of the synne offeryng, burnt offerynges and peace offerynges. And Moyses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of wytnesse and came out, and blessed the people, and the glorie of the Lozde appeared vnto all the people. And there came a fyre out fro before the Lozde and consumed vpon the altare the burnt offeryng and the fat. Whiche when all the people sawe, they gaue thanks, and fell on theyr faces.

¶ The x. Chapter.

¶ Nadab and Abihu are slayne. Israel mourneth for them. The penalties are forbydden wyne.

Ad Aaron & Abihu, the sonnes of Aaron, toke epyther of the dys censur, & put fyre therein, & putte cens ther vpon, & offered strange fyre before the Lozde, which he commaunded the not and there wente a fyre out from the Lozde, and consumed them, and they dyed before the Lozde. Then Moyses sayde vnto Aaron: this is it that the Lozde spake, sayinge: I wyll be sanctified in them that come nye me, and before all the people I wyll be glorified. And Aaron helde dys peace. And Moyses called Milaril and Elapha the sonnes of Oziel the vncle of Aaron, & sayde vnto the, come on, carye your brethzen from the hely place out of the holte. And they went to the, as Moyses had sayde. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes: vncouer not your heades, neither rent your clothes, lest ye dye, and lest wrath come vpon all the people: But let your brethzen hole house of Israel be wepe the burnyng whiche the Lozde hath kyndled. And go not ye out from the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest ye dye: for the anointyng oyle of God is vpon you. And they dyd as Moyses sayde. And the Lozde spake vnto Aaron, con, sayinge: Thou shalt not drinke wyne and stronge drinke, thou and thy sons that are with thee, whē ye go into the tabernacle of witness, lest ye dye. Let it be a lawe for ever throughout your generacions, and that ye maye put difference betwene holy and unholy betwene cleane and uncleane, and that ye maye teach the chyldre of Israel all the statutes which the Lorde hath spoken vnto them by the hande of Moyses. And Moyses sayde vnto Aaron and vnto Eleazar and Ithamar his sonnes: I receiue the meate offeringe that remaineth of the sacrifices of the Lorde, & eate it without leuen besyde the altar: for it is most holy: ye shall eate it in the holy place, because it is thy duty & thy sons duty of the sacrifices of the Lorde: for so I am commaunded. And the wauebread & heue shal be eaten in a cleane place: thou & thy sonnes and thy daughters with thee. For they be thy duty and thy sonnes duty, giuen out of the peace offeringes of the chyldren of Israel. The benehulder and the wauebread shal they bring in with the sacrifices of fat, to waue it before the Lorde, and it shal be thine & thy sons with thee by a lawe for ever, as the Lorde hath commaunded.

And Moyses sought the goat that was offered for synne, and se, it was burnte. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar the sons of Aaron, whiche were lefte alque, sayinge: wherefore haue ye not eaten the synne offeringe in the holy place, seynge it is most holy: and God hath giuen it you, to beate the synne of the congregation, to make agreement for the before the Lorde. Beholde, the blood of it was not brought in in the holy place: ye shuld haue eaten in the holy place, as I commaunded. And Aaron sayde vnto Moyses: behold, this day haue they offered the synne offeringe & they burnt offeringe before the Lorde, & it is chaunced me after this maner. And if I had eaten the sacrifice to day, shuld it haue bene accepted in the sight of the Lorde? And when Moyses hearde that, he was contente.

The xi. Chapter.

Of beastes whiche be cleane, and whiche be uncleane.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron, and sayde vnto them: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say: these are the beastes whiche ye shal eate, among all the cattell that are on the earth: what soeuer parteth the hofe, and deuydeth it into two clawes, and chaweth cud amonge the beastes, that shal ye eate. Auert the lesse, these shal ye not eate, of them that chewe cudde, and deuyde the hoofes: as is the Camell, which chaweth cud, but he deuydeth not the hofe: therefore is he uncleane vnto you, euen so the coney, whiche chaweth the cud but deuydeth not the hoofe, he is uncleane to you. And the hare, though he chaweth the cud, yet because he deuydeth not the hofe, he is therefore uncleane to you.

And againe, the swyne though he deuyde the hofe into two clawes, yet he chaweth not fene. he is uncleane to you. Of theyr fleshe shal ye not eate, and theyr carcases shal ye not touche but lette them be uncleane to you.

These shal ye eate of all that are in the waters: what soeuer hath fynnes and scales in the waters, fers and spuers, that shal ye eate. And all that haue not fynnes and scales in the sea, and spuers, of all that moue and lyue in the waters, let them be abhominacion vnto you: ye shal not eate of theyr fleshe, but abhorre theyr carcases. Let all that haue no fynnes nor scales in the waters, be abhominable vnto you.

These are they, whiche ye shal abhorre amonge the foules, and that oughte not to be eaten, for they are an abhominacion. The eagle, the gohawk, and the cozmozaunte, the vultur, and the hyte after his kynde, and all rauens after theyr kynde, the estryche, the nyght crowe, the cochowe, and the owle after his kynde, the falcon, the stoike, the greete owle, the backe, the pelycane, the pye: the heron, the Iaye after his kynde, the lapwinge and the swallowe. Let all foules that crepe and goo vpon all fourt, be an abhominacion vnto you.

Yet these maye ye eate, of euerye crepyng thinge that hath wynges and go vpon foure fete: euen those that haue knees aboue vpon their fete to leape wythall vpon the earth, euen these of the ye maye eat: the Arbe after his kynde: the He laam after his kynde: the hargol after his kynde and the hagab after his kynde. All other foules that moue and haue foure fete, shal be abhominacion vnto you. In suche ye be uncleane, & who soeuer toucheth the carcase of them, shal be uncleane vnto the euen: and who soeuer beareth the carcase of them, shal wash his clothes and be uncleane vntill euen.

And euerye beaste that hath hoofe and deuydeth it not into two clawes, nor chaweth cudde, suche are uncleane vnto you: euery one that toucheth them, shal be uncleane. And what soeuer goeth vpon his handes amonge all maner beastes that go on all foure fete: suche are uncleane vnto you: and who so doth touche their carcase shal be uncleane vntill the euen. And he that beareth the carcase of them, shal wash his clothes, and be uncleane vntill the euen, for suche are uncleane vnto you. And let these also be uncleane to you amonge the thynges that crepe vpon the earth, the weasel, and the mouse, and the roode, after theyr kynde, the hedgehog, the helio, the lacerte, the snayle, and the mollie, these are uncleane to you amonge all that crepe: who soeuer doth touche them when they be deade, shal be uncleane vntill the euen. And what soeuer any of the dead carcases of them doth fall vpon shal be uncleane: whether it be vessel of wood, or ratment, or synne, or bagge, or what soeuer vessel it be that any woche is wrought in. And it must be plunged in the water and it shal be cleane vntill the euen, and so shal it be clenfed.

All maner of earthen vessel wherinto any of them falleth, shal be uncleane, with al that ther in is: and it shal be broken. All maner meate also that is vied to be eate if any such water come vpon it, shal be uncleane. And al maner drinke that is vied to be dronke in all maner suche vessel shal be uncleane. And euery thyng that they carcasse falleth vpon, shall be vncleane. Whether it be ouen or kettell, let it be broken. For they are vncleane, and shall be vncleane vnto you: Neuerthelater, yet the fountaynes and welles and collectyon of waters shall be cleane styl. And who so toucheth the carcasses, shall be vncleane. If the deade carcasse of anye such fall vpon anye seide veld to sowe, it shall yet be cleane styl: but and if any water be powred vpon the seide, and a deade carcasse fall thereon, it shall be vncleane vnto you. If any beaste of whyche ye may eat, dye & any man touche the dead carcasse therof, he shall be vncleane vntill the euen, he shall eateth of the dead carcasse of it, shall washe his clothes and be vncleane vntill the euen. And he also that beareth the carcasse of it, shall washe his clothes, and be vncleane vntill euen.

6 Let every creeping thyng that creepeth vpon the earth be an abhominacyon, and not be eaten. What soeuer goeth vpon the beast and what soeuer goeth vpon foure, or that hath moo fete amonge all creeping thynges that crepe vpon the earth, of that se ye eate not, for they are abhominable. Ye shall not make your soules abhominable with nothyng that creepeth, neyther make your selues vncleane with them: that ye shulde be defyled therby. For I am the Lord your God. Be sanctified therfore, and ye shall be holy, for I am holy: and ye shall not defyle your soules with any maner of creeping thyng, that creepeth vpon the earth. For I am the Lord your God, I brought you out of the lande of Egypt, to be your God: ye shall be holy therfore, for I am holy. This is the lawe of beastes and soules, and of every lyupnge creature that moueth in the waters, and of every creature that creepeth vpon the earth, & there may be a difference betwene the vncleane and cleane, and betwene the beaste that may be eaten, and the beaste that ought not to be eaten.

A lawe howe women shal be purged after they be purchaunce.

7 Ad the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldre of Israel and saye: if a woman hath conceived, and borne a manchild, she shall be vncleane seven dayes: euen in lyke maner as when she is put a part in tyme of her natural disease. And in the eighth day the fleshe of the chyldre shall be cut a waye. And she shall then continue in the bloode of her purifyinge thre and thyrtye dayes. She shall touche no halowed thyng, nor come in to the sanctuary, vntill the tyme of her purifyinge be out. If she beare a mayde chyld, she shall be vncleane two weekes, as whiche she hath her natural dyscase. And she shall continue in the blood of her purifyinge thre scoze and fyve dayes.

8 And whiche dayes of her purifyinge are out, whether it be for a sonne or for a daughter, she shall bringe a lambe of one yere olde for a burnt offeringe, and a yonge ppgon or a turtill doue for synne, vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witness and vnto the priest: whiche shall offer them before the Lord, and make an attonement for her, and she shall be purged of the synne of her blood. And this is the lawe for her that hath borne a male or female. But and if she be not able to bringe a lambe, she shall bringe two turtills or two yonge pigeons: the one for a burnt offeringe, & the other for synne. And the priest shall make an attonement for her, & she shall be cleane.

The xij. Chapter.

The priestes shall iudge who are Lepers.

Ad the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron sayinge: when there appeareth a risinge in anye mannes fleshe, whether a scabbe, or a glisteringe whyte: and the plage of leprosy be in the skynne of his fleshe, he shall be brought vnto Aaron the priest, or vnto one of his sonnes the priestes, and the priest shall loke on the soze in the skynne of his fleshe.

And when the herre in the soze is turned vnto whyte, and the soze also seme to be lower then the skynne of his fleshe it wyl be a plage of leprosy, & the priestes shall loke on hym, and iudge hym vncleane. If there be but a whyte plecter in the skynne of his fleshe, and seme not to be lower then the skynne, nor the herre therof is turned vnto whyte, the priest shall shut hym vp seven dayes. And the priest shall loke vpon hym agayne the seventh daye. And if the plage seme to hym to abyde styl, and the plage growe not in the skyn, the priest shall shut hym vp yet seven dayes mo. And the priest shall loke on hym agayne the seuenth daye. Then if the plage be darker, and not growen in the skynne, the priest shall iudge hym cleane, for it is but a scabbe. And he shall washe his clothes, and be cleane. But and if the scabbe growe in the skynne after that he is sente of the priest, and iudged cleane, he shall be sente of the priest agayne. If the priest se that the scabbe be growen abroad in the skynne, the priest shall make hym vncleane: for it is a leprosy.

When the plage of the leprosy is in a man, he shall be brought vnto the priest, and the priest shall se hym. And if the risinge be whyte in the skynne, and haue made the herre whyte, & there be rawe fleshe in the soze, it wyl be an old leprosy in the skynne of his fleshe. And the priest shall make hym vncleane, and shall not shut hym vp: for he is vncleane. If a leprosy breake out abroad in the skynne, and couer all the skynne, from his head to his foote, where soeuer the priest looketh, and the priest loke vpon hym. And if the leprosy haue couered all his fleshe, he shall iudge the plage to be cleane, because it is all turned into whynesse, and he shall be cleane. But and if there be rawe fleshe on hym when he is sente, he shall be vncleane.

And the priest shall se the rawe fleshe, and declare hym to be vncleane. For the rawe fleshe is vncleane, for it is a leprosy. If it be rawe fleshe departe agayne and chaunge vnto whyte, he shall come to the priest, and the priest shall se hym and beholde. If the soze be chaunged vnto whyte (and couer the whole man) the priest shall iudge the plage cleane & he shall be cleane. The fleshe also in whose skynne there is a boyle and is dealed, and in the place of the boyle there appeareth a whyte a whyte rylng, ether a shyning whyte and som-what reddyshe, it shal be sene of the p̄reist.

D And yf when the p̄reist seyth hym, it appere lower then the shyne, and the herre thereof be chaunged vnto whyte, the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane: for it is a plage of leprosy, broken out of the byle. But and yf the p̄reist loke on it and there be no whyte herres therein, and yf it be not lower then the shyne, but be darker, the p̄reist shal shut hym vp seuen dayes.

And if it spede abrode in the fleshe, the p̄reist shal make hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage.
But and yf the spot stande still, and growe not it is the pynte of an boote byle, and therfore the p̄reist shal declare hym to be cleane. If there be any fleshe, in whose shyne there is a hote burnyng, and the fleshe that burneth haue a whyte spotte, somewhat reddyshe or whyte, the p̄reist shal loke vpon it. And yf the herre in þe byght spot be chaunged to whyte, and it appere lower then the shyne, it is a leprosy broken out of the burnyng. And therfore the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosy.
But yf the p̄reist loke on it & there be no whyte herre in the byght spot, and be no lower then þe other shyne, but be darker, the p̄reist shal shut hym vp seuen dayes. And the p̄reist shal loke on hym the seuenth daye: And yf it be growen abrode in the shyne, the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge it is the plage of leprosy. And yf the spot stande still in it, and growe not in the shyne, but is darke, it is a rylng of the burnyng, and the p̄reist shal therfore declare hym cleane, seynge it is the pynte of the burnyng.

E Yf a man or woman hath a soze vpo the head or the bearde, the p̄reist shal se it. And yf it ap-peare lower then the shyne, and there be in it a yelow herre: & thyn <sup>more then it was wont to be</sup> the p̄reist shal iudge hym vncleane, seynge that the same fretyng is a token of leprosy vpon the head or beard. And yf the p̄reist loke on the soze of the pynte, and it seme not lower then þe shyne and that the herre is not blacke, the p̄reist shal shutte vp the fretyng soze seuen dayes. And in the seuenth dape the p̄reist shal loke on the soze and yf the soze be not growen, and there be in it no yelow herre, and the soze seme not lower the the shyne, he shal be shauen: but the place of the soze shal be not shauen: and the p̄reist shal shutte vp the soze seuen dayes more. And in the seuenth dape the p̄reist shal loke on the soze: And yf the soze be not growen in the shyne, nor seme lower then the other shyne, the p̄reist shal cense hym, and he shal washe his clothes, & be cleane.
But yf the soze growe in the fleshe after his censelyng, the p̄reist shal loke on hym.

A And yf the soze be growen in the shyne, the p̄reist shal not seke for yelow herre, for he is vncleane. But yf he se the pynte stande still, and that there is blacke herre growne vp therein, the soze is heald, and he shal be cleane, & the p̄reist shal declare hym to be cleane. Yf there be whyte spottes in the shyne of the fleshe of man or woman, the p̄reist shal loke vpon it. And yf the spottes in the shyne of the fleshe be somewhat darke and whyte withall, <sup>or (be more be sure, that it is no leprosy)</sup> it is a frethell growyng in the fleshe.

Therfore it be cleane. And the man whose head is besyrtute of herre, (whereby he is made bald) is cleane. And he that hath his herre out in þys fozehead, is fozehead balde and cleane. If there be in the bauld head or balde fozehead, a whyte reddyshe soze scabbe, there is leprosy sponge vp in þys baulde heade or baulde fozehead.

G And the p̄reist shal loke vpon hym, and yf the rylng of the soze be whyte reddyshe in þys baulde heade or bauld fozehead, after the maner of leprosy which is in the shyne of the fleshe, the he is a leperous man and vncleane. And þe p̄reist shal make hym vncleane, for the plage thereof is in his heade. The leper in whom the plage is shal haue þys clothes rent, and þys head bare, & shal put a coueryng vpon his lyppe, and shal be called vncleane and despyled. And as long as the disease lasteth vpon hym, he shal be despyled and vncleane: he shal dwel alone, euen without the hoost shal his habitacyon be. The cloth that the plage of leprosy is in, wherther it be lynnen or wollen, wherther it be in the warpe or woofe of lynnen or of wolle, ether in a shyn or any thyng made of shyne, yf the dyscase be pale or somewhat reddyshe in the cloth or shyne: wherther it be in the warpe or woofe, or any thyng that is made of shyne, then it is a plage of leprosy and shal be shewed vnto the p̄reist.

The p̄reist therfore shal se the plage, and shut it vp seuen dayes, and loke on the plage the seuenth day. Which yf it be increased in þe cloth (wherther it be in þe warpe or woofe, or in a shyn) or in any thyng that is made of shyne, it is the leprosy of a fretyng soze: it is vncleane: and that cloth shal be burnt, ether warpe or woofe whether it be wollen or lynnen, or any thyng that is made of shyne, wherther the plage is, for it is a fretyng leprosy, it shal be burnt in the fyre.
If the p̄reist se that the plage is not growen in the cloth: ether in the warpe or woofe, or in what soeuer thyng of shyne it be, the p̄reist shal commaund them to wash the thyng wherther the plage is, and he shal shutte it vp seuen dayes more. And the p̄reist shal loke on the plage agayne, after that it is washed. And yf the plage haue not chaunged his colour, and is sped no further abrode, it is vncleane. Thou shalt burne it in the fyre, for it is a frette inwarde: in parte or in all together. And yf the p̄reist se that the plage is darker after that it is washed, he shal rente it out of the clothe, or out of the shyn, or out of the warpe, or out of the woofe. And yf it appere any more in the cloth (ether in þe warpe or in the woofe, or in any thyng made of shyne) it is a warpyng plage. Thou shalt burne the plage that is in it. Wherouer the cloth, ether warpe or woofe or whatsoeuer thyng of shyne it be wherch thou hast washed, if the plage be departed there from, it shal be washed once agayne: and then shal it be cleane. Thus is the lawe of the plage of leprosy in a cloth wherther it be wollen or lynnen: ether in the warpe or woofe, or in any thyng of shyne, to make it cleane or vncleane.

The

The xliii. Chapter.

The cleansing of the leper: and of the house that he is in.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: This is the law of the leper in the day of his cleansing: he shall be brought unto the priest, and the priest shall go out without the hoste, and loke upon hym. And if the plague of leprosy be healed in the leper, then shall the priest commaunde that he which is to be cleansed, byng two luyng byrdes and cleane, and cedar wood and purple cloth, and ysope. And the priest shall commaunde that one of the byrdes be kyled in an earthen vessel, and vpon runninge water. And he shall take the luyng byrde with the Cedar wood, the purple and the ysope, and shall dip them and the luyng byrde in the bloude of the slayne byrde, vpon the runninge water, & spynke vpon hym: that must be cleansed of his leprosy. Seven tymes, and cleanse hym, and shall lette the luyng byrde go fet into the felde.

And he that is cleansed, shall washe his clothes, and haue of all his beare, and washe hym selfe in water, that he maye be cleane. And after that shall he come into the hoste, and shall tary without his tent seuen dayes, but in the seuenth daye he shall haue of all his beare, namely, his heade, his bearde, and his byrdes: euen all his beare shall be shaven of. And he shall washe his clothes and his flesh in water, & he shall be cleane.

In the eighth daye he shall take two lambes without blemyshe, and an ewe lambe of a yere olde without blemyshe, and thre tenth deales of fyne flour for a meate offering myngled with oyle and a logge of oyle. And the priest that maketh hym cleane, shall byng the man whiche is to be made cleane and those thynges, before the Lord, euen before the doore of the tabernacle of witness. And the priest shall take one lambe, and offer hym for trespass, and the logge of oyle, and waue them before the Lord. And he shall sle the lambe in the place where the synne offering and the burnt offering are slayne: euen in the holpe place. For as the synne offering is, euen so is the trespass offering the priestes: sayng it is most holp. And the priest shall take of the bloude of the trespass offering, and put it vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great toe of his ryght foote.

The priest shall take of the logge of oyle, and powze it into the palme of his left hande, & dip his ryghte synger in the oyle that is in his left hand, and spynke of the oyle with his synger seven tymes before the Lord. And of the rest of the oyle that is in his hande, shall the priest put vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is for to be cleansed, & vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great toe of his ryght foote, euen vpon the bloude of the trespass offering, And the remnant of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall powze vpon the head of hym that is for to be cleansed: and the priest shall make an attonement for hym before the Lord.

And the priest shall offer the synne offering and make an attonement for hym that is to be cleansed, for his uncleynesse. And then shall he kyll the burnt offering, and the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the meate offering vpon the altar: and the priest shall make an attonement for hym, and he shall be cleane. * If he be poore, and can not get so much, he shall take one lambe for a trespass offering to waue it for his cleansing, and a tenth deale of fyne flour myngled with oyle for a meate offering, and a logge of oyle, and two turtyl doves or two yonge pygeons, such as he is able to get, wherof the one shall be for synne, and the other for a burnt offering. And he shall byng them the eighth daye for his cleansing vnto the priest before the doore of the tabernacle of witness before the Lord.

And the priest shall take the lambe that is for the trespass, and a logge of oyle, and shall waue them before the Lord. And he shall kyll the lambe for the trespass, and the priest shall take of the bloude of the trespass offering, and put it vpon the tye of his ryght eare that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great toe of his ryght foote. And the priest shall powze of oyle into his ryght hand and the priest shall with his synger spynke of the oyle that is in his left hand, seven tymes before the Lord. And the priest shall put of oyle that is in his hande vpon the tye of the ryght eare of hym that is to be cleansed, and vpon the thumbe of his ryght hande, and vpon the great toe of his ryght foote: euen in the place where the bloude of the trespass offering was put.

And the rest of the oyle that is in the priestes hande, he shall put vpon the head of hym that is to be cleansed: that he maye make an attonement for hym before the Lord. And he shall offer one of the turtill doves: or of the yonge pygeons: such as he can get: the one for a synne offering, and the other for a burnt offering with the meate offering. And the priest shall make an attonement for hym that is to be cleansed before the Lord. This is the law of hym in whome is the plague of leprosy, and whose hande is not able to get that whiche pertaineth to his cleansing. And the Lord spake vnto Moses and Aaron saying, when ye be come vnto the lande of Canaan which I geue you in possession.

And if I put the plague of leprosy in a house of the lande of your possession, he that oweth the house shall come, and tell the priest saying: me thynke that there is as it were a leprosy in the house. And the priest shall commaunde them to emptye the house before the priest go into it to se the plague: that all that is in the house be not made uncleane, and then must the priest go into the house. If the priest also se that the plague is in the walles of the house, and that there be holowe strakes pale or red which seme to be lowe then the wall it selfe, the priest shall go out at the house doores, and shut vp the house seven dayes. And the priest shall come agayne the seuenth daye, and if he se that the plague be increased in the walles of the house, the priest shall commaunde them to take away the stones in which the the plague is, and let them caste them into a foule place without the cite, and he shal commaunde the house to be scraped within rounde aboute, & powre out the duste (that they scrape of) wythout the cite into a foule place.

And they shall take other stones, and putte them in the places of those stones, & other morter, to plaster the house withall. And yf the plague come agayne and breake out in the house, after that he hath taken awaye the stones and scraped the walles of the house, and after yf he hath plastered the house a newe: the preast shal come and se it. And yf he perceaue that the plague hath growen further in the house, it is a feytinge leprosy in the house. It is therfore vncleane. And he shall breake downe the house. And the stones of it, and the tymber whereof, and all the morter of the house, shall be carpe oute of the cite vnto a foule place. Whereouer, he that goeth into the house all the whyle that it is shut vp, shalbe vncleane vntill the euen. He that sleepeth in the house shall washe his clothes: he yf he wylle that eateth in the house, shall washe his clothes.

And yf the preast shal come and se, that the plague hath spread no further in the house (after yf it is newe plastered) the preast shal iudge that house cleane, because the plague is healed. And let hym take to cleanse the house wythall: two byrdes, cedar wood, purple cloth and ylope. And he shall kyl one of the byrdes in an earthen vessel, and vpon runninge water: and take the cedar wood, and the ylope, and the purple with the lyuynge byrde, and byppe them in the bloude of the slayne byrde, and in the runninge water, & spynke the house seven tymes, and cleanse the house wth the bloude of the byrde and wyth the runninge water, with the lyuynge birde, wth the cedar wood and the ylope, and the purple cloth. But he shal let the lyuynge byrde fleye out of the towne into a byrde felde, and so make an attonement for the house, and it shalbe cleane. This is the lawe for all maner plague of leprosy and breakynge out, and of the leprosy of cloth and house: for a sweetyng, for a scabbe, and for a whyle blister. To teach when it must be made vncleane and cleane. This is the lawe of leprosy.

The maner of purginge the vncleane both of men and women.

And he that lyeth on any thyng wheron he hath that hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue, shal washe his clothes and bathe hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vntill the euening. He that toucheth the fleshe of hym that hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue, shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. Yf he also that hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue spit vpon hym that is cleane, he shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vntill enen. And what horse harness so euer he rydeth vpon that hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue, shalbe vncleane. And who so euer toucheth any thyng that was vnder hym, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And he that beareth any suche thynges, shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. And who soeuer he toucheth that hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue ( & haue not spytte washed his handes in water ) shall washe his clothes and bath hym selfe in water, & be vncleane vnto the euen. * The vessel of earth that he toucheth, whiche hath the p<sup>l</sup>ue, shalbe broken: and all vesselles of wood shalbe rynsed in water.

And the eyght daye he shal take vnto hym two turtill bones: or two yonge pygions, and come before the Lozde vnto the doore of the Tabernacle of witness, and geue them vnto a prest. And the preast shal offer them: the one for a syn offeringe, and the other for burnt offeringe: and the preast shal make an attonement for hym before the Lozde, as concernynge his p<sup>l</sup>ue. Yf a nyman sede departe from hym in his slepe, he shall washe his fleshe in water, and be vncleane vntill enen. And all his clothes and all the furre: wherin is such sede of slepe, shalbe washed with water, and be vncleane vnto the euen. And yf he that hath such an p<sup>l</sup>ue of sede, do lye with a woman, they shall both wash them selues with water, and be vncleane vntill enen.

Yf a womans naturall course of bloude do runne, she shalbe put a parte seven dayes: whoso euer toucheth her, shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. And all that she lyeth vpon, in the tyme of her naturall dyscase, shalbe vncleane lyke as euery thyng also that she lyeth vpon, is vncleane. Who soeuer toucheth her bed, shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe wyth water, and be vncleane vnto the euen: And who so euer toucheth any thyng that she lay vpon, shall washe his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen: so that whether he touch her couch, or any vessel wheron she hath lyten he shalbe vncleane vnto the euen. * And yf a man lye with her, and her vncleannes come vpon hym he shalbe vncleane seuen dayes, and all the couch wheron he lyeth shalbe vncleane.

* When a womans bloud runneth long tyme out of the tyme of her naturall course, or yf it run beyonde her naturall course: let all the dayes of the p<sup>l</sup>ue be wthged vncleane, such as the dayes of her naturall dyscase. And she shalbe vncleane. All her couches wheron she lyeth (as longe as her p<sup>l</sup>ue lasteth) shalbe as her couche when she hath her naturall dyscase. And what soeuer she lyeth sperech vpon, shall be vncleane, as is her vncle-nesse when she is pure aparte. And who so euer toucheth any of these, shall be vncleane, and shall wash his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water and be vncleane vnto euen. And after that she is clenched of her pisse, she shall counte her seuen dayes, and after that, she shall be cleane. In the eighth daye she shall take vnto her two turtle-doves, or two yonge pyngons, and byngge them vnto the priest before the doore of the Tabernacle of witness. And the priest shall offer the one for a synne offering, and the other for a burnt offering: and make an attonement for her before the Lord, as concerning the pisse of her vncle-nesse. Therfore shall he separate the chyldren of Israel from theyr vncleannesse, that they dye not in theyr vncleannesse: yf they despye my habitacy-on that is amonge the ym. This is the lawe of hym that hath a running pisse, & of hym whose seede runneth from hym in his slepe, and is despyled therein, and of her that (for her naturall dysease) is put apart, and of who so euer hath a running pisse: whether it be man or woman, and of hym that lyeth with her which is vncleane.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

What Aaron must do. The cleansing of the sanctuary of the tent of the witness. Aaron consecrith the synners of the chyldren of Israel.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, after the deathe of the two sonnes of Aaron, when they offered before the Lord, and dyed: And he sayde vnto Moses: speake vnto Aaron thy brother, that he come not at all tymes in to the holy place withyn the vayne before the mercy seate, which is vpon the arke, that he dye not for I wyll appeare in the cloud vpon the mercy seate. But with this thyng shall Aaron come in to the holy place: euen with a bulloche for synne, and with a ram for a burnt offering.
He shall put the holy linnen albe vpon hym, and shall haue a linnen bycke vpon his fleshe, and shall be girded with a linnen girdell, and put the linnen myt vpon his head: These are holy garmentes: therfore shall he wash his fleshe in water, when he doth put them on. And he shall take of the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, two hegoates for synne, and a ram for a burnt offering. And Aaron shall offer hys bulloche for synne, and make an attonement for hym, and for his house. And he shall take the two goates, & present them before the Lord at the doore of the Tabernacle of witness. And Aaron shall cast lottes over the two goates: one lotte shall be for the Lord, and the other for the scape goate.
And Aaron shall byngge the goate vpon whiche the Lordes lot fell, and offer hym for synne. But the goate on whiche the lotte fell for scape, shall be let aloue before the Lord, to reconyle with, & to let hym go (as a scape goate) fre into the wyldernes. And Aaron shall byngge hys bulloche for syn, and reconyle for hym selfe, and for hys house, and shall kyll his bulloche for synne.

And he shall take a censer full of burninge coles out of the altare before the Lord, & shall syll his handfull of sweete cens beaten small, and byngge them within the vayne, and put the cens vpon the fyre before the Lord: that the cloude of the cens maye couer the mercy seate that is vpon the witness, and that he dye not. And he shall take of the bloude of the bulloche, and spyn-kle it with his synger vpon the mercy seate east warde: and before the mercy seate shall he spyn-kle of the bloude with his synger seuen tymes.

Then shall he kyll the goate that is the peoples synne offering, and byngge his bloud within the vayne, and do with that bloude, as he dyd with the bloude of the bulloche, spynklyng it vpon the mercy seate, and before the mercy seate. And he shall reconyle the holy place from the vncle-nesse of the chyldren of Israel, and from theyr trespasses in all theyr synnes. And so shall he do for the tabernacle of witness that is set among them, euen amonge theyr vncleannesse.

And let there be no bodie in the tabernacle of witness, when he goeth in to make an attonement in the holy place, vntill he come out. And lette hym make an attonement for hym selfe, & for his household, and for all the multitude of Israel. And he shall goo out vnto the altare that is before the Lord, and reconyle vpon it, & shall take of the blood of the bulloche, and of the blood of the goate, and put it vpon the hornes of the altare rounde aboute, and spynkle of the bloude vpon it with his synger seuen tymes, and clense it, and halo w it from the vncleannesse of the chyldren of Israel. And when he hath made an ende of reconcllyng the holy place, and the tabernacle of witness, and the altare, he shall byngge the lyue goate: and Aaron shall put both his handes vpon the heade of the lyue goate, & confesse ouer hym all the mysdedes of the chyldren of Israel, and all theyr trespasses, in all theyr synnes, puttyngge them vpon the head of the goate, and sende hym awaye (by the hande of a conuentent man) into the wylidernes. And the goate shall beare vpon hym all theyr mysdedes vnto the wyldenes, and he shall let the goate go free into the wyldernes. And Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of witness, & put of the linnen clothes which he put on, when he went into the holy place, and leane them there. And let hym wash his fleshe with water in the holy place, and put on his owne raiment, and then come out, and offer his burnt offeringe, and the burnt offeringe of the people, and make an attonement for hym selfe, and for the people, and the fat of the synne offeringe shall be burne vpon the altare.

And he that carryed forth the goate to Israel, shall wash his clothes, and bath his fleshe in water, and then come into the host. And the bulloche which is for synne, and the goate that is for synne, (whose bloude was brought in, to clense the holy place) shall one carry out without the host to be burnt in the fyre, with theyr syn-nes, theyr fleshe, and theyr dunge. And he that burneth them shall wash his clothes, and bath hys fleshe in water, and then come into the host.
And this shall be an ordynance for euer vnto you that in the tenth daye of the seventh moneth, ye pumble

humble your soules, & do no worke at all, whether it be one of your selues or a stranger that sojourneth amonge you, for that daye shall the Lord make an attonement for you to cleanse you and that ye may be cleane from all your synnes before the Lord. Lette it be a Sabbath of rest vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, by an ordynance for euer. And the Priest that is appointed, and whose hande was consecrated (to minister in his fathers trade) shall make the attonement, and shall put on the linnen clothes and holy vestimentes, and reconple the holy sanctuary and the Tabernacle of witness, and shall cleanse the aultar, and make an attonement then for the priestes and for all the people of the congregation. And thus shall ean & euerslastynge ordynance vnto you, that he make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel for all their synnes once a yere: and he dyd as the Lord commaunded.

The xviij. Chapter.

¶ All sacrifice must be brought on the doore of the tabernacle: to be burnt for the Lord.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron thy sonne, and vnto all the chyldren of Israel, & say vnto the: This is the thing which the Lord hath charged, saying: what man soeuer of the house of Israel killeth an oxe, or lambe, or goate in the host, or killeth it out of the host, & byngeth it not vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witness, to offer an offering vnto the Lord before the dwelling place of the Lord, bloude shall be unputed vnto that man, as though he had shed blood, and that man shall be rote out from amonge his people. Wherefore, when the chyldren of Israel byng the offeringes, that they offer in the wyde feilde, they shal bynge them vnto the Lord: euen vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witness, to offer an offering vnto the Lord. And the Priest must spynke the bloude vpon the aultar of the Lord which is before the doore of the tabernacle of witness, and burne the fat for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lord. And let them nomore offer the offeringes vnto deuils, after whome they haue gone a whoringe. This shall be an ordynance for euer vnto them in their generations.

And thou shalt say vnto them: whatsoever man it be of the house of Israel, or of the strangers which sojourn amonge you that offereth a burnt offering or sacrifice, and byngeth it not vnto the doore of the tabernacle of witness to offer it vnto the Lord, that man shall perishe from amonge his people. And what soeuer man it be of the house of Israel or of the strangers which sojourn amonge you, that eateth any maner of bloude, I will set my face agaynst that soule & eateth bloude, & I will destroy him from amonge his people: for the life of the flesh is in the bloude and I haue geuen it vnto you vpon the aultar, to make an attonement for your soules, for bloude shall make an attonement for the soule. And therefore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel let no soule of you eate bloude. Whether let any stranger which sojourneth amonge you, eat bloude

And what soeuer man it be of the chyldren of Israel, or of the strangers that sojourn amonge you, which hunteth & catcheth any beast or foule that maye be eaten, let hym poure out the bloude thereof, and couer it with earthe, for the life of all flesh is in the bloude of it, therefore I sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel, ye shall eat the bloude of no maner of flesh: for the life of all flesh is the bloude thereof: who soeuer eateth it, shall perishe. And euery soule that eateth it which dyed alone, or that which was tozned wylde beastes, whether it be one of your selues or a stranger, he shall washe his clothes, & bath hym selfe in water, and be vncleane vnto the euen and then shall he be cleane. If he washe hym not nor bath his flesh, he shall beate his synne.

The xviij. Chapter.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto the: I am the Lord your God. After the doynge of the lande of Egypt: when ye dwelt, what ye not do: & after the doynge of the lande of Canaan, whither I wyl byng you shall ye not do, neyther walke in their ordinaunces, but do after my iudgements and kepe my ceremonies, to walke therein: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall kepe therefore myne ordinaunces, and my iudgements: which if a man do, he shall lue in them. I am the Lord.

¶ De that none go to his nyghet kynred, for to vncouer they secrets. I am the Lord. * The secrettes of thy father, and the secrettes of thy mother shalt thou not vncouer: for he is thy mother, therefore shalt thou not discouer her secrettes. * The secrettes of thy fathers wyfe shalt thou not discouer, for it is thy fathers secrettes. * Thou shalt not discouer the pceptes of thy sister, the daughter of thy father or of thy mother whether she be borne at home or without. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy sons daughter or thy daughters daughter, for that is thyne owne pcepte. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers wyues daughter, whiche was begotten of thy father, and is thy sister: thou shalt not discouer her secrettes. * Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers sister, for she is thy fathers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not discouer the secrettes of thy mothers sister, for she is thy mothers nexte kynswoman. Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy fathers brother: that is, thou shalt not go into his wyfe, whiche is thyne aunte.

¶ Thou shalt not discouer the secrettes of thy daughter in lawe: for she is thy sonnes wyfe: therefore shalt thou not vncouer her secrettes. * Thou shalt not vncouer the secrettes of thy brothers wyfe, for that is thy brothers pcepte. Thou shalt not discouer the pceptes of thy wyfe and her daughter, neither shalt thou take her sonnes daughter, or her daughters daughter, to vncouer they secrettes: for they are her nexte kyn, and it were wychednes. * Thou shalt not take a wyfe and her sister also, to vex her, that thou woldest holdest vncouer her secretes as longe as she lyueth. * Thou shalt also not go vnto a woman to vncouer her prauityte, as longe as she is put a parte for her vncleanness. * Moreover, thou shalt not lye wth thy neyghbours wyfe, to despyle her wth seduce. Thou shalt also not geue of thy seide to offer it vnto * Moloch: neyther shalt thou despile the name of thy God. I am the Lord.

* Thou shalt not lye wth mankynde as wth woman kynde, for it is abhominacyon. * Thou shalt lye wth no maner of beast to despile thy selfe therwth, neyther shall any woman stande before a beast, to lye downe therto, for it is abhominacyon. * Thou shalt not despile your selues in a ny of these thynges, wherein also the nacyns are despyled whych I cast out before you: Where thowowe the lande is despyled, and I wyll vylet the wychednesse therof vpon it, yee and the land it selfe shal cast out her inhabytors. * Ye shall kepe therfore myne ordynaunces, and my iudgementes, and comyt none of these abhominaci-ons: neyther any of you nor anye straunger that sojourneth amonge you (for al these abhominacions haue the men of the land done which were there before you, and the lande is defiled.) * Shal not the lande spewe you out also (ye despile it) as it spued out the people that were before you?
For who so euer shall comyt any of these abho-minacions, the same soules that comyt them, shall perishe from amonge theyr people. Therfore shall ye kepe my watche, that ye comyt not one of these abhominable customes which were commytted before you: and that ye despile not your selues therein I am the Lord your God.

¶ The xix. Chapter.

¶ A repeticon of lawes pertainyng to the ten comman-dementes. A consolatyon for the poore: whych because is to be p<sup>re</sup>pared.

¶ And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto al the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: Ye shall be holpe, for I the Lord your God am holpe.
Ye shall feare euery man his father and his mother, and kepe my Sabbothes: I am the Lord your God. Ye shall not turne vnto ydolles, nor make you goddes of metal. I am the Lord your God. If ye offer a peaceofferinge vnto the Lord ye shall offer it & ye may be accepted. * It shalbe eaten the same daye ye offer it, & on the mo<sup>o</sup>we
And yf oughte remaine vntill the thyrde daye, it shall be burne in fyre. And yf it be eaten the thyrde daye, it is vncleane and not accepted. * Ye that eateth it, shal beare his syn, because he hath despyled the halowed thing of the Lord, and that soule shall perishe from amonge his people.

* When ye reape downe the tyepe corne of your lande, ye shall not reape downe the most border of your seide, neyther shalt thou gather that which is leste behynd in the barnest. Thou shalt not pluche in all thy vynegarde cleane, neyther gather in the grapes that are ouerscaped. But thou shalt leane them for the poore and straunger. I am the Lord your God. ¶

* Ye shall not steale, neyther lye, neyther deale falselye one wth another. * Ye shall not buke thy neyghbour: that thou beare not synne for thy sake. * Thou shalt not auenge thy selfe, nor be myndeful of wronge agaynst the chyldre of my people: * but shalt loue thy neyghbour euen as thy selfe. I am the Lord. ¶

Ye shall kepe myne ordynaunces. Thou shalt not lette cattell gender wth a contrarpe kynde, neyther sow the thy seide wth myngled seide neyther shalt thou put on any garment of lynnen and wollen. ¶ Who so euer lyeth and med-leth wth a woman that is a bonde mayde, ne-uerthelesse appoynted to a husbnde, but not redeemed, nor freedome geuen her, she shalbe scourged wth a lathen whyppe, and they shal not dye, because she was not free. And he shal byryng for his trespasse vnto the Lord: before the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, a ramme for a tres-passe offeringe. And the bycalle shall make an attonement for hym wth the ramme whiche is for the trespasse before the Lord, concernynge his synne whiche he hath doone, and the synne whiche he hath doone, shall be forgiven hym.

¶ When ye come to the lande, and haue planted all maner of trees conuenient to be eaten of, ye shall put awaye the foresayne of euerye one wth the frute therof: euen the yere shall they be vncircumcised vnto you, and shall not be eaten of. But in the fourth yere all the frute of them shall be holy, and comendable to the Lord.
In the fyfte yere shal ye eat of the frute of them and ye may gather in the encrease of them. I am the Lord your God. ¶

* Ye shall not cate vpon bloude, neyther shal ye vse wycheheraite, nor obserue tymes. * Ye shall not rounde the lockes of your headres, neyther shalt thou marre the tustes of thy beades.

¶ Ye shal not rente your fleshe for any soules

Take not pynte any markes vpon you: I am the Lorde. Thou shalt not make thy daughter commen, that thou woldest cause her to be an whore, lest the lande also fall to whoredome: and be full of wychednes. Ye shall kepe my sabbotbes and seare my Sanctuarye: I am the Lorde. Ye shall not regarde them that worke with spyetes: neyther seke after soylayers to be despyled by them: I am the Lorde your God.

* Thou shalt kysse vp before the doxched, & reuerente the face of the olde man, and dyade thy God. I am the Lorde. If a straunger sojourne with the in your lande, ye shall not vere hym. * But the straunger that dwelleth with you, shall be as one of your selues, and thou shalt loue hym as thy selfe, for ye were straungers in the lande of Egypte. I am the Lorde your God. Ye shall do no vnyghteousnesse in iudgemente, in meteuerde, in weyghte or in measure. True balances, true weyghtes, a true, Epha and a true hyrn shall ye haue. I am the Lorde your God, whiche broughte you oute of the lande of Egypte. Therfore shall ye obserue all myne ordynances: and all my iudgementes, and doo them. I am the Lorde.

¶ They that geue of theyr syle to Moloch, shall dye therfor. Other goodly lawes.

Leu. xviii. c.

In the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge. This shalt thou saye to the chyldre of Israel, who soeuer be of the chyldre of Israel or of the straungers that dwel in Israel, & geueth of his syle vnto Moloch, let hym be slayne, the people of the lande shall ston hym. And I wyll let my face agaynst that man and destrope hym frome amonge his people: because he hath geuen of his syle vnto Moloch, for to despyle my Sanctuarye, and to polute my holy name. And though he that the people of the lande hyde theyr eyes from the man that geueth of his syle vnto Moloch, and kyll hym not I wyll putte my face agaynst that man, and agaynst his kynred, and wyll destrope hym, and all that goo a whoynge after hym to commyt whoredome with Moloch, from amonge theyr people. If a soule turne hym selfe after such as worke with spyetes, and after soylayers, to go a whoynge after them, I wyll put my face agaynst that soule, and wyll destrope hym from amonge his people. Sanctifye your selues therfore: and be holy, for I am the Lorde your God. kepe ye myne ordynances, and do them. I am the Lorde whiche doth sanctifye you.

his daughter in law, let them dye both of them, they haue wrought abhominacion, theyr bloud be vpon them. * If a man also lye with man kynde: after the maner as with woman kynde they haue both commytted abhominacion, lette them dye. Theyr bloud be vpon them. And if a man take a wife and her mother also, it is wickednesse. They shall be burnt with fyre both he and she, that there be no wychednesse amonge you. And if a man lye with a beast, let hym dye, and ye shall see the beast also.

If a woman go vnto any beast, and lye downe thereto thou shalt kyll the woman and the beast also, let them dye, theyr bloud be vpon them. If a man take his sister, his fathers daughter: or his mothers daughter, and se her secretes and she his secretes, it is a shamefull thyng. They shall perishe in the syght of theyr people, he hath vncouered his sisters secretes, he shall beare his synnes. * If a man lye with a woman harynge her naturall dyscalle, and vncouer her secretes, and open her fountayne, and she also open the fountayne of her bloud, they shall both perishe from amonge theyr people. * Thou shalt not vncouer the secretes of thy mothers sister, * nor of thy fathers sister, for he that dothe so: hath vncouered his nexte kynne: they shall beare theyr mysdoynge. If a man lye with his vnckles wyfe, and vncouer his vnckles secretes: they shall beare theyr synne, and shall dye chyldlesse.

If a man take his brothers wyfe, it is an vnclene thyng, he hath vncouered his brothers secretes, they shall be chyldlesse. * Ye shall kepe therfore all myne ordynances and all my iudgementes, and do them: that the lande wherther I bynge you to dwell therein, speke you not out. Ye shall not walke in the maners of theyr nacyon whiche I caste out before you: for they commytted all these thynges, * and therfore I abhorred them. But I haue sayde vnto you: ye shall enioye theyr lande, and I wyll geue it vnto you to possesse it, euen a lande that stoweth with myne and honne. I am the Lorde your God, whiche haue separated you from other nacyons, * and therfore shall ye put difference betwene cleane bestes and vncleane, betwene vncleane foules and cleane. Ye shall not despyle your foules in bestes and foules, & in all maner cecypunge thynges that the grounde byngeth forth whiche I haue separated from you as vncleane. Therfore shall ye be holy vnto me, for I Lord am holy, and haue seuered pon from other nacyons: that ye shoulde be myne. * If there be a man or woman that worltheth with a spyete, or that is a soylayer, let them dye. Wen shall ston them with stones, theyr bloud be vpon them.

¶ The xxi. Chapter.

In the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses, I speake vnto the priestes the sonnes of Aaron, and saye vnto them. Let none be defiled vpon a soule among his people: but vpon his kinsman & is npe vnto hym: vpon his father, & his mother, vpon some & daughter, and his brother, and on his his sister a mayde that is nye vnto hym, whom no man hath knowen, vpon her shall he be despyed. But he shall not be despyed vpon hym that hath auoynt among his people, to polute him selfe for hym. Let them not make baldnes vpon their head, nor shawe of the lockes of their beards, nor make any markes in their flesh. They shall be holy vnto the Lord God, and not polute the name of the Lord God, for the sacrifices of the Lord which are the bread of the Lord God they do offer: therfore they shall be holy. * Let the not take a wyfe that is an aduoutrisse, or poluted, nor put from her husband: for such a one is holy vnto his god. Thou shalt sanctifye hym therfore, for he offereth vpon the bread of the Lord God: he shall therfore be holy vnto the Lord. If a priestes daughter fail to playe the whoze, she polureth her father, therfore must she be burnt with fyre. He that is the dyt priest among his brethren, vpon whose head the anointyng oyle was powred, & that consecrated hym hande to put the vestmentes, shall not vncover his head, nor rent his clothes, neither go to any dead body, nor make hym selfe vncleane on his father or his mother, neyther shall go out of the sanctuary, nor polute the holy place of the Lord God for the croune of the anointyng oyle of his god, is vpon hym: I am the Lord. * He shall take a mayde vnto his wyfe: but a wydow, a deuorced woman, or an harlot, shall he not marie. But shall take a mayde of his owne people to wyfe. Neyerther shall he despye his seide among his people: for I am the Lord which sanctifye hym.

And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: speake vnto Aaron, and saye. Who so euer of thy seide in theyr generacions hath any deformitie, let him not pzeate for to offer bread vnto the Lord, for whosoever hath any blemyshe, shall not come nere: as yf he be blynde or lame, or that hath a brydded nose, or that hath any myschappen membe, or is broken footed, or broken handed, or haue no heart on his eye browes, or haue a web, or other blemyshe in his eyes, or be maunge, or shauld, or haue his stones broken. A man that hath a blemyshe, and is of the seide of Aaron the priest, shall come nye to offer the sacrifices of the Lord. When he hath a deformitie, let hym not pzeate to offer the bread of the Lord: euen of the moste holy and of the holy: Onely lette hym not go in vnto the bayle, nor come nye the aultar, when he is deformed that he polute not my sanctuary, for I am the Lord that sanctifye them. And Moyses tolde it vnto Aaron and to his sonnes, & vnto all the chyldren of Israel.

¶ The xxii. Chapter.

¶ Who ought to abstayne from eatinge the thynges that were offred. How, what and when they shuld be offered.

¶ Ad the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: speake vnto Aaron & his sonnes, that they be seperated from the holy thynges of the chyldren of Israel, & that they polute not my holy name in those thynges, which they halowe vnto me: I am the Lord. Saye vnto them:

who so euer he be of all your seide amonge your generacions after you, that goeth vnto the holy thynges which the chyldren of Israel halowe vnto the Lord, hauinge by vncleanness vpon hym, that soule shall perpeye frome oute of my spydre. I am the Lord.

* What man so euer of the seide of Aaron is a leaper: or hath a runnyng pisse, he shall not eate of the holy thynges vntill he be cleane. And who so toucheth any man that is vncleane ouer the soule of the deade, or a man whose seide runneth frome hym in his slepe, or who so euer toucheth any woyme, wherby he maye be made vncleane, or a man, of whome he maye take vncleanness (what so euer vncleanness he hath) the same soule that hath touched any such, shall be vncleane vntill euen, and shall not eate of the holpe thynges, vntill he haue washed his flesh with water. And when the sunne is downe, he shall be cleane, and shall afterwarde eate of the holy thynges: for as muche as it is his seide.

* Of a beaste that dyeth alone, or is rente with wilde beastes (wherby he maye be despyed) he shall not eate. I am the Lord. Let them kepe therfore myne ordynance, lest they for the same lade spenne vpon them, and dye for it, yf they despye it. I the Lord sanctifye them.

There shall no straunger eate of the holy thing neyther a giste of the priestes, neyther shall any hyred seruaunte eate of the holy thyng. But yf the priest buye any soule with money, he shall eate of it, lyke as he that is bozne in his house, shall they eate of his bread. If the priestes daughter also be marryed vnto a straunger, she maye not eate of the halowed heue offeringes. Notwithstandyng yf the priestes daughter be a wydow or deuorced and haue no chyld, but is returned vnto her fathers house agayne, she shall eate of her fathers bread, as well as the dyd in her yowth. But there shall no straunger eate therof. If a man eate of the holy thyng vnto the pzeate, he shall put the fyre parte therunto, and geue it vnto the priest with the halowed thyng. And the priestes shall not despye the holpe thynges of the chyldren of Israel, (whiche they offer vnto the Lord) to lade them selues with inidoyng and trespassing whyle they eate theyr holy thynges, for I the Lord do halowe them. And the Lord spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: speake vnto Aaron and his sonnes, and vnto all the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: what so euer he be of the house of Israel, or straunger in Israel, that wyl offer his sacrifice for al his vowes, and for all his fre wyl offeringes whiche they wyl offer vnto the Lord for a burnt offeringe, ye shall offer (to reconyle your selues) a male without blemyshe of the oxen, of the shepe, or of the goates. But whatsoeuer hath a blemyshe, that shall ye not offer, for ye shall get no fauoure therewith. And whosoever buyngeth a peace offeringe vnto the Lord (acordyng as he is appoynted): or a vowe, or a fre wyl offeringe, in ore or shepe that is wythout deformitie, he shall be accepted. There shall be also no blemyshe therein: blynde or broken,

f. ii. or wound.

or wounded, or haue a wenne, or be maunge, or scabbed. Ye shall not offer suche vnto the Lorde nor put an offering of any suche vpon the altar vnto the Lorde. An ore or a shepe that hath any membre out of proportion may it thou offer for a freewill offering, but for a vowe it shal not be accepted. Ye shall not offer vnto the Lorde that which is broked or broken, or plucked out, or cut awaye, neyther shall ye make any suche in your lande, neyther of a strangers hande shall ye offer bread vnto your God of any suche. Because theyr corruption is in them, and they haue defouled in them selues, and therfore shall they not be accepted for you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: when an ore, or a shepe, or a goat is brought forth, it shalbe seuen dayes vnder the damme. And from the eyght daye forth, it shalbe accepted for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde. And whether it be ore or shepe, ye shall not kyll it, and her ponge both in one daye. When ye wyl offer a thankoffering vnto the Lorde, offer it that ye maye be accepted. And the same daye it must be eaten vp, so that ye leaue none of it vntill the morowe. I am the Lorde. Therfore shal ye kepe my commaundementes and do them. I am the Lorde. Neyer shall ye polute my holy name, but I wyl be halowed among the chyldren of Israel. I am the Lorde whycher halowe you, and that brought you out of the land of Egypte, to be your God: I am the Lorde.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Of the holy dayes: that they shulde kepe.

At the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge, speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto them: These are my feastes: euen the feastes of the Lorde, whych ye shall call holy conuocations. * Sixe daies ye shal worke, but the seuenth daye is the Sabbath of rest, an holy conuocation: so that ye do no worke therein. It is the Sabbath of the Lorde, in all your dwellynge. These are the feastes of the Lorde, euen holpe conuocations, whych ye shall proclaime in theyr seasons. In the xxiii. daye of the fyfthe moneth at euen is the Lodes * passeouer. And on the fyfteenth daye of the same moneth the feaste of swete breade vnto the Lorde: seuen dayes ye must eate unleuened bread. * In the fyfthe daye ye shall haue an holy conuocation: on ye shall do no laboryous worke therein. But ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde thowout these seuen dayes, and in the seuenth daye is an holpe conuocation: ye shall do no laboryous worke therein. * And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge, speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them * when ye be come into the lande (whycher I gyue vnto you) & reape downe the harvest therof, ye shal bynge a sheafe of the fyfthe frutes of your harvest vnto the Dyeaste, whiche shal haue the sheafe before the Lorde to be accepted for you: and euen the morowe after the Sabbath, the Dyeaste shall waue it. And ye shal offer that daye when ye haue the sheafe, an helambe without blemyshe of a yere olde, for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde: and the meatofferynge therof, shalbe made of two tenth deales of fyne flour mengled wth oyle, to be a sacrifice vnto the Lorde for a swete sauour: & the bynke offeringe therof shalbe of wyne, euen the fourth deale of an hin. And ye shall eate neyther breade nor parched corne, nor fymenty, nor newe corne vntill the selfe same daye that ye haue brought an offeringe vnto your God. Let this be a lawe for euer in your generation and in all your dwellynge. * And ye shal count from the morowe after the Sabbath: euen from the daye that ye broughte the sheafe of the waueofferinge seuen Sabbathes complete: euen vnto the morowe after the seuenth Sabbath shal ye nombe fyfthe dayes. And ye shall bynge a newe meatoffe ryng vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bynge out of your habitacions two waue loues made of two tenth deales of fyne flour, & that are made with leuen for fyfthe frutes vnto the Lorde. And ye shall bynge wth the breade * seuen lambes without defoult of one yere of age, and one ponge ore and two rammes, whiche shall serue for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, with meatofferyngs and theyr bynke offeringes, to be a sacrifice for a swete sauour vnto the Lorde.

Then ye shall offer an hegoate for a synoffe- ryng: & two lambes of one yere olde for a peace offeringe. And the prest shal waue them with the breade of the fyfthe frutes before the Lorde, and with the two lambes. And these holy thynges of the Lorde, shalbe the Dyeastes. And ye shall proclaime the same day, that it maye be an holy conuocation vnto you: ye shall do no laboryous worke therein: lette it be a lawe for euer in all your dwellynge, and in all your generations. * And when you reape downe your harvest thou shalt not make cleane ryddance of the feld neyther shalte thou make anye aftergathering of thy beruell: but shalte leaue it vnto the poore and the stranger. I am the Lorde your God. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye. In the seuenth moneth, in the fyfthe daye of the moneth shal ye haue reste, * euen the remembraunce of blowynge, an holy conuocation: ye shall do no laboryous worke therein, but offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde. * And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: the * tenth daye also of the selfe seuenth moneth is a daye of reconcyllynge, therfore shal it be an holpe conuocation vnto you, and ye shall humble your soules, and offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde. Ye shall do no worke the same day, for it is a daye of reconcyllynge, to make an attonement for you before the Lorde your God.

For what so euer soule it be that humbleth not himselfe that daye, he shalbe destroyed from amonge his people. And what so euer soule do any worke that daye, the same soule wyll I destroye from amonge his people. Ye shall do no manner worke therfore: Let it be a lawe for euer in your generations, and in all your dwellynge. Lette it be vnto you a Sabbath of reste, and ye shal humble your soules in the nynt day of the moneth at euen: from euen to euen shal ye rest in your Sabbath. * And

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say: The fyfteenth daye of the same seuenth moneth is the feaste of tabernacles, seuen dayes vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lorde. The fyfthe daye is an holy conuocation: ye shall do no laborious worke. Seuen dayes ye shall offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde, and in the eynghthe daye shalbe an holy conuocation vnto you, and ye shall offer sacrifices vnto the Lorde. It is the collection, and ye shall do no laborious worke therein. These are the feastes of the Lorde, which ye shall call holpe conuocations, for to offer sacrifice vnto the Lorde, burnt offering, meat offering, peace offering, and bynkoferinges, euen daye bys due sacrifice besyde the Sabbathes of the Lorde, and besyde your gyftes, besyde your bowes, and all your fre will offeringes, whiche ye geue vnto the Lorde.

Moreouer, in the fyfteenth daye of the seuenth moneth, when ye haue gathered in the frute of the lande, ye shall kepe holpe daye vnto the Lorde seuen dayes. The fyfthe daye shall be as a Sabbath: lyke wyse in the eynghthe daye shall be the rest of the Sabbath. And ye shall take you in the fyfthe daye, the frutes of goodly trees, bzaunches and Palme trees, and the bowes of shyche trees, and wyllowes of the brooke, and shall reioyce before the Lorde your God seuen dayes. And ye shall kepe this feaste vnto the Lorde vii. dayes in the pere. It shalbe a lawe for euer in your generacions, that ye kepe it in the seuenth moneth. Ye shall dwell in bothes. vii. dayes eue al y<sup>e</sup> are Israelites bozne, shal dwell in bothes, y<sup>e</sup> your chyldren after you maye knowe how that I made the chyldren of Israel to dwell in bothes, when I brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the Lorde your God. I And Moyses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, concerninge the feastes of the Lorde.

The xxiii. Chapter.

The oyle for the lampes. He that curseth must be stoned. He that aplyeth shalbe litten.

Ad the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayeng: Commaunde the chyldren of Israel that they bynne vnto the, puer oyle olyue beaten for lightes to cause the lampes to burne a way: without the vayle of wytnesse: in the tabernacle of witness shal Aaron dysse them both euen & morning before the Lorde alwaies. Let it be a law for euer in your generacions. He shal dysse the lampes vpon the pure candlesticke before the Lorde perpetually. And thou shalt take fyne flour, and bake twelue wassels thereof, two tenth deales shall be in one wassell. And thou shalt set them in two rowes fyve on a rowe vpon the pure table before the Lorde, and put pure frankensence vpon the rowes, that they may be breade of remembraunce, and an offering to the Lorde. Euen Sabbath he shal put them in rowes before the Lorde euen more: of the chyldren of Israel shal they be offered for an euerlastyng couenant. And they shalbe Aarons & his sonnes, which shal eate them in the holy place. For they are most holy vnto him of the offerings of the Lordes by a perpetuall statute. And the son of an Israelitische wyfe, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the chyldren of Israel. And this sonne of the Eraelitische wyfe, and a man of Israel stroue together in the hoste.

And the Israelitische womans sonne * blasphemed the name of the Lorde and: cursed, and they brought hym vnto Moyses. Hys mothers name was Salomith, which was the daughter of Dibui: of the trybe of Dan: & they * put hym in ward, that the mynde of the Lorde myght be shewed them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses sayeng: bynne the cursed speaker without the hoste, and let all that heard hym, put theyr handes vpon his head, & let al the multitude stone hym. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, saying: Who soeuer curseth his God shall beare his synne. And he that blasphemeth the name of the Lorde, let hym be slayne, and all the multitude shal stone him to death. Whether he be bozne in the land or a stranger, when he blasphemeth the name of the Lorde, let him be slayne. And he that killeth any man, let him dye the death. And he that killeth a beaste, let hym make hym good, soule for soule. And if a man mapne his neyghbour, as he hath done, so shall it be done to hym: broke for broke: eye for eye and toth for toth: euen as he hath mapned a man, so shall he be mapned agayne. And he that aplyeth a bentle let him paye for it: and he that hath killed a man, let hym dye. Ye shall haue one maner of lawe: euen for the stranger as well as for one of your seuen, for I am the Lorde your God. And Moyses tolde the chyldren of Israel, and they brought hym (that had cursed) out of the hoste, and stoned hym with stones. And the chyldren of Israel dyd as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.

The xxv. Chapter.

The Sabbath of the seuen pears: and of the pere of the tabernacle, as people called the feasted pere.

Ad the Lorde spake vnto Moyses in Mount Synat, sayeng: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: when ye come into the lande whiche I geue you, the lande shall rest, and kepe Sabbath vnto the Lorde. Syre pears thou shalt sowe thy felde and syre pere thou shalt cut the vyneyard, and gather in the frute thereof. But the * seuenth pere shalbe a Sabbath of reste vnto the lande. The Lordes Sabbath it shalbe: thou shalt neyther sowe the felde, nor cut thy vyneyard. That whiche groweth of throwne accorde thou shalt not reape, neyther gather the grapes that thou hast lette behynde, for it is a pere of rest vnto the lande. And the reste of the lande shal be meate for you: euen for the, for thy seruaunt: and for thy mayde for thy byrd seruaunt, and for the stranger that sojourneth wyth the: and for thy cattell, and for the beastes that are in the lande, shall all the increase thereof be meate.

And thou shalt nombe sent Sabbathes of pears vnto the, euen seuentymes seuen pere: and the space of the seuen Sabbathes of pears: wyl be vnto the nyue and fortye peare.

And then thou shalt make a trumpe blowe: in the tenth daye of the seventh moneth, euen in the daye of attonement shall ye make þe trumpe blowe, thowse out all your lande. And thou shalt halowe that yere: euen the fyfteenth yere, and proclame lphertye thowse out the lande: vnto all the inhabytters therof, for it shall be a yere of iudelye vnto you, and ye shall retourne euery man vnto hys possession, and euery man vnto hys hyndred agayne. A yere of iudelye shall that fyfteenth yere be vnto you. Ye shall not sowe neyther reape that whiche groweth of it selfe, neyther gather the grapes that are lefte.

For that yere of iudelye shall be holie vnto you: but ye shall eate of the increase therof oute of the felde. In the yere of thys iudelye ye shall retourne euery man vnto his possession agayne. If thou sellest oughte to thy neyghboure, or byest of thy neyghbours hande, ye shall not decrease one another: but accordyng to the number of yeres after the iudelye yere thou shalt bye of thy neyghboure, and accordyng vnto the number of yeres and of the frutes, he shall sell vnto the.

Accordyng vnto the multitude of yeres, he shall increase the pryce therof, and accordyng to the fewnesse of yeres, he shall mynysh the pryce of it: for the number of frutes doeth he sell vnto the.

¶ Dylcreue not ye therfore euery man his neyghboure, but thou shalt feare thy God. For I am the Lord your God: wherfore ye shall do after myne ordynaunces: & kepe my lawes, and do them, and ye shall dwell in the lande in safety.

And the lande shall geue her frute, and ye shall eate your fyll: and dwell therein in safety. And if ye shall say: what shall we eate the seventh yere, for we shall not sowe, nor gather in our increase? I wyl sende my blessing vpon you in the syxte yere, and it shall bypge for the frute for thre yeres, and ye shall sowe the eighth yere, and eate yet of olde corne vntill the ninth yere: euen vntill her frutes come, ye shall eate of olde store.

The lande shall not be solde to be waste: for the land is myne, and ye be but straungers and sojourners with me.

In all the lande of your possession, ye shall graunte a redemption for the lande. If thy brother be ware poore, and haue solde awaye of hys possession, and if any of hys kynne come to redeime it, lette hym by out that whiche his brother solde. And if he haue no man to redeime it, let hys hande get so muche as may be sufficient to bye it out agayne, and lette hym counte howe longe it hath bene solde, and deliuer the rest vnto the man to whom he solde it, that he maye retourne to hys possession agayne. But and if his hande can not get sufficient to restore to the other agayne, then that whiche is solde shall remaine in the hande of hym that hath bought it, vntill the yere of iudelye: and in the iudelye it shall come out, and he shall retourne vnto his possession agayne. And if a man sell a house or a dwellinge wythin the walles of a cite, he maye bye it out agayne wythin a whole yere after it is solde: euen any daye of the yere shall he redeime it agayne.

But and if he bye it not oute agayne wythin the space of a full yere, then the house that is in the walled cite, shall be stablished, and be hys owne that boughte it, and hys successours after hym, and shall not go oute in the iudelye. But the houses of villages, whiche haue no walles rounde aboute them, are counted as the felde of the countre, and therfore they maye be boughte out agayne, and shall retourne in the iudelye. Not wythstandyng, the Cities of the Leuites, and the houses of the Cites of theyr possession, maye the Leuites redeime at all seasons. And if a man purchase oughte of the Leuites, the house that was solde and the Cite of theyr possession shall goo oute in the yere of iudelye: for the houses of the Cites of the Leuites, are theyr possession amonge the chyldren of Israel. But the felde of the suburbe that is besyde theyr cities, maye not be solde: but is theyr perpetuall possession.

If thy brother be ware poore, and fallen in decaye with the, thou shalt releue hym, both the straunger and sojourner, that he maye liue with the. * And thou shalt take no vsurpe of hym, or vantage, but thou shalt feare the God, that thy brother maye lyue wyth the. Thou shalt not geue hym thy money vpon vsurpe, nor lende hym thy corne for increase. I am the Lord your God, whiche broughte you out of the lande of Egypte: to geue you the lande of Canaan, and to be your God. * ¶ If thy brother that dwelleth by the, be ware poore, and be solde vnto the, thou shalt not compell hym to the bondage of seruantes, but as an hyred seruante, and as a sojourner he shall be wyth the, and shall serue the vnto the yere of iudelye, and then shall he departe from the, both he and hys chyldren wyth hym, and shall retourne vnto hys owne hyndred agayne: and vnto the possession of hys fathers, for they are my seruantes, whiche I broughte out of the lande of Egypte, and shall not therfore be solde as bondemen. Thou shalt not ragne ouer him cruelly, but shalt feare thy god.

Thy bonde seruante, and thy bonde mayde: whiche thou shalt haue, shall be of the heathen that are rounde aboute you: of them shall ye purchase seruantes and maydens, and of the chyldren of the straungers, that are sojourners amonge you, and of theyr generacions that are wyth you, whiche they begat in your lande.

These shall be your possession, and ye shall take them as inheritaunce for your chyldren after you, to possesse them, they shall be your bondemen for ever. But ouer your brethren the chyldren of Israel, ye shall not ragne one ouer another cruelly. If a sojourner or a straunger waxe ryche by the, and thy brother dwell with hym waxe poore, and sell hym selfe vnto the straunger or sojourner by the, or to anye of the straungers kyn, after that he is solde, he maye be redeemed agayne: one of hys brethren, or that wyth hym, or ther hys vncle, or hys vncles sone maye bye him oute: or anye that is nye of hym vnto hym of hys hyndred, maye redeime hym: eithre of hys hande can gette so muche, he maye be loosed. And he shall rekeyn wyth hym that boughte hym from the the pce that he was solde in, vnto the pce of iubelpe: the pce of hys byng shalbe valued accordinge vnto the nombre of pces. As an hyed seruaunte shal be he wth hym. If there be yet many pces belynde, accordyng vnto them let hym geue agayn for his deliuerance, of the moey that he was boughte for. If there remayne but fewe pces vnto the pce of iubelpe, let him counte with him agayne, and accordyng vnto his pces geue hym agayne for his redemption and he shalbe with him pce by pce as an hyed seruaunte and the other shal not raygne cruelly ouer him in thy light. If he be not redeemed thus, he shal go out in the pce of iubelpe, both he and his chyldren with him: for the chyldren of Israel are my seruantes, whiche I brought out of the lande of Egypte. I am the Lorde your God.

They are blessed that hope thole charynges that God

Ye shall make you no ydols nor grauen ymage, neither reare you vp any stone nether shal ye set vp any image of stone in poure lande to worship it: for I am the Lorde your God, ye shall kepe my Sabbothes, and feare my sanctuary: for I am the Lorde. If ye walke in myne ordinaunces and kepe my comaundementes, and do them I will sende you rayne in the righte season, and the lande shal yelde her increase, and the trees of the felde shal geue theyr frute. And the thyefspynge shal reache vnto wyne haruest, and the wyne haruest shal reache vnto sowynge tyme, and you shal eate your breadye in plenteousnesse, and dwell in poure lande peaceably. And I will sende peace in the lande, and ye shall slepe wthout any man to make you affrayde.

And I will ryd euery beastes out of the land and there shal no swerde goo thowout poure lande. And ye shall chase your enemies, and they shal fall before you vpon the swerde. * And fyue of you shall chase an hundred, and an hundred of you shall put ten thousande to flyght, and your enemies shal fall before you vpon the swerde. For I will haue respect vnto you, and make you increase and multiplye you, and sette by my couenaunte wth you. And ye shall eate olde stowe, and cary out olde for the newe. * And I will make my dwellinge place amonge you, and my soule shal not lothe you. I will walke amonge you: and will be your God and ye shal be my people. I am the Lorde your God which brought you out of the lande of Egypt, ye shulde not be theyr bondmen and I haue broken the cheynes of your poke, and made you go fre. * But and ye will not harken vnto me, nor will ye do after these comaundementes. And ye shall despyce myne ordinaunces, ether ye shall abhorre my lawes, so that ye will not do al my comaundementes, but breake myne appoyntemente, I also will do this vnto you. For I will bynne upon you fearfulnesse, swellinge of body, and the burninge agewe to consume your eyes, and gender sorrowe of hart. And you shal sowe your seede in vayne, for your enemys shall eate it. And I will set my face agaynst you, & ye shall fall before your enemies and they that hate you shal raygne ouer you, * and ye shall see when no man foloweth you.

And ye will not yet for al this hearken vnto me, then will I punyssh you seuentymes more for your synnes, and will breake the pyde of your stubburnes. And I will make your heauen as yron, and your earth as brasse: And your labour shalbe spent in vayne. For your lande shal not geue her increase, nether shal the trees of the lande geue theyr frutes. And ye shall walke contrary vnto me, and will not hearken vnto me I will bynne seuen tymes mo plagis vpon you accordyng to your synnes. I will also sende in wyde beastes vpon you, whiche shal rob you of your chyldren, and destroye your cattell, and make you fewe in nombre, and cause youre hwyayes to growe vnto a wyldernesse. And ye may not be reformed by these thynges but shal walke contrary vnto me, then will I also walke contrary vnto you, and will punyssh you yet seuen tymes for your synnes. And I will sende a swerde vpon you, that shal avenge my testament. And when ye are gathered to gether with in your cities, I will sende the pestilence amonge you, and ye shalbe deliuered into the hand of the enemye. And when I haue broken the staffe of your breadye: ten wyues shal bake your breadye in one oven, and they shal deliuer you your breadye agayne by weighte: ye shall eate, and not be satisfied. And ye will not yet for al this, hearken vnto me, but shal walke against me, I will walke contrary vnto you also in indignation, and will chastise you seuen tymes for your synnes. * And ye shall eate the fleshe of your sonnes and the fleshe of your daughters shal ye deuoure

I will destroye your hwyayes, and rote out your ymages, and cast your carthasses vpon the bodies of your ydols, and my soule shal abhorre you. And I will make your cities desolate, and bynne your Sanctuary vnto nought, and will not smell the swetnesse of your odours. I will bynne the lande vnto a wyldernesse, and your enemies whiche dwell therein, shal wonder at it. And I will strow you amonge the heathen, and will bynne out a swerde after you, and your lande shalbe waste, and your cities desolate. Then shal the lande enioye her Sabbothes, as long as it lyeth voyde, & ye shalbe in your enemies lande: euen then shal the lande reste, and restore in her Sabbothes. As long as it lyeth voyde, it shal rest, because it dyd not rest in your Sabbothes, when ye dwelt vpon it:

And vpon them that are left a tyde of you, I will sende a sayntensse into theyr hartes in the lande of theyr enemies: and the sounde of a shakynge lease, shal chase them, and when they see the swerde, they shal fall: no man folowing vpon them. They shal fall one vpon another, as it were before a swerde, euen no man folowing vpon them, and ye shal haue no power to stande before your enemies: And ye shal perishe amonge the heathen, & the lande of your enemies shal eate you vp.

And they that are left of you, shall pynne awaye in theyr vncircumcisednes, euen in theyr enemies lande, and in the misdedes of theyr fathers shal they consume. And they shal confesse theyr misdedes and the misdedes of theyr fathers for their trespass, whiche they haue trespassed agaynst me, and for that also that they haue walked contrary vnto me. Therefore, I also wyl walke contrary vnto them, and wyl bypunge them into the lande of theyr enemies. And then at the last waye theyr vncircumcised hartes shal be tamed, & they shal make attonement for theyr mysdedes.

Deu. xiii. 1

And * I wyl remember my couenaunt wyth Jacob, and my bonde wyth Isaac, and myne appoyntment wyth Abraham wyl I remember, and wyl thynke on the lande. The lande shalbe left of them, & shal enioye her Sabbotyes whyle she lyeth waste wpythout them.

And they shal make an attonement for theyr mysdedes, because they despised my lawes, and because theyr soules refused myne ordinaunces: And yet for al that when they be in the lande of theyr enemies: * I wyl not cast them away, neether wyl abhorre them, to destroye them utterly, and bytake myne appoyntment wyth them: for I am the Lord theyr God. I wyl for theyr sakes remembre the couenaunt made vnto their fathers when I broughte them out of the lande of Egypte in the syght of the heathen, & I might be theyr God: I am the Lord. These are my ordinaunces, and iudgements, and lawes: whiche the Lord made betwene him and the chyldren of Israel in mount Sinai, by the hande of Moyses.

Deu. xiii. 1

¶ Of the lawes of the sanctuary, and of the sanctuary.

Ad the Lord spake vnto Moyses, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto them: If any man wyl geue a singuler vowe vnto the Lord, accordyng to the value of the soules, the value of the male from twenty yere olde vnto syttee shal be syttee * sycles of silver, after the weyght of the Sanctuary. And if it be a female: the value shalbe thyttee sycles. And from fyue yeres to twentye, the male shalbe set at tentye sycles, and the female at .x. sycles. And fro a moneth vnto fyue yeres, the male shalbe set at fyue sycles of silver, and the female at thye. And he that is syttee yere olde, and aboue shalbe valued at syttee sycles, and the woman at ten. But if he be to pooze so to be set he shal present hym selfe before the prest: and the prest shal value hym accordyng to the hande of him that vowed is able to get, euen so shal the prest value hym. If it be a beast of whiche men bypung an offering vnto the Lord: all that anye man getteth of such vnto the Lord shalbe counted holy. He shal not aultar it nor chaunge it a good for a bad, or a bad for a good. And if he chaunge beast for beast, the both the same beast and it also wher to it was chaunged shalbe holpe. If it be any manner of vnclean beast, of whiche men do not offer a sacrifice vnto the Lord, he shal set the beast before the prest, and the prest shal value it, whether it be good or bad. And as the prest sette it, so shal it be. But if he wyl bye it agayne, he shal geue the syttee parte moze aboue that it was set at. If any man dedicate his house to be holy vnto the Lord: the weaste shal set it, whether it be good or bad, and as the prest hath set it, so shal they value be. And wher he that sanctified it wyl redeme his house: let him geue the syttee parte of the money that it was iudged at therto, and it shalbe his.

If a man halow a pce of his enherited lande vnto the Lord: it shalbe set accordyng to the seide therof. If it beare an homer of barley it shalbe set at syttee sycles of silver. If he halow his seide immediatlye from the yere of iubelp, it shalbe worth accordyng to as it is esteemed. But and if he halowe his seide after the iubelp, the prest shal reuen the money accordyng to the nombe of the yeres that remaine vnto the yeres of iubelp foloweng and thereafter it shalbe lower set.

If he that consecrated the seide, wyl redeme it agayne, let him put the syttee parte of the price that it was set at therto, and it shalbe his.

And if he wyl not redeme the seide, but selleth it to another man, he shal geue the syttee parte of the price to another man, he shal geue the seide goyth out in that yere of iubelp, it shalbe holy vnto the Lord: eue as a seide that is utterly put away, and it shalbe the prestes possession. If a man sanctify vnto the Lord a seide whiche he hath bought, and is not of his enheritaunce, the prest shal reuen vnto hym what it is worth vnto the yere of iubelp, & he shal geue the price that it is set at, the same daye, as a thyng consecrated vnto the Lord.

And in the yere of iubelp, the seide shal returne vnto hym whose enheritaunce of land it is. And all settinge shalbe accordyng to the sytle of the sanctuary. One sytle conceynerth twenty halfe pence. * But the syttee boze of fyve beastes that is appoynted vnto the Lord, may no man sanctifye: whether it be ore or shepe, for it is of the Lordes already. If it be an vnclean beast, he shal redeme it, as it is set at, and geue the syttee parte moze therto: Or if it be not redemed, it shalbe solde, accordyng to the value. Notwithstanding, no damned thyng that a man putteth from hym & dedicateth vnto the Lord of all his good (whether it be man or beast or land of his enheritaunce) may be solde or redemed: for euery thyng so put away is most holy vnto the Lord. Let no damned thyng that a man separateth: be redemed, but bye the death. Euery tith of the lande which is of the seide of the land, or of the frute of fyve trees is the Lordes: and is sanctified vnto the Lord.

And if a man wyl redeme ought of his tythes: let hym ad the syttee part therto. And euery tith of ore and of shepe and of euery beast & goyth vnder the rod, euen euery tenth shalbe holy vnto the Lord. He shal not loke if it be good or bad, nor chaunge it. Els if he chaunge it, both it and that it was chaunged withall, shalbe halowed vnto the Lord, & may not be redemed. These are the commaundementes which the Lord comaunded by Moyses vnto the chyldren of Israel in mount Sinai.

But the Leuites after the trybes of theyr fathers were not nombzed among them. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: Thou shalt not number f trybe of Leui, nether take the sum of them from amonge f chyldzen of Israel. But thou shalt appoyne the Leuites ouer the habita-cyon of wytnesse, and ouer all the vessels therof and ouer all thinges that are in it. Pee. they shal beare the tabernacle and all the vesselles therof and they shal minystr in it, & shal dwell round about the tabernacle. And when the tabernacle goeth forth, the Leuites shal take it downe: and when the tabernacle is to be pytched, they shal set it vp: and if any straunger come nye, he shal dye. And the chyldzen of Israel shal pytch theyr tentres, euery man in hys owne company, and eu-ery man vnder hys owne standerd thozowout theyr hostes. But the Leuites shal pytch round about the tabernacle of wytnesse, that there be no wraith vpon the congregacyon of f chyldzen of Israel, and the Leuites shal kepe the watche of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the chyldzen of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moyses, euen so dyd they.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

The ordre of the tentes. The heabes of the tentes of Israel.

Ad the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, and Aaron, sayinge: euery man of the chyldzen of Israel shal pytche vnder his owne standerde and vnder the armes of theyr fathers houses: on the other syde and rounde aboute the Tabernacle of wytnesse shal they pytche. On the easte syde towarde the rysynge of the sunne, shal they of the standerde of the hoste of Iuda pytche thozowout theyr armies: And Abelson the son of Aminadab was captayn of the sons of Iuda.
And his host and the nombze of them. lxxiii. v. and fyre hundred. Nexte vnto hym shal they be of the trybe of Issachar pytche and Nathana-el the sonne of zuar was captayne of the chyldze of Issachar: his hoste and the summe of the nobze therof. lliii. thousande, and foure hundred. And then the trybe of Zabulon: and Eliab f sonne of Belon, captayne ouer the chyldzen of Zabulon & his hoste, and the nombze of them. lvi. thousand and foure hundred: so that the whole nombze of the whole hoste of Iuda are an hundred thousande. lxxxvi. thousande and foure hundred tho-zowout theyr armies: and these shal go before.

On the south syde shal the standerde of the hoste of Ruben kepe thozowe theyr companyes and the captayn ouer the sonnes of Ruben, was Elizur the sonne of Sedeur. And hys hoste and the nombze of them. xli. thousand and fyue hundred. And faste by hym shal the trybe of Simeon pytche, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Simeon, was Salumiel the sonne of zuri Sadai, and hys hoste, and the nobze of them. lix. thousande and thye hundred. And the trybe of Sud also, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Sud, was Elisaph the sonne of Weguell: And his hoste and the nombze of them. xlv. thousand fyre hundred and fytty. All that were nombzed with the trybe of Ruben: an hundred thousand li. thousand four hundred and fytty, thozowout theyr armies, & they shal go in the second place.

And the tabernacle of wytnesse shal goo with the hoste of the Leuites, in the myddes of the hostes.
And as they lye in theyr tentres, euen so shal they procede in the iourney, euery man in hys degre, and vnder theyr owne standerdes.

The west syde shal the standerd of the hoste Ephraim kepe with theyr armies, and the captayne ouer the sonnes of Ephraim, was Elisa-ma the sonne of Amihud: his hoste and the nom-bze of them. xl. thousand and fyue hundred. And faste by hym, shal be the trybe of Manasse, & the captayne ouer the sonnes of Manasse was Sa-maleel the sonne of Pedazur. hys hoste and the nombze of them. xxxii. thousande and two hundred. And the trybe of Ben Jamin also: and the captayne ouer the sons of Ben Jamin was Abidan the son of Sedeon. his hoste, and the nom-bze of them. xxxv. thousande and four hundred.
All that were appoynted with f hoste of Ephre-im were an hundred thousande epght thousand and an hundred, thozowe out theyr armies, and they shal go in the thyrde place. The standerde of the hoste of Dan, shal kepe f north syde with theyr armies: and the captayn ouer the chyldze

Leuites were not nombzed amonge the chyldze of Israel as the Lorde commaunded Moyses.
And the chyldzen of Israel dyd accordyng to all that the Lorde commaunded Moyses: so they pytched with theyr standerdes, and so they iourneyed thozowe out theyr kynredes and thozow out the householders of theyr fathers.

The.iii. Chapter.

The Levites go not to battle, but minister in the Sanctuary. They pitch their tentes next to the habitation.

These are the generacions of Aaron and Moses, in the daye that y<sup>e</sup> Lord spake wth Moses in mounte Sinai, & these are the names of the sonnes of Aaron: Nadab the eldest son, Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar. * These are the names of the sonnes of Aaron which were prestes anoynted, & whose hande was consecrated to minister. * And Nadab and Abihu dyed before the Lord: when they offered straunge fyre before the Lord in the wyldernes of Sinai, & had no chyldren. And Eleazar and Ithamar ministered in the syght of Aaron theyr father.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: brynge the trybe of Levi, and sette them before Aaron the Priest: that they maye serue hym, & wayte vpon hym and vpon all the multitude, before the tabernacle of wytnesse, to do the seruyce of the habitation. They shall kepe all the apparel of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and wayte vpon the chyldren of Israel to do the seruyce of the habitation. And thou shalt geue the Leuites vnto Aaron and his sonnes, for they are geuen: and deliuered vnto hym of the chyldren of Israel. And thou shalt appoynt Aaron and his sonnes to wayte on theyr prestes offyce: and the straunger that cometh nye, shalbe slayne.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: behold, I haue taken the Leuites from among the chyldren of Israel: for all the fyrste bozne, that openeth the matryce amonge the chyldren of Israel, and the Leuites shalbe myne: because all the fyrste bozne are myne: for the same daye that I smote all the fyrste bozne in the lande of Egypte, I halowed vnto me all the fyrst bozne in Israel, both man and beaste, and myne they shalbe: I am the Lord. And the Lord spake vnto Moses in the wyldernes of Sinai: saying: Nombze the chyldren of Levi after y<sup>e</sup> houses of theyr fathers in theyr kynredes. All that are males, from a moneth olde and aboue shalte thou nombze. And Moses nombzed them accordyng to the commaundement of the Lord, and as he had commaunded. * And these were the chyldren of Levi in theyr names: Gerson and Cabath, and Merari. And these are the names of the chyldren of Gerson in theyr kynredes: Libni and Semel. The sonnes of Cabath in theyr kynredes: Amram, Jezabab, Hebzon and Oziel. And the sonnes of Merari in theyr kynredes, Gabel and Musi. These are the kynredes of y<sup>e</sup>

Leuites, accordyng to the houses of theyr fathers. Of Gerson came the kynred of the Libnites and the kynred of the Semelites. These are the kynredes of the Gersonytes.

And the sum of them (after the number of all the males frome a moneth olde and aboue) was seven thousande and fyue hundred. And the kynredes of the Gersonytes shal pteche beynde the habitation westward. The captayne and most auntyent of the house of the Gersonytes, was Eliasaph the sonne of Lael. And vnder the keepyng of the chyldren of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnesse was the habitation and the tent the couerynge thereof, and the hangyng of the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse and the hangynges of the courte, and the curtayne of y<sup>e</sup> doore of the courte: whyche is rounde aboute the Tabernacle, and the aultar, and the cordes of it for all the seruyce thereof. And of Cabath came the kynred of the Amramites, and the kynred of the Jezababites: the kynred of the Hebzonites, and the kynred of the Ozielites. These are the kynredes of the Cabathites. And the nombre of all the males frome a moneth olde and aboue, was eight thousande and fyve hundred, & these shall kepe the thynges that are to be kepte in the holy place. And the kynred of the chyldren of Cabath shal pteche on the southsyde of the Tabernacle. The captayne and most auntyent of y<sup>e</sup> house of the kynred of the Cabathites, was Elisaphan the sonne of Oziel, & vnder theyr keepyng was the arke, the table, the candlestykke, and the aultars, and all the vessels of y<sup>e</sup> sanctuary that they minister in, and the vayle, and what soeuer belonged to the ministry thereof. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest, was captayn ouer all the captaynes of the Leuites, and had y<sup>e</sup> ouersyght of them that wayted vpon the sanctuary. And of Merari came the kynred of the Gabelites, and the kynred of the Musites.

These are the kynredes of Merari. And the summe of them accordyng to the nombre of all the males, frome a moneth olde and aboue was fyve thousande and two hundred. The captayn and the most auntyent of theyr house that were of the kynred of Merari, was Muriel the sonne of Abihail: and these shal pteche on the northsyde of the tabernacle. And vnder the custody of the sonnes of Merari shalbe the boordes of the dwelling, and the barres, pylles and sockettes thereof, all the vessel thereof, and all that scructher to: and the pylles of the courte rounde aboute, with theyr sockettes, theyr pyennes and theyr cordes. But on the fore front of the habitation before the tabernacle of wytnesse eastwarde shal Moses and Aaron and theyr sonnes pteche and wayte to kepe the sanctuary, and to kepe y<sup>e</sup> chyldren of Israel. And the straunger that cometh nye, shalbe slayne. And the whole summe of the Leuites whyche Moses and Aaron nombzed, at the commaundement of the Lord the rowout theyr kynredes (euen all the males from a moneth olde and aboue) was * .cciiij. thousand den of Israel (from a moneth olde and above) and take the nombze of theyr names. And thou shalt appoynte the Levites to me (for I am the Lorde) for all the fyrste boyme of the chyldzen of Israel, and the cattell of the Levites, for all the fyrste gendred of the cattell of the chyldzen of Israel. And Moyses nombred as the Lorde commaunded hym, all the fyrste boyme of the chyldzen of Israel. And all the fyrste boyme males reherfed by theyr names (from a moneth olde and above, accordyng to theyr nombze) were. xxi. thousand two hundred and lxxiii. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: take the Levites for al the fyrste boyme of the chyldzen of Israel, and the cattell of the Levites for theyr cattell, and the Levites shalbe myne. I am the Lorde. And for the redempcyng of the two hundred & lxxiii. (whych are mo then the Levites in the fyrste boyme of the chyldzen of Israel) take fyve shylles of euery head after the weyght of the Sanctuarie, & the shylle conteyning twenty halfpens. And geue the money toherwith the odde nombze of them is redeemed vnto Aaron and his sonnes. And Moyses toke the redempcyon money, of þe ouerplus that were mo then the Levites: of the fyrste boyme of the chyldzen of Israel toke he this money: euen a thousande thre hundred and. lxx. shylles, after the shylle of the sanctuarie. And Moyses gaue the money of them that were redeemed, vnto Aaron and his sonnes, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde, euen as the Lorde comaunded Moyses.

¶ The liii. Chapter.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, and Aaron sayinge: Take the sum of the chyldzen of Cahath frome amonge þe sonnes of Levi, after their kynredes & houses of theyr fathers (from thyrtye yere and above vntyll fyfetye) all that are able to go furth to the warre: for to doo the worke in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The offyce of the chyldzen of Cahath in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, is most holy. And when the host remoueth, Aaron and his sonnes shal come and take downe the vayle, that hangeth betwene & wyape the arke of wytnesse in it: and shal put thereon a couerpyng of tarus shynnes, and shal sprede vpon it a clothe that is altogether of pelowe sylke, and put in the barres thereof. And vpon the shewe table, they shal sprede abroade a cloth of pelowe sylke, and put thereon the dysches, spones, flatpates, and pots to powze wyth and there shalbe bzead thereon continually: and they shal sprede vpon them a couerpyng of purple, and couer the same with a couerpyng of tarus shynnes and putte in the barres thereof. And they shal take a clothe of pelowe sylke, and couer the candelltycke of lpyght, with his lampes tonges, and snoffers, and all the oyle vessels: whych they occuppe about it, and they shal put both it, and all the vessell thereof within a couerpyng of tarus shynnes, and put it vpon a bar.

And vpon the golden aulcar they shal sprede a cloth of pelowe sylke, and couer it with a couerpyng of tarus shynnes, and putte in the barres thereof. And they shal take all the thynges, (whych they occuppe to mynister within the holye place) and put a clothe of pelowe sylke vpon them, and couer them with a couerpyng of tarus shynnes, and put them on a barre.

And they shal take awaye the ashes from the aulcar, and sprede a purple cloth thereon: and put vpon it all the vessels thereof that they minister withall: euen the cole pannes, the fleshhookes the shonels, the basens, and the other vessels of the aulcar, & they shal sprede vpon it a couerpyng of tarus shynnes, and put in the bars of it. And when Aaron and his sonnes haue made an ende of couerpyng the holy thynges, and all the vessels of the sanctuarie (agaynst that the host remone) then the sons of Cahath shal come in for to beare, but they shal not touche any holy thing lest they dye. And this is the charge of the sonnes of Cahath in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And to the offyce of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron þe prest pertayneth the oyle for the lpyght, the sweete cens the dayly meate offerpyng, and the anoyntyng oyle, and the ouerspyng of all þe tabernacle, and of all that therein is, both in the Sanctuarie and in all the vessels thereof.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron, sayinge: Ye shal not destroye the trybe of the kynred of the Cahathites, from amonge the Levites. But thus do vnto them, that they may lyue and not dye, when they goo vnto the moste holy thynges: Let Aaron and his sonnes go in, and take them downe, to euery one after his scrupce, and after his charge. But let them not go in, to se when the holy thynges are folden vp, lest they dye. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: Take also the summe of the chyldzen of Gerson, thowout the houses of theyr fathers and thowout theyr kynredes: from thyrtye yere and above, vntyll fyfetye shalt thou nombze them, all that are able to go for the to the warre for to do scrupce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the scrupce of the kynred of the Gersonytes, to serue and to beare. They shal beare the curtaynes of the dwellinge, and the coue of the tabernacle of wytnesse, his couerpyng, and the couerpyng of tarus shynnes, that is an hye above vpon it, and the hanging of the doze which is in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and the hangynges of the courte, and the hangyng that is in the entryng in of the gate of the courte round aboute the dwelling and the aulcar, with þe cordes, and al the instrumentes that serue vnto the and all that is made for to serue them.

At the mouth of Aaron and his sons, shal al the scrupce of the chyldzen of the Gersonytes be done, in all theyr charges and in al theyr serupce and ye shal nombze vnto them all theyr byzdes to kepe. And this is the scrupce of the kynred of the chyldzen of Gerson in the tabernacle of wytnesse, and theyr watche shal be vnder the hande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the prest. And thou shalte nombze the sonnes of Merari after theyr kynredes, and after the houses of theyr fathers: from thyrtye yeres and above vnto fyfetye shalt thou nombze them, euery one that is able to go to go forth to the warre, to do the seruyce of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And this is the charge that they must waite vpon, accordyng to all theyr seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. The lordes of the dwellinge, wyth the barres, pyl- lers and lockettes thereof, and the pylers that are rounde aboute the court, with theyr lock- ettes, pyntes and cordes, and wythall the instru- mentes of it, for all theyr seruyce. And by name ye shal reken the thynges that they must waite vpon to beare. This is the seruyce of the kynre- des of the sons of Merari accordyng to all theyr offyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse vnder the hande of Jehamar the sonne of Aaron the prest.

And Moses and Aaron and the pyntes of the multitude nombred the sonnes of the Caba- thites, after theyr kynredes and houses of their fathers from thyrty yere and aboue vnto fyfty, all that were able to go forth to the warre, to do seruyce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nombres of them thowowe out theyr kynredes were two thousande, seven hundred and fyf- ty. This is the nombre of the kynredes of Caba- th: namely, all that myght do seruyce in the taber- nacle of wytnesse, which Moses and Aaron did nombre accordyng to the comaundement of the Lorde by the hande of Moses. These are the nom- bres of the sonnes of Gerson thowowe out theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers, from thyr- ty yere vnto fyf-ty all that were able to go forth to the warre, for to do seruyce in the taber- nacle of wytnesse. And the nombres of them tho- rowe out theyr kynredes, and houses of theyr fathers, were two thousande fyre hundred and thyrty. This is the nombre of the kynredes of the sonnes of Gerson of all that dyd seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse, whiche Moses and Aa- ron dyd nombre accordyng to the comaunde- mente of the Lorde. And these are the nombres of the kynreds of the sonnes of Merari thowow- out theyr kynredes and houses of theyr fathers from thyrty yere vnto fyf-ty: all that wente forth to the warre, and serued in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the nombres of them after their kynredes were thre thousand and two hundred. This is the summe of the kynredes of the sons of Merari, whiche Moses and Aaron nombred accordyng to the woide of the Lorde, by the hand of Moses. And so all the nombres of the Leui- tes, whiche Moses, Aaron and the Lordes of Is- rael nombred, after theyr kynreds and househol- des of theyr fathers, from thyrty yere vnto fyf-ty every one that came to do his offyce and ser- uice and to beare his burthen in the Tabernacle of wytnesse: were (when they wer numbred) viii thousande fyue hundred and lxxx. Accordyng to the woide of the Lorde dyd (Aaron) nombre them by the hande of Moses, every one accordyng to theyr seruyce and charge, according to their offyses: as the Lorde comaunded Moses.

The v. Chapter.

The knowledge of synne. The cleansing of synne. The lawe of the first frutes, and of gealousye.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: commaunde the chyldren of Israhell: they put out of the hoste, every leper and eu- ry one that hath an yllur, and whosoever is defy- led vpon a soule. Both male and female shall ye put out: euen out of the hoste shal ye put them, that they defyle not the tentes amonge which I dwel. And the chyldren of Israhell dyd so, and put them out of the hoste, euen as the Lorde spake vnto Moses, so dyd the chyldren of Israhell.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israhell: whether it be a man or woman. If they haue comyted any synne that a man doth, & haue trespassed against the Lorde, that soule hath done amysse: Therefore they shal knowledg theyr synne whiche they haue done, and let hym restore agayne the hurte that he hath done in the hole, and putte the fyfte parte of it more thereto, and geue it vnto hym, whome he hath trespassed agaynst.

But and yf there be not a man to restore the hurte vnto, nor a kynsman of hym, lette the tres- pace be made good vnto the Lorde, and it shalbe the prestes, besyde the ram of the attonement, wherby an attonement shalbe made for hym. And every hencofferpyng that is made of the ho- ly thynges of the chyldren of Israhell whiche they bypyng vnto the prest, shalbe his, and euery mans halowed thynges shal be his: and what so euer any man geueth the prest, it shalbe his. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Speake vnto the chyldren of Israhell, and saye vnto them. If any mans wyfe go asyde & trespace agaynst hym, so that another man lye with her fleschly, & it be hyd from the eyes of her husbande, & is not come to lyght that she is defyled, and there is no wytnesse agaynst her, neyther she taken with any maner, and the sperte of gelousy cometh vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer his wyfe, whiche is defyled: or yf the sperte of gelousye come vpon hym, so that he is gelouse ouer his wyfe whiche is yet vndefyled: then let the man bypyng his wyfe vnto the prest, and bypyng with her an offerpyng for her: the tenth part of an Epha of barlye meale but let hym put none oyle vpon it, nor put fran- kensce theron: for it is an offerpyng of gelousye an offerpyng for a remembraunce, causyng the synne to be thought vpon.

And the prest shal bypyng her: and let her befoze the Lorde, and let hym take holy water in an erthen vessell, and of the dust that is in the floore of the habitacyon, and put it into the wa- ter. And let the prest set the woman befoze the Lorde, and vncouer the womans heade, and put the memoypal of the offerpyng in her handes which is the gelousy offerpyng, and the prest shal haue bytter and cursed water in his hande, & the prest shal charge her, and saye vnto the woman. If no man haue lpen with the, neyther haste gone a syde to vnclemesse without thy husbande, then haue thou no harme of this bitter and cursed wa- ters. But and yf thou haste gone asyde behynde thyne husbande, and art defyled, and some other man hath lpen with the besyde thyne husbande, (and the prest shal charge the woman with an horrible curse, and the prest shal saye vnto the woman) the Lorde make the to be an abhomi- nacyon and a curse amonge the people: when the Lozde doth make thy thy rotte, and thy belly swell: These cursed waters go into the bowels of the, that they maye make thy belly swell, and thy thy rot, and let the woman saye, Amen, Amen. And let the priest wyte these curses.

D And when they be censed, let hym cast the in to bytter waters, and geue the woman those bitter and cursed waters to drynke, that those cursed and bytter waters maye enter into her. And then the priest shall take the gelousye offering out of the womans hand, and waue it before the Lozde, and dryng it vnto the altar and the priest shall take an handfull of the offering for a memoriall, and burne it vpon the altar, and then make the woman drynke the water: and when he hath made the woman drynke the water, (if she be defyled and haue trespassed agaynst her husbnde:) then shall the cursed and bytter waters go into her, and her belly shall swell, and her thy shall rot, and the woman shall be a curse amonge her people. And if the woman be not defyled, but is cleane, she shall haue no harme but shall conceaue and bare. This is the lawe of gelousye, when a wyfe goeth asyde behynd her husbnde, and is defyled, or when the sperte of gelousye cometh vpon a man and he dryng gelowse ouer his wyfe, both drynge her before the Lozde. And the priest shall do accordyng vnto all this lawe, and the man shall be gyrllesse, and the woman shall beare her synne.

The vi. Chapter.

The lawe of abstinence. The blessing of the people.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: when either man or woman dorthe separte them selues to vowe a vowe of an absteyner, & appoynt them selues vnto the Lozde he shall separte hym selfe from wyne & strong drynke, and shall drynke no vyneagre of wyne or of strong drynke, nor shall drynke whatsoeuer is pressed out of grapes: & shall eate no fre of the grapes, neither yet dyed. As long as his abstinence endureth, shall he eate not dryng if is made of the vyne tre, or of the carnels, or of the bush of the grape. And as long as he voweth, & is separted, there shall no rasure come vpon his heade: but vntill his dayes be oute, in the which he separteth hym selfe vnto the Lozde, he shall be holy, and shall let the lockes of his heare growe.

B As long as he consecrateth him selfe vnto the Lozde, he shall come at no dead body: he shall not make hym selfe vncleane at the deache of his father, mother, brother, or syster: because that the vowe of the abstinence of his God is vpon his heade. All the dayes of his abstinence he is holy vnto the Lozde. And if it fortune that any man by chance dye suddenly before hym, the heade of his abstinence shall be defyled, and he shall haue the dayes of his cleansing: euen the seuenth daye he shall haue it. And the eyght daye he shall drynge two turtles or two yonge pygeons to the priest, before the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And the priest shall offer the one for synne, and the other for a burnt offering, and make an attonement for hym as concernyng the synne vpon a soule, & shall halowe his heade the same daye, and he shall consecrate hym selfe vnto the Lozde: the tyme of his abstinence) and shall drynge a lambe of a yere olde for trespass: but the dayes that were before are lost, because his abstinence was defyled. This is the lawe of the absteyner, when the tyme of his abstinence is out, he shall be brought vnto the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and he shall drynge his offering vnto the Lozde: an he lambe of a yere olde without blemish for a burnt offering, and a he lambe of a yere olde without blemish for synne, a ram without blemish also for a peace offering, and a basket of swete breade, euen cakes of fyne flour mingled wth oyle, and wafers of swete breade anointed wth oyle, wth theyr meat offeringes and drynke offeringes.

And the priest shall drynge hym before the Lozde, and offer his syn offering and his burnt offering and shall offer the ram for a peace offering vnto the Lozde, wth the basket of swete breade, and the priest shall offer also his meat offering and his drynke offering. And he shall haue the heade of the absteyner in the doze of the tabernacle of wytnesse: euen the head of his abstinence, and shall take the heare of his sober head and put it in the fyre, whiche is vnder the peace offering. And the priest shall take the soden wulder of the ram, and one swete cake out of the basket, and one swete wafer also, and put them vpon the handes of the absteyner (after he hath shauen his abstinence of) and the priest shall take them of hym, and waue them before the Lozde. And these holy thynges shall be the priestes wth the wauebest and beare wulder, and then the absteyner maye drynke wyne. This is the lawe of the absteyner whiche hath vowed his offering vnto the Lozde for his consecracyn: Welydes those thynges that his hande can get, accordyng to the vowe whiche he vowed, euen so he muste do after the lawe of his abstinence. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto Aaron and his sons, sayinge: of this wyfe ye shall blesse the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them.

The Lozde blesse the, and kepe the.

The Lozde make his face shyne vpon the and be merciful vnto the. The Lozde lyft vp his countenance vpon the, and geue the peace. And they shall put my name vpon the chyldren of Israel, and I wyll blesse them.

The vii. Chapter.

The offering of the Lozdes and beares of Israel.

And it fortuneth in that daye, when Moyses had full set vp the habytacon, and anointed and sanctified it and all the apparell therof, the altar also and all the vesselles therof, and had anointed them and sanctified them, the the princes of Israel beades ouer the houses of theyr fathers which were the Lozdes of the tribes, standyng in theyr offces, offered & brought theyr sacrifice before the Lozde: fyre covered chauntries, and twelue oxen: one chaunt for two Lozdes, and for one an ox, and they brought them before before the habitation. And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: take it of them, & they maye be to do the scrupce of the tabernacle of wytnes and thou shalt geue them vnto the Leuytes, to euerie man accordyng vnto his offyce. And Moses toke the charets and the oren, and gaue the vnto the Leuytes: two charettes and thre oren he gaue vnto the sonnes of Gerson, accordyng vnto theyr offyce. And foure charets and egypt oren he gaue vnto the sonnes of Merari (accordyng vnto theyr offyce) vnder the bande of Ithamar the sonne of Aaron the High Priest. But vnto the sonnes of Gad he gaue none, because they had vpon them the offyce of holp thynges, which they dyd beare vpon shuldres.

25 And the Dynces offered for the dedicatyng for the aultar (in the daye that it was anoynted) and brought theyr sacrifices before the aultar. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: The Dynces shall bringe theyr offerynges, euerie daye one Dynce, for the dedicatyng of the aultar.

And so on the first daye dyd Abellon the sonne of Aminadab of the tribbe of Iuda offer his sacrifice: And his offeryng was a syluer charger of an hundred and thyrtye cycles: a syluer boule of .lxx. cycles after the weyght of the Sanctuary: and they were both full of fyne wheten flour, myngled with oyle for a meate offeryng: a sponne of .x. cycles of gold, full of cens, a bullocke a ram, a lambe of a yere olde for a burnt offeryng an he gote for a syn offeryng: and (for a peace offeryng) two oren, fyue rammes, fyue he gotes, fyue lambes of a yere olde: this was the gyfte of Abellon the son of Aminadab. The seconde daye Nathanael, the sonne of Iuar, captayne ouer Isachar dyd offer: And he offered for his gyfte a syluer charger of an hundred and thyrtye cycles: a syluer boule of seuentie cycles after the cycle of the Sanctuary: both full of fyne flour myngled with oyle for a meate offeryng: a golden sponne of .x. cycles, full of cens: a bullocke, a ram, a labe of a yere olde for a burnt offeryng: and an he gote for a synne: and (for a peace offeryng) two oren, fyue rammes, fyue he gotes, fyue lambes of one yere olde. This was the offering of Nathanael the sonne of Iuar.

The thyrde daye, Eliah the sonne of helon captayne of the chyldren of Zabulon dyd offer. And his gyfte was a syluer charger of an hundred and thyrtye cycles: a syluer boule of seuentie cycles after the cycle of the Sanctuary and both were full of fyne flour myngled with oyle for a meate offeryng: a golden sponne of ten cycles full of cens: a bullocke, a ram, a lambe of a yere olde for a burnt offeryng: an he gote for a synne: and (for a peace offeryng) two oren, fyue rammes, fyue he gotes, fyue lambes of one yere olde. This was the offering of Eliah the sonne of helon. The fourth daye, Elzur the sonne of Bedeur captayne of the chyldren of Ruben dyd offer. The offering of Bagiel, the sonne of Ocran.

The twelue daye, Thira the sonne of Enan, captayne of the chyldren of Reubehn offered. And his offering was: a silver charger of an hundred and thretye syles: a silver boule of lxx syles after the sytle of the sanctuary, both full of fyne flour myngled with oyle for a meat offering: a golden spon of .x. syles, full of cens, a bullocke, a ram, a lambe of one yere olde for a burnt offering: an hegothe for synne: and for a peace offering two oxen, fyue rammes, fyue hegothes, fyue lambes of one yere olde. This was the offering of Thira, the sonne of Enan.

This was the dedicacyon of the altar in .v. daye when it was anoynted: vnto the whiche was broughte of the princes of Israel, twelue chargers of silver twelue silver boules twelue spones of golde: euery charger contaynyng an hundred and thretye syles of silver, euery boule lxx. And all .v. silver vessell contayned two thousande and foure hundred syles after the sytle of the sanctuary. And the golden spones were .xii. full of cens contayning .x. syles a pece after the sytle of the sanctuary: so that all the golde of the spones, was an hundred and twenty syles.

All the bullockes for the burnt offering: were twelue, the rammes twelue, the lambes of a yere olde twelue, with the meat offering: and the hegothes for synne twelue. And all the oxen for the peace offering, were .xliii. the rammes lxxv, the hegothes .lx. the lambes of a yere olde lxxv. This was the dedicacyon of the altar, after that it was anoynted. And when Moses was gone into the tabernacle of wytnesse, to speake with hym, he heard the voyce of one speaking vnto hym from the merche seate, that was vpon the arke of wytnesse betwene the two cherubims, and he talked with hym.

The .viii. Chapter.

The order of the lampes. The forme of the candlestick. The cleansing and offering of the Leuites.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, saying: speake vnto Aaron, saying vnto hym: * when thou puttest on the lampes, the same seuen lampes shall geue lychte toward the forefront of the candlestick. And Aaron dyd euen so, and lychted the lampes toward the forefront of the candlestick, as the Lorde commaunded Moses, and the worke of the candlestick was of syluer golde, bothe the waste and the flowers therof: accordyng vnto the visyon whiche the Lorde had shewed Moses, euen so he made the candlestick. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses saying: take the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, and cleanse them. But thus shalt thou do vnto them, when thou clearest the synne: thou shalt take water of purgynge vpon them, and let the make a rasure to runne a longe vpon all the fleshe of them, and let them walthe their clothes, and so make them selues cleane.

Then lette them take a bullocke with his meat offering: euen fyne flour myngled with oyle: and another bullocke shalt thou take for synne. And when thou dost bypne the Leuites before the tabernacle of wytnesse, thou shalt gather the whole multitude of the chyldren of Israel together, and bypne the Leuites before the Lorde, and the chyldren of Israel shall put theyr handes vpon the Leuites. And Aaron shall waue the Leuites before the Lorde, for a waue offering of the chyldren of Israel, that they maye execute the ministracion of the seruyce of the Lorde. And the Leuites shall put theyr handes vpon the heades of the bullockes, and thou shalt offer the one for synne, and the other for a burnt offering vnto the Lorde, that thou mayst make an attonement for the Leuites. And thou shalt set the Leuites before Aaron and his sons, and waue them for a waue offering before the Lorde. And thus thou shalt seperate the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, and the Leuites shall be myne: after that shall the Leuites go in, to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And thou shalt cleanse them and waue them, for they are geuen and deliuered vnto me from amonge the chyldren of Israel, for suche as open euery wombe: euen for the fyrste borne of all the chyldren of Israel haue I taken them vnto me.

* For all the fyrste borne of the chyldren of Israel, are myne both man and beast: sens the daye that I smote euery fyrste borne in the lande of Egypte. I sanctified them for my selfe: and I haue taken the Leuites for all the fyrste borne of the chyldren of Israel, and haue geuen the Leuites as a gyfte vnto Aaron, and his sonnes from amonge the chyldren of Israel, to do the seruyce of the tabernacle of Israel in the tabernacle of wytnesse, to make an attonement for the chyldren of Israel, that there be no plage amonge the chyldren of Israel, if the chyldren of Israel come npe vnto the holy thynges. And Moses And Aaron and all the congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel dyd with the Leuites, accordyng vnto all that the Lorde commaunded Moses concernyng the Leuites: euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel vnto unto them. And the Leuites were purified and washed they clothes. And Aaron waied them befoze the Lozde, and made an attonement for them, and censed them. After that went the Leuites in to do they scrupce in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, befoze Aaron and hys sonnes: as the Lozde had commaunded Moyses concerning the Leuites, euen so they dyd vnto them.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: this is it that belongeth vnto the Leuites: * fro xxv. yere vpwarde they shall go in, to waite vpon the scrupce of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and from the age of fyftye yere, they shall cease waitynge vpon the scrupce therof, and shall serue no moze: but shall minystrer vnto they brethren in the tabernacle of wytnesse, to waite, but shall do no moze seruire. Thus therfoze shalt thou do vnto the Leuites in they watche.

C The. ix. Chapter.

C The pasture. Of the clothe.

Ad the Lozde spake vnto Moyses in the wyldernesse of Synai, in the first moneth of the seconde yere, after they were come out of the land of Egypt sayenge: lette the chyldren of Israel offer passeouer in hys season: euen the fourtene daye of thes moneth at euen lette hym kepe it in hys season, accordyng to all the ceremonyes of it, and accordyng to all the maners therof. And Moyses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, that they shoulde offer passeouer, & they offered passeouer the fourtene daye of the fyfthe moneth at euen in the wyldernesse of Synai, accordyng to all that the Lozde commaunded Moyses, euen so dyd the chyldren of Israel.

And certayne men were defiled vpon the soule of a man, that they myghte not offer passeouer the same daye. And they came befoze Moyses and Aaron the same daye. And the men sayde vnto hym: We are defiled vpon the soule of man, wherefoze are we kepte backe that we maye not offer an offering vnto the Lozde in the due season, amonge the chyldren of Israel. And Moyses sayd vnto them: Stande still, and I wyl heare what the Lozde wyl commaunde concernyng you.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses sayenge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and saye: If any man amonge you or your chyldren after you be vncleane by the reason of a cosse, or is in the waye farre from you, and wyl offer passeouer vnto the Lozde: the fourtene daye of the seconde moneth at eue let them offer it, and eate it wth swete bzeade and softe herbes: lette them leane none of it vnto the moynynge: nor bzeake anye bone of it: But accordyng to all the ordinaunce of the passeouer, let them offer it.

But the man that is cleane & is not in a iourney, and yet was negligent to offer passeouer: the same soule shall perishe from his people, because he brought not the offering of the Lozde in his due season, that man shall beare hys synne. And if a stranger dwel amonge you, and wyl offer passeouer vnto the Lozde, accordyng to the ordinaunce of passeouer and maner therof, he shall offer it thus. Ye shall haue one lawe both for the stranger, and for hym that was borne at home in the lande.

At the same daye that the Tabernacle was reared vp, a cloude couered the habitacyon, whiche was a tabernacle of the wytnesse: and at euen there was vpon the habitacyon, as it were the sympletyude of fyre vntyll the moynynge. So it was alwaye, the cloude couered it by day and the sympletyude of fyre by nyght. And when the cloude was taken vp from the tabernacle, then the chyldren of Israel iourneyed: and where the cloude abode, there the chyldren of Israel pitched they tentes. At the mouth of the Lozde the chyldren of Israel iourneyed, and at the mouth of the Lozde they pitched. And as longe as the cloude abode vpon the habitacyon they laye still: and when the cloude tarped still vpon the habitacion longe tyme, the chyldren of Israel kepte the watche of the Lozde, and iourneyed not. And it chaunced that when the cloude abode a fewe dayes vpon the habitacyon, they abode in they tentes, accordyng to the commaundement of the Lozde: and they iourneyed also at the commaundement of the Lozde.

And it happened that when the cloude abode vpon the habitacyon from euen vnto the moynynge, & was taken vp in the moynynge, then they iourneyed. Whether it was by day or by nyght the cloude was take vp they iourneyed. Or if the cloude taried two dayes or a moneth, or a longe season vpon the habitacion, and remayned thereon, the chyldren of Israel abode still, and iourneyed not. And as sone as the cloude was taken vp, they iourneyed. At the mouth of the Lozde they rested in the tentes, and at the commaundement of the Lozde, they iourneyed, keepyng the watch of the Lozde, at the commaundement of the Lozde by the hande of Moyses.

C The. x. Chapter.

C The trumpettes of silver. The Israelites departe from Synai. The captaynes of the hoste are nombred. Hobab resuseth to go wth Moyses.

Ad the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, sayenge: Make the two trumpettes of silver: of an whole pece shalt thou make them, that thou mayst vse them to call the congregacion together, and when the hoste shall iourney. Therfoze shall they blowe wth them, that all the multitude may resorte to the befoze the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse. And if they blowe but one trumpette, then the prynces whiche are brades ouer the thousandes of Israel shall come vnto the. But if ye trumpe, & hostes & lie on the east partes that go forwarde. And if ye trumpe the seconde tyme, the hoste that lyeth on the south syde shall take they iourney: for they shall trompe wher they take they iourneys. But when the congregacion is to be gathered together, they shall blowe only, and not trompe. And the sonnes of Aaron the prestes shall blowe wth they trumpettes, & ye shall haue them as a lawe for euer in your generacions.

And if ye go to warre in your lande agaynst your your enemies that were you, ye shall blow with the trumpets, and ye shall be remembered before the Lord your God to be saved from your enemies. Also in the day of your gladness, and in your feast days, and in the beginning of your monthes, ye shall blow the trumpettes over your burnt sacrifices and peaceofferings, that they may be a remembrance for you before your God. I am the Lord your God.

And it came to passe the twentieth day of the seconde month in the second yere, that the cloude was taken up from of the habitation of witness. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr journey out of the desert of Sinai, and the cloude rested in the wilderness of Pharao. And the fyrst toke theyr journey at the mouth of the Lord, by the hand of Moses. In the fyrst place went the standard of the hoste of Iuda, accordinge to theyr armyes: whose captayne was Sahalon the son of Aminadab. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Issachar, was Nathanael the son of Naath. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Zabulon, was Eliab the sonne of Helon. And the habitation was taken downe: and the sonnes of Gerson and merari wente forthe bearynge the habitation.

And the hoste of Ruben went forth with theyr standard and armyes, whose captayne was Elisur the sonne of Sedeur. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Simeon was Salamiel the sonne of Surit Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Gad was Eliasaph the sonne of Degeuel. The Tabernacle also went forwarde and bare the sanctuary, & the other byd set up the habitation against theyr cam. And the standard of the hoste of the chyldren of Ephraim went forth according to theyr armyes whose captayne was Elisama the sonne of Amias. And ouer the hoste of the tribes of the sonnes of Manasse, was Samiuel the sonne of Bedaui. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the sonnes of Beniamin was Abidan the sonne of Gedeoni.

And the standard of the hoste of the chyldren of Dan came forth (haupnge all the hostes together) thowout theyr armyes: whose captain was Abiszer the sonne of Ammi Saddai. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Asser, was Bagiel the sonne of Ochiam. And ouer the hoste of the tribe of the chyldren of Reubyn, was Thira the sonne of Eni. These are the journeyes of the chyldren of Israel thowout theyr armyes: and thus the hostes remoued.

And Moses sayde vnto Hobab the sonne of Raguel the Midianite: whych was Moses father in lawe: we go into the place of whiche the Lord sayde: I wyll geue it you. Come thou therefore with vs, & we wyll do the good for the Lord hath promysed good vnto Israel. And he answered him: I wyll not go: but wyll depart to myne owne lande & to my kynred. He sayde: Oh naye, leaue vs not: for thou knowest our mansions in the wilderness: & thou hast bene to vs in steade of eyes. And if thou go with vs loke what goodnesse the Lord sheweth vnto vs the same wyll we shewe vnto the.

And they departed from the mount of the Lord, the daies journey: & the arke of the testament of the Lord went before the in the thre dayes journey, to searche out a resting place for them. And the Lord made a shadowe for them thowout the cloude by day, wher they went out of the tented.

And it fortuned, that when the arke wente forthe Moses sayde: * Rise up Lord, and lette thyne enemies be scattered: and lette them that hate the, flye before the. And when the arke rested, he sayde: Returne O Lord vnto the many thousandes of Israel.

The xi. Chapter.

The people murmured. They despayre first. They loke malice. The wandering fapth of Moses. The Lord drubbed the burden of Moses to cruelty of the alienates, and they pyned. At rapach quaples. The first raimers are punished.

And it fortuned, that when the people byd wychedlye, it was a displeasure in the eyes of the Lord. And when the Lord harde it bys countenance was prouoked to wrath, and the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge the, and consumed them & were the uttermost of the hoste. And the people cryed vnto Moses. And wha Moses made intercessio vnto the Lord, the fyre quched. And the name of the place was called Chaberab, because the fyre of the Lord burnt amonge the.

And the rascal people & was amonge them, & fell a lustynge, and turned the selues and wepte (euen as byd also the chyldren of Israel) & sayd who shall geue vs fleshe to eate: we remember the fleshe whiche we byd eate in Egypt for naught and the cucumbers and melons, lekes, onions & garliche. But nowe our soule is dyed awaye, for we can se nothyng els save Manna.

The Manna was as coriander seede, & (to se to) lyke Bedellis. And the people went about and gathered it, & ground it in mylles, & bet it in morters, & baked it in pannes, & made cakes of it. And the taste of it was lyke vnto the taste of an oyle cake. And wher the dewe fell downe vpon the hoste in the nyght, the Manna fell vpon it.

And when Moses herde the people wepte thowout theyr householdes, every man in the doore of his tente, the face of the Lord was prouoked vnto wrath hereafter: and it grieved Moses also. And Moses said vnto the Lord: wherfore hast thou dealt cruelly with thy seruants? And wherfore haue I not founde fauour in thy sight, seing that thou putteth the weyght of all this people vpon me: haue I conceryed all this people? Or haue I begotten them: that I shouldest say vnto me: carry them in thy bolome (as a nurse beareth the suckynge chyld) vnto the lande, whych thou swarest vnto theyr fathers: wher shouldest thou haue dealt vnto all this people, which wepe before me, sayeng: geue vs fleshe & we maye eate: I am not able to beare all this people alone, seing it is to heuy for me. If thou deale thus with me, kyl me. I praye the. If I haue founde fauour in thy sight, that I se not my wytednes.

And the Lord sayd vnto Moses, * gather vnto me lxx. men of the elders of Israel, whiche I knowest, & they are the elders of the people & officers ouer oute them and thou shalt hyngge them vnto the Tabernacle of witness, that they maye stande there with the: And I will come downe, and talke with the there, & take of the spere which is vpon the, and put vpon them, and they shall beare the burthen of the people with y, lest thou be conscreyned to beare it alone.

And saye thou vnto the people be halowed agaynst to morowe, and ye shall eate fleshe: for your whynnyng is in the eares of the Lorde, seynge ye sayde: who shall geue vs fleshe to eate we were happye in Egypte: therfore the Lorde will geue you fleshe, and ye shall eate. Ye shall not eate one daye nor two, nor thre dayes, neyther ten, nor twente dayes: but euen a moneth longe vntill it come out at the nostrils of you: and make you to perchaie, because that ye haue caste the Lorde aspyde which is amonge you: and haue wepte before hym, sayinge, why came we thus out of Egypte? And Moyses sayde: * I praye hundred thousande satemen are there of the people, amonge whiche I am. And thou hast sayde I will geue them fleshe, that they maye eate a moneth longe. Shall the shepe and the oxen be slayne for them, to fynde them: ether shall all the fysh of the see be gathered together for them to serue them? And the Lorde sayde vnto Moyses: Shall the Lordes hande be waxed shorter? Thou shalt se now whether my word shall come to passe vnto the, or not.

And Moyses wente out, and tolde the people the sayinge of the Lorde, and gathered the lxx. elders of the people, and set them rounde aboute the tabernacle. And the Lorde came downe in a cloude, and spake vnto him, and toke of y spere that was vpon hym and gaue it vnto the lxx. elders. And it fortuned, that when the spere rested vpon them, they prophesied, and dyd not cease. But there remayned two of the me in the hoste: the name of the one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the spere, rested vpon them, and they were of them y were wynten, and wente not out vnto the tabernacle, but prophesied in the host. And there ranne a ponge man, and tolde Moyses and sayde: Eldad & Medad do prophesy in the hoste. And Josua the son of Nun the seruaunt of Moyses one of hys ponge men, answered and sayde: master Moyses, * forbyd them. And Moyses sayde vnto hym, enuyest thou for my sake? * wolde God that all the Lordes people coude prophesy, and that the Lorde wolde put hys spere vpon them. And Moyses gat hym into the hoste, he and the elders of Israel. And there went forth a wynde from the Lorde: and broughte quayles from the see: and let them fall aboute the hoste, euen a dayes iourney rounde about on euery syde of the hoste, and as it were two cubites hie ouer the earthe. And the people stode vp, and all that daye and all that nyght, and on the morow they gathered quayles. And be that gathered a litle, gathered ten homers full. And they layed them abode rounde about the hoste.

ternance of the Lorde was moued agaynst the people, and the Lorde * slewe the people with an exceeding great plague. And the name of y place was called, the graues of inste, because they buryed the people that lusted there. And the people toke they: iourney from the graues of inste vnto hazeroth, and bode at hazeroth.

¶ The. xii. Chapter.

¶ And Miriam and Aaron spake agaynst Moyses, because of the woman of Inde whiche he had taken: for he had takē so wyfe one of Inde. And they sayde: hathe the Lorde in dede spoken only thow we Moyses: hathe he not spoken also by vs? And the Lorde hard it. But Moyses was a very meke man, about all y men of the earthe. And the Lorde spake at once vnto Moyses vnto Aaron and to Miriam, come out ye thre vnto the tabernacle of witness, & they came out all thre. And the Lorde came downe in the piller of the cloude, and stode in the doore of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam.

And they went out both of them. And he sayd heare my wordes. If there be a prophet of y Lorde amonge you, I will be known of hym in a visyon: and will speake vnto hym in slepe. My seruaunt Moyses is not so, whych is faythfull in al myne house. Vnto hym wyl I speake: mouth to mouth in a visyon: but in riddles and simply. tudes both not he se the Lorde. Wherfore then were ye not afrayed to speake agaynst my seruaunt Moyses? And the Lorde was moued vnto wrath agaynst them, and he went hys way: and the cloude departed from the tabernacle. And behold Miriam was become leprous, as it were snowe. And Aaron looked vpon Miriam & beholde, she was leprous, and Aaron sayde vnto Moyses: I beseeche the my Lorde, put not the syn vpon vs, which we haue folowid & comitted. Oh, let her not be as one that cometh out of his mothers wombe, and whose halfe fleisch is eaten a waye. And Moyses cryed vnto the Lorde sayinge: heale her O God, I beseeche the.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Moyses: If her face had spyt in her face, woulde she not be ashamed seuen dayes: let her be shut out of the hoste seuen dayes, and after that let her be receyued in agayne. And Miriam was shut out of the host seuen dayes, and the people remoued not, tyl she was brought in agayne. * And afterwarde the people remoued from hazeroth, and pyched in the wyldernesse of Pharan.

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: * sende men out to searche the land of Canaan whych I geue vnto y children of Israel: of euery trybe of they: fathers shal se sende a man, and let them all be suche as are tulers amonge them. And Moyses at the commaundement of y Lord sent forth out of the wyldernesse of Pharan such men as were al heades of y children of Israel: They: names are these. Of the trybe of Ruben, Sammua the sonne of Zacur.

Of the tribe of Ben Iamin, Palti the sonne of Raphu. Of the tribe of Zabulon, Gadiel the sonne of Gadi. Of the tribe of Joseph, nameys of the tribe of Manasse, Gadiel the sonne of Gadi. Of the tribe of Dan, Amiel the sonne of Gemali. Of the tribe of Aser, Sethur the sonne of Michael. Of the tribe of Reuben, Rahbi the sonne of Raphu. Of the tribe of Gad, Snell the sonne of Nachi. These are the names of the men, whiche Moses sent to spy out the lande. And Moses called the name of Osea the sonne of Nun, Josua.

And Moses sent them for to spy out the lande of Canaan, and sayde vnto them: get you vp this waye southwarde, that ye maye go vp into the hie countrey, and se the lande what manner thinge it is, and the people that dwelleth therein: whether they be stronge or weake, ether few or manye, and what the lande is that they dwell in, whether it be good or bad: and what manner of cities they be, that they dwell in whether they dwell in tentes or walled townes: and what manner of lande it is: whether it be fat or leane, and whether there be trees therein or not. Be of a good courage, and byng of the frute of the lande. And it was about the tyme that grapes are first ripe. And so they went vp, and searched out the lande from the wilderness of sin vnto Rehob, as men come to hemath, and they ascended vnto the south, and came vnto hebron, where Abimehan was and Desai and Calmami, the sonnes of Enach. Hebron was buylte seven yere before ioan in Egypte. And they came vnto the ryuer of Escoll, and cut downe there a braunche with one clouster of grapes and twayne bare it vpon a staffe: and they brought also of the pomgranates and of the figges. And the place was called the ryuer Escoll, because of the clouster of grapes whych the chyldren of Israel cut downe thence. And they turned backe againe from searching of the lande after fourty dayes. And they wente and came to Moses and Aaron and vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel in the wilderness of Shara: which is cadex, & brought them worde, and also vnto all the congregacion, and shewed them the frute of the lande. And they tolde hym, and sayde: we came vnto the lande whycher thou sendest vs, and surely it floweth with mylke and honye: and here is of the frute of it. Neuerthelesse, the people be stronge that dwell in the lande, and the ctyes are walled and exceedingly greate: and moreouer, we sawe the chyldren of Enach there. The Amalechites dwell in the south countrey, and the Hethites, Jebusites, and the Amozites dwell in the mountaynes, and the Cananites dwell by the see and by the coste of Iordan.

And Caleb stilled the people that were called by the name of the people before Moses, saying: we wyl go vp, and conquer it: for we be able to overcome it. But the men that wente vp with hym, sayde

We be not able to go vp agaynst the people: for they are stronger then we. And they brought vp an euil report of the lande which they had searched, sayinge vnto the chyldren of Israel: the lande whych we haue gone thowowe to searche it oute, is a lande that eateth vp the inhabytors thereof: and the people that we sawe in it, are men of a greate stature. And there we sawe also gyantes, the chyldren of Enach, whych come of the gyantes. And we seemed in oure sight as it were grethoppers. and so we dyd in thyr sight.

C The xiiii. Chapter.

The people murmure agaynst God, and mothe haue stoned Caleb and Josue. The scribes of the lande spe. Amalech spylleth the Hecaton.

All the multitude of the people crept out, and wepte thowout that nyght, and all the chyldren of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron. And the whole congregacion sayd vnto them: Wold God that we had dyed in the lande of Egypte, ether that we had dyed in this wilderness. Wherfore hath the Lord brought vs vnto this lande: to fall vpon the swearde: and that our wyues, & our chyldren shulde be a praye: Were it not better that we returne vnto Egypte agayne? And they sayd one to another: We wyl make a captayne and returne vnto Egypte agayne.

But Moses and Aaron fell on theyr faces before all the congregacion and multitude of the chyldren of Israel: And Josua the sonne of Nun, and Caleb the sonne of Iephune (whych were of them that searched the lande) rent theyr clothes, and spake vnto all the companie of the chyldren of Israel, sayinge: The lande whych we walked thowowe to searche, it is a very good lande. If the Lord haue lust to vs, he wyl bring vs into his lande and geue it vs, whiche is luche a lande as floweth with mylke and honye. But in any wyle rebel not ye agaynst the Lorde. *Reyther nede ye to feare the people of the land for they are but breade for vs. Theyr shadowe is departed from them, and the Lorde is with vs feare them not therfore.

But all they whych were in that multitude had stoned them with stones. And the gloze of the Lorde appeared in the Tabernacle of wyntesse, before all the chyldren of Israel. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: howe longe do thys people prouoke me, and howe longe wyl ye be per they beleue me: for all the signes whych I haue shewed amonge them: I wyl smyte them with the pestilence and destroye them: and wyl make of the a greater nacyon and myghter then they.

And Moses sayde vnto the Lorde: then the Egyptians shall heare it, for thou broughtest these people in thy myght from amonge them. And it wyl be tolde to the inhabytors of thys lande also: for they haue harde thyr wyse, that the Lorde arte amonge thys people: and that thou Lorde arte sene face to face, and that thy cloude standeth ouer them, and that thou goest before them by daye tyme in a pyller of a cloude, and in a pyller of fyre by nyght.

¶ If thou shalt heyl all thys people as they were but one man, then synners whych haue heard the same of the, wyl saye: The Lorde is not able to bypunge in thys people into the lande, whych he swaie vnto them: but hath slayne them in the wyldernesse. And nowe I beleche the, let the power of my Lorde be greate, accordyng as thou hast spoken: sayng: the Lorde is longe yet he be angrye, and full of mercye, and suffereth iniquitye, and synne, and leaueth no man innocent, and visyterth the vnyghteousnesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, in the thyrde and fourth generation: be mercifull I beseech the vnto the synne of this people, accordyng vnto thy greate mercye, as thou hast forgiven thys people from Egypte, euen vntyll nowe. And the Lorde sayde: I haue forgiven it, accordyng to thy request. But as trulpe as I lyue, al the earth shalbe fylled wyth the glorie of the Lorde. But all those men whych haue sene my glorie and my myracles whiche I dyd in Egypte and in the wyldernesse and haue tempted me nowe thys ten times and wyl not hearken vnto my voyce, shall not see the lande whych I swaie vnto theyr fathers: ne ther shall any of them that prouoked me be it. But my seruaunte: Caleb: wyth whome there was another maner of sperte: & because he hath folowed me vnto the vtmost, hym wyl I bypunge into the lande whych he hath walked in, and hys seide shall inheret it, and also the Amalechites & Cananites whych dwell in the playne countrey. To morow turne you, and get you into the wyl dernesse: euen by the waye of the red see.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron, sayng: howe longe doth thys euill multitude murmure agaynst me: I haue heard synners murmurynge of the chyldren of Israel, wyth the whych they murmure agaynst me: Tell them therfore: As trulpe as I lyue (sayeth the Lorde) I wyl doo vnto you euen as ye haue spoken in myne eares. Your carkasses shall lye in this wyl dernesse. And all you that were tolde thys: wyl youe your nombres, from tventye yere & aboue, (whych haue murmured agaynst me) shall not come into the lande, ouer whych I sware vnto myne hande, to make you dwell therein, saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune, and Josua the sonne of Nun.

¶ But your chyldren, whych ye sayde shal be a praye, them wyl I bypunge in, and they shal knowe the lande whych ye haue refused, and your carkasses shal lye in this wyldernesse. And your chyldren shall wander in thys wyldernesse, fortye yeres, and suffer for your whoredome, vntyll your carkasses be wasted in the wyldernesse, after the nombre of the dayes in whych ye serched out the lande, euen fortye dayes, & euery daye for a yere shal ye beare your vnyghteousnesse euen fortye yere, and ye shall knowe my displeasure: I the Lorde haue sayde, that I wyl doo it vnto all thys euill congregation that are gathered together agaynst me. For in thys wyldernesse they shal be consumed, and here they shal dye.

¶ And the men whych Moyses sente to searche the lande, and whych whiche they came agayne, made all the people to murmure before hym and brought by a sclaunder vpon the land, euen those men that byd byng vpon that sclauder vpon it, as though it had bene euell, dyed in a greates plage before the Lorde. But Josua the sonne of Nun and Caleb the sonne of Iephune whych were of the men that wente to searche the lande, lyued still. And moyses tolde these saynges vnto all the chyldren of Israel, & the people toke great sorrowe. And they rose vp early in the mornynge, & gatte them vp into the toppes of the mountayne, sayng: * lo, we be here, and wyl go vnto the place of whiche the Lorde sayde vnto vs, for we haue synned. And Moyses sayde: wherfore wyl ye go on thys maner, beyonde the word of the Lorde: it wyl not come well to passe: go not by therfore: (for the Lorde is not amonge you) that ye be not slayne before your enemyes. For the Amalechites and the Cananites are there before you, and ye wyl fall vpon the swerde because ye are turned awaye from the Lorde, and the Lorde wyl not be wyth you.

¶ But they presumed obstynatly to go by into the hyll toppes. After the later, the Arke of the testamente of the Lorde, and Moyses departed not out of the hoste. Then the Amalechites and the Cananites, whych dwelte in that hyll came downe and smote them, and betwed them, euen vnto hozma.

The xv. Chapter.

The bynde offerynges of them that enter into the lande, The punishment of him that synneth of arrogancy or pryde.

¶ And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayng: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, & saye vnto them: * when ye be come into the lande of your habitacions, whych I geue vnto you, and wyl offer an offeryng vnto the Lorde: namely a burnt offeryng or a sperepall sacrifice, ether of a boue or of a wyllynge mynde, and in your pryncypall feastes, to make a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde of the oxe or of the flocke.

¶ Then * let hym that offereth hys offeryng vnto the Lorde, bypunge also a meate offeryng of a tenth deale of flour myngled wyth the fourth parte of an hyne of oyle, and the fourth the parte of an hyne of wyne for a bypunge offeryng, and offer wyth the burnt offeryng or any other offeryng when it is a lambe. Or yf it be a ram, thou shalt offer for a meate offeryng, two tenth deales of flour myngled wyth the thyrde parte of an hyne of oyle: and for a bypunge offeryng, thou shalt offer the thyrde part of an hyne of wyne for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde.

¶ And whiche thou offerest a bullocke for a burnt offeryng or for a special boue or peace offering vnto the Lorde, let hym bypunge wyth a bullocke a meate offeryng of thre tenth deales of flour myngled wyth halfe an hyne of oyle. And thou shalt bypunge for a bypunge offeryng: euen halfe an hyne of wyne, for an offeryng of a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde. After thys maner shall it be done for an oxe, or for a ram, or for a lambe or a kyd. Like what nombre thou makest in these, such a nombre shalt thou make in them also.

thou shalt increase the meatofferings and the drinkofferings. All that are of your selues shall do these thynges after this maner, to offer an offering of a sweete sauour vnto the Lorde. And if a stranger sojourneth with you, or whosoever be amonge you in your generacions, and wyll offer an offering of a sweete sauour vnto the Lorde: euen as ye do, so he shall do. One obdynamence shall be bothe for you of the congregacion, and also for the stranger. It shall be an obdynamence for euer in your generacions, both vnto you and to the stranger before the Lorde.

Deut. xxi. c.

One lawe and one maner shall serue, bothe for you and for the stranger that sojourneth with you. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: When ye be come into the lande to the whiche I bring you, then when ye wyll eate of the breade of the lande, ye shall take vp an heue offering vnto the Lorde.

C Ye shall take vp a cake of the fyrste of your dowe for an heue offering, * as ye do the heue offering of the barne, euen so ye shall heue it. Of the fyrste of your dowe ye shall geue vnto the Lorde an heue offering in your generacions. And ye shall ouerse your selues, and obserue not all these commaundementes, which the Lorde hath spoken vnto Moses, euen all that the Lorde hath commaunded you by the hande of Moses frome the fyrste daye that the Lorde commaunded Moses, and hence forthwarde amonge your generacions. If it happen that ought is committed ignorantly of the congregacion, al the multitude shall offer a bullocke for a burnt offering, to be a sweete sauour vnto the Lorde, with the meat offering and drink offering thereto, accordyng to the maner, and an he goate for synne. And the priest shall make an attonement for al the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them: for it is ignorance. And they shall bringe theyr offering for a sacrifice vnto the Lorde: and theyr syn offering before the Lorde for theyr ignorance. And it shall be forgiven vnto all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, and vnto the stranger that dwelleth amonge you: for all the people were in ignorance.

Leuit. xxi. c.

De shall bringe a he goate of a yere olde for syn. And the priest shall make attonement for the soule that sinned ignorantly, with the syn offering before the Lorde to reconcile hym: & that it maye be forgiven hym. And bothe thou that arte bozne of the chyldren of Israel, & the stranger that dwelleth amonge you, shall haue bothe one lawe, who so doth synne thowhe ignorance. But the soule that doth ought presumptuously, whether he be an Israelite or a stranger, the same blasphemeth the Lorde. And that soule shall be rote out frome amonge his people, because he hath despyed the worde of the Lorde, & hath broken his commaundemente, that soule therefore shall perishe, & his synne shall be vpon hym. And whyle the chyldren of Israel were in synne, they founde a man that gathered spe-

Deut. xxi. c.

And they that founde hym gatheringe spekes, brought hym vnto Moses and Aaron, and vnto all the congregacion: * and they put hym in ward, sayinge it was not declared what shuld be done vnto hym. And the Lorde sayde vnto Moses: Let the man dye: and let all the multitude stone hym with stones without the hoste. And all the multitude brought hym without the hoste, and stoned hym with stones, and he dyed as the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel and byd them that they make them gardes in the quarters of their garments thowout theyr generacions, and put vpon the garde of the quarters a rybande of pelowe sphe. And the garde shall be vnto you to loke vpon it, that ye maye remember all the commaundementes of the Lorde, and doo them: and that ye seke not after your owne harte, or your owne eyes: after the whiche ye vse to go a whoringe: but ye shall remember rather and doo all my commaundementes, and be holy vnto your God: I am the Lorde your God, which brought you out of the lande of Egypte, for to be your God: I am the Lorde your God.

The. xvi. Chapter.

The. xvi. Chapter.

Ad * Cozab the sonne of Izehar, the sonne of Cabath, the sonne of Levi, and Dathan, and Abiram the sonne of Eliab and On the sonne of Beliech, the sonne of Ruben: rose vp before Moses, with other men of the chyldren of Israel, two hundred and fiftie, whiche were Captaynes of the multitude, great and famous men in the congregacion: and they gathered them selues together, agaynst Moses and Aaron, and sayde vnto them: ye make much to doo, sayinge all the multitude are holpe euery one of them, and the Lorde is amonge them. Why heue ye your selues vpon above the congregacion of the Lorde? And when Moses hearde it, he fell vpon his face, and spake vnto Cozab and vnto all his company, sayinge: to morowe the Lorde wyll shewe who are his, who are holy, and who ought to appoche nre vnto hym, and who he hath chosen to cometo hym. They do therefore, take you spyngans, both Cozab and all his company and do spie therein, and put cens in them before the Lorde to morowe.

And the man which the Lorde doth chose, the same shall be holy. Ye make much to do, ye chyldren of Levi. And Moses said vnto Cozab: * heare ye chyldren of Levi: It is but a smal thyng vnto you that that the God of Israel hath separated you from the multitude of Israel: and brought you to him selfe, to do the service of the dwelling place of the Lorde, and to stand before the multitude and to minister vnto him: he hath taken the to him and all thy brethren the sons of Levi with thee, and seke ye the office of the priest also: For which cause both thou and all thy company are gathered together agaynst y<sup>e</sup> Lorde. And what is it, that ye murmur agaynst hym?

And Moses sente, and called Nathan, and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab, whiche sayde: We will not come vp. Is it a small thing that thou hast brought vs out of a lande y<sup>e</sup> floweth with mylke and honye, to kill vs in the wilderness, and to ragne ouer vs also? haste thou brought vs vnto a lande that floweth with mylke and honye, and geuen vs inheritance of felices and vyneyardes? Wylt thou pull out y<sup>e</sup> eyes of these men? we will not come vp. And Moses wared very angrie, and sayde vnto the Lorde. Turne not thou vnto they<sup>r</sup> offeringe. I haue not taken so muche as an asse from them, neyther haue I hurt any of them. And Moses sayde vnto Corah: Be thou and all thy company before the Lorde: both thou, they, and Aaron to morowe. And take euery man hym selfe cens, and put cens in them, that ye may offer before the Lorde: euery man of the two hundred and fiftie take his cens, thou also Aaron, that euery one may haue hym selfe cens. And they toke euery man hym selfe cens, and put fyre in them, and layed cens thereon, and stode in the doore of the Tabernacle of witness with Moses and Aaron. And Corah gathered all the congregacion agaynst them vnto y<sup>e</sup> doore of the tabernacle of witness.

And the gloire of the Lorde appeared vnto all the congregacion. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses and Aaron saying: separte your selues from amonge this congregacion, that I may consume them at once. And they fell vpon they<sup>r</sup> faces and sayde. * O moost myghty God of the spertes of all flesh, if one man hath sinned, wylt thou be wroth with all the multitude? And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: speake vnto the congregacion and say: Set you a way from aboute the dwellinge of Corah, Nathan, and Abiram. And Moses rose vp, and wente vnto Nathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel folowed hym. And he spake vnto the congregacion, sayinge: departe frome the tentes of these wycked men, and touche nothinge of they<sup>r</sup>: lest ye perishe in all they<sup>r</sup> synnes. And so they gate them from the dwellinge of Corah, Nathan and Abiram on euery syde. And Nathan and Abiram came out and stode in the doore of they<sup>r</sup> tentes with they<sup>r</sup> wyues, they<sup>r</sup> sonnes, and they<sup>r</sup> lytle chyldren. And Moses sayde: here by ye shall knowe that the Lorde hath sente me to do all these woorkes, and that I haue not done them of myne owne mynde. If theie men dye the come death of all men, or yf they be vspyt after the vspytacion of all men, then the Lorde hath not sente me. But and yf the Lorde make a newe syngne, and the earth open her mouth, and swa-lowe them vp with all that they haue: and they go downe quych into hell: then ye shall vnderstande, that these men haue prouoked the Lorde.

And it fortuneth that as sone as he had made an ende of speakinge al these wordes, y<sup>e</sup> ground cloued a sunder that was vnder them: and y<sup>e</sup> earth opened her mouth, and swallowed them vp, and they<sup>r</sup> houses, and all the men that were with Corah, and all they<sup>r</sup> goodes. And they and all that they had, went downe a lyne vnto hell, and the earth closed vpon them: and they perished from amonge the congregacion. And all Israel that were aboute them fled at the crye of them. And they sayde: lest the earth swallowe vs vp also. And there came out a fyre from the Lorde, and consumed the two hundred and fiftie men that offered cens. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses sayinge: speake vnto Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the Priest that he take vp the censers out of the burninge and shatter the fyre here and there, for y<sup>e</sup> censers of these synners are halowed in they<sup>r</sup> deathes: and lette them make of them they<sup>r</sup> beaten plates for a couerynge of the altare. For they offered them before the Lorde, and therefore they are halowed, & they shal be a sygne vnto the chyldren of Israel. And Eleazar the priest toke the beaten censers whiche they that were burnt had offered, and brake them they<sup>r</sup> for a couerynge of the altare, to be a remembrance vnto the chyldren of Israel, that no stranger whiche is not of the seede of Aaron, come nere to offer cens before the Lorde, that it happen not vnto hym: lyke as vnto Corah and hym companye, as the Lorde sayde of hym by the hande of Moses. But on the morowe all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel murmured agaynst Moses and Aaron, sayinge: ye haue hyed the people of the Lorde. And it fortuneth that when the multitude was gathered agaynst Moses and Aaron, they looked towards the Tabernacle of witness. And beholde, when they were entred in to it, the cloude couered it, and the gloire of the Lorde appeared. And Moses and Aaron came before the Tabernacle of witness. And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: Set you from amonge this congregacion, that I may consume them quychly. And they fell vpon they<sup>r</sup> faces. And Moses sayd vnto Aaron: take a censur, and put fyre therein out of the altare, and poure on cens, and go quychly vnto the congregacion, that thou mayste obtayne the forgiveness: for the. For there is warthe gone out from the Lorde, and there is a plague begone.

And Aaron toke as Moses commaunded hym and ranne into the myddes of the congregacion and behold, the plague was begonne amonge the people, and he put on cens, and made an attonement for the people. And when he stode betwene the deade and them that were aliv, the plague ceased. They that dyed in the plague were foure thownde and seven hundred: besyde them that dyed aboute the busynesse of Corah. And Aaron went agayne vnto Moses before y<sup>e</sup> doore of the tabernacle of witness, & the plague ceased.

And the Lord spake unto Moses, saying: speake unto the chyldren of Israel: and take of every pynce of the a rodde, after the houses of they fathers, euē twelue rodde: and wyte every mans name vpon his rodde. And wyte Arons name vpon the rodde of Levi: for every rodde is for an house of they fathers. And put them in the Tabernacle of wytnesse, euē in the place where I mete you. And the mans rod whiche I chuse, shall blossom. And I wyll make ceasse from me the grudgingynge of the chyldren of Israel wherby they grudge agaynst you.

And Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and all the pynces gaue hym every pynce ouer they fathers houses, a rodde, euē twelue rodde: and the rod of Aaron was amonge the rodde. And Moses put the rodde before the Lord, in the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And on the morowe, Moses went into the Tabernacle of wytnesse: and beholde, the rod of Aaron for the house of Levi was budded, & bare blossoms and almonds. And Moses broughte out all the rodde from before the Lord vnto all the chyldren of Israel: and they looked vpon them, & toke every man his rod. And the Lord sayde vnto Moses: byynge Arons rod agayne before the wytnesse to be kepte for a token of the chyldrens rebellion, and that they murmuring may cease from me, and that they dye not. And Moses dyd as the Lord commaunded hym, euē so dyd he. And the chyldren of Israel spake vnto Moses sayinge: beholde, we are wasted awaye and consumed: we all come to nought, who so euer cometh nyr the dwellinge of the Lord, dyeth. Shall we utterly consume a waye?

¶ The xviii. Chapter.

¶ The offer of the Leuites. The synne and the frutes must be geuen them. Arons heritage.

And the Lord sayde vnto Aaron, & thy sonnes and thy fathers house with the which thou shalt beare the faute of that whiche is done amysse in the holpe place. And thou and thy sonnes with the which thou shalt beare the faute of that whiche is done amysse in your pyncasthode. And the brethren of the trybe of Levi and of they fathers householde thou shalt take vnto the, that they maye be ioyned vnto the and mynstre vnto the: euē vnto the and thy sonnes with the before the tabernacle of wytnesse. They shall wayte vpon the and vpon all the tabernacle: onely let them not come nyr the vessels of the sanctuary and the altar, that they and ye also dye not. And they shall be by the, and wayte on the Tabernacle of wytnesse for all the scrupce of the tabernacle, and let no straunger come nyr vnto you.

Therefore shall ye kepe the holy place and the altar, that there fall no moze wrath vpon the chyldren of Israel: beholde, I haue taken your brethren the Leuites from amonge the chyldren of Israel, whiche as a gyfte of pynce are geuen vnto the Lord, to do the scrupce of the tabernacle of wytnesse. Therefore shall thou and thy sonnes with the take hede vnto your pyncast office for all thynges that pertaine vnto the aultar, and for al that are within the dayle. And se that ye serue: for I haue geuen your pyncast office vnto you as a gyfte: and therefore the straungers that cometh nyr, must be slayne. And the Lord spake vnto Aaron: beholde, I haue geuen the the keepinge of myne heue offerynge, of all the halowed thynges of the chyldren of Israel. Euē vnto the, I haue geuen them for the anoynting and to thy sonnes, for a dutie for euer. Thys shall be thyne of most holy from the fyze of the aultar. All they sacrifices for all they meate offerynge, synofferynge of trespassofferynge, which they byynge vnto me, are most holy. It is thyne and thy sonnes. In the most holy place shalt thou eate it: and all that are males shall eate of it, let it be holy vnto the. And thys also is thyne: the heue offerynge of they gyftes, thow we out all the waueofferynge of the chyldren of Israel: I haue geuen them vnto the and thy sonnes and thy daughters with the, to be a dutie for euer, and all that are cleane in thy house, shall eate of it, all the fat of the oyle, and all the fat of the wyne and of the corne, which they shall offer vnto the Lord for frutes, the same haue I geuen vnto the. And what so euer is fyfte type in they lande whiche they byynge vnto the Lord shall be thyne, & all that are cleane in thyne house shall eate of it. All dedicate thynges in Israel, shall be thyne. All that breaketh the matryce in all fleshe that men byynge vnto the Lord, whether it be of men or beastes, shall be thyne. After the later the fyfte bozne of man shalt thou redeme and the fyfte bozne of vncleane beastes shalt thou redeme lyke wyse. Those that are to be redeemed, shalt thou redeme from the age of a moneth, for the value of p moneth, namely for fyue cycles after the cycle of the Sanctuarpe. A cycle maketh twente halfpenns. But the fyfte bozne of oren, shepe and goates shalt thou not redeme. For they are holy: therefore thou shalt synnkle they blonde vpon the aultar, and shalt burne they fat vpon the sacrifice for a swete sauoure vnto the Lord. And the fleshe of them is thyne: as the wauebest and the ryght shulder. These are thyne. All p holy heue offerynge whiche the chyldren of Israel offer vnto the Lord, haue I geuen the, and thy sonnes and thy daughters with the, to be a dutie for euer, let it be a salted conuauente for euer: before the Lord, both vnto the and to thy seide with the. And the Lord spake vnto Aaron: thou shalt haue none inheritance in they lande, neyther shalt thou haue any part amonge them. I am thy parte and thy enherytance amonge the chyldren of Israel. Beholde I haue geuen the chyldren of Levi all the tenth in Israel to inheret, for the seruyce whiche they serue in the tabernacle of wytnesse. Neither must the chyldren of Israel henceforth come nyr the tabernacle of wytnesse, lest they beare synne, and dye. But the Leuites shall do the scrupce in the tabernacle of wytnesse and beare they synne. It shall be a lawe for euer in your generacyon that amonge the chyldren of Israel, they possess none enherytance. But the trybes of the chyldren chyliden of Israel, whych they paye as an heue offering vnto the Lorde, I haue geuen the Leuites to inheryte. And therfore I haue sayde vnto them. Amonge the chyliden of Israel ye shall possesse none inherytaunce. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: speake vnto the Leuites: and saye vnto them, when ye take of the chylde of Israel the tythes whiche I haue geuen you of them for your inherytaunce, ye shall take an heueofferinge of that same for the Lorde: euen the tenth parte of the tyth. And thys pour heueofferinge shall be rekened vnto you, eue as though it were of the corne of the barne, or out of the fulnesse of the wyne presse. Of thys maner ye shall therfore separte an heueofferinge vnto the Lorde of all your tythes whiche ye receyue of the chyliden of Israel, and ye shall geue therof vnto the Lorde an heue offeringe, whiche shall belonge to Aaron the prest. Of all your gyftes, ye shall take out all the Lodes heueofferinges, euen the fatte of theyr halowed thynges. Therfore thou shalt saye vnto them: when ye haue taken away the fat of it from it it shall be counted vnto the Leuites, as if it were the increase of the corne floze, or the increase of the wyne presse. And ye shall eate it in all places, both ye and your households for it is your rewarde for your seruyce in the tabernacle of wytnesse. And ye shall beare no syn by the reason of it, when ye haue taken frome it the fat of it: neyther shall ye vnhalowe the holy thynges of the chyliden of Israel, lest ye dye.

¶ The xix. Chapter.

¶ Of the red kowe. The lawe of hym that dyeth in the Tabernacle, & of hym also that toucheth any vncleane thyng.

Ad the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, and Aaron sayinge: thys is the ordynance of the lawe: whiche the Lorde hath commaunded, sayinge: speake vnto the chyliden of Israel that they bynne the red kowe wythout spot, and wherinis no blemyshe, and vpon which neuer came yoke. And ye shall geue her vnto Eleazar the preste, that he make bynne & her wythoute the hoste, and cause her to be slayne before his face. And let Eleazar the preste take of her bloude wyth his spynger, and spynkle it before the Tabernacle of wytnesse seuen tymes. And cause the kowe to be burnt in his sight with her & layne, fleshe and bloude. And the dunge of her shall be burne also. And let the preste take Cedar wood, and plope and purple clothe, and cast it vpon the kowe as she burneth. Then let the preste walche his clothes, and he shall bath his fleshe in water, and then come into the hoste and the preste shall be vncleane vnto the euen.

B And he that burneth her, shall walche his clothes in water, and bath his fleshe in water, and be vncleane vntill euen. And a man if he be cleane shall take vp the ashes of the kowe, and put the without the hoste in a cleane place. And it shall be kepte for the multitude of the chyliden of Israel: for a spynklynge water and for an attonement of synne. Therfore he that gathereth the ashes of the kowe, shall walche his clothes, and remayne vncleane vntill euen. And this shall be vnto the chyliden of Israel and vnto the stranger that dwelleth amonge theym, a statute for euer. * He that toucheth the deade bodye of any man, shall be vncleane seuen dayes. And he shall purifye hym selfe with this water the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye, and he shall be cleane.

¶ But if he purifye not hym selfe the thyrde daye and the seuenth daye, he shall not be cleane. Who so euer toucheth the corse of any man that is deade, and spynkleth not hym selfe, despyler the dwellinge of the Lorde, and that soule shall be rote out of Israel, because the spynklynge water was not spynkled vpon hym. He shall be therfore vncleane, and his vncleannesse shall remayne vpon hym. This is the lawe of the man that dyeth in a tent: all that come into the tent, and all that is in the tent shall be vncleane seuen dayes. And all the vesselles that be open whiche haue no lyd nor couerynge vpon them shall be vncleane. And who so euer toucheth one that is slayne with a sword in the felde, or a dead person, or a bone of a deade man, or a graue shall be vncleane seuen dayes. Therfore, for an vncleane person they shall take of the burnt ashes of the spynklynge, and cumynge water shall be put therin in a vessel. And let a cleane person take plope and dippe it in the water, and spynkle it vpon the tent, and vpon all the vesselles, and on the soules that were therein, and vpon hym that touched a bone, or a slayne person, or a dead bodye, or graue. And a cleane person shall spynkle vpon the vncleane the thyrde daye & the seuenth daye & the seuenth daye he shall purifye hym selfe, & walch his clothes, and bath hym selfe in water, & shall be cleane at euen. But the man that is vncleane and spynkleth not hym selfe, & same soule shall be destroyed from amonge the congregacyon: because he hath despyled the holy place of the Lorde and the spynklynge water hath not bene spynkled vpon hym, therfore shall he remayne vncleane. And this shall be a perpetuall lawe vnto them. And he that spynkled the spynklynge water, shall walche his clothes. And he that toucheth the spynklynge water, shall be vncleane vntill euen. And what so euer the vncleane person toucheth: shall be vncleane. And the soule that toucheth it, shall be vncleane vntill the euen.

¶ The xx. Chapter.

¶ Of the water of purgation. The people murmure. They haue water euen out of the rocke. Whom denyeth the Atractes passage thowse who remaine. The deathe of Aaron in his robe. Eleazar succeedeth.

Ad the chyliden of Israel came with the whole multitude into the deserte of Syn in the fyrte moneth, and the people abode at Cadeg. And there died Miriam, and was buried there. But there was no water for the multitude, & they gathered themselves together agaynst Moyses and Aaron. And the people chode wyth Moyses, and spake, sayinge: wolde God that we had perished, when oure brethren dyed before the Lorde. Why haue ye brought the congregacyon of the Lorde vnto thys wyldernes: that both we and our catell shulde dye in it? * Wherefore haue ye made vs to goe oute of Egypte, to dyngge vs into this vnglacions place, which is no place of fede nor of fygge, nor vyne, nor of p<sup>r</sup> granates, neither is there any water to drynke.

S And Moyses and Aaron went from the congregacion, vnto the doze of the Tabernacle of wyne, and fel vpon the faces. And Moyses and Aaron went from the congregacion, vnto the doze of the Tabernacle of wyne, and fel vpon the faces. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses, saying: take the rodde, and gather thou and thy brother: Aaron the congregacion together, and speake vnto the rocke before their eyes, and it shall geue forth his water. And thou shalt drynge them water out of the rocke, to geue the company drynke, and they: beastes also. * And Moyses toke the rodde from before the Lozde, as he commaunded hym. And Moyses and Aaron gathered the congregacion together before the rock, and Moyses sayde vnto them: heare ye rebellions: must we set you water out of this rocke?

And Moyses toke the rodde from before the Lozde, as he commaunded hym. And Moyses and Aaron gathered the congregacion together before the rock, and Moyses sayde vnto them: heare ye rebellions: must we set you water out of this rocke? And Moyses lyfte vp his hande, & with his rodde he smote the rocke two tymes, & the water came out abundantly, and the multitude drank and they: beastes also. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron: because ye beleued me not, to sanctifie me in the eyes of the chyldren of Israel, therefore ye shall not drynge this congregacion into the lande which I haue geuen them.

C This is the water of stryfe, because the chyldren of Israel stroue wyth the Lozde, and he was sanctified in them. * And Moyses sent messengers from Cades vnto the kynge of Edom. Thus sayth thy brother Israel: Thou knowest all the trouble that hath happened vs. Our fathers wente downe in to Egypte, and we haue dwelte in Egypte a longe tyme, and the Egyptians vexed vs and our fathers. And when we cryed vnto the Lozde, he heard our voyce, and sent an aungel, and hath set vs vp out of Egypt. And behold we are in Cades, euen in the vppermost curre of thy border. We wyl go nowe thorow thy countrey: but we wyl not go thorow the felde of vngardes, neither wyl we drynke of the water of the fountaynes: we wyl go by the kynges hys waye, and neyther tourne vnto the ryghte hande nor to the lefte, vntill we be past thy countrey. And Edom answered hym.

D Thou shalt not go by me: lest I come out agaynst the wyth the swerde. The chyldren of Israel sayde vnto hym: we wyl go by the beaten waye: and yf I and my cattell drynke of thy water, I wyl paye for it, I wyl but onely with out any harme go thorow on my fete. He answered: Thou shalt not go thorow. And Edom came out agaynst hym with much people, and with a myghty power. And thus Edom denyed to geue Israel passage thorow his countrey wherfore Israel turned awaye from hym. And the chyldren of Israel departed from Cades, & came vnto mount Horeb with all the congregacion. And the Lozde spake vnto Moyses and Aaron in mount Horeb by the coite of the lande of Edom, sayinge: Aaron shall be gathered vnto his people, for he shall not come in to the lande, wherby I haue geuen vnto the chyldren of Israel, because ye disobeyed my mouth at the water of stryfe. Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bringe them vp into mount Horeb, and thou shalt stryppye Aaron out of his vestimentes and put them vpon Eleazar his sonne, and Aaron shall be gathered vnto his people, and shall dye there. And Moyses dyd as the Lozde commaunded and they went vp into mount Horeb in the syght of all the multitude. And Moyses toke of Aarons clothes, and putte them vpon Eleazar his son, & Aaron dyed there in the top of the mount. And Moyses and Eleazar came downe out of the mount. When all the multitude sawe that Aaron was dead, they mourned for Aaron thretye dayes, thowowt all the howlders of Israel.

The xxi. Chapter.

Ad when kynge * Arab the Canaanite whych dwelt toward the south hearde tell that Israel came by the waye that the spies had founde out he foughte agaynst Israel, and toke some of them prysoners. And Israel vowed a vowe vnto the Lozde, and sayde: Yf thou wylt deliuer this people into my hande, I wyl utterly destroye they: Cities. And the Lozde heard the voyce of Israel, and deliuered them the Canaanites. And they destroyed them and they: cities, and called the name of the place: Horeb.

* And they departed from mount Horeb by the waye of the red see: to compasse the lande of Edom. And the soule of the people fainted by the waye. And the people spake agaynst God and agaynst Moyses: wherfore hast thou broughte vs out of Egypte, for to dye in the wilderness, for here is neither breade nor water, and our soule lotheth this lyght breade. * Wherfore the Lozde sent fyerpe serpentes amonge the people whiche stonge them: and muche people of Israel dyed. Therfore the people came to Moyses & sayde: we haue synned, for we haue spoken agaynst the Lozde and agaynst the, * make intercession to the Lozde, that he take awaye the serpentes from vs. And Moyses made intercession for the people. And the Lozde sayde vnto Moyses: make the a fyre serpente, and set it vp for a sygne, that as many as are bitten, maye loke vpon it, and lyue. * And Moyses made a serpente of brasse, and set it vp for a sygne. And when the serpentes had bitten any man, he behelde the serpente of brasse, and was healed. * And the chyldren of Israel departed thence, and pricked in

Obol

Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, & pitched at the heapes of Abarim: euen in the wyldernesse which is by the playne of Moab on the east syde. And they remoued thence, and pitched vpon the ryuer of Iarab. And they departed thence and pitched on the other syde of Arnon, which is in the wyldernesse, and cometh oute of the coles of the Amozites: for Arnon is the bozder of Moab, betwene Moab and the Amozites.

Wherfoze it is spoken in the booke of the war of the Lozde, what thyng he dyd in the red see, and in the ryuer of Arnon. And the brade of the ryuer that goeth downe to the dwelling of Ar, and stretcheth vnto the bozder of Moab, frome thence it turneth vnto Beer. The same is Beer of well wherof the Lozde spake vnto Moles: gather the people together, and I will geue them water. Then Israel sange this songe. Arise vp well, synge ye vnto hym. The pipaces dygged this well, the captaynes of the people dygged it, with the teacher, and with theyr stauens.

And from the wyldernesse they went to Watana, and from Watana to Rahabiel, and from Rahabiel to Bamoth, and from Bamoth to the valey that is in the felde of Moab, vnto the top of the hyll that apereth befoze Iesunon. And Israel sent messengers vnto Sehon, kynge of the Amozites, sayinge: * I will go thowowe thy lande: we wyl not turne into the felde of vncyrtaynes, neyther drynke of the waters of the wel but we wyl go alonge by the kyngeys hye waye, vntill we be passe thy countrey. * But Sehon wolde geue Israel no lycence to passe thowowe his countrey, but gathered all his people together and went out agaynst Israel into the wyldernesse. And he came to Iadza, and fought agaynst Israel. * And Israel smote hym in the edge of the sword, and conquered his lande fro Arnon vnto Iabok, and vnto the chyldren of Ammon. For the bozder of the chyldren of Ammon was stronge. And Israel toke all the citeys and dwelt in all the citeys of the Amozites: in hesbon and in all the towne that long therto. For hesbon was the cite of Sehon the kynge of the Amozites whych fought befoze agaynst the kynge of the Moabites, and toke all his lande out of his hande, euen vnto Arnon. Wherfoze they saie in the proverbe: come to hesbon, and let the cite of Sehon be buylte and repaired: for there is a fyre gone oute of hesbon, and a flame from the cite of Sehon, and hath consumed Ar in Moab, and the encryptours of the hye places in Arnon. Wo be to the Moab: a people of Chamos, ye are vndone, he hath put his soumes to fyght, and his daughters to captiuite vnto Sehon the kynge of the Amozites. Their empyre is losse from hesbon vnto Dibon, and we made a wyldernesse euen vnto Aropha, whych reacheth vnto Mediba. And thus Israel dwelt in the lande of the Amozites. And Moles sent to search out Iazer, and they toke the towne belonging therto, and roced out the Amozites that were therein.

And they turned and wente vp towarde Balan. And Og the kynge of Balan came oute agaynst them, he and all his people to fyghte at Abzel. And the Lozde sayde vnto Moles, feare hym not, for I haue deliuered hym in thy hande and all his people, and his land. And thou shalt do to hym as thou dydest vnto Sehon the kynge of the Amozites which dwelt at hesbon. They smote hym therfoze, and his sonnes, and all his people, vntill there was nothyng lefte hym. And they conquered his lande.

The xxiij. Chapter.

And the chyldren of Israel departed and pitched in the felde of Moab on the other syde of Iordane, ouer agaynst Jericho. And Balac the sonne of ziphor sawe all that Israel had done to the Amozites: and the Moabites were sore astrapde of the people, because they were many, and stode in feare of the chyldren of Israel. And Moab sayde vnto the elders of Madian: now that this company lyche vpon al that are rounde aboute vs, as an ore lycketh vpon the grasse of the felde. And Balac the sonne of ziphor was kynge of the Moabites at that tyme.

He sente messengers therfoze vnto Balaam the sonne of Beor in Bethor (wherhe is by the ryuer of the land of the chyldren of his folke to call hym, sayinge: beholde, there is a people come out of Egypte, and beholde, they couer the face of the earth, and dwell ouer agaynst me. Come now therfoze, and curse this people for my sake. For they are to mygthye for me, yf so peradventure I myght be able to smyte them, yf so to dryue them out of the lande. For I wote that he whome thou blesset, is blesset, and whome thou curset, is curset. And the elders of Moab and the elders of Madian departed, hauinge the rewarde of the soughlapinge in theyr hande. And they came vnto Balaam, and tolde hym the wordes of Balac. He answered them: tary here this nyght, and I will bringe you worde, euen as the Lozde shall saye vnto me. And the Lozdes of Moab abode wth Balaam.

And God came vnto Balaam: and sayde, what men are these with thee? And Balaam sayde vnto God: Balac the sonne of ziphor, kynge of Moab hath sent vnto me, sayinge: behold, there is a people come out of Egypte and couereth the face of the earth: come now therfoze, and curse them for my sake, yf so peradventure I maye be able to ouercome them in battell, and to dryue them oute. And God sayde vnto Balaam. So not thou with them, neither curse the people, for they are blesset. And Balaam rose vp in the morninge, and sayde vnto the Lozdes of Balac: get you vnto your lande: for the Lozde wyl not suffer me to go with you. And the lozdes of Moab rose vp, and went vnto Balac and sayde: Balaam wolde not come with vs. And Balac sente agayne a greater company of Lozdes and more honozable then they: whych came to Balaam, and tolde hym: Thus sayth Balac the sonne of ziphor: oh, lette nothyng let the, but come vnto me, for I will greatly promote the vnto greate honoure, and wyl doo what so euer thou sayest vnto unto me, come I praye the, curse thys people for my sake. And Balaam answered and sayde vnto the seruauntes of Balac: * If Balac wolde geue me his house full of silver and golde, I can not go beyonde the wynde of the Lorde my god, to do lesse or more. Howe therfore saye ye here this nyght: that I maye wete, what the Lorde wyll saye vnto me more. And God came vnto Balaam by nyght, and sayde vnto hym: If the men come to call the, ryse vp and go with them, but loke what I saye vnto the, that shalte thou do. And Balaam rose by early, and sabled hys asse, and went with the Lordes of Moab.

And the countenance of God was angry, because he wente. And the aungell of the Lorde stode in the waye agaynst hym, as he rode vpon his asse, and his two seruauntes were with him. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde stande in the waye, and hauninge a swerde drawen in his hande, the asse turned asyde oute of the waye, and went out into the felde. And Balaam smote the asse, to turne her into the waye.

But the aungell of the Lorde stode in a path betwene the wynepardes, and there was a wall on the one syde, and another on the other. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde, he wrenched vnto the wall, and thynste Balaams fore vnto the wall, and he smote her agayne. And the aungell of the Lorde went further and stode in a narrowe place, where was no waye to turne, eyther to the ryght hande or to the lyfte. And when the asse sawe the aungell of the Lorde, he fell downe vnder Balaam: & Balaam was wroth, and smote the asse with a staffe. And the Lorde opened the mouth of the asse, and he sayde vnto Balaam: what haue I done vnto the, that thou haste smytten me nowe thys tyme? And Balaam sayde vnto the asse: because thou haste mocked me: I wolde also there were a swerde in myne hande, for euene nowe wolde I kyll the. And the asse sayde vnto Balaam: am not I thynne asse which thou hast rydden vpon since I was borne vnto this daye? Was I euer wont to do so vnto the? he sayde: naye.

And the Lorde opened the eyes of Balaam: and he sawe the aungell of the Lorde standynge in the waye, hauninge a swerde drawen in his hande. He bowed hym selfe therfore, and fell flatte on hys face. And the aungell of the Lorde sayde vnto hym: Wherefore haste thou smytten thynne asse thys tyme? beholde, I cam out as an aduersarye, because thou makest thy waye contrary vnto me, and the asse sawe me, and wente backe from me thys tyme: or elles if he had not turned from me, he had surely slayne the, and slayed her also.

Balaam sayde vnto the aungell of the Lorde: I haue sinned: for I wyl not that thou stdest in the waye agaynst me. Howe therfore if it dysplease the, I wyl turne home agayne. The aungell sayde vnto Balaam, go with the men: but what I saye vnto the, that shalte thou speake. And so Balaam went with the Lordes of Balac. And when Balac heard that Balaam was come, he wente out to mete hym vnto a Citie of Moab, which is in the border of Arnon, euen in the vtmost coast. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: dyd I not send for the, to call the? And wherfore camest thou not vnto me? because I am not able to promote the vnto honour? And Balaam made answer vnto Balac: Lo, I am come vnto the. And can I now saye any thyng at all? The worde that God hath put in my mouth, that shall I speake. And Balaam wente with Balac, and they came vnto a citie of Arretes.

And Balac offered oxen and shepe, and sente for Balaam and for the Lordes that were with hym. And on the morow Balac toke Balaam, and brought hym vp into a place of Baal, that thence he myght see the vttermoost parte of the people.

The xliiij. Chapter.

Balaam blesseth the people.

And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: buyde me here seuen aultars, and prepare me here seuen oxen, and seuen rammes. And Balac dyd as Balaam saide. And Balac and Balaam offered on euery aultar, one ox and a ram. And Balaam sayde vnto Balac: stande by the sacrifice, and I wyl go, yf happye the Lorde wyl mete me: and what so curr he the wetherme, I wyl tell the, and he wente forth alone. But God met Balaam, & Balaam sayde vnto hym, I haue prepared seuen aultars, and haue offered vpon euery aultar, an ox and a ramme. And the Lorde put a saying in Balaams mouth, & sayde go agayne to Balac and saye on this wyse. And when he went agayne vnto hym, lo, he stode by his sacrifice, he and all the lordes of Moab.

And he toke vp his parable and sayde, * Balac the kynge of Moab hath set me from Mesopotamia out of the mountaynes of the east: saying: come curse Jacob for my sake: come and blesse Israel. Howe shall I curse hym, whom God hath not cursed? or howe shall I blesse hym, whom God hath not blessed? from the top of the rocks I see hym, and from the hylls I beholde hym: lo the people shall dwell by them selues, and shall not be reckened amonge the nacjons. Who can tel the dust of Jacob, and the number of the fourth parte of Israel? I praye God, that my soule maye dye the deathe of the ryghteous, and that my last ende maye be lyke his. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: what hast thou done vnto me? I set the to curse myne enemyes, & beholde, thou haste blessed them. He answered and sayde: must I not hepe that and speake it, whiche the Lorde hath put in my mouth? And Balac sayde vnto hym: come I praye the wryth me vnto an other place, whence thou mayst see them, and thou shalt see but the vtmost parte of them, and shalte not see them all: curse them out of a place for my sake.

And he brought hym into a felde, where men buyt seuen aultars, and offered an ox and a ram on euery aultar. And he sayde vnto Balac stande here by the sacrifice, whyle I go yonder. And the Lorde met Balaam, and put a worde in his mouth, and sayde: go agayne vnto Balac: and lac, and sape thus. And when he came to hym: beholde, he stode by hys sacrifice, and the Lozdes of Moab with hym. And Balac sayde vnto hym: what hath the Lozde sayde?

And he toke vp hys parable and answered: epe vnto Balac and heare, and herken vnto me þ sonne of ziphor. * God is not a man þ he shulde lye, neyther the sonne of a man that he shal be repent: shulde he saie: & not do: or shulde he speake and not make it good: beholde I haue taken vpon me to blesse, for he hath blessed, and it is not in my power to alter it. He behelde no banys in Jacob, nor sawe tranayle in Israel. The Lozde his God is with him, and the presence of þ kyng is amonge them. * God brought them out of Egypte, he hath strength as an vncorner. There is no sorcery in Jacob, nor soothsayinge in Israel. It is nowe tolde vnto Jacob and Israel, what God hath wrought. Beholde, the people shall epe vp as a lyonelle, and heue vp hym selfe as a Lyon. He shall not lye downe, vntyll he eat of the praye, and drynke the blood of them that are slayne. And Balac sayde vnto Balaam: neyther curse them nor blesse them.

But Balaam answered and sayde vnto Balac: tolde not I the saying, all þ the Lozde speareth, that I must do: And Balac sayd vnto Balaam: come I praye the, and I will bypunge the yet vnto another place, þ peradventure it will please God, that thou mayste thence curse them for my sake. And Balac brought Balaam vnto the toppes of Beor, that boweth towardes þ wyl-dernes of Iesymmon. And Balaam sayd vnto Balac: make me here seuen aulters, and prepare me here seuen oren, and seuen rammes. And Balac dyd as Balaam had sayde, and offred an oren and a ram on euery aultare.

¶ The xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Balaam prophesyeth of the lye shome of Israel and of the coming of Christ. Balac is angry with Balaam. The destruction of the Amalathites, and of the Kenites.

And when Balaam sawe that it pleased the Lozde, that he shulde blesse Israel, he went not as he dyd wise befoze to fet southe sayinge: but set hys face towardes the wyldernesse.

And Balaam lyfte vp his eyes, and looked vpon Israel, as he laye accordynge to his trybes, and the spyrte of God came vpon hym. * And he toke vp his parable and sayde. Balaam the son of Beor hath sayde, and the man whose eye is open hath sayde: he hath sayde, wherhe heareth the wordes of God, and seyth the visyons of the almyghtye: and falleth downe with open eyes.

Howe goodly are thy tentes, O Jacob, and thine habitacions, O Israel: Euen as the valleys are they layd abrode, and as gardenys by ryuers syde: as the tentes which the Lozde hath pryched, and as cypers trees beyde the waters. The water droppeth oute of hys boket, and hys sede shalbe many waters: and his kyng shalbe byer then Agag. And his kyngdome shalbe exalted. * God brought hym out of Egypt: as the strength of an vncorner is he vnto hym. He shal eate the nacyns his enemyes, and gnawe they bones, and pearce them thorow with hys arrows. * He couched hym selfe, and layde downe as a Lyon, and as a lyones, who shal stee hym vp: blessed is he that blesseth the, and cursed is he that curseth þ. And Balac was wroth with Balaam, and smote his handes together: & Balac sayde vnto Balaam: I sente for the to curse myne enemyes, and beholde, þ hast blessed them this tyme. Therfoze nowe get the quickly vnto thy place. I thoughte that I wolde promote the vnto honoure, but loo, the Lozde hath kepte the backe from wroth.

Balaam answered vnto Balac: tolde I not the messengers which thou sentest vnto me, sayinge: * If Balac wolde geue me hys house full of syluer and golde, I can not passe the worde of the Lozde, to do either good or bad of myne owne mynde. But what the Lozde sayth: þ am I compelled to speake. And nowe beholde, I go vnto my people: come therefore, and I wyl aduertise þ what this people shal do to thy folke in the later dayes. And he toke vp his parable & sayde: Balaam the son of Beor hath sayde the man whose eye is open, hath sayde. He hath sayde that heareth the wordes of God, and hath þ knowledge of the most hygh, and beholdeth the visyon of þ Almyghtye, and that falleth with open eyes: I shall se hym, but not nowe. I shal beholde hym, but not nigh. * There shal come a starre of Jacob, and epe a scepter of Israel, and shal smyte the costes of Moab and vndermyne all the chyl- dren of Seth. * And Edom shalbe possessed, and Seir shal fall to the possession of they enemyes and Israel shal domanfully.

Out of Jacob shal come he that shal haue domynon, and shal destrope the remnaunte of the Citye. And when he looked on Amalech, he toke vp his parable, and sayde: Amalech is the fyrste of the nacyns: but hys latter ende shal perpe utterly. And he looked on the Kenites, & toke vp hys parable, and sayde: Stronge is thy dwellinge place, and thou puttest thy nest in a rocke. Nevertheless, the Kenite shal be roted out, vntyll Assur take the prysoner. And he toke vp his parable & sayd: Alas, who shal lye wch God doth this: The shypes also shal come out of the coastes of Italy, & subdue Assur, and subdue Eber, and he hym selfe shal perpe at þ last. And Balaam rose vp, and wente and returned to his place: and Balac also went his waye.

¶ The xxv. Chapter.

And Israel dwelt in Sittim and the people begonne to comyt whozome with the daughters of Moab which called the people vnto the sacrifice of they gods. * And the people dyd eate, and worshipped they goddes, and Israel coupled hym selfe vnto Baal Beor. And the indignacyon of the Lozde was prouoked agaynst Israel, and the Lozde sayde vnto Moses: take all the heades of the people, & hang them vp befoze the Lozde agaynst þ sonne, that

And beholde, one of the chyldren of Israel came and brought vnto his brethren a Madianitische wyfe in the syghte of Moses, and in the syght of all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel, that theye before the doore of the Tabernacle of wytnesse. And when Phinees the sonne of Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the priest sawe it, he rose vp out of the myddes of the compaigne and toke a weapon in his hande, and went after the man of Israel into the tent, and thrust them thowowe: both the man of Israel and also a woman, euen thowowe the belly of her. And a plague cralled from the chyldren of Israel. And there dyed in the plague. xlii. thousande.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, saying: Phinees the sonne of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, hath turned myne anger away fro the chyldren of Israel, whyle he was gelous for my sake amonge them that I had not consumed the chyldren of Israel in my gelousye. Wherefore I saye: beholde, I geue vnto hym my couenaunt of peace, and he shall haue it, and his seide after hym, euen the couenaunte of the priestes offyce for euer: because he was gelouse for my Goddes sake and made an attonement for the chyldren of Israel. The name of the Israelitche wyfe was Zami the son of Salu, a Lorde of an house and kynred of Simcon. And the name of the Madianitische wyfe that was slayne, was Cozbi the daughter of Zur, a heade ouer the people of an house and kynred of Madian.

And the Lord spake vnto Moses, sayinge: These be the Madianytes, & slayte them, for they trouble you with theyr wyles, which haue beggled you by discreate in the cause of Beor, and in the cause of theyr syster Cozbi the daughter of a lorde of the Madianites, whiche was slayne in the daye of the plague for Beors sake.

The xxi. Chapter.

The chyldren of Israel are nombred.

And it fortuned that after the plague the Lord spake vnto Moses, & Eleazar the sonne of Aaron the priest sayinge: take the nombre of all the multitude of the chyldren of Israel from twenty yere and aboue thowowe out theyr fathers houses, all that are able to goo to waite in Israel. Cabath begat Amram & Amrams wyfe was called * Jochebed a daughter of Levi, whiche was bozne vnto Levi in Egypte. And she bare vnto Amram Aaron, Moyses and Miriam they: sister. And vnto Aaron were bozne Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar & Ithamar. * And Nadab and Abihu dyed when they offered straunge fyre before the Lorde. And after they: nombres, there were * thye and twentye thousand, all males from a moneth olde and about. For they were not nombred amonge the chyldren of Israel, because there was no enherytance geuen the: amonge the chyldren of Israel.

These are the nombres, when Moyses and Eleazar the p:este nombred the chyldren of Israel in the playne of Moab, fast by Jordan, ouer agaynst Jericho. And amonge these there was not a man of theym, whome Moyses and Aaron nombred, when they tolde the chyldren of Israel, in the wyldernesse of Synay. For the Lorde sayde of them: they shall dye in the wyldernesse, and there was not left a man of them: save Caleb the son of Iephunne, & Joshua the son of Nun.

¶ The xxvii. Chapter.

The lawe of the heritage of the daughters of zelaphead the land of promys to herue vnto Moyses, in whose head is appoynted Joshua.

And the daughters of * zelaphead the sonne of Heber, the sonne of Siload the sonne of Nachir, the son of Wanaasse: of the kynred of Wanaasse the sonne of Joseph (whose names were Wabela, Acha, Hagla, Welcha, and Thirza) came, and stode before Moyses, and Eleazar the p:este, and before the Lordes, and all the multitude by the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, sayinge: our father dyed in the wyldernesse: and * was not in the compaigne of them that gathered them selues together agaynst the Lord in the congregacion of Corah. But dyed in his owne synne, and had no sonnes. Wherefore then is the name of our father taken awaye from amonge his kynred, because he hath no sonne?

* True vnto vs therefore a possession amonge the chyldren of our father. And Moyses brought they: cause before the Lord. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: The daughters of zelaphead spake ryght: thou shalt geue them a possession to enheret amonge their fathers byeth: and shalt turne the enherytance of they: father vnto unto them. And thou shalt speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, saying: If a man die and haue no so. ye shall turne his inheritaunce vnto his doughter. If he haue no doughter, ye shall giue hys inheritaunce vnto hys brethren. If he haue also no brethren, ye shall geue his inheritaunce vnto his fathers brethren. And if his father haue no brethren, ye shall geue his inheritaunce vnto hym that is nexte to hym of hys kynred, and he shall possesse it. And this shall be vnto the chyldren of Israel a lawe of iudgement, as the Loide hath commaunded Moyses.

C And the Loide sayde vnto Moyses: * get the vp into this mount Abarim, and beholde the land whiche I haue giuen vnto the chyldren of Israel. And when thou hast seene it, thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people also, as Aaron thy brother was gathered. For ye were disobedient vnto my mouth in the desert of Syn, in the streete of the congregacion. Repter dyd ye sanctifie me in the waieres before they eyes. * That is the water of strete in Cades in the wyldernes of Syn. And Moyses spake vnto the Loide, saying: let the Loide God of the spytes of al flesh set a man ouer the congregacion, whiche maye go out and in before them, and leade them out: in that the congregacion of the Loide be not as theye whiche haue not a shepe herde.

D And the Loide sayde vnto Moyses: take Josua the sonne of Nun, in whom is the sprete, and put thynne handes vpon hym, and set hym before Eleazar the preeist, and before all the congregacion: and geue him a charge in their syght. And put of thy ppyple vpon hym, that all the company of the chyldren of Israel maye be obedyente. And he shall stande before Eleazar the preeist, whiche shall aske counsell for hym: * after the iudgement of Urim before the Loide. And accordyng vnto his worde shall they go out and in, both he and all the chyldren of Israel with hym and all the congregacion. And Moyses dyd as the Loide commaunded hym: and he toke Josua, and set hym before Eleazar the preeist, and before all the congregacion: * and put his handes vpon hym, and gaue hym a charge, as the Loide commaunded thow the hande of Moyses.

¶ The xxviii. Chapter.

At the Loide spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: Commaunde the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: My offerynge and my breadye for my sacrifices whiche are made for a swete sauiour, shall ye obserue in theyr due season. And thou shalt saye vnto them: * This is the offerynge whiche ye shall offer vnto the Loide, two lambes of a yere olde without spot daye by daye for a continual burnt offering. One lambe shalt thou offer in the morninge, and the other at euen. * And thereto the tenth part of an Ephah of flour for a meat offering mingled with beaten oyle cōtēnyng the fourth parte of an hin. It is a dayly burnt offeringe such as was ordeyned in the mount Synai for a swete sauiour, a sacrifice vnto the Loide. And let the dynhoffer ryng of the same be the fourth part of an hin for one lambe, and in the holy place shalt thou commaunde the wyne to be powred vnto the Loide.

And the other lambe thou shalt offer at euen after the maner of the meate offerynge, and the dynhoffer of the morninge: a sacrifice shalt thou offer for a swete sauiour vnto the Loide. And on the sabboth daye two lambes of a yere olde a peece, and without spot, & two tenth deales of flour for a meat offering mingled with oyle and the dynhoffer thereto. The burnt offeringe of the sabboth muste be done in the selfe sabboth, besydes the dayly burnt offeringe, and his dynhoffer. And in the begynnyng of your monethes, ye shall offer a burnt offeringe vnto the Loide: two yonge bullocks, and a ram, and seven lambes of a yere olde without spot: & the tenth deales of flour for a meate offering mingled with oyle for one bullocke, and two tenth deales of flour for a meate offeringe, mingled with oyle for one ram. And a tenth deale of flour mingled with oyle for a meate offeringe vnto one lambe, for a burnt offeringe and a swete sauiour, and a sacrifice vnto the Loide.

And theyr dynhoffer shall be halfe an hynde of wyne vnto one bullocke, and the thyrde parte of an hynde vnto a ram, & the fourth parte of an hynde vnto a lambe. This is the burnt offeringe of the moneth in his moneth, thow out the monethes of the yere: and one beegote for a syn offeringe vnto the Loide shall be offered, after the dayly burnt offeringe and his dynhoffer. * And the fourteenth daye of the first moneth, is the passeouer of the Loide. And in the fyfteenth daye of the same moneth is the feast, and seven dayes longe shall vniuersed breade be eaten. In the fyfthe daye shall be an holy conuocacion, ye shall do no maner of seruile worke therein. But ye shall offer a sacrifice for a burnt offeringe vnto the Loide, two yonge bullocks, one ram, and seven lambes of a yere olde, whiche are to you without spot, and let theyr meate offeringe be of flour mingled with oyle: the tenth deales also shall ye offer for a bullocke, & two tenth deales for a ram: one tenth deale shalt thou offer for every lambe of the seven lambes: and an beegote for synne to make an attonement for you.

Ye shall offer these, besyde the burnt offeringe in the morninge, whiche is a continual burnt sacrifice. After this maner ye shall offer thow out the seven dayes: the sode of the sacrifice for a swete sauiour vnto the Loide. And it shall be done besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys dynhoffer. And in the seventh daye ye shall haue an holy conuocacion, and ye shall do no seruile worke. Therefore in the daye of your fyfthe frutes, when ye bynge a newe meate offeringe vnto the Loide (accordyng to your woyses, ye shall haue an holy conuocacion, and ye shall do no seruile worke in it: but offer a burnt offeringe for a swete sauiour vnto the Loide, two yonge bullocks, a ram, * and seven lambes of a yere olde a peece, with theyr meate offeringes of flour mingled with oyle, the tenth deales vnto a bullocke, two tenth deales to a ram, and one tenth deale deale vnto a lambe thowout the seuen lambes, and an he goate to make an attonement for you. They shall do besyde the continuall burnt offeringe, and hys meate offeringe: and they shall be vnto you without spot, with theyr dynke offerings.

The xxix. Chapter.

What must be offered the eighth daye of the first month.

3 Ad in the fyfthe daye of the seventh moneth ye shall haue an holy conuocation: * ye shall do then no scruple worke. For it is a daye of blowing vnto you. But ye shall offer a burnt offeringe for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde: one ponge bullocke, one ram, and seuen lambes of a yere olde a yere that are pure. And theyr meate offeringe shall be made of flour mingled with oyle, the tenth deales vnto the bullocke, and two vnto a ram: and one tenth deale vnto one lambe thowout the seuen lambes. And an hegoate for synne to make an attonement for you, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe of the moneth, and hys meate offeringe, and besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate offeringe and the dynke offerings of the same, whiche must be done accordyng vnto the maner of them for a sauoure of sweetnesse of the sacrifice of the Lorde. * And ye shall haue the tenth daye of that same seventh moneth an holy conuocation: and ye shall humble your soules, and shall do no manner worke therein. But ye shall offer a burnt offeringe vnto the Lorde for a sweete sauoure: one bullocke, a ramme, and seuen lambes of a yere olde a yere, whiche shall be vnto you without faule. Theyr meate offeringe shall be of flour mingled with oyle the tenth deales to a bullocke, and two to a ramme, and a tenth deale vnto a lambe, thowout the seuen lambes.

An hegoate for synne, besyde the synne offeringe of attonement and dayly burnt offeringe and the meate and dynke offerings that longe to the same. * And in the fyfteenth daye of the seuen moneth ye shall haue an holy conuocation, & do then no scruple worke, & ye shall kepe a feast vnto the Lorde seuen dayes longe. And ye shall offer a burnt offeringe for a sacrifice of a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde: thytene bullockes, two rams, and fourtene lambes of a yere olde, whiche shall be without blemyshe. And theyr meate offeringe shall be of flour mingled with oyle the tenth deales vnto euery one of the thytene bullockes, two tenth deales to ether of the rams, & one tenth deale vnto each of ffourtene lambes. And one goate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe with his meate and dynke offeringe.

And the seconde daye, ye shall offer twelue ponge bullockes, two rams, fourtene pearlyng lambes without spot: and let theyr meate offeringe and dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombre of them and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dynke offerings. And the thyrde daye ye shall offer eleuen bullockes, two rams, & fourtene pearlyng lambes without spot: & let theyr meate and dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be after the nombre of them & accordyng to the maner. And there shall be offered an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dynke offeringe.

In the fourth daye ye shall offer ten bullockes, two rams, & fourtene lambes pearlynges and pure: let theyr meate and dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombre of them and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dynke offeringe. In the fyfth daye ye shall offer nyne bullockes, two rams, and fourtene lambes of one yere olde a yere without spot. And let theyr meate and dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombre of them, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dynke offeringe.

And in the syxte daye, ye shall offer eght bullockes, two rams, and fourtene pearlyng lambes without spot. And let theyr meate & dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams, and lambes be accordyng to the nombre of them, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe, and hys meate and dynke offerings. In the seventh daye, ye shall offer seuen bullockes, two rams and fourtene lambes that are pearlynges and pure. And let theyr meate and dynke offerings vnto the bullockes, rams & lambes be accordyng to the nombre, and after the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe, and hys meate and dynke offeringe. In the eght daye, ye shall haue a collection of the feast vnto you, and ye shall do no scruple worke therein. But ye shall offer a burnt offeringe, a sacrifice for a sweete sauoure vnto the Lorde: one bullocke, one ram and seuen pearlyng lambes without spot. Let theyr meate & dynke offerings vnto the bullocke, ram and lambes be accordyng to the nombre, and accordyng to the maner. And an hegoate for synne, besyde the dayly burnt offeringe and hys meate and dynke offerings. These thynges ye shall do vnto the Lorde in your feastes: besyde your vntowes and free will offerings, in your burnt offerings, meate offerings, dynke offerings, and peace offerings. And Moses tolde the chyldren of Israel all that the Lorde commaunded hym.

The xxx. Chapter.

Concerning when they shall be kepte, and when not.

And Moses spake vnto the headres of the tribes of the chyldren of Israel sayinge: this is the thing whiche the Lorde hath commaunded. * If a man vow a vow vnto the Lorde, or sweare an othe to bynde his soule: he shall not go backe with his word: but shall fulfill all that is proceeded out of his mouth.

If a woman also vowe a vowe vnto the Lorde and bynde her selfe beyng in her fathers house: in the tyme of her youth, and her father hear her vowe and bonde whiche she hath made vpon her

h. i. soule

soule, and holde his peace thereto: then all her vowes and bondes whiche she hath made upon her soule, shall stande in effecte. But and if her father forbad her the same daye that he heareth it, none other vowes nor bondes which she hath made upon her soule shall be of valne: and the Lorde shall forgive her, because her father forbade her. If she had an husbande when she vowed or pronounced ought out of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, and her husbande heard it and helde his peace there at the same daye he hearde it, then her vowes and her bondes wherewith she bounde her soule shall stande in effecte. And if her husbande forbade her the same daye that he heard it: and made her vowe whiche she hath upon her of none effecte, and released the opening of her lippes, wherewith she bounde her soule, the Lorde shall forgive her.

But euery vowe of a widow, and of her that is denozed (that they haue bounde their soule with) shall stande in effecte with them. If she vowed in her husbandes house, or bounde her soule with an othe, and her husbande heard it, and helde his peace, and forbade her not, then all her vowes and bondes wherewith she bounde her soule, shall stande. But if her husbande dispauled them, the same daye that he heard them then nothinge that proceedeth out of her lippes in vowes and bondes (wherewith she bounde her soule) shall stande in effecte: for her husbande hath so wiled them. And the Lorde shall forgive her. All vowes and othes that bynde to humble the soule, maye her husbande stablish or breake. But if her husbande holde his peace from one daye vnto another, then he stablisheth all the vowes and bondes whiche she had upon her, because he held his peace the same daye that he hearde them. But if he breake them, after that he hath hearde them, he shall beare her speme hym selfe. These are the ordynances which the Lorde commaunded Moses, betwene a man and his wyfe: and betwene the father and his daughter, beinge yet a damsell in her fathers house.

The xxxi. Chapter.

The Midianites and Balaam are slaine. The plague is equally deuorsh. A present given of Israel.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses, sayinge: * avenge the chyldren of Israel of the Midianites, and afterward shall thou be gathered vnto thy people. And Moses spake vnto the folke, sayinge: Harnesse some of you vnto warre, and let them go vnto the Midianites, and avenge the Lorde of the Midianites. Let there be chosen a thousand out of euery tribe of Israel, that out of all the trybes ye maye sende some to the warre. And there were taken out of the thousands of Israel, twelue thousande prepared vnto warre, of euery trybe a thousande.

And Moses sente them to the warre, euen a thousande of euery trybe, and with them, Phineas the sonne of Eleazar the priest, and the holie vesselles: and the * trumpets to blowe were in his hande. And they warred against the Midianites, as the Lorde commaunded Moses, and slue all the males. And they slue the kynges of Midian amonge other that were slayne: namely, Eui and Rekem, Zur and Hur and Reba five kynges of Midian with Balaam, the sonne of Beor, whom they slue with the swerde: And the chyldren of Israel toke all the women of Midian prisoners, and they, chyldren, and spoyled all theyr cattel, and all theyr flockes, and all theyr goodes. And they burnt all theyr ctytes wher they dwelte, and all theyr castels with fyre.

And they toke all the spoyles and all that they coulde catche both of men and bestes. And they brought the captiues and that whiche they had taken and the spoyles vnto Moses and Eleazar the priest, and vnto the company of the chyldren of Israel, euen vnto the hoste that were in the feldeg of Moab by Jordan, ouer agaynst Jericho. And Moses and Eleazar the priest, and all the lordes of the congregacion went out of the host agaynst them. And Moses was angry with the officers of the hoste, with the captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hundredes, whiche came from the warre and battayle: and Moses sayde vnto them: haue ye saued all the women alvys? beholde, * these caused the chyldren of Israel to rowe the counsell of Balaam, to commytte a synne agaynst the Lorde, in the busynesse of Beor, and there folowed a plague amonge the congregacion of the Lorde. Nowe therfore, * slaye all the men chyldren, and the women that haue lyen with men fleshly. But all the women chyldren that haue not liuen with men, kepe a line for your selues. And ye shall remayne without the hoste seven dayes, all that haue kyllid anye persone: * and all that haue touched any deade bodye, and purifye both your selues and your prisoners the thyrde daye and the seuenth. And spraynle all your raymentes and all that is made of skynnes and all worke of goates heare, and all thynges made of wood.

And Eleazar the priest sayde vnto the men of warre, whiche came from the battayle: this is the ordynance of the lawe whiche the Lorde commaunded Moses, golde, syluer, brasse, and yron, tynne, and leade, and all that maye abyde the fyre, ye shall make it goo thorow the fyre, and it shall be cleane. Auert the se, it shall be spraynled with spraynyng water. And all that suffereth not the fyre: ye shall make go thorow the water. And washe your clothes the seuenth daye, and ye shall be cleane.

And afterwarde come into the host. And the Lorde

Loide spake vnto Moyses, sayinge: take þe same of the prapre that was taken both of the women and of cattel. thou and Eleazar the p̄ste, and the auncient fathers of the congregacyon. And be- ynde it into two partes betwene them that toke the warre vpon them, and went out to battayle and all the congregacyon. And take a porcyon vnto the Loide of the me of warre, which wente out to battayle: one soule of fyue hundred, both of the women, and of the oren, and of the asses, and of the shepe: and ye shal take it of the half and geue it vnto Eleazar the p̄ste, as an heu- offeringe of the Loide.

And of the halfe of the chyldren of Israell, thou shalt take one porcyon of fyfte, of the we- men, of the oren, of the asses, and of þe shepe, and of all maner of beastes: and geue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayte vpon the habitation of the Loide. And Moyses and Eleazar the p̄ste dyd as the Loide commaunded Moyses. And the boye, and the prapre whiche the men of warre had caughte, was fyue hundred thousande, and lxxv. thousande shepe, and lxxii. thousande oren lxi. thousande asses: and xxxii. thousande soules of women, that had lye by no man. And the halfe whiche was the parte of them that wente out to warre was thre hundred thousande: and seven and chylty thousand & fyue hundred shepe. And the Loides parte of the shepe was fyue hun- dred and lxxv. And the oren were xxxvi. thou- sande, of whiche the Loides parte was lxxii.

And the asses were xxx. thousande and fyue hundred, of whiche the Loides parte was lxi. And the soules of women were xvi. thousande, of whiche the Loides parte was xxxii. soules. And Moyses gaue that summe whiche was the Loides heuofferinge, vnto Eleazar the p̄ste as the Loide commaunded Moyses. And the o- ther halfe of the chyldren of Israell whiche Mo- ses separated from the men of warre, (that is to wete the halfe that pertayned vnto the congre- gacyon) was thre hundred thousand, and xxxvi. thousande and fyue hundred shepe: and xxxvi. thousande oren: and xxx. thousande asses, and fyue hundred and xvi. thousande soules of we- men. And Moyses toke of thys halfe that pertay- ned vnto the chyldren of Israell, one porcyon of fyfte, bothe of the women and of the cattell, and gaue them vnto the Leuites, whiche wayted v- pon the habitation of the Loide, as the Loide commaunded Moyses. And the officers of thou- sandes of the hoste, the captaynes ouer the thou- sandes, and the captaynes ouer the hundredes came forth, and sayde vnto Moyses: Thy ser- uantes haue taken the sum of the men of warre whiche are vnder our auctorite, and there lacke not one man of vs.

We haue therfore broughte a present vnto the Loide whos enymer man founde of iewelles of golde, cheynes, byacelletes, rynges, care rynges, and spangelles, to make an attonement for oure soules befoze the Loide. And Moyses and Eleazar toke the golde of them, iewelles of all manerfashyons. And all the golde of the heu- offeringe that they heurd vnto the Loide, (of the captaynes ouer thousandes and hundredes) was fyfene thousande seven hundred and fyftep- pycles, for the men of warre had spoyled, euerye man for hym selfe. And Moyses and Eleazar the p̄ste, toke the golde of the captaynes ouer the thousandes, and of the captaynes ouer the hun- dreds, and broughte it in to the Tabernacle of wytnesse, for a memoriail of the chyldren of Is- rael befoze the Loide.

The xxxii. Chapter.

To Nun and Gan and to halfe the trybe of Ma- naſſer, is promysed the possession beyonde the Jordan.

The chyldren of Ruben, and the chy- lden of Gad had an exceeding great multitude of cattel. And when they sawe the lande of Jazer, and flande of Gilead, that it was an apte place for cattell, the chyldren of Ruben and the chy- lden of Gad came and spake vnto Moyses and Eleazar the p̄ste, and vnto the Loides of the congregacyon, sayinge: The lande of Ataroth and Dibon Jazer, and Remuab, Herdon and E- lealeh, Gabam and Bebo and Beon: whiche countrey the Loide smote befoze the congre- gacyon of Israell: is a lande mete for cattell, and we thy seruantes haue cattel: wherfore (sayd they) if we haue founde grace in thy syghte, let thys lande be geuen vnto thy seruantes to possesse, and bypge vs not ouer Jordan.

And Moyses sayde vnto the chyldren of Gad and of Ruben: Shall poure brydren go to warre and ye shall sytte here? Wherfore dyscoyagye ye the parte of the chyldren of Israell: y they shulde not go ouer into the lande, which the Loide hath geuen them? Thus dyd poure fathers when I sente them from Cades Barne to se the lande. For when they wente vp euen vnto the ryuer of Escoll, and sawe the lande: they dyscoyaged the hartes of the chyldren of Israell, that they shulde not goo into the lande, whiche the Loide hath geuen them.

And the Loide was wrothe the same tyme, and swaere, sayinge: None of the men that cam oute of Egypte from twente yere olde and a- boue, shall se the lande whiche I swaere vnto A- braham, Isahar, and Jacob, because they haue not wholpe folowed me: saue Caleb the sonne of Iephune the Kenesye, and Josua the sonne of Nun: for they haue folowed the Loide. And the Loide was angrie wyth Israell, and made them wander in the wyldeynesse fortye yere, vntyll all the generacyon that had done euill in the syghte of the Loide were consumed.

And beholde, ye are rylen vp in your fathers stede, as an encrease of synful men, to augment the fcare wrache of the Loide, towards Israell. For if ye turne away fro after hym, he wyll yet agayne leaue the people in the wyldeynesse, and ye shall destroye all thys folke. And they wente nere hym and sayde: we wyll buyde thepe fol- des here for our shepe and for our cattell, for we are wyltyes for oure chyldren. But we oute selues wyl go ready armed befoze the chyldren of Is- rael, vntyll we haue broughte the vnto their place.

And

And oure chyldren (and what to euer we maye haue) shall dwell in the fenced ctyes, because of the inhabytors of the lande. We wyll not retorne vnto our houses, vntyl the chyldren of Israel haue inheretted, euerie man hys inherytaunce. After they wyll we inheret with them on yonder syde Iordan forwarde, because oure inherytaunce is fallen to vs on this syde Iordan eastwarde.

And Moses sayde vnto them: yf ye wyll do this thynge, and go harnessed before the Lorde to warre, and wyll go all of you in harnesse ouer Jordan before the Lorde, vntyl ye haue caste oute hys enemyes before hym: and vntyl y lande be subdued before the Lorde, then ye shall retorne and be wythout synne before the Lorde, and before Israell: and this lande shalbe your possession before the Lorde. But and yf ye wyll not do so, beholde: ye haue synned agaynst the Lorde: be sure your synne wyll fynde you out.

Nowe therfore, buyde ctyes for your chyldren, and foldes for your shepe, and doo that ye haue spoken. The chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben spake vnto Moses, sayinge: thy seruantes wyll do as my Lorde commaundeth. Our chyldren, our wyues, our shepe, and our cattell shall remayne here in the ctyes of Silead, Yosa. iiii. 2 But * thy seruantes wyll goo all harnessed to warre, and vnto battayle before the Lorde, as my Lorde sayeth. And for theyr lokes Moses commaunded Eleazar the Priest, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the aunciente fathers of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel: * Moses sayde vnto them: yf the chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben wyll go wyth you ouer Jordan, all prepared to fight before the Lorde, then whil the lande is subdued before you, ye shall geue them the lande of Silead to possesse: but and yf they wyll not go ouer with you in harnesse, they shall haue theyr possessions amonge you in the lande of Canaan.

And the chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Ruben answered, sayinge: as the Lorde hath sayde vnto thy seruantes, so wyll we doo.

Yosa. xii. 2 * We wyll goo harnessed before the Lorde into the lande of Canaan: that the possession of oure inherytaunce maye be on this syde Jordan. And Moses gaue vnto the chyldren of Gad, and to the chyldren of Ruben, * vnto halfe the trybe of Manasse the sonne of Joseph, the kyngdome of Sehon kyng of the Amozites, and the kyngdome of Og: kyng of Basan, the lande wyth the ctyes therof in the costes and Ctyes of the countrey rounde aboute. And the chyldren of Gad buyt Dibon, and Ataroth, and Aroer, and Arctoth, Shophan, Jaaser, and Jegabea, Bethnimea, and Betharan, fenced Ctyes, and they buyt foldes for the shepe.

And the chyldren of Ruben buyt hesbon, Erilah, Kirpatham, Arbo, Baall, Yeon, and turned theyr names, and Sebamia also: * gaue other names vnto the ctyes whiche they buyted. And the chyldren of Machir: the sonne of Manasse went to Silad, * toke it and put oute the Amozites that dwelte therein. And Moses gaue Silead vnto Machir the sonne of Manasse, and he dwelt therein. And * Jaser the sonne of Manasse went to toke the small townes therof, and called them Manoth Jais. And Robab wet and toke Kenath, and the townes liggng thereto and called it Robab, after hys owne name.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

The Iourneys of Israel are numbes: they are commaunded to helpe the Canaanites.

These are the Iourneys of the chyldren of Israel, whiche went out of y land of Egypt wyth theyr armyes vnder the bande of Moses and Aaron. And Moses wrote theyr going out by theyr Iourneys accordyng to the commaundment of the Lorde: euen these are the Iourneys of theyr goinge out. They departed from Rameses the fyftene daie of the fyfthe moneth, on the morowe after * Passouer: and the chyldren of Israel went out with an hye bande in y sight of all the Egyptians. For the Egyptians buryed all theyr fyfthe boie, whiche the Lorde had smytten amonge them. And vpon theyr goddes also the Lorde dyd excecucion.

And the chyldren of Israel remoued from Rameses, and pitched in Socoth. And they departed fro * Socoth, and pitched theyr tentes in Etban, whiche is in the edge of the wyldernesse. And they remoued from Etban, and turned agayne vnto * Bihiroth whiche is before Baalzerphon: and pitched before Migdoll. And they departed from the playne of Egipt: and * wente thowoe the myddes of the see into the wyldernesse, and went thei dayes Iourney in the wyldernesse of Etban, and pitched in Marah. And they remoued from Marah, and came vnto * Elim, where were twelue fountayns of water, and .lxx. palme trees, and they pitched there.

And they remoued from Elim, and laye fast by the red see. And they remoued from the red see, and laye in the * wyldernesse of Sin. And they toke theyr Iourney out of the wyldernesse of Sin, and set vp theyr tentes in Daphsa. And they departed from Daphsa and laye in Alus. And they remoued from Alus, and laye at * Raphedim, where was no water for the people to drynke. And they departed from Raphedim, and pitched in the * wyldernesse of Sinai.

And they remoued from the deserte of Sinai, and pitched at the * graues of Iust. And they departed from the sepulchres of Iust, and laye at * Hazeroth. And they departed from Hazeroth, and pitched in Rithma. And departed from Rithma, and pitched at Rimon Paraz. And they departed from Rimon Paraz, and pitched in Libna. And they remoued from Libna, and pitched at Rifa. And they Iourneyed from Rifa, and pitched at Rehelatha. And they wente from Rehelatha, and pitched in mounte Saphar. And they remoued from mounte Saphar, and laye in harada. And they remoued from harada, and pitched in Maheloth. And they remoued from Maheloth, and laye at Tabath. And they departed from Tabath, * pitched at Tharath. And they remoued from Tharath, * pitched in Mirza. And they went fro Mirza, and and pitched in Halmona. And they departed fro Halmona, & laye at Moseroth. And they departed from Moseroth and pitched at Bane Jahan. And they remoued from Bane Jahan, & laye at Hozgadgad. And they went from Hozgadgad & pitched in Jathbartha. And they remoued from Jathbartha, and lay at Abzona. And they departed from Abzona, and lay at Ezeon gaber. And they remoued from Ezeon gaber, and pitched in the * wylbernesse of Sin, whych is Cades.

And they remoued from Cades, and pitched in mount Hoz, whych is in the edge of the lande of Edom. * And Aaron the Preiste wente by in to mounte Hoz at the commaundemente of the Lozde, and dyed there, euen in the fourtyeth yere after the chyldren of Israel were come out of the lande of Egypte, and in the fyfth day of the fyfth moneth. And Aaron was an hundred and. xxiii. yere olde when he dyed in mount Hoz. And kynge Arad the Cananyte, whych dwelt in the south of the lande of Canaan, hearde of the commyng of the chyldren of Israel.

And they departed from mounte * Hoz, and pitched in zalinona. And they departed from zalinona, and pitched in Phunon. And they departed from Phunon, and pitched in Oboth. And they departed from Oboth, and pitched in Jgchabarim, and towarde the border of Moab. And they departed from * Jgim, and pitched in Dibon Gad. And they remoued from Dibon Gad, and laye in Almon Diblathaim. And they remoued from Almon Diblathaim, and pitched in the mountaynes of Abarim before Raba. And they departed from the mountaynes of Abarim, and pitched in the feldes of Moab, faste by Jordan: ouer a gappe Jericho. And they pitched by Jordan, frome Beth Haisimoth * vnto the playne of Sittim in the feldes of Moab.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moles in the feldes of Moab, by Jordan ouer agaynst Jericho saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them: * when ye are come ouer Jordan to entre into the lande of Canaan, ye shall dyue out all the inhabytters of the lande before you, and destrope all theyr pyctures, and breake a sunder all theyr pimages of metall, and plucke downe all theyr aultars. And possesse the lande and dwel therein, for I haue geuen you the lande to enioye it. And ye shall deuyde the enherytaunce of the lande by lot amonge your kynredes, * and geue to many, the more enherytaunce and to the fewer the lesse enherytaunce. And your enherytaunce shalbe in the trybes of your fathers, euerye mans enherytaunce in the place where hys lot falleth. * But and yf ye wyl not dyue out the inhabytters of the land before you, then those whych ye let remayne of them, shalbe pycked in youre eyes, and darted in youre sydes, and shall vex you in the lande wherein ye dwell. Whereouer, it wyl come to passe, that I will do vnto you, as I thought to do vnto the.

The. xxxiii. Chapter.

The cosen and boshers of the lande of promyse. Cosen men are assigned to deuyde the lande.

And the Lozde spake vnto Moles, A saying: commaunde the chyldren of Israel, and saye vnto them, when ye come into the lande of Canaan, this is the lande that shall fall vnto your enherytaunce, the lande of Canaan wth her coastes. * And your southquarter shalbe fro the wylbernesse of Sin: a longe by the coaste of Edom, so that your southquarter reache vpon the syde of the salte see eastwarde: and set a compassse from the southe by to Icrabim: and reache to zinna. And go out from the southe to Cades Barne, and go out also to hazar Adar, and goo alonge to Azimon, and set a compassse agayn fro Azimon vnto the ryuer of Egypte, and shall goo oute at the see.

And let your westquarter be the greete see. B let the same see be your westcoste. And this shal be your northquarter: ye shal compassse your border from the greete see vnto mounte Hoz. And from mount Hoz, ye shall descrybe your border, tyll it come vnto Hemath, & the ende of the coste shalbe at zebada, and the coost shal reache out to ziphon, and goo oute at hazar Enan. This shal be your northquarter.

And ye shal compassse your eastquarter from hazerenan to Sephan. And the coaste shal go downe from Sephan to Ribla on the east syde of Ain. And the same border shal descende and goo out at the syde of the see of Cenereth eastwarde. And then go downe alonge by Jordan, and leane at the salte see. And this shalbe your lande with the coastes therof rounde about.

And Moles commaunded the chyldren of Israel, saying: this is the lande whiche ye shal inherit by lot, and whych the Lozde commaunded to gyue vnto your tribes and an halfe: * for the trybe of the chyldren of Ruben, accordyng to the householdes of their fathers, and the trybe of the chyldren of Gad, accordyng to theyr fathers householdes, and halfe the trybe of Manasse, haue receyued theyr enheritaunce: two tribes & an half haue receyued theyr enheritaunce on the other syde of Jordan, ouer agaynst Jericho eastward. And the Lozde spake to Moles, saying: these are the names of the men whiche shall deuide the land vnto you: Eleazar the prest, & Josua the sonne of Nun. And ye shall take also a lozde of euerye trybe when ye deuyde the lande. The names of the men are these: Of the trybe of Juda, Caleb the sonne of Iephune. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Simcon, Semuel the sone of Amud. Of the trybe of Ben Jamin, Elidad: the sonne of Cisson. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Dan, the lozde Bucki, the sonne of Jagli.

From amonge the chyldren of Joseph for the trybe of the chyldren of Manasse, the lozde Maniel, the sonne of Ephod. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Ephraim, the lozde Camuel, the son Sephtan. Of the trybe of the sonnes of Zabud, the lozde Elzaphan: the sonne of Parache. Of the trybe of the chyldren of Issachar, the lozde Paltiel: the sonne of Man. Of the trybe of the sonnes of Aser, the lozde Ahihud the sonne of Salomi.

h.iii. Of the

Of the trybe of the chyldren of Reubehall, the lord Bebael, the sonne of Ammihud. These are they whome the Lorde commaunded to burye the enheritaunce vnto the chyldren of Israel in the lande of Canaan.

The xxx. Chapter.

Isa. xli.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses in the feildes of Moab by Jordai, ouer agaynst Jericho, saying: commaund the chyldren of Israel, & they shal come vnto the Levites of p enheritaunce of theyr possession, & ctyes to dwell in. And ye shall give also vnto the ctyes of the Levites, suburbs harde by theyr ctyes rounde aboute them. The ctyes whiche they haue to dwell in, and the suburbs for theyr cattell, and for theyr possession and all maner of bestes of theyr. And the suburbs of the ctyes whiche ye shall give vnto the Levites, shall reache from the wall of the cite outwarde, a thousande cubites rounde about. And ye shall mea sure without the ctye of the east syde, two thousande cubites. And of the south syde, two thousande cubites. And of the west syde two thousande cubites. And of the north syde two thousande cubites also: and the cite shall be in the myddes. And these shall be the suburbs of theyr ctyes.

Isa. xli.

And from amonge the ctyes which ye shall give vnto the Levites, & there shall be syxe ctyes for refuge, whiche ye shall appoynt to that entent, that he whiche killeth, may fflye thither. And to them ye shall adde, xlii. cities mo: so that all the ctyes whiche ye shall give the Levites, may be. xlii. with theyr suburbs. And the ctyes whiche ye shall give, shall be out of the possession of the chyldre of Israel. They that haue many, shall give many. But of them that haue fewe, ye shall take fewe. Euen one shall give of his ctyes vnto the Levites, accordyng to the enheritaunce whiche he enheriteth. And the Lorde spake vnto Moyses, saying: speake vnto the chyldren of Israel, and say vnto them: when ye be come ouer Jordane into the lande of Canaan, ye shall appoynte you ctyes to be ctyes of refuge, for you: that he whiche sleeth a soule vnwares, maye fflye thither. And the ctye shall be to fflye from the auenger of blood, that he whiche killeth, dye not, vntyll he stande before the congregation in iudgement.

Isa. xli.*

And of these syxe free ctyes whiche ye shall give, ye shall give thre on this syde Jordane, and thre in the lande of Canaan. And these syxe free ctyes shall be a refuge bothe for the chyldren of Israel, and for the stranger, and for hym that dwelleth amonge you, that all they whiche kyll any person vnwares, maye fflye thither.

And if any man smyte another with an instrument of iron that he dye, then is he a murderer, and shall dye for it. If he smyte hym with a throwyng stone that a man may dye with, and if he dye, he that smote hym is a murderer, let the same murderer be slayne therfore. Or if he smyte hym with a handewapon of wood that a man dye with: then if he dye, he is a murderer, let the murderer be slayne therfore.

The Justyce of blood shall slaye the murderer: when he meteth hym, he may slay hym. But if he thrust at hym & of hate, or hurle at hym with laying of wayte, that he dye, or smyte hym with hande of enuye, that he dye, he that smote hym shall dye, for he is a murderer. The Justyce of blood shall slepe the murderer as soone as he fyndeth hym.

But and if he pushed hym by chaunce, and not of hate, or cast at hym with anye maner of thyng, and not of laying of wayte: or cast any maner of stone at hym (that a man may dye with) and save hym not. And he cast it upon hym and he dye, and was not his enemye, neyther sought hym anye harme. Then the congregation shall iudge betwene the sleper and the executer of blood in such cases. And the congregation shall deliuer the sleper out of the hande of the auenger of blood, and the congregation shall restore hym agayne vnto the ctye of his refuge, whither he was fled.

And he shall hyde there vnto the deathe of the hye priest, whiche was anoynted with holy oyle. But and if the sleper come withoute the borders of his principled ctye whither he was fledde, yf the auenger of blood fynde hym without the borders of his free towne, and slepe the murderer, he shall be gylelesse, because he shoulde haue hydden in his free towne, vntyll the deathe of the hye priest, and after the deathe of the hye priest: to retorne agayne vnto the lande of his possession.

These Commandementes shall be a lawe vnto you, for your generacions in all your dwellynge. Whoso euer killeth a soule, the same manslayer muste be slayne hym selfe, thorow & wytnesses. Neither shall one wytnesse aunswere to put a man to deathe. Moreouer ye shall take none amendes for the lyfe of the murderer, whiche is worthe to dye: But he shall be put to deathe.

Also ye shall take no monye of hym that is fledde to a free ctye, that he shoulde come agayne, and dwell in the lande, before the deathe of the hye priest. And se that ye pollute not the lande whiche ye shall dwell in: for blood defyleth the lande. And the lande can none otherwyse be clenfed of the blood that is shedde therein, but by the blood of hym that shedde blood. Defyle not therfore the lande whiche ye shall inhabit, for I am in the myddes thereof: Euen I the Lorde dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel.

And the auncient fathers of the chyld of Gilead, the sonne of Machir the son of Manasse, of the kynrede of the chyldre of Ioseph came forth & spake before Moyses, & the prynces and auncient fathers of the chyldren of Israel and and sayde: * The Lorde commaunded my lorde to gyue the lande to enheryte by lot to the chyldren of Israel. And my lorde commaunded in Gods behalfe, to gyue the enheritaunce of * zelaphead our brother vnto hys donghters. whō pf any of the sonnes of the other tribes of Israel take to wyues, then shall they enheritaunce be taken from the enheritaunce of our fathers, and shall be put vnto the enheritaunce of the trybe whych they are receyued into: and shall be taken from the lotte of our enheritaunce. And when the pere of Iubyle of the chyldren of Israel commeth, then shall they enheritaunce be put vnto the enheritaunce of the trybe wherein to they are receyued: and so shall they enheritaunce be taken awaye from the enheritaunce of the trybe of our fathers.

And Moses commaunded the chyldren of Israel, accordynge to the worde of the Lorde, saying: the chyldren of the trybe of Joseph haue sayde well. This therfore doth the Lorde commaunde the donghters of zelaphead, saying: * let them be wyues, to whome they them selfe thynke best, onelye to the kynrede and trybe of they father: shall they mary, so shall not the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Israel remoue fro trybe to trybe, when the chyldren of Israel abyde every man in the enheritaunce of the trybe of hys fathers.

And every donghter that possesseth any enheritaunce in any trybe of the chyldren of Israel, shall be wyfe vnto one whiche is of the kynrede of the trybe of her father, that the chyldren of Israel maye enioye euerye man the enheritaunce of hys father. Neyther ought the enheritaunce to goo from one trybe to an other: but every one of the trybes of the chyldren of Israel must abyde in hys owne enheritaunce.

And as the Lorde commaunded Moses: euen so dydde the donghters of zelaphead. And Mahela, Thirza, Hagla, Milcha, & Noa were maryed vnto they fathers brothers sonnes, whiche were of the kynredde of the chyldren of Manasses: the sonne of Joseph, and so they enheritaunce remaryed in the trybe of the kynred of they father.

These are the commaundementes and lawes whiche the Lorde commaunded by the hande of Moses, vnto the chyldren of Israel in the felde of Moab: by Jordane ouer agaynst Jericho.

The fyfth booke of Moses, called in the hebrue Elledab-debarim, and in the Latyn, Deuteronomium.

The fyfth Chapter.

A booke repeatall of thynges done before.

These be the wordes which Moses spake vnto all Israel, on the other syde Jordan in the wyl-bernesse: in the playne ouer agaynst the red see, betwene Pharaam and Chophel, Laban, Harerot, & Disahab, eleuen dayes iourney fro Horeb vnto Cades barne, by mount Seir. And it fortuned the fyfthe daye of the eleuenth moneth in the .xl. pere that Moses spake vnto the chyldren of Israel accordynge vnto all that the Lorde had gyuen him in comaundement vnto them, after that he had syncten * Syhon the kynge of the Amoytes which dwelt in hesoon, and Og kynge of Basan, which dwelt at Ashtaroth in Edrai. On the other syde Jordan in the lande of Moab beganne Moses to declare thys lawe, saying: the Lorde our God spake vnto vs in Horeb, saying: ye haue dwelt longe ynough in this mount, departe therfore and take poure iourney, and go vnto the hyll of the Amoytes, and vnto all places nye therunto: both vnto the playne and hylls and dales: to the south, to the sees syde, to the lande of Canaan, and vnto Libanon: euen vnto the great ryuer Euphrates.

Beholde, I haue set that lande befoze you: go in and * possesse the lande whiche the Lorde swaie vnto your fathers Abrahā, Isahac, and Jacob, to gyue vnto them and they seed after them. And I spake vnto you the same season, saying: I am not able to beare you my selfe alone. For the Lorde your God hath multiplyed you: and beholde, ye are this daye as the starres of heuen in nombze (the Lorde God of your fathers make you a thousand tymes so many mo as ye ar, & blesse you, as he hath promysed you) how can * I my self alone beare the subzaunce, charge and tryfe that is amonge you / byynge (from amonge you) men of wylidome and of vnderstandynge, and experre, accordynge to poure trybes, and I wyl make them rulers ouer you.

And ye answered me and sayde: that whych thou hast spoken is good for vs to do. And so out of your trybes I toke the captaynes, (men of wylidome: and that were experre) and made them rulers ouer you, captaynes ouer thousand.

h. iii

des, and

des and ouer hundredes, ouer fyfty, and ouer x. and offycers amonge your trybes.

C And I charged your Iudges that same tyme, sayinge: heare the cause of youre brythen, and iudge ryghtously betwene euery man and his brother, and the stranger that is wth hym. So that ye knowe no fautes in iudgement: * but heare the small as well as the greates, and be a frayde of no man, for the iudgement is Gods. And the cause that is to * harde for you, bypynge vnto me, and I wyll heare it. And I commaunded you the same season, all the thynges whiche ye shulde do. And when we departed from Horeb, we wente thowwe all that greates and terrible wilderness, as ye haue sene alonge by the way of the hyll of the Amozites, as I Lord our God commaunded vs, and came to Cadis barne.

D And I sayde vnto you: Ye are come vnto the hyll of the Amozites, whiche the Lord our God wyl gyue vnto vs. Beholde, the Lord thy God hath let the lande before the: go vp and conquer it, as the Lord God of thy fathers hath sayde vnto the: * feare not, neither be discoraged. But ye came vnto me euery one and sayde: we wyl sende men before vs, to seache vs out the lande and to bypynge vs worde agayne, what way we must go vp by, and vnto what cytyes we shall come. And the sayinge pleased me well, and I toke twelue men of you, of euery trybe one.

Which departed, and went vp into the hye cost trey, and came vnto the ryuer Escol, & seached it out, and toke of the frute of the lande: <sup>(to declare the plentifulnesse thereof)</sup> in theyr handes, and brought it vnto vs, and brought vs worde agayne, and sayde: it is a good lande, whiche the Lord our God doth gyue vs.

E Notwithstandyng, ye wolde not consent to go vp, but were disobedient vnto the mouth of the Lord your God, and murmured in your tentes, and sayd: because the Lord hated vs, therfore hath he brought vs oute of the lande of Egypte, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amozites, and to destroye vs. how shall we go vp? Our brythen haue discoraged our hertes, sayinge: * the people is greater and taller then we, and haue cyties great and walled, enen vnto beaues, and moreover we haue sene the sonnes of the Enakims there. And I sayde vnto you: bryde not, nor be afrayd of the. The Lord your God whiche goeth before you, he shal fyght for you, accordyng to all that he byd vnto you in Egypte before your eyes. In the wilderness also thou hast sene howe that the Lord thy God bare the, enen as a man doth beare his sonne in all the waye whiche ye haue gone by, vntill ye came vnto this place. And yet in this thyng ye byd not beleeue the Lord your God. he went in the waye before you, to seache you out a place to pitch your tentes in, & in fyre by nyght, & ye myght se what way to go, & in a cloude by day.

And the Lord hearde the voyce of your woordes, and was wroth, and sware, sayinge: * there shall not one of these of this forward generation, se the good lande whiche I sware to gyue vnto youre fathers, save Caleb the son of

Jephune, he shall see it, and to hym wyl I gyue the lande that he hath troden vpon, and to hyr chyldren, because he hath folowed the Lord:

F The Lord was angry with me, lyke wise for your sakes, sayinge: thou shalt not go in thither. But Iosua the sonne of Nun whych stanneth before the, shall go in thither. Golden him therefore, for he shall cause Israel to inheret the lande. * Moreover, your chyldren which ye said shulde be a pray, and your sonnes which in that day had no knowledge betwene good and euyl, they shall goo in thither, and vnto them wyl I gyue it, and they shal enioye it. But as for you: turne your faces, and take your iourneys into the wilderness: enen by the waye of the red see. Then ye answered & sayde vnto me: * We haue sinned agaynst the Lord: we wyl go vp, and fyghte, accordyng to all that the Lord our God commaunded vs.

And when ye had gyde on euery man bys weapons of warre, beholde, ye were redy to go vnto the hyll. And the Lord sayde vnto me: saye vnto them that they go not vp, & that they fyght not, for I am not amonge you: lest ye fall before your enemyes. I tolde you therefore, and ye wolde not heare, but disobeyed the mouth of the Lord, and went presumptuously vp into the hyll. And the Amozites whiche dwelt in that hyll came out agaynst you, and chased you (as bees vse to do) and smot you in Seir, enen vnto Horeb. And ye came agayne, and wepte before the Lord: but I Lord wolde not heare your voyce, nor gyue you audience. * And so ye abode in Cadis a longe season, accordyng vnto the tyme ye remayned in other places.

Chapter.

G he we * turned our face, and toke our iourney into the wilderness, enen by the waye of the redde see, as the Lord spake vnto me. And we compassed mount Seir a longe tyme. And the Lord spake vnto me, sayinge: Ye haue compassed this mountayne longe ynough, turne you northwarde. And warne thou the people, sayinge: ye shall go thowwe the coast of your brythen the chyldren of Esau whiche dwell in Seir, and they shall be afrayde of you: Take ye good heed vnto youre selues therefore. Ye shal not prouoke them, for I wyl not gyue you of theyr land, no nor so much as a fote brydd. * because I haue gyuen mount Seir vnto Esau to possesse, ye shal bye meat of them for money to eate, and ye shal procure water of them for money to drynke. For the Lord thy God hath blessed the in all thy workes of thy hande. he knewe thy entrynge into this great wilderness this fourtye yeres, and I Lord thy God hath be with the, so that thou hast lacked nothyng. And when we were departed from our brythen the chyldren of Esau whiche dwell in Seir, the playne way from Elath, and from Eyon Gaber, we turned and went by the way of the wilderness of Moab. And the Lord sayd vnto unto me: * Thou shalt not fyght agaynst the Moabites, neyther prouoke them to batell, for I wyl not geue the of the lande to possesse, because I haue geuen it vnto þe children of Loth to possesse. The terrible people the * Emims dwelt therein in tymes past, a people great, many and tall, as the Enakims, whiche also were taken for gyautes as the Enakims: whom the Moabites call Emims. The Horims dwelt in Seir before tyme, whose possession the chyldren of Esau occupied, and destroyed them before them, and dwelt in the lande: as Israel byde vnto the lande of hys possession, whiche the Lozde gaue them.

C Nowe tyme by sayde I and get you ouer the ryuer zared: and we went ouer the ryuer zared. The space in which we came from Eades barne vntill we were come ouer the ryuer zared was: xxxviij. yerres, vntill all the generacyon of the men of warre were wasted out from among the hoste, as the Lozde sware vnto them. * For in dede the hande of the Lozde was agaynst them, to destroy them from among the hoste, tyl they were consumed. And so it came to passe, that all the men of war were consumed and deade from amonge the people. And the Lozde spake vnto me, saying: Thou shalt go thowowe. At the cost of Moab thys daye: and when thou comest nye vnto the chyldren of Ammon, thou shalt not lay sege vnto them, nor moue warre agaynst them.

D For I wyl not geue the of the lande of the chyldren of Ammon a possession: but I haue geuen it vnto the chyldren of Loth to possesse. That also is taken for a lande of gyautes, and gyautes dwelt therein in olde tyme whom the Ammonites call zanzumims. * A people that was great, many and tall, as the Enakims.

But the Lozde destroyed them before them, and they succeeded them in the inheritaunce & dwelt in the lande: as he byd for þe chyldren of Esau which dwelt in Seir, when he destroyed þe Horims before them: they conquered they: possession, and dwelt in the lande vnto thys daye. And the Ruims which dwelt in hazarim euen vnto Aza, the Capthozims which came out of Capthoz destroyed them & dwelt in their stead.

E Kysle vnto the ryuer Arnon. Beholde, * I haue geuen into thy hande Sehon þe Amozite kyng of helbon, and his lande. So to therfoze and conquer, and prouoke hym to batell. Thys daye wyl I begynne to send the feare and drede of the, vpon all nacjons that are vnder all the heuen: so that they whiche here speake of the shal tremble and quake before þe. And so I sent messengers out of the wyldernes of Iardemoth vnto Sehon kyng of helbon, with wordes of peace, sayinge: * I wyl go thowowe thy lande I wyl go alonge by the hye waye: I wyl neyther turne vnto þe right hande nor to the lefte. Thou shalt sell me meate for money for to eat, and geue me water for money for to drynke: Only graunt me, that I may go thowowe on my fote (as the chyldren of Esau whiche dwelt in Seir, and the Moabites which dwelt in Ar, byd vnto me) vntill I be come ouer Jordan, into the lande whiche the Lozde oure God geueth vs. But Sehon the kyng of helbon wolde not let vs passe by hym, for the Lozde thy God hardened his spete, and made his heare tough, because he wolde deliuer hym into thy hande, as it is come to passe thys daye.

And the Lozde sayde vnto me: beholde, I haue begonne to set Sehon and his land before the: go to and conquer, and possesse hys lande. * Then both Sehon and all his people came out agaynst vs to fyght at Iaze. And the Lozde set hym before vs, and we smote hym, and his sons and all hys people. And we toke all hys ctyes, the same ceason and slewe the men, women, and chyldren of all the ctyes, & let nothing remayne, save the catell only we caught vnto our selues, and the spoyle of the ctyes which we toke from Aror which is by the bynke of the ryuer of Arnon, and from the ctye that is in the ryuer, vnto Gilead: there was not one ctye so strong for vs. The Lozde our God deliuered all vnto vs. only vnto the land of the chyldren of Ammō thou camst not, nor vnto euery place of the ryuer Jabbok, nor vnto the ctyes in the mountaynes, nor vnto whatsoeuer the Lozde oure God forbad vs.

The iij. Chapter.

E Thynges & chaunges from the upstart of the two kyns Sehon and Og vnto the destruction of Iacob in the lande.

Ihen we turned & wylt by the way to Basan. * And Og the kyng of Basan came out agaynst vs, he and all his people to batell at Edrai. And þe Lozde sayd vnto me: feare hym not, for I wyl deliuer hym, and all hys people, and his lande into thy hande, and thou shalt do vnto hym, as thou dydest vnto Sehon kyng of the Amozites, whiche dwelt at helbon. And so the Lozde oure God deliuered into our handes, Og also the kyng of Basan and all his folke. And we smote hym, vntill none was left him alue. And he toke all his ctyes the same ceason: neyther was there a ctye which we toke not from them: euen the scoze ctyes thowowe out all the regyon of Argob, the kyngdome of Og in Basan. All these ctyes also were made stronge wth hye walles, gates and barres, besyde vnwalled townes a grete many. And we utterly destroyed them, as we byd vnto Sehon kyng of helbon, byngynge to noughte all the ctyes, wth men, women, and chyldre. But all the catell and the spoyle of þe ctyes, we caught for our selues.

And thus we toke the same ceason, out of the hande of two kynges of the Amozites, the lande that was on the other syde Jordan from the ryuer of Arnon vnto mount Hermon (which Hermon the Sidoncal Sirion, and the Amozites call it Senir) all the ctyes that laye in þe playne and all Gilead and all Basan vnto Salecha & Edrai, ctyes of the kyngdome of Og in Basan. For onely Og kyng of Basan remayned of the remnaunte of þe gyautes, whose bed was a bed of yron. And is it not yett at Rabah amonge the chyldren of Ammon: ix. cubytes dothe þe length ther of conteyne, and foure cubites the bredth of it after the cubite of a m. And so we conquered this lande the same tyme, from Arer whychis by the ryuer of Arnon, vnto halfe mount Gilead, and the cities therof gaue I vnto the Rubenites and Gaddites. And the rest of Gilead, and all Basan of the kyngdome of Og, gaue I vnto the halfe tribe of Manasse: euen all the region of Argob with all Basan: which is called the lande of giants. Jair the sonne of Manasse toke all the region of Argob, vnto the coles of Geshuri and Maachati, and called them after his owne name: Basan haueyth Jair vnto this daye. And I gaue Gilead vnto Machir.

And vnto the Rubenites & Gaddites I gaue halfe Gilead vnto the ryuer of Arnon, halfe the valey and beyond, euen vnto the ryuer Iabock, whych is the border of the chyldren of Amyn: the playne also (of the wyldernesse) and Jordan & the coast therof, from Eneroth euen vnto the see whiche is in the playne, euen the salt see vnder the springes of the byll, eastwarde. * And I commaunded you the same tyme sayinge: the Lorde your God hath geuen you this lande to enioye it: ye shal go harnessed before your brethren the chyldren of Israel al that are mete for the war. Your wyues onely, your chyldren, and your cattell (for I wrote that ye haue muche cattell) shal abyde in your cities, whiche I haue geuen you, vntyll the Lorde haue geuen rest vnto your brethren as well as vnto you, and vntyll they also haue conquered the lande, which the Lorde your God hath geuen them beyonde Jordan: and the shal ye retourne agayne, euerpe man vnto his possession whiche I haue geuen you.

And I warned Iosua the same tyme, saying: thyne eyes haue sene al that the Lorde your God hath done vnto these two kynges, euen so shal he do vnto all kyngdoms whither thou goest. Ye shall not feare them, for the Lorde your God, he shall fyght for you. And I besought the Lorde the same tyme, saying: O Lorde God, I haue begonne to shewe thy seruauent thy greatnesse and thy myghty hande, for elles where is there a God in heuen or in earth, that can do after thy wyshes, and after thy power: let me go ouer and se the good lande that is beyonde Jordan that goodly mountayne, and Libanon.

But the Lorde was angrie wth me for your sake, and wolde not heare me. And the Lorde sayd vnto me: be content, speake nomore vnto me of this matter. * Set the vp into the top of the byll, and lyfte vp thyne eyes westwarde, northwarde, southwarde, and eastwarde, and behold it with thyne eyes, for thou shalt not go ouer this Jordan. But charge Iosua: and courage hym, and bolden hym. * For he shall go before this people, and he shall deupe vnto them the lande whiche thou shalt se. And so we abode in the valley ouer agaynst the house of Deoz.

The. iij. Chapter.

As exhortation to geue by: agaynst hebe vnto the lawe. Images may not be made to worship. The this copies of refuge.

Ad nowe herken O Israel vnto the ordinaunces and lawes whiche I teache you for to do them, that so ye maye lyue and go in and conquer the lande, whych the Lorde God of your fathers geueth you. * Ye shall put nothynge vnto the word whych I commaund you, neyther do oughte therefrom, that ye maye kepe the commaundmentes of the Lorde your God whiche I commaunde you. Your eyes haue sene what the Lorde dyd vnto Baal Deoz: for all the men that folowed Baal Deoz, the Lorde your God hath destroyed from amonge you.

But ye that cleaue vnto the Lorde your God, at anye tyme one of you this day. Behold, I haue taught you ordinaunces and lawes, such as the Lorde my God commaunded me, that ye shoulde do euen so in the lande, whither ye go to possesse it. Kepe them therfore and do them, for that is your wysdome and vnderstandyng in the syght of the nacions: that they maye heare all thes ordinaunces, and saye: Surely it is a wyse and vnderstandyng people: it is a great nacyon.

For what other nacyon is so great, that God des come so nye vnto: as the Lorde our God is nye vnto vs, in all thynges: as ofte as we call vnto him. Ye and what nacyon is so great, that hath ordinaunces and lawes so ryghteous, as all this lawe whiche I set before you this daye. * Take hede to thy selfe therfore, & kepe thy soule diligently, that ye forget not the thynges which thyne eyes haue sene, and that they departe not out of thyne herte, all the dayes of thy lyfe: but teache them thy sonnes and thy sonnes sonnes. Specially the daye that thou stodest before the Lorde thy God in Horeb, when the Lorde sayde vnto me: gather me the people together, & I will make them heare my wordes, that they maye learne to feare me al the dayes that they shall lyue vpon the earth: and that they maye teach theyr chyldren: ye came: and stode also vnder the byll and the byll burnt with fyre: euen vnto the myddes of heuen, and there was darknesse, cloudes and myst. And the Lorde spake vnto you out of the myddes of the fyre, and ye heard the voyce of the wordes: but sawe no Image, saue heard a voyce onely. And he declared vnto you his couenaunt which he commaunded you to do, euen ten verles which he wrote vpon two tables of stone. And the Lorde commaunded me that same reason, that I shoulde teache you ordinaunces and lawes, whych ye ought to do in the lande whither ye go to possesse it.

Take therfore good hede vnto your selues, as pertainyng vnto your soules, for ye sawe no maner of ymage in the day that the Lorde spake vnto you in Horeb out of the myddes of the fyre: lest ye make your selues and make you a graue ymage and picture of any maner of fygure: the lykenesse of man or woman, the lykenesse of any maner of beast that is on earth, or the lykenesse of any maner fethered soule that flyeth in the ayre: or the lykenesse of any maner wyrm that creepeth on the earth, or the lykenesse of any maner fyre that is in the waters beneth the earth.

* Ye and lest thou lyfte vp thyne eyes vnto heuen, and when thou seest the lone the mone and starres with all the hoste of heauen, shouldest be decepted, and shouldest worshyp & serue the thynges, ges, whiche the Lorde thy God hath made to serue all nacjons vnder the whole heauen.

But the Lorde hath taken you and brought you out of the pson soynace: euen out of Egypte to be vnto hym a people and inheritaunce as he hath sayde. Furthermore, the Lorde was angrie with me for your wordes, and swore that I shulde not go ouer Iordane, and that I shuld not go in vnto that good lande, whiche the Lorde thy God geueth thee to inheritaunce. * But I must dye in this lande, and shal not go ouer Iordane. But ye shall go ouer, & conquer that good lande. Take heed vnto your selues, that ye forget not the appointment of the Lorde your God which he made with you, and that ye make you no graue ymage, nor any picture that the Lorde thy God hath forbydden the: For the Lorde thy God is a consuming fyre, and a gelous God.

If thou dost beget chyldren and chyldrens chyldren, and when ye haue dwelt in the lande, ye do wickedly, and make any maner of grauen ymage & worke euell in the syght of the Lorde thy God, to prouoke hym to angrie, I call heauen and earth to recorde agaynst you this daye, that ye shal shoute perperlye from of the lande, whither ye go ouer Iordane to possesse it: ye shal not prolonge your dayes therein, but shal vnterly be destroyed. And the Lorde shall scatter you amonge the nations, and ye shal be left fewe in nombre amonge the people, whither the Lorde shal bring you: and there ye shall serue goddes whiche are the worke of mans hand, wood and stone, whiche neyther se, nor heare, nor eate, nor smell. And there thou shalt see the Lorde thy God: and shalt fynd him, & thou shalt see hym with all thine herte, and with all thy soule. When thou arte in tribulation, & when all these thynges (that be here spoken of) are come vpon thee, euen in the later dayes, & shalt retourne agayne to the Lorde thy God, and be obedyent vnto his voyce. For the Lorde thy God is a mercifull God: he wyl not forsake thee, neither destroye thee: nor forget the appointment of thy fathers, whiche he swore vnto them.

For aske of the dayes that are past, whiche were before thee, sence the daye that God created man vpon the earth, and (aske) fro the onelyde of heauen vnto the other, yf euer there came to passe suche a great thyng, or whether any suche lyke thyng hath bene hearde. Wyl euer a nacjon heare the voyce of God speakynge out of the myddes of a fyre, as thou hast heard, and yet lyued? yf euer wheter God assayed to go & take hym a people from amonge nacjons thow we temptacions, spgnes, wonders, warre, a myghty hande, a stretched out arme, & thow we geat syghtes, accordyng vnto al that the Lorde your God byd vnto you in Egypt before your eyes?

Vnto the it was shewed, that thou mightest knowe, howe that the Lorde he is God, and that there is none other but he. Out of heauen he made the heare his voyce, that he myght nourture the, & vpon earth he shewed the his great fyre, and thou heardest his voyce out of the myddes of fyre. And because he loued thy fathers, he chose they: seer after them, and broughte the out in his syght, and with hym myghty power out of Egypt: to thrust out nacjons great and myghty then thou, before thee, & to bringe the in, and to gyue the they: lande to inheritaunce: as it is come to passe this daye.

Understande therfore this daye, and tourne it into thine harte, that the Lorde, he is God in heuen aboue, and vpon the earth beneath: neither is there any other. Thou shalt kepe therfore his ordynances, and his commaundementes whiche I commaund the this daye, that it may go well with the and with thy chyldren after the, & that thou mayst prolonge thy dayes vpon the erth, whiche the Lorde thy God geueth thee thy lyfe longe. * Then Moyses seuered thre cyties on the other syde Iordane toward the sonne rysynge: he shoulde lye theyther, whiche had kyled hym neygbboure vnto wares, & hated hym not in tyme past, & therfore shuld lye vnto one of the same cyties, and lye: Namely Bezer in the wyldernes: euen in the playne countrey of the trybe of Ruben, & Ramoth in Gilead of the trybe of Gad and Golan in Basan of the trybe of Manasse.

And so this is the lawe which Moyses set before the chyldren of Israel. These are the wyntnesses, statutes, and ordynances, which Moyses tolde the chyldren of Israel after they came out of Egypte, on the other syde Iordane, in the valley ouer agaynst the house of Deor, in the lande of Sehon kyng of the Amozites whiche dwell at Hesdon: whom Moyses and the chyldren of Israel smote, after they were come out of Egypt and conquered hym lande, and the lande of Og, kyng of Basan, two kynges of the Amozites, whiche were on the other syde Iordane toward the sonne rysynge: from Aroer whiche is by the banke of the ryuer Arnon, vnto mount Syon: whiche is Hermon, and all the playne on the other syde Iordane eastward, eue vnto yser, which is in the playne vnder the springes of the dyll.

The v. Chapter.

The ten commaundementes.

As Moyses called all Israel, & sayde vnto them. Heare O Israel the ordynances & lawes whiche I speake in your eares this daye, that ye may learne them, and fulfill them in dede. The Lorde our God made an appoyntment w vs in Horeb. The Lorde made not this bonde with oure fathers, but with vs: euen with vs, whiche are all here alvye this daye. The Lorde talked with you face to face in the mount, out of the myds of the fyre. And I stood betwene the Lorde and you the same tyme, & shewed you the worde of the Lorde. For ye were afrayde at the syght of the fyre, & went not vp into the mount, and he sayde: * I am the Lorde thy God, which broughte the out of the lande of Egypt from the house of bondage. Thou shalt haue none other goddes in my presence.

* Thou shalt make the no grauen ymage of any maner of lykenesse that is in heuen aboue, & that is in the earth beneath, and that is in the waters beneath the earth. Thou shalt neyther haue thy thy self vnto them, nor serue them, for I & Lord thy God, am a gelouse God, visyting the wyckednesse of the fathers vpon the chyldren, euen in the thyrde and fourth generacion amonge the that hate me: and shewe mercy vpon thousandes amonge them that loue me, and kepe my Commandementes.

Exod. xxi. 1. * Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vayne: for I Lord will not holde hym guiltlesse, that taketh his name in vayne. Exod. xx. 8. Kepe the Sabbath day, that thou canst thyse it, as the Lord thy God hath commaunded the. * Wyse dayes thou shalt labour and do all that thou hast to do, but the seventh daye is the Sabbath of the Lord thy God: thou shalt not do any worke, thou and thy sonne, thy daughter, thy seruaunt, and thy mayde, thyne ore and thyne asse, and all thy catel, and the straunger that is within thy gates, that thy seruaunt and thy mayde maye reste as well as thou. Remember that thou wast a seruaunt in the lande of Egypt and howe that the Lord thy God broughte the out thence thowowe: a myghty hande & a stretched out arme. For whiche cause the Lord thy God commaunded the to kepe the Sabbath daye.

Exod. xxi. 1. * Honour thy father and thy mother, as the Lord thy God hath commaunded the: that thy dayes maye be prolonged, and that it maye goe well with the in the lande, whiche the Lord thy God geueth the.

Exod. xxi. 1. * Thou shalt not slay. Exod. xx. 13. * Thou shalt not breake wedlocke. Exod. xx. 15. * Thou shalt not steale. Exod. xx. 16. * Thou shalt not beare false wytnesse agaynst thy neyghbour.

Exod. xx. 17. * Thou shalt not lust after thy neyghbours wyfe, & shalt not couet thy neyghbours house, his feld, his seruaunt, or his mayde, his oxe, his asse, or ought that thy neyghboure hath. These wordes the Lord spake vnto al your multytude in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, cloud and darkenesse, with a greate voyce, and added nomore thereto, and wrote them in two tables of stone, and deliuered them vnto me.

Exod. xxxiv. 1. And it fortuned, & when ye heard the voyce oute of the myddes of the darkenesse, and sawe, that the hyll dyd burne with fyre, ye came vnto me with the captaynes of your trybes and your elders, and ye sayde: beholde, the Lord our God hath shewed vs his glozy and his greatnes, and we haue hearde his voyce out of the myddes of the fyre: we haue sene this daye that God dothe talke with a man, and he yet lyueth. Howe therefore, why shulde we dye for this great fyre shulde consume vs? If we heare the voyce of the Lord our God any more, we shall dye. For what flesh hath it bene, that euer hearde the voyce of the lynyng God speakyng oute of the myddes of the fyre (as we haue done) and yet did lyue? So thou and heare all that the Lord our God sayth, and tell thou vnto vs al that the Lord our God sayth vnto the: and we wyl heare it and do it.

Exod. xxxiv. 2. And the Lord heard the voyce of your wordes, when ye spake vnto me, and the Lord sayd vnto me: I haue hearde the voyce of the wordes of this people, which they haue spoken vnto the they haue well sayde all that they haue spoken. * Whiche cause the Lord thy God commaunded the to kepe the Sabbath daye. * Turne not asyde epyther to the ryght hand or to the lefte, but walke in all the wayes whiche the Lord thy God hath commaunded you, that ye maye lyue, and that it maye goe well with you, and that ye maye prolonge your dayes in the lande whiche ye shall possesse.

The vi. Chapter.

Deut. v. 1. These are the commaundementes, or dynaunces, and lawes, whiche the Lord your God commaunded me to teache you, that ye myght do the in the lande: whither ye go to possesse it: namely, that thou myghtest feare the Lord thy God, and kepe all his dynaunces, and commaundementes whiche I commaunde the: thou and thy sonne, and thy sonnes sonne al dayes of thy lyfe, that thy dayes maye be prolonged. Heare therefore, O Israel, and take heed that thou do thereafter, that it may goe well with the, and that ye maye encrease mightely, euen as the Lord God of thy fathers hath promysed the a lande, that floweth with mylke and hony.

* Heare O Israel, the Lord our God is Lord onely, and thou shalt loue the Lord thy God with all thyne harte, and with al thy soule, and with all thy myght. And these wordes whiche I commaund the this day, shalbe in thyne harte and thou shalt shewe them vnto thy chyldren, & shalt talke of them when thou arte at home in thyne house, and as thou walkest by the waye, and when thou lyest downe, and when thou ryst vp: and thou shalt bynde them for a sygne vpon thyne hande. And they shalbe warnynges betwene thyne eyes, and thou shalt wyte them vpon the postes of thy house, & vpon thy gates.

And when the Lord thy God hath brought the into the lande, whiche he swaue vnto thy fathers, Abraham Isahac, and Jacob, and geueth the, grete and goodly ctytes whiche thou buildest not, houses ful of al maner of goodes whiche thou fyllest not, and wels dygged whiche thou diggest not, vineyardes and olyue trees whiche thou plantedst not, and when thou hast eaten and arte full: Then beware lest thou forget the Lord, whiche brought the oute of the lande of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

* Thou shalt feare the Lord thy God, and serue hym, and sweare by his name. So that ye walke not after straunge goddes: the goddes of the nacjons whiche are aboute you. For I Lord thy God is a gelouse God amonge you: lest the countenaunce of the Lord thy God be moued to wrath with the agaynste the, and destroye the forme of the earthe. ¶ Ye shall not tempte the Lorde your God, as ye dyd in the temptacyon. But kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde your God, and his wytnesses and his ordynaunces: wherby he hath commaunded the, and thou shalt doo that which is ryghte and good in the syght of the Lorde: that thou mayst prosper, and that thou mayst go in, and conquere that good lande wherby the Lorde swaue vnto thy fathers, to caste oute all thyne enemyes before the as the Lorde hath sayde.

¶ And when thy sonne asketh the in tyme to come, sayinge: What meaneth these wytnesses, ordynaunces, and lawes, whiche the Lorde our God hath commaunded you? Then thou shalt say vnto thy sonne: We were Pharaos bondmen in Egypt, and the Lorde brought vs out of Egypt with a myghty hande. And the Lorde shewed signes and wonders great & euell vpon Egypt vpon Pharaos and vpon all his household, before oure eyes, but broughte vs oute from thence: to brynge vs in, and to geue vs the lande which he swaue vnto our fathers. And the Lorde hath commaunded vs, to do all these ordynaunces, and to feare the Lorde our God, for oure weith all the dayes of our lyfe, as it is come to passe this day. Moreover, thys shall be our ryghteousnesse before the Lorde our God, if we take heed & kepe all these commaundementes, as he hath commaunded vs.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

¶ The Israelites maye make no covenants with the Gentiles: they must destroye theyr gods. Idolaters must be slayne.

When the Lorde thy God hath brought the into the lande whither thou goest to possesse it, and hath caste oute many nacions before the: namely the Hethtites, the Gergesites, the Amorites, the Cananites, the Hittites, the Hivites, the Jebusites, seven nacions greater and myghtier then thou, * and when the Lorde thy God hath set them before the, & shalt smyte them, and utterly destroye them, and make no covenant with them, nor haue compassion on the: Thou shalt make no marriages with them, neyther geue thy daughter vnto his sonne, nor take his daughter vnto thy sonne. For they wyl defecue thy sonne that he shalbe not feare me, and they shall serue strange goddes, and then wyl the wrath of the Lorde be ware whote agaynst you and destroye you shortly.

But thus ye shal deale with them: * Ye shal ouerthrowe theyr altars, & brake downe their pylers, cut downe theyr groves, and burne their grauen ymages with fyre. * For thou arte an holy nacyon vnto the Lorde thy God: the Lorde thy God hath chesen the, to be a sennall people vnto hym selfe, aboue all nacions that are vpon the earth. It was not because of the multitude of you aboue all nacions, that the Lorde had luff vnto you and chose you, for ye were fewest of all nacions. But because the Lorde loued you and because he wolde kepe the * othe wherby he had sworn vnto your fathers, therefore hath the Lorde broughte you oute thowse a myghty hand and deliuered you oute of the house of bondage:

from the hande of Pharaos kynge of Egypt.

Understande therefore, the Lorde thy God he is God, and that a trewe God: which kepeth appoyntment and increpe vnto them that loue hym and kepe his commaundementes, euen thowse oute a thousande generacyons, and rewarde them that hate hym before his face, so that he bryngeth them to naught, and doth not deface the tyme, but rewarde them that hate hym, before his face. Kepe thou therefore the commaundementes, and ordynaunces and lawes, wherby I commaunde the this daye that thou do them.

¶ If ye herken vnto these lawes, and obserue and do them, the Lorde thy God also shall kepe vnto the the apoyntment, and the mercy which he swaue vnto thy fathers. He wyl loue the, and blesse the, and multiplie the: he wyl also blesse the frute of thy wombe, and the frute of thy land thy corne, thy wyne, and thyne oyle, and the increase of thine oren, and the flockes of thy shepe in the lande, wherby he swaue vnto thy fathers to geue the. Thou shalt be blessed vnto all nacions: there shall be nether man nor woman vnfertill amonge you, nor any thyng vnfertill amonge your cattell. Moreover, the Lorde wyl take awaye from the all maner infirmities, and wyl put none of the euell dyseases of Egypt (wherby thou knowest) vpon the, but wyl sende them vpon all them that hate the.

Thou shalt consume all nacions wherby the Lorde thy God shall deliuer the: thyne eye shall haue no pitye vpon them, neyther shalt thou serue theyr gods, for that shall be thy decaye. If thou saye in thyne harte: these nacions are mo then I howe can I caste them oute? * Thou shalt not feare them, but remember what the Lorde thy God dyd vnto Pharaos and vnto all Egypt: the greates temptacyons wherby thyne eyes sawe, & the signes and wonders, and the myghty hand and stretched out arme, wherby thowse the Lorde thy God broughte the oute, euen so shall the Lorde thy God do vnto all the nacions, of whom thou arte afrayde. * Moreover, the Lorde thy God wyl sende hoznettes amonge them vntill they that are left, and hyde them selues from the, be destroyed. Thou shalt not feare them, for the Lorde thy God is amonge you a myghty God: and a terrible. For the Lorde thy God wyl put out these nacions before the by a lytle and a lytle: thou mayst not consume them at once, lest the beastes of the felde increase vpon the.

But the Lorde thy God shall geue them ouer before the, and shall destroye them wyth a myghty tempeste, vntill he haue broughte them to nought. * And he shal deliuer their kynnes in to thyne hande, and thou shalt destroye theyr name from vnder heauen. There shall no man be able to stande before the, vntill thou haue destroyed them. The grauen ymages of theyr goddes shalt thou burne wyth fyre and couer not the golde & syluer that is on them, nor take it vnto the, lest thou be snared therin. For it is an abhominacyon before the Lorde thy God. Brynge not therefore abhominacyon in to thyne house: lest thou be a damned thyng, as it is: but utterly utterly desire it: addo: it, for it is adained this.

The viii. Chapter.

Chapiter porteth the scriptures in remembrance what God hath done to them in the wilderness.

ALl the commandementes whiche I commaunde the this daye, that ye kepe for to do them: ye maye lyue: and multiplie & go in, and possesse the lande whiche the Lorde swate vnto your fathers. And thou shalt thinke on al the waye whiche the Lorde thy God led the thy foyrte yere in the wilderness, for to humble the and to proue the, and to wete what was in thine herte, whether thou woldest kepe his commandementes or no. He * humbled the, and suffered the to hunger, and fed the with Manna, whiche neyther thou nor thy fathers knewe of, to make the to knowe, for a man doth not lyue by bread onely: but by euerye word that proceedeth oute of the mouth of the Lorde, doth a man lyue.

Deu. xxi. a * Thy rayement waxed not olde vpon the: neyther dyd thy shoe swell those foyrte yeres.

BThis also shalt thou consider in thine herte that as a man nurtereth his son, euen so the Lorde thy God nourtereth the. Therfore shalt thou kepe the commandementes of the Lorde thy God: that thou walke in his wayes, and feare hym. For the Lorde thy God bringeth the into a good lande, a lande in the whiche are ryuers of water and fountaynes and springes that springe out of valleys and hilles: a lande wherein is wheate and barley, vnyeyardes, figgetrees, and pomgranates: a lande wherein is oyle olue and honey: a lande wherein thou shalt eate bread wout scarce nes, neyther shalt thou lacke any thyng: a lande whose stones are piron, and oute of whose hilles thou shalt digge brasse. When thou hast eaten therfore and fylled thy self, thou shalt blesse the Lorde thy God in that good lande, which he hath geuen the.

CBeware that thou forget not the Lorde thy God, that thou woldest not kepe his commandementes, his lawes & his ordynances whiche I commaunde the this daye: * yee, and when thou haste eaten and fylled thy selfe, and haste buylte goodly houses and dwelt therein, and when thy bestes, and thy shepe are waxed many, and thy syluer and golde is multiplied, and all that thou haste is encreased, then beware lest thine herte ryle and thou forget the Lorde thy God, whiche broughte the out of the lande of Egypte, & from the house of bondage, and which was thy guide in the greates and terrible wilderness (wherein were) fyrre serpentes, scorpions, and droughte: without any water. But he brought out water for the, euen out of the roche of synte: he fed the in the wilderness with Manna, whiche thy fathers knewe not, euen for to humble the, and to proue the, and that he myght so doo the good at thy latter ende. Lest thou shouldest saye in thine herte: my power and the myghte of myne owne hande hath prepared me this aboundance: But remember the Lorde thy God, howe that it is he whiche geueth the power to get the substance for to make good the promise whiche he swate

1. Cor. xii. b vnto thy fathers, as this daye both wytnesse. And yf thou forget the Lorde thy God, and walke after strange & goddes, and serue them, and worshyp the, I tell the vnto you this daye: ye shall surely perishe. As the nacions which the Lorde destroyeth before you, euen so ye shall perishe because ye wolde not be obedyente vnto the voyce of the Lorde your God.

The ix. Chapter.

They are forbidden to trust in theyr owne strength.

Care O Israell, thou passest ouer Jordan this daye, to go in, and conquer nacions greater and myghtier then thy selfe: Cities greates and walled vnto heuyl, a people great and tall, euen the chyldren of Enakims, which thou knowest of, and of whom thou hast heard saye, who wyl stande before the chyldren of Sannacher. Understande therfore this daye, that the Lorde thy God is euen he whiche goeth ouer before the as a man (troumper and) a consuminge fyre: he shall destroye them and he shall bringe them downe before thy face. He shall cast them out and bringe them to nought quickly, as the Lorde hath sayde vnto the. Speake not thou in thine herte (after that the Lorde thy God hath caste them out before the) sayinge: for my ryghteousnesse the Lorde hath broughte me in, to possesse this lande. Saye: but for the wychednesse of these nacions the Lorde hath caste them out before the. It is not for thy ryghteousnesse sake, or for thy ryghte herte, that thou goest to possesse thes lande. * But for the wychednesse of these nacions, the Lorde thy God doth cast them out before the, euen to persourne the worde whiche the Lorde thy God swate vnto thy fathers, Abraham, Isahar, and Jacob.

Understande therfore, that it is not for thy ryghteousnesse sake, that the Lorde thy God doeth geue the this good lande to possesse it, saying thou arte a spynerched people. Remember, and forget not, howe thou prouokedst the Lorde thy God in the wilderness, sence the daye that thou dydest departe out of the lande of Egypt vntil ye came vnto this place: ye haue rebelled against the Lorde. * Also in Horeb ye angered the Lorde so that the Lorde was wroth with you: euen to haue destroyed you, when I was gone by in to the mounte, to receaue the tables of stone, the tables of appoyntement, whiche the Lorde made with you. And I abode in the hyl foyrte dayes and foyrte nyghtes, when I neither dyd eat bread nor drinke water. * And the Lorde deliuered me two tables of stone, wyrtten wyth the synge of God, and in them was accordyng to all the wordes whiche the Lorde sayde vnto you in the mounte out of the myddest of the fyre in the daye of the gatheringe together.

And when the foyrte dayes and foyrte nyghtes were ended, the Lorde gaue me two tables of stone, the tables of the couenaunt and the Lorde sayde vnto me. * Up, and get the downe quicklye from hence, for the people whiche thou haste broughte out of Egypte, haue marred all.

They are turned at once out of the waye, which I com.

I commaunde them, and haue made them a molten ymage. Furthermoze, the Lorde spake vnto me, saying: I haue sene this people, and beholde it is a stiffnecked people, let me alone, that I may destroye them, and put out the name of them fro vnder heauen, and I wyll make of the a myghty nacyon: and greater then they be.

And I turned me, and came downe from the hyll (euen from the hyll that burnte with fyre) the two tables of the appoyntment were in my handes. And I loked, and beholde: ye had synned agaynst the Lorde your God, and had made you a molten calfe, and had turned attonce out of the waye whiche the Lorde had commaunded you: And I toke the two tables and cast them oute of my two handes, and brake them befoze your eyes. And I fell downe flatte befoze the Lorde: euen as at the fyfthe tyme, forty dayes, and forty nyghtes I dyd nether eate breade nor drynke water, because of all your synnes, which ye synned: in doyng wyckedly in the syghte of the Lorde in that ye prouoked hym vnto wrath.

For I was afrayd that for the wrath and fearnesse wherwith the Lorde was moued agaynst you he wolde haue destroyed you. But the Lorde heard me at that tyme also.

The Lorde was very angry with Aaron also euen to haue destroyed him, & I made intercessyon for Aaron also the same tyme. And I toke your synne: the calfe wherby ye had made, and burnt him with fyre, and stamped him & grounde hym a good, euen vnto small duste. And I caste the duste thereof in to the brooke, that descended oute of the mounte. Also at the burnynge at the sepulchres of luste ye angered the Lorde, lyke wyse when the Lorde sente you from Cades Barne, saying: go vp, and conquer the lande whiche I haue geuen you: ye disobeyed the mouthe of the Lorde your God, and nether beleued hym, nor harkened vnto his voyce. Ye haue bene disobedient vnto the Lorde, hence the daye that I lene we you.

And I fell downe flat befoze the Lorde forty dayes and forty nyghtes which I laye there for the Lorde sayde, that he wolde destroye you. I made intercessyon therfoze vnto the Lorde, & sayde: O Lorde God, destroye not thy people and thyne inheritaunce, wherby thou hast beleuethed thow we thy greatnesse and whiche thou hast brought out of Egypte thow we a myghty hand. Remember thy seruantes Abraham Ihabat, and Jacob, and loke not to the stubbornnesse of this people, nor to theyr wyphednes and sinne: lest the lande whences thou broughtest the saye: The Lorde is not able to byngne them in to the lande wherby he promysed them: and because he hated them, therfoze hath he carryed the oute, to shewe them in the wilderness. Beholde, they are thy people, & thyne inheritaunce which thou broughtest oute in thy myghty power and in thy stretched oute arme.

The .x. Chapter.

The remouage of the tables. An exhortacion to gentes to the lawe.

At the same reason the Lorde sayd vnto me, & he we the two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyfthe, and come vp vnto me into the mounte, and make the an arke of wood, and I wyll wyte in the tables, the wordes that were in the fyfthe tables whiche thou brakest, and thou shalt put the in the arke. And I made an arke of sethe wood, and brewed two tables of stone lyke vnto the fyfthe, and went vp into the mountaine, haniug the two tables in myne hande.

And he wrote in the tables: accordyng to the fyfthe wytyng (the ten verses wherby the Lorde spake vnto you in the mount out of the myddes of the fyre, in the daye of the gatheringe together) and the Lorde gaue them vnto me. And I departed, and came downe from the hyll, and put the tables in the arke whiche I had made: & there they be, as the Lorde commaunded me.

And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourney from Bereth of the chyldren of Jakan to Mosera, where Aaron dyed, and was buryed, and Eleazar his sonne became breast in his steade. From thence they departed vnto Sadgad: and from Sadgad to Jathbath a lande whiche hath ryuers of water. The same reason the Lorde separated the tribe of Leui to beare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde, and to stande befoze the Lorde, and to minystrer vnto hym, & to blesse in his name vnto this daye. Wherfoze the Leuites haue no parte nor inheritaunce with their brethren. But the Lorde is theyr inheritaunce as the Lorde thy God hath promysed them.

And I taried in the mount, euen as at the fyfthe tyme forty dayes and forty nyghtes, and the Lorde herkened vnto me at that tyme also, and the Lorde wolde not destroye the. And the Lorde sayde vnto me: vp, and go forth in the iourneys befoze the people, that they maye go in and conquer the lande whiche I swaie vnto theyr fathers, to geue vnto the. And nowe Israel, what doeth the Lorde thy God requyre of the: but to feare the Lorde thy God, and to walke in all his wayes, to loue hym, and to serue the Lorde thy God with all thyne harte and with all thy soule. Namely, that thou kepe the commaundementes of the Lorde, and his ordynaunces whiche I commaunde the this daye, for thy wele.

Beholde, heauen and the heauen of heauens is the Lordes thy God, and the earth with all that therein is: Not withstandyng, the Lorde had a lust vnto thy fathers to loue them, & chose theyr sede after them, euen you, aboue all nacjons, as thou seest this daye.

Circumple therfoze the foresayn of your herte: and be no more stiffnecked: For the Lorde your God, is God of goddes, and Lorde of lordes, a great God a myghty & a terrible which regardeth no mans personne nor taketh gyfte. he doth ryght vnto the fatherlesse and wydow and loweth the straunger, to geue hym fede and rayment. Loue ye therfoze the straunger also: for ye were straungers your selues in the lande of Egypte. Thou shalt feare the Lorde thy God, and hym (only) shalt thou serue, to hym shalt shalte thou cleue, and sweare by hys name: he is thy pryncle and thy God, that hath done for the people greates and terrible thynges, whiche thyne eyes haue sene. Thy fathers wente downe into Egypt: with lxx. soules, and nowe the Lozde thy God hath made the and multiplied the, as the starres of heauen.

Can any man say that he hath kept the lawe.

Therfore, thou shalte loue the Lozde thy God and kepe his obseruances, his ordynances, his lawes, and hys commandementes alwaie. Call to poure mynde this daye that whiche your chyldren haue neuer knowne nor sene: euen the nurtour of the Lozde your God, his greatnesse, his myghty hande, and hys stretched out arme, his myracles, and his actes whiche he dyd in the myddes of Egypt, euen vnto Pharaon the kynge of Egypte and vnto all his lande: & what he dyd vnto the hoste of Egypt, vnto theyr bowles and charrettes: howe he broughte the water of the red see vpon them: as they chased you beynde, and howe the Lozde hath broughte them to nought vnto this daye, and what he dyd vnto you in the wyldernesse, vntill ye came vnto this place: and what he dyd vnto * Dathan and Abiram the sonnes of Eliab the son of Ruben, howe the earth opened her mouth, & swallowed them with theyr householdes and theyr tentes, and all theyr substance that was in theyr possession, in the myddes of Israel.

Doutlesse, your eyes haue sene all the great actes of the Lozde whiche he dyd. Therfore shal ye kepe all the commandementes, whiche I commaunde you this daye, that ye maye be strange: and go in and conquer the lande whiche ye goo to possesse it, and ye maye prolonge your dayes in the lande whiche the Lozde swaue vnto your fathers, to geue vnto them and to theyr seide, a lande that floweth with mylke and honye. For the lande whither thou goest to possesse it, is not as the lande of Egypte that ye came out of, where thou sowedst thy seide: and wateredst it with thy fete as a garden of hearbes: but the lande whither ye go ouer to possesse it, is a lande that hath hylles and valleyes, and drinketh water of the raine of heauen. This lande doeth the Lozde thy God care for, and the eyes of the Lozde thy God are alwaies vpon it, from the begynnyng of the yere, vnto the ende of the yere.

If ye shall hearken therfore vnto my Commandementes, whiche I commaunde you this daye, that ye loue the Lozde your God and serue hym with all your hart, and with all your soule: I also will geue raine vnto your lande in due season: the fyrste raine and the latter, that thou mayest gather in thy corne, thy wyne, and thine oyle. And I will sende grasse in thy felde for thy catel: that thou mayest eate, and fyll thy selfe. But beware that your harte deceaue you not: ye turne asyde, and serue strange goddes, and worship them, and then the Lozde being wroth agaynst you, shall put up the heauen, that there be no raine, and that your lande pryncle not her frute and lesse ye perswade your selfe frome of the good lande, whiche the Lozde geueth you.

Therfore shall ye putte up these my wordes in your harte and in your soule, and bynd them for a sygne vpon your hande, that they maye be as a warnyng betwene your eyes, and ye shal teach them your chyldren that they maye talke of them, when thou sittest in thine house & when thou walkest by the waye: when thou lyest downe, and when thou rysest vp: yee, and thou shalt wyte them vpon the doore postes of thyne house, and vpon thy gates, that your dayes maye be multiplied, and the dayes of your chyldren in the lande whiche the Lozde swaue vnto your fathers to geue them, as long as the dayes of heauen laste vpon the earth. For if ye kepe all these commandementes, whiche I commaunde you so that ye do them: Namely, that ye loue the Lozde your God: and walke in all his wayes and cleue vnto hym. Then will the Lozde caste out all these nacyns before you, and ye shalbe the heyres of great nacyns and of them that are myghtyer then your selues. All the places whercon the soles of your fete shall treade, shalbe yours euen from the wyldernesse and from Libanon, & from the ryuer Euphrates, euen vnto the vetermost see, shall your coste be. There shall no man be able to stande before you: for the Lozde your God shall caste the feare and drece of you vpon all the lande that ye shall tread vpon, as he hath sayde vnto you.

* Beholde, I set before you this daye a blessing and a curse: a blessing: if ye obey the commandementes of the Lozde your God whiche I commaunde you this daye. And a curse: if ye will not obey the commandementes of the Lozde your God: but turne out of the waye. Whiche I commaunde you this daye, to go after strange goddes, whiche ye haue not knowne. When the Lozde thy God therfore hath broughte the in to the lande, whither thou goest to possesse it, thou shalt put the blessing vpon mount Garizim, and the curse vpon mount Ebal, whiche (mountaynes) are on the other syde Jordan on the backe syde of the waye towarde the goppyng downe of the summe, in the lande of the Canaanites whiche dwell in the playne ouer agaynst Gilgal besyde the groue of Aboz. For ye shal passe ouer Jordan, to go in, and possesse the lande, whiche the Lozde your God geueth you, & ye shall conquer it, and dwell therein. Take heede therfore that ye doo all the commandementes and lawes, whiche I sette before you this daye.

Ye shall destroye all places wher in the nacyns whiche ye shall conquer serued theyr goddes, vpon the mountayns, on hylles, and vnder euerye thyeke tree. Overthrowe theyr altars, and breake theyr pylles and and burne they: groues wth fyre, and he wth downe p<sup>r</sup> grauen p<sup>r</sup>images of the goddes that they haue, and byng the names of them to nought out of that place. Pe shal not so do vnto the Lord your God, but ye shal seke the place which the Lord your God shal haue chosen out of all your trybes, to put his name there, and there to dwell.

And thither thou shalt come, and thither ye shal bynge your burnt sacrifices, your offerin-ges, your tythes, and heue offerings of your hande, your vowes, your freewill offerings and the first gendred of your oxen & of your shepe.
And there ye shall eate before the Lord your God, and ye shall reioyce in all that ye put your hand vnto both ye and your householdes, when in the Lord thy God hath blessed the.

15 Ye shall not do after all these thynges that we do here this daye, euery man what semeth hym good in his owne eyes. For ye are not yet come to rest, & to the inheritaunce which p<sup>r</sup> Lord your God giveth you. But whē ye go ouer Iordan, and dwell in the lande which the Lord your God hath giuen you to inheret, & when he hath giuen you rest from all your enemies round about, so that ye dwell in safetie, thā vnto p<sup>r</sup> place which p<sup>r</sup> Lord your God hath chosen, to put his name there, ye shal bring al that I commaund you: Namely your burnt sacrifices, your offerings, your tythes, the heue offering of your hande, & al your special vowes which ye vow vnto the Lord. And ye shal reioyce before the Lord your God, ye and your sones & your daughters, your seruautes, and your maydens, and the Leuite p<sup>r</sup> is within your gates: forasmuch as he hath no parte nor inheritaunce with you. Take hede p<sup>r</sup> thou offere not thy burnt offerings in euery place that thou seest: but in the place which the Lord shal haue chosen in one of thy tribes, there thou shalt offer thy burnt offerings, and there thou shalt do al p<sup>r</sup> I commaund the. Notwithstanding thou mayst kyl & eat flesh in al thy cities, what soeuer thy soule lusteth after, accordynge to the blessyng of the Lord thy God which he hath ge-ue the. Both the vncleane & the cleane may eate therof, eue as the rooe, o<sup>r</sup> p<sup>r</sup> hart: only ye shal not eat p<sup>r</sup> blood, but poure it vpon p<sup>r</sup> earth as water.

Thou mayest not eat wth thy gates the tythe of thy cozne, of thy wine & of thy oyle, & the first gebred of thyne oxen, & of thy shepe, neither any of thy vowes which p<sup>r</sup> vowest, nor thy freewill-offerings o<sup>r</sup> heue offering of thyne hande: but thou must eat them before the Lord thy God, in the place which the Lord thy God hath chosen, thou and thy son, & thy daughter, thy seruaunt, and thy mayde, & the Leuite that is within thy gates, & thou shalt reioyce. (And he reuelled) before the Lord thy God, in all that thou puttest thyne hāde to. Beware, that thou forsake not the Leuit, as long as thou lyuest vpon p<sup>r</sup> earth.

Pe when the Lord thy God hath enlarged thy border & as he hath promysed the, thou say, I wyl eat flesh, because thy soule logeth to eate flesh: thou mayst eat flesh whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth. Pe the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chose to put his name there, be so far from the, then thou shalt kyl of thy oxen, and of thy shepe which the Lord hath giuen the, as I haue commaunded the, and thou shalt eate in thyne owne cytye, whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth.

And as the roo and the harte is eaten, euen so thou shalt eat them: both the cleane and the vncleane shall eate of them. But be stronge p<sup>r</sup> thou eate not the blood. For the blood, that is p<sup>r</sup> lyfe, & thou mayst not eat the lyfe with the flesh: p<sup>r</sup> thou shalt not eate it: but poure it vpon the earth as water. Se thou eat it not, that it maye go well wth the and wth thy chyldren after the. But thou shalt do that which is ryght in the syghte of the Lord. But thy holy thynges which thou hast, and thy vowes thou shalt take, and come vnto the place whiche the Lord hath chose, and thou shalt offere thy burnt offerings both flesh and blood vpo the altar of the Lord thy God, and the blood of thyne offerings shall be poured out vpon the altar of the Lord thy God, & thou shalt eate the flesh. Take hede and heare al these wordes which I commaund the, that it maye go well wth the and wth thy chyldre after the foreuer, if thou doest that which is good and ryght in the syghte of the Lord thy God.

When the Lord thy God hath destroyed the nacions before the, whither thou goest to conquere them, and p<sup>r</sup> succeedst in their inheritaunce and dwellest in theyr lande: Beware, that thou be not taken in a snare after them, after p<sup>r</sup> they be destroyed before the, and p<sup>r</sup> thou aske not after theyr goddes, saying: howe byd these nacions serue theyr goddes? I wyl do so lykewyse. Say *thou shalt not so do vnto p<sup>r</sup> Lord thy God: for all abhominacions, and that whiche the Lord hateth, p<sup>r</sup> same haue they done vnto theyr god-des: & for they burne both theyr sones and their daughters wth fyre before theyr goddes. Therfore whatsoeuer I commaund you, that take hede you do: (only, vnto the Lord) & p<sup>r</sup> put thou nought thereto, nor take ought therefrom.

the Lord thy God prometh you, to wyl whether ye loue p<sup>r</sup> lord your god wth al your hert, and wth al

And p<sup>r</sup> prophet o<sup>r</sup> dremmer of dremes shal dye because he hath spokē to turne you a waye from erh in thy bosom: or thy seede which is as thyne owne soule vnto the, entyce the secretly, saying let vs go and serue strange goddes, which thou hast not knowen, nor yet thy fathers. And they be of the goddes of the people which are rounde about you. Whether they be nye vnto the or far of from the, from the one ende of the earth vnto the other. Thou shalt not consent vnto him, nor perken vnto hym: thyne eye shall not pyrie hym, neither shalt thou haue compassion on him, nor kepe hym secretly. *but cause hym to be slayne.

Thyne harte shall be fyrst vnto hym to kyl hym, and then the handes of all the people. And thou shalt stone him with stones that be dyre, because he hath gone aboute to thurst the awaye from the Lorde thy God, which brought the oute of the lande of Egypt, and from the house of bondage. And al Israel shall heare & feare, and shall do nomoze anye suche wyche dwelle as this is amonge you. If thou shalt heare saye in one of thy ctyes which the Lorde thy God hath gyven the to dwel in, that certayne me being the chyldren of Belial are gone out from amonge you, and haue moued the inhabitants of the ctye, saying: let vs go & serue strange goddes, which ye haue not knowen. Then thou must seke, and make searche and enqurye diligentlpe. And behold, if it be true, & the chynge of a suretie, that suche abhominacion is wrought amonge you: then thou shalt Smyte the dwellers of that ctye in the edge of the swerde, and destroye it vnterly, and al that is therein, and euen the very cattell therof with the edge of the swerde. And gather all the spoyle of it into the myddes of the strete therof, & burne with fyre both the ctye & all the spoyle therof euery whyle, for the Lorde thy God. And it shall be an heape for euer, and shall not be built agayn. *And there shall cleane nought of the damned thyng in thyne hand, that thy Lorde may turne from the scarcenes of his wrath, and shewe the mercy, & haue compassion on the, and multiply þ, as he hath sworne vnto thy fathers. *Therefore shalt þ herk vnto the voyce of the Lorde thy God, to kepe al his comāndementes which I comānde the this day, that thou do it which is ryght in þ eyes of the Lorde thy God.

¶ The xiiii. Chapter.

¶ The maner of the Gentyles maye not be folowed. What beastes are cleane to be eaten, and what not.

Eare the children of the Lorde your God. *Ye shall not cut your selues, nor make you any baldnesse betwene your eyes for any deed man. *For thou arte an holpe people vnto the Lorde thy God, & the Lorde hath cholen the to be a feueral people vnto hym selfe, aboue all the nacjons that are vpon the earth.

Thou shalt *eate no maner of abhominacion. These are the beastes which ye shall eate, oxen, shepe, and gootes, hart, roo & bugle, wilde goate, vnicorne, wyld ore, and camelion. And all the beastes that cleane the hofe, and sit it in þ two clawes, and chewe the cud, them ye shall eate. Reuerthelisse, these ye shall not eate: of them that chewe cud, and of them that deuilde & cleane the hofe: the camell, the hare, & the cony: whiche chewe cud, but deuyde not the hofe: therefore are they vncleane vnto you: & also þ swyne, though he deuyde the hofe, yet he cheweth not cud, therefore is he vncleane vnto you: ye shall not eate of the flesh of suche, nor touch the deede carthasse of them. *These ye shall eate, of all that are in the waters: All that haue spynnes and scales shall ye eat. And whatsoeuer haue no spyns & scales, of þ ye shall not eate, but let it be vncleane vnto you.

Of all cleane byrdes ye shall eate: but these are they of which ye shall not eate: the Eagle, the goswarke, the cormorant, the Irtion, the vultur, the hyte, after her kynde, & all kynde of rauen, the estrich, the nyghtcrowe, the kuckowe and the sparowhawke. after her kynde, the lytle owle, the great owle, the bache, the bicture, the pye, the scoke, the heron, the iay in his kynd the lapwing, the swallowe. And let all creakyng foules be vncleane vnto you, and not be eate of: but of al cleane foules ye maye eate.

Ye shall eate of nothyng that dyeth alone: But thou shalt grue it vnto the straunger that is in the ctye, that he eate it, or thou mayest sell it vnto an aliaunt. For thou art an holy people vnto the Lorde thy God. Thou shalt not *seeth a kynd in his mothers milke. Thou shalt eate al the encrease of thy seed, that þ seide bringeth forth yere by yere. And thou shalt eate before þ Lorde thy God (in the place which he hath cholen, and where he hath put his name) the tythe of thy corne, of thy wyne, and of thyne oyle, and the first gendred of thyne oren and of thy shepe, þ thou mayest learne to feare the Lorde thy God alwaye. *If the waye be to longe for the, so that thou art not able to cary it, and if the place be far from the, which the Lorde thy God hath cholen to set his name there (and the Lorde thy God hath blessed the) thā shalt þ make it in money, and take the money in thyne hande, and go vnto þ place which the Lorde thy God hath cholen, and bestowe the money for whatsoeuer thy soule lusteth after: for orf, and shepe, wyne and strong drynke, and for whatsoeuer thy soule desireth, and eate there before the Lorde thy God, and be merce: both thou & thyne household, and the Leuite that is within thy gates, shalt thou not forsake. *For he hath neyther parte nor enheritance with the. *At the ende of thye pere thou shalt bring forth al the tythes of thyne encrease the same pere, and lay it vp within thyne owne gates: And the Leuite which hath no parte nor inheritaunce with the, shall come, & the straunger, the fatherlesse, and the wydowe, which are within thy gates, shall eate, and be fylled: that the Lorde thy God may blesse the in al the wythes of thyne hande which thou doest.

¶ The forgyuynesse of a ctye in the seventh pere.

In the vii. yeare þ shalt make a fredome. *And this is þ maner of þ fredome. Who soeuer lendeth ought to his hande vnto his neyghbour, may not aske agayn (þ which he hath lent) of his neyghbour or of his brother, by cause it is called þ Lorde's fre pere: yet of a straunger or of an aliaunt) þ mayest call it home agayne. *But

But * be that is thy brother, hym shall thynne hand remp. Reuerenceleste there shall be no begger amonge you. For the Lord shall bless the in the lande, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the, an inheritaunce to possesse it: so that thou herken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God to obserue and do al these commaundementes, whiche I commaunde the this daye. For the Lord thy God hath blessed the as he hath promysed the, and * thou shalt lende vnto many nacions, but thou thy selfe shalt not borrowe: And thou shalt rapgne ouer many nacions, & they shall not raigne ouer the. If one of thy brethren amonge you be poore win any of thy gates in thy lande, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the: thou shalt not harden thy herte, nor shut thynne hand from thy poore brother: But open thynne hand vnto him and lende hym sufficient for his neede whiche he hath. Beware that there be not a wicked popnt in thynne hert, that thou wouldest saye.

The seventh pere, the pere of freidome is at hand, and therefore it greuethe the to loke on thy poore brother, and gyuest hym nought, and he then crye vnto the Lord agaynst the, and it be synne vnto the: But gyue hym, & let it not greue thynne hert to gyue vnto hym. Because that for thy thynge, the Lord thy God shall bless the in all thy workes, and in all that thou putteste thynne hande to. * The lande shall neuer be with out poore: And therefore I commaunde the, saying: Thou shalt open thynne haube vnto thy brother that is needy and poore in thy lande.

* If thy brother an hebreue sell hym selfe to the, or an hebreue, and secue the fyve years, in the seventh pere thou shalt let hym go free from the. And when thou sendest hym out free from the, thou shalt not let hym go away empty, but shalt gyue hym of thy shepe, of thy corne, and of thy wyne, and gyue hym of that, wherewith the Lord thy God hath blessed the. And remember that thou wast a seruaut in the land of Egypt, and the Lord thy God deliuered the thence: and therefore I commaunde the this thynge todaye.

And if he saye vnto the: I wyll not go away from the, because he loueth the & thy house and is well at ease wyth the. Then shalt thou take a nault, & mayle his care to the doore there with, and let hym be thy seruaut for ever: And vnto thy maydeservante thou shalt do lyke wyse. And let it not greue thynne eye, when thou lettest hym go out free from the, for he hath ben wozech a double byed seruaut to the in bys sevyen fyve peres. And the Lord thy God shall bless the in all that thou doest.

* All the fyrste genzyed that come of thynne orf, and of thy shepe that are males, thou shalt halowe vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt do no worke with the fyrst genzyed of thynne oren, nor sheare the first genzyed of thy shepe. * Thou shalt eate it before the Lord thy God yere by yere, in the place whiche the Lord hath chosen, both for and thynne household. * If there be any deformitie therein, as if it be lame or blind, or haue any other euyl fauourdnes, thou shalt not offer it vnto the Lord thy God. But shalt eate it with thynne owne gates, & vnclene, & the cleane indifferetly, as the ro & the herte. Only eate not the blood thereof, but poure it vpon the ground as water.

The xvi. Chapter.

Of edre, whyfentye, and the feast of tabernacles, what offertes ought to be offered.

Obserue the first month of newe corne that thou maist offre & passeouer vnto the Lord thy God. For in the first month when corne begynneth to rypp, the Lord thy God brought the out of Egypt by night. Thou shalt therefore offre passeouer vnto the Lord thy God (and shepe & oren) * in the place whiche the Lord shall chole to put his name there. Thou shalt eat no leuened byed with it: but seuen dayes shalt thou eate vnleuened byed there with: euen the byed of tribulatio (for thou camest out of the land of Egypt in haste) & thou mayest remembre the day when thou camest out of the lande of Egypt, al dayes of thy lyfe. And there shall be no leuened byed sene in al thy costes seuen dayes long, nei ther shall there remayne any thynge of the flesch whiche thou offeredst the fyrst day at euen, vntyll the morning. Thou mayest not offre passeouer within any of thy gates, whiche the Lord thy God gyueth the: but in the place whiche the Lord thy God shall chole to set his name in, there shalt thou offre passeouer at euen about the goyng downe of the sunne, euen in the season that thou camest out of Egypt. And thou shalt seeth and eate it, in the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chosen, and depart on the morow, and get the vnto thy tent. Sixe dayes shalt thou eat swete byed and the seventh day is a gathering together before the Lord thy God: thou shalt do no worke therein. * Seuen weekes shalt thou nombie vnto the and begyn to nombie the vii. weekes, when thou shalt put thy shekel to the corne, & shepe the feast of weekes vnto the Lord thy God, & a free wylloffering of thynne hande, whiche thou shalt gyue vnto the Lord thy God, accordyng as the Lord thy God hath blessed the. And reioyce before the Lord thy God, & thy son, thy daughter, thy seruaut, & thy mayde, and the Leuite, & is with in thy gates, & the straunger, & fatherlesse, & the widow, & are amonge you, in the place whiche the Lord thy God hath chole to put his name there. And remembre that thou wast a seruaut in Egypt & thou shalt obserue and do these ordinaunces.

Thou shalt also obserue the feast of tabernacles. vii. dayes, after that thou shalt gathered in thy corne and thy wyne. And thou shalt reioyce in the feast: thou & thy son, thy daughter, thy seruaut and thy mayde, the Leuite, the straunger, and fatherlesse, & the widow, that are within thy gates. Seuen dayes shalt thou kepe holy day vnto the Lord thy God, in the place whiche the Lord shall chole: for the Lord thy God shall bless the in all thy frutes, & in al the workes of thynne handes, therefore shalt thou be glad. * The tymes in the pere shall al the males apere before the Lord thy God in the place whiche he shall chole: in the feast of swete byed, in the feast of weekes, and in the feast of tabernacles. And they shall not appere before the Lord empty, but every man accordyng to the

to the gyfte of his hande, and accordyng to the blessinge of the Lorde thy God, whiche he hath gyuen the. Judges and officers shalt thou make the in all thy cyties, whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the thowout thy tribes: and they shall iudge the people ryghteously. * Wyllest thou the lawe, nor knowe any person, neyther take any rewarde: for gyftes bynde the wyse, and peruerter the wordes of the ryghteous. That which is iust and ryght, shalt thou folowe, that thou mayest lyeue, and enioye the lande whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the.

Thou shalt plant the no groue, of whatsoeuer trees it be, nye vnto the altar of the Lorde thy God, whiche thou shalt make the. Thou shalt set the vp no pylle, whiche the Lorde thy God hateth.

The xviii. Chapter.

The punishment for idolatrye. The punishment of a rebel. The institution of a kynge.

Thou shalt offer vnto the Lorde thy God no oxe nor shepe: where is blemish or any deformitie, for that is an abominacion vnto the Lorde thy God. * If there be found among you when any of thy gates, whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the, ma or woma f hath wrought wyckednes in the syght of the Lorde thy God, so that they haue gone beyonde his appoyntment, and gone and serued strange goddes, and whoredommed them, * the sunne or moone, or anye of the host of heauen, whiche I haue not commaunded, and it is tolde the, and thou hast heard of it: then shalt thou enquire diligently. And if it be true, and the thyng of a suretie, that such abominacion is wrought in Israel, then shalt thou byng forth that man or woman (which haue committed that wicked thyng) vnto the gates, & shalt stone them with stones, tyll they dye. * At the mouth of two or thre wytnesses shall he that is worthy of death, dye: and at the mouth of one wytnes, let no man dye. The handes of the wytnesses shall be fyeste vpon hym, to kyll hym, and afterwarde the handes of all the people, and thou shalt put the wycked awaye from the. If there be a matter to harde for the in iudgement betwene bloode and bloode, bytwene ple and ple, bytwene plage and plage, & the matters come to streyfe within thy gates.

Then shalt thou aryse, and get the vp vnto the place whiche the Lorde thy God hath chosen, and come vnto the prestes the Leuites, and vnto f iudge that shall be in those dayes, and aske, and they shall shewe the, the sentence of iudgement, & thou must do accordyng to that whiche they of that place (whiche the Lorde hath chosen) shewe the, & thou shalt obserue to do, accordyng to all that they enforme the. Accordyng to the sentence of f lawes which they teach the, and accordyng to the iudgement which they tel the shalt thou do, and how not from that which they shewe the, neyther to the ryght hande, nor to the left. And that man that wyl do presumptuously, & wyl not harken vnto the prest (that standeth before the Lorde thy God to mynister)

or vnto the iudge, that ma shall dye, & thou shalt put away euill from Israel. And all the people shall heare they maye feare, and do nomore psumptuously. When thou art come vnto f lande whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the, & enioyest it, and dwellest therein: and yf thou shalt saye: * I wyl set a kynge ouer me: lyke as all the nacions that are about me, then thou shalt make hym kynge ouer the, whom the Lorde thy God shall chose, euen one from amonge thy brethren shalt thou make kynge ouer the, and f mayest not set a stranger ouer the, whiche is not of thy brethren. * But he shall not multiply hoyses to hym selfe, nor byng the people agayne to Egypte thowowe the multitude of hoyses, forasmuch as the Lorde hath sayd vnto you: ye shall be no more go nomore agayne that way. Also he ought not to multiply wyues to him selfe, lest his hert turne away, neyther shall he gather him: syluer & gold to moche. And when he is set vpon the seate of his kynngdome, he shall wyte hym out a copy of this lawe in a booke before the prestes the Leuites. And it shall be with hym, and he ought to reade therein * all dayes of his lyfe, that he may learne to feare the Lorde his God, & to kepe all the wordes of this lawe, and these ordinaunces, for to do them: and that his hert arise not a boue his brethren, and that he turne not from the commaundement, to the ryght hande or to the left, but that he may prolong his dayes in his kynngdome: he and his chyldren in Israel.

The xix. Chapter.

The Leuites had no possessions. Idolatrye must be fled. The prophet Chyph is promysed. The false prophet must be slayne, and how he maye be knownen.

The prestes the Leuites, and all f tribe of Leui: must haue no parte nor enberptauce with Israel: but shall eate f offer ynges of the Lorde, and hys enberptauce: Therfore shall they haue no enberptauce amonge thy brethren: but the Lorde, he is the enberptauce, as he hath sayd vnto the. And this is the prestes burde of the people, and of them that offer sacrifice, whether it be oxe or shepe: They must gyue vnto the prest, the shulder, and the two chekes, and the mawe, the fyeste frutes also of thy corne, wyne, and oyle, and the fyeste of the wolle of thy shepe shalt thou gyue hym: * for the Lorde thy God hath chosen hym out of all thy tribes, to stande and to mynister in the name of the Lorde: he and his sonnes for euer. If a Leuite come out of any of thy cyties of all Israel, where he is a sojourner, and come with al the lust of his hert vnto the place whiche the Lorde hath chosen: he shall mynister in the name of the Lorde his God, as his other brethren the Leuites do, which remaine there before the Lorde. And they shall haue lyke porcions to eate besyde that whiche cometh to hym of the patrimoine of hys elders.

* When thou art come into the lande whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the, & that f learne not to do after the abominacions of those nacions. Let there not be founde amonge you any one that maketh his son or daughter to go thowowe f fyre, or that bleseth witchcraft, or a choser out out of dayes: or that regardeth the flynge of soules, or a soxer, or a charmer, or that counselith with spirites, or a soxer, or that affeth: or (the truth) at them that be deed.

C For all that do such thynges, are abhomination vnto the Lorde, and bycause of these ab-hominacions the Lorde thy God doth cast them out before the. Thou shalt be perfecte therfore (and without blemish) in the syght of the Lorde thy God. For these nacions whych thou shalt conquer, herken vnto choosers out of dayes, and vnto soxerers: But the Lorde thy God hath not suffered the so to do. The Lorde God wyl steere vnto the a prophet amonge you: euen of thy brethren, lyke vnto me: vnto hym ye shal hearken, accordyng to all that thou desyrest of the Lorde thy God in horeb, in the day of the gatheryng together, when thou saydest: * Let me heare the voyce of my Lorde God nomore, nor se this great fyre any more, that I dye not.

D And the Lorde sayd vnto me, they haue wel spoken, I wyl raise them vp a prophete from amonge they: brethren lyke vnto the, and wyl put my wordes in his mouth, and he shal speake vnto the all that I shall commaunde hym. * And whosoener wyl not hearken vnto the wordes, whiche he shal speake in my name, I wil requyte it of hym. * But the prophete whiche shall presume to speake a worde in my name, whiche I haue not commaunded hym to speake, or that speketh in the name of straunge goddes, the same prophet shal dye. And if thou say in thyne hert, how shall we knowe the worde whiche the Lorde hath not spoken: (this token shalt thou haue) Euen when a prophet speaketh in the name of the Lorde if the thyng folowe not, nor come to passe, that is the thyng whiche the Lorde hath not spoken.
But the prophet hath spokē it presumptuously.
Thou shalt not therfore be afrayed of hym.

The xix. Chapter.

The transgreded tabernacle. The punishment of hym that beareth false witness.

When the Lorde thy God * hath rooted out the nacions, whose lande the Lorde thy God giveth the, and thou succeedest in they: enheritaunce, and dwellest in they: cy-ties, and in they: houses: thou shalt appoynte * thy cyties for the in the myddes of the lande whych the Lorde thy God giveth the to possesse.
It thou shalt prepare the waye, and deuyde the crookes of the lande, whiche the Lorde thy God giveth the to enheret, into thre partes, that who soeuer comytteth murder, maye slay thether.

* For this cause muste the slayer slay thether, that he maye lyue. Whoso killeth his neygh-bour ignorantly, & hated hym not in tyme passed: As when a man goeth vnto the wood to his neyghboure to hewe wood, (thyng he hath no harme,) and as hym hande fetcheth a stroke with the axe to cut downe the tree, the heed appereth fro the helme, and smyteth hym neyghbour that he dyeth the same shall slay vnto one of the same cyties, and lyue. Let the executer of blood folowe after the slayer while hym herte is hote, and ouertake hym, because the waye is longe: and slay hym, and yet ther is no cause worthy of death in hym, inasmuche as he hated hym not in tyme past. d.

Wherfore I commaunde the, saying: thou shalt appoynt out thre cyties for the.

And if the Lorde thy God enlarge thy coostes: as he hath the sworne vnto thy fathers: and gyue the all the lande whiche he sayde he wolde gyue vnto thy fathers, thou shalt kepe all these commandementes to do them, whiche I commaunde the this daye, that thou loue the Lorde thy God: and walke in his wayes euer, & adde thre cyties mo for the vnto those thre, that innocent blood be not shed in thy land, whiche the Lorde thy God giveth the to enheret, & so blood come vpon the. * But and if a man hate his neygh-bour, and laye wayte for hym, and ryle agaynst him, and smyte him that he dye, and then flyeth vnto any of these cyties: the elders of his cytye shal sende and fetch hym thence, & deliuer hym into the handes of the Justyce of blood, that he maye dye. Thyne eye shall not spare hym, but thou shalt put awaye innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with the. * Thou shalt not remoue thy neyghbours marke, whiche they of olde tyme haue set in thyne enheritaunce, that thou shalt enheret in the lande, whiche the Lorde thy God giveth the to enioye it.

* One wytnesse shall not ryle agaynst a man for any maner trespase, or for any maner synne, or for any maner fault, that he offendereth in.

* But at the mouth of two wytnesses or of thre wytnesses shall the matter be stablyshed. D An vnyghtous wytnesse ryle vp agaynst a mā to accuse hym of trespasse: then borde the men whiche theyrue together, shall stande before the Lorde, before the prestes and iudges, whiche shal be in those dayes, and the iudges shal make diligent inquisition. And if the wytnes be found false, and that he hath gyuen false wytnesse a-gaynst his brother, then shal ye do vnto hym as he had thought to doo vnto hym brother, & thou shalt put euill awaye from the. And other shall heare, and feare: and shall henceforth comyt no more anye such wyckednesse amonge you. And thyne eye shall haue no compassion, but * lyfe for lyfe, eye for eye, toth for toth, hand for hand fote for fote, shalt thou requyte.

The xx. Chapter.

Who ought to go to battayl. The lawe of armes. The Cananytes must they kyll.

When thou goest out to battell agaynst thyne enemyes, and seeke hostes and charrettes, and people mo then thou, be not * afrayd of them, for the Lorde thy God is with the, whiche brought the out of the lande of Egypt. And when ye are come nye vnto the battayle, the prest shal come forth to speake vnto the people, and shal say vnto them heare O Israel, ye are come vnto batell agaynst your enemyes * let not your hertes saynter, neyther feare, nor be amased nor adzed of them. For the * Lorde your God goeth with you, to fight for you agaynst your enemyes, and to saue you.
And let the officers speake vnto the people, saying: If any man hate buyt a new house, & haue not dedicate it, let him go & returne to his house

lest he dye in the battell, and an other man dedicate it. And if any man haue plucked a vineyard, and haue not made it comen (and lawfull for curye man to cate of) let hym go and retorne agayne vnto his house, lest he dye in the battayl, and another make it comen. * And if any man be detrounted vnto a wyfe, and haue not taken her, let him go and retorne agayne vnto his house, lest he dye in battayle, and an other man take her.

¶ And let the officers speake further vnto the people, and say: ¶ If any man feare and be saynt herred, let hym go & retorne vnto his house, lest he make his brothers here saynt as wel as his. And when officers haue made an ende of speake vnto the people, they shall make captaynes of warre ouer them. ¶ When thou comest nye vnto a cite to fyght agaynst it * offre the peace. And if they answer the agayne peaceablye and open vnto the, then let all the people that is founde therein, be tributaries vnto the, and serue the. And if they will make no peace with the, but make warre agaynst the, thou shalt besiege it. And when the Lord thy God hath deliuered it into thyne handes, thou shalt smyte all the males therof with the edge of the sword. But the women and the chyldren, & and the cattell, and all that is in the cite, and al the spoyle therof shalt thou take vnto thy selfe, and eate the spoyle of thyne enemyes whiche the Lord thy God hath gyuen the. ¶ Thus shalt thou do vnto all the cyties whiche are a greete waye of from the, and not of the cyties of these nations.

¶ But of the cyties of these nations, which the Lord thy God shall gyue the to enprete, thou shalt saue alwey none of them that bether. * But shalt destroye them without redemption, namelye the Hethytes, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Pherezites, the Heuites, and the Jebusites, as the Lord thy God hath commaunded the, that they teache you not to do after all theyr abominacions, which they haue done vnto theyr goddes, and so ye shalbe synne agaynst the Lord your God. When thou hast besieged a cite longe tyme, and made warre agaynst it to take it, destroye not the trees thereof, that thou woldest thrust an at vnto them. But eat of the and cut them not downe, for the trees of the fel-des are nomen, to come agaynst the, & to beseege the. Only those trees whiche thou knowest that they are not frutefull, (but whiche s for other uses) those shalt thou destroye and cut downe, & make bulwothes agaynst the cite that maketh war with the, vntill thou subdue it.

¶ The cxi. Chapter.

¶ Exposition for murther. ¶ Summary for chyldren that disobey father and mother.

¶ If one be founde slayne in the land, which the Lord thy God gyueth thee to possesse it, & lyeth in the feilde: and it is not known who hath slayn him, Then thyne elders and thy iudges shal come forth and mete vnto the cities that are rounde about the slayne. And let the elders of that cite whiche is nexte vnto the slayne man, take oute of the byone, an heyser that is not laboured with, nor hath bywen in the yoke, and let the elders of that cite bynge the heyser vnto an harde valley, which is neyther eared nor sowed, and stryke of the heyfers necke there in the valley.

¶ And the prestes the sonnes of Levi (whome the Lord thy God hath chosen to minister, and to blesse in the name of the Lord) shall come forth and at theyr mouth shal all stryke and plage be tryed. And all the elders of the cite that come forth to the slayne man, shall walke theyr bandes ouer the heyser that is beheaded in the valley, and shal answer and saye: our handes haue not shed this blood, neither haue our eyes sene it. Be mercifull Lord, vnto thy people Israel, whiche thou hast deliuered, & and saue no innocent blood vnto thy people of Israels charge: and the blood shalbe forgiven the. And so shalt thou put innocent blood from the, when thou shalt haue done that which is right in the sight of the Lord. When thou goest to war agaynst thyne enemyes, and the Lord thy God hath deliuered them into thyne handes, and thou hast taken the captiue, and seest amonge the captiues a beautifull woman, and haste a desyre vnto her, that thou woldest haue her to thy wyfe.

¶ Thou shalt bynge her home to thyne house, & let her haue her heed, & let her nayles growe, and put her raimet that she was taken in from her, and let her remaine in thyne house, and beweepe her father and her mother a moneth long and after that shalt thou go in vnto her, & marrye her, and she shall be thy wyfe. And if thou haue no sauoure vnto her, then let her go whither she listeth, and sell her not for monye, nor make chensauce of her, because thou hast humbled her. ¶ If a man haue two wyues, one loued and an other hated, & they haue bozne him chyldren, both the loued & also the hated: ¶ If the fyrste bozne be the sonne of the hated, then when the tyme cometh, he dealeth hym goodes amonge hym chyldren, he may not make the sonne of the beloued fyrst bozne, before the son of the hated, which is in dede fyrst bozne. But he shal know the sonne of the hated for the fyrst bozne, & gyue hym double porcyon of all that he hath. For he is the fyrste of hym strenght, and to hym belongeth the right of the fyrst bozne.

¶ If any man haue a sonne that is stubburne and disobedient, that he wyl not hearken vnto the voyce of hym father, & voyce of hym mother: and they haue chastened hym, and he wolde not hearken vnto them: Then shall hym father and hym mother take hym, and byng hym out vnto the elders of that cite, and vnto the gate of that same place, and say vnto the elders of the cite: This our sonne is stubburne and disobedient, and wyl not hearken vnto our voyce: he is a ryotour, and a dyshonourer: And all the men of that cite shal stone hym with stones vnto death. And thou shalt put euyl awaye from the, that al Israel maye feare and feare. ¶ If a man haue commytted a trespass worthe of death, and is put to death for it, and thou hangest hym on tre, hym body shal not remaine all nyght vpon the tree, but thou shalt burye hym the same daye.

For the curse of God is on hym that is baged. Defyle not thou thy lande, whiche the Lorde thy God gyueth the to inherite.

The xxii. Chapter.

What thou oughtest to do, when thou syndest: thy neyghbours beate gouge adraye. A man shall not weare womens clothing, as a woman mannes clothinge. To weare a coce of wool and of flaxe is also fadydden. The punishment of hym that accuseth a man vnyghtously, of an aduocete also, and of hym that sauyth a mayde.

Thou shalt not se thy bzotheres ore oz theye go astray, & withdrow thy selfe from them: But shalt bypunge them agayne vnto thy bzother. And yf thy bzother be not nre vnto the, oz if thou know him not, then bypunge it vnto thyne owne house, & it shal remain w the, vntill thy bzother aske after them, & then deliuer hym them agayne. In lyke manner shalt thou do with his asse, and so shalt thou do with his cayment, and with all lost thynges of thy bzother which he hath lost, and thou hast found, shalt thou dolphewyse, for I mayest not hyde it. * Thou shalt not se thy bzotheres asse oz ore fal down by the way, and withdrow thy selfe fro them: but shalt helpe hym to heare hym vp agayne. * The woman shal not weare y whiche pertynerth vnto the ma, neither shal a man put on womans cayment. For all that do so, ar abhominacion vnto the Lorde thy God. Yf I chaunce vpon a byzdes nest in the waye, in whatsoeuer tree it be, oz on y ground, whether they be ponge oz egges, and the dam syting vpon y ponge, oz vpon the egges: Thou shalt not take the dam w the pong. But shalt in any wyse let the dam go and take the ponge to the, that thou mayst prosper and prolonge thy dayes. When I buyldest a newe house: thou shalt make a baselinet on the roof, that I lade not blood vpon thyne house, yf any man fall ther of. * Thou shalt not sowe thy bynepard with byners seedes: lest the frute of y seed which thou hast sown, and the frute of thy bynepard be defyled. Thou shalt not plowe w an ore & an asse together. Thou shalt not weare a garment made of woll and flaxe together.

* Thou shalt make the gardenes (in the demers) vpon the. iiii. quarters of thy besture, wherew thou conuertest thy selfe. Yf a man take a wyfe, & when he hath lyeu wth her, hate her, and laye shameful thynges vnto her charge, & bringe vp an euil name vpon her, & saye: I toke this wyfe, and whē I came to her I found her not a mayd. Then shal the father of the dāsell and y mother byyng foze the tokens of the dāssels virginie vnto the elders of the cytie in the gate. And the dāssels father shal say vnto the elders: I gaue my doughter vnto this man to wyfe, and he hateth her: and lo: he layeth shameful thynges vnto her charge, saying: I found not thy doughter a mayd. And yet these are y tokens of my doughters virginie. And they shal spede the besture before the elders of the cite. And the elders of y cite shal take that man and chastise hym, and merce hym in an hundred syles of syluer, and gyue them vnto the father of the dāsell, because he hath brought vp an euil name vpon a mayd of Israel. And she shal be his wyfe, and he maye not put her awaye all his dayes. But and yf the thing be of a surety, that the dāsell be not found a virgin, they shal byyng the dāsell to the dize of her fathers house, & the men of that cytie shal stone her with stones to death, because she hath wrought follye in Israel, to playe the whoze in her fathers house. And so thou shalt put euill away from the.

* Yf a man be found lying with a woman that hath a wedded husband, they shal dye eithen o: ther of them: bothe the man that laye wth the wyfe, and also the wyfe: and so thou shalt put away euill from Israel. Yf a mayde be handfast vnto an husband, and then a man synde her in the towne and lye with her, ye shal bring the both out vnto the gates of the same cite, & shal stone them with stones to death. The dāsell because she cryed not, beinge in the cytie. And the man, because he hath humbled hy neyghbours wyfe, and I shalt put away euill from the. But yf a man synde a betrothed dāsell in the felde, & foze her, and lye w her: Then the man that laye with her shal dye alone: but vnto the dāsell I shalt do no harme: because there is in the dāsell no cause of death. For as when a man kyleth a gaynst his neyghbour and sleyth him, euē so is this matter. For he sold her in the felde, & the betrothed dāsell cryed: and there was no man to succour her. * Yf a man synde a mayde that is not betrothed, and take her, and lye with her, & they be founde: Then the man that laye wth her shal gyue vnto the dāssels father fyfye syles of syluer. And she shal be his wyfe, because he hath dābled her: and he may not put her awaye all his dayes. * No man shal take his fathers wyfe, nor vnhyle his fathers courtynge.

What manner of men may not be admytted into the synagoge. Of pollutions that happen in the nyght. Of a wyfe.

None that is gilded oz hath his preuie members cut of, shal come into the congregation of the Lorde. And he that is bozne of a comen womā, shal not come into y congregation of y Lorde, no not in y tenth generation he shal not enter into the congregation of the Lorde. * The Ammonites & the Moabites shal not come into the congregation of y Lorde, no, not in the tenth generation, nor they shal neuer come into y congregation of y Lorde because they met you not with byerd and water in the way, when ye came out of Egypt, and because they byyed agaynst the. * Balaam the son of Beor, of Bethor, of Mesopotamia, to curse y Jewethelise, the Lorde thy God wold not herken vnto Balaam, but the Lorde thy God turned the curse to a blessing vnto the, because the Lorde thy God loueth the. Thou shalt not seke the prosperitie oz wealth of the al thy dayes for euer. * Thou shalt not abhorre an Edomite, for he is thy bzother, neither shalt I abhorre an Egyptian, because thou wast a stranger in his land. The children y are begotten of them shal come into the congregation of the Lorde, in the tenth generation. When thou goest out with the host agaynst thyne enemies, kepe y from all wyched

Inne. If there be among you any man that is uncleane by the reason of uncleannes that chaunceth hym by nyght, let hym go out of the host, & not come in agayne into the host, but at even let hym wash him selfe with water, and then when the son is downe, let hym come into the host agayne. Thou shalt haue a place also without the host whether thou shalt resort to, and thou shalt haue a sharpe point vpon thy weapon, and when thou wilt ease thy selfe, dge thee with, and turne and couer thy selfe in departed from the. For the Lord thy God walketh in the midst of thyne host, to rde the, & to let thyne enemies before the. Therefore thou shalt place of thyne host be pure, that he be no uncleane thyng in the and so turne hym selfe from the. Thou shalt not deliuer vnto his master thy seruauit which is escaped from his master vnto the. He shall dwell with thee, euen among you in what place he hym selfe lyeth best, in one of thy cities where it is good for him, and thou shalt not vex him. There shall be no whore of the daughters of Israel, nor whore keeper of the sonnes of Israel. Thou shalt neither bring thyne of an whore, nor the price of a dog into thy house of the Lord thy God in any manner of vow: for euen both of them are an abomination vnto the Lord thy God. Thou shalt not hurt thy brother by vsury of money, nor by vsury of coine, nor by vsury of any thing that he may be hurt withal. Vnto a stranger thou mayst lend vpon vsury, but not vnto thy brother: for the Lord thy God may blesse the in all that thou doest thyne hande to, in the land whither thou goest to conquer it. When thou shalt vow a vow vnto the Lord thy God, thou shalt not slacke to paye it. For the Lord thy God wyl surely requyre it of the, and it shall be syn in the. If thou shalt leaue vowing, it shall be no syn in the, but thou shalt be ones gone out of thy lippes, thou must kepe and do, according as thou hast vowed vnto the Lord thy God of a freewill: and as thou shalt spoken with thy mouth. When thou comest vnto thyne neighbours vineyard, thou mayest eat grapes thy belly full at thyne owne pleasure: but thou shalt put none in thy vessel. Euen so when thou comest into thyne neighbours come, thou mayest plucke the eares with thyne hande, but thou shalt not moue a speckle vnto thyne neighbours come.

Chapter.

Disparagement is permitted. He that is truly married shall not be compelled to go to warre.

3 When a man hath taken a wife and married her, if she fynde no fauour in his eyes, because he hath espoused some uncleannes in her. The let him write her a bill of divorcement, and put it in her hande, & send her out of his house. And when she is departed out of his house, let her goe, and be an other mans wyfe. And if the seconde husband hate her, let him write her also a letter of divorcement, and put it in her hand, & send her out of his house: or if the seconde man dye which toke her to wyfe, her first man which sent her away, may not take her agayne to be his wife, after she is defyled. For it is abominacion in the sight of the Lord, And thou shalt not cause the land to syn, whiche the Lord thy God shall gyue thee to inheret.

4 When a man taketh a newe wyfe, he shall not go to warre, neither shall he be charged with any business: but he shall be free at home one yere, and reioyse with his wyfe whiche he hath taken. No man shall take the nerther nor the vpper millstone to pledge, for then he shall hurt a mans lyfe. If any man be found stealyng any of his brethren the chyldren of Israel, & abusech hym, or selleth hym, the these shall dye. And thou shalt put euyl a waye from the, take hede to thy selfe as concerning the plague of leprosy, that thou observe diligently. And ye shall do according to all that the prestes of the Levites shall teach you. Euen as I commaunded the, so ye shall obserue to do. Remember what the Lord thy God dyd vnto. When Iam by the way after ye were come out of Egypt. When thou dost lede thy brother any thing: thou shalt not go into his house to fetch a pledge from thence: but thou shalt stande without, and a man that bozowed it of the, shall bring the pledge out vnto the. Furthermore if it be a pooze bodie, thou shalt not sleepe with his pledge: but deliuer him thy pledge agayne when the sun goeth downe, & he may sleepe in his owne raymet, and blesse the. And it shall be right tounesse vnto the, before the Lord thy God.

5 Thou shalt not defraude an hyred seruauit that is needy and pooze, whether he be of thy brethren, or of the strangers that are in thy lande within thy gates. But thou shalt gyue him his hire the same day, & let not the sun go downe thereon. For he is needy, and therewith susteyneth his life, lest he crye agaynst the vnto the Lord, and it be syn vnto the. The fathers shall not dye for the chyldren, nor the chyldren for the fathers: but euery man shall dye for his owne syn. Thou shalt not hynder the ryght of the stranger nor of the fatherles, nor take a widows raymet to pledge. But remember that thou wast a seruauit in Egypt, and how the Lord thy God deliuered the thence. And therefore I commaund the to do this thyng.

6 When thou cuttest downe thyne harvest in the felde, and hast forgotten a sheke in the felde, thou shalt not go agayne to set it. But it shall be for the stranger, the fatherlesse, & the wydow, that the Lord thy God maye blesse the in all the thynges of thyne hande. When thou beatest downe thyne olyue tree, thou shalt not turne agayne to gather vp that thou ledest behynde the, but it shall be for the stranger, the fatherlesse, and the wydow. When thou gatherest thyne vineyard, thou shalt not gather the grapes cleane after, but leaue them for the stranger, the fatherlesse and the wydow. And remember that thou also wast a seruauit in the lande of Egypt: and therefore I commaunde the to do this thyng.

haue brought the first frutes of the land whiche thou (O Lord) hast geuen me. And y shalt set it befoze the Lord thy God, & worship befoze the Lord thy God, & reioyce in all the good thynges which the Lord thy God hath geuen vnto the to thyn house, thou and the Leuite, & the straüger that is amonge pon. ¶ When y shalte made an ende of tithyng all the tythes of thyn encrease: the third yere, which is the yere of tithyng: thou shalt geue it vnto the Leuite, the straügers, the fatherles and the wydowes, that they may eat withyn thy gates, and fyl the selues. And thou shalt say befoze y Lord thy god. ¶ I haue brougt the halowed thynges out of myne house, & haue geuen the vnto the Leuites, the straungers, the fatherles and the wydowes, according to al thy comaundementes whiche thou hast comaunded me: I haue not ouershypped thy comaundemen-tes, noz forgotten the. I haue not eaten thereof in my mourning, noz suffred ought to getty the roze vncleannesse, noz geuen ought ther of soz the dead, but haue berkened vnto y voyce of y Lord my god, & haue done after al that thou hast comaunded me. ¶ ¶ Loke downe therfoze fro thy holy habitacion, euen from heuen and blesse thy people Israel, & the lande whiche thou hast geuen vs (as thou swauest vnto oure fathers) a lande that floweth with mylke and hony. ¶ This day the Lord thy god hath comaunded the to do these ordinaunces, and lawes, kepe thou the, & do the with al thyn heart, & al thy soule. ¶ Thou hast set vp the Lord this day to be thy God, and to walke in his wayes, & to kepe hys ordinaun-ces, his comaundementes, and his lawes, and to berken vnto his voyce. ¶ And the Lord hath set the vp this day, to be a feuerall people vnto him (as he hath promysed the) & that thou kepe hys comaundementes, & to make the bygh about al nacions, whiche he hath made in praille, in name and honour: & that thou mayst be an holy prople vnto the Lord thy God, as he hath sayd. ¶

The promys of the blessinges vnto them that regarde the commandementes, and the curses to the contrary.

* thou shalt hearken diligently vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, & observe & do all his commandementes, which I commaunde thee this daye. The Lord wyll set thee on hygh aboue all the nacys of yearth. * And all these blessinges shall come on thee, & ouertake thee, yf thou shalt hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God. Blessed shalt thou be in the towne, & blessed in the felde: blessed shalt thou be the frute of thy body, & the frute of thy ground, & the frute of thy catell, the increase of thyne oren, and the flockes of thy shepe: blessed shalt thou be thy basket & thy store. Blessed shalt thou be, when thou goest out, and blessed when thou comest in. * The Lord shall geue ouer thyne enemies that rise agaynst thee, that they maye fall before thy face. They shall come out agaynst thee one way, and they shall be before thee the seuerall wayes. The Lord shall put the blessing vpon thee in thy store houses, and in all that thou sette thy hande to, & wyll blesse thee in all the lande whiche the Lord thy God geueth thee. The Lord shall make thee an holy people vnto hym selfe, as he hath swozne vnto thee: yf thou shalt kepe the commandementes of the Lord thy God, and walke in his wayes.

And all nacys of the earth shall see that the name of the Lord is called vpon thee, & they shall be afrayde of thee. And the Lord shall make thee plenteous in goodes, in the frute of thy body, in the frute of thy catell, and in the frute of thy ground, in the lande which the Lord swaue vnto thy fathers, to geue thee. The Lord shall open vnto thee his good treasure, & euery thinge he hath hid vnto thee, & shall sende thee in due season, & to blesse all the labours of thy hand. * And thou shalt lende vnto many nacys, but thou shalt not borrowe of any. And the Lord shall set thee before thee, & thou shalt be before him, and thou shalt be aboute only, and not beareth: yf thou shalt hearken vnto the commandementes of the Lord thy God, which I commaunde thee this day, to kepe and to do the. And it shall be that thou shalt not asyde fro any of these wordes, which I commaunde thee this day, either to the right hand or to the left, that thou woldest go after strange gods to serue them. * But and yf thou wilt not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord thy God, to kepe and to do all his commandementes and his ordinaunces which I commaunde thee this day: all these curses shall come vpon thee, and ouertake thee. Cursed shalt thou be in the towne, & cursed in the felde: cursed shalt thou be thy basket, & thy store. Cursed shalt thou be the frute of thy body, & the frute of thy lande, and the frute of thyne oren, and the flockes of thy shepe. Cursed shalt thou be when thou goest in, and cursed when thou goest out. The Lord shall sende vpon thee cursing, destruction, and rebuke, in all that thou sette thy hande to, & that thou doest, vntill he destroye thee, & bypne thee to noughte quickly: because of the wickednesse of thyne inuencion, and because thou hast forsaken me. The Lord shall make thee pestilence cleue vnto thee, vntill he haue consumed thee from off the lande, whither thou shalt go to entoy it. * The Lord shall synke thee with swelling, with fevers, heat burnyng, & wpyth the sword, wpyth wetherpyng and wpyth blastpyng. And they shal folow the vntyll thou perishe. * And the heauen that is ouer thy head shalbe drasse, and the earth that is vnder the, pzon. The Lorde shal turne the rayne of the land vnto powder and dust: euen from heuen shal they come downe vpon the, vntyll thou be brought to nought. And the Lorde shal plage þe before thyne enemies: Thou shalt come out one waye agaynst them, and theye shal come out another waye agaynst thee, and shalt be scattered amonge all the kyngdomes of the earth. And thy carthasse shal be meate vnto all maner foules of the ayre, and vnto the bestes of the earth, and no man shal fray them away. * The Lorde wyl smyte the with þe borch of Egypt, and the Emmerches, scalle, and maungynes, that thou mayst not be healed therof. * And the Lorde shal smyte þe with madnes, & blindnes, and dafnyng of heere. Thou shalt grope at none dayes, as the bynd gropeth in darkness and shalt not prosper in thy wayes. Thou shalt be oppressed with wryng, & be polled euermore and no mā shal succour the. * Thou shalt be brought vnto a wyfe, & another man shal lye wpyth her. Thou shalt buyde an house, and not dwel therein. Thou shalt also plant a vineyarde & shalt not gather the grapes. Thyne ore shal be slayne before thyne eyes, & thou shalt not cate therof. Thyne ass shalbe violently take awaye euen before thy face, and shalt not be restored to the agayne. Thy shepe shal be geue vnto thyne enemies, and no man shal rescue them.

D Thy sonnes and thy doughtes shalbe geuen vnto another nacyō, and thyne eyes shal be it, & dase vpon them al the day longe, and there shal be no myghte in thyne hande. The frute of thy lande and all thy labours shal a nacyon which thou knowest not, cate, and thou shalt continually suffre violence only, & be oppressed alwaye so that thou shalt be cleane besyde thy selfe, for the syght of thyne eyes whyche thou shalt se. The Lorde shal smyte þe in the knees and legges, with a mischeuous borch that can not be healed: euen from the sole of thy fote vnto the top of thy head. * The Lorde shal byng the & thy kyng (which þe shalt set ouer the) vnto a nacyō, which nether thou nor thy fathers haue knowe, & there thou shalt serue straunge gods: euen wood and stone. And thou shalt be wonderd at, spoken of, and iested at amonge all nacyns, wherther the Lorde shal cary the. * Thou shalt cary much seide into the felde: and shalt gather but litle in, for þe greshoppers shal destroy it. Thou shalt plant a vineyard and drasse it, but shalt neither drynke of the wyne, nether gather þe grapes, for þe wormes shal cate it. Thou shalt haue Olive trees thowout all thy costes, but shalt not anoynte thy selfe with the oyle, for thyne olive trees shal be roted out. Thou shalt beget sons, and doughters, but shalt not haue them: for they shalbe carryed away captiue. All thy trees & frute of thy lande shalbe marred with blastpyng. The straunger that is among you, shal clime aboue the vpon hye, and thou shalt come downe beneth a low. He shal lende the, and thou shalt not lende hym:

he shalbe before, and thou behynde. Moreover, all these curses shal come vpon the, and shal folow the and ouertake the, tyll thou be destroyed because thou herkenest not vnto the voyce of þe Lorde thy God, to kepe his commaundementes, & his ordinaunces, which he com manded the, and they shalbe vpon the as myracles and wonderes & vpon thy seide for euer, because thou seruest not the Lorde thy God wpyth ioyfulnesse & wpyth a good hert, when thou hadst abundaunce of all thynges, therfore thou shalt serue thyne enemy which the Lorde shal sende vpon the: in hunger and thirst, in nakednes, and in nede of al thyng and he shal put a poise of pzon vpo thy necke vntyll he haue brought the to nought. And þe Lorde shal byng a nacyon vpon the from far, and fro the ende of the worlde as swyfte as an Eagle flyeth: a nacyon whose tonge thou shalt not vnderstande: a harde fauoured nacyon, which shal not regarde the person of the olde, nor haue compas syon of the yonge. The same shal cate the frute of thy catell, and the frute of thy lande vntyll he haue destroyed the: & shal leaue the nether corne, wyne, nor oyle, nether the increase of thyne ore nor þe flockes of thy shepe: vntill he haue brought the to nought. And he shal kepe the in all thy ctytes, vntyll he haue cast downe thy hye wals & stronge holdes, wherin thou trustedst, thowout al the lande. And he shal besege the in al thy ctytes thowout all thy lande, which the Lorde thy God hath geuen the. * And thou shalt eat þe frute of thyne owne body: the flesch of thy sonnes and of thy doughters, which the Lorde thy God hath geuen the in thy straitnes and sege wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the: so that it shal greue the man (that is tender and exceedingely care amonge you), to loken on his brother and vpon his wyfe that lyeth in his bosome, and on þe remnant of his chyldren, which he hath left for feare of geuyng vnto any of them, or yach of his chyldren, who he shal eat, because he hath nothyng left hym in that straitnesse and sege, wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the in al thy ctytes. Per, and the woman that is so tender and delicate, she dare not aduenture to set the sole of her fote vpon the ground, (for softnes and tendernes) shalbe greued to loke on her husbande & lyeth in her bosome, and on her sonne and on her doughter: and on her after byrth (that is to com out from betwene her legges,) and her chyldren which she shal beare: for wher al thynges lacke she shal cate them secretly, in the sege and straitnes, wherewith thyne enemy shal besege the in thy ctytes. If thou wylt not kepe and do al the wordes of this law (þe are wyrtten in this booke) and feare this gloriously and fearful name of the Lorde thy God: the Lorde wyl sende vnto the and thy seide, great plagis and of longe continuance, euell synnes and of longe duraunce.

Moreover, he wyl byng vpon the all the diseases of Egypt, and those which thou wast afraid of, shal cleane vnto the. And al maner synnes, and al maner plagis which are not wyrtten in the booke of this law, wyl the Lorde byng vpon the, vntyll he byng the to nought. And he shalbe to the voyce of the Lorde thy God to kepe his comaundementes and his ordinaunces which are wrytten in the booke of this lawe, & if thou turne vnto the Lorde thy God with al thyne hert and all thy soule. * For the commaundement which I commaunde the this day, is not seperated from the, neyther farre of.

C It is not in heuen, that thou needst to-<sup>2</sup> (com-and set it vs, that we maye heare it, and do it?

Nether is it beyonde the see, that thou shouldest saye: who shall go ouer the see for vs, and set it vs, that we maye heare it, and doo it? But the word is very nye vnto the: euen in thy mouthe and in thyne herte, that thou do it.* Beholde I haue set before thee this day lyfe and good, death and euell: For where as I commaunde the this daye, to loue the Lord thy God, to walke in hys wayes, and to kepe hys commaundementes, hys ordinaunces, and his lawes (yf thou so do) thou shalt lyue and multiply, and the Lord thy God shall blesse the in the lande, whither thou goest to possesse it. But and yf thyne hert turne a way so that thou wilt not heare: but shalt go astray and worshipp straunge goddes, and serue them, I pronounce vnto you also this day that ye shall surely perishe, & that ye shal not prolonge your dayes vpo the lande whither thou passelt ouer Iordā to possesse it.* I call heauen and earth

Josua is chosen Deuteronomium. in Mosessteade

And the Lozde appered in the tabernacle, euen in the pylle of the cloude. And the * pylle of the cloude stode ouer the doze of the tabernacle. And the Lozde sayde vnto Mo- ses: beholde thou shalt seepe with thy fathers, and thy people wil ryle vp, and go a whoring after straunge gods of the lande (wher they go) * I wyll forsake me, & bzeake the appoyne- ment, whiche I haue made wryth them.

E And the my wryth wyl ware whote agaynst them, and I wyll forsake them, and wyll hyde my face from them, and they shalbe consumed. And muche aduersyte and tribulacions shal come vpon them, so that then they wyl say: Ie not these troubles come vpon me, by cause God is not wryth me: And I also wyll surely hyde a- waye my face in that daye, for all the euils sake whiche they shal haue wrought, in that they are turned vnto straunge goddes. Howe therfore wryte ye this songe for you, & teache it the chyldren of Israel, and put it in theyr mouthes, that this songe may be my wrynes agaynst the chyldren of Israel. For I wyll byng them into the lande (whiche I sware vnto theyr fathers) that floweth wryth mylke and honye, and they shal eat, and fylle them selues, and ware fat, & turne vnto straunge Goddes, and serue them, & blas- pheme me, and bzeake my couenaunte. And the when muche mylchefe and tribulacion is come vpon them, this songe shal answere them as a wrynesse. For it shal not be forgotten out of y mouthes of theyr seide: for I knowe theyr yma- ginacion, whych they go aboute euen now, be fore I haue brought them into the lande whych I sware. * Moles therfore wrote this songe y same season & taught it the chyldren of Israel.

And he gaue Josua the sonne of Nun a charge, & sayde: * be bolde & stronge, for thou shalt byng the chyldren of Israel into the lande, whych I sware vnto them, and I wyll be wryth the.

And when Moles had made an ende of wry- tyng out of the wordes of this lawe in a booke vnto the ende of the, Moles comaunded the Le- uytes, whych bare the arke of the testamēt of the Lozde saying: take ye y boke of this law, & put it in the syde of y arke of the testamēt of the Lozde your God, y it may be there for a wrynes agaynst the: For I knowe thy stoburnes: & thy spyte neche: whyle I am yet alque w you this daye, ye haue bene disobedient vnto the Lozde: and howe muche more after my deathe.

G Gather vnto me al the elders of your trybes and your offyces, that I may speake these wo- des in theyr eares, & cal deuen, & eaeth to recorde agaynst the. For I am sure that after my deathe ye wyl utterly be corrupt: & turne fro the way whych I haue comaunded you: and tribulacion wyl come vpon you in the latter dayes, because ye shal haue wrought wychednesse in the syde of the Lozde, to prouoke hym thowowe the wo- kes of your handes. And Moles spake in the eares of all the congregacion of Israel: the wo- des of this songe, vntill he had ended them.

The xxxij. Chapter.
The songe of Moles.

Hear O ye heauens, and * I shall speake, and lette the earthe heare the wordes of my mouthe. * My doctryne shal droppe as dorde the rayne, and my speache shal flowe as doth the dewe, as the mother vpon the herbes, & as the droppes vpon the grasse. For I wyll call on the name of the Lozde: & scrbye ye honour vnto our God. * Per- fecte is the worke of the most myghty God: for all his wayes are iudgemente. He is a God of truthe, wythout wychednesse: ryghtuous, and iuste is he.

Forwarde haue they done agaynst hym tho- rowe theyr defomities: not his owne chyld, but a wyched and frowarde generacion. Do ye forewarde the Lozde, O foolyshe nacyon and vnywysse: * Is not he thy father, and thyne ow- ner: hath he not made the, and ordeyned the? Remembre the dayes of the world that is past: consyder the yeres fro tyme to tyme. * I sue thy father, and he wyll shewe the: thy elders, & they wyl tell the. * Wyl he the most myghty deuyded y nacjons, and when he separed the sonnes of Adam, he put the borders of the nacjons fast by the multitude of the chyldren of Israel.

For the Lozdes parte is his folke, and Ja- cob is the porcion of his enderptauce.

He founde hym in a deserte lande, in a voyde grounde, and in a roaryng wyldernes. He led hym aboute, he gaue hym vnderstandyng, and kepte hym as the apple of his eye.

As an Egle that stretcheth vpon her nest and sto- tereth ouer her yong, & stretcheth out her wynges, so doth he take them vp, and beareth them on his shulders. The Lozde alone was his guide and there was no straunge god wryth hym.

He carped hym vnto an hye lande, that he myght eate the increase of the felde. * And he led hym wryth honye out of the roche, and wryth ople out of the most harde stone. With butter of kyne, and mylke of the shepe, with fat of the lam- bes and of fat rammes and he goates, wryth the fat of most plenteous wheate, and that y migh- test drynke the most pure bloode of the grape.

But he that shulde haue bene vpright, when he waxed fatte, spurned wryth his brle.

Thou art wel fed, thou arte growen thych, thou art laden wryth fatnesse.

And he forsoke God his maker, and regar- ded not the God of his saluacion. They prouo- ked hym to anger wryth straunge Goddes: euen w abhominacions prouoked they hym. * They offred vnto deuils, and not to God, euen to god- des whom they knew not: to newe goddes that came newly vp, whom theyr fathers feared not. Of God that begate the thou arte vnywysful, & hast forgotten God that made the. The Lozde therfore saue it, and was angry, by cause of the prouokynge of his sonnes and of his daughters.

And he sayd: I wyl hyde my face from them, and wyl se what theyr ende shal be. For they are a verpe frowarde generacion, chyldren in whom is no fayth. They haue angered me wryth that which is no god, & prouoked me wryth their vanities. * And I also wyl prouoke them wryth those those whiche are no people, I will anger them with a foolishe nation. * For fyre is kindled in my wrath, and burneth vnto the botome of hel. And hath consumed the earth with her increase, and let a fyre the bottomes of the mountaynes. I will heape myscheues vpon them, and will destroye them with myne arrowes.

They shalbe burnt with hunger, and consumed with deate, and with bitter destruction. I will also sende the teeth of beastes vpon them, with the furpoulnesse of serpentes in the duste. Without forth, shall the sword robbe them of theyr chyldre: and within in the chambaie seare, both yonge men and yonge women, and the suchelinges with the men of graye heades. I haue sayde: I will scatter them abrode: and make the remembraunce of them to cease frome amonge men. Were it not that I feared the wrath of the enemy, lest they aduersaries shoulde utterly destroye them selues, and lest they shoulde saye: our hye hande hath done all this and not the Lorde.

For it is a nacion without forecast, neyther is there any vnderstandyng in the: O that they were wyle, & vnderstode thys, that they wolde consider theyr latter ende.

Howe shoulde one chase a thousand, & two put ten thousande to flyght: except theyr maker had solde them, & except the Lord had thus them vpr?

For theyr God is not as our God, oure enemies also them selues are Iudges.

For theyr wyne is of the vyneparde of Sodom, and of the felde of Gomorra: Theyr grapes are grapes of Gal, & theyr clustres be bitter.

Theyr wyne is the popson of draggons, and the cruel gall of aspes. Is not this layde in store with me, and sealed vp amonge my treasures? Vengeance is myne, & I wyl rewarde, theyr fete shal lyde in due tyme: For the daye of theyr destruction is at hande, and the thynges I shall come vpon them, make haste.

* For the Lorde shal iudge his people, & haue compassion on his seruantes, when he seyth I theyr power is gone, & that they be in a maner shut vp, or brought to nought and forsaken.

And he shall saye: where are theyr goddes? theyr God in whom they trusted.

The fat of whole sacrifices theyr dyd eat, and drinke the wyne of theyr drynke offerynges: let them crye vp and helpe pou, and be your protection. (in necessitye.)

Se nowe howe that I, & I alone am God, & there is none but I: I kyl, & I wyl make alpye: I wounde, and I wyl heale: neyther is there any that can deliuer oute of my hande.

* For I wyl lyfte vp myne hande to heauen, and wyl saye: I lyue cuer.

If I whet the edge of my swerde, and myne hande take holde to do iustyce, I wyl recompence vengeance on myne enemies, and wyl rewarde them that hate me.

I wyl make myne arrowes drinke with blood, & my swerde shall cate fleshe, & that for the blood of the slayne, and for theyr captiuitie, leaue the begynnyng of the wrath of the enemy.

* I praye ye herthen bys people, for he wyl avenge the blood of bys seruantes, and wyl avenge hym of his aduersaries, and wyl be mercifull vnto bys lande, and to bys people.

And Moses came and spake all the wordes of this songe in the eares of the people, he & Iosua the sunne of Sun. And Moses spake of these wordes vnto the ende to all the people of Israel and sayd vnto them: * Set your hartes vnto all the wordes which I tellisye vnto you this day: and ye shal comaunde them vnto your chyldre, that they maye obserue and do al the wordes of this lawe. And let it not be a vayne worde vnto you: for in it is your lyfe, & thowoe thys worde ye shall prolonge your dayes in the lande whither ye go ouer Iordan to conqurre it.

And the Lorde spake vnto Moses the selfe same daye, sayinge, get the vp into thys mountayne Barim, (that is to saye a passage) vnto the mounte Abarim, whiche is in the lande of Moab: ouer agaynst Jericho. And beholde the lande of Canaan, whiche I geue vnto the chyldren of Israel to possesse: And dye in the mounte whiche thou goest vp vnto, & thou shalt be gathered vnto thy people. * As Aaron thy brother dyed in mount Hor, and was gathered vnto bys people, because ye trespassed agaynst me among the chyldren of Israel, * at the waters of streyfe, at Cadis in the wyldernes of zin: for ye sanctified me not amonge the chyldren of Israel. Thou shalt therfore se the lande before the, and shalt not go thither, vnto the lande which I geue the chyldren of Israel.

The xxxij. Chapter.

Moses blyng blyssed all the trybes of Israel.

This is the blessing wherewith Moses the man of God blessed the chyldre of Israel before his deathe, & sayd: * The Lorde came from Sinai, and shewed his beames: fro Seir vnto them, and appeared from mounte Pharan, and he came with thousandes of sayntes, and in bys ryght hande a lawe of fyre for them. And he loued the people. * All bys sayntes also are in thy handes. They were synners to go after thy fete, and to receyue of thy wordes. Moses gaue vs a lawe to be an encheritance of the congregacion of Jacob. And he was in Israel kyng when the heades of the people, and the trybes of Israel were gathered together.

Let Ruben lyue, and not dye: and be frwe in nobye. Thys same also happen to Iuda. And he sayd: heare Lorde, the voyce of Iuda, and bringe hym vnto bys people: bys handes shal be good ynough for hym, yf thou healte hym agaynst bys enemyes.

And vnto Levi he sayde: Thoum and Tirim shalbe with the, & with euery one that is godly in the. Thou dydest proue hym also in the tentacion, and stryuedest with hym at the waters of streyfe. He that hath sayd vnto his father and to his mother: I haue not sene him. And he that knewe not bys byethzen, nor knewe bys owne chyldren, those are they that haue obserued thy worde, and shal kepe thy couenaunt. They shal teache Jacob thy iudgements, and Israel thy lawe.

lawe. They ſhall put cens before thy noſe, and the burnt ſacrifice vpon thyne Altare. Bleſſe the Lozde thyſe frutes, and accepte the woꝛke of hyſ handes, ſynge the loꝛnes of the that ryle agaynſte hym, and of them that hate hym, that they ryle not agayne.

C And of Ben Jamin he ſayde. The Lozdes derlyng ſhal dwell in ſafte vpon hym, and the Lozde ſhall couer hym all the daye longe, and he ſhall dwell betwene hyſ ſhoulders.

And of Joſeph he ſayde: bleſſed of the Lozde is hyſ lande for the frutes of heuen, thowoe the dewe and ſprynge that lye beneath, and for the ſweete frutes of the increace of the ſunne, & rype frutes of the Moone: for the ſyſte frutes of the pꝛyncipall mountaynes, and for the frutes that the bylles bypꝛynge forth for euer and for the frutes of the earthe, and fulneſſe therof: and for the good wyl of hym that dwell in the buſhe, ſhal the bleſſyng come vpon the head of Joſeph, and vpon the toppe of the head of hym that was ſeparated from amonge hyſ brethren: hyſ ſyſte boꝛne ore hath bewtye, and hyſ hoznes are as ſ hoznes of an Emꝛoꝛne. And with them he ſhal trouble the nacjons together, euen vnto the endes of the worlde. Theſe are alſo the many thouſandes of Ephraim, and the thouſandes of Manaſſes. And vnto Zabolon he ſayde: Reioyce Zabolon in thy goynge out, and thou Iſaſcher in thy tentes.

They ſhall call the people vnto the byll, and there they ſhall offer offeringes of ryghteouſneſſe. For they ſhall ſyche of the abundaunce of the ſee, and of treaſure hys in the lande.

D And vnto Gad he ſayde: bleſſed be ſ rodme maker Gad: he dwelleth as a Lyon, that catcheth the arme with the head. he ſawe therfore hyſ begynnyng, and that there was a poꝛcion there to hyde the lawegeuer, and he came wꝛth the heades of the people, and recuted the ryghteouſneſſe of the Lozde, and hyſ Judgementes wꝛth Iſrael.

And vnto Dan he ſayde: Dan is a Lyons whelpe, he ſhall ſlowe from Baſan.

And vnto Aſephtali he ſayde: Aſephtali hath abundaunce of Gods good pleaſure, and is ſpiled with the bleſſyng of the Lozde, and ſhal haue hyſ poſſeſſyons towarde the ſouthweſt.

And vnto Aſſer he ſayde: Aſſer ſhal be bleſſed with chyldzen: he ſhal be acceptable vnto hyſ brethren, and ſhall bypꝛynge his ſote in oyle. Thy dwellynge be pyon and bzalle, and thyne age be as thy youth.

There is none lyke vnto the God of Iſrael: which though he ſy vpon the heauen as vpon a hoyle, yet is he thy helpe, whoſe gloꝛy is in the celeſtial places. The eternal God is thy refuge and vnder the armes of the cuerlaſynge God: ſhalt thou lye. he ſhall caſt out the enemy beſage the, and ſaye: deſtroꝛe. Iſrael then ſhall dwell in ſaftey, and alone. And the eye of Jacob ſhal be vpon a lande of coꝛne and wyne, and hyſ heauens ſhal droppe the dewe. Happy art thou O Iſrael, who is lyke vnto the O people that art laued in the Lozde, whoſe is the wyſde of thy helpe, and ſwearde of thy gloꝛy. Thyne enemye haue loſt theꝛ ſtrength to the warde, and thou ſhalt treade vpon the begꝛth of them.

De. xxxiii. Chapter.

Moſes ſpꝛok. I ſhall ſpꝛok. Joſua ſuccedeth in Moſes rolyme.

Ad * Moſes went from the playne of Moab vnto mount Abo and vnto the toppe of * the byll that is ouer agaynſt Jericho. And the Lozde ſhewed hym all the lande of Gilead, euen vnto Dan, and al Aſephtaly and the lande of Ephraim and Manaſſe, and all the lande of Juda: euen vnto the vtmoſt ſee, and the ſouth and the reggon of the playne of Jericho the Cytye of palmetrees, euen vnto zoar. And ſ Lozde ſayde vnto hym. * This is the lande whyche I ſware vnto Abraham, Iſaac and Jacob ſayng: I wyl geue it vnto thy ſede. I haue cauſed the alſo to ſe it with thyne eyes, but thou ſhalte not go ouer theſe.

So Moſes the ſeruaunte of the Lozde dyed there in the lande of Moab, accoꝛdyng to the woꝛde of the Lozde. And he buryed hym in a vale in the land of Moab ouer agaynſte the houſe of Deoz, but no man knoweth of hyſ ſepulchre vnto this daye. Moſes was an hundred and twente yere olde when he dyed: hyſ eye was not dimme, noꝛ hyſ naturall coloure abated. And the chyldzen of Iſrael * wepte for Moſes in the playne of Moab theſe dayes. And the dayes of weppynge and mournynge for Moſes, were ended.

And Joſua the ſonne of Nun was ful of the ſpyte of wyſdome: * for Moſes had put hyſ handes vpon hym. And the chyldzen of Iſrael were obedient vnto hym, and dyd as the Lozde commaunded Moſes. And there aroſe not a pꝛophet ſence in Iſrael lyke vnto Moſes, whom the Lozde knowe face to face, accoꝛdyng vnto all the myracles and wonders whyche the Lozde ſent hym to do in the lande of Egypte, vnto Pharao and all hyſ ſeruauntes and befoꝛe all hyſ lande and accoꝛdyng to all that myghty hand and all the greates wyſdome, whyche Moſes ſhewed in the ſyght of all Iſrael.

The booke of Josua

whome the hebrayes call Iehoshua.

The first Chapter.

The Lord courageously Joshua to invade the land of Canaan, and commandeth him to be strong and valiant.

After the death of Moses the seruaunt of the Lord, it happened also that the Lord spake vnto Josua the son of Nun, Moses minister saying: Moses my seruaunt is dead. Now therefore vp, & go ouer Iordā, thou & al this people vnto the lande which I gve vnto the chyldren of Israel. * All the places that I sooles of your feet shall treade vpon, haue I gven you, as I sayd vnto Moses. And the wilderness and this Libanon vnto the greates ryer Euphrates: all the lande of the hebrayes: then vnto the greates see towarde the going downe of the sunne, shall be your cooste. There shall not a man be able to wythstande the all the dayes of thy lyfe. * For as I was wth Moses, so wyll I be wth the, and wyll not faile the, nor forsake the. * Be stronge therfore and holde: for vnto this people shalt thou deuyde the lande which I swaie vnto thy fathers to gve them. Onely be thou stronge, and as holde as thou canst, that thou mayst obserue and do accordyng to al the law, which Moses my seruaunt commaunded the. * Turne therefrom neyther to the ryght hande, nor to the left: that thou mayest do wylly in all that thou takest in hande: * let not the booke of this lawe departe oute of thy mouth. But recorde therein daye and nyght, that thou mayest obserue, and do accordyng to all that is wyrtten therein. For then shalt thou make thy waye prosperous, & then shalt thou do wysely. Haue not I commaunded the, that thou shouldest be stronge and hardye, and not feare nor be faynte hearted? For I the Lord thy God am wth the, whither soeuer thou goest.

Then Josua commaunded the officers of the people, sayinge: So thowowe the myddes of the booke, and commaunde the people, sayinge: prepare you wyttayles: for after the dayes ye shall passe ouer this Iordā, to go in & enioye the lande, which the Lord your god giveth you to possesse it. And vnto the Rubenites, Gadites, and halfe the trybe of Manasses, spake Josua, sayinge: * Remember the woide, which Moses the seruaunt of the Lord commaunded you, sayinge:

the Lord your God hath gyuen you rest, and hath gyuen you this lande: Your wyues, your chyldren, and your castell shall remaine in the lande which Moses gave you on this syde Iordā: but ye shall go before your brethren, armed al ye men of warre, and helpe them vntill the Lord haue gyuen your brethren rest, as he hath you, and vntill they also haue obtayned the lande, which the Lord your God gyveth them. And then shall ye retorne vnto the lande of your possession and enioy it, whych lande Moses the Lordes seruaunt gave you on this syde Iordā towardes the sunne ryngyng. And they answered Josua, sayinge: * All that thou hast commaunded vs, we wyll do, and whither soeuer thou shalt bid vs, we wyll go. Accordyng as we obeyed Moses in al thynges, so wyll we obey the, onely the Lord thy God be wth the as he was wth Moses. And whosoever he be that both disobey thy mouth, and wyll not hearken vnto thy wordes in al that thou commaundest him, let him dye. Dearly be stronge and of good courage.

The ii. Chapter.

Josua sendeth spies to Jericho, which were hyd of Rahab.

Ad Josua the sonne of Nun sente oute of Jericho two men to spy secretly, sayinge: go and vewe the lande, and also Jericho. And they wente, and came into an harlottes house, named Rahab, and lodged there. And it was tolde the kynge of Jericho, and sayde: Beholde, there came men in hyther to nyght, of the chyldren of Israel, to spy out the countrey.

And the kynge of Jericho sent vnto Rahab, sayinge: byngne for the the men that are come to the, and whiche are entred into thyne house, for they be come to seache out all the lande.

And the woman toke the two men, & and hyd them. And sayde thus: in dede there came men vnto me, but I wylte not whence they were. And about the tyme of the shutting of the gate whē it was darke, the men went oute, whither the men went I wote not: solo we ye after them quychlye, for ye shall overtake them. But she brought them vp to the rofe of the house, & hyd them wth the stalkes of flaxe, whych she hadde lyngyng abrode vpon the rofe. And the men of the cite pursued after the, & way to Iordā, euen vnto the scrype, & as sone as they whiche pursued after them were gone out, they shut the gate.

And as euer they were a slepe, she came vp vnto the m vpon the rofe, and sayd vnto the men: I knowe the Lord hath gyuen you the lande, for the feare of you is fallen vpon vs, and the inhabitants of the lande saynte at the presence of you. For we haue heard, how the Lord dyed vpon the water of the reed see before you, whē you came out of Egypt, and what you dyd vnto the two kynges of the Amorites, that were on the other syde Iordā, * Sehon & Og, whom ye vtterly destroyed. And as soone as we had hearde these thynges, our hearts were afrayed, & our hartes dyd saynte. And there remayned nomore courage in any man at the presence of you. For the Lord your God, he is the God in heauen aboue, and in earth beneath.

Now

And Joshua called the xii. men which he had prepared of the children of Israel, out of every tribe a man, & Joshua sayde vnto them: get you before the ark of the Lord your God, even thow the myddes of Jordan, and take vp every man of you a stone vpon his shoulder according vnto the nombre of the tribes of the children of Israel, that this may be a signe amonge you. That when your children aske their fathers in tyme to come, saying: what meane these stones wpon you? he maye answere them howe & the waters of Jordan dreynd at the presence of the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord. For whē it went ouer Jordan, the waters of Jordan dreynd. And these stones are become a memorial vnto the children of Israel for ever.

And the children of Israel dyd even so as Joshua commaunded, and toke vp xii. stoues out of the myddes of Jordan, as the Lord sayd vnto Joshua, according to the nombre of the tribes of the childre of Israel, and carped them away wth them, vnto the place where they lodged, and layed them downe there. And Joshua sette vp twelue stones also in the myddes of Jordan, in the place where the feete of the prestes which bare the arke of the testament, stode.

And there haue they continued vnto this day. For the prestes which bare the arke stode in the myddes of Jordan, vntill all was finished that the Lord commaunded Joshua to saye vnto the people, according to al that Moses charged Joshua. And the people hailed and wēt ouer.

It fortunēd also, that when all the people were cleane ouer, the arke of the Lord went ouer also, and the prestes before the people. * And the children of Ruben, and the children of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasse wēt before the children of Israel armed, as Moses charged the. Euen fourty thousand prepared for war, went before the Lord vnto battel, thowse & playne of Jericho, that day the Lord magnified Joshua in the syght of al Israel, & they feared hym, as they feared Moses all dayes of his lyfe.

And the Lord spake vnto Joshua, sayinge: commaunde the prestes that beare the arke of wytnesse, to come vp out of Jordan. Joshua therfore commaunded the prestes, sayinge: Come ye vp out of Jordan. And whē the prestes that bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord were come vp out of the myddes of Jordan, and as soone as the sooles of the prestes feete were set on the drye lande, the waters of Jordane returned agayne vnto theyr place, and went ouer al theyr bankes as they dyd before. And the people came vp out of Jordan the tenth daye of the first moneth, and pitched in Gilgal, euen in the easte boorde of the citty Jericho.

And the twelue stones whiche they toke out of Jordan, dyd Joshua pytche in Gilgal. And he spake vnto the children of Israel, sayinge: * If your children aske theyr fathers in tyme to come & saye: what meane these stones? ye shall saye vnto your children, and saye: Israel came ouer this Jordan on drye lande. For the Lord your God dyed vpon the water of Jordan before you, vntill ye were gone ouer, as the Lord your God dyd the red see: whiche he dyd vpon the daye that we were gone ouer. For ye shall saye of & world may knowe: hand of the Lord, how mightie it is, & ye maye knowe the Lord your God for euer.

The v. Chapter

Cananites are destroyed.

And it fortunēd that whē al the hinges of the Amorites which are beyond Jordan west ward, & all the hinges of the Cananites which were by the see, herde how the Lord had dyed vpon the waters of Jordan before the children of Israel vntill they were gone ouer, & they heretofore feared. And ther was no spirit in the any more for the presence of the children of Israel.

That same tyme the Lord sayde vnto Joshua: * Make the sharpe knyues (of stone) & to go agayne & circumsise the children of Israel the second tyme.

And Joshua made him sharpe knyues (of stone) and circumsised the children of Israel in the top of the foresaynes. And this is the cause why Joshua circumsised al the people that came out of Egypt: Namelye such as were males, because all the men of warre dyed in the wyldernesse by the waye after they came out of Egypt. For al the people that came out were circumsised.

But all the people that were bozne in the wyldernesse by the waye after they came out of Egypt were not circumsised. For the children of Israel walked fourty yeres in the wyldernesse, till all the people of the men of warre that came out of Egypt were consumed because they hearkened not vnto the voyce of the Lord.

Wherefore the Lord sware, that he wolde not geue them the lande: whiche the Lord sware vnto theyr fathers, that he wolde geue vs, eue a lande: that sheweth wth myke & hony. And the children whiche he set vp in theyr stede, them Joshua circumsised: for they were vncircumsised, because they circumsised them not by the waye.

And when they had circumsised al the people they abode still together in the host till they were hole. And the Lord sayd vnto Joshua: this daye I haue take away the name of Egypt fro you: wherefore the name of the same place is called Gilgal vnto this day. And the children of Israel abode in Gilgal: & held the feast of passeouer the xiii. daye of the moneth at eue in the playne of Jericho. And they dyd eate of the coine of the lande, on the morow after passeouer swete cakes & parched coine in the selfe same day. For the manna ceased on the morow after they had begone to eate of the coine of the land, neyther had the children of Israel manna anye more, but dyd eate of the coine of the lande of Canaan that yere.

And it fortunēd, that when Joshua was nye to Jericho, he lyft vp his eyes and looked, and behelde, there stode a man agaynst hym, harnyng a swerde drawn in his hande. And Joshua wēt vnto hym, and sayde vnto hym: art thou on our syde, or on our aduersaryes?

And he sayd: Naye, but as a captayne of the host of the Lord am I now come. And Joshua fel on his face to the earth, & dyd reuerence, & sayd unto

And he sayd, I will carry my Lorde vnto his sepulchur And the captiues of the Lordees hooste sayde vnto Josua, wher shal we of the fote, for a place wher it shal be, as thou sayest. And Josua diu

And ye shall compass the city, all ye that be men of warre, & go rounde about it once, and so shall you do seuen dayes. And seuen priestes shall beare before the arke, seuen trompettes of rammes hoornes <sup>as that be used in the Tabernacle</sup>. And the se-ueneth daye, ye shall compass the citie. vii. tymes, and the priestes shall blowe with the trompettes.

And when they make a long blast with the rames hozne, & ye heare the sounde of the hozne, all the people shall shoute wyth a great shoute. And then shall the wall of the cytie fall downe, & the people that ascende vp, euery man streyght before him. And Iosua the son of Nun called the prestes & sayd vnto them: take vp the arke of p appoyntmet, & let .vii. prestes beare. vii. trompettes of rammes hoznes befoze the arke of the Lorde. And he sayd vnto the people, go and compass the cytie: and let him y is harnessed, go befoze the arke of the Lorde. And when Iosua had spok: n vnto the people, the seuen prestes bare the seuen trompettes of rammes hoznes, & went forth befoze the arke of the Lorde, and blew wyth the trompettes, and the arke of the couenant of the Lorde followed them.

25 And al the men of armes wet before the priests, that blew wth the trompettes, and the commen people came after the arke: & the priests that went blew wth trompettes. And Jo sua commaunded the people, saying: Ye shal not shoute, ner make any noyse wth youre voyce, neither shall anye worde pcerde oute of youre mouthe, vntyll the daye I byd you shoute, then shall ye shoute. And so the arke of the Lorde co passed the citie, and went aboute it ones: & they retourned into the host, and lodged there.

And Joshua rose early in the morning, and the priests took the arke of the Lord, and vii. priests bare vii. trumpettes of rammes hoznes, and went before the arke of the Lord, and blew wth the trumpettes. And all the men of armes went before them, but the comen people came after the arke of the Lord, whiche went before wth the blowing of the trumpettes. And the second day they compassed the cite ones, and returned againe into the host, and so they byd fyve dayes.

And when the seventh day came, they rose early: even in the dawning of the day, and compassed the citie after the same manner seuen tymes: only that day they compassed the citie seuen tymes.

C And at the seventh tyme, when the prestres blewe wth the trompettes, Iosua sayde vnto the people, Mount, for the Lord hath giuen you the citie. And the citie shalbe damned both it and al that are therein, vnto the Lord, only Ihabah the harlot shall spue, and al that are with her in the house, because she hath the messengers that we sent. And in any wise be ye ware of the excommunicate things, lest ye make your selues excommunicate, and take of the excommunicate things, and make the booke of Israel excommunicate and trouble it. But all the silver, golde, vesselles of brasse, and y<sup>e</sup> shall be consecrate vnto the Lord, and shall come into his treasure.

And the people shouted, and blew with trumpets. And when the people heard the sounde of the trape, they shouted with a greateshoute: and the wall fel downe, so that the people went vp into the cite, every man streight before him and toke the cite. And they utterly destroyed all that was in the cite, bothe man and woma younge, and olde, ox, shepe, and asse, with the edge of the swerde.

Then Joshua sayde vnto the two men that had spyed out the countrey: * goe into the harlottes house, and bring out thence the woman, and al that she hath, as ye sware to her. And the yong men that were spies, went in, and brought out Rahab, and her father and mother, and her brethren, and all that she had. And they broughte out all her kynrede, and put them wpthoute the hoost of Israel.

And they burnt the citty with fyre, and all that was therein. Only the siluer and the golde, the vessels of brasse and yron, they put vnto the treasure of the house of the Lorde. * And Iosua saued Rahab the harlotte, and her fathers hou-sholde, and all that she had, and she dwelt in Israel euē vnto this day, because she hyd messengers, whiche Iosua sent to spy out Iericho.

And Joshua swore at that tyme, sayinge: cursed be the man before the Lord, that ryleth vp, and buyldeth this ctyte Jericho: he shall lay the foundation in his eldest sonne, and in hys youngest sonne shall he set vp the gates of it. And so the Lord was with Joshua, and his name was norsed throughout all landes.

The. vii. Chapter.

That is spread out. That is stretch.

And Iosua sent men fro Jericho to Hai, which is besyde Bethaie, on the east syde of Bethel, & spake vnto the, saying: get you up, & view the coun-trie. And yme went vp, & looked out Hai. And returned to Iosua, & sayd vnto hym: let not al the people go vp, but lette as it were a two or thre thousand of vs go vp, & smyte Hai, & make not al the people to labour thither, for they are but fewe.

And so there went vpthether of the people about a thre thousande men, & they fled before men of hai. And the men of hai smote of them vpon a thv tpe and syxx men: for they chased them from before y gate euen vnto Debarim. & smote

E And he said unto them, I have yet many things to say unto you, but ye cannot hear them now. Howbeit I will send unto you Tarsai Paphes, one of the chief priests, who shall speak unto you, saying, Behold, I am sending unto you John Baptist, who shall prepare the way before me.

And smote them in the going downe. Wherefore the better of the people * for feare, meted awaye lyke water. And Josua rente hys clothes, and fell to the earth vpon his face before the arke of the Lord, vntyl the euentyde, he and the elders of Israel, and put earth vpon theyr berben.

And Josua sayde: * Alas, O Lord God, wherefore hast thou broughte this people ouer Jordan, to deliuer vs into the hande of the Amorites, and to destroye vs: wolde to God we had bene content, & dwelt on the other syde Jordan.
Oh Lord what shal I saye, when Israel turne theyr backs before theyr enemyes. Surely the Cananites, and all the inhabitants of the lande shall heare of it, and shall conspyre agaynst vs, and destroye the name of vs out of the world.
And what wylt thou do vnto thy myghty name?

And the Lord sayde vnto Josua: get the vp: wherefore lpest thou thus vpon thy face? Israel haue sinned, and they haue transgressed myne appoyntemente, whiche I commaunded them: for they haue taken of the excommunicate thinges, & haue stolen, and dissembled, and put them vnto theyr owne stuffe. And therefore is it that the chyliden of Israel cannot stande before theyr enemyes, but shall tourne theyr backs before their enemyes because they be excommunicate. Neither wylt thou be with you any more, except ye rote out the excommunicate from amonge you.

And therfore, and sanctifye the people, and saye: sanctifye your selues agaynst tomorowe for so sayde the Lord God of Israel. There is a damned thyng amonge you (O Israel) & therfore ye cannot stande agaynst your enemyes, vntyl ye haue put the dāned thyng fro amonge you. Tomorowe morninge therfore ye shall be brought accorpyng to your trybes. And scribe whych the Lord taketh, shall come accorpyng to the kindreds thereof. And the kindred whiche the Lord shall fynde guilty, shall come by householdes. And the householde whiche the Lord shall fynde faultie, shall come man by man. And he is founde in excommunication, shall be burnt wth fyre he & al þe hath, because he hath trasgressed the covenante of þe Lord & wrought folie in Israel.

And so Josua rose vperly in the morning and brought Israel by theyr trybes: & the trybe of Juda was caught. And he brought þe hundredes of Juda, and toke the hundrede of the jarchytes.
And he brought the hundred of þe jarchites, man by man, and zabdi was caught. And he brought hys householde man by man, and Acan the sonne of Carmi, the sonne of zabdi, the sonne of zareth in the trybe of Juda was caught.

And Josua sayd vnto Acan: my sonne: I beseeche the, geue gloire to the Lord God of Israel, and geue hym ppyse, and shewe me what thou hast done, hyde it not from me.

And Acan answered Josua, and sayde: of a truthe: I haue sinned agaynst the Lord God of Israel, & thus and thus haue I done. I saue amonge the people a goodly Babylonish garment, & two hundred sicles of syluer, & a tonge of golde of fytye species weyght, and I coueted them, and toke them. And behold they lye hyd in the earthen my tent, & the syluer is there vnder.

And so Josua sent messengers: whych when they came vnto hys tent, beholde, they wer hyd in hys tent, and the syluer there vnder.

Wherefore they toke them out of the myddest of his tent, and brought them vnto Josua, and vnto all the chyliden of Israel, and layed them out before the Lord.

And Josua toke Acan the sonne of zareth and the syluer, and the garment & the tonge of golde and hys sonnes and hys daughters, hys oxen, & hys asses, his shepe, and hys tent, and all that he had: and all Israel wth hym brought them vnto the valleye of Acor.

And Josua sayde: In as moche as thou hast troubled vs, the Lord shal trouble the this day And all Israel stoned hym with stones, and buttered them wth fyre, and ouerwhelmed them wth stones. And they cast vpon hym a greete heape of stones vnto this daye. And so the Lord turned from the wrath of his indignacion. And the name of the place is called the valleye of Acor vnto this daye.

The viii. Chapter.

The siege & burning of Hai. The hyngre thereof is banned. Josua setteth vp an altare. He blesteth the people.

And the Lord sayde vnto Josua: * feare not, neyther be thou faynte hearted. Take all the men of warre wth the and vp, and gette the to Hai. Beholde, I haue giuen into thyne hande the hyngre of Hai, and hys people, hys cytye, and hys lande.

And thou shalt do to Hai and her hyngre, as thou dydest vnto Jericho and her hyngre. Reuer the lesse, the spolie and castell thereof shal ye take vnto your selues. And lape a watche vnto the towne, on the backsyde thereof.

And so Josua arose, and all the men of warre to go vp agaynst Hai. And Josua chose out .xxx. thousande stronge men of warre, and sent them awaye by nyght. And he commaunded them sayinge: beholde, ye shall lape awaye vnto the to wne on the backsyde thereof. So not dreye far from the cytye, but be all readye.

And I and all the people that are wth me, wyl appoche vnto the cytye. And when they come out agaynst vs, as they dyd at the fyrste tyme, then wyl we lye before the. For they wyl come out after vs, and we wyl byngne them out of the cytye: For they wyl saye: they lye before vs as at the fyrst tyme, & we wyl lye before the.
In the meane tyme shal ye rype vp from lying awaye and destroye the cytye. For the Lord your God wyl deliuer it into your hande. And whē ye haue taken the cytye, ye shall set it on fyre.

Accorpyng to the commaundement of the Lord shal ye do: beholde, I haue charged you.
Josua therfore sent them forth, and they went to lye awaye, and abode betwene Bethel and Hai, on the west syde of the cite of Hai. But Josua lodged that nyght amonge the people.

And Josua rose vperly in the morning, and nombred the people and went vp. & the elders of Israel before the people agaynst Hai. And al

A. iiii. the men

the men of warre that were with hym went up and downe nye, and came agaynst the cytie, & pitched on the north syde of Hai. And there was a halcy betweene them & Hai. And he took vpon a fyue thousand men, & put them to lye awayte, betwene Bethel and Hai, on the weste syde of the citie. And they put the people out all & hoste that were on the northsyde agaynst the cytie & the lynes awayte on the west. And Josua waited the same nyght in the myddes of the valley. And it fortuned, that whē the kyng of Hai saw it, they halted & rose vp early, and the men of cytie went out agaynst Israel to battayle, he and all his people at a tyme appoynted, euen before the playne, and wiste not that there were lynes awayte on the backsyde of the cytie.

And Josua and all Israel sayned them selues to be put to the worke before them, and fled toward the wyldernesse. And all the people of the towne were called together, to folowe after them. And they folowed after Josua, and were drawen awaye from the cytie. And there was not a man left in Hai and in Bethel, that went not out after Israel. And they leste the cytie open, and folowed after Israel.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: stretch out the spere & is in thine hande toward Hai, for I wil gyue it vnto thy hand. And Josua stretched out the spere that he had in hys hande, toward the cytie. And the lynes awayte arose quychlye out of theyr place, and ran as sone as Josua had stretched out hys hande, and they entered into the cytie, and toke it, and halted, and let the citie on fyre. And when y men of Hai looked backe after them, they sawe the smoke of the citie ascend vnto heauē. And they had no leysure to flye, eptber this way or y, & the people fled to the wyldernesse, turned backe agayne vpon the folowers.

And when Josua and all Israel sawe that the lynes awayte had taken the cytie, and that the smoke of it ascended, they turned agayne & layed on the men of Hai. And the other ensued out of the citie agaynst them. And so were they in the myddes of Israel: for these were on the one side of them, and the rest on the other syde. And they layed vpon them, so that they let none of them escape, nor remayne. And the kyng of Hai they toke alque, & brought him to Josua. And when Israel had made an ende of slayinge all the inhabytors of Hai in the felde of the wyldernesse, where they chased them, & when they were all fallen on the edge of the swerde, vntyl they were wasted, all the Israelites returned vnto Hai, & smote it in the edge of the swerde. And all that fell that daye, bothe of men and women, were twelue thousande, euen all the men of Hai.

For Josua plucked not his hande backe agayne which he stretched out vnto the spere, vntyl he had utterly destroyed all the inhabytors of Hai.

¶ Onely the castell & the spoyle of the cytie, Israel toke vnto the selues, accordyng vnto the woide of the Lorde, whiche he commaunded Josua. And Josua let Hai on fyre, and made it an hepe for euer, and a wyldernesse, euen vnto this daye. And the kyng of Hai he hanged on a tree, vntyl eue. And as sone as the sunne was downe, Josua commaunded that they shoulde take the carthasse downe of the tree, & cast it at the entryng of the gate of the citie, and & laye thereon a great heape of stones, that remayneth vnto this day.

Then Josua built an altare vnto the Lorde God of Israel, in mounte Ebal, as Moses the seruant of the Lorde commaunded the chyldren of Israel, and as it is wrytten in the booke of the lawe of Moses: an altare of whole stones, ouer which no man hath lyfte any toke of yron. And they sacrificed thereon burnisacrifices vnto the Lorde, & offered peaceofferings. And he wrot ther vpon stones, a rehearsal of the lawe of Moses, & wrot it in the presence of the chyldren of Israel.

And all Israel and the elders therof, and theyr officers & Judges stode, parte on this syde the arke, and parte on that syde, before the prestes that were Leuytes, whiche bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lorde: as well the straiger, as they that were bozne amonge them: halfe of them on the forefront of mounte Garazin, & halfe of them on the foorste of mounte Ebal: as Moses the seruant of the Lorde had commaunded before that they shoulde blesse the people Israel.

Afterwarde, he red all the wordes of the lawe, the blesynges and cursynges, accordyng to all that is wrytten in the booke of the lawe: And there was not one worde of all that Moses commaunded, which Josua red not before al the congregation of Israel: The women and chyldren & the straigers that were come standyng amonge them.

¶ The ix. Chapter

¶ The Gibeonites obtayne peace of Josua.

As it fortuned, that when all the kynges that dwell on this syde Jordan, in the abysses and valeyes, and alonge by al the crookes of the great see ouer agaynst Libanon. (Namely the Hethites, the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Pherezites, the Hittites, and the Jebusites) heard the therof, they gathered them selues together, to fyght agaynst Josua, & agaynst Israel with one accord.

¶ And the inhabytors of Gibeon herd what Josua had done vnto Jericho, and to Hai. And they dyd worse wyllpye, and went, and made them selues embassadours, and toke old sayres, and olde sackes vpon theyr asses, and wone bottelles olde, and rent and worne, and old cloured shous vpon theyr fete, and theyr rayments was olde, and all theyr prouision of byed was dyed vnto, and hoozed. And they came vnto Josua in to the host, to Gilgal, and sayd vnto hym and vnto al the men of Israel: We be come from a farr countrey, and now we make agrement w vs. And the men of Israel sayde vnto the Hittites: peradventure thou dwellest among vs, and then howe can I make peace with the?

And they sayde vnto Josua: We are thy seruantes. And Josua sayde vnto them agayne: what are ye, and whence come ye? They answered hym. It is a very farr countrey thy seruantes are come, for the name of the Lorde thy God: for we haue herd the same name (of the power) of hym, & all that he dyd in Egypte, & all that he dyd to the two the two kynges of the Amorites that were beyond Jordan, & the kynges of Hebron, and the kyng of Basan, whiche was at Ashtaroth. Wherfore, our elders and all the inhabitants of our country spake to vs, saying: take by tayles wyth you to serue by the waie, and gouerne them, and save vnto them: we are your seruantes. And now make ye a couenat of peace wyth vs, & thyn our food of breade, we toke wyth vs oute of our houses whette, the daye we departed to come vnto you. But now behold, it is dyed vpon & holed. And these bottels of wyne which we fylled, were new: and se they be rent. And these our garments & shoes, are woone for oldenes, by the reason of the exceeding longe iourney.

¶ And the men toke of theyr vitayles, and counceiled not wyth the mouth of the Lorde. And Josua made peace wyth them, and made couenat wyth them, that they shoulde be suffered to lyue: and the Lordes of the congregacyon swore vnto the. And it fortuned, that .iiij. daies after they had made peace wyth the, they hearde that they were theyr neyghbours, & that they dwell among the. And the chyldren of Israel toke theyr iourney, & came vnto theyr cyties the thirde day & theyr cyties were Gibeon, & Capthira, Berob & Cariath Jarim. And the chyldren of Israel knewe the not, because the Lordes of the congregacyon had sworn vnto them by the Lorde God of Israel. And all the multitude murmured agaynst the Lordes. But all the Lordes sayd vnto all the congregacyon: we haue sworn vnto them by the Lorde God of Israel, and therfore we maye not hurte them. But this we will do to them. We wyl let them lyue, lest wrath be vpon vs because of the othe which we swore vnto the. And the Lordes sayde vnto them agayne: Let them lyue, & and hewe wood, & draw water vnto all the congregacyon & they shal as the Lordes sayd vnto them.

¶ And Josua sent for them, and talked wyth them, and sayde: wherfore haue ye begyled vs saying: We dwell farre from you, whan ye dwell amonge vs: & now are ye cursed, and there shal not seale to be of you, bondmen and hewers of wood & drawers of water for the house of my god.

And they answered Josua and sayde: it was tolde thy seruantes, howe that the Lorde thy God had commaunded his seruante Moses to gyue you all the land, and to destroye all the inhabitants thereof out of your sight, and therfore we were exceeding sore afrayde. (¶ & they shal orde) for our lyues at the presence of you, & haue done this thyng: and beholde we are in thyne hande, as it semeth good and ryghte in thyne eyes to do vnto vs, so do.

And euen so shal he vnto them, and ryd them oute of the hande of the chyldren of Israel, and they shewe them not. And Josua made the that same day hewers of wood, & drawers of water for the congregacyon & for the altar of God vnto this daye, in the place which God shoulde chuse.

The .x. Chapter.

¶ The Amorites are overcome of Josua. He earnestly does. The sunne standeth still. The kynges are hanged.

And it fortuned, that when Adonizeb kyng of Jerusalem had hearde howe Josua had taken Hai and had destroyed it, and howe that as he had done to Jericho and her kyng, euen so he had done to Hai & her kyng, and how the inhabitants of Gibeon had made peace wyth Israel, and were amonge them, they feared exceedingly, for Gibeon was a greete cytye, as any cytye of that kyngdome, and was greater then Hai, and all the men thereof were very myghtye.

Wherfore Adonizeb kyng of Jerusalem sent vnto Hoham kyng of Hebron, and vnto Piria kyng of Jarmuth, & vnto Japhia kyng of Lachis, and vnto Dabir kyng of Eglon, saying: Come vpon vnto me, & helpe me, for we maye smyte Gibeon: for they haue made peace wyth Josua & wyth the chyldren of Israel. Wherfore the fyue kynges of the Amorites, the kyng of Jerusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the kyng of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachis, and the kyng of Eglon gathered the selues together: they with all their hostes and besieged Gibeon, & made warre agaynst it.

¶ And the men of Gibeon sent vnto Josua, and to the hoste of Gilgal, saying: wythdrawe not thy hande from thy seruantes, come vpon to vs, to saue vs: & to helpe vs. For all the kynges of the Amorites which dwell in the mountaynes, are gathered together agaynst vs.

And so Josua ascended from Gilgal, he and all the people of warre wyth hym, and all the men of myght, and the Lorde sayd vnto Josua: feare them not, for I haue deliuered them into thyne hande. Acyther shall any of them stande agaynst the. Josua therfore came vnto them sodenly, and went vpon from Gilgal all nyghte. And the Lorde troubled the before Israel, and shewe them wyth a greete slaughter at Gibeon, and chased them alonge the way that goeth vnto Bethoron: and smote them to Elah & Mahada. And it fortuned, that as they fled from Israel, and were in the goynge downe to Bethoron, the Lorde casted downe greete stones from heauen vpon them, vntyl Elah. And ther were more dead with the hayle stones, then they were whom the chyldren of Israel slew wth the swerde.

¶ Then spake Josua before the Lorde, in the daye when the Lorde deliuered the Amorites before the chyldren of Israel, and he sayde in the sight of Israel: Sunne stand thou still vpon Gibeon, and thou Moone, in Aialon. And the sunne abode, and the Moone stood still, vntyl the people auerged them selues vpon theyr enemies. Is not this wyrtten in the booke of the ryghteous? The sunne (I say) abode in the middell of heauen, and halsted not to go downe by the space of an hole daye. And there was no daye lyke that before it, or after it, that the Lorde hearde the voyce of a man. For the Lord fought for Israel.

¶ And Josua retourned, and all Israel with him vnto the hoste of Gilgal: but the fyue kynges fled and were hyd in a caue at Mahada. And it was told Josua of one, saying: the fyue kynges are hidde hyd in a caue which is at Mahada. And Josua

The. v. Kynges whom Josua. Josua destroyed

Josua sayde: roule great stones vpon the mouth of the caue, and set men by it, for to kepe them.

And stande ye not still, but come after your enemyes, and smyte all the hyndemonges. And saye for them not to enter into the city: for the Lord your God hath deliuered them into your hand. And it fortuned when Josua and the chyldre of Israel had made an ende of slepyng them with an exceeding great slaughter: yll they were washed, the residue that remayned of them, entred into walled ctyes.

And all the people returned to the hoste, to Josua at Wakeda in peace, neyther dyd any more hye tonge agaynst the chyldren of Israel. Then sayd Josua: open the mouth of the caue, and byng out these fyue kynges vnto me oute of the caue. And they dyd so, and broughte those fyue kynges vnto hym out of the caue, euen the kyng of Jerusalem, the kyng of Hebron, the kyng of Jarmuth, the kyng of Lachys, and the kyng of Eglon.

E And it fortuned, that when they broughte oute those kynges vnto Josua: Josua called for all the men of Israel, and sayde vnto the chiefe of the men of warre, whyche went with hym: come here, and put your fete vpon the neckes of these kynges. And they came nere and putte theyr fete vpon the neckes of them. And Josua sayde vnto them: Ye shall not feare no: be saynt hereto: But be stronge and plucke vp your berres, for thus shall the Lorde do to all your enemyes agaynst whom ye fyghte.

And then Josua smote them, and slewe them, and hanged them on fyue trees. And they hanged slyl vpon the trees vntill the euenyng. And at the goyng downe of the sunne, it fortuned that Josua gaue commaundement, and they toke them downe of the trees, and caste them into the caue, (where in they had bene dyd) and layed stones in the caues mouth, whyche remayne vntill this daye.

Josua. viii. f

Deut. xxx. a

Josua. vi. a

And that same day Josua toke Wakeda and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and the kyng therof also: & destroyed he utterly, with all the soules that were therein, and let noughte remayne. And he dyd to the kyng of Wakeda as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.

Then Josua went from Wakeda, and all Israel with hym vnto Libna, and fought agaynst Libna. And the Lord deliuered it and the kyng therof into the bande of Israel: and he smote it with the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein. He let noughte remayne in it, but dyd vnto the kyng therof as he dyd vnto the kyng of Jericho.

A And Josua departed from Libna, and all Israel with hym vnto Lachys, and besieged it, & assaulted it. And the Lord deliuered Lachys into the bande of Israel, which toke it the seconde daye, and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein, doyng accordyng to al, as he had done to the cite of Libna.

Then Hozai kyng of Gaser came vp to helpe Lachys: And Josua smote hym and his people, vntill noughte remayned of hym.

And led Lachys Josua departed, vnto Eglon, and all Israel with hym, and they besieged it, and assaulted it, and toke it the same daye, and smote it with the edge of the swearde, and all the soules that were therein he utterly destroyed the same daye, accordyng to all that he had done to Lachys.

And Josua departed vp from Eglon and all Israel with hym, vnto Hebron. And they fought agaynst it, and when they had taken it, they smote it with the edge of the swearde, and the kyng therof, and all the towncs that perteyned to it, and all the soules that were therein, and he lette noughte remayne: but dyd accordyng to all as he had done to Eglon, and destroyed it utterly, and all the soules that were therein.

And Josua returned, and all Israel with hym to Dabir, and fought agaynst it. And whil he had taken it, and the kyng therof, and all the towncs that perteyned thereto, they smote them with the edge of the swearde, and utterly destroyed all the soules that were therein, neyther let he oughte remayne. Euen as he dyd to Hebron, so he dyd to Dabir and the kyng therof, as he had done also to Libna and her kyng.

Josua therfore smote all the hyll countreys, and the southe countreys, and the valleyes, and the hyllsides, & al theyr kynges, and let noughte remayne of them, but utterly destroyed all that breathed, as the Lorde God of Israel commaunded. And Josua smote them from Cadis barne vnto Alah, and all the countreys of Golan, euen vnto Sibeon. And those kynges and their lande dyd Josua take at one tyme: because the Lorde God of Israel foughte for Israel. And Josua and all Israel returned vnto the hoste that was in Gilgal.

The. xi. chapter.

The battayle of Josua with hye kynges.

And it fortuned, that when Jabin kyng of Hazor had herde those thynges: he sent to Jobab kyng of Madon, & to the kyng of Simir, & to the kyng of Achish: & vnto fyue kynges & were by the north in the mountaynes, & playnes toward the southside of Gengeroth, & in the lowe countreys: & in the borders of Doz westwarde, & vnto the Cananites, both by east and west and vnto the Amorites, Hethites, Hheresites, & Jebusites in the mountaynes: & vnto the Hittites & were vnder hermon in the lande of Sydon: And they came out & all theyr hostes with them, a multitude of folke, eue as the lande that is on the see shoze in a greute nombze with horses & charettes exceeding many. And al these kynges met togyther, and came and pyched togyther at the waters of Meron, for to fyghte agaynst Israel.

And the Lord sayd vnto Josua: be not afrayde at the presence of the: for to morowe about this tyme will I deliuer them all slayne before Israel: thou shalt hough theyr horses, and burne their charettes with fyre. And so Josua came, and all the men of warre with hym agaynst them by the waters of Meron, and sodenly fell vpon

upon them. And for the Lord he deliuered them into the hande of Israel: and they smote them, and chased them vnto great Sidon, and vnto the wylde wateres, and vnto the valeye of Gyspa wherhe is Eastwarde: and smote them vntill they had none remaining of the. And Josua led vnto the, as the Lord had him: he hanged their howses, and burnt theyr charrettes wylde fyre.

And Josua at that tyme turned backe, & roke Hazor, & smote the kyng therof with y swearde. And Hazor before tyme was y head of al those kyngdomes. And they smote all the soules that were therein wylde the edge of the swearde, vterly destroyeng all: & nothynge that breathed, was let remainy. And he burnt Hazor wylde fyre. And all the cytyes of those kynges, and all the kynges of the dyd Josua take, & smote the wylde the edge of the swearde, & vterly destroyed the. * as Moses y seruaut of the Lorde comaunded.

But Israel burnt none of the cytyes that stode by in their strenght, save Hazor only that Josua burnt. And all the spoyles of the sayd cytyes and the catel, the chyldren of Israel caughe vnto them selues. But the men onely they smote wylde the edge of the swearde vntill they had destroyed the, neyther left they ought that had breath. As the Lorde comaunded Moses y seruaut, so dyd Moses comaunde Josua, and euen so dyd Josua so that he mynyshed no word of all that the Lorde comaunded Moses.

And so Josua toke all the lande, the hylls and all the south countrey, and all the lande of Golan, and the lowe countrey, and the playne, & the mountayne of Israel, and the lowe countrey of the same, euen from the mounte of partyng, that goeth vp to Seir vnto the playne of Gad in the valeye of Libanon, vnder mount Hermon. And al the kynges of the same he toke, and smote them. And slewe them.

Josua made warre longe tyme wylde those kynges: neyther was there any cytye that made peace wylde the chyldren of Israel, * save those heretites that enababed Gibeon, and therfore all other they toke wylde battayle, for it came of the Lorde, whych dyd harden theyr hertes that they shulde come agaynst Israel in battayle & that they shulde destroye them vterly, & shewe them no merce, but to byngne them to nought: as the Lorde comaunded Moses.

And that same season came Josua, and destroyed the Enakites oute of the mountaynes: namely out of Hebzon, Dabir, Anab, and oute of al the mountaynes of Iuda, and oute of al the mountaynes of Israel. And Josua destroyed them vterly, wylde their cytyes. There was not one Enakite left in the lande of the chyldren of Israel, onely in Asab, * Seth, and Asdod, there remainyd of them.

And Josua toke y hole lande, accordyng to all y the Lorde sayde vnto Moses, & Josua gaue it for a possessy vnto Israel: accordyng to theyr partes & trybes: & the lande rested from warre.

The. xij. Chapter.

What kynges Josua and the chyldren of Israel kyllde, whiche were in nomber. xxx.

These are the kynges of the lande, whiche the chyldren of Israel smote and possided theyr lande. On the other syde Jordan Eastwarde from the river Arnon, vnto mount Hermon, and all the lande eastwarde. * Seir the kyng of the Amorytes, that dwelt in Hebzon, and in the south of Arser, whiche is besyde the ryuer of Arnon, and from the myddle of the ryuer, and from holse Gilead vnto the ryuer Jabok, whiche is in the bozbe of the chyldren of Ammon. And from the playne vnto the ser of Ceneroth eastwarde, and vnto the ser in the playne: euen the salte ser eastwarde, the way to Beth Jelsmorb, and from the south vnder the spynges of the hyll.

And the coaste of Og kyng of Basan which was of the remnaunte of the Gyautes, and dwelte at Asaroth, and Edrat, and reygned in mount Hermon, and in Balcah: and in all Basan, vnto the bozbe of the Gesarites, & the Gachabites, & halfe mounte Gilead, vnto the borders of Sehon kyng of Hebzon. Moses the seruaut of the Lorde, & the chyldren of Israel smote them, & Moses the seruaut of the Lorde, gaue theyr lande for a possessy vnto the Rubenites, Gaddites, & halfe the trybe of Manasses.

These are the kynges of the countrey which Josua and the chyldren of Israel smote on the syde Jordan, eastwarde, from the playne of Gad, whiche is in the valeye of Libanon: euen vnto the partyng mounte that goethe vp to Seir. Whych lande Josua gaue vnto the trybes of Israel to possesse, to euery man his parte: in the upper lande, and nether lande, in playnes and hylls, in the wyldernesse, and southe countrey: the Hethtyes, the Amozites, the Canaanites, y Pherezites, y Heuites, & y Jebusites.

* The kyng of Jericho: was one. * The kyng of Hai whiche is besyde Bethel: one. * The kyng of Ierusalem: one. The kyng of Hebzon: one. The kyng of Jarmuth: one. The kyng of Lachys: one. The kyng of Eglon: one. The kyng of Gazer: one. The kyng of Debir: one. The kyng of Seder: one. The kyng of Hozma: one. The kyng of Arab: one. The kyng of Libna: one. The kyng of Adullam: one. The kyng of Gaheda: one. The kyng of Bethel: one. The kyng of Chapuah: one. The kyng of Hepter: one. The kyng of Iybek: one. The kyng of Lazaron: one. The kyng of Qadon: one. The kyng of Haloz: one. The kyng of Simronime ron: one. The kyng of Achaph: one. The kyng of Charnach: one. The kyng of Megiddo: one. The kyng of Kades: one. The kyng of Jokneal of Charnel: one. The kyng of Doz, in the countrey of Doz: one. The kyng of the nacyes of Gilgal: one. The kyng of Thirza: one. Al y kynges together: thyrty and one.

The. xij. Chapter.

Josua comaunded to deuyde the lande to the chyldren of Israel.

Josua was old, & styph in yeres, & the Lorde sayd vnto hym thou art olde & styph in yeres, & there remaineth yet excedyng much lande to be possided: This is y lande y yet remaineth: al the regions of the in Gilgal. * And cald the sonne of Jephune the Benelite sayde vnto hym: thou wottest what the Lozde sayd vnto Moyses the ma of God, about my matter & thine in Cades Barne. * Fourty yere olde was I when Moyses the seruante of the Lozde sent me from Cades barne to espy out the lande: And I brought hym word agayne cut as it was in myne herte. Neuerthelesse my brethren that went vp with me, dyscouraged the herte of the people. And I folowed the Lozde God.

And Moyses wote the same day: saying: the lande wheron thy fete haue trode, shal be thine enderytaunce & thy chyldrens for euer, because thou hast folowed the Lozde God. And beholde, the Lozde hath kepte me alpye (as he sayd): this fourty & fyue yeres euen syns the Lozde spake thys worde vnto Moyses, whyle the chyldren of Israel wandred in the wyldernesse. And nowe lo I am thys daye fourscore and fyue yere olde: and yet am as stronge at thys tyme, as I was when Moyses sent me: loke howe strong I was then, so stronge am I nowe, whether to go to warre, or to come agayne.

Now therfore gyue me this mountaine wherof the Lozde spake in that day, for thou hardest in that daie, howe the Enahims are there, and the cyties great and walled. Peradventure the Lozde wyll be wyth me, & I shall be able to dyspue them out, as the Lozde sayde. And Josua blessed him, and gaue vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune, Hebron to inherit: And Hebron therfore became the inheritaunce of Caleb the sonne of Jephune the Benelite, vnto this day: because he folowed the Lozde God of Israel. And the name of Hebron was called in old tyme, Kariath Arbe. For the same was a great man amonge the Enahims. And the lande ceased from warre.

The. xv. Chapter.

The lotte of the chyldren of Juda, and the names of the cyties and vyllages of the same.

Jhys was the lotte of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda by thei kynredes. Namely, toward the bozder of Edom in the wyldernesse of zin, southward, euen from the vtmost parte of the southe coaste. * And thei south coaste was from the bynke of the salt see, fro a rocke that leaneith southward. And it wente out to the south syde toward the geving vp to Acrabim & went a long to zinna, and ascended vp on the south syde vnto Cades barne: and went along to Hebron, and went vp to Abar, and set a cōpasse to Karca. Fro thence went it a longe to Azmon, and reached vnto the ryuer of Egypte and the ende of that coaste was on the weste syde. And this is thei south coaste.

Thei east coaste is the salt see, euen vnto the edge of Jordan. And thei bozder in the north quarter was from the rocke of the see and from the edge of Jordan. And the same bozder went vp to Bethhagla, and went a long by the north syde off Betharabah, and vp from thence to the stone of Bohen the sonne of Rubi. And agayn, the same bozder went vp to Dabir from the valepe of Beoz, and so northwarde, turnynge toward Gilgal, that lyeth before the goying vp to Idonim, whych is of the southe syde of the ryuer. And the same bozder went vp to the waters of the fountayne of the Bunne, and ended at the well of Rogel. And then went vp to the valepe of the sonne of Hennom, euen vnto the south syde of Jebusi: the same is Jerusalem. And then went vp to the toppe of the hyll that lyeth before the valepe of Hennom westwarde, and by the edge of the valepe of the Stauntes northwarde: And then it compasseth from the toppe of the hyll vnto the fountayne of the water of Euphron, & goth out at the cyties of mounte Ephron: and draweth to Baala, whych is kariatpharim, (that is a cytie of woodes,) and then it compasseth fro Balah westward vnto mounte Seir, and then goeth a longe vnto the syde of mount Jarim, which is Bethlalon on the north syde. And cometh down to Bethlames, & goth to Chamnah, and goth out agayne vnto the syde of Akard northward: And the draweth to Seiron & goth a longe to mount Balah, and goth out at Jabnei: & the endes of the coastes leane at the west see. And the west bozder was the great see, & the same coaste was the coaste of the chyldren of Juda rounde about in thei kynredes.

And vnto Caleb the sonne of Jephune byd Josua geue a parte amonge the chyldren of Juda, accordynge to the mouth of the Lozde, euen kariatphar of the father of Enack, whych cytie is Hebron. And Caleb droue thence the thre sonnes of Enack, Hefai, and Hyma, and Thalmat, whiche were, the sonnes of Enack. And he went vp thence, to the inhabitaunces of Dabir. And the name of Dabir in the olde tyme was kariatphar. (That is a cytie of letters.) And Caleb sayde: * he that Smyteth kariatphar sepher, and taketh it: to hym wyll I geue Aclah my doughter to wyfe. And Othniel, the sonne of Henes, the brother of Caleb toke it. And he gaue hym Aclah his doughter to wyfe: And as she wote in vnto him, she was moued of hi, to ask of her father a feide. And he a lyghted of her aske. And Caleb sayde vnto her, what ayleth the? Who answered: gyue me a blesynge: for thou hast geuen me a south- (and drye) lande: geue me also springes of water. And he gaue her springes of water, both aboue & beneth. This is the inheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda by thei kynredes.

And the vtmost cyties of the trybe of the chyldren of Juda, toward the coastes of Edom southwarde were: Rabzel, Eder, and Jagur: Rimah, Dimonah, and Adaba: Kedes, Hazor, and Jephnan: ziph, Telem & Baloth, Hazor, Hadathah, Kariath Hefron (whiche is Hazor) Eman, Sami, and Holadah: Hazargadah, Halmon and Bethpheleth: Halar sual, Bersabe, and Bazar: Baalah, Jim, and Izen: Eitholad, Cecil, & Hoyma: zikelag Wedemenah and Denlenah: Labaoth, Belhim, Ain and Rimon: al these cyties are twentye and nyne with thei vyllages. And in the lowe cōtrepe they had Elphol, Jarcab & Akenah: zoneah, Engani, Thaphuah & Ena: Jarmuth Idula, Doroh, and Aikah: Saarem, Adithaim, Sederah, and Sedecothaim: Fourtene cyties wyth thei vyllages.

zenam, Hadajah, and Magdalgad: Delam, Wyssa, and Ichideel: Lachis, Bazeah, & Egib: Cabon, Lahaman, & Cethus Caberoth, Beth-dagon, Daamah and Mahabab: Myne cities wth theyr villages.

Lebnah, Echer, & Alan: Iephthah, Anah, and Reizb, Keilah, Naphtizip, & Marelah: myne cities wth theyr villages. Akron is her towne & villages. From Akron and from the west, all that lyeth aboute Asdod is theyr villages: Asdod wth her towne and villages. Azah wth her towne and villages, euen vnto the ryuer of Egypte and the greatesee was theyr coaste.

And in the mountaynes, they had Samir, Ja-thir, and Socob, Danah, and Kariatshenathe, whiche is Dabir: Anab, Eshemoth, and Anim, Sozen, Holon, and Siloh, a leuen cities wth theyr villages. Arab, Dumah, and Efram: Jamin, Bethaphuah, and Appeah, humatab, and Kariatsharab, whiche is Hebron and yio: myne cities wth theyr villages. Maon, Carmel, Shiph, and Iutab: Israhel, Iukadan, and Manoch: Cain, Sabaah, and Chamnah: ten cities wth theyr villages. Halhull, Bethzur, & Se-doz: Naarath, Bethanoth, and Elthech: Syre cities wth their villages. Kariatsh Baal which is Kariatsh Jacim: (the cite of woodes) and Harabba: two cities wth theyr villages.

In the wyldernesse they had Bethharabah, Meddin and Macacab: Atshan, the cite of salt, and Engabdi: Syre cities wth theyr villages. Neuertheles, the Jebusites that were the inhabitors of Ierusalem, could not the chyldren of Juda cast out. But the Jebusites dwell wth the chyldren of Juda at Ierusalem vnto this daye.

The xvi. Chapter.

The lotte of parte of Ephraim.

As the lotte of the chyldren of Joseph selle from Jordan by Jericho, vnto the water of Jericho Cassewarde, and to the wyldernesse that goeth vp from Jericho thownde out mounthe Bethel: and goeth out from Bethel to Lus, and runneth a longe vnto the borders of Acimataroth: and goeth downe agayne westwarde euen to the coaste of Japhletti, and vnto the coaste of Bethozon the neether, and to Saloj, and the endes of theyr coastes leaue at the west see. And so the chyldren of Joseph Wanafles and Ephraim toke theyr inheritaunce.

And the bozder of the chyldren of Ephraim was by theyr kynred. Theyr bozder on the east-lyze, was: Ataroth, Aboz, euen vnto Bethhoz the vpper, and went out westwarde to Machmathab on the Northlyde, and returneth East-warde vnto Thaanath Shilo, and pass it on the Eastlyde vnto Jonoah, & went downe from Jo-noah to Atharoth and Naarath, & came to Jericho, & went oute at Jordan. And theyr bozder went from Thaphuah westwarde vnto the ryuer hanah, & the endes were the west see. Thys is the inheritaunce of the trybe of the chyldren of Ephraim by theyr kynredes. And the separate cities for the chyldren of Ephraim, were among the inheritaunce of the chyldren of Wanalles: eue the cities wth theyr villages. And they haue not out the Cananites that dwell in Saloj: but the Cananites dwell among the Ephraim vnto this daye, and serue vnder tribute.

The xvi. Chapter.

The lotte of parte of the halfe trybe of Manasse. The Ca-nanites are become tributaries to the Israelites. Manasses and Ephraim require a greater portion of heritage.

Thys was the lotte of the trybe of Manasse by the sword, whiche was the eldest sonne of Joseph. And Machir the eldest sonne of Ma-nasses whiche was the father of Gilead, who was a man of warre had Gilead and Basan.
Thys was the possession of the rest of the chyldren of Manasses by theyr kynredes: Namely, of the chyldren of Abiezzer: the chyld of Helrich the chyldren of Azriel: the chyldren of Sichem, the chyldren of Hepter: the chyld of Semida:
for these were the male chyldren of Manasses, the sonnes of Joseph by theyr kynredes. * But Zelaphad the sonne of Hepter, the sonne of Gilead: the sonne of Machir, the sonne of Manasses, had no sonnes but daughters whose names are these: Ophrah, Hosa, Hagla, Melcha & Thirza: whiche came before Eleazar the priest and before Josua the sonne of Nun, and before the Lo-des saying: the Lorde commaunded Moses to geue vs an inheritaunce amonge our byethren.
And therfore accordyng to the commaundment of the Lorde, he gaue the an inheritaunce among the byethren of theyr father. And there selle ten portions to Manasses, besyde the lande of Gilead and Basan, which is on the other syde Jo-dan, because the daughters of Manasses dyd enberet among his sonnes. And Manasses other sonnes, had the lande of Gilead.

And the coaste of Manasses was from Aser to Machmathab that lyeth before Sichem & went a longe on the ryght hande, euen vnto the inhabiters of Entaphuah, & the lande of Chaphuah beloged to Manasses, which Thaphuah is besyde the bozder of Manasses, & besyde the bozder of the chyld of Ephraim. And the coast descended fro thence vnto the ryuer Canah southward eue to the ryuer of the cities of Ephraim, & be-twene the cities of Manasses. The coaste of Manasses went also on the northlyde to the ryuer, and the endes of it go out at the see, so that the south pertayned to Ephraim, and the north to Manasses, and the see is his bozder. And they mette together in Aser northwarde, and in Na-car eastwarde. And Manasses had in Naacar and in Aser, Bethshean, and her towne: Tiblea, and byr towne: and the inhabitours of Doz, wth the towne pertaynyng to the same: and the inhabitours of Endoz wth the towne of the same: and the inhabitours of Thaanath wth her towne: and the inhabitours of Magedo wth the towne of the same, euen the cities. Yet the chyldren of Manasses coulde not ouercome those cities. But the Cananites presumed to dwell in the same lande. Neuertheles, asone as the chyldren of Israel were waxed stronge, they put the Cananites vnder tribute, but expelled them not.

And the chyld of Joseph spake vnto Josua sayinge:

layinge: why hast thou gyuen me but one lotte and one porcyon to inherit, siring I am a great people, and for as moche as the Loyde hath blyssed me hytherto. And Josua answered them: if thou be moche people, then get the vp to the wood countrie, and prepare for thy selfe there in the lande of the Pherezites and of the gyauntes, yf mount Ephraim be to narrowe for the. And the chyldre of Joseph sayd: The hyll is not ynough for vs: and all the Cananites that dwell in the lowe countrie haue charrettes of yron, & so haue they that inhabit Bethsean, and the townes of the same, and they also that dwell in the valleie of Jezrael. And Josua sayde vnto the house of Joseph, Ephraim, and Manasses: ye be moche people, and haue great power, and shall not therfore haue one lot. Therefore the hyll shall be yours and ye shall cut downe the wood that is in it: and the endes of it shall be yours, yf ye cast out the Cananites which haue yron charrettes, and are very stronge.

The viii. Chapter.

C Certayne are sent to buye the lande to the other tribes. The lot of the chyldren of Ben Jamin.

And the whole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel came together at Silo and set vp the tabernacle of wytnesse there, & the lande was in subiection before them. And there remayned amonge the chyldren of Israel seuen tribes, which had not yet receyued theyr inheritance. And Josua sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel: howe longe are ye so slacke to come & possesse the land which the Loyde God of your fathers hath gyuen you? Spue out fro among you for euery tribe thre men, that I maye send them. And that they maye ryse and walke thowre yf lande, and distribute it accordyng to the enheritaunce thereof, and come agayne to me.

S And let them deuide it vnto them into seuen partes. And Juda shall abyde in theyr coost on the south, and the house of Joseph shall stande in theyr coostes on yf north. Describ ye the lande therfore into seuen partes, and byngne ye the description hyther to me & I shall cast lottes for you here before the Loyde our God. * But yf Levites haue no part among you, for the priesthod of the Loyd is their enheritaunce. * And Gad & Ruben & half yf tribe of Manasses haue receyued theyr enheritaunce beyonde Jordan eastwarde, whiche Moses the seruant of the Loyde gaue them.

And the men arose, and went theyr waye. And Josua charged them yf went to describe the land saying: departe, and go thowre the lande, and describe it, and come agayne to me, that I maye here cast lottes for you before the Loyd in Silo. And yf men departed, & walked thowre yf lande, and described it by cyties into seuen partes in a booke, and retourned to Josua into the doost at Silo. And Josua caste lottes for them in Silo before the Loyde, and there Josua deuyled the lande vnto the chyldren of Israel, to eche theyr porcyon: And the lotte of the tribe of the chyldren of Ben Jamin came vp accordyng to theyr kynredes. And the cooste of theyr lotte came betwene the chyldren of Juda and the chyldren of Joseph. And theyr north coost was from Josiah, and went vp to the syde of Jericho on the northsyde, and went vp thowre the mountaynes westwarde, and they ended at the wyldernesse of Bethauen: and went fro thence: toward Lus, euen to the south syde of Lus (the same is Bethel) and descended agayne to Itrothadar, vnto the hyll that lyeth on the south syde of the nether Bethdozon. And yf cooste turneth thence and compasseth the corner of the see southward, euen from the hyll that lyeth before Bethdozon southwarde, & goeth out at Kiriathbaal which is Kiriath Jarim a citie of the chyldren of Juda, this is the West quarter: and the South cooste goth from the edge of Kiriath Jarim, and goeth out westwarde, and thence it turneth to the water well of Bethdoah, and cometh downe agayne to the edge of the hyll, that lyeth before the valleie of the sonne of Hennou, euen in the valleie of the gyauntes northwarde and descendeth into the valleie of Hennou besyde Jebus southwarde, and goeth downe to the wel of Rogel, and compasseth from the North, and goeth forth to the well of the sonne, and departed fro thence to the places of Sellith, whiche are toward the goinge vp vnto Idomin: and goeth downe to the stone of Bohan the sonne of Ruben: and then goeth alonge toward the syde of the playne northwarde: and goeth downe into the feldes: and goth alonge to the syde of Bethdaglah northwarde, and endureth at the poynt of the salt see north theretfrom, euen at the south ende of Jordan. This is the south coost.

And Jordan kepeth in this coost on the eastsyde, and this is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ben Jamin by theyr coostes rounde aboute thowout the kynredes. These were the cyties of the tribes of the chyldren of Ben Jamin thowout theyr kynredes: Jericho, Bethdaglah, and the playne of Haziz: Betharabah, zammarim, & Bethel: Tim, Pharah, and Ophrah: Chepar, Ammona, Ophni and Gabai, twelue cyties with theyr villages. Sibeon, Ramah, & Beroth. Hazpbar, Capthairah, & Hozah, Rehenn, Jarephel, and Tharelah, zela. Eleph, and Jebus, whiche is Jerusalem, Gibeath, and Kiriath fourtene cyties with theyr villages. This is the enheritaunce of the chyldren of Ben Jamin thowout theyr kynredes.

The xix. Chapter.

C The lottes of partes of Judah, Issachar and Aser, Joseph, Dan, and Josua.

And the seconde lot came out for the tribe of yf chyldre of Simeon by theyr kynredes. And theyr enheritaunce was in the middes of yf inheritaunce of yf chyldre of Juda. And they had in their enheritaunce, Bersabee, Dabe & Molodah, Hazorhual, Balah & Azem, Eltholad, Bethul & Hozma, yfkelag, Bethmarcaboath & Harsitluah, Bethlebaath, and Marudon. xiii. cyties with theyr villages. Nun, Remon, Epher, and Ahan, foure cyties with theyr villages, and thereto all the villages that were rounde about these cyties, euen vnto Balaath, Beoz, and Ramath southward.

southward. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Simeon that went out of Egypt by their hundreds. Out of the lotte of the children of Simeon, came the inheritance of the children of Simeon. For the parte of the children of Juda was the inheritance for them: & therefore the children of Simeon had their inheritance in the inheritance of them.

B And the thirde lotte arose for the children of Zabulon that went out of Egypt by their hundreds. And the coastes of their inheritance came to Sarid, & went up westward, and to Marialah, & reached to Dabath, and came thence to the river that lyeth before Joknean: and turned from Sarid eastward towards the sonne rysinge vnto the border of the hill of Thabor: and then goeth out to Dabereth, and goeth up to Japhia: and from thence goeth alonge eastward, to Gethah, Jephther, Jidab and Jazin, & goeth to Remo, Gethoan, and Acob. And compasseth it on the north syde to Rathan, & endeth in the valley of Jephthahel. And Jarath, Abailoi, Semron, Jedalah, and Bethlehel: twelue cyties with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Zabulon that went out of Egypt by their hundreds, and these are the cyties with their villages.

And the fourth lot came out for the children of Machab by their hundreds. And their coast was Jezraelah, Casuloth, and Suncen. Hapharaim, Sion, and Anabarith: Harabith, Eylon, and Ibez: Rameth, Enganim, Enabab, & Bethphazez. And his coast reacheth to Thabor, and Sabazimah and Bethlamies, & endeth at Jordan: Syttene cyties with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Machab by their hundreds. And these are the cyties with their villages.

And the fyfte lotte came out for the tribe of the children of Aser by their hundreds. And their coast was: Helcath, Hali, Beten, and Achlap: Alamelech, Amaad and Gileal: & came to Carmel westward, and to Sihor, Labanath, and turned towards the dyne rysinge to Berthagon, and commeth to zabulon and to the valeye of Jephthahel, toward the northsyde of Bethemich and Regel, and goeth out on the fyfte syde of Cabul: and to Hebzon, Kohob, Ramon, and Kanah, euen vnto great Sidon. And then the coast turneth to Ramah and to the stronge citie of Zor, and turneth to Hozah, and endeth at the see, by the possession of Achzibah: A mah also & Apphek and Kohob: Twente and two cyties with their villages. This is the inheritance of the children of Aser by their hundreds: These are the cyties with their villages.

And the syxte lotte came out for the children of Reppethali by their hundreds. And their coast was from Helcath and from Elon to Zananaim, Adami, Achab and Jabneel, euen to Lakum, & doth go out at Jordan. And then the coast turneth westward to Alanorh Thabor, and then goeth out from thence to hukohab, and reacheth to zabulon on the southsyde, and goeth to Aser on the westsyde, and to Juda vpon Jordan towards the dyne rysinge. And their stronge cyties are Zidon, Zer, Hamath, Racah & Cenereth, Adamah, Herimah and Hazor, Kedesh, Edrai, & Enabon: Zetan, Magdela, Beorn, Bethanah and Bethlamies, nyntene cyties with their villages. This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Reppethali by their hundreds: these also are the cyties and their villages.

And the seventh lotte came out for the tribe of the children of Dan by their hundreds. And the coast of their inheritance was: Zarahah, Eschah & Israhames, Marialah, Aialo, Jerlah, Eglon & Chenathah, and Akaron, Eltheheb, Sibeth & Baalath, Jethub, Banabarah & Gethermon, Hetericon and Arcon, & the border that lyeth before Japho. And the coastes of the children of Dan went out fro the. And the children of Dan went up to fight agaynst Leshan, and toke it, and smote it with the edge of the swerde, and conquered it, and dwelt therein, and called it *Dan after the name of Dan their father.

This is the inheritance of the tribe of the children of Dan in their hundreds: these also are the cyties with their villages. When they had made an ende of deuptyng land by her coastes the children of Israel gaue an inheritance vnto Josua the son of Nun among them, accordyng to the worde of the Lorde they gaue hym the cite which he asked, out *Chanan serah in mozt Ephraim And he buyt the cite & dwelt therein. * These are the inheritances whiche Eleazar the preast, and Josua the sonne of Nun, and the auncient fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel deuptyd by lot in Siloh before the Lorde in the doore of the tabernacle of wytnesse, and so they made an ende of deuptyng the countrey.

Of the xx. Chapter

Of the cyties of refuge & sanctuaries.

The Lorde also spake vnto Josua, saying: speake to the children of Israel, and saie: * Appoynt out from among you cyties of refuge, whereof I spake vnto you by the hande of Moses, that the fear that killeth any person vnwares and vnwyttingly, maye flye thither. And those cyties shal be your refuge from the auenger of bloude. And he shal doryt vnto one of those cyties. And at the entryng of the gate of the cite, and shall shewe his cause in the eares of the elders of the cite.

And they shal take hym into the cite vnto them, and gyue hym a place, that he maye dwell amonge them.

And yf the auenger of bloude folowe after him, they shal not deliuer the fear into his hand because he smote his frende ignorantly, and hated hym not before tyme.

And he shal dwell in the sayde cite vntill he stande before the congregacyon in iudgement, & vntill the death of the hye preast shal be in those dayes: for then shal the fear retouerne, and come vnto his owne cite, and vnto his owne house, & vnto the cite fro whence he fled. And they sanctified Kedesh in Galile in mounte Reppethali, and Sichem in mounte Ephraim, and Hebron in Juda. And on the other syde Jordan ouer agaynst Jericho eastward, they appointed

Bozoz in the wyldeynesse vpon the playne, out of the trybe of Ruben: and Ramoth in Gilead, out of the trybe of Gad: and Solan in Basan, out of the trybe of Manasses. These were cyties appoynted for al the chyldren of Israel, and for the straunger that sojourned amonge them, that whosoever killed any person ignorantly, the same myght hee thether, and dwelle not ope by the bande of the avenger of blood, vntill he stood before the congregacion (to declare his cause)

The xxi Chapter.

The cyties given to the Levites, in number. xxiij.

Ad then came the principall fathers of Levites vnto Eleazar the preeft and vnto Josua the son of Nun, & vnto the avengers fathers & were over the trybes of the chyldren of Israel & spake vnto them at Silo in the land of Canaan, saying: * the Lord commaunded by Moses, to give vs cyties to dwell in, with suburbs therof, for our cartell. And the chyldren of Israel gave vnto the Levites, out of theyr inheritaunce at the byddynge of the Lorde these cyties followinge with theyr suburbs.

And the lotte came out for s halfe of the Cahathites: and the chyldren of Aaron the preeft, whiche were of the Levites, had given them by lotte, out of the trybe of Juda, out of the tribe of Simeon, & out of s tribe of Ben Jamin. xii. cyties. And the rest of the chyldren of Cahath had by lot, out of s hundredes of s trybe of Ephraim out of the trybe of Dan, & out of the halfe trybe of Manasses: ten cyties. And s chyldren of Gerson had by lotte out of the hundredes of the trybe of Issachar, & out of the trybe of Aser, out of the tribe of Reubeh, & out of the other halfe tribe of Manasses in Basan: threene cyties. And the chyldren of Merari by theyr hundredes, had oute of the trybe of Ruben, & out of the trybe of Gad and out of the trybe of Zabulon, twelue cyties.

And the chyldren of Israel gave by lotte vnto the Levites these cyties with theyr suburbs, as the Lorde commaunded by Moses.

And they gave out of the tribe of the chyldren of Juda, and out of the trybe of the chyldren of Simeon, these cyties by name whiche the chyldren of Aaron being of the hundredes of the Cahathites, and of the chyldren of Levi, obtayned for theyr was the fyrst lotte.

And they gave them Kariat Arbe of s father of Enak (which is Hebron) in the hyll countrey of Juda, with the suburbs of the same rounde aboute it. But the lande that pertayned to the cite, and the byllages therof, gave theyr to Caleb the sonne of Iephune to be his possession.

mon with her suburbs: foure cyties. All these cyties of the chyldren of Aaron preeftes, were threene cyties with suburbs. And the hundredes of the chyldren of Cahath that were Levites: that is to saye, the other chyldren of Cahath, had cyties given for theyr lotte, out of the trybe of Ephraim. For they gave them the cytie that the slayer myght flye vnto: Sichem with her suburbs, in mount Ephraim: and Gazer with her suburbs: and Kibzaim with her suburbs: and Bethoron with her suburbs: foure cyties.

And out of the halfe trybe of Manasses, Thannach with her suburbs: and Gathremmon with her suburbs: two cyties. All the cyties for the other hundredes of the chyldren of Cahath, were ten with their suburbs.

And vnto the chyldren of Gerson which were D of s hundredes of the Levites, they gave out of s other halfe tribe of Manasses, s cytie of refuge for the slayer: Solan in Basan with her suburbs, and Beerseherah with her suburbs: two cyties. And out of the trybe of Issachar, Kysyon with her suburbs: and Daberah with her suburbs, and Jartimoth with her suburbs: foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Aser, Gissael with her suburbs, Abdoth with her suburbs, Halahath with her suburbs, and Roboh with her suburbs, foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Reubeh, the cytie for the slayer to flye vnto: Kedies in Galile with her suburbs: and Hamothdoo with her suburbs: and Carthan with her suburbs: thre cyties. All the cyties of the Gersonites thowout their hundredes, were. xii. cyties with theyr suburbs.

And vnto the other hundredes of the chyldren of Merari the rest of the Levites, they gave out of the trybe of Zabulon: Jeznam with her suburbs: and Carthah with her suburbs: Danna with her suburbs, and Nabalai with her suburbs: foure cyties. And out of the trybe of Ruben, Bozoz with her suburbs, and Jabelah with her suburbs: Kedmorch with her suburbs, and Gaphaath with her suburbs: foure cyties.

And out of the trybe of Gad they gave the cytie for the slayer to flye vnto: Ramoth in Gilead with her suburbs, and Mahanaim with her suburbs, Hebron with her suburbs: and Jaser with her suburbs, foure cyties in all, so that all the cyties of the chyldren of Merari thowout their hundredes (whiche were the rest of the hundredes of the Levites) were by theyr lotte, twelue cyties. And all the cyties that the Levites had amonge the possession of the chyldren of Israel were. xlviii. with theyr suburbs. And these cyties laye every one severallye, haupnge theyr suburbs rounde about them thowout all the lande of the Levites. And the Lorde gave vnto Israel al the lande which he swore to give vnto theyr fathers. And they conquered it, and dwelt therein. And the Lorde gave them rest rounde about accordynge to all that he swore vnto theyr fathers.

thees: and there stode a man of all thes enemyes before them. The Lord also delivered al thes enemyes into thes handes. And they had nothinge of all the good thynges, whiche the Lord had sayde vnto the house of Israel. But all came to passe.

The xxiij. Chapter.

Of Ruben, Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasse, who wente agayne to thes possessions. They buyde an aulter in a mounteyn.

When Josua called vnto the Rubenites, the Gaddites, and to the halfe trybe of Manasse, and sayd vnto them: * ye haue kept all that Moses the seruaunt of the Lord commanded you, & haue obeyed my voyce in al that I commaunded you, ye haue not left your brethren of a longe season vnto this daye, but haue kept the commaundement of the Lord your God.

And now that the Lord hath giuen rest vnto your brethren as he promysed them, therefore returne ye and go to youre tentes, and vnto the land of your possession, which Moses & seruaunt of the Lord gaue you on the other syde Jordan.

But in anye wyse take diligent heed, and do the commaundement and lawe, whiche Moses the seruaunt of the Lord charged you: * that ye loue the Lord your God, and walke in all his wayes, and kepe his commaundementes, and cleaue vnto hym, and serue hym with all your hartes and all your soules. And so Josua blessed them and sent them awaye. And they went vnto thes tentes.

Unto the one halfe of the trybe of Manasse Moses gaue the possession in Basan: and vnto the other halfe thereof gaue Josua amonge their brethren on this syde Jordan westwarde. And Josua sent them a waye also vnto thes tentes, and blessed them, and sayde vnto them: returne with moche riches vnto your tentes, and wyth a greate multitude of cattell, with syluer and golde, with brasse and yron, and with moche rayment, and * deuyde the spoyle of your enemyes, wyth your brethren.

And the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasse, returned and departed from the chyldren of Israel out of Silo (whyche is in the lande of Canaan) to go vnto the countrey of Gilead to the lande of thes possession whych they had obteyned, accordyng to the word of the Lord by the hande of Moses. And whil they came vnto the place of Selioth besyde Jordan (that is in the lande of Canaan) there the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasse, buyde an aulter fast by Jordan, and that a great altare to se to. Whiche when the chyldren of Israel hearde of, they sayde: beholde, the chyldren of Ruben, the chyldren of Gad, and the halfe trybe of Manasse haue buyde an aulter in the facefront of the lande of Canaan euen in Selioth besyde Jordan on the syde of thes chyldren of Israel. And whil the chyldren of Israel hearde of it, the whole congregacyon of the chyldren of Israel gathered them togyther at Silo to make battell agaynst them. And the chyldren of Israel sent vnto the chyldren of Ruben and to the chyldren of Gad, and to the halfe trybe of Manasse into the land of Gilead, whiche the sonne of Eleazar the prest, and wyth hym ten lordes, of euery chiefe house a lord, thesowout all the trybes of Israel, which were heedes of thes fathers householde amonge the thousandes of Israel. And they wente vnto the chyldren of Ruben, and to the chyldren of Gad, and to the chyldren of the halfe trybe of Manasse, vnto the lande of Gilead, and they spake wyth them, sayinge.

Thus saye the hole congregacyon of the Lord: * what transgression is this that ye haue transgressed agaynst the God of Israel, to turne away this daye from the Lord, in that ye haue buyde you an aulter for to rebel this day agaynst the Lord? Is the wyched dede of Deoz to lettle for vs, whereof we are not yet cleynd vnto this daye, and for the whiche there was in the congregacyon of the people a plage of the Lord? Ye also are turned awaye this daye from the Lord. And seinge ye rebel to daye agaynst the Lord, it wyl come to passe, that to morowe he shalbe wroth wyth all the congregacyon of Israel. Notwithstandyng ye shynke, that the lande of your possession is uncleane, then come ouer vnto the lande of the possession of the Lord wherein the Lordes Tabernacle dwelleth, and take possession amonge vs. But transgresse not agaynst the Lord, nor provoke vs to buyde you any other aulter, save the aulter of the Lord oure God. * Dyd not Acan the sonne of Zareth trespasse in the excommunicate thyng, & wroth fell on all the congregacyon of Israel, whiche notwithstandinge that he was but one man, yet he alone perished not for his wychednesse?

Then the chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad, and halfe the tribe of Manasse answered, and sayd vnto the heedes ouer the thousandes of Israel: The God of goddes, the Lord God of Soddies, euent he Lord he knoweth, and also shal Israel knowe. It is he to rebel, or to transgresse agaynst the Lord, that thou Lord saue vs not this daye. Or els if we haue buyde vs an aulter to returne fro folowyng the Lord, or to offere thereon burnt offerynges, or meate offerynges, or to offere peace offerynges thereon: let the Lord requyre it. And if we haue not rather done it of a carelesnesse & of a sure occasion, sayng: In tyme to come your chyldren myghte saye vnto oures: what haue ye to doo wyth the Lord God of Israel? the Lord hath made Jordan a boord betwene vs and you (ye chyldren of Ruben and of Gad) ye haue no part therefore in the Lord: and so shal your chyldren make oure chyldren cease from fearyng the Lord.

Therefore we saye (the better charyngment) sayde: We wyl make vs an aulter, not for burnt offerynges, nor for sacrificies, but for a wytnesse betwene vs & you, & oure generacions after vs, & we shoulde serue the Lord, wyth our offerynges, sacrificies and peace offerynges before hym: & that your chyldren shoulde not saye to oures in tyme time to come: ye have no parte in the Lorde.

Therefore sayd he, that ye then shuld be saue to vs, or to our generacions in tyme to come, we wolde saye agayne: Beholde the fallon of the aulter of the Lorde, which our fathers made not for burnt sacrifice, but for a wytnesse betweene vs and you, God forbyd, that we shoulde rebell agaynst the Lorde, and turne thys daye from after hym, and buylde any other aulter for burnt offerynges, oblacions, or sacrifices, save the aulter of the Lorde oure God, that is before hys tabernacle.

And when Phinehes the priest, and the lodges of the congregacyon heeides out the thousandes of Israel which were with hym, hearde these wordes that the chyldren of Ruben, and chyldren of Gad and the chyldren of Manasses spake, they were wel cōtēte. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar the priest sayde vnto the chyldren of Ruben and to the chyldren of Gad, and to the chyldren of Manasses, this daye we perceyue, that the Lorde is amonge vs, because ye haue not done this trespass agaynst the Lorde: Nowe ye haue rydde the chyldren of Israel out of the hande of the Lorde.

And when they the sonne of Elcazar þ þreest with the lordes retourned from the chyldren of Ruben. and from the chyldren of Gad out of the lande of Sulcad vnto the lande of Canaan, to þ chyldren of Israel, and brought them this word agayne. And the laying pleased the chyldren of Israel, and they blessed God, & byd not entende to go agaynst them in battel, and to destroy the lande wher the chyldren of Ruben and Gad dwelt in. And the chyldren of Ruben and the chyldren of Gad called the auiser: Our wytnes that the Lorde is God.

The first Chapter.

¶ Tulus exhorted the people, that they woud not thinke felues to the Centurles.

Absit came to passe a longe season after that the Lord had giuen rest vnto Israel from al theyr enemies rounde aboute, that Iosua waxed olde, and was stryken in age. And Iosua called for al Israel, and for theyr elders, theyr heiden, theyr iudges and offycers, & sayde vnto them: I am olde and stryken in age.

And ye haue ſene all that the Lord your God hath done vnto all theſe nacons before you.
vnto the Lord your God hath fought for you.
Beholde, I haue ſubdued vnto you theſe nacons that remaine, to be an inheritance for your tribes: euen from Iordan, & from the lande of all the nacons that I haue deſtroyed, euen vnto ſ great ſee weſtwarde. (And there remaine yet many na cons.) And the Lord your God ſhall expel them before you, and caſt the from out of your ſight, and ye ſhall conquer theſe lande, as the Lord your God hath ſayd vnto you.

Go to therefore as strongly as ye may, that ye take heed & do all that is written in þe booke of the lawe of Moyses, & that ye bowe not asyde therefrom, to the ryght hande or to the left: and lest that when ye come amonge these nacionis,

(Then among these that are left to you) ye make none: as ye doe by the names of theyr godden: that ye neither letue them nor bowe your selues vnto them. But that ye speke fast vnto the Lorde your God, as ye haue done vnto this daye. So shall the Lorde caste out before you greate nacions and myghtye, as no man hath bene able to stande before you hitherto.

*One man of you shal chase a thousand: for þ Lord your God be fyghterh for you, as he hath promysed you. Take good hede therefore vnto your selues, that ye loue the Lord your God.

¶ Els, if ye go backe and cleane vnto the rest of these nations that remayne with you, and shall make maryages wth the, and go vnto them, and they to you: be ye sure, that the Lorde your God wyl nomore caste oute all these nacions from before you. * But they shall be snares and trappes vnto you, and scourges in youre sydes, and thornes in youre eyes, vntill ye perishe from of this good lande, whiche the Lord your God hath giuen you.

And behold, this day do I enter into ſ way of all the worlde, and ye knowe in all your per tes and in all your ſoules, that nothyng hath ſayled of all the good thynges which the Lorde your God promysed you: But all are come to paſſe, and nothing hath ſayled thereof. Therefore as all good thynges are come vpon you, whiche the Lorde your God promysed you, ſo ſhall the Lorde bynne vpon you all euyl, vntyl he haue deſtroyed you ſed of this good lande, which the Lorde your God hath gyuen you, when ye haue transgreſſed the appointment of ſ Lorde your God, whiche he commaunded you: ſ haue gone, ſ ſerued ſtraunge goddes, and bowed your ſclues to them. Then ſhall the wrath of the Lord waxe whote vpon you, and ye ſhall perſhe quyte from of the good land which he hath gyue you.

④ The crime Chapter.

¶ Joshua exhorteth the people to the keeping of the law. He saith. The bones of Joseph are bury-
ed. Eleazar dyeth.

Ad Josua gathered all the tribes of Israel to Sichem, and called for the elders of Israel, and for their heads, judges, and officers, & they presented themselves before God.

And Josua said vnto all the people: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel: "your fathers dwelt on the other side of the riuer: and in old tyme: a. n.
Thare was a father of Abrahams, and of Nachor, and serued strange gods.

And I toke poure father Abraham from the other syde of the floude, and brought hym throrowout al the lande of Canaan, and multiplied his seed, and craue hym Iaac.

And I gaue vnto Isabac, Jacob's Eldest son, and I gaue vnto Elau mounte Seric, to possesse it. But Iacob's child went down into Egypt.

I sent Moses also & Aaron. And I * plagued Egypt: & when I had so done amongst them, I brought you out, & I brought your fathers out of Egypt. And as they came vnto the see, the Eerped into f Lorde our God. And he tweene you and the Egyptians. And he set vps them, and covered them. And he hauē serue what I haue done to the Egyptians.

And ye dwelt in the wyldernes a longe season.

And I broughte you into f land of the Amoi-tes, which dwelt on f other syde Jozdane. And they foughte with you: I gaue them into your hand, that ye mighte conquere thei countre. And I destroyed them from out of your syght.

* Then Balak the sonne of zippor kynge of Moab arose and warred agaynst Israel, & sent and called Balak the sonne of Beor for to curse you. But I wolde not herchen vnto Balak, and therefore he rather blessed you: And so I deliue-red you out of his hand. And ye went ouer Jozdane, and came vnto Jericho, and the men of Jericho foughte agaynst you: the Amozites, where lites, Cananites, herbites, Strimotes, Heuites and Jebusites, and I deliuered them into your hande. And I sent * hornettes befoze you, which cast them out of your syght: euen the two kynges of the Amozites: but not with your owne sworde or with your owne bowe. And I haue gyuen you a lande, in whych ye byd not labour, and cyties whych ye buylte not, and whych ye dwel in: vineyardes also and olive trees whych ye planted not, and wherof ye do eate.

* Now therefore feare the Lorde, and serue him in perfectnesse and truthe: And put awaye the goddess, which your fathers serued on the other syde of the floude, and in Egypte, and serue ye f Lorde. And yf it seme euyl vnto you to serue the Lorde, then chose you this daie whome ye wyl serue, whether the goddess whiche your fathers serued (that were on the other syde of the floude) erther the goddess of the Amozytes, in whose lande ye dwell. As for me and my house, we wyl serue the Lorde.

The people answered and sayde: God for byd, that we shalbe forsaie the Lorde, & serue straunge goddess for f Lorde our God, he it is f broughte vs and our fathers out of the lande of Egypte, and from the house of bandage, and whych byd those greute myracles in our syght, & preserued vs in all the waye that we went, and among al the nacpons whiche we came thozowde. And the Lorde byd caste oute befoze vs all the nacpons, specyally the Amozites which dwell in the land And therefore wyl we also serue the Lorde, for he is our God.

And Josua sayde vnto the people. Ye can not serue f Lorde: for he is an holpe God, & a gelous God, & can not beare pour iniquitie & synne. Pl ye forsaie the Lorde & serue straunge goddess, * he wyl turne & be pour euyl, & consume you, after that he hath done you good. And f people sayde unto Josua: naye, but we wyl serue the Lorde.

And Josua sayde vnto the people: ye are wy-tnesses pour selues, that ye haue chosen you the Lorde, to serue him: and they sayde: we are wy-tnesses. Then put awaye (sayd he) the strange goddess whiche are amonge you, and bowe pour bettes vnto the Lorde God of Israel. The people sayde vnto Josua: the Lorde oure God wyl we serue, and his voyce wyl we obeye. And so Josua * made a councunte with the people the same daie, and set an oþdynaunce and lawe be-foze them in Sichem.

And Josua wrote these wordes in the booke f of the lawe of God, and * toke a great stone, and pytched it on ende in the sayde place, euen vnder an oke that was in the sanctuarie of the Lorde.
And Josua sayd vnto the people: be holde: * this stone shalbe a wytnesse vnto vs, for it hath herd all the wordes of the Lorde whiche he spake with vs. It shalbe therefore a wytnesse vnto you, lest ye denye (and bysmyble with) pour God. And so Josua let the people departe, euerye man vnto his enderstaunce.

And after these thynges it came to passe, that Josua the sonne of Nun, the seruaunt of f Lorde byd, being an hundred and ten yeres olde. And they buried him in f coltrete of his * enderstaunce euen in Chamnah Dareth, whiche is in mount Ephraim, on the northsyde of the hyll of Gaas.

And Israel serued the Lorde * all the dayes of Josua, and all the dayes of the elders that ouer-lyned Josua, and whiche had knowen al f wo-les of the Lorde that he had done for Israel. And the * bones of Joseph, whiche the chyldren of Israel broughte out of Egypt buried they in Sichem in a parcell of grounde whych Jacob bought of the sonnes of Hemor f father of Sichem, for an hundred peces of syluer, and it became the enderstaunce of the chyldren of Joseph. And Eleazar the sonne of Aaron dyed, whome they buried in an hyll

that pertayned to Whinches his sonne, whych (hyll) was gyuen him in mount Ephraim.

The fyrst Chapter.

After Josua was deyd, Jhuda was confidenc lyde ouer the ampe.

After the deathe of Josua, it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israel asked f<sup>r</sup> Lozbe saying: who shall go vp for vs agaynste the Cananites, and who shall fyght agaynst them? And the Lozbe sayd: Jhuda shall go vp, & behold, I haue deliuered the land into his handes. And Jhuda sayd vnto Simeon his bzorther: come vp with me in my lot, & we maye fyght agaynst the Cananites: And I syke wyl go with f into thy lotte. And so Simeon went with him.

And Jhuda went vp, and the Lozbe deliuered the Cananites and Pherepites into theyr handes. And they slew of them in Bezek ten thousande men. And they founde Adonibezek in Bezek. And they fought agaynst him, and slew the Cananites, and Pherepites. But Adonibezek fled, and they folowd after hym, & caught him, & cut of his thombes and his greate toes. And Adonibezek sayd: the shoe and ten kynges hauyng theyr thombes and greate toes cut of, gathered theyr meat vnder my table: * as I haue done, so God hath done to me agayne. And they brought hym to Jerusalem, and there he dyed.

The chyldren of Jhuda fought agaynst Jerusalem, and toke it, and smote it with the edge of the swerde, and let the cite on fyre. Afterwarde f<sup>r</sup> chyldre of Jhuda went to fyght agaynst the Cananites, that dwelt in the mountayne, & towarde the south, & in the lowe countreye. And Jhuda went agaynst the Cananites that dwelt in Hebion, whiche before tyme was called Harath Arbe. And slew Hefai, Thiman & Chalmai. And from thence they went to the inhabytors of Dabir, whose name in old tyme was called Harathsepher. (That is a cite of liuers.)

And Caleb sayde: be that smyteth Harathsepher, and taketh it, to hym wyl I gyue Achah my daughter to wyfe. And Othomel the sonne of Henez, Calebs yonger bzorther toke it, to whome gave Achah his daughter to wyfe, & as they went, he counseled hym to aske of her fathir a wyfe. And then he lighted of her asse: and Calah answered hym: I haue apleth the. He answered vnto hym: gyue me a blessing: for thou hast gyuen me a southwarde (or dyse) land: gyue me also springes of water. And Caleb gaue her springes both aboue and beneth. And the chyldren of the Kenite, Moses fathir in lawe went vp out of the cite of palmestrees, with the chyldren of Jhuda into the wyldernes of Jhuda, that lyeth in the South of Brad, and they went and dwelt amonge the people.

And Jhuda went with Simeon his bzorther, and they slew the Cananites that enhabited Jebath, and utterly destroyed it, & called the name of the cite Hozma. And at the laste Jhuda toke Azah with the coostes therof, and Ashalon with the coostes therof. And the Lozbe was Jhuda, & he conquered the mountaynes, but could not dyspue out the enhabytors of the valeys, because they had charrettes of yron. And they gaue Hebron vnto Caleb, as Moses sayd. And he expelled thence the thre sonnes of Enah.

* And in lyke maner they that were of the house of Joseph went vp to Bethel, & the Lozbe was with the, & the house of Joseph serched out Bethel whiche before tyme was called Lus. And the spyes sawe a man come out of the cite, and they sayd vnto hym: we we by the way into the cite, & and we wyl shewe the merceye. And whē he had shewed them the waye into the cite, they smote it with the edge of the swerde, but let the man and all his howholde go free. And the man went into the landes of the Hethites, and buyld a cite, and called the name therof Lus, whych is the name therof vnto this daye.

* In lyke maner Ephraim expelled not the Cananites that dwelt in Gazer, but the Cananites dwelt still in Gazer amonge them.

Repther dyd Zabulon expell the enhabytours of Hethron, nepther the enhabytours of Rahalal: But the Cananites dwelt amonge them, and became tributaries.

Repther dyd Aser cast out the enhabytours of Icho, nepther the enhabytours of Jidon, and Abalah, Aysb, and Halbah, Aphen, Aser of Robob, but the Herytes dwelt amonge the Cananites the enhabytours of the lande, for they myght not dyspue them out.

Repther dyd Sapphalim dyspue out the enhabytours of Bethleam, not the enhabytours of Bethsanath Bethanath, but they sold the Canaanites the inhabitants of the land. Nevertheless the inhabitants of Sepphames and of Bethanath became tributaries unto them.

And the Amorites troubled the children of Dan in the mountayne, and suffered them not to come down to the valleie. And the Amorites were content to dwell in mount Heres (which is by interpretacion, a high place) in hailon and in Dalabim. And the bande of Joseph prevailed, so that they became tributaries: and the coaste of the Amorites was from the goinge up to Arahim, and from the roche upwarde.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

The aungell rebuketh the people, because they had made peace with the Canaanites. They were not purged.

As the aungell of the Lorde came up from Gilgal to Bochim, & sayd: I made you to go out of Egypt: & have brought you unto the lande which I sware unto your fathers.

* And I sayd: I will not breake myne appoyntment that I made to you. And ye also shal make no covenant with the inhabitants of this land, but shall breake downe their altiers. Nevertheless, ye have not hearkened unto my voyce, why have ye thus done? Wherefore, I have likewise determined, that I will not cast thee out before you: but they shall be thornes unto you, and their goddes shall be a snare unto you. And when the aungell of the Lorde spake these wordes unto all the children of Israel, the people cryed oute, and wept: And called the name of the sayde place:

And when Josua had sent the people away, the children of Israel went every man into his inheritance to possesse the lande. * And the people served the Lorde all the dayes of Josua, and all the dayes of the elders that outlived Josua, and had sent all the great wordes of the Lorde that he dyd for Israel. And Josua the sonne of Nun the servant of the Lorde * dyed, when he was an hundred and ten yeres olde: whome they buried in the coastes of his inheritance: even in Chamath hares in mounte Ephraim on the northsyde of the hill Gaas. And even so all that generacion were put unto theyr fathers, and there arose an other generacion after them which neither knewe the Lorde, nor yet the wordes, which he had done for Israel.

And when the children of Israel dyd wickedly in the sight of the Lord, and served Baalim, and forsoke the Lord God of theyr fathers, which brought them out of the land of Egypt, and followed strange goddes, even of the goddes of the nations that were rounde aboute the, and bowed them selves unto them, and angered the Lorde. They forsoke the Lorde, and served Baal and Astaroth, and the wrath of the Lorde was kindled against Israel, and he delivered them into the handes of raucners: that spoiled them, and sold them into the handes of theyr enemies rounde aboute them, so that they had no power any longer to stand before theyr enemies. But whyther soever they wente oute, the hande of the Lorde was against them with cruel lacke, even as the Lorde promised them, & as he swaie unto them. And he punished them sore.

Nevertheless, the Lorde raised up Judges, which delivered them out of the handes of theyr oppressors, & yet for all that they wolde not hearken unto their Judges: But rather wete a whooping after strange goddes, and bowed them selves unto them, and turned quickly out of the waye which their fathers walked in, obeying the commandementes of the Lorde: But they did not so.

And when the Lorde raised them up Judges, he was with the Judge, and delivered them out of the hande of theyr enemies all the dayes of the Judge: for the Lorde had compassion over theyr sorrownges, which they had, by the reason of them that oppressed them and vered they: yet for all that as long as the Judge was deed, they turned, & dyd worse then theyr fathers, in followinge strange goddes, and in servinge them, and ceased not from theyr owne iniquity, nor from theyr malicious waye.

And the wrath of the Lorde was kindled against Israel, and he sayde: because this people hath transgressed myne appoyntment which I commanded theyr fathers, and have not hearkened unto my voyce, I will henceforth not cast oute before the one man of the nacyons, which Josua leste when he dyed, that thoughte them I have sinned Israel, whether they will kepe the waye of the Lorde, and walke therein, as theyr fathers dyd or not. And so the Lorde left those nacyons, and gave them not oute immediately, neyther delivered them into the hande of Josua.

¶ The iii. Chapter.

Joshua delivered Israel. And he killed the possidors.

These are the nations which the Lorde left, that he myght proue Israel by the: even as many of Israel as had not knowen all the warres of Canaan. Onely for the learninge of the generacion of the children of Israel: that he also myght teache them warre, in asmoche as they that were before them, knewe nothinge thereof. Of those whom he left, there were syue lordes of the Philistines, and all the Canaanites, and the Amorites, and the Hittites & dwelt in mount Libanon: even from mount Baal Hermon unto Hamath. Those remayned to proue Israel by, & to wete, whether they wolde hearken unto the commandementes of the Lorde, whiche he commanded theyr fathers by the hande of Moses.

And the children of Israel dwelt among the Canaanites, Hittites, Amorites, Hivites, Jebusites, & toke the daughters of the to be their wyves, & gave theyr owne daughters to theyr sons, & served theyr Goddes. And the children of Israel dyd wickedly in the sight of the Lorde, & forgoat the Lorde theyr God, and served Baalim and Astaroth. Therefore the Lorde was angry with Israel, and delivered them into the handes of Chusan Rishathaim kynge of Mesopotamia.

of Mesopotamia, and the children of Israel saw and Chusan Rishathaim. viii. peres.

And when the child of Israel cried unto LORD, the LORD stirred up a saviour, to <sup>the</sup> child of Israel, & saved them: one Orthoniel the sonne of kenes, called by panges brother. And <sup>the</sup> spirit of the LORD came upon him. And he iudged Israel & went out to war. And the LORD deliuered Chu-san Rishathaim hynge of Mesopotamia into his hand, & his hand principled agaynst Chusan Risathaim. And the lande had rest fourty peres, & Orthoniel the sonne of kenes dyed. And the children of Israel went to agayne, and committed wickednes in the syght of <sup>the</sup> LORD. And the LORD strengthened Eglon the hynge of the Moabites, agaynst the children of Israel, because they had committed wickednes before <sup>the</sup> LORD. And this (Eglon) gathered vnto the him children of Ammon, and the Amalekites, and went and smote Israel, and conquered the cite of paulmetrees.
And so the children of Israel feared Eglon the hynge of Moab y<sup>e</sup>gerie peres. But w<sup>h</sup>en they cried vnto the LORD, the LORD stirred them up a saviour. Abud the sonne of Sera the sonne of Semuni, a man that coulde do nothyng handsomly with hys eynghande.

C And by him <sup>the</sup> children of Israel sent a present vnto Eglon hynge of Moab: but Abud made hym a dagger w<sup>h</sup>o edges, of a cubyt length, and he dyd gyde it vnto his rayment vpon his right thygh, and carreyed the present vnto Eglon the hynge of Moab. And Eglon was a verie fattere man. And it fortuned that w<sup>h</sup>en he had presented the present, he sent the people that bare it a waye, but he hym selfe turned agayne (from the place of grauen ymages, that was by Sil-gal) and sayde: I haue a secret errande vnto the, O hynge. W<sup>h</sup>erfore sayde hepe silence. And all that stood before hym, went out from hym.

D And Abud came vnto him, & in a corner par-ler, wher he had, sat he hym selfe alone, & Abud sayde: * I haue a message vnto the from God: he arose out of hys seate. And Abud put forth hys left hande, & toke the dagger fro his eynghtygh, and thrust it into hys bely, and the harte w<sup>h</sup>it in after the blade. And the faete closed the harte, so that he myght not drawe the dagger out of his bely, but the byt came out. Abud gat hym oute at a poskerns doze, and shut <sup>the</sup> dozes of the parlour about hym, and locked them.

When he was gone out, his seruantes came,
and when they sawe that the dozes of the parlour were locked, they sayd: peradventure he coneceth his selfe in hys corner chambze. And they taryed tyll they were ashamyd, & beholde: seinge he openeth not the dozes of the parlour, they toke a keye, and opened them. And beholde, they:
loide was fallen downe dead on the earth. And Abud escaped (whyle they taryed) & was gone beyond, to the place of the grauen ymages, and escaped vnto Beerach.

And when he was come, he blew a trumpet in mount Ephraim. And the children of Israel went downe with him from the byl, and he w<sup>h</sup>it before them. And he sayd vnto them: follow me:

for the LORD hath deliuered your enemies the Moabites into your hand. And they descended after hym, and toke the passages of Iordán, to-warde Moab, & suffered not a man to passe ouer.
And they slew of the Moabites the same tyme, vpon a ten thousande men, which were all fatter and me of war, and there escaped not a mā. * So Moab was subdued that daye, vnder the hande of Israel: and the lande had rest lxxx. peres.

After hym was Samgar <sup>the</sup> sonne of Anath, whiche slewe of the Philistines. v. hundred men with an oxe goode, and deliuered Israel also.

The iiii. Chapter.

Deborah and Barak deliuer Israel. <sup>Deborah is called of Iudg.</sup>

And the children of Israel began agayne to do wickedly in the syght of the LORD when Abud was dead. And the LORD solde them into the hande of Jabin hynge of Canaan, that raygned in Hazor, whose captayne of warre was called Sisara, whiche dwelte in harosheth of the Gentiles. And the children of Israel cried vnto the LORD: for he hadde mynhundred charrettes of yron, and twenty peres he troubled the children of Israel very sore.

And Deborah a Prophete<sup>ss</sup>, the wyfe of Lapidoth iudged Israel the same time, and the same Deborah dwelte vnder a paulme tree, betwene Ramath and Bethel, in mount Ephraim.

And the children of Israel came vnto her for iudgement. And she sent and called * Barak the sonne of Abinoam, oute of Kedesh Nephtalim, and sayd vnto hym: Harte not the LORD God of Israel commaunded the, to leade wyth fayre wordes, men to mount Thabor, and take wyth the ten thousande men, of the children of Nephtalim and of the child of Zabulon: And I wyl byng vnto the to the * ryuer Kison, w<sup>h</sup>er Sisara, the captayne of warre vnto Jabin, w<sup>h</sup>er hys charrettes, and hys people, and wyl deliuer hym into thyne handes. And Barak sayd vnto her: y<sup>e</sup> thou wylt go wyth me, I wyl go: But y<sup>e</sup> if thou wylt not come with me, I wyl not go:
She sayde: I wyl surely go wyth the, but thys iourney that thou takest, shall not be for thyne honour, for the LORD shall sell Sisara into the hande of a woman. Deborah went with Barak to Kedesh. And Barak called Zabulon & Nephthalim to Kedesh, & led after hym ten thousande men: and Deborah went wyth hym.

But Haber <sup>the</sup> Kenite (whiche was of <sup>the</sup> child of of Hobab <sup>the</sup> father in law of Moses) remoued from <sup>the</sup> other Kenites, and pitched his tent vnto the playne of Zaanaim, whiche is by Kedesh.
And they drew Sisara, that Barak <sup>the</sup> sonne of Abinoam was gone vnto mount Thabor.
And Sisara gathered togyther all his charrettes even ix. hundred charrettes of yron, and all the people that were w<sup>h</sup> hym from of harosheth of <sup>the</sup> Gentiles, vnto the ryuer of Kison: And Deborah sayd vnto Barak: vp, for this is <sup>the</sup> day in which <sup>the</sup> LORD hath deliuered Sisara into thyne hand:
Is not the LORD gone oute before the? And so Barak went downe from mount Thabor, and ten thousande men after hym.

But the LORD destroyed Sisara and all hys charrettes,

chariots, and all his bowes with the edge of the sword, before Barak: so that all was lighted downe of his chariot, and fled away on his horse. But Barak followed after the chariots after the host, even unto Harod: and of the host of Sisara fell upon the edge of the sword, and there was not a man left. Howbeit, Sisara fled away on his feet to the tent of Jael the wyfe of Haber the Kenyite: for there was peace betwene Jabin the kynge of Hazor, and the householde of Haber the Kenyite.

And Jael wente oute to mete Sisara, and said vnto him: turne in my lord, turne into me, here not. And when he had turned in vnto her into her tent, she couered hym with a mantell. And he sayde vnto her: geue me a lytle water to drynke, for I am thyrstye. And she opened a bottle of mylke, and gaue hym drynke, and couered hym. And agayne, he sayd vnto her: sitte in the doore of the tent, and when any man doerth come and enquire of the, whether there be any man here, thou shalt saye naye.

Then Jael Habers wyfe toke a nayle of the tent, & an hammer in her hand, and went softly vnto hym, and smote the nayle into the temples of his heed, and fastened it into the grounde, for he slombred soze, and was weyre. And so he dyed.

And beholde, as Barak followed after Sisara, Jael came out to mete hym, and sayde vnto him: come, and I wil shewe the the man, whom thou seekest. And when he came into her tente: Beholde, Sisara laye dead, and the nayle was in his temples. And so God brought Jabin the kynge of Canaan into subiection that daye before the children of Israel. And the hande of the children of Israel prospered, and preuailed agaynst Jabin the kynge of Canaan, vntyl they had brought hym to nought.

The v. Chapter.

(The songe and thanksgyving of Deboza and Barak after the victorye.)

Then Deboza and Barak the sonne of Abineam sang the same day, saying: Praise ye the Lorde, for the aneuyng of Israel, & for the people that became lowlylyng. Heare O ye kynge, hearken O ye prynces: I, even I, will synge vnto the Lorde. I will praise the Lorde God of Israel.

Lorde, when thou wentest oute of Seir, when thou departest oute of the feilde of Edom, the earth trembled, and the heauens rayned: the cloudes also dropped water. * The moystaynes melted before the Lorde, even as dyd Synai, before the Lorde God of Israel.

In the dayes of Samgar the sonne of Anath, in the dayes of Jael the hye wayes were vnoccupied: And the runners of the pathes halhed thowowe by wayes.

The inhabytours of the townes were gone, they were gone in Israel, vntyl I Deboza came vp, which came vp a mother in Israel.

They chose newe goddes, and then had they (the enemy) in f gates, though there were wyld and spere. There was not a wyde or spere sent amonge fourtye thousande of Israel.

Or here loweth the gouernours of Israel, and them that are wyllyng amonge the people. O praise ye the Lorde.

Speake ye that ryde on sayre asses, & that syt hyppermost in iudgement, & walke by f wayes.

At the tryng of the archers amonge the drawers of water, there shal they speake of the ryghte onnesse of the Lorde, his ryghte onnesse in the vnfenced places of Israel: then shall the people of the Lorde go downe to the gates.

Cip Deboza by, get the vp, and syng a songe * Tysle Barak, and leade the captiue captiue thou sonne of Abinoam.

Then shal they that remaine, haue dominion of the proudest of the people of Jabin: The Lorde shal for my sake haue dominion ouer the mightie. Oute of Ephraim was there a rote of them agaynst Amalek, and after the Ben Jamin amonge the people. Oute of Machir came rulers, and out of Zabulon they that gouerne the penne of the wyter.

And of Issachar, there were prynces & Deboza, Issachar also & Barak were sent on their feet in to the valleye, when in the departing awaye of Ruben there were great men, and wyse of heart.

Why abodest thou amonge the shepcolde, to heare f bleatings of f flockes, & to separate thy selfe awaye with great men & wyse of heart? Silead also abode beyonde Jordan: and why doth Dan remaine in thyrpes?

And continued on the fethoze, and tarped in his decapred places.

But the people of Zabulon haue leoparde they: lyues even vnto the death, lyke as dyd Repphalim in the hye places of the felde.

The kynge came and fought, then foughte the kynge of Canaan in Chaminah, by the waters of Hagibdo, and wanne no mone ye.

They foughte from heauen, even the starres in theyr courses fought agaynst Sisara.

The ryuer of Euphrat remoued them, that ancient ryuer, the ryuer Euphrat: O ye soule shal tread hym downe myghtie.

Then were the dole houses smytten asondze by the meanes of the prauynge that theyr myghtye men made.

Curse ye the cytie of Merog: sayd the aungell of the Lorde: curse the inhabytours thereof, because they came not to helpe the Lorde, to helpe the Lorde wythede myghtye.

Jael the wyfe of Haber the Kenyite shall be blessed aboute other women, blessed shall she be aboute other women in the tent.

* He asked water, and she gaue hym mylke, she brought forth butter in a lordly dyshe.

* She put her hande to f nayle, and her ryghte hande to the smyttes hammer: wythede hammer smote she Sisara, & smote his heed, wounded hym, and pearced his temples.

He bowed hym downe at her fette, he fell downe: and laye styll: At her fette he bowed hym downe, & fell. And when he had sonhe doone, he laye styll desolate.

The mother of Sisara looked out at a window, & cryed thowowe the latterle: Why is his chariot so longe so longe a commynge: why saye the whyles of hys carters?

At the wyse lathes answered her, yea, & he sone wordes answered her selfe.

Whereby they haue founde, they demyde the spoyles: every man hath a damsell or two: Wilera hath a praye of dyuers coloured garmetes euen a praye of rayment dyed wyth sondrye colours, and that are made of nedle worke: ray-ment of dyuers colours & of nedle worke which is mete for hym that is chiefe in distributyng of the spoyles. So preyeth all thynne enemies: O Lorde: but they that loue hym, let them be as the sunne when he is set in hys myght.
And the lande had rest fortye years.

¶ C. vi. Chapter.

¶ Israel is oppressed of the Gadianites: Gedeon is sent of God to be thery deliuerer.

And the chyldrene of Israel * commytted wychednes in the syght of the Lorde.
And the Lorde deliuered them into the hades of Gadian seven yeres. And the hande of Gadian preyed agaynst Israel, and by-cause of the Gadianites, the chyldren of Israel made them dennes in the mountaynes and ca-ues and strong holdes. And when Israel hadde sowne, the Gadianites, the Amalechites, and they of y east countrey came vp together agaynst them: and pyched they: tentes agaynst them, and destroyed the increase of the earth, euery yere thou come vnto Iyah: and left no sustynance for Israel, neyther shepe, ore, or alle: for they went vp, they and they: cattel, and came wyth they: tentes as a multitude of greshoppers: so that both they and also they: camels were with out nombre. And they entered into the lande to destroye it. And so was Israel exceedingly impoverished in the syght of the Gadianites, & cryed vnto the Lorde. And whil the chyldren of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde because of the Gadianites, the Lorde sente vnto them a prophete, whych sayd vnto them: Thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: I set you fro Egypt & broughte you out of y house of bondage, and I cryd you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the hande of all that oppressed you and cast the oute before you, and gaue you they: lande. And I sayd vnto you: I am y Lorde your God, & feare not the goddes of the Amozites in whose lande you dwell. But you haue not obeyed my voyce And the angell of the Lorde came, and late vnder an Oke whych was in Ephrah, that pertayned vnto Joas the father of the Elerites. And his sonne Gedeon pressed out wheate out of the eares in a presse, to hyde it from the Gadiani-tes: and the Angel of the Lorde appeared vnto hym, & sayd: the Lorde is with the, thou myght-ty man of warre. And Gedeon answered hym: O my lorde, yf the Lorde be wyth vs, where is all this come vpon vs? yea, and where be al his myacles whych our fathers tolde vs of, & sayd vnto the Lorde hyngre vs out of Egypt?
But now the Lorde hath forsaken vs, and de-liuered vs into the handes of the Gadianites.
And the Lorde looked vpon hym, and sayd: So hence in this thy myght, and thou shalt deliuer Israel out of the handes of the gadianites: hence not I sent the. And he answered hym: O Lorde, where wyth shal I save Israel? Beholde, my kynred is poore in Manasses, & I am lytle in my fathers house. The Lorde sayd vnto hym I will be wyth the: and thou shalt smyte the Gadianites, as they were but one man. And he answered hym: O, yf I haue founde grace in thy syght, then shewe me a signe, that it is thou that talkest wyth me. Departe not hence, vntyl I come agayne vnto the, & tyl I hyngre myne offrynge, and haue set it before the.

And he sayd: I will tarpe vntyl thou come agayne. And Gedeon went in, and made ready a kyd, and swete cakes of an Ephah of flour, & putte it wyth the flethe in a basket, and put the bryth in a pot, and brought it out vnto hym vnder the Oke, and presented it. And the angell of God sayd vnto hym: take the flethe & the swete cakes, and laye them vpon this rocke, & poure out the bryth. And he dyd so. Then the angell of the Lorde put forth the ende of the staffe that he helde in his hande, and touched the flethe and the swete cakes. And there arose vp fire out of the rocks, and consumed the flethe and the swete cakes. But the angell of the Lorde vanished out of his syght. And when Gedeon perceived that it was an angell of the Lorde, he sayd: Alas, O Lorde God, & haue I therfore sente an angell of the Lorde face to face, that I shoulde dye? And the Lorde sayd vnto hym: peace be vnto the, feare not, thou shalt not dye. The Gedeon made an altare there vnto the Lorde, and called it: The Lorde of peace. And vnto this daye it is yet in Ephrah, that pertayneth vnto y father of the Elerites. And it fortuned that the same nyght the Lorde sayd vnto hym: take a yonge bulloche out of thy fathers byre, and another of. vii. yeres olde, and destroye the altare of Baal that thy father hath, and cutte downe the groue that is by it, and make an altare vnto the Lorde thy God vpon the top of this rocke, in a conuenient place. And take the seconde bul-loche, and offre burnt sacrifice vpon the wood of the groue, whych thou shalt cut downe. The Gedeon toke ten men of his seruautes, and dyd as the Lorde bad hym. But because he durst not do it by daye for feare of his fathers householde and of the men of the cite, he dyd it by nyght.

And when the men of the cite were wakened in the moynynge: Beholde, the altare of Baal was byholde, and the groue cut downe that was by it, and the seconde bulloche offered vpon the altare that was made. And they sayde one to another: who hath done this thyng? & when they enquired and asked, they sayd: Gedeon the sonne of Joas hath done this thyng. The men of the cite sayd vnto Joas: hyngre oute the sonne, that he may dye, because he hath destroyed the altare of Baal, and cut downe the groue that was by it. And Joas sayd vnto all that stode by hym: wyl ye please Baals cause? or wyl ye be his defenders? he that hath medled agaynst hym, let hym dye of the moynynge.

If he be a God let hym be avenged of hym that call dothour hym aulter. And from that day was Gedron called Jerobaal, because his father had sayde: Let Baal be avenged of hym, that hath broken downe hym aulter.

G All the Madianites therefore and the Amalekites and they of the east, were gathered together, and went and pitched in the valey of Jethari: but the sperte of the Lorde came upon Gedron. * And he blew a trompet, & called: This yet to soloth him, & sent messengers thowout al Manasses, & called the, which also dyd soloth hym. And he sent messengers unto Aser, Zabul, and Naphtalim, and they came to mete hym.

And Gedron sayde unto God: wyle thou save Israel in my hande, as thou hast sayd: Behold I will put a kece of walle in feyreshinge place. And wyle the dewe come on the flece onely, and it be drye upon all the earth besyde, then shall I be sure, that thou wylt save Israel by my hande, as thou saydest. And it came so to passe. For he rose up early on the morow, and thrust the flece together, and wryng the dewe therout, & filled a bawle of water: and Gedron sayd a tapir un to God: be not angry wyth me. that I speake once more. For I wyl proue ones agayn by the flece. Let it be drye only vpon the flece, and be we upon all f grounde. And God dyd so that same nyght: For it was drye vpon the flece only and there was dewe on all the grounde.

The vii. Chapter.

Gedron wyth 300 hundred men overcometh the Madianites: Oth and yett are slayde.

I Hym: Jerobaal (otherwise called Gedron) & all the people that were wyth him rose up early, and pitched besyde the wel of Harah, so that the hoste of Madianites were on f Northsyde of f Ro: he that boweth towards the valley. And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedron: the people that are wyth f are to many for me to gyve the Madianites into theyr handes, lest Israel make theyr vaunte agaynst me and say: myne owne hande hath saved me. Howe therfore make a proclamation in the eares of f people, & saye: yf any man drede as be asfede, let him retorne. And f people arose early. And there departed and returned of the people whiche were at mounte Gilead twenty and two. And there a dode ten thousande.

A And the Lorde sayde vnto Gedron: the people are yet to many, byng them downe vnto f water, and I wyll save them vnto the there. And of whom I saye vnto the, this shall go with the, f same shall go wyth the. And of whom soever I saye vnto the, they shall not go wyth the, f same shall not go. So he brought downe f people un to the water, and the Lorde sayd vnto Gedron: as many as lagge the water wyth theyr tonges as a dogge doch, them put by the felmes, and so do them that have downe vpon theyr knees to drynke. And the nombre of them that put theyr handes to theyr mouthes and lapped, were 300 hundred men. But al the remnant of the people backed downe vpon their knees to drynke water. And the Lorde sayd vnto Gedron: By the star of the east and f lapped water, will I save you: & delivere f Madianites into thyne hande. And let al f other people go every man vnto his place.

They therfore of the people toke vnto theyr shyn, and theyr trompettes. And he sent all the reste of Israel, every man vnto his tent, & comforted those that lapped wyth hym. And f host of Madian was beneath him in a valeye. And it fortuned that the same nyght the Lorde sayde vnto hym: Arise, get the downe vnto the hoste: for I have delivred it into thyne hande. But yf thou feare to go downe, then go thou & Pharah thy ladde downe to the host, and thou shalt hearthen what they saye, and so shall thyne handes be stronge, to go downe vnto the hoste.

Then went he downe and Pharah his ladde, even hard vnto the men of armes that were in the host. And the Madianites, the Amalekites and all they of the East, lay along in the valey, lyke a multitude of grasshoppers, and theyr camelles were without nombre, even as the sande by the see syde in multitude. And when Gedron was come: Behold, there was a man that tolde a dreame vnto hym neyghbour, and sayde: Behold, I dreamed a dreame, & me thought that a lofe of barley bryade, tumbled into the booste of Madian, and came vnto a tente, and smote it yf it fell, and overtoured it, that the tente laye alonge. And his felowe answered and sayde: this is nothyng elles save the sword of Gedron the sone of Joas a man of Israel: for into his hande hath God delivred Madian and all the hoste.

When Gedron herde the tellyng of f dreame, and the interpretation of the same, he was thrypped, and returned vnto the host of Israel: & said up, for the Lorde hath delivred into your hand the hoste of Madian. And he deuyded f the bydyed men into three companyes, and gave every man a trompet in his hand, & an empty ptycher, & 3 lampes therein, & sayde vnto the: loke on me, & do like wyle, that wyle I come to the syde of the hoste, even as I do, so do you: When I blowe w a trompet and all that are w me, blowe ye wyth trompettes also on every syde of the hoste, & say here is the sword of the Lorde and of Gedron.

And so Gedron and the three hundred men that were wyth hym, came vnto the syde of the hoste in the begynnyng of the myddle watche, & raised up the watchmen. And they blew w theyr trompettes, and brake the ptychers that were in their handes. And al the three companyes blew: wyth trompettes & brake the ptychers, & held f lampes in theyr left handes, & the trompettes in theyr right to blowe withal. And they cryed the sword of the Lorde & of Gedron. And they rode syl, every man in his place rounde about the hoste: & they withyn the hoste ranne, and cryed and sch. And f three hundred blew wyth trompettes, & the Lorde set every mans sword vpon his neyghbour, the same out all the hoste. And the host led to Beethitah, to jerrath, and to the edge of the playne of Debolah vnto Tabbath. And the men of Israel begyn gathered together out of the tribes of Naphtalim, of Aser & al Manasses followed after f Madianites. And

And Gedeon sente messengers vnto all mount Ephraim, saying: come down agaynst the Midianites, and take before the the waters between Bethbarath and to Jordan. Then all the men of Ephraim gathered together & toke the waters vnto Bethbarath, and to Jordan. And they toke two captaynes of the Midianites, Oreb, and zeb, and slewe Oreb vpon the rocke Oreb, and zeb at the presse zeb, and folowed after Midian. And brought the heades of Oreb and zeb to Gedeon on the other syde Jordan.

Cefprozil makes induction against S. aureus, but is less pacytic.

Ad the men of Ephraim sayde vnto him: why hast thou serued vs thus, & thou callest vs not, when thou wentest to fyght wth the Madianites: and they chode wth hym a good. OR ( & had almost done hym violence. ) And he sayd vnto them: What bede haue I done lyke vnto yours: is not a cluster of Ephraim better, then the wyne harvest of Abiezr? God hath deliuered into your handes & lordes of Madia, Oreb & Zeb. And what was I able to do lyke as you haue done? And the thei<sup>r</sup> spirites abated from of hym, when he had sayde that. And Gedeon came to Iordant to passe ouer, & and & the hundred men that were wth him, very saynte, and yet folowed the chace. And he sayd vnto the me<sup>n</sup> of Socoth: geue I pray you cakes of bread vnto the people that folow me: for they be sayntie, that I mape folowe after Zebath, and Zalmona kinges of Madian. And the lordes of Socoth, sayd: are the handes of Zebath & Zalmona nowe in thyne handes, that we shulde geue bread vnto thyne armye? Gedeon sayd, therfore when & Lorde hath deliuered Zebath and Zalmona into myne hande, I wil teare the flesshe of you with the thornes of the wyldernes and wth breeches. And he wente vp thence to Phaniel, and spake vnto them lyke wyle. And the men of Phaniel answered him, as did the men of Socoth. And he sayde also vnto the men of Phaniel: when I come agayne in peace, I wil brake downe this towre. Zebath & Zalmona were in Carhar, and thei<sup>r</sup> hostes wth them, vpon a. xv. thousand men, which were all & were lesse of all & hostes of the of & Esau: For there was slayne a hundred & twenty thousand me<sup>n</sup>. that beere swordes.

And Seiron went thowoe the f dwell in tabernacles on f East syde of Arabah & Iehabab & smote the host for f hoile dyd cast no perplis.
And whan zebath & salmone fled, he folowed after them, & toke f twa hyngens of Madia, ze-bach and salmone, & discomforted all the hoste.

And Gedeon the sonne of Ioas returned fro battell, afore the sunne was downe, and caught a ladde of the men of Mochoth, & conquered of him And he tooke of hym, the lordes and elders, of Mochoth, ixxviii. men. And he came vnto the men of Mochoth, and sayde: Beholde, here I haue zebath & zalmona, with whiche ye dyd calte me in the teeth, saying: are the handes of zebath and zalmona aledye in thyne hande, that we shoulde grue breade vnto the saynle men: And he toke the elders of the cite, and rhoines of the wyldernes, and made the men of Ho-seas fele the. And he brake downe the towre of Samael, and slewe the men of the cite.

And then sayde he vnto zebath and zalmona, what maner of mē were they whom ye slew at Thabor: and they answered: the spheuisse of the and they is all one, euen after the falspoy of the chyliden of a kynge. And he sayd: they were my brethren, euen my mothers chyliden.
As truly as I Lord I wech of ye had saued they lyues, I wolde not slep you. And he sayde vnto Jether hys eldest sonne: vp and slepe them: But the lad bze we not hys swerde, for he feared, because he was yet yong. Then zebath & zalmona sayde: Kysse thou, and falle vpon vs: for as the man is, so is his strength. And Scodes arose and slewe zebath and zalmona, and toke a waye the ornamentes, that were on their camels neckes.

Then the men of Israel sayde vnto Gedeon: Reygne þ ouer vs, bothe þ, thy sonne & thy sonnes sonne, for þ hast deliuered vs out of þ hāde of Wadī. And Gedeon sayd vnto the: I will not reygne ouer you, neither shall my chyldre reygne ouer you, but the Lorde shall reygne ouer you.

And agayne Sedeon sayd vnto them: I wold desyre a certayne request of you, eue if you wold grue me euery man the earynges of his praye.
For they had golde earynges bicause they were Ismaelites: and they answered: We wyl gyue the. And they spied a mantel, and did cast therin euery man the earynges of his praye: and the weyght of the golde earynges that he required was a thousande & seuen hundred species of gold, besyde cheynes, pommaunders and purple ray-ment that was on the kynges of Gadian, & besyde the cheynes, that were about theyr camels neckes. And Sedeon made an Ephod therof, & put it in hys cytie Ephraim. And all Israel went a whooping after it, in the same yere, whiche thinge became a ruine vnto Sedeon and to his house. Thus was Gadian broughte low befoze the chyldre of Israel, so that they lystre by theyr brades nomoze. And so counterpe was in quietnes loste peres in the dayes of Sedeon.

Abimelech the sonne of Jerobaal came to Sichem: vnto his brethren. And he communed with them, saying: I praye you, in the eares of all the elders of Sichem: whether in better for you, & all the sonnes of Jerobaal (whyche are lxx. persons) reigne ouer you, eyther that one reigne ouer you: Remember, that I am of your bone, and of your flesh. And his mothers bzethzen spake of hym in the audience of the men of Sichem all these wordes, & they: better were it vnto to folowe Abimelech. For they sayd, he is our brother. And they gaue him lxx. peces of siluer out of the temple of Baal Berith, wherewith Abimelech byed vayne & lycht persons which went with hym. And he went vnto his fathers house at Shechem: and slewe all his bzethzen, the sonnes of Jerobaal: euen lxx. persons with one stone. Forwithstanding, yet Joathah the yongest sonne of Jerobaal escaped, for he byd hym selfe. And all the men of Sichem gathered together, & all the house of Dello, & came & made Abimelech king in Shechem, where a great stone was by Sichem.

And when they tolde it to Joatham, he went and stode in the toppe of mount Garizim, & lyft vp his voyce, and cryed, and sayde vnto them: hearken vnto me you men of Sichem, that god maye hearken vnto you. * The trees went forth to anointe a kynge ouer them, & sayde vnto the Olive tree: reigne thou ouer vs. But the olive tree sayde vnto the: Woulde I leaue my fatnesse, which both goddes and men prayse in me, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? And the trees sayde to the figge tree: come thou and be kynge ouer vs. The figge tree answered the: Woulde I forsake my sweetnes, and my good fruite, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayde the trees vnto the vyne: come thou and be kynge ouer vs. The vyne sayde vnto them: Woulde I leaue my wyne whereby I cheare both goddes and men, & go to be promoted ouer the trees? Then sayd all the trees vnto the figge tree: come thou and reigne ouer vs. And the figge tree said vnto the trees: yf it be true that ye wyll anoint me kynge ouer you, then come, and put your trust vnder my shadowe. Yf no, the fyre come oute of the fyre bush, and waste the Cedre trees of Libanon.

Nowe therefore, yf ye do truly & vncorruptly to make Abimelech kynge: and yf ye haue deale well with Jerobaal and his house, & haue done vnto hym according to the beseyginge of his handes, Iudge ye. For eue he (my father) soughte for you, and aduantaged his lyfe, and cryde you out of the hand of Madian. And ye are cryen vp agaynst my fathers house this daye, and haue slayne his children, euen lxx. persons with one stone, & haue made Abimelech kyng of us: maye he serualt, kinge ouer the men of Sichem because he is your brother: yf ye then haue deite truly & purely with Jerobaal & with his house this daye then reioyce ye with Abimelech, & let hym reioyce with you. But yf you haue not dealt truly, then I praye God a fyre may come out of Abimelech, and consume the men of Sichem the house of Dello. And that there may come a fyre frame amonge the men of Sichem, and oute of the house of Dello, and consume Abimelech. And Joatham ranne away, and fledde, and went to Beer and dwelte there, for feare of Abimelech his brother. When Abimelech had ragged the peere, God sent a spirit of hate betwene Abimelech, and the men of Sichem. And the citizens of Sichem rayled vpon Abimelech, and wished that the wickednes done to the sonnes of Jerobaal myght come on hym, & that God wolde lay the blood of them vnto Abimelech: they bzethzen which slewe them, and vpon the other men of Sichem which ayded him in the killinge of his bzethzen. And the citizens of Sichem let me to lay a wayte for hym in the toppe of the mountaynes: which men (which they called the sons of the country) robbed all that came a longe the waye by them. And it was tolde Abimelech.

And Gaal the sonne of Abed came with his bzethzen, and they gat them to Sichem. And the men of Sichem put their confidence in him. And they went out into the felde, & gathered in the grapes and trode them, and made mery: & went into the house of they goddes, and did eate and drinke, & cursed Abimelech. And Gaal the son of Abed sayd: what is Abimelech? and what is Sichem? that we shoulde serue hym? Is he not the sonne of Jerobaal? & Zebul is his officer: serue such as come of? & Zebul the father of Sichem, for what reason is it that we shoulde serue hym? wolde God this people were vnder my hande, that wolde I take Abimelech oute of the waye, And he spake agaynst Abimelech: make thynne holte greater: and go onte. And when Zebul the ruler of the citie harde the wordes of Gaal the son of Abed, he was wrothe, & sent messengers vnto Abimelech princely, saying: Behold, Gaal the sonne of Abed and his bzethzen be come to Sichem: and beholde, they set the citie agaynst the. Now therefore vp by night, thou & all the people that is with thee, and lye in wayte in the felde. And ryse early in the morninge as soone as the sonne is vp, and fall vpon the citie. And yf he and the people that is with hym, come out agaynst the, do to hym what thynne handes shalbe able. And Abimelech rose vp, and all the people that were with hym by nyght. And they layd a wayte agaynst Sichem in foure companies. And Gaal the son of Abed went oute, and stode in the entrynge of the gate of the citie. And Abimelech rose vp, & the folke that were with him, from lying a wayte. And when Gaal sawe the people, he sayde to Zebul beholde ther come people downe from the top of the mountaynes. And Zebul sayde vnto hym: the shadowe of the hylls seme men vnto thee (ye & Zebul are the officers). & Gaal answered agayne, and sayd: se, ther come folke downe by the myddel of the land, & an other company come a longe by the playne of the charmers. Then sayd Zebul vnto hym: where is now thy mouth that sayde what serueth Abimelech, that we shoulde serue him? Is not this the people that thou hast despised? Go out

Go out now & fight wth the. And Saal went out before the citizens of Sichem, & fought wth Abimelech. And Abimelech chased him, & he fled before him. (so he hane hym into the cytye) and many were overthrowen & wounded, euen vnto the entering of the gate. And Abimelech dwelt at Arumah.

And zebul thrust out Saal and hys brethren, & they wuld not dwell in Sichem. (so they them not to saye there.) And on the morow, it happened that the people wth out into the felde. And they told Abimelech. And he toke the people, & deuyded the into three companies & layd awayt in the felde & lo he, & beholde, the people were come out of the cytye, and he ranne vpon them, and smote them.

And Abimelech, & the companies that were wth hym, reached further, & stode in the enterpynge of the gate of the cytye. And the two other companies, ranne vpon all the people that were in the felde & slue them. And when Abimelech had foughte agaynst the cytye all that daye, he toke it, & slue the people that was therein, & destroyed the cite and solwed sale the towne. And when all the me of the towne of Sichem heard that, they entred into a strong hold of the house of theyr god Baal Berith. (where they made a bonde wth hym: & therat dyd the place take the name, wherthe place was exceeding strong.) And it was tolde Abimelech, that all the me of the tower of Sichem were gathered together, and Abimelech gat hym to mount zeluz, both he and all the people that were wth him, & toke arrows wth hym & cut downe bowes of trees and toke the and bare them on his shulder, & sayd vnto the folke that were wth hym: what ye haue sene me do, speede youre selues, and do lyke wyse as I haue done. And all the men that were among the people, cut down bowes, & folowed Abimelech, & put them into the holde, and set the holde a fyre by the: so that (wth smoke and fyre) all the me of the tower of Sichem were slayne, vpon a thousande men and women.

Then went Abimelech to Thebez, and beseged it, & toke it. But there was a stronge towne wthin the cytye, & thither ranne all the me and womē & all the cheefe that were in the cytye, and went to the, & got them wth (by the bulwarkes) to the toppe of the towne. And Abimelech cam vnto the towne and foughte agaynst it, & went hard vnto the doore of the towne to set it on fyre. And a certayne woman & caste a peece of a miltstone vpon hys heade, and all to brake hys brayne panne. Then Abimelech called hastilye vnto a young man that bare his harness, and sayd vnto him: drawe thy swerde & slay me, that men saye not of me: a woman slewe hym. And hys lad thrust hym thowre, and he dyed.

And when the men of Israel sawe that Abimelech was dead, they departed euery ma vnto hys owne house. And thus the wickednesse of Abimelech whiche he dydde vnto hys father, in slayinge hys seuentye brethren and therto al the wickednesse of the men of Sichem, bidde God bringe vpon thei heades. And vpon them came the curse of Joathan the sonne of Isrobaal.

The .x. Chapter.

After Abimelech there arose, to defend Israel, the Thola the sonne of Phuah his brother. And a ma of Isakar which dwelt in Samaria mounte Ephraim. And he iudged Israel .xxii. yere and dyed, and was buried in Samir. And after hym arose Jair a Gileadite, and iudged Israel .xxii. yere. And he had thretye sonnes that rode on thretye Asse colters, & they had thretye cities, which are called the townes of Jair vnto this daye, & are the land of Gilead. And Jair dyed & was buried in Ramon.

And the children of Israel wthonghe wyched nether agayne, in the sight of the Lorde, & serued Baalim & Asaroth, and the goddesses of Siria, the goddesses of Sidon, & the goddesses of Moab, the goddesses of the children of Ammō, & the goddesses of the Philistynes, and forsoke the Lorde & serued not him. And the Lord was wroth wth Israel, & solde them into the handes of the Philistines, & into the handes of the children of Ammon: which se that yere forth, yilde & oppressed the children of Israel .xviii. yere, all that were on the other syde Jordan: in the lande of the Amorites whiche is in Gilead. Mozeouer the children of Ammon went ouer Jordan to fight agaynst Juda, Ben Jamin, & the house of Ephraim: so Israel was sore rebayed. And the children of Israel cryed vnto the Lorde, saying: we haue synned agaynst the: for we haue forsaken our owne God, & haue serued Baalim. And the Lord said vnto the children of Israel: dyd not Egyptias the Amozites, the children of Ammō, the Philistines, the Sidonites, the Amalekites, and the Moabites oppresse you? And ye cryed to me & I deliuered you out of theyr handes. And for all ye haue forsaken me, & serued strange goddesses wherfore I wyl helpe you nomore. So and crye vnto the goddesses which ye haue chosen, and let them saue you in the tyme of youre tribulacion. And the children of Israel sayd vnto the Lorde: we haue sinned: do thou vnto vs whatsoeuer please, & deliuer vs onely this day. And they put away the strange goddesses from them & serued the Lorde. And his soule had piete on the miscrep of Israel.

Then the children of Ammon gathered together, and pitched in Gilead. And the children of Israel gathered them together, and pitched in Mizpa. And the lordes of Gilead sayde eche to other: whosoeuer wyl begynne the battayl agaynst the children of Ammon, the same shal be heade ouer all the enhabytters of Gilead.

The .xi. Chapter.

The .xi. Chapter.

After there was one Jephthah a Gileadite, a stronge man, the sonne of an harlot: & Gilead begate Jephthah. And Gileads wyfe bare him sonnes, whiche when they were come to age thrust out Jephthah, and sayde vnto hym, thou shalt not inherite in our fathers house for thou arte the sonne of a strange woman. Then Jephthah fled from his brethren, and dwelt in the land of Tob. And there gathered vnto him (and his wyfe) men to Jephthah, and went out wth him. And it chanced in processe of tyme that the children of Ammō of Ammon made them agayne Israel. And when the child of Ammon sought to fight against Israel, the elders of Gilead went to Jephthah out of the land of Tob. And he said unto them: come, I be your captain, & we may fight with the children of Ammon. Jephthah answered the elders of Gilead: had not ye hated me & expelled me out of my fathers house? how happened it then, that you come unto me now in time of your tribulation? And the elders of Gilead said unto Jephthah: Therefore we turne agayne to thee now, that thou mayest go with us, & fight agayne the children of Ammon and be our head over all the inhabitants of Gilead. And Jephthah said unto the elders of Gilead: If ye bring me home agayne to fight with the child of Ammon, then if the Lord deliver them before me, shall I be your head? And the elders of Gilead said to Jephthah: The Lord be witness between us if we do not according to thy word. The Jephthah went with the elders of Gilead. And the people made him head and ruler over them. And Jephthah rehearsed all his wordes before the Lord in Mizpa.

And Jephthah sent messengers unto the king of the children of Ammon saying: what hast thou to do with me, & thou art come agayne to fight in my land? The king of the children of Ammon answered unto the messengers of Jephthah: Because Israel took away my land, when they came out of Egypt: even from Arnon unto Jabbok, & unto Jordan. Now therefore restore those landes agayne to sapre meanes. And Jephthah sent messengers agayne unto the king of the children of Ammon: & said unto him: thus sayth Jephthah: Israel took not away the land of Moab, nor the land of the children of Ammon.

But when Israel came out of Egypt, & walked throught the wilderness, even unto the read se they came to Cadan: and sent messengers unto the king of Edom, saying: let me (I praye) go throught thy land. But the king of Edom wolde not agree thereto. And in like maner they sent unto the king of Moab, but he wolde not consent. And so Israel abode still in Cadan. And then they went a long throught the wilderness, & compassed the land of Edom, & the land of Moab, & came alonge by the east syde of the land of Moab, and pitched on the other syde of Arnon, & wolde not come within the coast of Moab: for Arnon was the utmost border of Moab. And then Israel sent messengers unto Shehon, king of the Amorites, & king of Hesbon. & said unto him: Let us passe throught thy land unto our owne coostrey. But Shehon consented not to Israel, & he wolde go throught his coost: but gathered all his people together, & pitched in Jabbok & fought with Israel. And the Lord God of Israel delivered Shehon and all his folk into the handes of Israel. And so Israel smote them & conquered all the land of the Amorites, the inhabitants of the sayd coostrey: And they conquered all the coostes of the Amorites, from Arnon unto Jabbok, & from the wilderness unto Jordan. So now, saying the Lord God of Israel hath cast out the Amorites before the people of Israel, wouldest thou possesse the land of Moab? but what people comes thy god dispatch out? & lande possesse thou? And so what forerunner the Lord our God expelleth, that lande ought we to enioye.

* And art thou better then Balac the sonne of yepho: kynge of Moab: had he styrre to Israel to fight agayne them, all the while Israel dwelt in Hesbon & her townes, in Aror & her townes & in all the cyties that be a longe by the coostes of Arnon, thie bidden yeres: why dydest thou not recover them in all that space? Wherefore, I have not sinned agayne. But thou doste me wronge to warre agayne me. The Lord therefore whiche is a Judge, be Judge this daye betweene the children of Israel, and the child of Ammon. Howbeit, the kynge of the children of Ammon, bearkened not unto the wordes of Jephthah, whiche he sent hym.

Then the spere of the Lord came upon Jephthah. And he passed over to Gilead and to Manasse, and came to Mizpah that lyeth in Gilead, and from thence unto the children of Ammon. And Jephthah vowed a vow unto the Lord, and sayde: If thou shalt deliver the child of Ammon into my handes, then that thing that cometh out of the doores of my house agayne me, when I come home in peace, from the children of Ammon, shall be the Lordes, and I wyl offer it up for a burnt offering: And so Jephthah went unto the children of Ammon to fight with the. And the Lord delivered them into his handes. And he smote the from Aror tyll thou come to Gienith, even xx cyties: & so forth to the playne of the vineyardes, with an exceeding greete slaughter. And thus the children of Ammon were brought under before the children of Israel.

When Jephthah came to Mizpah unto his house, he saw his daughter came out agayne him, & symberelles and dances, whiche was his onely child: so that he saw her, he had nether sonne, nor daughter. And when he saw her, he rent his clothes, and sayd: Alas my daughter, thou hast brought me low, and art one of them that trouble me. For I have opened my mouth unto the Lord and cannot go backe. And she said unto hym: my father if thou have opened thy mouth unto the Lord then do with me according to that that proceeded out of thy mouth, for as much as the Lord hath auenged the (I grace the bycause) of thine enemyes the children of Ammon. And she sayde unto her father: both much for me: let me alone two monethes, & I maye go downe to the mountaynes, and bewaile my virginitee I and my felowes. And he sayde go, and he sent her away two monethes. And so she went with her companyes, and lamented her mayden hed by the mountaynes. And after the end of the monethes she turned agayne unto her father, whiche daye with her according to her vow whiche he had vowed, and she had knowen no man. And it grew to a custome in Israel. The daughters of Israel came yeare by yeare to lament the daughter of Jephthah the Gileadite, foure dayes in a yeare.

of our blades, neyther wolde he haue any such. And the wyfe bare a sonne, and called his name Samson. And the lad grew, and the Loide blessed hym. And the spere of the Loide beganne to moue hym in the house of Dan, betwene zarah and Esbaol.

The marriage of Samson. he kylleth a lion. he maketh a riddle. he kylleth thyrtye, his wyfe his laboure byn and taketh another.

Phil. viij.

Samson went downe to Chanath, and laide a woman in Chanath of the daughters of the philistines, and he came vp and tolde his father and his mother, & sayd: I haue seene a woman in Chamath of the daughters of the philistines. And now geue me her to wyfe. Then his father and mother sayde vnto hym: Is ther neuer a woman among the daughters of thy brethren, and amonge all my people, but that thou must go, and take a wyfe of the uncircumcised Philistines? And Samson sayd vnto his father: geue me this woman for she pleasech me wel. But his father and mother sayde not that it was the Loide doynge, & he sought an occasion agaynst the Philistines, for at that tyme the Philistines reigned ouer Israel.

Then wote Samson & his father & his mother downe to Chamath, & came to the vineyardes of Chanath. And beholde, a yong man roared vpon hym. And the spere of the Loide came vpon hym. And he tare hym, as he wolde haue rent a hynde, and yet had nothyng in his hand, neyther tolde his father & mother what he had done. And he wote downe, & talked to the woman which seemed well fauored in sight of Samson.

And wythin a thorte space after as he wente thirthe agayn to take her to wife, he turned out of the waye, to se the carhulle of the lion. And behold ther was a swarme of bees and honny in the carhulle of the lion. And he toke of the honny in his handes, and wente eatynge, & came to his father and mother, and gaue them also. And they byd eate. But he tolde not them, that he had taken the honny out of the carhulle of the lion.

And so his father came vnto the woman and Samson made her a feast, for so vsed the yong men to do. And whyle they were eatinge of that place, sawe hym, they broughte xxx. companions to be with hym. And Samson sayd vnto the: I wyl nowe put forth a riddle vnto you: And if you can declare it me wythin viij. dayes of the feast, and fynde it out, I wyl geue you xxx. shertes, & xxx. chaunge of garmentes. But and if you cannot declare it me, then shal ye geue me xxx. shertes and xxx. chaunge of garmentes. And they answered hym: put forth thy riddle, that we may heare it. And he sayde vnto them: Out of the eater came meate: & out of the stronge came swertes. And they coude not in iii. dayes expounde the riddle. And when the seventh day was come they sayd vnto Samsons wyfe: Later thyn thy hande, & thou shalt declare that he maye declare vnto the riddle, lest we burne thee and thy fathers house to fyre. haue ye called vs hither, to make vs beggers? And Samsons wyfe wept before him, and sayd: Surely thou hatest me, and thou hast put forth a riddle: vnto the chyldren of my folke and hast not tolde it me. And he sayde vnto her: Behold I haue not tolde it my father, and my mother & shall I tell it the?

And Samsons wyfe wepte before hym, viij. dayes, whyle the feast lasted. And the viij. daye he tolde her, because she lape so soze vpon hym. And she tolde it the chyldren of her folke. And men of the cyte sayd vnto hym the seventh daye, before the sonne went downe. What is sweeter then honie, & what is stronger then a lyon? Then sayde he vnto them: If ye had not plowed with my cause, ye had not solde out my riddle. And the spere of the Loide came vpon hym. And he went downe to Achah, & slew the thyrtye men of them and spoyled them, & gaue chaunge of garmentes vnto them whiche expounded the riddle. And he was wroth, and went vp to his fathers house. But Samsons wyfe was gyuen to one of his companions, that he had taken vnto hym.

C The. xv. Chapter.

Samson myghte bynden to the face sayles. With the same he hitte an alle he kylleth a thousand men. Out of a greake take in the same, and gaue hym water.

But it chaunced wythin a whyle after, that Samson visited his wyfe with a hylayenge: I wyl go into my wyfe into the chaumber: but her father woulde not suffre hym to go in. And her father sayde: I thought that thou haddest hated her, and therefore gaue I her vnto one of thy companions. Is not her yonger sister syster syster then she? Take her in stead of the other. Samson sayde vnto the: How am I more blameles then the Philistines, & therefore wyl I do them displeasure.

And Samson went out, and caughte thre hundred foxes, & toke thre byndes, and fastened the taylor to taylor, & put a fyre bynde in the myddes betwene two sayles. And when he had set the byndes of fyre, he sent the out, & they wente vnto the vineyardes, whiche were in the same, & they burnt the com of the Philistines, and burnt vpon bothe the reppes com and also the standynge, with the vineyardes and oluyes. Then the Philistines sayd who hath done this? And it was tolde them that Samson the sonne in lawe of the Chamithe, because he had taken his wyfe, and gyuen her to his companion. And the Philistines came vp and burnt her and her father with fyre.

And Samson sayde vnto them: Though ye haue done this, yet wyl I be auenged of you & then I wyl cease. And he smote them legges and thyghs with a myghty plage. And then he went and dwelte in the cave of the rocke Etam.

Then the Philistines came vp, and pyched in Juda, & lape in a place, that was called the rocke Etam. And the men of Juda sayde, wher are ye com vp vnto vs? They answered to wynd Samson are we come vp, and to do to hym as he hath done to vs. Then the thousand men of Juda wente downe to the cave of the rocke Etam, and sayd to Samson: wottest thou not that the Philistines are rulers over vs: Wherfore then haſte thou done thus vnto vs: he answered the, * as they byd vnto me, ſo haue I done vnto them.

And they ſayd vnto him agayne: we are come downe to bynde the, and deliuer the into ſ hand of the Philiftines. And Samſon ſayd vnto the: ſweare vnto me, <sup>that ye promiſſe me</sup> that ye ſhall not fall vpon me your ſelues. They answered hym ſaying: No, but we wyl bynde the & deliuer the vnto they: hādes. But we wyl not kyl the. And they bounde hym with two newe cordes, and brought him from the rocke. And whē he came to Lehi, ſ Philiftines ſhoured againſt him. And the ſpyrite of the Lord came vpo him, and ſ cordes that were vpon his armes, became as flare that was burnt w ſyre, for the hādes looſed fro of his handes. And he founde a cotten ſawebone of an aſſe, and put for the his hande, and caught it, and ſlew a thouſande men therewith.

And Samſon ſayd: w the ſawe of an aſſe haue I made heapes of them: with the ſawe of an aſſe haue I ſlayne a thouſande men. And whē he had left ſpeaking: he caſt away the ſawbone out of his hande, and called the place: Ramath Lehi.

And he was ſore a thyſt, and called on ſ Lord, and ſayde: thou haſt gūen this great victorie, in the hande of thy ſeruant. And nowe I muſt dye for thyſt, and fall into the hādes of ſ vncircumciſed. But God brake a great ſouth was in the ſawe, and there came water theroute. And when he had dronke his ſpyrite came agayne, & he was reſreſhed, wherfore the name thereof is called vnto this daye, the well of the caller on, which came of the ſawe. And he iudged Iſrael in the dayes of the Philiftines twentye yeres.

¶ The xvi. Chapter.

<sup>Samſon tyſted by the gates of Gaza. He was deceyved by Dalila. He putted downe the houſe vpon the Philiftines, and dyed with them.</sup>

¶ Then went Samſon to Iſrah, * & ſawe there an harlot, and went in vnto her. And it was tolde the Iſrahites: ſaying: Dalſon is come byether. And they went about, and layed wayte for hym there all nyght in the gate of the cytie, and were ſtyll all the nyght. ſaying: in the moynynge when it is day we ſhal kyll hym. And Dalſon toke his reſt ſtyll midnyght, & aroſe at mydnyght, and toke the doyes of the gates of ſ cite, & the two ſide poſtes and rent them of, with the barre and al, and put them vpon his ſhoulders, and carped them vp to the topp of an hyl that is befoze Hebron.

And after this it ſortuned, that by the ryner of Moze, he loved a woman called Dalila: vnto whome came the lordes of the Philiftines, and ſayd vnto her: perſuade hym, and ſe where in his great ſtrength lyeth, and by what meane we maye ouercome hym, that we maye bynde him, to bynge hym vnder: and curye one of vs ſhall gūe the a leuen hundred ſylverlyngeſ.

And Dalila ſayde to Samſon: Oh tell me where thy great ſtrength lyeth, and howe thou myghteſt be bounde, and brought vnder. Samſon answered vnto her: If they bynde me wth leuen greene wythes that were neuer dyled, I ſhalbe weake as other men.

And the lordes of the Philiftines brought her ſeuent wythes that were yet greene, and neuer dyled, and they bounde him therewith. And with ſtandynge the had men lyng in wayte with her in the chambze. And ſhe ſayde vnto hym: the Philiftines be vpon the Samſon. And immediatly he brake the wythes as a ſprynge of towne <sup>that is thynne</sup> breakeh, when it feelet ſyre. And ſo his ſtrength was not known.

And Dalila ſayde vnto Samſon: Se, thou haſt mocked me & tolde me lyes. Nowe therfore tel me wherw thou mighteſt be bound. he answered her: If they bynde me w newe ropes ſ neuer were occuppyed, I ſhalbe weake, and as another man. Dalila therfore toke newe ropes, & bound him therewith, & ſayd vnto him: the Philiftines be vpon the Samſon. And there were lyes of wayte in the chambze, & he brake them from of his armes, as they had bene but a threde. And Dalila ſayd to Dalſon: byther to thou haſt begyled me & tolde me lyes: yet tel me howe thou myghteſt be bounde. he ſayde vnto her: If thou platteſteſt ſ. vii. lockes of my heed w an herre lace. And ſhe faſtened them wth a nagle, and ſayde vnto hym: the Philiftines be vpon the Samſon. And he awoke out of hys ſlepe, and plucked a waye the nagle that was in the platrynge wth the herre lace. And ſhe ſayde vnto him agayne: howe canſt thou ſaye that thou loueſt me: when thynne herte is not with me: Beholde, thou haſt mocked me this thre tymes, and haſte not tolde me wherew thy great ſtrength lyeth.

And as ſhe laye vpon hym wth her woꝝdes continually vering of him, his ſoule was encheued euen vnto the deaht. And ſo he tolde her all his herte, and ſayde vnto her: there neuer came raſour vpon myne heed, for I haue bene an abſtynner: <sup>that is to ſaye, conſecrate</sup> vnto God, euen from my mothers wombe: therfore when I am ſhauen, my ſtrength wyl go from me, & I ſhal ware weake, and be lyke all other men. And when Dalila ſawe that he had tolde her all hys herte, ſhe ſente, and called for the lordes of the Philiftines, ſaying: come by yet this onys, for he hath ſhewed me all hys herte.

Thā lordes of the Philiftines came by vnto her, & brought the money in they: handes. And ſhe made him ſlepe vpo her knees: <sup>that is to lay his head downe in her lap,</sup> and ſhe ſent for a man, and he dyled ſhaue of the ſeuen lockes of his heed, and began to vere him, & his ſtrength was gone from him. And ſhe ſayd: the Philiftines be vpon the Samſon. And he awoke out of his ſlepe, and ſayde: I wyl go out now as at other tymes, and ſhake my ſelfe, and he wyl not ſ the Lord was departed from hym. But the Philiftines toke hym, & put out hys eyes, and brought hym downe to Iſrah, and bound hym with two fetters of byſſe. And he byd grinde in the pylſon houſe: howbeit the herre of his heed began to grow agayne after that he was ſhauen.

Then the lordes of the Philiftines gathered the together for to offe a ſolepne offrynge vnto Dagon their God, and to reioys: for they ſayd:

our God hath delivered Samson out of our hands. And when the people saw him they praised they god for they sayde: our god hath delivered into our hands our enemy and destroyer of our country, which slew many of vs. And when they heard these words, it fortuned, that they sayde: sende for Samson, that he maye make vs laugh.

6 And they set Samson out of the prison house, and he played before them, and they set hym betwene the pillars. And Samson sayd vnto the ladde that led hym by the hande: set me that I maye touche the pillars that the house standeth vpon, and that I maye leane to them. And the house was full of men and women. And there were al the lordes of the Philistines. And there were vpon the rooke a thre thousande men and women that behelde whyle Samson played.

And Samson called vpon the Lorde, & sayd: O Lorde God thyne vpon me, and strengthen me, at this tyme onely: O God that I maye be auenged of the Philistines for my eyes. And Samson caught the two middle pillars on which the house stode, and on which it was borne vpon: the one in his right hand, & the other in his left, and sayde: my soule shall dye w the Philistines, and bowed them w all his myght. And the house fell vpon the lordes, & vpon all the people that were therein. And so the deede whiche he did at his death was more then they which he did in his lyfe. And then his brethren & al the house of his father came downe and toke him vpon, & brought him and buried him betwene zarah and Estahol, in the burying place of Manoah his father. And he iudged Israel thretye yeres.

The xviij. Chapter.

Of Micah, whose mother made hym an ydole of silver.

3 There was a man in mount Ephraim named Micah, and he sayd vnto his mother: the leue hundred silver pyns that were taken fro the about which thou curstest and spakest it in myne eares. Behold, the silver is w me, I toke it away. And his mother sayd: blessed be thou my son in the Lorde. And whē he had restozed the leuen hundred silver pyns to his mother agayne, his mother said: I vowed I spuer to the Lorde of myne hand for my son, & thou shouldest make a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall. Nowe therefore I will gyue it to agayne. And whē he restozed it vnto his mother, his mother toke two hundred silver pyns, & gaue the to a goldsmith, whiche made therof a grauen ymage, and an ymage of metall, and it was in the house of Micah. And the man Micah hadde a temple of goddes, and made an Ephod and Theraphim: (that is to saye a garment for the priest, and shoes.) And fylled the hande of one of his sones which became his priest. In those dayes there was no kynge in Israel, but euery man did as which was good in his own eyes.

Ysa. xliij. 1. 2.

And there was a ponge man oute of Bethlehem Juda, of the kynred of Iuda: which ponge man was a Leuite, and sojourned there. And the man departed out of the cytie of Bethlehem Juda, to goe to dwell where he coulde fynde a dwelling place. And he came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah as he iourneyed. And Micah sayd vnto hym: whence comest thou? The Leuite answered hym: I am of Bethlehem Iuda, and go to dwell where I may fynde a place, (and whence I maye escape it to be for my profyte.) And Micah sayde agayne vnto hym: dwell with me, and be vnto me a father and a priest. And I will gyue the ten silver pyns by yere, two garments, and thy meate and drynke.

And the Leuite was content to dwell with the man, and was vnto him as one of his owne sonnes. And Micah consecrated the hand of the Leuite, and the yonge man became his priest, and was in the house of Micah. Then sayd Micah: now I am sure that the Lorde will be good vnto me: for I haue a Leuite to my priest.

The xviij. Chapter.

The children of Dan take the goddes and the priest of Micah away. They destroy Laish, and after buyde it agayne.

In those dayes there was no kynge in Israel. And in those dayes the crye of Dan sought the an enderitance to dwell in: for vnto this tyme there fel none inheritaunce vnto them amonge the trybe of Israel.

And the children of Dan sent of they kynred, & actue me in frates of warre out of their coostes, out of zarah & Estahol, to see if land & seache it out, & sayde vnto them: go & seache out a lande. Which when they came to mount Ephraim to the house of Micah they lodged there. And whē they were in the house of Micah, they knew the voyce of a yonge man the Leuite: and whē they turned in thither, they sayd vnto him: who brought the hether? what makest thou in this place? and what hast thou here? And he answered the: thus & thus dealeth Micah w me, & hath hired me, and I am become his priest. And they sayde vnto hym agayne: Alke counsaile now of God, that we may knowe whether the waye whiche we go shall be prosperous or no. And the priest sayde vnto them: go in peace, for the Lorde guydeth your waye which ye go.

Thē the yue men departed and came to Laish and sawe the people that were therein, howe they dwelt carelesse, after the maner of the Sidons, still and without castynge of parples, and no man made any trouble in the lande, or vsurped any dominion, but were far from the Sidons, & had no busynesse w other men. And they came vnto they brethren to zarah & Estahol. And they brethren sayde vnto them: what haue ye done? And they answered: Arise, that we maye go vpon agaynst the, for we haue sene the lande, surely a very good one. And do ye sit still: be not slouthfull to depart. But come to conquer the land: (it shall be no labour.) If ye will go, ye shall come vnto a people that casteth no parples, and it is a very large countrey: which God hath gyuen into your handes. It is also a place whiche doth lacke nothing that is in the worlde.

And there departed thence of the kynred of the Danites, out of zarah and Estahol, six hundred men appoynted with instruments of warre warre. And they went by and pitched in Mariath Jarim which is in Juda. Wherfore they call the place, the booth of Dan unto this day: and it is on the backside of Mariath Jarim. And they went thence unto mounte Ephraim, and came to the house of Micah. Thā answered the fyue men & went to spyre out the costlie of Laish and sayd vnto they: brethren: wot ye not, that there is in these houses an Ephod, Theraphim, a grauen ymage and an ymage of metall: Now therfore conspyre what ye haue to do.

And they turned thitherwarde & came to the house of yponge man the Leuite, euen vnto the house of Micah, & saluted hym peaceabily. And the xl. hundred men gyrded w weapons of war which were of the chyliden of Dan, stode by the entrynge of the gate. And the fyue men & went to spyre out the lande, went in thither and toke & harued ymage and the Ephod, Theraphim, & the ymage of metall. And the prest stode in the entrynge of the gate w the fyue hundred men & were armed vnto battayl, whyle the other twēt into Micahs house, and set the herued ymage, the Ephod, Theraphim: and the ymage of metall.

Then sayd & prest vnto the: what do ye? They answered him: holde thy peace, laye thyne hand vpo thy mouth, and come w vs to be our father and prest. Is it better for the to be a prest vnto the house of one man, than to be a prest vnto a trybe of kynted in Israel? And the prest was glad and toke the Ephod and Theraphim, and the grauen ymage, and wente with the people. And they turned & departed, & put the chyliden the catel and theire other substauce before them.

And when they were a good waye from the house of Micah, the men & were in the houses, & in Micahs house, made oure crye, & folowed after the chyliden of Dan, and called vnto them. And they turned they: faces, & sayde vnto Micah: what ayleth the, that thou makest an oure crye? And he sayde haue taken away my goddes which I made, and also the prest, and geououre wayes wth them. And what haue I moze? howe then saye ye vnto me: what ayleth the? And the chyliden of Dan sayde vnto hym: let not thy voyce be hearde amonge vs, lest angrey felowes runne vpon the, and thou lese thy lyfe with the lyues of thyne household. And so the chyliden of Dan went they: wayes.

And whē Micah saw & they wer to strong for hē, he turned, & wēt back vnto his house agayne.

And they toke the thynges whiche Micah had made, and the prest which he had, and cam vnto Laish, euen vnto a people that were at rest and without mistrust, and smote them with the edge of the swearde, and burnt the cytye wth fyre. And there was no man to helpe, bycause Laish was farre from Sidon, and they had no meddlyng wth any other man. And the cytye stode in the valleye that lyeth by Bethrod.

And they buylt them there a cytye, and dwelt therein. * And called it Dan after the name of Dan they: father whiche was borne vnto Israel. howbeit in verpe dede the name of the cytye was Laish at the begynnynge.

And the chyliden of Dan let them by the grauen ymage. And Jonathan the son of Gerson, the son of Manasses, & bysonnes were the prestes in fetyre of Dan: vntill they were carped away out of flande captiue. And they set them vpo the herued ymage whiche Micah made, all & whyle the house of God was in Sidon.

The xix. Chapter.

Of the Leuite, whose wyfe was vnturnously bylde in Gibeā.

Chaliced in those dayes, whē there was no kyng in Israel, & a certayne Leuite soicurnyng on & lyde of moult Ephraim: toke to wyfe a concubine out of Bethlehef Juda, & bys concubynne played the whoze by hym, & went a waye from hym vnto her fathers house to Bethlehef Juda, and there cōtynued four monethes. And her husbāde arose and went after her, to speake frendly vnto her, and to byng her home agayne, byng his ladde wth hym: and a couple of asses.

And he brought him vnto her fathers house, and when the father of the damsel sawe hym, he reioysed of his comynge. And his father in lawe the damels father kept hym: And the Leuite abode wth him thre dayes, and so they dyd eate and drynke, and lodged there.

The fourth daye when they arose early in the morning, the man stode vp, to departe. And the damels father sayd vnto his sonne in lawe: comfort thyne hert wth a morsell of bredd, & then go your way. And they sat downe, & dyd eate & drynke bothe of them toggyther. And the damels father sayde vnto the man: Be contente I praye the, and tary al nyght, and let thyne herte be mery. And when the man stode readye to departe, his father in lawe compelled him to turne agayne, and tarye all nyght there. And he arose by early the fift daye to departe, and the damels father sayde: comfort thyne herte: and they tarped vntyll after mydday. And they dyd eate boch of them toggyther.

And when the man arose to depart w his concubine and his lad, his father in lawe the damels father sayd vnto him: beholde, the daye goeth fast a waye and draweth towarde euen, tary al nyght: at & leest waye tary this daye here, & thyne hert may be mery. And tomoze get you earlye vpon poure waye, that thou mayest get the to thy tente. Reuerthelater, the man wolde not tary, but arose & departed, & came as far as Jebus (which is at Iernsalem) and his two asses laden, and his concubine and his lad wth hym. And whē they were fast by Jebus the day was soze spente, and the younge man sayde vnto his master: come I praye the, & let vs turne in, into this cytye of the Jebusites, and lodge all nyght there. His master aunswered hym: we wyl not tourne into a straunge cytye that are not of the chyliden of Israel: we wyl go forth to Gibeā. And he sayde vnto his lad: goo foze warde, and we shall come to one of these places, to lodge al nyght cyther in Gibeā, or in Rama. And they went foze warde vpon they: waye, and the sun went downe vpo them, when they were fast by

C. ii. Gibeā

Sibea which belongeth to them of Ben Iamin And they turned thetherwardes yowen to lodge all nyght in Sibea. And when he came, he sat hym downe in a strete of the cite, for there was nomā that toke them to lodgyng. And beholde there came an old man from his worke, out of felds at even, which was also of mount Ephraim, and dwelte as a straunger in Sibea. But the men of the place were the chyldren of Iamin.

And when he had yfste vp his eyes, he sawe a wayfaryng man in f streets of f cytie. And the olde man sayd: whither goest thou? And wher camest thou? he answered hym: we came from Bethlehe Iuda, towarde the syde of mount Ephraim: fro thence am I, and I wente to Bethlehem Iuda, & go now to the house of the Lord. And there is no mā that receyvethe me to house. We have strawe & psonandze for our asses, and bryed & wyne for me & the handmayde, and for the lad that is w the seruante: & we lack nothing.

The olde man sayde: peace be to the, all f thou lackest shalt thou fynde to me: onelye a byde not in the strete al nyght, and so he brought hym into his house, and gaue sodde vnto his asses. And they washed theyr feet, & dyd cate & drinke. And as they were making theyr hertes merre, beholde, the men of the cite which were wicked before the house rounde aboute, and thrust at the doore, and spake to the man of the house, the olde man, saying: bring forth the man that came into thyne house that we maye knowe hym.

Ex. 22.

And the man of the house, the olde mā went out, and sayde vnto them: Oh naye my brethren do not so wickedly, seing that this man is come into myne house: do not so vnmeete a chyng. Beholde, here is my doughter, a mayden, and this mans concubine, them wil I bring out now vnto you, and hable them, and do to them what semeth you good: but to this man do not so abhominable a chyng. But the mē wolde not herken to him. And the mā toke his concubine, and brought her out vnto the, which knewe her and abused her all f nyght, and vnto f moorning. And when the daye began to spyng, they let her go.

And thā came the woman in the dawninge of the daye, and fell downe at the doore of the mans house where her lord was tyll it was daye. And her lord arose vpin the moorning, & opened the doores of the house & wēt out to go his way. And beholde, the woman, even his concubine laye a longe before the doore of the house, and her handes stretched out vpon the thersholde. And he sayde vnto her: vp and let vs be going. But she answered not. The man sayde: (perceyvinge that she was dead) toke her vp vpon an asse, and rode vp, and gaue hym vnto his owne home. And when he was come to his house, he toke a knyfe and caught his concubine, and divided her with the bones into twelue peeces, and set her vnto al quarters of Israel. And all that sawe it sayde: there was no suche dede doone or sent frys the chyldren of Israel came out of Egypt vnto this daye, conspyre the matter, take aduysment and save your mynades.

The .xx. Chapter

The battayl of the Gibeonites against the Iuites of Ben Iamin, and howe they were slayne.

When all the chyldren of Israel went oute: and the congregacyon was gathered togyther as it hadde bene but one man, even fro Dan to Berseba, and vnto the lande of Gilead vnto the Loyde in Gilpa, and there stode folke out of all quarters and of all the trybes of Israel in the congregacion of the people of God, iii. hundred thousande footemen that dyewe swerdes. And when the chyldren of Ben Iamin herde that the chyldren of Israel were gone by to Gilpa, and had sayde: O ye chyldren of Israel, tell vs howe this wychednesse happened. And the Leuyte the womans husbände f was slayne, answered and sayd: I came vnto Sibea that is in Benjamin w my concubine to lodge al nyght, and the mē of Sibea arose agaynst me, & beset the house round about vpon me by nyght, and thought to haue slayne me, & my concubine haue so forced f she is deed: And I toke my concubine, and cutte her in peeces, and sent her thorowout al f landes of the inheritaunce of Israel. For they haue committed abhominaciō & folp in Israel. Behold, ye are al chyldre of Israel. Ponder this matter, & gyue your aduysment in the case.

And al the people arose as it had ben one mā, saying: there shal not a man of vs go to his tent neether turne into his house. But this shalbe it f we wyl do to Sibea. We wyl go vp by lotte agaynst it. And we wyl take ten men of the hundred thowout all the trybes of Israel, and an hundred of the thousande, and wyl. out of .x. wyl. to set byttayle for the people to make that they may go agaynst Sibea Ben Iamin, because of all the abhominacion, that they haue wrought in Israel. And so all the men of Israel gathered togyther agaynst the cytie, knyt togyther, as it had bene but one man. And the tribes of Israel sent men thowowe all the trybe of Ben Iamin, saying: what wickednesse is this that is happened among you? Now therefore deliuer vs the mē, those chyldre of Belial which are in Sibea, f we may slay the, & put away euil from Israel.

Acuerthelater, the chyldren of Ben Iamin wolde not hearken vnto the voyce of theyr brethren the chyldren of Israel, but gathered the selues togyther out of f cities vnto Sibea, to com out and fyght agaynst the chyldren of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Iamin were nombred at that tyme out of the cities .xxvi. thousand mē that dyewe swerdes, besyde the inhabitours of Sibea, which were nombred seven hundred chole men. And amonge al these folke were seven hundred lefte handed men, which euerye one coulde spyng stones at an heer breadyd, and not mysse. And the chyldren of Israel besyde Ben Iamin, were nombred foure hundred thousand men that dyewe swerdes, and were all men of warre.

And the chyldren of Israel arose, & went vp to Bethel, & asked counsaill of God who shuld begyn the battayl agaynst the chyldren of Ben Iamin. And the Lord sayd: Iuda shal begyn. And the chyldre of Israel stode vp early and besieged Sibea.

Gilead. And the men of Israel went out to bat-tall agaynst Ben Jamin. And the men of Israel put them selues in aray to fyghte agaynst them, besyde Gibe. And the chyldren of Ben-Jamin came out of Gibe, and destroyed of the Israelites that daye. xxiij. thousande men, and broughte them to the earth.

And the folke of the chyldren of Israel plucked vp theyr hertes, and wet to agayn, & made battel in the same place where they dyd the first daye. And the chyldren of Israel went vp and wept before the Lorde vnto euen, and asked of the Lorde, sayinge: Shall we go agayne to bat-tall agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin oure brethren? And the Lorde sayde: go vp agaynst them. And the chyldren of Israel came oute a-gaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the seconde daye. And y<sup>e</sup> chyldre of Ben Jamin wet agaynst them out of Gibe the second day, and destroyed to the earth of the chyldren of Israel ones a-gayne. xviij. thousande men that dye we sweades euery man of them. Then the chyldren of Israel and all the people went vp, and came vnto Bethel, and wept and sat there before the Lorde and fasted the same daye vnto euen, and offered burntofferinges and peaceoffringes before the Lorde. And the chyldren of Israel asked the Lorde: for there was the arke of the appoyntement of God in those dayes. And Phinehes the sonne of Eleazar, the sonne of Aaron wayfynge vpon it at that tyme, sayde: Shall I get me vp to go out any moze to battell agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin my brethren, o<sup>r</sup> shall I cease?

The Lorde sayd: go, for to morowe I will de-liuer them into your handes. And Israel set ly-ars a wayte round about Gibe. And y<sup>e</sup> chyldre of Israel went vp agaynst the chyldren of Ben Jamin the thyrde tyme, and put them selues in aray agaynst Gibe, as twayne before. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin came oute agaynst the people, and were drawen a way from the ctyte.
And they began to smyte of the people deed (as twyse before, by two hye wayes, of whiche one goth vp to Bethel & the other to Gibe thowow the fyelde) vpon a thyrtye men of Israel. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin sayde: They are fallen before vs, as at the fyrst. But the chyldren of Israel sayde: let vs slaye and plucke them away from the ctyte, vnto the hye wayes.

And al the men of Israel rose vp out of theyr place, & put the selues in aray at Baal Thamar.
And likewise the lyers in wayte of Israel came forth out of theyr places, out of y<sup>e</sup> medowes y<sup>e</sup> were about Gibe, & came agaynst Gibe: ten thousand chosen men out of al Israel, and there was a foze battell. But the other wylt not that so greute cruyl was so npe them. And the Lorde plaged Ben Jamin before Israel, and the chyldren of Israel destroyed of the Ben Jaminites the same daye. xxv. thousande & an hundred men, y<sup>e</sup> dwe sweades euery one of them. And when the chyldren of Ben Jamin sawe that they wer put to the worse, the men of Israel came coume to the Ben Jaminites, because they trusted to the lyers in wayte which they had layde besyde Gi-lea. And the lyers in wayte hastid, and came vpon Gibe, & went and smote al the ctyte with the edge of the swerd. And an appoyntme<sup>t</sup> had the men of Israel led the lyers in wayte, & they shulde make a great smoke yfse vp out of the ci-tie. And when the men of Israel fled in the bat-tel: Ben Jamin began to smyte deed of the chyldren of Israel about a. xxx. personnes, and sayd the other are put to the worse before vs, as in y<sup>e</sup> fyrst battell. But when there began to aryse out of the ctyte a pyllet of smoke, the Ben Jaminites loked backe, and beholde, the wallfynge of the hole ctyte began to ascende vp to heauen.

When the men of Israel also turned agayne, the men of Ben Jamin were abashed, for they saw y<sup>e</sup> cruyl approached the. And therfore they turned theyr backes before the men of Israel, vnto the way y<sup>e</sup> leade to the wilderness, but the me<sup>t</sup> of war ouertoke the. And besyde that, they which came out of the ctyte destroyed them in the midle of the. And thus they chasped the Ben Jaminites about, & chased the to Genuha, & ouerran them to Gibe on the east syde: & there were slayne of Ben Jamin. xviii. thousand, which wer al men of war. And they turned & fled to the wylernes warde, & vnto the roche of Rimmo. And the other slue by the way of the rest of them. v. thousand men, & spechd vnto them, vntyl they came to Gibeon, & slue two thousande men of them.
So y<sup>e</sup> all that were slayne that same day of Ben Jamin were. xxv. thousand men that dwe swedes, which were all men of war: onely. vi. hundred men turned & fled to the wylernes, vnto the roche of Rimmon, & abode there foure monethes. And y<sup>e</sup> me<sup>t</sup> of Israel turned back agayne vnto y<sup>e</sup> chyldren of Ben Jamin, & smote the with the edge of the swerde in the ctytes, both man and beast and all that came to hande, and let on fyre all the ctytes that they coude come by.

The xxi. Chapter.

The inhabitants of Gilead are verely destroyed.

And euery man of Israel swore in Gizza, I sayinge: there shall none of vs geue vs a daughter vnto any of Ben Jamin to wife.
And the people came to Bethel, and abode the
xij. euen before God, and left vp theyr voyces, and wept soze, and sayd. O Lord God of Israel why is this chaunced in Israel, that there shulde be thys daye one trybe lackyng in Israel? And on the morowe the people rose vp by tyme, and made there an altare, and offered burntofferynges and peaceoffringes.

And the chyldre of Israel asked, who are they among al y<sup>e</sup> tribes of Israel, y<sup>e</sup> came not vnto the cogregacion vnto y<sup>e</sup> Lorde? for they had made a great oth concerninge him y<sup>e</sup> came not vp to the Lorde to Gizza, sayinge: he shall surely dye. And the chyldren of Israel had pytie on Ben Jamin theyr brethren, & sayde: there is one trybe cut of of Israel this daye: what shall we do vnto the remnant of them, that they may haue wyues? we haue sworne by the Lorde: that we wyl not geue them of oure daughters to wyues. And they sayde: Is there any of the trybes of Israel

The first Chapter.

Elimelech went with his wyfe and chyldren in:
in the lande of Moab.

Fortuned that on (in the dayes of a certayne Judge.) when the iudges iudged there fel a darch in the lande, and a certayne man of Bethlehem Juda wente foze to soiourne in the countre of Moab: he and his wyfe, and his two sonnes. The name of the man was Elimelech, and the name of his wyfe, Raomi: and the names of his two sonnes were, Mahlon, and Chilion, and they were Ephraimites, out of Bethlehem Juda. And when they came into the lande of Moab, they continued there. And Elimelech Raomis husband dyed, and she remained with her two son-nes which toke them wyues of the nations of Moabites: the ones name was Orpha, and the others Ruth: And they dwelled there aboute a ten yere. And Mahlon & Chilion dyed also euen both of them, and the woman was left desolate of her two sonnes & of her husband: Then stode she up with her daughters in lawe, and returned from the countre of Moab: for she had herd say in the countre of Moab, how that the Lorde had vylited his people, and gyuen them breed.

Wherfore she departed oute of the place where she was, & her two daughters w her. And they went on they way to retorne vnto the lande of Juda. And Raomi sayde vnto her two dought-ters in lawe: go & retorne eche of you vnto your mothers house: & the Lord deale as kyndly w you as ye haue deale w the deed: and wth me. And the Lord gyue you, & you may fynde rest, eyther of you in the house of her husbande. And when she had sayd this, they lyft vp theyr voyce, & wept, and sayde vnto her: we wyl go w the vnto thy folke. And Raomi sayde: tourne agayne my doughters: for what cause wyl you go with me?
Are there any mo chyldren in my wombe, to be your husbandes? Turne agayne my doughters & go: for I am to olde to haue an husbande. And yf I sayd: I haue hope, yf I take a ma also this night: pea & though I had alreadye borne son-nes, wolde ye tary after them, tyll they were of age: or wolde ye for them so longe refrayne fr takyng of husbandes? Not so my doughters: for it greueth me moche for your laken that the hande of the Lorde is gone out agaynst me.

And they lyfte vp theyr voyces, and wept agayne, and Orpha kysed her mother in lawe, but Ruth abode styll by her. And Raomi sayd: se, thy spylter in law is gone backe agayne vnto her people and vnto her goodes: retourne thou after her. And Ruth answered, entreate me not to leaue the, and to retourne from after the: for whither thou goest, I wyl go also, and where thou dwellest, there I wyl dwell: thy people shal be my people, and thy God my God. Where thou dyest there wyl I dye, and there wyl I be buried. The Lord do so & so to me, if ought but death

that came not up to Syria to the Lorde: And behold, there came none of the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead vnto the hooke and congregacyon.
For the people were few, and beholde, there were none of the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead there. And they set together a multitude, and gil-thousande men of the strongest of them, and commaunded them, sayinge: go and smyte the inhabitours of Jabes Gilead with the edge of the swearde, both women and chyldren. And this is it that ye shal do, utterly destroye all the males and all the women that haue lyen by men.

12. 12. 12.

And they founde among the inhabitants of Jabes Gilead foure hundred damels, virgins, & had knowen no man, by lryng wth any male.
And they brought them vnto the hooke to Silo, which is in the lande of Canaan.

And the hole congregacion set and spake with the chyldre of Ben Jamin & were in the rock of Hymmon, and called peaceably vnto them: and Ben Jamin came agayne at that time, and they gane them wyues whiche they had lauch alpye of the womf of Jabes Gilead. But they suffred them not. And the people had compassion on Ben Jamin, because that God had made a gappe in the trybes of Israel. And then the elders of the congregacion, sayd: what shal we do to the re-mraunt of them, to get them wyues, siring all the wyues of Ben Jamin are destroyed: And they sayde: there muste be an enherytaunce for them that be escaped of Ben Jamin, that a trybe be not destroyed out of Israel, howbeit, we maye not gyue them wyues of oure daughters. For the chyldren of Israel had swozne, sayinge: cursed be he, that gyueth a wyfe to Ben Jamin.

Then they sayde: beholde, there is a feaste of the Lorde yerly in Silo, which is on the northsyde of Bethel, and on the east syde of the waye that goeth from Bethel to Sichel, & south from Libanon. Therfore they commaunded the chyldren of Ben Jamin, sayinge: go & lye in wayte in the vynesardes. And when ye se the dought-ters of Silo come out to daunce in a rowe, then come ye out of the vynesardes, and catche you euery ma a wyfe of the daughters of Silo, and go into the land of Ben Jamin. And whil they lacked or byethien come vnto vs to complayne, we wyl lye vnto them: haue yttie on vs for theyr laken, because we refused not to eche ma his wyfe in tyme of war. Neither haue ye gyue vnto them, that ye shulde synne at this tyme.

And the chyldren of Ben Jamin dyd euen so:
and toke them wyues accordyng to the nombre of them that daunced, whome they caught.
And they went, and returned vnto theyr enheritaunce, & repared the cities and dwelt in them.

And the chyldren of Israel departed thence at that tyme, and went euery man to his trybe, & to his hymed, and went out from thence euery man to his enheritaunce. In those dayes there was no hyng in Israel: but euery man dyd that which seemed ryght in his owne eyes.

the womē sayd: is not this Naomi? And she anfor the almyghty hath made me very bytter. I went out ful, & the Lord hath brought me home agayne emptye. Why then call ye me Naomi: seing I Lord hath humbled me, & the almyghty hath brought me vnto aduersitie? And so Naomi with Ruth the Moabitisse her daughter in law returned out of the countrey of Moab, & came to Bethlehe in the begynnyng of barley haruest.

The. ii. Chapter.

Ruth gathereth coine in the felde of Booz.

And Naomis husbāde had a kynsmā of strength and myght (whiche was of the kynred of Elimelech) named Booz. And Ruth the Moabitisse sayd vnto Naomi: let me go to the felde, and gather eares of coine <sup>(suche</sup> <sup>as the reapers leaue)</sup> after any man, in whose syght I fynd grace. And she sayd vnto her: go my dought-ter. And she went, and came to the felde, and gathered after the reapers, and her chaunce was, that the same felde perteyned vnto Booz, whych was of the kynred of Elimelech. And beholde, Booz came from Bethlehem, & sayde vnto the reapers: the Loyde be wyth you. And they answered hym: the Loyde blesse the. Then sayde Booz vnto his ponge man that stode by the reapers: whose damsel is this? And the pongeman that stode by the reapers answered, & sayde: it is the Moabitish damsel, that came with Naomi out of the countrey of Moab, & she said vnto vs: Oh let me leaue and gather after the reapers the eares that remaine: and so she came, and hath continued euen from the mornynge vnto now, sawe that she tarped a lytle in the house.

Then sayd Booz vnto Ruth: hearest thou my doughter: go to nonother felde to gather, neither go from hence: but abyde here by my maydens.
Let thyn eyes be on the felde I they maye reape, & go thou after I maydens. Haue I not charged the ponge men, that they shall do the no hurte?
Mozeouer when thou arte a thyrt, go vnto the vessels & drynke of I which the laddes haue drawen. Then she fel on her face, & bowed her self to the ground, and sayd vnto him: how is it I haue founde grace in thyn eyes, and that thou shuldest knowe me, seing I am an aliaunt?

And Booz answered and sayd vnto her: al is told & shewed me I thou hast done vnto thy mother in law syns I death of thyn husband, how thou hast left thy father and thy mother, and the lande where thou wast borne, & art come vnto a nacion which thou knewest not in tyme passed.
The Loyde quyte thy wyke, and a ful rewarde be gyuen the of the Loyde God of Israel: vnder whose wynges thou arte come to abyde. Then she sayde: let me fynde fauoure in thy syght my loyde, thou that haste comforted me, and spoken hertely vnto thy mayde, which yet am not the vnto one of thy maydens. Booz sayde vnto her agayne: in tyme of refection come thou hyther, and eate of the bread, and dyp thy soy in the vyneger. And she latte downe by the reapers, & he reached her parched coine: of the whiche she byd eate, and was suffised, and lette part. And when she was rylen vp to gather, Booz commaunded his pong men, sayng: let her gather euen amōg the heapes, & forbyd her not. And leue her some of the sheues for the nones, and let it lye, that she may gather it vp, <sup>(without shame)</sup> and rebuke her not. And so she gathered in the felde, vntyl eue, and thes shed that she had gathered, & it was in measure vpon an Ephā, <sup>(that is, thre busshels)</sup> of barly. And she toke it vp, and went into the cite and when her mother in lawe had sent what she had gathered, she plucked out also, and gaue to her that she hadde reserved, when she had eaten ynough. And her mother in lawe said vnto her: where haste thou gathered todaye? and where wroughtest thou? blessed be he, that knewe the.

And she shewed her mother in lawe how she had wrought with hym, and sayd: the mans name wyth whome I wrought todaye is Booz. And Naomi sayd vnto her doughter in lawe: blessed be he of the Lord, for he ceaseth not to do good to the luyng and to the deed. And Naomi sayd agayne vnto her: the man is nye vnto vs, & of our nexte kynne. And Ruth the Moabite sayd: he sayde vnto me also. Thou shalt be wyth my pong men, vntyl they haue ended al my haruest.
And Naomi answered vnto Ruth her dought-ter in lawe: it is best my doughter I thou go out wyth my maydens, that they fall not vpon the in anye other felde. And so she kepte her by the maydens of Booz, to gather, vnto the ende of barlye haruest: and of wheate haruest also: and dwelt wyth her mother in lawe.

The. iii. Chapter.

When Naomi her mother in lawe sayde vnto her: my doughter, hal I not sche-

And is not Booz our kynsmā, wyth whose maydens I wast? beholde, he wknoweth barly conyght in the theslypynge dooze: was the marke the place where he layeth hym downe, & then go and lyft vp the clothes, that are on his fete, and lay the downe there, and so shal he tell the what thou shalt do. And she answered her: all that thou byddest me, I wyll do. And so she went downe vnto the barne, & byd accordynge to all that her mother in lawe bade her.

And when Booz had eaten and dronken, and made hym mery, & was gone in, to lye downe besyde I heape of coine, she came softly, & lyft vp I clothes of his fete, & layed her downe. And at midnight the man was afrayed & groped. And beholde, a woman laye at his feet. And he sayd:

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

¶ Booz taketh Ruth as wife, of whom he begetteth Obad.

Then went Booz vnto þe gate & sat him downe there, & behold the kynsman of which Booz spake, cam by. Vnto wdd he sayde: come and syt downe here, and talled hym by his name. And he turned in, & sat downe. And he roke .x. men of the elders of the ci-tie, and sayde: syt ye downe here. And they sate downe. And he sayd vnto the kynsman. Naome that is come agayne out of the countrey of Moab * wyl sell a parcell of lande, which was oure brother Elimelechs. And I thought to do the wylle, & byd the bye it befoze the enhabitours & elders of my people. If thou be disposed to re-deeme it, do: but and if thou wylst not purchase it then tell me: that I mape knowe. For there is none to chalenge it, save thou, and I nexte the.
And the other answered, I wyl purchase it.

Then sayd Booz: what dape I best the selde Of the hande of Naomi, I muste take also Ruth the Moabite, the wyfe of the deed, to stee up the name of the deed wth his enheritaunce. The kynsman answered: I can not purchase it, for marryng of myne owne enheritaunce: take I my ryght to the, for I ca<sup>n</sup> not purchase it. Now this was the maner of olde tyme in Israel concerning purchesse & chaunging, for to stablysh al thyng: I a man must plucke of hys shoo, and gve it hys neighbour, & this was a sure witness in Israel.
 Therfore the kynsman sayd to Booz: Be it thow: so dave of hys shoo. And Booz sayd vnto the elders & vnto al the people: ye are witness this day, I have bought al I was Elimelechs.

that was the Jew Nablon, of the bande of Raams. And moreover, Ruth the Moabite the wife of Nablon, haue I purchased to be my wife, to sette by the name of the deed vpon his entertaineance, and that this name be not put out from amongst vs brethren, and from the gate of vs place: ye are wytnesses this daye.

And all the people that were in the gate, & the elders sayde: we are witnesses: the Lorde make the woman that is come into thyne house, lyke Rachel and Lea, which twayne dyd buye the house of Israel: do þu also valeauntly in Ephraim, and be famous in Bethlehem. The house be lyke the house of Shares: whom Tamar bare vnto Juda, euen of the seede whiche the Lorde shall geue the of this yonge woman.

And so Booz toke Ruth, & she was his wyfe.
And when he went in vnto her, the Lord gaue, & she conceived, & bare a sonne. And the womē sayd vnto Naomi: blessed be & Lord, the which hath not left the without a kynsmān, to haue a name in Israel, and that shall byynge thy lyfe agayne, & cherish thyne old age. For thy dought er in lawe whych loweth the, hath bene bozne vnto him: & she is better to the thā thūen sonnes. And Naomi toke the chylde, and layed it in her lappe, & became nounce vnto it. And her neyghboars gaue it a name, saying: there is a childe bozne to Naomi, & called it Obed: the same is the father of Ilat, the father of Dauid. These are the gene rations of Pharez: Pharez begat Hezron: Hez ron begat Ram, Ram begat Aminadab, Ami

Salmon begat Booz, Booz begat Obed, Obed begat Ilat, Ilat begat Dauid.

med * Elhama the ſonne of Jeroham the ſonne of Elthu, the ſon of Thodu, the ſon of ſuph, an Ephrahtite: whiche had. ii.
wpyres, the one called Hanna, ⁊ the other Phenna. And Phenna had children, but Hanna had none. * And the ſayd man went by out of his cytie every feaſtfull daye, to praye

prayer & sacrifice unto the Lord of hostes in Silo, where were the two pillars of Eli (but a whiche) the Lordes priestes. And there on a solempne daye, that Elkana offered, and gave to Phenenna his wyfe and to all her sonnes and daughters portions. But unto Hanna he gave a portion with a heuy chere, for he loved Hanna, & the Lord had made her barren. And her enemy (whence) vered her soze continuallye, to moue her, because the Lord had made her barren. And so dyd she pray by pear as ofte as she wet vp to the house of the Lord. And so chafed her, whyche wept & dyd not eat. The sayd Elkana her husband to her, Hanna why wepest thou? and why eatest thou not? why is thine herte troubled? am not I better to the, the ten sonnes? So Hanna rose vp after they had eaten & dronke in Silo. And Eli the prest sat vpon a stole by one of the hyde postes of the temple of the Lozde. And she was troubled in her mynde, & prayed vnto the Lozde, & wept soze, & vowed a vowe, & sayd O Lord of hostes, yf thou wilt loke on the trouble of thy handmayd & remembre me, & not forget thyne handmayd but gyue vnto thy handmayd a man child: I will gyue hym vnto the Lord al the days of his lyfe: & ther shall no raser come vpon hys head: and as she continued prayinge before the Lord, it fortuned that Eli marked her mouth for Hanna spake in her herte, & her lippes dyd but moue onely, but her voyce was not herd: and therfore Eli thought she had ben dronke, and Eli sayde vnto her: howe longe wilt thou be dronken? put away from the, the wyne thou hast. Hanna answered and sayd: not so my Lozde, I am a woman of a sorrowful herte: I haue dronke neyther wyne nor stronge drynke, but haue poured out my soule before the Lord. Count not thyne handmayd to be lyke a daughter of Belial, for out of the aboundance of my heauines and greefe haue I spoken hye berto.

Eli answered her agayne: and sayde, go in peace: the God of Israel graunt the thy petition that thou hast asked of hym. She said, let thine handmayd fynde grace in thy syght. And so the woman went her waye, and dyd eat, and looked no moze so sad. And they rose vp early, & worshipped before the Lozde, and then returned, & came to the house to Ramath. And when Elkana knewe Hanna his wyfe, the Lozde remembred her, for in processe of tyme it came to passe that she conceived and bare a sonne, and called his name Samuel (saying) because I haue asked hym of the Lozde. And Elkana and all hys house wente vp to offer vnto the Lozde, the offeringe due for the feast, and also hys vowe: the next dayes, Hanna wet not vp but sayd vnto her husband: I wyl tary vntyl the lad be weyned & then I wyl bring hym that he maye appeare before the Lozde, and ther abyde for euer. Elkana her husbande answered her: do what seemeth the best: tary at home, vntyl thou hast weyned hym, and I beseeche the Lozde, to make good his saying. And so the woman abode, & gaue her sonne sucke vntyl she weyned hym. And when she had weyned hym she toke hym to her, with iii. bullockes and an Epha of flour and a half of wyne, and brought hym vnto the house of the Lord in Silo, & the child was yet but tender of age. And they slew a bullocke, & brought it in the lad to Eli and she sayd: Oh my Lozde as truly as thy soule liueth my Lozde, I am the woman that stode before the herte praying vnto the Lozde. For thus I prayed, and the Lozde hath geuen me my desire which I asked of hym, & therfore I haue geuen him vnto the Lozde, as long as he is mete for the Lozde. And she worshipped the Lozde there.

The ii. Chapter.

The songe of Hanna. The offeringe of the sonnes of Eli.

And Hanna prayed & sayd myne herte reioyseth in the Lord, & myne bozome is exalted in the Lord. My mouth is opene ouer myne enemyes, for I reioyce in thy saluatio. There is none so holy as the Lord, for without the, is nothing. Neither is ther any of strength as is our god. Take not to muche proudly, lette olde thynges depart out of poure mouthes for the Lozde is a God of knowledge, & hys purposes come to passe. The howe wyth the myghty men are broken, & they that were wake, haue gyde them selues wyth strength. They that were full, haue hyed oute them selues for breade, and they that were hongry, cease so to be, tyl the baren hath bozom full: and she that had many chyldren, is wared feble. The Lozde killeth & maketh a lyue: bynggeth downe to the graue & fetcheth vp agayne. The Lozde maketh poze and maketh ryche: bynggeth lowe, and heueth vp on hye. He reyleth vp the poze out of the duste, and lyfteth vp the begger from the donghyll: to set them among princes, and to enheret them with the seat of glory. For the pillars of the earth are the Lozdes, & he hath set the rounde worlde vpon the. He wyl kepe the fete of hys sayntes, & the wicked that hepe silence in darknesse, and in hys owne myghte shall no man be stronge. The Lozdes aduersaries shall be destroyed of hym, and out of heauyn shall he thunder vpon euery one of them: The Lozde shall iudge the endes of the worlde, and shall gyue myghte vnto hys kynge: and exalte the bozome of hys anoynted. And Elkana went to Ramath to hys house, and the ladde dyd mynister vnto the Lozde before Eli the prest.

But the sonnes of Eli were chyldren of Belial and knewe not the Lozde. And the prestes made a law for the people, & whensoeuer any man offered any offeringe, the prestes lad came, whyle the fleshe was a seething & a flesheboke with teth in his handes and thrust it into the panne, hettle, caldren or pottle. And al the fleshe boke brought vp, that the prestes toke away. And so they dyd vnto all the Israelites, that came thither to Silo. Pea and thereto, before they burnt the fatte, the prestes lad came and sayde to the man that offered: giue fleshe that I maye drasse it for the prestes, for he wylle not haue lodden fleshe of the, but raw. And yf any man sayd vnto hym: let them burne the fat accordyng to the daye, and then take as muche as thyne herte desireth: The ladde wolde answer him, pea thou shalt give me name: and when thou wilt not, I will take it with violence. And the house of the pottage men was very great before the Lords. For men abhorred the offering of the Lords.

But the chylde Samuel ministered before the Lord, gydded about with a linnen Ephod. Moreover, his mother made hym a litle cote, and brought it to hym from pere to pere, when he came by with her husbande, to offer the offering in the solempne feastes: and Eli blessed Elhana and his wife, and sayde the Lord gyue the seed of this woman, for the petition that she asked of the Lord. And they went unto theyr owne home. And the Lord visited Hanna, so that she conceived, and bare three sonnes, and two daughters. And the chylde Samuel grew before the Lord.

E Eli was very olde, and hearde all that bys sonnes dyd vnto all Israel, and how they laye with the women that waited at the doore of the tabernacle of witnessse, and he sayde vnto them: why do ye suche thynges? For of all these people, I heare euill reportes of you. Oh, nape, my sonnes: for it is no good report that I heare howe that ye make the Lordes people to trespassse. If one man synne agaynst another, dayes me may be iudges: * but if a man synne against the Lord, who will be his daynman? For with standynge, they hearkened not vnto the voyce of theyr father, by cause the Lord wolde slaye them. The chylde Samuel profyted * & grewe and was in fauour both with the Lord, and also with men.

1 Sam. ii. 1.

1 Sam. ii. 1.

1 Sam. ii. 1.

A And there came a man of God vnto Eli, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayeth the Lord: dyd not I apere vnto the house of thy father wyl they were in Egypte, subiecte vnto Pharaos house? And I chose thy father out of all the tribes of Israel to be my priest, to offer vnto myne altare, and to burne incense, * & to weare an Ephod before me. And I gaue vnto the house of thy father all the burnt offerings of the chyldren of Israel. Wherefore tread you downe my sacrifice and myne offering, which I commaunded to be made in my tabernacle, and honourest thy chyldren aboue me, to make your selues fat of the fyrr frutes of all the offerings of Israel my people? Wherefore, the Lord God of Israel sayeth: I sayde, that thy house and the house of thy father shoulde walke before me for euer.

But now the Lord sayth: that he farre from me: for them that worshyp me, I wyl worship, and they that despyse me, shall come to shame. Beholde, the dayes come, that I wyl cutte of thine arme, & the arme of thy fathers house that there shal not be an olde man in thine house. And I shal be thine enemye in my Tabernacle (of the Lord) & in all the weale which God shal gyue Israel, and there shall not be an elder in thine house for euer hereafter. I wyl not destroy all the males & com of the fro myne altare. But to make thine eyes daffe, & to make thine herte melle. And all they that be multiplied in thine house, shall dye, yf they be men.

1 Sam. ii. 1.

And this shal be a signe vnto y, that shal come vnto the two sonnes of Eli, and whynches: euen in one daye they shal dye both. And I wil reuenge vnto a faithful wyse, that shall do accordyng to my herte and mynd. * And I wyl buyde hym a sure house. And he shall walke before myne anoynted for euer. And they that are left in thine house, shall come and crouch to him for a litle peece of syluer & a cake of bread, & shal saye: put me (I praye y) in one office or other among y priests. & I may eat a morsel of bread.

C The. iii. Chapter.

C The Lord calleth Samuel thre tymes.

A And the chylde Samuel ministered vnto the Lord before Eli: and the worde of the Lord was precious in those dayes, neyther was there anye open visyon. And it chaunced at that tyme, & Eli laye in his place, and his eyes begonne to waxe dymme that he coulde not se. And yet the lampe of God wente out, Samuel layd hym downe to slepe in the temple of the Lord, where the ark of God was. And the Lord called Samuel, and he sayde, here I am, & he ran vnto Eli, and sayde: here am I, for thou calledst me. And he sayde: I called the not: go agayne and slepe. And he went and layd hym downe to slepe. And the Lord called once agayne Samuel, and Samuel arose and went to Eli, & sayde: I am here: for thou didest call me. And he answered: I called y not my sonne. So againe & take thy rest: Samuel knewe not yet the Lord. Neither was the worde of the Lord yet opened vnto hym. And the Lord wente to and called Samuel the thyrde tyme. And he arose and went to Eli, and sayd: I am here for thou hast called me. And Eli perceaued that the Lord had called the chylde. Therefore Eli sayd vnto Samuel: go, and lye downe: & yf he call the agayne, then saye: speake on Lord, for thy seruaut heareth. So Samuel went, and layd hym downe in his place. And the Lord came, and stode, and called as before Samuel Samuel. Samuel answered: speake on for thy seruaut heareth. And the Lord sayde to Samuel: behold, I wyl do a thyng in Israel, & both the eares of as many as heare it, shall tynge. In that daye I wyl callye by agayne Eli, all thynges which I haue spoken concernynge thine house from the begynnyng to the endynge. I haue tolde hym: that I wyl iudge bys house for euer. For the wychednes which he knoweth. For wher the people cursed bys sonnes for the same wychednes, he hath not corrected them. And therfor I haue sworne vnto the house of Eli, that the wychednesse of Elies house, shall not be purged with sacrifice nor offering for euer. Samuel laye vnto the mornynge, & opened y doores of y house of the Lord.

And Samuel feared to tewe Elies visyon. Then Eli called Samuel, & sayd: Samuel my sonne, And he answered: here I am. He sayde: what is it that the Lord hath sayd vnto the? I praye the hyde it not from me. God do so, and so to the, yf thou hyde any thyng from me, of all that he sayde vnto the. And Samuel tolde him euery whit, & he had nothyng fro him. And he sayd it is y Lord, let hym do what semeth hym best.

And

And Samuel grewe, and the Lord was with hym, & leste none of his wordes vnderforned. And all Israel from Dan to Beersebe, wythe that saythfull Samuel was made the Lordes propheet. And the Lord appeared agayne in Silo, for the Lord opened him selfe to Samuel in Silo, & shewe the word of the Lord.

The liii. Chapter.

And Samuel spake vnto all Israel. (And it fortuned that in those dayes the philistines came to fyghte to fyghte.) And Israel went out against the philistines to battaile & pitched beside the helpe stone. And the philistines pitched in Aphek. And put the selues in arraye against Israel. And whē they ioyned battell Israel was put to the worse before the philistines. And the philistines slue in array along by the felde about a foure thousande men.

And when the people were come into the tentes, the elders of Israel said: wherfore hath the Lord caste vs downe this daye before the philistines? let vs fetch the arche of the appoyntment of the Lord out of Silo vnto vs, that whē it cometh amonge vs, it maye saue vs, out of the hande of our enemy. And so the people sent to Silo, & fet from thens the arche of the appoyntment of the Lord of hostes, whych dwelleth betwene the cherubyns. And there were the two sonnes of Eli, Hophi and Phinehes with the arche of the appoyntment of God. And it fortuned, that when the arche of the appoyntment of the Lord came into the host, all Israel shouted a myghty shout, so that the earth ronge agayne.

And when the philistines herde the noyse of the shoute they said: what meaneth the sounde of this myghty shoute in the host of the egiptians? And they understode, howe that the arche of the Lord was come into the host. And the philistines were afrayd, and sayde, God is come into the host. And they sayde agayne: Wo vnto vs, for it was neuer so before this: Wo vnto vs who shall deliuer vs out of the hande of these myghty Goddes? these are the Goddes of the egiptians wyth to manye places in the world. Be stronge and quyre your selues like men, O ye philistines, that ye be not seruantes vnto the egiptians, as they haue bene to you. Be of a manly courage therfore and fyght. And the philistines fought, and Israel was put to the worse & fled euery man into his tene. And there was an exceeding great slaughter, for they were ouerthrowen of Israel. xxx. vj. fortme. And the arche of God was taken, & the two sonnes of Eli, Hophi & Phinehes were dead. And there ran a man of Ben Iamin out of the arraye, & came to Silo the same day with his clothes rent and earth vpon his heade. And when he came, Eli sat vpon a stole, & looked toward the waye for his hart feared for the arche of God. And when the man came into the cytie, & tolde it, all the cytie cryed.

And when Eli herde the noyse of the crying he sayd: What meaneth this noyse of the crying? And the man came in hastily, and tolde Eli. Eli was. xcviij. yere olde, & his syghte failed him & he coulde not se. And the man sayde vnto Eli: I am he that came out of the arraye, & fled this daye out of the host. And he sayd, what thyng is fortuned my sonne? The messenger answered and sayde: Israel is fled before the philistines, and there is a great slaughter chaunced among the people, and the two sonnes, Hophi & Phinehes are dead, & the arche of God is taken. And it fortuned that when he made mencyon of the arche of God, Eli fell fro of his stole backward vpon the thresholde of the gate, and his necke brake, and he dyed, for he was an olde man and decayed, and laded Israel fourty yeres.

And his daughter in law Phinehes wyfe was wyth chylde and nye the byrthe. And when she hearde the tydings that the arche of God was taken, and that her father in law, and her husband were dead, she bowed her selfe, & trauced, for her paynes came vpon her. And about the tyme of her death, the women stood about her sayde vnto her, feare not, for thou shalt haue a sone: but she answered not, nor regarded it. And she named the child Achabod saying: The glory is departed fro Israel: because the arche of God was taken, & because of her father in law & her husband. And she sayd agayne: The glory is gone from Israel, for the arche of God is taken.

The v. Chapter.

Dagon the God of the philistines is cast flat before the arche.

And the philistines toke the arche of God and caried it fro the helpe stone vnto Asdod, agayne the philistines toke the arche of God, & brought it into the house of Dagon, & set it by Dagon. And whē they of Asdod were vpon the next day in the moynyng, beholde Dagon laye vpon the earthe before the arche of the Lord. And they toke vpon Dagon, & set hym in his place agayne. And when they were vpon the next moynyng, beholde Dagon lay vpon the grounde before the arche of the Lord, and his head, and his two handes cut of vpon the thresholde, & only the shap of a fysh was left vpon hym. And therfore is it, that the prestes of Dagon: nether any man that cometh into Dagon house treade not on the thresholde of Dagon in Asdod, vnto this daye. But the hand of the Lord was heuy vpon the of Asdod, and he destroyed them, and smote them with emerodes, both Asdod & in all the coastes therof. (The villages also & the felles in the myddes of the countrey were ful, and there came up myce, and ther was a confusyon of greates death in the countrey.) And when the king of Asdod sawe that it was so they sayd: the arche of the god of Israel shal not abyde here with vs, for his hand is layd vpon vs and vpon Dagon our God. They sent therfore & gathered all the lordes of the philistines vnto them, & sayde: What shal we do wth the arche of the God of Israel? They answered, let the arche of the God of Israel be carped about vnto Gath. And they carped the arche of the God of Israel aboute. And it fortuned that when they had carped it aboute, there was by the hande of the Lord a myghty greates noyse in the cytie, & he smote the men of the cytie bothe small & great & they had secreete diseases. (And the Gathites toke the countrey, & made the felles payre scales of chymeyn.) Therfore they sente sent the arke of God to Aharon. And as one as the arke of God, came to Aharon, the Aharonites cryed out saying: they haue brought sack of  $\text{f}$  God of Israel to us to see vs  $\text{g}$  our people.

D And so they sent, and gathered together all the lordes of the Philistines and sayde: And a waye the arke of  $\text{f}$  God of Israel, to go agayne to his owne place, that it be vs not and our people.

For there was great lamentacion ouer the dead that theye out all the cypre, and the bande of God was exceeding sore there. And the men that dyed not, were smitten with the emerodes: and the cypre of the cypre went vp to heauen.

The hyne byngt home the arke with the ephraim.

3 The arke of the Lorde was in the countrey of the Philistines seven monethes and the Philistines called for  $\text{f}$  prestes  $\text{g}$   $\text{f}$  sorplayers, saying: what shall we do with the arke of the Lorde: tell vs where to whither we shall sende it home agayne. They sayde: If you send the arke of the God of Israel home agayne, sende it not emptye: But rewarde it with trespass offering:  $\text{g}$  the ye shall be whole, and it shall be knowne to you, why his bande departeth not from you.

Then sayde they: And what shall be the trespass offering, whiche we shall rewarde him w $\text{t}$  They answered: fyue golden arses and. v. golden myce, according to the nombze of the lordes of  $\text{f}$  Philistines. For it is one manner of plage on you al,  $\text{g}$  on your lordes. Wherefore ye shall make ymages like to your arses, and ymages lyke to your myce  $\text{f}$  corrupt  $\text{f}$  land  $\text{g}$  ye shall geue glory vnto  $\text{f}$  god of Israel:  $\text{f}$  he may take his had fro of you,  $\text{g}$  fro of your goddes,  $\text{g}$  fro of your lande.

5 Wherefore do ye harden youre hartes as the Egyptians and Pharaos hardened they: hartes: whych when he toke on agaynst the,  $\text{g}$  did they not let the people go, and they departed. Nowe therefore, make a newe carte,  $\text{g}$  take two milche kine: on whose neckes there hath come no yoke. And tye the hyne to the carte, and byng the calves home from them. And take the arke of the Lorde,  $\text{g}$  laye it vpon the carte,  $\text{g}$  put the iewels of golde (whych ye rewarde him with for a syn offering) in a coire by the side therof, and send it awaye, that it maye go. And if ye see that he go vp by the waye of hys owne coaste to Bethlames: then it is he that dyd vs this great cruell. If no, we shall knowe then,  $\text{f}$  it is not hys hand that smote vs: but it was a chaunce that happened vs. And the men byd euery so, and toke two hyne that gaue mylke, and tyed them to  $\text{f}$  carte and kepte the calves at home, and they layd the arke of the Lorde vpon the carte and the coire: with the myce of golde,  $\text{g}$  with the ymages of theyr arses. And  $\text{f}$  hyne toke the streyght waye to Bethlames,  $\text{g}$  went on the streyght waye:  $\text{g}$  as they w $\text{t}$  lothed,  $\text{g}$  turned nether to the right hande nor to the left. And  $\text{f}$  lordes of  $\text{f}$  Philistines went after the, vnto  $\text{f}$  borders of Bethlames.

And they of Bethlames were reappynge theyr sheate barnes in the valley. And they lyfte vp theyr eyes,  $\text{g}$  spied the arch. And enquired when they saw it. And the cart came into the felde of one Jehosua a Bethlamite, and stode byl there. There was also a great stone. And they claue  $\text{f}$  wood of  $\text{f}$  cante  $\text{g}$  offered the hyne a burnt offering vnto the Lorde. And the Leuites toke downe the arke of the Lorde and the coffer that was with it, wherin  $\text{f}$  iewels of golde were: and put them on the great stone. And the men of Bethlames sacrificed burnt sacrifice, and offered offerings that same daye vnto the Lorde. And when the fyue lordes of the Philistines had sene it, they returned to Aharah the same day. And these are the golden arses whiche the Philistines gaue to amender for a trespass offering, to the Lorde: for Ashdod one: for Gaza one: for Ashalon one: for Gath one:  $\text{g}$  for Aharon one: And golden myce, according to the nombze of all the cypres of  $\text{f}$  Philistines, euen according to the fyue lordes, both of walled towncs  $\text{g}$  of towncs vntwalled: run vnto the great stone of lamentacion, wher they set downe the arke of  $\text{f}$  Lorde: whiche stone remaineth vnto this daye in the felde of Jehosua the Bethlamite. And he plagued the men of Bethlames, because they had sene the arke of  $\text{f}$  Lorde. And he slue amonge  $\text{f}$  people fyfte thou sande and thye score and ten men. And the other people lamented, because the Lorde had slayne  $\text{f}$  people with so great a slaughter. Wherefore the men of Bethlames sayde: who is able to stande before the Lorde so holy a God:  $\text{g}$  to whom shall he go from vs. And they sent messengers to the inhabitants of Mariath Jarim saying: The Philistines haue brought agayne  $\text{f}$  arke of  $\text{f}$  Lorde: come ye downe therfore, and set it vp to you.

The vii. Chapter.

The arke is brought to Mariath Jarim.

3 Ad so  $\text{f}$  ml of Mariath Jarim came, and set vp the arke of  $\text{f}$  Lorde: and  $\text{g}$  brought it into the house of Ami nadab in Gibeon,  $\text{g}$  sanctified Eleazar his sonne, to kepe the arch of  $\text{f}$  Lorde:  $\text{g}$  whyle the arke abode in Mariath Jarim the dayes multiplyed, and there passed ouer. xx. peres,  $\text{g}$  al the house of Israel lamented after the Lorde. And Samuel spake vnto al the house of Israel saying: ye shall come agayne vnto the Lorde with all your hartes, then ye shall put a waye the straunge goddes and Ashtaroth fro among you: and prepare you hartes vnto the Lorde,  $\text{g}$  serue hym only: for he shall cpe you out of the bande of the Philistines. Then the chyldren of Israel byd put a waye Baalim and Ashtaroth,  $\text{g}$  serued the Lorde onely. And Samuel sayde ga ther all Israel to Gilga, and I wyll praye for you vnto the Lorde. And they gathered together to Gilga, and dreyne water: and powred it out before the Lorde,  $\text{g}$  fasted the same daye  $\text{g}$  sayde ther: we haue synned agaynst the Lorde. And Samuel iudged the chyldren of Israel in Gilga. When the Philistines heard of the children of Israel were gathered together to Gilga, the lordes of the Philistines went up agaynst Israel. And when the chyldren of Israel heard of they were afrayed of the Philistines,  $\text{g}$  the chyldren of Israel sayde to Samuel: craue not to came vnto the Lord and said: what he may save vs out of the hand of the Philistines. And Samuel toke a suckynge lambe, and offered it al together for a burnt offering vnto the Lord and cryed vnto the Lord for Israel, and the Lord hearde hym. And as Samuel offered the burnt offering, the Philistines came to fyghte a gaynst Israel. But the Lord thondred a great thondre that same daye amonge the Philistines, and scatred them, that they fell before Israel. And the men of Israel went out to Hyspa and pursued the Philistines, and folowed vpon them vntyl the place that is vnder Bethcar.

And then Samuel toke a stone and pitched it betwene Hyspa and the marke of the roche, and called the name thereof, the stone of helpe sayinge: hitherto hath the Lord helped vs.
 And so the Philistines were brought vnder, & they came nomore into the costes of Israel: and the hande of the Lord was agaynst the Philistines all the dayes of Samuel. Therto the cy-ties whiche the Philistines had taken from Israel, were restored agayne to Israel, euen from Beeron to Gath: with the costes of the same. & Israel plucked them out of the handes of the Philistines. And there was peace betwene Israel and the Amozites. Samuel iudged Israel all the dayes of his lyfe, and went about yere by yere to Bethel, Gilgal and Hyspa, and iudged Israel in all those places, & came agayne to Rama: for there was his house, & ther he iudged Israel also, & there he buyt an altar vnto the Lord.

The viii. Chapter.

The people requyre a kyng.

When Samuel was old, he made his sons iudges ouer Israel. The name of his eldest sonne was Joel, and the name of the seconde Abia, and they were iudges in Beersaba. And his sonnes walked not in his wayes: but turned asyde after lucre, and toke rewardes, and perverted the ryght. Then all the elders of Israel gathered them together, and came to Samuel vnto Rama, and sayd vnto hym: beholde thou art olde, and thy sonnes walke not in thy wayes.
 Howe therfore make vs a kyng to iudge vs as all other nations haue. But the thyng displeased Samuel, when they sayde: gyue vs a kyng to iudge vs. And Samuel prayed vnto the Lord. And the Lord sayde vnto Samuel: heare the voyce of the people in al that they say vnto the. For they haue not cast the awaye, but me: that I shalbe not raigne ouer them. And as they haue euer done (thus I broughte the out of Egypt vnto this daye: and haue forsaken me, & serued other goddes) euen so do they vnto the.
 Howe therfore hearken vnto theyr voyce: how beir, yet testifie vnto them and shewe the the authoritie of the kyng that shal raygne ouer them. And Samuel tolde all the wordes of the Lord vnto the people that asked a kyng of him.
 & he sayd: this shalbe the authoritie of the kyng that shal raygne ouer you: he wyll take your sonnes and put them to his charettes and make his horsmen of them, to runne before his charet and wyll make hym of them, captaynes ouer thousandes and ouer hyndres, and wyll set them to dreche his grounde, and to gather in his bar-nest, and to make instrumentes of warre, and apparel for his charettes. And he wyll take your daughters and make them apoticaries, cookes and bakers. And he shal take the best of your felde, & of your vyneyardes, and of your olyue trees, and gyue them to his seruautes.

 And he shal take the tenth of your seede, and of your vyneyardes, and gyue it to his chambrer-laines: and to his seruautes. And he shal take the best of your men seruautes and maydesernautes and yonge men, and of your asses, and put them to his worke. And he shal take the tenth of your shepe, and yet shalbe his seruan-tes. And ye shallic out at that tyme vnto your kyng, which ye shal haue chosen you, and the Lord wyll not heare you at that daye.

Nevertheless, the people wold not heare the voyce of Samuel, but dyd saye: naye not so.
 But there shalbe a kyng ouer vs, that we may be lyke other nations, and that our kyng maye iudge vs, and go out before vs, and fyghte oure battayles. (In vs.) Therefore, when Samuel hearde al the wordes of the people, he reherased them in the eares of the Lord. And the Lord sayd to Samuel: hearken vnto theyr voyce, and make them a kyng: And Samuel sayde vnto the men of Israel: go euery man vnto his cite.

The ix. Chapter.

Samuel the sonne of Cis is chosen kyng.

There was a man of Be Jamin named Cis the sonne of Abiel, the sonne of Zeror, the sonne of Bechorath, the sonne of Apyah, the sonne of a man was a Jeminite, a ma-of strength and myght, and the same had a sonne called Saul, a goodly yonge man and a sayre: so that among the chyldren of Israel there was none goodlyer then he. For from the shoulders vnto the knees, he was hyer than al the other people.
 And the asses of this Cis, Sauls father were lost: and Cis sayde to Saul his sonne: take one of the laddes with the, and goo vp, and seeke the asses. And he went thowowe mounte Ephraim and thowowe the lande of Salisa, but they found them not. Then they went thowowe the lande of Hali, and there they were not. Wher they went also thowowe the lande of Jemini, they founde them not: At the last when they were come to the lande of Zuph, Saul sayd vnto his lad that was with him: come let vs retorne, lest my father leue caring for the asses, and take thought for vs. He sayde vnto hym: beholde, there is in this cytie a man of God, and he is a worship-full man: all that he sayeth commeth surety to passe. Howe then let vs go thither: peraduen-ture he shal shewe vs what waye we maye go.
 Then sayd Saul to his lad: if we wil go, what shal we byng the man? For our bread is all spent out of our vessels, and there is none order present to byng the man of god: what haue we?
 And the lad answered Saul agayne, & sayde:
 I haue sold about me the fourth parte of a shele that

that he I gave I had of God, to tel vs our way

Before tyme of Saul when a man wente to seeke an answer of God, thus sayde he spake come & let vs go to the sear. For he that is now called a prophete was in the olde tyme called a sear. Then sayde Saul to his ladde: wel sayd of the: come, let vs go. And so they went vnto the cytie where the man of God was. And as they were goinge vp into the cytie, they mette with damelias that came out to drawe water, and sayde vnto them: is there here a sear? And maydens answered them yea, <sup>or (here is one)</sup> Beholde, he is before you. What haste now, for he came this daye to the cytie, for there is an offeringe of the people this daye in the hyll. When ye be come into the cytie ye shall finde him straight waye for he come vp to the hyll to eate: for the people wyll not eate vntill he come, because he both blesse the offeringe. And then ease they that be bydden to the sear. Nowe therfore get you vp, for this daye shall ye fynde hym. And they wente vp into the cytie. And when they were come into the myddes of the cytie, beholde Samuel came out agaynst them, for to go vp to the hyll. But the Lorde had tolde Samuel in his care (a daye before Saul came) sayinge: to morowe this tyme I wyll sende the a man oute of the lande of Ben Jamin, hym wylte thou anoynte to be capytayne over my people Israel, that he maye saue my people out of the handes of the Philistines, for I haue looked vpon my people, and they crye is come vnto me. When Samuel therfore sawe Saul, the Lorde answered him: se this is the man whom I spake to the of, Thy same shall raygne over my people.

Then went Saul to Samuel in the myddle of the gate, and sayd: tell me I praye the where the sears house is. Samuel answered Saul and sayde: I am the sear, go vp before me vnto the hyll, for ye shall eate with me to daye. And to morowe I wyll let the go, and wyll tell the all that is in thine heart. And as for thine asses that were lost this dayes ago, care not for them, for they are founde. And moreover whose shall the beautifull thynges of Israel be? Belonge they not to the & to al thy fathers house? But Saul answered and sayd: am not I the sonne of a Jaminite of the smallest trybe of Israel? and my kynred is the leest of all the kynredes of the trybe of Ben Jamin. Wherefore then speakest thou so to me? And Samuel toke Saul and his lad, & brought them into the parlour, and made them sit in the chiefe place amonge them that were bydden: which were vpon a thyrtie personnes.

And Samuel sayd vnto the cooke, bying forth the portion whiche I gaue the, and of whiche I sayde vnto the, kepe it with the. And the cooke toke vp the shoulder, and that which was vpon it: and set it before Saul. And Samuel sayde: beholde, that whiche is left: put it before the & eate, for he hath had it ben kepte for the of purpose: wher I called the people. And so Saul byd eate with Samuel that daye. And when they were come home from the hyll into the cytie, Samuel communed with Saul vpon the toppe of the house: and when they arose early aboute the synginge of the daye Samuel called Saul vpon the toppe of the house, sayinge: vp, that I maye sende the awaye. And Saul: arose. And they went out at the doores, both he & Samuel. And when they were come almoste oute of the towne, Samuel sayde to Saul: byd the lad go before vs (for he went before) but stand thou still a while, that I maye shewe the what God sayth

¶ The .2. Chapter.

And the Samuel toke a vessel of oyle and poured it vpon his head and kissed hym, & sayde: hath not the Lorde annointed the to be capytayne over his inheritance? (And thou shalt helpe thy people oute of the handes of they: enemies whiche are rounde aboute them. And thou shalt knowe that the Lorde hath annointed the to be kynge.) When thou arte departed from me this day, thou shalt fynde two me by the sepulchre in the bozyle of Ben Jamin, euen at zalezah. And they wyll saye vnto the: the asses which thou wentest to seke, are founde. And lo thy father hath left the care of the asses, and sorroweth for you, sayinge: What shall I do for my sonne? Then shalt thou go forth from thence and shalt come to the playne of Chaboz. And there shall mete the thre men goyng vp to God to Bethel: one carryng thre hyddes: & an other carryng thre loues of bread, and an other carryng a bottell of wyne. And they wyll salute the and gyue the, the two loues of bread: which thou shalt receyue of they: handes. After that shalt thou come to the hyll of God, where the Philistines kepe their watch. And wher thou art comen thither to the cytie, thou shalt mete a company of prophetes comyng downe from the hyll with a psalter, a tymbell, a pype and an harpe before them, and they shal prophete. And the spizite of the Lorde wyll come vpon the also, and thou shalt prophete with them, and shalt be turned into an other man. Therfore wher these signes are chaunced the, do what thou hast to doo, for God is with the. And thou shalt go before me to Gilgal: and I also wyll come downe vnto the to sacrifice burnt sacrifices, and to offer peace offeringes. * Carpe for me seuen dayes, till I come to the and shewe the what thou shalt do. And as soon as he had turned his shulder to go from Samuel, God gaue hym an other maner of herte: and al the tokens came to passe that same daye. And when they came to the hyll, beholde, the company of prophetes met hym: and the spizite

And he prophesied of him also, and he prophesied of him also. And all that he said to him before, when they saw that he prophesied among the prophetes, they sayd unto him: how is this? is it happened unto the son of Cis? And Saul also among the prophetes. And one of the same place answered & sayd: who is their father? And therof came the prouerbe: what is Saul also among the prophetes? And whē he had made an ende of prophesying, he came to his father. And Sauls father & brother sayd vnto him and to his lab: whether wste ye: he sayd: to seke the asses: and when we sawe that they were no where, we came to Samuel. And Sauls vncle sayd: tell me what Samuel sayde vnto you? Saul answered his vncle: he tolde vs playnly that the asses were found. But of the kyngdom wherof Samuel spake, tolde he hym not. And Samuel called the people together vnto the Lord to Gilgal, and sayd vnto the chyldren of Israel thus sayth the Lord God of Israel: I brought Israel out of Egypt, and deliuered you out of the hande of the Egyptians, and out of the handes of all kyngdomes that troubled you. And ye haue this daye cast awaye your God that deliued you out of al your aduersities and tribulations. And ye haue sayde vnto hym: make a kyng ouer vs. Now therfore stande ye before the Lord by your tribes and your thousandes. And when Samuel had brought all the trybes of Israel, the trybe of Ben Jamin was caught: when he had brought the trybe of Ben Jamin by theyr kyndredes, the kyndred of Gatri was caught: and at the last Saul the sonne of Cis was caught. And whē they sought him he could not be founde. Therfore they asked the Lord further, yf that man shoulde come thither. And the Lord answered: beholde, he hath hydd him selfe amonge the stuffe. And they ranne and set hym thence. And when he stode amonge the people, he was hyer the any of the people, from the shoulders vnto the toppe. And Samuel sayde to all the people: We see not him, whom the Lord hath chosen: and howe there is none lyke him among all the people? And al the people shouted & said: God lende the kyng lye.

Then Samuel tolde the people the duty of the kyngdome, and wrote it in a booke, & laped it vnto the Lord, and set all the people a waye every man to his house: And Saul also wente home to Gibea. And there solowed him strong me, whose herites God had touched. But the chyldren of Belial sayde: how shall he saue vs? & they despised hym, and brought hym no presentes. And he helde his tounge.

The .xli. Chapter.

The people renueth the kyngdome of Saul.

¶ As the Ammonite cam vnto, & beset the city of Jabes in Gilead. And al the men of Jabes sayde vnto Nabas: make a couenaunte with vs, and we will be thy seruantes. And Nabas the Ammonite answered them: In this will I make a couenaunte with you, yf I maye thynke out all your eyght eyes, and byng that shame vnto al Israel. To whom the elders of Jabes sayd: we will seuen dayes besette thee, that we maye seke thy messengers, vnto all the borders of Israel. And then if there be a man to helpe vs: we will come out to the. Then came the messengers to Gibea vnto Saul, and tolde this tydinge in the eares of the people. And al the people lyste vnto theyr voyces and wept. And beholde, Saul came folowynge the castel out of the felde, and Saul sayd: what a lyeke this people, that they wepe? And they told him the tydinges of the men of Jabes. And the spyrite of God came vpon Saul, when he herd those tydinges and he was exceedinge angrie, and toke a yoke of oren, and bewed them in peeces, and sent them thowout all the coastes of Israel by the handes of messengers sayenge: whosoever commeth not forth after Saul, and after Samuel, so shall his oren be serued. And the feare of the Lord felte on the people, & they came out as it had ben but one man. And when he & numbred them in Bezek, the chyldren of Israel were thier hundred thousande men: and the men of Juda thier thowande. And they sayd vnto the messengers that came, so saye vnto the men of Jabes in Gilead, to morowe by the tyme the sonne be hote, ye shall haue helpe. And the messengers came and shewed the men of Jabes, which were glad. Therfore the men of Jabes sayde, to morowe we will come oute vnto you, and ye shall doo with vs all that please you. And on the morowe it fortuned, that Saul putte the people in thier partes, and they came in vpon the hoost in the mornyng watch, and slue the Ammonites vntill the beate of the daye. And they that remayned, were scattered: so that two of them were not left together. And the people sayd vnto Samuel: what is he that darre say, shall Saul ragne ouer vs? byng those men, that we maye slaye them.

And Saul sayde: there shall no man dye this daye, for to daye the Lord hath saued Israel. Then said Samuel vnto the people: come that we may go to Gilgal, and renue the kyngdome there: And all the people went to Gilgal, and made Saul kyng there before the Lord in Gilgal. And there they offered peace offerings before the Lord. And there Saul and all the men of Israel retorted exceedingly.

The .xlii. Chapter.

Samuel denieth hym selfe to be an innocent Judge.

¶ Samuel sayd vnto al Israel: beholde I haue herkened vnto your voyce in all that ye sayd vnto me, and haue made you a kyng. Now therfore, your kyng walketh before you. And I am old and greye headed, and behold my sonnes are with you, and I haue walked before you from my chyldhode, vnto this day. Behold here I am: beare record of me before the Lord and before his annointed. * Whose ore haue I taken? or whose alle haue I taken? whom haue I done wronge to? whom haue I hurte? or of whose hande haue I receyued any bypbe, to blinde myne eyes therewith, & I wil restore it you agayne. They sayd thou hast done vs no wronge, nor hurt vs: neyther ther had thou take ought of any mans hande. he sayde vnto them agayne: the Lordes witnesse agaynst you, whis annointed is witnesse this day. & ye haue soude nought in my handes. And they answered: he is witnesse. And Samuel sayd vnto the people: it is the Lord that made Moyses & Aaron, & that brought your fathers out of the lande of Egypt. Now therefore stand styll, that I maye reason with you before the Lord according to all your iniquities of the Lord, wherbye he shewed both you and your fathers.

S * After that Jacob was come into Egypt, and your fathers cryed vnto the Lord: & the Lord sent Moyses and Aaron which brought your fathers out of Egypt, & made them dwell in this place. * And when they forgot the Lord their God, he deliuered them into the hande of Saisara captayne of the host of Hazor: * and into the hande of the Philistines, and into the hande of the kynge of Moab, and they sought agaynst them. And they cryed vnto the Lord, and sayd we haue sinned, because we haue forsaken the Lord, and haue serued Baalim and Ashtaroth. Nowe therefore deliuer vs out of the handes of our enemyes, and we wyl serue the. And the Lord sent Jerobaal * Badan: Jephthah, and * Samuel, and deliuerd you out of the handes of your enemyes on every syde and ye dwelled safe.

And for al that, whil you saw, that Nabasthe kynge of the chydren of Ammon came agaynst you, ye sayde vnto me: * not so, but a kynge shal raygne ouer vs: whil yet the Lord your God was your kynge. Nowe therefore beholde, the kynge whom ye haue chosen, and whom ye haue desired, lo, the Lord hath set a kynge ouer you. If ye wyl feare the Lord and serue hym, and heare his voyce, and not disobey the wordes of the Lord: both ye and the kynge that raygneth ouer you, shall folowe the Lord: your God: If ye wyl not hearken vnto the voyce of the Lord, but disobey the Lordes mouth, then shall the hande of the Lord be vpon you, and on your fathers.

D Now also stande and se this great thing which the Lord wyl do before your eyes: is it not now wheate haruest? I wyl call vnto the Lord, and he shall sende thundre and rayne: that ye maye perceyue and se, how that your wickednesse is grete, which ye haue done in the sight of the Lord in asking you a kynge. And so Samuel called vnto the Lord, and the Lord sent thundre and rayne the same daye. And all the people feared the Lord and Samuel excreadynge. And all the people sayde vnto Samuel: praye for thy seruantes vnto the Lord thy God, that we dye not: for we haue sinned in asking vs a king beforde all the synnes that euer we dide.

And Samuel sayde vnto the people: feare not. Ye haue in dede done al this wickednesse, yet ye parte not from folowynge the Lord. But serue hym euen with all your hertes. Ceithe tourne ye after vayne thynges whiche are not able to prolyte you, for they are but vanitie. For the Lord wyl not forsake his people, because of his great names sake: because it hath pleased the Lord to make you his people. Whereouer, God forbyd, that I shoulde do agaynst the Lord, and create synners for you, out to shewe you the good and right waye. Therefore feare you the Lord, and serue him in the truthe, and with all your hertes, and cōsolde how great thynges he hath done for you. But and if ye do wychedly, then shall ye perishe, both ye and your kynge.

The xiii. Chapter.

The Philistines are smitten of Saul and Jonathas, Sauls being disobedient to Goddes commandment is smitten of Samuel that he shal not reigne.

Saul had bene kynge one yere (when these thynges came to passe: ) and he raygned. ii. yeres, ouer Israel. And Saul chose hym thre thousande men of Israel. Two thousande were with Saul in Michmas and mount Bethel, and a thousande with Jonathas in Gibea Ben Jamin. And the rest of the people he sent every man to his owne house agayne. And Jonathas smote the hold of the Philistines, that was in Bethel: and it came to the Philistines eares. And Saul blewe the trumpet thorowout all the lande, saying: let the hebrues heare. And all Israel herde say, howe that Saul had destroyed an hold of the Philistines, wherfore Israel stode before the Philistines. And the people gathered togyther after Saul to Gilgal. The Philistines also gathered them selues togyther to fyght with Israel, thre thousande charretes and syxe thousande horsemen, and other people like the sand by the sees side in multitude, and came vp, and pyched in Michmas eastwarde from Bethauen. And when the men of Israel sawe it, they were in a strait. & feare came vpon the people, and they hid them selues in caves, and in many holes, and in rocks, and in hye places, and in pyttes. And some of the hebrues went ouer Jordan to go vnto the land of Gad and Gilead. And Saul was yet in Gilgal, and all the people that folowed hym, were assomped. And he tarped seuen dayes, euen vnto the tyme that Samuel had appoynted. But Samuel came not to Gilgal and the people were therefore scattered from him. And Saul sayde: byynge a burnt sacrifice to me and peace offrynges. And he offered burnt sacrifice. And as soone as he had made an ende of offryng the burnt sacrifice, beholde Samuel came. And Saul went agaynst him, to blesse hym. And Samuel sayd: what hast thou done? Saul said: because I saw that the people scattered from me, and that thou camest not within the dayes appoynted, & that the Philistines gathered them selues togyther to Michmas, therefore sayde I: the Philistines shall come downe nowe vpon me to Gilgal, & I haue not made supplication vnto the Lord. And when I had overcome my selfe, at the last I offered a burnt offryng. And Samuel said to Saul. Thou arte become a foole, thou hast not kept the commandment of the Lord thy God, whiche he commaunded the. For at this tyme wolde the lord haue stablished thy kyngdom vpon Israel for euer. But nowe thy kyngdom shall not continue. * The Lord hath soughte hym a man after his owne herte, & the Lord hath commaunded hym to be captayne ouer his people by.

ple by cause thou hast not kepte that which the Lorde commaunded the. And Samuel arose, and gave hym up to Silgal to Gibea Ben Jamin.

And the commandment of the Lorde was uppon Saul, to smite the people which were in Gilgal to Gibea Ben Jamin, and they were smitten from Gilgal to Gibea Ben Jamin.

And Saul nūbered ¶ people ¶ were founde with him, ¶ they wer about a. vi. C. mē. And Saul & Jonathas his sone, & the people that wer founde with them had theyr abyding in the hyl of Bethoron. But ¶ philistines pitched in Michmas.
And there came out of ¶ host of the philistines thre cōpanyes to destroy: one company turned vnto the way that leadech to Dophya vnto ¶ lād of Saul. And an other cōpany turned the waye to Bethoron. And the thyrde cōpanye turned to the way of ¶ coast ¶ is scene about the valey of zechoim towarde ¶ wilderness. There was no synth founde thowout all ¶ lande of Israel.
For ¶ philistines sayd: Lest hapely ¶ hebrues make the swerdes or speares. But al the Israelites went downe to the philistines, to amende euery man his share, his mattoche, his arc & his necessary tooles. And then the edges of the wares, mattoches, dongfozkes, & axes were blunt & also the forkes were to be set in. And so tyme of battayle there was neyther swerde nor spere founde in the handes of anye of the people that were with Saul and Jonathas. But w Saul and Jonathas his sonne was there some what found. And the watche of the philistines came out, to go ouer vnto Michmas.

¶ The. xliiij. Chapter.

Jonathas and his harnesbeareer purue the philistines to flight. He catcheth the honye.

And it fortuneth the same tyme, that Jonathas the sonne of Saul said vnto his pongman that bare his harnesse: come and let vs goo ouer to the philistines watche, that are ponde on the other syde, and he tolde not his father. And Saul tarped in ¶ uttermost parte of Gibea vnder Rimmo, which is in Mi-giron, and the people that were wyth hym were vpon. vi. c. men. And Abia the sone of Abirob, Jehabods brother, the son of phineches, the sone of Eli, was the Lordes preist in Silo, & ware an Ephod. And the people wysse not that Jonathas was gone.

B And in the myddes of the passage (by which Jonathas sought to go ouer to the philistines watche) were there two harpe rockes, euery one on the one syde, & the other on the other syde: the one called Boze, and the other Denne, the foze frounte of the one leane northwarde towarde Michmas, & the other was southward toward Gibea: And Jonathas sayd to the pongman ¶ bare his harnesse, com, & let vs go ouer vnto the watche of these vncircumcysed, peradventure the Lorde wyl woche with vs: for it is no hardnesse with the Lorde, * to saue epyther in manye or in fewe. And his harnesbeareer sayd vnto hym do all that is in thyne heert: Soe where it pleasethe. Beholde, I am with the as thyne heert lusteth. Then sayde Jonathas, beholde, we go ouer vnto those men, and shall shewe oure sel-ues vnto them, ¶ they saye on this wyse to vs, tarpe, vntyll we come to you, then we wyl stand styl in our place & not go vnto them. But ¶ if they saye: come vp vnto vs, then we wyl go vp for: the Lorde hath deliuered them into our hades. And this shalbe a sygne vnto vs. And they bothe shewed them selues vnto the watche of ¶ philistines. And ¶ philistines sayde: se the he-brues come out of the holes where they had hyd the selues in. And ¶ men of the watch answered Jonathas & his harnesbeareer & sayd: com vp to vs, & we wyl shewe you a thyng: And Jonathas sayde vnto his harnesbeareer: come vp after me, for ¶ Lorde hath deliuered them into ¶ hande of Israel. And Jonathas clame vp vpon aders and fere, & his harnesbeareer after hym. And: ¶ (so wyl they saye: Jonathas saye: they sei before Jonathas & his harnesbeareer shewe them after hym. And ¶ fyrst slaughter which Jonathas & his harnessebeareer made, was vpon a. xx. men, within ¶ compasse as it were about an half acre of lād. And ther was a feare in ¶ host in ¶ feld, & amōg al people: insomuch ¶ they ¶ were gone out of ¶ watch to rob, were afeared also: & the earth trembled for the feare ¶ was sente of God. And ¶ watch men of Saul in Gibea Ben Jamin sawe. And beholde, ¶ people (of ¶ philistines) were scattered and were smytten as they went. Then sayd Saul vnto the people ¶ were w him: Search ye se, who is gone fro vs. And when they had nom-bered, behold, Jonathas & his harnesbeareer were not there. And Saul sayd vnto Abia: byyng dither the arke of God. For ¶ arke of God was at that tyme w the chyldren of Israel. And it for-tuned ¶ while Saul talked vnto the preist, the nople ¶ was in ¶ host of ¶ philistines: theyd farther abrode, & encreased: ¶ (by lytic and lytic, and gaue a more cleare sounde: And Saul sayd vnto the preist withozaw thynne hādes. And Saul iopned him selfe vnto all ¶ people ¶ were with hym, & they came to ¶ battayle. And beholde, * euery mans swerde was agaynst his fellowe, & there was a very great rumor. Moreover ¶ hebrues ¶ were with the philistines before ¶ tyme, & were comwith them into all partes of the host, turned to be w the Israelites ¶ were with Saul and Jonathas. And all ¶ men of Israel also which had hid them selues in mount Ephraim as soone as they hearde, how that the philistines were fled: they folowed after them in the battayle. And so God helpe Israel that daye. And the battayl continued vnto Bethauen.

And whē the mē of Israel were kepte do tyme with hunger & dape, Saul charged ¶ people w an oth, sayinge: Cursed be ¶ man that eateth any foode tyl nyght, tyl I be auēged of myne ennemyes. And so none of the people taked anye sustenance. And al ¶ inhabitants of ¶ land came to a wood where hony lay vpon ¶ ground. And the people came into the wood: And behold, the honye dypped, and noman moued his hande to his mouth, for ¶ people feared the oth. But Jonathas herd not when his father charged ¶ people with the oth, wherefoze he put forth the ende of the rod that was in his hande, and byt it in an hony combe, and put his hande to his mouth and his

and his eyes receyued sight. The answered one of the people, & sayde: the father adured the people, sayinge: Cursed be the man that eateth any thinge this day, and the people were sayntye. Then sayd Jonathas my father hath troubled I land: se howe myne eyes haue receyued sight, because I tasted a lytle of this honey, how much more then todaye if the people had eaten of the spoyle of their enemies which they founde: And had ther not bene the a much greater slaughter amonge the Philistines: And they layde on the Philistines that daye, from Michmas to Aiath. And the people were exceedingly saynte.

Item. vii. d.
and. xii. d.

E And the people gat them to the spoyle, and toke shepe, oxen, & calves, & slue them on the ground & the people dyd eate them & the blood. Then men tolde Saul, sayinge: Beholde, the people synne agaynst the Lord, in that they eate with the blood. And he sayd: ye haue trespassed. Route a great stone vnto me this day, & Saul sayd agayne: So abyde among the people, & byd the byrnyng me euery man his ore, and euery man his shepe, and slaye them here, & synne not agaynst the Lord in eating the blood. And the people brought euery man his ore in his hand by night and slue them there. And Saul made an altare vnto the Lord. And it was the first altare that he made vnto the Lord. And Saul sayd: let vs go downe after the Philistines by nyghte, and spoyle them vntill it be day in the mornynge, & let vs not leaue one ma of them. And they sayd: whatsoeuer thou thynekst best. Then sayd the prest: let vs come hither vnto God. And Saul asked of God, shall I go downe after the Philistines? Wylte thou deliuer them into the handes of Israel? But he answered hym not at that tyme. And Saul sayd: let the people come hither out of all quarters, and know and se by whom this synne is chaunced this daye: for as truly as the Lord lyueth which saureth Israel, though it be in Jonathas my sonne, he shall dye the deathe. But there was no man amonge all the people, that answered hym.

Then he sayde vnto all Israel: be ye on one syde, and I and Jonathas my sonne wyl be on the other sid. And the people said vnto Saul: what thou thynekst best, & do. Therfore Saul sayde vnto the Lord God of Israel: gyue a perfect lot.

Lorde God graunt thou the iudgement. Howe happeneth it, & thou graunt the seruant no answer to daye, yet this synne be in me as in Jonathas my sonne, & we will, as yet this iniquitye be in thy people. And Saul & Jonathas were caught, but the people escaped fre. And Saul sayd: cast lottes betwene me and Jonathas my son. And Jonathas was caught. Then Saul sayde to Jonathas: tell me what thou hast done. And Jonathas tolde hym, and sayde: I tasted a lytle honeye with the ende of the rodde that was in myne hande: and lo, I must dye.

Math. i. c.

Saul answered: God do so and so to me, & shalt by the deathe Jonathas. And the people said vnto Saul: shall Jonathas dye whiche hath so myghtely helped Israel: God forbid. As truly as the Lord lyueth: there shall not one here of his heed fall to the ground, for he hath wrought the Lord this day. And so the people deliuered Jona thas, & he dyed not. And the Saul departed by from following the Philistines. And the Philistines went to their owne place. And so Saul helde the kyngdom ouer Israel, & fought agaynst all his enemies on euery syde, agaynst Moab: agaynst the chyldren of Ammon: agaynst Edom: agaynst the kynges of Ioba, & agaynst the Philistines. And whether soeuer he turned hym self there he won, and he gathered his host togyther and smote the Amalekites, and byd Israel out of the handes of them that spoyled them. The sons of Saul were Jonathas, Iesai, & Melchisua. And his two daughters were thus named: the elder was called Merob, & the yonger Michol. And the name of Sauls wyfe was Ahinoah the daughter of Ahimaaz. And the name of his chiefe captaine was Abner the sunne of Ner, Sauls vncle. And Cis was Sauls father. And Ner the father of Abner was the son of Abiel. And there was sore warre agaynst the Philistines all the dayes of Saul. And whome soeuer Saule sawe to be a strong man, and mete for the war he toke hym vnto hym.

Chapter.

Saul is commaunded to slay Amalek. He is disobedient to the voyce of God. He must mourne for Saul.

S Amuel sayde vnto Saul: the Lord sent me to anoynte the, to be kyng ouer his people Israel. Howe therfore hearken thou vnto the voyce, of the wordes of the Lord. Thus sayde the Lord of hostes. I remember that whiche Amalecke dyd to Israel, & howe they layed wayt for them in the waye, as they came out of Egypte. Howe therfore go, and smyte Amalek and destroye ye all that pertyneth vnto them, and se thou haue no compassion on them. (And couerte nothinge that they haue) slepe both man and woman, infante and suckelynge, ore, and shepe, camel, and asse.

And Saul gathered the people togyther, & nūbryd them in Telaim, .ii. hundred thousand footemen, and ten thousand men of Iuda. And Saul came to a crite of Amalek, & let watch in the vallie. And Saul sayde vnto the Kenites: go, & departe, & get you downe fro amonge the Amalekites, lest I destroye you with them: for ye shewed mercey to all the chyldren of Israel, whē they came out of Egypte. And so the Kenites departed from amonge the Amalekites.

And Saul smote the Amalekites fro Heula as thou comest to Sur, & lyeth before Egypt, & toke Agag the kyng of the Amalekites alpye & vterly destroyed all the people to the edge of the swerde. But Saul and the people spared Agag, and the better shepe and the fatter oxen, & the lambes and all that was good, & wolde not destroye them. But all that was foul & nought worth, that they destroyed vterly. Then came the voyde of the Lord vnto Samuel, saying: it repenteth me that I haue made Saul kyng. For he is turned from me, and hath not performed my commaundementes. And Samuel was euell apayed, and crept vnto the Lord at nyght. And when Samuel arose to rise to mete Saul in the

in the morning, it was told Samuel, & Saul that he was come to Ramah, and behold, he hath made him there a place, and is returned, and departed, and gone downe to Gilgal.

D And Samuel came to Saul, and said: (Saul was in Ramah, & Saul of the house of the Soyles, & Saul was come unto Saul)

Saul sayd vnto him: Wheldest thou in f Lord
I haue fulfilled f commandment of the Lord.
Samuel sayd: what meaneth then the bleating of the shepe in myne eares, and the noyse of the oren which I heare? Saul answered: they haue broughte them fro the Amalekites. For the people spared the best of the shepe and of the oren to sacrifice them vnto the Lord thy God. And the remnant haue we destroyed utterly.

Samuel sayd to Saul: let me tell the what the Lord hath sayde to me this nyght. And he sayd vnto hym: saye on. Samuel sayde: when thou wast lytle in thyne owne syght, wast thou not made the hee of the trybes of Israel? And the Lord anoynted the kyng ouer Israel. And f Lord sent the on a iourney, and sayd: Go, and utterly destroye those synners the Amalekites, and syght agaynst them, vntill thou utterly de-stroye them. And wherefore hast thou not hee-ned vnto the voyce of the Lord, but haste tour-ned to the praye, and hast done that whiche is wyched in the syght of the Lord.

E And Saul sayde vnto Samuel: yea, I haue hehened vnto the voyce of the Lord: and haue gone f way which the Lord sent me vnto, and haue broughte Agag the kyng of Amalek, and haue utterly destroyed the Amalekites. But f people toke of the spoyle, shepe, oren, and the best of the thynges which shoulde haue bene destroyed, to offere vnto the Lord thy God in Gilgal. And Samuel sayd: hath the Lord as great pleasure in burnt sacrifices & offerynges, as whē the voyce of f Lord is obeyed? Behold, to obey is better thā sacrifice, & to hearken is better then the fat of rammes. For rebellion is as the synne of witchcraft, and subbytelle is as the wychednesse of ydolatre. Bycause thou hast cast a waye the woide of the Lord, therefore hath the Lord cast awaye the also from beinge kyng.

F And Saul sayd vnto Samuel: I haue synned, for I haue gone further then the sayinge of the Lord and thy woide, because I feared the people, and obeyed theyr voyce. Nowe therefore take awaye my synne, and turne agayne to thy me, that I maye worshippe the Lord. And Samuel sayd vnto Saul: I wyl not retorne with the: for thou hast caste awaye the woide of the Lord, and the Lord hath cast awaye the, that thou shalt not be kyng ouer Israel. And as Samuel turned hym selfe to go awaye, he caught the lappet of his cote, and it rent. And Samuel sayd vnto hym: the Lord hath rent the kyngdome of Israel from the this day, & hath giuen it to a neyghbour of thyne, his better thā thou.
The strength of Israel wyl not begyle nor repent: for he is not a man that can repent.

G He sayde: I haue synned. But nowe honour me before f elders of my people, & before Israel and turne agayne to me, that I maye worshippe the Lord thy God. And so Samuel conuened a gagayn, & folowed Saul. And Saul worshipped the Lord. Then sayde Samuel: Wrynge ye hyther to me Agag the kyng of the Amalekites. And Agag came vnto hym delicately. And Agag sayd: truly the better death cometh on.

And Samuel sayd: as thy swerde hath made wome childlesse, so shal thy mother be childlesse aboue other wome. And Samuel beuoyd Agag in peces before f Lord in Gilgal. And thā Samuel departed to Rama. And Saul wēt home to his house to Gibea Saul. And Samuel cam nomoze to se Saul vntill f day of his death. He nevertheless Samuel mourned for Saul, & f lord repented, f he had made Saul kyng ouer Israel.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Dauid is anoynted kyng. An euill spyrite cometh vpon Saul.

The Lord sayde vnto Samuel: howe longe wylt thou mouene for Saul, seeinge I haue cast him awaye fro raygnynge ouer Israel? Til thyne bozine with ople come, & I maye sende the to Iſai the Berthe-mice, for I haue prouyded me a kyng among his sones. And Samuel sayde: howe can I goe for?
Saul heare it, he wyl kyll me. The Lord answered: Take an heifer with the, & saye: I am come to offere to the Lord. And cal Iſai to the offring, and I wyl shewe the what thou shalt do, & thou shalt annoynt vnto me, hym whome I name vnto the. And so Samuel dyd as the Lord badde hym, and came to Berthelem, & the elders of the towne were assonyed at his coming, and sayde: * Comest thou peaceably? He answered: yea, I am come to offere vnto the Lord. * Sanctifye your selues, & come with me to the offring. And he sanctified Iſai and his sones, and had them to the offring. And when they were come, he loked on Eliab, and sayd: Surely the Lordes annoynted is before hym. But the Lord sayd vnto Samuel: loke not on his fauour, or on f height of his stature, because I haue refused hym. For God seeth not as man seeth. For man looketh on f outwarde apperance: but God beholdeth the heart. Thā Iſai called Iſinabab, and made him come before Samuel. And he sayd: neither hath the Lord chosen this. Then Iſai made Salma come, and he sayde: neyther yet hath the Lord chosen him. Agayne Iſai made seuen of his son-nes to come before Samuel: and Samuel sayde vnto Iſai: the Lord hath chosen none of these.

And Samuel sayd vnto Iſai: are here all thy chylidren? He sayde: there is yet a lytle one behynde that keepeth the shepe. And Samuel sayd vnto Iſai: sende and fet him, for we wyl not sit downe, tyll he be come hyther. And he sent, and broughte hym in. And he was ruddy, & of an excellent beauty, & well fauoured in sight. And the Lord sayd: Arise, and annoynt him, for this is he. Therefore Samuel toke the hoine wyth the oynment, and annoynted hym in the myd-des of his brethren. And the spyrite of the Lord came vpon Dauid, from that daye forwarde.
And Samuel rose vp, and went to Rama.

D. ii. But

D But the Spirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and an evil spirit sent of the Lord vexed him. And Sauls servants sayd unto him: Beholde, an evil spirit sent of the Lord vexeth thee, let our lord therefore commaund his seruantes, that are before thee, to seke a mā, & is a cunning player with an harpe: that when the euil spirit sent of God cometh vpon thee, he may playe with his hands, and thou shalt be eased. Saul sayd vnto his seruantes: prouide me a man then that can play wel, and bynge hym to me. Then answered one of his seruantes, and sayde: Beholde, I haue seene a sonne of Isai, a Bethlehemitte, that can playe vpon instrumentes, and is an actiue skilful, and a man of war and prudent in doing of feates, & well made, and the Lord is wth hym. Wherefore Saul sent messengers vnto Isai, and sayd: sende me David thy sonne, whych is with the shepe. And Isai toke an asse laden with bread and a flagon of wyne, and a lye, and sent them by David his son vnto Saul. And David came to Saul, & stode before hym, & he loued him very well, & he was made his harnessbearer. And Saul set to Isai, saying: let David remaine wth me, for he hath found fauour in my sight. And so it fortuned, & when the euil spirit sent of God came vpon Saul, David toke an harpe & played with his hand, & so Saul was refreshed, & dyd amend, and the euil spirit departed from him.

The .xvii. Chapter.

David outcometh great Goliath.

The Philistines gathered theyr hooste to battayl, and came together to Socoth which is in Iuda, and pitched betwene Socoth and Berach, in the coast of Dammin. And Saul and the mē of Israel came together, and pitched in the oke valley, and put them selues in aray to fight against the Philistines. And the Philistines stode on an hyll on the one syde, and Israel stode on an hyll on the other syde, and there was a valleye betwene them. And there came a man betwene them both out of the tentes of the Philistines, named Goliath, of Gath. He was an had byethling, & had an helmet of brasse vpon his head, & a cote of mail about him. And the weyght of his cote of mail was 5. 000. shelles of brasse. And he had bootes of brasse vpon his legges, & a shield of brasse vpon his shoulbers. And the shafte of his speare was lyke a wrauers beame. And his speare head was weyghte 15. hundred pounces of yron. And one bearinge a shilde went before hym.

And he stode and cryed agaynst the hoost of Israel, and sayd vnto them: Why are ye come out in aray to battayl? I am a Philistine, and I challeunge you, and lette hym come downe to me. And if he be able to fyghe wth me, & to beate me, then wyl we be your seruantes. But if I can outcome him & beate hym, then shall ye be our seruantes, and serue vs. And the Philistine sayd I defy the hoost of Israel this daye, gyue me a man, that we may fight together. When Saul and all Israel hearde those wordes of the Philistine, they were discouraged, & greatly afrayed. David was the son of an Ephrathite (of whom mention is made afore) of Bethlehēm Iuda, named Isai, which had eyght sonnes. And was an olde man in the dayes of Saul, & came to age among mē. And the thre eldest sonnes of Isai went and followed Saul to battayl. And the names of his thre sonnes that went to battayl were: Eliab the eldest & the next Abinadab, & the thirde Shama, & David was the leest. And the thre eldest went after Saul. David also went, & departed fro Saul to feede his fathers shepe at Bethlehēm. And the Philistine came forth in the moynynge, and euenynge, and continued fourtye dayes.

And Isai sayd vnto David his sonne: take for thy brethren an Ephā of thys parched come, & these ten loues, & bynge it to the hoost to thy brethren. And carry these. x. fresh chekes vnto the capitayne, and loke howe thy brethren fare, and let out theyr pledge. And Saul and they, and all the men of Israel were in the oke valley, fyghtynge wth the Philistines. And David rose vpearly in the moynynge, and left the shepe wth a heper, & toke and went as Isai had commaunded hym, and came within the compasse of the hoost. And the hooste went out in a raye, and shouted in the battell: for Israel and the Philistines had put them selues in aray, the one agaynst the other. And David put downe the gere from hym and put them vnder the handes of the heper of the vessels, and ran into the host, and came, and saluted his brethren. And as he talked wth the: Beholde, there stode a man in the myddes (Goliath by name, the Philistine of Gath) out of the aray of the Philistines, and spake of the man aboute reuered, & David herde it. And all the mē of Israel, whē they sawe the mā, ran away fro hym, and were loze afrayed. And euery man of Israel sayd: So we ye not this man come forth, euen to reuyle Israel is he come. * And to hym that beate hym wyl the kynge gyue great rychesse, and wyl gyue hym his daughter thereto yea, and make his fathers house free in Israel.

And David spake to the men that stode by, and sayd: What shalbe done to the mā that beate this Philistine, & taketh awaye the shame from Israel? And what is this vncircumcised Philistine, & he shoulde reuyle the hoost of the luyng God? And the people answered hym (after this maner) saying: thus shal it be done to the mā that beate hym. And Eliab his eldest brother hearde when he spake vnto the men, and Eliab was angrie wth David, & sayde: Why camest thou downe hither: and whome hast thou left there? I knowe thy fauer, and the

and the malice of them here, that thou art come downe to se the battayle. And David sayd: And what haue I now done: is there not a worde?
And he departed from hym into the presence of an other, and spake of the same maner, and the people answered hym agayne as before.

And they y herde the wordes whiche David spake, rehearsed the before Saul, which caused him to be fet. And David sayd to Saul: Let no mans herte fayle him bycause of hym. Thy ser-uaunt wyll go, & fight with ponde Philistine.
And Saul sayd to David agayne: thou art not able to go agaynst ponde Philistine to fight w him. For y arte but a chyldre, but he is a man of war, euen fro his youth. David answered vnto Saul: Thy seruauant kept his fathers shepe, and there came a lyon & lykewyse a beere, & toke a shepe out of the flocke. And I wolt out after him and smote him, & toke it out of his mouth. And whē he arose agaynst me, I caught hym by the beerde, & smote hym, & slue hym. And so thy ser-uaunt slue the lyon, & the beere (also) hath thy ser-uaunt slayne. And truly this vncircelised Philistine walbe as one of them. (How wyll y go, and take alwaye the rebuke of the people, for what is this vncircumci-sed Philistine?) I sing behatrayled on the hoost of y lyupng God. And David spake morouer: the Lorde, y deliuered me out of the hande of the lps & out of the hande of the beere, he shall deliuer me also out of the hande of the Philistine.

And Saul sayde vnto David, go & the Lorde shall be with the. And Saul put his ramente vpō David, and put an helme of brasse vpō his heed, & put a coote of maple vpon hym, and gy-bed David with his owne swerde vpon his rap-ment. And he assayed to go. And bycause he neuer proued it, David sayd vnto Saul: I cannot go with these, for I haue not vsed my leste ther-to: And David put them of hym, and toke hys staffe in his hande, & chose hym fyue smothe stones out of a bzohe, & put them in a shepheardes bag which he had, & in a slynge poke: & his sling was in his hand, and he went to the Philistine.

And the Philistine came and drue nere against David, and the man y bare the shyld went before hym. And when the Philistine looked about and sawe Dauid, he dysdained hym, for he was but yonge, and well coloured, & goodlye to loke vpon. And the Philistine sayd vnto Dauid: am I a dogge, that thou comest to me with a staffe?
And the Philistine cursed Dauid in the name of his goddes. And the Philistine sayde to Dauid: come to me, & I wyl gyue thy flesh vnto the foules of the ayre, and to the beastes of the felde.

Then sayde Dauid to the Philistine: thou commest to me with a swerde, a speare, and a shyld:
But I come to the in the name of the Lorde of hostes, the God of the hooste of Israel, whome thou hast rayled vpon. This day shall the Lorde deliuer the into my hand, and I shall symte the,
and take thyne heed from the, and wyl gyue the carhasses of the host of the Philistines this daye vnto the foules of the ayre, & to the beastes of y erth, y al they which be in the world may knowe that there is a God in Israel. And all thys congregation shall knowe, that the Lorde saureth not with swerde and speare. For the battayle is the Lordes, and he shall gyue you into our hades.

And when the Philistine arose to come & draw nere vnto David, David hastid & ran into y bat-tayle enē agaynst the Philistine. And David put his hand in his bag, & toke out a stone, & slang it & smote the Philistine in his forehead, y the stone lonke into his forehead, & he fell grouelinge to the earth. And so David ouercam the Phil-istine w a slynge and a stone, & smote the Phil-istine, & slue him, euen when David had no swerde in his hande. But David ran, and stode vpō the Philistine, and toke his swerde and drue it out of his sheeth, & slue hym, and cut of his heed therw.
And when the Philistines sawe, y they champyon was deed, & they fled. And the men of Israel & Juda arose, & shouted, & folowed after the Philistines, vntyll they came to the valley, and vnto the gates of Akaron. And the Philistines fell downe wounded by the waie to Saaraim, euen vnto Gath & Akaron. And the children of Israel returned from chasynge after the Philistines, and spoyled they tentes. And David toke the heed of the Philistine, and brought it to Ierusalem. But he put his armour in his ret.

When Saul saw Dauid go forth agaynst the Philistine, he sayd vnto y bner the captayn of his hoost: Abner, whose sonne is this yong mē?
Abner answered: as trulpe as thy soule lyueth, (O king) I canot tel. And y king said: Enquire y whose sonne the yonglyng is. And when Da-uid was returned from the slaughter of the Philistine, Abner toke hym, and brought hym before Saul, with the heed of the Philistine in hys hande. And Saul sayd to hym: whose sonne art thou, thou yongeman? David answered: I am the son of thy seruauant Isai the Berlehemite.

The xviii. Chapter.

The bond betweene Dauid and Jonathan. Saul goeth about to slay Dauid.

And when he hadde made an ende of y sprahynge vnto Saul, the soule of Jonathan was knyt w the soule of David, and Jonathan loued hym, as his owne soule. And Saul toke hym that day, & wold let hym go no more home to his fathers house. And Jonathan made a couenant w Dauid, bycause he loued hym as hys owne soule. And Jonathan put of his owne coot that was vpon hym, & gaue it Dauid, & thereto his cloke, his swerde, his bowe, and his gyrdle.
And David went out whither soeuer Saul let hym, and behaued hym selfe wysely. And Saul sette hym ouer hys men of warre, and he was accepteed in the syght of all the people: and in the syght of Sauls seruantes.

And it happened as they went, when David was returned from the slaughter of the Phil-istine, that women came out of all cyties of Israel, syngynge and daunsynge agaynst the synge Saul, and with tymbzels, withiope, and w instrumentes of musyke. And y womē answered one an other in they playe, & sayd: Saul hath slayne his thousand, & Dauid his ten thousande.

D. iii. And

And Saul was exceeding wroth, and the saying displeased him: and he said: they have ascribed unto David, & to me but a thousande, & what can he more haue? for the kingdom: wherefore Saul looked aside on David from that day forthwarde. And it happened on the morowe, that the euyl spiritte sent of God came vpon Saul, & he prophesied in f middes of the house. And David played w his hand like as at other tymes, & there was a taneling in Sauls hād. And Saul toke f taneling, & sayd: I will naye David to f wall w it. And David answered oute of his presence, & saymes. And Saul was afrayd of David because the Lord was w hym, & was departed from Saul. Therfore Saul put hym f f hym, and made him a captayne ouer a thousande, & he went out & in before the people. And David behaued hym self w f hym in al his trapes, & the Lord was w hym. Wherefore w f Saul sawe that he was exceeding w f, he was afrayed of hym. But all Israel & Iuda loued David, because he went out & in before the. And Saul sayd to David: Beholde my eldest daughter Merob, her I wyl gyue the to wyfe. Only play the mā w me & fight the Lordes battels. For Saul thought: myne hād shal not be vpon hym: but the hand of f Philistines. And David answered Saul: what am I? what is my lyfe, as the hūnd of my father in Israel? I shuld be son in law to f king: howbeit w f f time was com? Merob Sauls daughter shuld haue bene gyuen to David, she was gyf vnto Achish a Gheolothite, to wyfe. Howbeit, Achish Sauls daughter loued David. And they shewed Saul: & the thing displeased hym not. And Saul sayd: I wyl gyue hym her & she may be a snare to him: & that f hand of the Philistines may be agaynst hym. Wherefore Saul sayd to David: thou shalt this day be my sonne in lawe in the other daughter. And Saul commanded his seruantes to comen w f David secretly, and to saye: Beholde, the kynge hath a fauour to the, and al his seruantes loue the, be nowe therfore the kynge some in lawe.

And Sauls seruantes spake these wordes in the eares of David. And David sayd: semeth it to you a light thyng to be a hūnges son in law? But I am a pooze mā & of smal reputatiō. And the seruantes brought Saul word agayne, saying: of this maner spake David. And Saul sayd: this wyfe shal ye saye to David: the kynge careth for none other dowrye, but for an hūndred foreshymmes of the Philistines to be auenged of f hūnges enemies. But Saul thought to make David fall into f hād of the Philistines. And when his seruantes tolde David these wordes it pleased David well, to be the kynge some in lawe. And as the dayes were expired, David arose with his men, and went and slue of the Philistines, two hundred men: and David brought they: foreshymmes, and satisfied the kynge therof, so he was son in law. Wherefore Saul gaue hym Michol his daughter to wyfe. And Saul sawe and vnderstode how that the Lord was w David, and that Michol Dvs daughter loued hym, and he was the more afrayed of David, &

Saul became alwaye Davids enemy. The lordes of the Philistines vied to go for the. And it fortuned, that when they went forth, David be hād hym self w f hym: then all the seruantes of Saul: so that his name was more set up.

Chapter

Sauls commandment to slay David, Michol Dvs wyfe saucth hym.

Saul spake to Jonathan his sonne, and to al his seruantes, & they shuld kill David. * But Jonathan Sauls sonne had a great fauour to David, and Jonathan tolde David, sayinge: Saul my father goeth aboute to slay the. Nowe therfore, take the vnto thy selfe vnto the morow, and abide in some secreete place, and hyde thy selfe. And I wyl go out and stande by my father in the feilde where thou arte, and wyl comūne w f my father of the, and whatsoeuer I se, I wyl tel the. And Jonathan spake good of David, vnto Saul his father, & sayd vnto him: let not f king syn agaynst his seruante David, for he hath not spyned agaynst the, and his workes haue ben to thewarde very good. For he dyd * put his lyfe in his hand, & slue the Philistine, and the Lord brought to passe a greates health for all Israel. Thou sawest it, and thou reioysdest: wherefore then wyl f synne agaynst innocent blood, and slay David without a cause? And Saul hearkened vnto the voyce of Jonathan, and sware: as trulye as the Lord lyueth, he shall not dye. And Jonathan called David, and shewed hym all those wordes, and brought David to Saul. And he was in his presence as in tymes past.

And the warre began agayne, & David went out & fought w the Philistines, and slue them w a great slaughter, & they fled from him. And the euyl spiritte sent of the Lord was vpon Saul as he sat in his house haupng a tanelyn in his hand & David played w f his hand. And Saul entred to naye David to the wall with the tanelin. But he tyd hym selfe oute of Sauls presence, as he smote the speare w (with a hūnges stroke) into the wall. And David fled, and was saued the same nyght. Saul also let messengers vnto Davids house, to wathe hym, and to slay hym in the morow. And Michol Davids wyfe tolde it hym, saying: If thou saue not thy self this nyght, to morow thou wilt be slayne. And so * Michol let David downe thowowe a wyndowe: and he went and fled, and was seued. And thā she toke an ymage and layed it in the bed, and put a pylowe stuffed with gootes heer, vnder the heed of it, and covered it w f a clothe. And when Saul sent messengers to fetch David, he sayd: he is fche. And Saul sente the messengers agayne to se David, sayinge: bringe hym to me, bed and all, that I maye slay hym. And when the messengers were come in: beholde, there laye an ymage in the bed, with a pylowe of gootes heer vnder the heed of it. And Saul sayd vnto Michol: Why hast thou mocked me so, and sent away myne enemy, that he is escaped? Michol answered Saul: For he sayde vnto me: let me go, or els I wyl kill the. And so David fled, and and escaped; and came to Samuel to Rama, and told him all that Saul had done to him.

And he and Samuel went's direct in Balaith.

And one tolde Saul, saying: Beholde, Dauid is at Baitosh in Rama. And Saul ſet meſſengers to ſet Dauid. And whē they ſawe a company of prophetes prophcinge, and Samuel ſtandynge ſay by them, & ſpyrite of God ſel vpon the meſſengers of Saul, and they prophecied to And when it was told Saul, he ſent other meſſengers, and they prophecied lyke wyſe. And Saul ſent meſſengers yet agayne the third time and they prophecied alſo. The went he him ſelf to Rama, & came to a great wel that is in Bethu, & he aſked and ſayde: Where are Samuel & Dauid? And one ſaid: beholde, they be at Baitosh in Rama, and he went thither, euen to Baitosh in Rama, and the ſpyrite of God came vpon him alſo, and he went prophecyinge vntill he came to Baitosh in Rama. And he ſtrypte of his clothes, and prophecied before Samuel in lyke maner, and ſell naked all that daye and all that nyght. And therof it is, that they ſay: is Saul alſo amonge the prophetes?

David complacently vetoed Jonathan's.

As David fled from Achish whiche he is in Rama, and came and sayd befoze Jonathas: What haue I done? Wherein am I faultere? What is the synne that I haue committed befoze thy father, that he seeketh my lyfe? he sayd vnto him. God forbyd, thou shalt not dye. Scholde my father wyl do nothing either greate or small, but y he wyl shewe it me. And how shoulde my father hyde this thinge from me? he will not do it. And Dauid swaie agayne and sayde: thy father knoweth y I haue founde grace in thyne eyes, and therfoze he sayth: Jonathas shall not knowe it, lest he be sorow. And in very dede, euen as trulpy as y Lozde lyueth, and as trulpy as thy soule lyueth, there is but a step betwene me and death. Then sayd Jonathas vnto Dauid: what soeuer thy soule despyeth, that I wyl do vnto the. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas: Scholde, to morowe is the begynnyng of the moneth, y I woulde sit w the kyng at meat. But let me go, that I may hyde my selfe in the felde vnto the thyrde daye at euen. Yf thy father speake of me, then saye: Dauid as a dead leane. Bf me, y he myghte go to Bethlehe to his owne cytie, for there is holden a yereley feast for al ythin red. And yf he saye: it is well done, then thy seruante shall haue peace. But and yf he be angry the be sure, y wychednesse is vterly concluded of him. And the y shalt shewe mercy vnto thy seruante: for thou hast made w me thy seruante a bonde in the Lozde. For withstanding if there be in me any trespass: then slaye me thy selfe, y bypasse me not to thy father.

And Jonathan answered God kepe þ first the (consider so it possible so come to pass.) Roy vt I haue we þ wickednes were cōfused of my father to come vpon þ: thyneft þ þ I would not tel it þ: Then said Dauid to Jonathan: who shal tel me if thy father answer cruell: And Jonathan sayd vnto David, come & let us go out into the field.

And they went out both of them into a field.

And Jonathan sayd vnto Dauid: f Lord God of Israel loke on it, when I haue groped my father misde, one time or other win this. In Dauid p is said wel vnto Dauid: p I theid not vnto the s theme if the f Lord do so f lo vnto Jonathan.
But if my father haue any pleasure to do f euil,
I will shew f also. f send f away f thou mayest go in peace. And f Lord be w the as he hath ben with my father. And thou shalt perfourme vnto me the mercye of the Loarde, not onely whyle I lyue, but euen whē I am dead, and pluck not thy mercye awaye from my house for euer. So not when the lordē hath destroyed the enemies of Dauid, enery one from the face of the earth.

And so Ionathas made a bonde with the house of Dauid, desyring that the Lorde shuld seke it out by the handes of Dauids enemies.
(yf it were broken.) And with other woordes, y<sup>d</sup> Ionathas sweare vnto Dauid, because he loued him. For he loued him as his owne soule.

Then sayd Jonathas to Dauid: to morowe is þy fyrst day of fmoone. And thou shalt be intiled, bycause the place where þy wast wont to sit shalbe empyre. Therefore this daye thre dayes, come downe in anye wyse vnto þy place where þy dyddest hyde thy selfe, when þy businesse was in hand: cutt by þy stone Elel. And I will shote thre arrowes by þy one syde thereof, as though I shot the at a mark, & wyl sende a lad, & byd hym go seke þy arrowes. And if I say vnto þy lad: se the arrowes are on this syde þy: bring them, then come thou: for it is peace & no hurt, as sure as þy Lord lyueth. But if I saye vnto the lad: behold, þy arrowes are beyonde the, then go <sup>(in peace)</sup> for þy Lord hath sent the awaye. And as touchynge this which thou and I haue spoken: behold, þy Lord be betwene the & me for euer. And so Dauid byd hym selfe in the felde. And when þy new moone was come, the kynge sat hym downe to eat meate. And the kynge sat hym downe after the olde maner, in his seate by the wall. And Jonathas arose, and Abner sat by Dauids syde, & Dauids place was empty. Reuerthelesse, Dauid sayde norþyng at all that daye. For he thought some thyng hath chaunced him, þy he is not cleene. But on the morowe which was the second day of the newe moone, it happened, that Dauids place was empyre agayne. And Dauid sayde vnto Jonathas his sonne: wherefore comest thou not to meate, neyther yester daye nor todaye? And Jonathas answered vnto Dauid. Dauid asked licence of me to go to Bethlehe, for he sayd: let me go, I praye the. for our kynrede doth hold an offering i þy cite, & my brother hath sent for me. And therefore I haue sold fauour in thyne eyes: let me go, & se my brethren. This is the cause that he cometh not vnto the kinges table. Then was Dauid angrye with Jonathas, and sayd vnto him: Thou wyched rebell, do not I knowe, that thou hast cholen the side of Itai vnto thyne owne rebuke and vnto the rebuke & shame of thy mother? For as longe as the sonne of Itai lyueth vpon the earth, thou shalt not be

And he said, woe is me, for he is schylder of death.

And Jonathan answered unto Saul his father, and said: what hath he done? And Saul layde by a spear to hit him, wherby Jonathan was well that it was betwixt determined of his father to slaye Dauid: And so Jonathan arose from his table in a great anger, and byd eate no meat at the seconde tyme of the moneth, for he was sayd for Dauid, because his father had done him shame. On the next morning Jonathan went out into the feild, at the tyme appoynted with Dauid, & a yngle lad with hym. And he sayd vnto his boy: runne, and seke out myne arrowes which I shot, and as a boy can he shot an arrowe beyond him. And when the lad was come to the place, wher Jonathan had shotte the arrowe, Jonathan cryed after the lad, and sayd: Is not the arrowe beyonde the? And Jonathan cryed after the lad agayne make speede, and stand not sty. And Jonathan lad gathered vp the arrowes, and came to his master. But the lad wist nothing of the matter. Onely Jonathan and Dauid wist it. And Jonathan gaue his weapons vnto the lad that was with him, and sayd vnto him: go & carrye them to the towne. And as soon as the lad was gone, Dauid arose out of a place that was towarde the south, and fell on his face to the ground and worshipped the tymes. And they kyssed ei ther other, and wept together so longe, tyl Dauid crept in weeping. And Jonathan sayde to Dauid: go in peace. And the thynges which we haue sworn both of vs in the name of the Lord saying: the Lord be betwene the & me, & betwene thy seed & myne, let the Lord be for cure. And he arose & departed. And Jonathan wet it to town.

The xxi Chapter.

Dauid fled into Achish the philistine, and dwelt with him. Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe. Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe.

When came Dauid to Achish, to Achish the philistine. And Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe. And Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe. And Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe.

1 Sam. 21. 10.

And the priest answered Dauid, and sayde: there is no chymen bread vnder myne hande, but here is halowed bread, of the poynges men haue kept them selues from vncleane thynges, especially women. Dauid answered the priest, and sayd vnto hym: of a truthe women hath ben locked vp from vs about the dayes when I came out, and the vessels of the poynges men were holy. And he said: what is the way? And he said: how much more now? And he said: what is the way? And he said: how much more now?

1 Sam. 21. 11.

And he said: what is the way? And he said: how much more now?

And there was a man of the house of Saul, a certain man of the house of Saul, a certain man of the house of Saul.

And Dauid said vnto Achish: is not here under thyne hande cypher speare or swerde, for I haue neither brought my swerde nor my barrell with me, because the kynges busynesse requyred hath. And the priest said: the swerde of Goliath the philistine whom thou slewest in the valley of Elah, behold, it is here wrapped in a cloth beynde the Ephod. If thou wilt take that, take it: for there is none other saue that here. And Dauid sayd: there is none to that, giue it me.

And Dauid arose and fled the same daye fro the presence of Saul, and went to Achish the king of Geth. And the seruantes of Achish sayde of hym: is not this Dauid the kyng of the lande? And they not syng vnto hym in daunces, saying: Dauid hath slayne his thousande, and Dauid his ten thousande.

And Dauid put those wordes into his herte, and was loze afrayd of Achish the kyng of Geth. And he chaunged his speache before them, and sayned hym selfe mad in theyr handes, and scrabled on the doores of the gate, and let his spertle fall downe vpon his beard.

Then sayde Achish vnto his seruantes: Lo: yefe that this man is besyde hym selfe, wherfore then haue ye brought hym to me? haue I neede of mad men, that ye haue brought thys fellowe to playe the madde man in my presence? Shall he come into my houser?

The xxii Chapter.

Dauid fled from Achish, and came to Gath. Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe. Achish was wroth with him, because he was a hebrewe.

Dauid therfore departed thence, and escaped, and came vnto the cane Odollaim. When his brethren also and all his fathers house herde it, they went downe thither to hym. And they gathered vnto hym all me & were in charyce & det, & troubled in theyr myndes, and he became a captayne ouer them.

And there were with him vpon a foure hundred men. And Dauid went thence to Gath in the lande of Moab: and sayd vnto the kyng of Moab: Let my father and my mother (I praye the) come forthe vnto you, tyl I knowe what God will do for me. And he brought the before the kyng of Moab. And they dwelt with hym all the while that Dauid kept him selfe in hold. And the prophet Gad sayd vnto Dauid: abyde not in hold, but depart and go into the lande of Iuda. Then Dauid departed and came into the forest of Hareth. And Saul herde that Dauid was come abode, and also the me that were with him. And Saul sat in Gibeon vnder a tree in Rama, hauing his speare in his hande, and all his men stode about him. And Saul sayd vnto his seruantes that stode about hym: heare I praye you, ye sonnes of Beniamin: why the sonne of Iudah giue eury one of you felde, and bynyardes & make you all captaynes over thousandes, and and I have also conspyred a-gaynst me, and there is none that telleth it me in myne eare. And where as my sonne hath made a bond wryth the son of Isai, there is none of you that mourneth for me, as I have it in myne eare: beholde, my son hath spured my servaunt to lye awaye against me this same day.

Then answered Doeg the Edomite which also stode by the servauntes of Saul, and sayde: I sawe the sonne of Isai when he came to He-to Abimelech the sonne of Abitob, which asked counsaile of the Lorde for hym, and gave hym bytacles, and the swerde of Goliath the Phil-istine also. Then the kyng sent and called for a dimelch the prest the sonne of Abitob, and all his fathers house, that is to saye: the prestes that were in He.

And they came all to the kyng. And Saul sayde: heare now thou sonne of Abitob. He answered: here I am my lorde. And Saul sayd vnto him: why haue ye conspyred agaynst me, thou and the son of Isai: in that thou hast gyven him bytacle, & a swerde, and hast asked counsaile of God for hym, that he shoulde aryse agaynst me, and lye a wayte for me this day? Abimelech answered the kyng, and sayd: who is so fapthfull amonge al thy servauntes as David, and ther-to the kynges sonne in lawe, & gorth at thy bid-dyng, and is had in honour in thyne house: haue I this day fyrst begon to aske counsaile at God for him: That he shoulde be far fro me (if I had knowe it) let not the kyng put suche a thyng vnto his seruant, in all the house of my father. For thy seruant knewe nothyng of all this, ept he lesse, or moze. The kyng sayde: thou shalt surely dye Abimelech, thou and all thy fathers house. And the kyng sayde vnto the foeremen that stode a-boute hym: tourne, and slaye the prestes of the Lorde, both because they hand is with David, and because they lye we when David fled, and shewed it not to me. But the servauntes of the kyng wolde not moue they handes to fall vpo the prestes of the Lorde.

And the kyng sayde to Doeg: tourne thou, and fall vpon the prestes. And Doeg the Ed-omite tournd, and ranne vpon the prestes, and slue that same daye four score and fyue personnes that had weare a linnen Ephod. And He-the cytie of the prestes smote he with the edge of the swerde, bothe men and women, chyliden and suckylnges, oren, asses, and shepe.

And one of the sonnes of Abimelech the sonne of Abitob (named Abiathar) escaped and fledde to David. And Abiathar shewed David, howe that Saul had slayne the Lordes prestes. And David sayd vnto Abiathar: I wyl it the same daye, when Doeg the Edomite was there, that he wolde tell Saul.

And I am cause of the death of all the sou-les of thy fathers house. I byd thee wryth me, and feare not. For yf anye man seeke my soule, he shall seeke the kyng also, wryth me thou shalt be in safegarde.

The xxiii. Chapter.

David fled into the wilderness of ziph.

Then they tolde David, saying: Be hold, the Philistines fight agaynst Heilah, and spoyle & burne. Therfore David asked the Lorde ad-uyer, sayinge, Shall I go and smyte the Philistines? And the Lorde answered vnto David: goo and smyte the Philistines, and saue Heilah. And Davids men that were wryth hym sayd vnto hym: se, we be astrayed here in Iuda: howe moche more then yf we come to Heilah a-gaynst the host of the Philistines: Then Da-uid asked the Lorde agayne.

And the Lorde answered hym, and sayde:
 Arise, and go downe to Heila, for I wyl deli-uer the Philistines into thyne hande.

And so David and his men went to Heilah, & foughte with the Philistines, and broue awaye they cattel, and smote the with a great slaughter. And so David laued the euhabitours of Hei-la. And it chaunced wth Abiathar the sonne of Abimelech fledde to David to Heila, that he brought an Ephod wryth hym in his hande.

And it was told Saul that David was come to Heila. And Saul sayde: God hath deliuered hym into myne hande. For he is shut in nowe, & he is come into a towne that hath gates & barres. And Saul called all the people together, to warre, for to goo downe to Heila, and to besiege David and his men. And David hauyng knowledge that Saul ymagyned myschete against him, said to Abiathar the prest. * Arise the Ephod. Then sayd David: O Lord God of Israel, thy seruant hath herd, that Saul is about to come agaynst Heila to destroye the cy-tie for my sake: wyl the ml of Heila deliuer me into his hande? And wyl Saul come downe, as thy seruant hath hearde saye? O Lorde God of Israel, tel thy seruant. And the Lorde sayd: he wyl come downe. Then sayd David: wyl the men of Heila deliuer me and the men, that are wryth me into the hande of Saul? and the Lorde sayde: they wyl betraye you.

Then David and his men, which were vpon a lyce hundred arose, and departed out of Heila and wente whither they coude. And it was tolde Saul, that David was fled from Heila, and he let the iouneye alone. David abode in wilderness in stronge holdes, and remayned in a moystayne in wilderness of ziph. And Saul soughte him every daye, but God deliuered hym not into his hand. And David sawe that Saul was come out to seke his lyfe. And David was in the wilderness of ziph in a cheker. And Jo-

And Saul sought him at one of his wells to David into the thickets, and comforted his hande in Goliath, & sayde unto hym: feare not, for the hande of Goliath my father shall not fynde thee, and thou shalt be hunte over Iherusalem: & I must be next unto the King. And both Saul and my father weeped. * And they made a bonde both of them to the King before the Lord. And David sayed: I will be in the thicket, and Jonathan went to his home. Then came the lightnes to Saul to Gibeon, sayinge: both not David hyde hym selfe faste by night through boldnes, in a thicket that is by the hyll of Machila, on the righte syde of the wilderness? Howe therfore hynges, thou mayest come downe accordyng to all the luste of thy soule: come downe, and onre part shall be to deliuer him into the hynges hand. And Saul sayd: Blessed are ye in the Lord: for ye haue compassion on me. So, I pray you, and ordeyne the matter wel, knowe and se his haunt, where his fote hath ben, and who hath sene him there, for it is tolde me: he is very subtile, and wothet craftely. Se therfore, & knowe all the lurking places where he hydeth hym selfe, and come ye agayne to me with the certenite, & I will go w pou. And if he be in the land, I will searche hym out thorowout all the thousandes of Iuda.

But David and his me were in the wilderness of Gaon, in the playne that is on the ryght hand of Ierusalem. Saul also and his men were so feke and they tolde David. Wherefore he went vnto a rocke, and abode in the wilderness of Gaon. And when Saul hearde that, he folowed after David in the wilderness of Gaon. And Saul and his men went on the one syde of the mountayne, and David and his me on the other syde. And David toke thought, how to get fro Saul. For Saul and hys men compassed David and his men, rounde about, to take them. But there came a messenger to Saul, saying: haste thee: and come: for the Philistines are come into the land. Wherefore Saul retourned from persecutinge David, and went agaynst the Philistines. And therefore is it, that they called the place: the rock of deuision. And David went thence, and dwelt in stronge holdes at Engaddi.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

David flyeth unto Gath, and thither by death hymn in a case. Saul cometh in thither to do his easement.

When Saul was come agayne from so low nge after the Philistines, it fortuned that there were which told him saying: behold, David is in the wyl-berne of Engaddi. Thā Saul toke thre thou- sande chosen men out of all Israel, and went to seeke David and his mf in the beryth of the ro- ckes, where wyld geotes remayne.

And he came to the flockes of sheepe in the way
And David went into a cave to cover his feet.
And David and his men remayned in þe inward partes of the cave.

25 And the men of David sayd vnto him: se, the day is come, of which the Lorde sayd vnto the: Schoide, I will deliuer thine enemyen into thine hand, and thou shalt do to hym as it shall some good in thy sight. Then David arose and cut of a lappe of Shauls garment private. And immediately Shauls heart was sore torn because he had cut of a lap of Shauls garment. And he laye downe betweene : The Lord kept me from doinge this thinge unto my master the Lordes anoy-nion. So laye my hands vpon him, saying he is the anointed of the Lord. ¶ (So as we see as the Kinge doth, so the Kinge doth here, in except hee have come, as if he would haue to haue and p'fectly the Lord be mercifull vnto vs, that we haue not more doubt than the Lordes anoynted.) And he David kept of his seruantes with these wordes, and suffered them not to arise agaynst Dauid.

But Saul rose vp out of the caue, and went awaye: Dauid also arose, and wente out of the caue, and cryed after Saul, saying: O y Lord hynge. And when Saul looked behynde hym, Dauid stouped to the erth, and bowed hym selfe and said to Saul: wherfore gyuest thou an eare to mens woordes that saye: Dauid seeketh euill agaynst the? Behold, this daye thyne eyes hath sene, how that the Lord hath deliuered the this day into myne hande in the caue. And some bad me kyll the, but I had compassyon on the, and sayde: I wyll not laye myne handes on my master, for he is the Lordes annointed. And more-ouer my father: beholde, and se yet the lappet of thy garment in my hande, in as moche as I kyl-led the not, when I cut of the lap of thy garment.
Vnderstande therfore and se, that there is neither euill nor wyckednesse in me, and y I haue not spynned agaynst the. And yet thou hunttest after my soule to take it. The Lord be iudge be-twene the and me, and the Lord auenge me of the. But myne hande be not vpon the. Accor-dyng as the olde prouerbe sayth: wyckednesse proctadeth from the wycked. But myne hande be not vpon the. After whome is the kynge of Israel come out? And whome dost thou more persecutib; after a deed dogge, and after a lyer?
The Lord be Judge, and Judge betwene the and me, and se, and plete my cause, and auenge me of thyne hande.

When Dauid had made an ende of speaking these wordes to Saul, Saul sayd: *is this thy voice my sonne Dauid: and Saul lyfte vphys voyce, and wepte, and sayde to Dauid: thou art right ouer then I, for thou hast rewarded me with good, wher as I haue rewarded the with euyl. And thou hast reuened this day, how that thou hast dealt longynge with me, forasmuche as when the Lorde had locked me in thynne handes, thou kylledst me not. For who shall synde his enemy, and let hym depart into a good way. Wherefoze the Lorde reward the with good for that thou hast done vnto me this day. And now beholde, I wot well that thou shalt be kynge, and that the kyngdom of Israel shalbe stablished in thynne hande.

Swear now therefore vnto me by the Lord that thou shalt not destroy my seede after me, and that thou shalt not put my name out of my fathers house. And Dauid swear vnto Saul: and Saul went home. But Dauid and his men gat them by vnto an holbe.

 Chapter. xxi.
 Chapter. xxi.

And Samuel dyed, and all the Israelites gathered together, and lamented hym, and buried him in his owne hoole at Ramah.
 And David arose, and gat hym to the wyldernesse of Iherusalem.

ther was a man in Gath whose possellid was in Carmel, and the man was exceeding mighty & had thre thousand shepe, & a thousand gootes
 And he was therynge his shepe in Carmel.

The name of the man was Abai, and the name of his wyfe was Abigail, and he was a woman of spinguler wysedome, and beautiful.
 But the man was churlysh, and of greude conditions, and was of the kynred of Caleb. And David herd in the wyldernesse & Abai did ther bys shepe. And David sent oute ten ponge men and said vnto them: Set you vp to Carmel and go to Abai, and grete him in my name. And thus shal ye saye: peace be to the, peace be to thy house, and peace be vnto all that thou hast. Be-holde, I haue herde saye, that thou hast threces Now thy sheperdes were with vs (in the wildernesse,) and we dyd them no spytte, neither was there ought (of the shepe) mysfynge vnto them al the whyle they were in Carmel: aske thy laddes and they wyl shewe f. wherfore let these pong men fynde fauour in thyne eyes (for we come in a good season) and gyue I praye the, what so euer commeth to thyne hande vnto thy seruau-tes, and to thy sonne David.

And when Dauid's ponge men came, they tolde Abai al those wordes in the name of Da-uid, & then helde they: peace. And Abai answered Dauid's seruantes, & sayd: what is Dauid? and what is the sonne of Isai? there is plente of seruantes now a dayes, that breake away euery mā from his master. Abai I then saide my byerd, my water & my fleshe that I haue spylled for my thersers, & gyue it vnto me whom I wot not whence they be? And so Dauid's seruantes turned they: way, and went agayne, and came and tolde hym all those thynges. And David sayd vnto his men: gyde euery man his swerde about him. And they girded euery mā his swerd aboute hym: and David was gyrded with his swerde. And there folowed David vpo a foure hundred men, and two hundred abode by the kuffe. But one of the laddes tolde Abigail A-bai's wyfe, sayinge: Beholde, David sent messengers vnto our master out of the wyldernesse to salute hym, and he rayled on them. And yet f men are very good vnto vs, and dyd vs no displeasure, myther mylled we any thyng as lode as we were conuersaunte with them, when we were in the feildes. They were a wall of defence vnto vs both by nyght and daye, all the whyle we were with them hepyng shepe: Nowe therfore take hede, and se what thou hast to doo, for there is an occasion of euill gyuen agaynst our master and al his housholde, leing he is a sonne of Belial vngacious to speake to. Then Abi gail made haste, and toke two hundred lozes, & two bottles of wyne, and fyue shepe reby dye fsed, and fyue measures of puffed corn, and an hundred clustres of capynges, and two hundred weight of spages, and laded them on asses, and sayd vnto her ponge men: go ye before me. Be-holde, I come after you. But she tolde her husbande Abai nothyng therof. And as she rode on her asse, she came pryncipe downe the syde of the hyl, and beholde, David and his men came downe agaynst her, and she met them.

And David sayde: in wayne haue I kepte all that this felowe hath in the wyldernesse, so that nought was mylled of all that perterneyd vnto hym. And he hath quit me euyl for good. So lo do God vnto the enemyes of David, if I leue of all that perterneyd to hym, by the dawnyng of the daye, any thyng that ysseth agaynst the wal. And when Abigail saw David, she fasted and lyghted of her asse, and fel before David on her face, & bowed her selfe to the grounde, & fell at his fete, and sayd: Let this vngappye dede be counted myne, my lord, & let thyne hadmayde speake in thyne audience, and heare the word of thyne handmayde. Let not my lord (the knyght) regarde this vnhypstie man Abai: for as his name is, so is he: Abai is his name, and folpis with hym. But I thyne handmayde sawe n ot the ponge men of my lord whom thou sentest.
 Now therfore my lord, as sure as the Lord lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, the Lord hath with-holden the from coming to shede blood, & with-drawe thou thyne hand from bloodshed. Nowe I praye God, that thyne enemies & they that in-tende to do my lord euill, maye be as Abai.
 And now this is the blessing which thyne hadmayde hath brought vnto my lord, & let it be gyuen vnto the pongemen, that folowe my lord.
 Forgyue the trespasses of thyne handmayde, for the Lord wyll make my lord a sure house, by-cause my lord fighteth the battayles of f Lord and there coude none euill be founde in the, in all the dayes. And yf any man ryse to persecute the, and to seke thy soule, the soule of my lord shalbe bounde as in the bondell of the lyuyng & the Lord thy God. And the soules of thyne ene-myes shal God cast out, out as out of the mydle of a syng. And when the Lord shal haue done to my lord al the good y he hath promysed the,
 and shal haue made the ruler ouer Israel: then shall it be no decaye vnto the, nor discouraige of herte vnto my lord, that thou hast not shadde blood causeid, nor auenged thy selfe.

But when the Lord shal haue dealt wel w my lord, then thyne on thyne handmayde.
 And David said to Abigail blessed be the Lord God of Israel, whych sent the this daye to mete me. Blessed is thy sayinge, and blessed arte thou, whiche hast kept me this daye from commyng to shed blood, and from auengyng my selfe with myne owne hande. For in very dede, as sure as the Lord God of Israel liueth, which hath kept me backe from hurtyng the, excepte thou haddest fasted and met me, thynkest thou, there had ben left vnto Abai by the dawnyng of the

of the daye, and hee agaynst the wall: And so David receyved her hand that which she had brought hym, and sayde to her: goo vp in peace to thine house. Beholde, I haue heard thy voyce and haue accepted thy person.

E And Abigail came to Nabal: and beholde he helde a feast in his house, lyke the feast of a king and Nabals hert was merry wythin hym, for he was very drunken. Wherefore she tolde hym nothyng, neyther lesse nor moze, vntyll the morowe daye. But in the morning whē the wyne was goone out of Nabal, his wyfe tolde hym those wordes, and his herte dyed wythin hym, & he became as a stone. And vpon a ten dayes after, the Lorde smote Nabal, that he dyed. And when Dauid hearde, that Nabal was dead, he sayd: Blessed be the Lorde that hath iudged the cause of my rebuke of the hande of Nabal, and hath kepte his seruaunt from euill, and hath recompensed the wickednes of Nabal, vpon his owne heed. And Dauid sente to comune wyth Abigail: to thinke to take her to his wyfe. And when the seruantes of Dauid were come to Abigail to Carmel they spake vnto her saying: Dauid sent vs to the, to take y<sup>e</sup> to his wyfe. And she arose, & bowed her selfe on her face to the earth, and sayd: beholde, let thy hande mayde be a seruait, to wash y<sup>e</sup> feet of the seruantes of my lord. And Abigail hastened, and arose, and gat her vp vpon an asse, wyth fyue damels of hers, that went at her feet, and she went after the messengers of Dauid, and became his wyfe. Dauid also toke Abinoa of Jezrael, and they were both his wyues. But Saul gaue Michol his daughter Dauids wyfe, to Phalti the sonne of Laish, whiche was of Gallim.

The xxvi. Chapter.

1. reg. xxvi. a.

The ziphites came vnto Saul to Gibeon, saying: Doth not Dauid hyde hym selfe in y<sup>e</sup> hill of Achila which is before Jeshimon? Saul arose, and wente downe to the wildernesse of ziph, hauing thre thousande choslen men of Israel wyth hym for to seke Dauid, in the wyldernesse of ziph. And Saul pitched in the hyl of Achila wher he lyeth before Jeshimon by the wayes syde: But Dauid dwelt in the wildernesse. And he sawe that Saul came after him into the wildernesse. Dauid therefore sent out spyes, and vnderstode, that Saul was come in very dede.

And Dauid arose & came to the place where Saul had pitched, and Dauid beheld the place where Saul laye, and Abner the sonne of Ner which was his chiefe captayne. Saul lay wythin, and the people & the hoost round about hym. Then answered Dauid, and spake to Abimelech the Iethite, and to Abisai the sonne of Neriab & brother to Ioab, sayinge: Who wyl go downe with me to Saul to the host? And Abisai sayde: I wyl go downe with the.

25 And so Dauid and Abisai came downe to y<sup>e</sup> people by nyght. And beholde, Saul laye sleeping wythin the hoost, and his speare sticke in the ground at his heed. But Abner and the people lay rounde about hym. Then said Abisai to Dauid, God hath deliuered thine enemye into thine hande this daye. Nowe therefore, let me smite hym ones with my speare to the erth, and I wyl not smyte hym the seconde tyme. And Dauid sayde to Abisai, destroye hym not. For wher can I laye my hande on the Lordes annointed, and be gyttlesse? And Dauid sayde further moze: as sure as the Lorde lyueth: y<sup>e</sup> Lorde shall smyte hym or bys daye shall come to dye: or he shall descende into battayle, and there perishe.

C The Lorde kepe me from laying myne hand vpon y<sup>e</sup> Lordes annointed. But take thou nowe the speare that is at his heed, & the cruse of water, & let vs go. And so Dauid toke the speare & the cruse of water from Sauls heed, & they gat them awaye, and noman sawe it, or marked it, or awaked. For they were all a slepe, bycause y<sup>e</sup> Lorde had sent a dead slepe vpon them. Then Dauid went ouer into the other syde, and stode on the toppes of an hyl a far of (a great space being betwene them) and Dauid cried to the people, and to Abner the sonne of Ner, saying: hearest thou not Abner? Abner answered and said: What arte thou that cryest to the kyng? And Dauid sayd to Abner: art not thou a mai<sup>r</sup>? & who is lyke the in Israel? Wherefore then hast thou not kepte the lord the kyng? For there came one of the folke in to destroye the kyng the lord. It is not good that y<sup>e</sup> hast done. As truly as y<sup>e</sup> lord lyueth, y<sup>e</sup> are worthy to dye, bycause ye haue not kepte poure master the Lordes annointed. And nowe se where the kynges speare is, & the cruse of water that was at his heed.

D And Saul knewe Dauids voyce, and sayde: * is this thy voyce my sonne Dauid? & Dauid sayd: it is my voyce, my lord, O kyng. And he sayd: wherefore doth my lord thus persecute his seruait? for what haue I done? or what euill is in myne hande? Nowe therefore let my lord the kyng heare the wordes of his seruait. Yf the Lorde haue styred the vpagaynst me, let him smite the sauour of a sacrifice. But and yf they be the chyldren of men, cursed be they before the Lorde. For they haue cast me out this daye fro abidinge in the inheritaunce of the Lord, saying: denie and go serue other goddes. Nowe therefore let not my blood fall to the earth before y<sup>e</sup> face of the Lord. For the kyng of Israel is come out to hunt a flye, as when one doth hunt a partridge in the mountaynes. Then sayde Saul: I haue synned: come agayne my sonne Dauid, for I wyl do the nomoze harme, bycause my soule was precious in thine eyes this daye. Behold, I haue played the foole, & haue erred exceedingly. And Dauid answered, and sayde: Beholde the kynges speare, let one of y<sup>e</sup> pongmen come out and let it. The Lorde rewarde euery man accordinge to his ryghteousnesse and sayd: for the Lorde deliuered the in to my handes this daye, but I wolde not laye myne hande vpon y<sup>e</sup> Lordes annointed. And beholde, lyke as thy lyfe was moche set by thys daye in myne eyes: so be my lyfe set by in the eyes of the Lord, that he deliuer me Instruct me oute of all tribulation: Then Saul sayde to David: Blessed art thou my sonne David for thou shalt be a doct, and p[re]dicator.

And so David went his way, and Saul returned to his place agayne.

The xxvii. Chapter.

David fleeth to Achis king of Geth.

AD David sayd in his heart: I shall prey one daye or other, by the hande of Saul. Therefore is there nothing better for me then to flee and save my selfe, in the land of the Philistines, and Saul shall cease, and seke me no more in all the coastes of Israel, and so shall I escape oute of his hande.

And David arose, and he and the syre hundred men that were with hym went unto Achis the sonne of Maach, kyng of Geth. And David dwelt with Achis at Geth, both he and his men every man with his household, and David with his two wyues: Abinoam the Jerazielite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe of Carmel.

And it was told Saul that David was fled to Geth, and he sought no more for hym. And David sayd unto Achis: If I have now found grace in thine eyes, let them give me a place in some towne in the feldes, & I may dwell there. For why shoulde thy servaunt dwell in the heed crite of the kyngdome with the? Then Achis gaue him ziklag that same day, for which cause ziklag preteyneth unto the kynges of Juda vnto this day. And the tyme that David dwelt in the countrey of the Philistines, was four monethes and certayne dayes. And David and his men went vp, and ranne vpon the Getherites, & Getherites and the Amalekites: For those nations were from the begynning the inhabitours of the land, as men go to Sur, vnto the land of Egypt. And David smote the land, and left neither man nor woman alpye, and droue away the shepe, the oxen, the asses, camels, and cloedres, and returned & came to Achis. And Achis sayd where haue ye bene a conynge this daye? And David answered: Towarde the south of Juda, and towarde the south of the Jerazielites, & towarde the southe of the Kenites. And David saved neither ma nor woman alpye, nor suffered them to come to Geth, for feare (sayeth he) lest they shulde tel on vs, saying: so dyd David and so wyl be his maner al the while he dwelleth in the countrey of the Philistines. And Achis beleued David, saying: he abhorreth his people of Israel, & therefore he shalbe my servaunt for ever.

The xxviii. Chapter.

The Philistines must waite agaynst Saul wher he shal come after an encounter.

AND it chaunced in those dayes, & the Philistines gathered theyr host together to war, to fygde with Israel. And Achis sayd to David: Be sure, thou shalt go out with me to the battayle, thou and the men that are with the. And David said to Achis: then thou shalt knowe what thy servaunt can do. And Achis sayde agayne to David: Then I wyl make the keeper of my bed for ever. * Samuel was then dead, and all Israel had lamented hym, and buried hym in Ramath Bethlamech. * And Saul had put the womē that had spyed of David, & the sushlapers of his house, and the Philistines gathered together, and pitched in Beethleham: And Saul gathered all Israel together, and they pitched in Gilboa: And when Saul sawe the hoste of the Philistines, he was afrayed, and his heart was soze astonped. And when Saul asked counsel of the Lord, the Lord answered hym not, neither by dreames nor by Urim, nor yet by prophets. Then sayd Saul unto his servautes: seke me a woman that hath a spirite of prophecie, that I may go to her, & aske of her. And his servautes sayd to hym: Behold, there is a woman that hath a spirite of prophecie at Endor.

And Saul chaunged hym selfe, and put on other rayment, and then went he and two women with him, and they came to the womā by night. And he sayd: prophecie vnto me by the spirite, and bynge me hym vpon whom I shall name vnto the. And the womā sayd vnto hym: Behold, thou knowest what Saul hath doone, howe he hath destroyed the women that had prophecyinge spirites, & the sozcerers out of the lande. Wherefore then sekest thou an occasion agaynst my soule, that he may kil me? And Saul ware to her by the Lord, saying: As surely as I lord lyueth, there shal no harme chaunce the for this thyng. Then sayd the womā: whome shal I set vpon to the? he answered: Bynge me vpon Samuel. Whē the womā sawe Samuel, she cryed with a loude voyce, and spake to Saul: saying why hast thou dispyed me: for thou art Saul. And the kyng sayde vnto her: be not afrayed. What seekest thou? The womā sayd vnto Saul: I se goddes ascenbyuge vpon out of the earth. He sayde vnto her agayne: what fasson is he of? She answered, there cometh vpon an olde man w a mantel vpon hym. And Saul perceyued that it was Samuel, & he couped with his face to the ground, and bowed hym selfe. And Samuel sayd to Saul: why hast thou dispyed me, to make me be brought vpon? Saul answered: I am soze encombed. For the Philistines make war agaynst me, & God is departed from me, and answereth me no more, neyther by prophetes neyther by dreames. And therefore I haue called the, that thou mayest tell me what I shal do. Then sayd Samuel: Wherefore dost thou aske of me, whyle the Lord is gone fro the, and is become thine enemy? Truly the Lord hath done for hym selfe, euen as he spake by my hande. * For the Lord hath rent the kyngdome out of thine hande, & gyven it thy neyghbour David. By cause thou obeydest not the voyce of the Lord, nor executedst his searce wrath vpon the Amalekites, therefore hath the Lord done this vnto the this daye. And moreover the Lord wyl deliuer Israel wth the into the handes of the Philistines. * To morowe shalt thou and thy sonnes be with me, and the Lord shal gyue the hoste of Israel into the handes of the Philistines. Then Saul fell streyght waye flat on the earth as long as he was, and was soze a dead by cause

But his seruantes and the woman together compelled hym, and he hearkened vnto theyr voyce. And so he arose from the earth, and late hym on a bedde. The woman had a fat calfe in the house, and she hasted, and kyll'd it, & tooke flour and kneaded it, and dyd bake sweete cakes therof, and brought them before Saul and before his seruantes. David goeth with hyngs Achis to fight agaynst Saul.

A The Philistynes were gathered together with all theyr armyes vnto Aphek: And the Israelites pitched in Ain, whiche is in Ierusalem. And the lordes of the Philistynes went forth with the hundreds and thousandes. But David and his men came behinde with Achis. Then sayde the lordes of the Philistynes: what are ponder Helizur: Achis sayd vnto the lordes of the Philistynes: Is not this David the seruante of Saul the kyng of Israel, whiche hath ben with me these dayes or yeres? Wherfore nowe retourne, and go in peace, that thou displease not the lordes of the Philistynes. And David sayd vnto Achis: And what haue I done? what hast thou founde in thy seruant as long as I haue bene with the vnto this day that I maye not go fight agaynst the enemies of my lord the kyng?

D Achis answered, and sayd to David: I knowe that thou art good, and art in my sight, as an Wherfore nowe, tyme is comen in the morninge: I wyl the master seruantes that are comen to the: and wyl he be up earlye (as soon as ye haue lycht) departe. And so David and his men rose up earlye to departe in the morninge, and to retourne into the lande of the Philistynes. And the Philistynes wente vnto Ierusalem.

¶ The xxxiij Chapter.

David returneth from hyngs Achis, syneth zikleg his son.

When David and his men were come to zikleg the thyrde daye, the Amalechites had rushed in vpon the south, and vpon zikleg, and had smytten zikleg, and burnte it with fyre, and had taken the women (that were therein) prisoners, both small and great: but slue not a man, saue carped them with them, and wente theyr wayes. So David and his men came to the cytie: and beholde, it was burnte with fyre, and theyr wyues, theyr sonnes and theyr daughters were carryed awaye. Then David and the people that was with hym, lyfte vp theyr voyces and wept, vntill they could wepe no more. And Davids two wyues were taken prisoners also: Ahimelech the Iezrabelite, & Abigail the wyfe of Nabal of Carmelite. And David was in a thren he comblaunt: for the people entred to stone hym, bycause the hartes of al the people were vexed for theyr sonnes & theyr daughters.

But David toke a good courage to hym in the Loyde his God, and * sayd to a biathar the prieste Abimelech his sonne: I praye the byynge me the Ephod. And Abimelech brought the Ephod to David. And David asked counsaile at the Loyde, sayinge: Shall I folowe after this companye, and shall I ouertake them? And he answered hym: folowe, for thou shalt ouertake them, and recouer the praye.

So David and the fyve hundred men that were with hym, wente, and came to the cytie Besor, wher a parte of them abode. But David and foure hundred men folow'd: For two hundred abode behynde, beyng to weye to go ouer the ryuer Besor. And they founde an Egyptian in the feilde, and brought hym to David, * and gaue hym breade to eate, and water to drynke, and gaue hym a fewe synges, and two clusters of reysynges. And when he had eaten his synges came agayne to hym: for he had eate no bread, nor drynke anye water in the dayes, and the nyghtes. And David sayd vnto hym: To whom belongeth thou? whence art thou? he sayde: I am a ponge man of Egypte, and seruant to an Amalechite and my master le. t me behynde, bycause it is the dayes agene that I fell byche: we came aroynge vpon the south of Chetus, and agaynst Iuda, and towards the south of Calch. And we burne zikleg with fyre. And David sayde to hym: canst thou byynge me to this companye? And he sayde: I wote vnto me by me by God, that then wylt neyther hylme, nor deliuer me into the handes of my maister, and I wyl bypunge the to the compaigne. And when he had brought him thither, beholde, they lay scattered abrode vpon the earth, eatynge and drynkyng, & dauncyng, bycause of the plenteous & great praye they had carped away out of the land of the Philistines, and out of the land of Iuda.

And Dauid layed vpon them from the euen, vntill the twylyght on the mozowe: so that there escaped not a man of them, save foure hundred ponge men, whiche rode awaye vpon camels, and fledde. And Dauid recovered all that the Iudaehites had carped awaye, and Dauid rescued his two wyues: so that there was no person of them lackynge, small or greake, sonne or daughter, or of the spoyle of al that they had taken awaye: Dauid recovered them all agayne. And Dauid toke all the shepe, and the aren, and they dyaue them before his cartel, and said: this is Dauids praye. And Dauid came to the two hundred men that were to werpe for to followe Dauid, whome they had made also to abyde at the ryuer Besor. And they came to meete Dauid, and the people that were wyth hym. And when Dauid came to the people, he saluted the. Then answered al the wicked and the vnthriftes (of the men that wente wyth Dauid,) and sayde: bycause they went not wyth vs, therfore wyl we grue them none of the praye, that we haue recovered. But let euery man take his wife and his chyldren: Those let them carpe awaye and be walkynge.

Then sayde Dauid: ye shall not doo so (my brethren) wyth that wherby the Lorde hath gyuen vs, and hath preserved vs, and deliuered the compaigne that came agaynst vs, into oure handes. For who shoulde hearken vnto you in this matter? But as bys parte is that goeth downe and fygtheth, so shall bys parte be that taryeth by the skulke, that it may be parted alyke. And so from that day for ward was that made a statute and a lawe in Israel, vntill this daye. When Dauid therfore came to ziklag, he sente (of the praye) vnto the elders of Iuda, and to his frendes, sayinge: se there is a blessing for you, of the spoyle of the enemies of the Lorde he sent to them of Bethel: to them of south Ramoth: to the of Jathir: to them of Troer: to the of Sephamoth, to them of Esthema, to them of Rachel, to them of the cytie of Jerahmeel, to them of the cyties of the Kenytes: to the of Hozma, to them of Bosajan, to them of Achach, to them that are in Hebzon, and in al places where Dauid and bys men were wonte to haunte.

he Philistines fought agaynst Israel, and the men of Israel fled awaye from the Philistines, and fell downe wounded in mount Gilboa. And the Philistines pleased soze vpon Saul and his sonne, and slue Jonathan, and Abinadab and Melchisua Sauls sonnes. And when the battayl wete soze agaynst Saul, the archers with bowes founde him, and he was soze afrayed of the archers. Then sayde Saul vnto his harnessbearer: drawe out thy sword, and thrust me thozowe therewith, lest the vncircumcised come and thrust me thozow and make a mockyng stocke of me. But his harnessbearer wolde not, for he was soze afrayed. And Saul toke a sword and fel vpon it. And when his harnessbearer sawe that Saul was deed, he fel lyke wyse vpon his swerde, and dyed wyth hym.

And so Saul dyed, and his thre sonnes, and bys harnessbearer, and all bys men, that same daye togyther.

And when the men of Israel that were on the other syde of the valleie, and they of the other syde Jordan herde that the men of Israel were put to flight, and that Saul and his sonnes were deed, they left the cyties, and ranne awaye: and the Philistines came and dwelte in them. On the mozowe when the Philistines were come, to spoyle them that were slayne, they founde Saul and his thre sonnes lying in mount Gilboa. And they cut of his heed, and strypped hym out of his harnesse, and sent into the lande of the Philistines on euery syde, that they shulde publish it in the temple of theyr ydols, and amonge the people, and they layed vp his harnesse in the house of Achis, but they hanged by his bodye on the wall of Bethsan. When the inhabytours of Jabes in Gilead hearde thereof, what the Philistines hadde done to Saul, they arose (as many as were stronge men) and wet at night and toke the bodye of Saul, and the bodyes of his sonnes, from the wall of Bethsan, and came to Jabes, and burnt them there, and toke theyr bones & buried the vnder a tree at Jabes, and fasted seuen dayes.

The seconde boke of Samuel: wherby is called the second boke of the prophetes.

The first Chapter.

The lamentation of David for Saul and Jonathan.

After the deth of Saul, wher David was returned fro the slaughter of the Amalekites, he had ben two dayes in yklegg. Behold, ther came a man the thirde day out of the host fro Saul, with his clothes rent, & earth upon his heed.

And wher he came to David, he fell to the earth, and did obey sauer. David said vnto him: wher comest thou? he said vnto hym: Out of the host of Israel I am escaped. And David said vnto hym: And what is chaunced? tell me. he sayde: the people is fled from the battayle, and manye of the people are ouerthrowen, and deed, and Saul and Jonathan his sonne are deed also.

And David sayde vnto the yonge man, that tolde hym these thynges: howe knowest thou that Saul and Jonathan his sonne be deed? The yonge man answered: I came by chaunce to mount Gilboa. And behold, Saul leane upon his speare. For the charrettes and charynges of horsemen folowed harde after him: And wher he looked backe he sawe me, and called me. And I answered: here am I. And he said vnto me: what art thou? I answered him: I am an Amalekite. he sayde vnto me agayne: Stande vpon me, and slaye me. For angurthe is come vpon me, though my lyfe be yet all in me. And so I stode vpon hym, and slewe hym, for I was sure that he coude not lyue, after that he had fallen. And I toke the crowne that was vpon his heed, and the byacclet that was on his arme and haue broughte them byther vnto my lord.

Then David toke holde on his clothes, and rent them and so dyd al the men that were with hym. And they mourned and wepte, and fasted vntill euen, for Saul and Jonathan his sonne, and for the people of the Lord, and for the house of Israel, because they were ouerthrowen with the swerde.

And David sayde vnto the yonge man that brought him these thynges: wher arte thou? And he answered: I am the sonne of an aleuunt an Amalekite. And David said vnto him: howe is it that thou wast not afrayed, to slaye thynne hande on the Lordes anoynted, to destroy him?

And David called one of his yonge men, & sayde Go to, and smite vpon hym. And he smote hym with the swerde. Then sayd David vnto hym: thy bloode be vpon thynne owne heed. For thynne owne mouth hath testified agaynst the, saying I haue slayne the Lordes anoynted.

And David mourned with this lamentation ouer Saul and ouer Jonathan his sonne, & bad teache the children of Israel the vse of the bowe. And beholde, it is wyrtten in the booke of the ryghteous. (And he sayd: Confyde, O Israel, these that be deed and wounded vpon the hye hylls.) O noble Israel the wounded are slayne vpon the hylls: Oh, howe are the myghtye ouerthrowen? Tell it not in Gath, nor publyshe it in the stretes of Bethalon: lest the daughters of the Philistines reioyse, and lest the daughters of the vncircumcised triumph. Ye mountaynes of Gilboa, vpon you be neyther dewe nor rayne, nor vpon the felles of offspringes. For there the shield of myghtie is cast downe: the shield of Saul, as though he had not ben anoynted with oyle. The bowe of Jonathan and the sword of Saul turned neuer backe agayne emptye, from the blood of the slayne, and fro the fat of the myghtye warriours.

Saul and Jonathan were louelye and pleasaunte in theyr lyues, and in theyr deathe they were not druyded. They were swifter then Eagles, and stronger then Lyons: ye daughters of Israel wepe ouer Saul, whiche clothed you in purple, with pleasures, and hanged ornamente of golde vpon your apparel. How were myghty slayne in battayle? Jonathan is deed on the hye hylls. Wo is me for the my brother Jonathan: werre kynde hast thou ben vnto me. Thy loue to me was wondrefull, passing the loue of women. (As a mother loued her onely chyld, euen so dyd I loue the.) O howe are the myghtye ouerthrowen, and the weapons of warre destroyed.

The ii. Chapter

David is anoynted in Hebron. The battayle of the Geraunites of David and Achish.

After this it fortuneth, that David asked counsaile at the Lord, saying: Shall I go vnto anye of the cytyes of Iuda? And the Lord sayde vnto hym: goo. And David sayde agayne: Whither shall I go? he answered: vnto Hebron. And so David went thither with his two wyues, Ahinoam the Iesraelite, and Abigail Nabals wyfe the Caemelite. And the men that were with hym, dyd David carie vpon also, euerye man with his household.

And they dwelte in the towne of Hebron. And the men of Iuda came, and there they anoynted David kyng ouer the house of Iuda. And they tolde David, saying: It is the men of Iabeg in Gilead that buryed Saul. And David sent messengers vnto the men of Iabeg in Gilead, and sayde vnto them: blessed are ye vnto the Lord, that ye haue shewed suche kyndnesse vnto our lord Saul, and haue buryed hym. And now the Lord he we mercey and truthe vnto you. And I wyll do you also suche kyndnesse as ye haue done in this thyng: Therefore now let your your hande be stronge, and playe ye the men: for your master shall be dead. And they that are of the house of Juda have answered me kyngs ouer them. But Abner the sonne of Ner was captaine of Sauls hoste toke Ithobal the son of Saul, and brought hym to Gahannaim, and made hym kyng ouer Gilead, and ouer the Assurites, and ouer Iserael, Ephraim, Ben Jamin, and ouer all Israel. And Ithobal Sauls sonne was fouertye yere olde when he began to raygne ouer Israel, and reigned two yere. But the house of Juda folowed Dauid. * And the tyme which Dauid raygned in Hebron ouer the house of Juda was seue yere and fyve monethes. And Abner the sonne of Ner, and the seruantes of Ithobal the sonne of Saul went out of Gahannaim, to Gibeon. And Joab the sonne of Zaria, and the seruantes of Dauid went out, and met them by the poole of Gibeon. And they late downe, the one on the one syde of the poole, and the other on the other syde. And Abner sayde to Joab: let the ponge men arys, and playe before vs: And Joab sayde: Let them arys. Then there arose and wente ouer, twelue of Ben Jamin by nombre, which pertayned to Ithobal the sonne of Saul, and twelue of the seruantes of Dauid. And euery one caught his felowe (that cam agaynst him) by the heed, and thrust his swerde in hys syde, and so they fell downe togyther. Wherefore the place was called: The felde of the myghtye. And it is in Gibeon. And there began an exceeding cruel battaile that same daye. For Abner and the men of Israel fell before the seruantes of Dauid.

And there were thre sonnes of Zaria there: Joab, Abisai, and Alabel. And Alabel was as lyght on foote as a wyde roo, and Alabel folowed after Abner, and * touned neyther to the ryght hande nor to the left, from Abner: Then Abner looked behynde hym, and sayde: arte thou Alabel? he answered: yea, that I am. Abner sayde: turne the epyther to the ryght hande or to the left, and catche one of the ponge men, & take the his weapons. But Alabel wolde not depart from hym. And Abner sayde agayne to Alabel: departe fro me. Wherefore shoulde I smyte the to the grounde, and not be habile to holde vp my face to Joab thy brother? Howebeit, when he wolde in nowyle departe, Abner with the hyn- due ende of the speare smote hym vnder * the horte rebbes: that the speare came out behynde hym: that he fell downe in the same place, and dyed there. And as manye as came to the place wher Alabel fell downe and dyed, stode still. Joab also and Abisai folowed Abner. And the sunne went downe, whan they wer come to the byt Emma that lyeth before Giath, by the waye that goeth thowowe the wyldernesse of Gibeon. And the chyldren of Ben Jamin gathered them selues togyther on an heape, to Abner, and stode on the toppes of an hyll. Then Abner called to Joab, and sayde: shal the swerde deuoure styll for ever? knowest thou not, that it wyll be hytter- wille in the latter ende: howe longe shall it be, or thou bydde the people retorne from folowynge the? bethyren? And Joab sayde: as thyng as God spaketh, if thou hauest so spoken in the morning, the people shall be departed euery one from persecutynge hys brother. And so * Joab blew a trumpet, and all the people stode still, & pursued after Israel nomore, neyther foughte they any more. And Abner and his men walked all that nyght thowowe the playne: and went ouer Jordan, and past thowowe al Bethoron tyll they came to Gahannaim.

And Joab returned from persecutynge Abner. And when he had gathered all the people togyther, there lacked of Dauids seruantes, nyntene men, and Alabel. But the seruantes of Dauid had slayn of Ben Jamin, and of Abners men, thye hundred and thyscore men. And they toke vp Alabel, and buryed him in the sepulchre of his father in Berlehem. And Joab and hys men went all nyght, vntyl the dawnyng of the daye, and came to Hebron.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

¶ Abner cometh to Dauid, and byngeth hym his wyfe Michol. Joab kylleth Abner.

There was longe warre betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid. But Dauid waxed stronger and stronger, and the house of Saul waxed weaker and weaker. * And vnto Dauid were * (xv) chyldren borne in Hebron: his eldest sonne also was Amnon, of Ahinoam the Jezrabelite: the seconde Chisai of Abigail the wyfe of Nabal the Carmeliste: the thyrde Absalom, the sonne of Maachab the daughter of Thalmay, the kyng of Gessur: the fourth Adonia the sonne of Hagith, the fyfth, Sephatia the sonne of Abital: the syxth, Iethream, by Eglia Dauids wyfe. These were borne to Dauid in Hebron. And it fortuneth, that whyle there was warre betwene the house of Saul and the house of Dauid, Abner helde by the house of Saul. And Saul had a concubine named Rissa, the daughter of Ithia. And Ithobal sayde to Abner: wherfore hast thou gone into my fathers concubine? Then was Abner verpe wroth for the wordes of Ithobal, & sayde: Am I not a * dogges heed, which agaynst Juda do thewe merce this day vnto the house of Saul thy father, and to hys brethren and frendes, and haue not deliuered the iudged hande of Dauid: and thou syndest a fault in me this daye for this womā? * So and so do God to Abner. For as the Lorde hath sworn to Dauid, so wyll I be on hys syde, to byngge the kyngdome from the house of Saul, that the throne of Dauid maye be stablyshed ouer Israel, and ouer Juda, euen from Dan to Berleha. And he coulde gyue Abner neuer a worde to answer, because he feared hym.

And Abner sent messengers to Dauid secretly, sayinge: Whose is the lande? Make a bonde with me, and beholde, myne hande is with the, to byngge all Israel vnto the. He sayde: It is good, that I make a bonde with the. But one thyng I requyre of the, that thou se not my face except thou fyrt byngge Michol Sauls daughter when thou comest to se me.

¶ And

And when messengers to Ishbosheth Saul's sonne, saying: Deliver me my wife Michol which I married with an hundred foreskinnes of the Philistines. And Ishbosheth sent, and toke her from her husbnde * Baishai the sonne of Laish. And her husbnde wente wyth her, and came weeping behynde her, tyl they came to Bahurim. Then sayd Abner vnto hym: go and returne. And he returned. And Abner had comunicacyon with the elders of Israel, saying: ye sought for David in tymes past: that he myght be your kynge. Nowe then do it: for the Lorde hath sayde of David: By the bande of my seruante David I will saue my people Israel out of the bandes of the Philistines, and out of the bande of all theyr enemyes. And Abner spake in the eares of Ben Jamin, and went to tell in the eares of David in hebron, all that Israel was content with, and the whole house of Ben Jamin. And so Abner came to David to hebron, hauynge twenty men wyth hym, and David made hym and the men that were wyth hym a feast. And Abner sayd vnto David: I will be, and go gather al Israel vnto my lord & kynge, that they maye make an appoyntement wyth the: and that thou mayest kepe commaunde all, as thyne herte desireth. And when David had let Abner departe, he went in peace.

And beholde, the seruantes of David and Joab came fro chasing the robbers, & brought a great pray wth them. But Abner was not w David in hebron: for he had sent hym away to departe in peace. When Joab and all the hooste that was with him were come, men tolde Joab saying: Abner the sonne of Ner came to þe kynge, and he hath sent hym away, that he is gone in peace. Then Joab came to the kynge, and sayde: what hast thou done? Beholde, Abner came vnto the, & why hast thou sent hym away, that he shoulde escape quyte? Thou knowest Abner the sonne of Ner, for he came to discipue the, and to knowe thy outgoing & ingoinge, and to knowe al þe thou doest. And when Joab was come oute fro David, he set messengers after Abner, which brought him agayne from þe well of Biria vnknowynge to David. And when Abner was come agayne to hebron, Joab toke him aspye in the gate * to speake with hym secretlye, & smote hym vnder the thoste rybbes, þe dyed: for the bloode of Ishai his brother. And when afterwarde it came to Davids eare, he sayde: I & my kynghdom are gylelesse before the Lord for ever, concerning the bloode of Abner the sonne of Ner. Let the bloode remayne on þe heed of Joab, & on all his fathers house, & the house of Joab be neuer without one or other þe hath cummyng issues or leprosie, and þe leaneth on a staffe, and þe doeth fall on þe swerde, & lacketh breed. And the cause why Joab and Abisai slue Abner, was, that Abner had slayne the brother Ishai at Gibeon in battayle: And David sayde to Joab, and to all the people that were with hym. * Rent youre clothes, and put on sackcloth, and mourne before Abner. And kynge David hym selfe followed the corse. And when they buried Abner in hebron, the kynge yfte hym, and wepte beside the sepulchre of him, and so dyd all the people. And the kynge lamented ouer Abner, and sayd: dyed Abner as a foole dyeth: thy bandes were not bounde, nor thy fete brought into cheynes: but as a ma falleth before wyched children, so doest thou fall. And all they that were of the people wept yet more ouer hym.

And when all the people came to eate meate w David whyle it was yet day, David swore, saying: So and so do God to me, yf I tast bread, or ought els tyl the sunne be downe. And the people wyte it, and it pleased them. And whatsoeuer the kynge dyd, it pleased al the people. For all the people and all Israel vnder stood, that daye, how that it was not the kinges dede that Abner the sonne of Ner was slayne. And the kynge sayd vnto his seruantes: knowe ye not, how that there is a loyde and a greaue man falle this day in Israel: And I am this day tender & anoynted kynge. And these men the sonnes of jarula be to hard to me. The Lorde rewarde the doer of euyl accordynge to his wychednesse.

The. iiii. Chapter

Baanah and Rechab slay Ishbosheth the sonne of Saul.

When Dauides sonne hearde that Abner was deed in hebron, his bandes were feble, and all the Israelites were afrayed, and Sauls sonne had two men that were capitaynes ouer the souldyers: the one called Baanah, and the other Rechab, the sonnes of Rimmon a Berothite of the chyldren of Ben Jamin: for Beroth was reckened to Ben Jamin. And these Berothites fled to Gethai, and sojourned there, vntyll the same tyme. * And Jonathan Sauls sonne had a sonne that was lame on his feete. And he was fyue yere olde when the tydynge came of Saul and Jonathan out of Israel. And his nurse toke hym vp, and fledde away. And as he made haste to flye, the chyld fell, and began to hale, and his name was Miphibosheth. And the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, Rechab and Baanah went, and came in the heate of the daye to the house of Ishbosheth, which slept on a bed at noone. (And the woman that was the keeper of the house, and clenched the wheate, was asleepe.) And they came into the myddes of the house as though they wolde haue fetched wheate, and Rechab and Baanah his brother smote hym vnder the thoste rybbes, and fled. For when they came into the house, he slepte on his bed in his resting chamber, and they smote him, and slue him, and beheaded hym, and toke his heed, and gate them away thorowe the playne al fnyght. And they brought the heed of Ishbosheth vnto David, to hebron, and sayde to the kynge: Beholde, there is the heed of Ishbosheth Sauls sonne, thyne enemye whych sought after thy lyfe. And the Lord hath auenged my lord the kynge thys daye, of Saul and of his seed.

And David answered Rechab and Baanah his brother, the sonnes of Rimmon the Berothite, and sayde vnto them: * as suretye as the Lorde lyueth: which hath deliuered my soule out of al aduersities:

adversities: When one tolde me, and sayd that Saul was dead, I thought to have broughte good tydings, I caught hym and slayd hym in shew: which thought that I wolde have gyfte hym a reward for his tydings byngynge. How much more wylde wicked men have slayne a ryghteous person, in his owne house, and vpon his bedde. Shall I not requyte his bloode of your hande, and take you from the earth? And David commaunded his younge men, and they slayd them, and cut of theyr handes and fete, and hanged them vpon the poole in Hebzon. But they toke the heed of Ibseleth, and buried it in the sepulchre of Abner in Hebzon.

The v. Chapter.

David is yet agayne anoynted kyng: and taketh the arke from Gyon.

When came all the trybes of Israel to David vnto Hebzon, and sayde: Beholde, we are of thy bone & of thy flesh. And in tyme past whyle Saul was our kyng, thou leddest Israel in and oute. And the Lorde hath sayde to the: thou shalt fede my people Israel, and thou shalt be a captayne ouer Israel. And so al the elders of Israel came to the kyng to Hebzon. And kyng David made a covenannt with them in Hebzon befoze the Lorde. And they anoynted David kyng ouer Israel. David was thyrty yere olde when he began to ragne, and he ragged fouertye yere: In Hebzon he ragged ouer Iuda seuen yere, and fyve monethes. And in Ierusalem he ragged thyrtye and thre yeres ouer all Israel and Iuda.

The kyng also and his men wente to Ierusalem vnto the Jebusites, the inhabytours of the lande. Which spake vnto David, saying: except thou take a waye the blynde and the lame, thou shalt not come in hyther. For they sayde: Thou arte not dable to come in hyther. Reuerthelesse, David toke the stronger hold of Syon. The same is the cytie of David. And David sayd the same day: whosoever smyth the Jebusites, and getteth vp to the gutters of the houses and smytheth the lame & blynde y hate Danids soule. Wherefoze, they sayd: the blynde and the lame shal not come into the house. And so David dwelt in the towre, & called it the cytie of David, & buylt roib about it fyd wylle in ward. And David prospered & grewe, & the Lorde God of hostes was wth hym. And hiram kyng of Tyze sent messengers to David, & cedartrees, and carpenters, and masons for walles: and they buylt David an house. And David perceyued, that the Lorde had stablished hym kyng ouer Israel, and that he had raised his kygdom for his people Israels sake. And David toke hym mo concubynes and wyues oute of Ierusalem, after he was come from Hebzon, and mo songes and daughters were yet borne to David. And these be the names of the songes that were borne vnto hym in Ierusalem: Hamma, Isobab, Rathan, and Salom, Jibbar also, and Elisba, Rebbeg, and Japhia, Elisama, Eliada, and Eliphalet.

But when the Philistines herde that they had anoynted David kyng ouer Israel, they came all vnto seke David. And as sone as David hearde of it, he gat hym to an holme. And when the Philistines came, they played them alonge in the valleye of Rephaim. And David asked counsaile of the Lorde, sayinge: Shall I goo vnto the Philistines, wyle thou deliuer them into myne handes? And the Lorde answered vnto David: goo vp, for I wylle doublelesse deliuer the Philistines into thyne handes. And David came to the playne of Berazim, and smote them there, and sayde: the Lorde hath deuyded myne enemyes a sondre befoze me, as waters be deuyded a sondre. And therfoze the name of the place was called: The playne of Berazim. And there they left theyr images, & David and his men toke them vp. And the Philistines cam y agayne, and laped them selues in the valleye of Rephaim. And when David asked at the Lorde, (Shall I goo vp agayne the Philistines: and wyle thou deliuer them into myne handes?) he answered: Thou shalt not goo vp, but compass them on the backsyde, and come vpon them ouer agaynst the peretrees. And when thou hearest the noyse of a thynge going in the toppe of the peretrees, then remoue. For then shall the Lorde go oute befoze the, to smyte the hoste of the Philistines. And David dyd as the Lorde had commaunded hym, and smote the Philistines from Gibea, vntyll they come to Gaser.

The vi. Chapter.

The arke is brought forth of the house of Abinadab. Uza is stricken, and dyeth. David daunceth before it, and is thereto a deliuerer of his wyfe Michol.

Agayne, David gathered together all the cholen men of Israel, euen thyrtye thousande, & arose and went with al the folke that were with him of the men of Iuda to fet a way from thence the arke of God, whose name is called the name of the Lorde of hostes, that dwelleth vpon it betwene the cherubims. And they put the arke of God vpon a new cart, and brought it out of the house of Abinadab that was at Gibea. And Uza and Ahio the sonnes of Abinadab draue the new cart. And whyle they brought it out of the house of Abinadab it was at Gibea with the arke of God: Ahio went befoze the arke, and David and all the house of Israel played befoze the Lorde in sondry instrumentes made of Cedre wood, wyth harpes, of psalteryes, tymbrels, fydes, and cymbals.

And when they came to Bachons thersyng flooze, Uza put his hande to the arke of God, & helde it, for the oxen stumbled. And the Lorde was wroth with Uza, and God smote hym in the same place for his fault, and there he dyed befoze the arke of God: And David was displeased, because the Lorde had smytten Uza. And the name of the place was called Beray: The retyng of Uza vntyll this daye. And David was then afrayed of the Lorde, and sayde: how shall the arke of the Lorde come to me? And so David wolde not bynge the arke of the Lorde vnto hym into the cytie of David. But David carryed it into the house of Obery Edom, a Gethyte. And the arke of the Lorde continued in the house of Obery Edom the Gethyte, thre monethes, and the Lorde blessed Obeth Edom, and all his household. And one tolde hyng David how the Lorde had blessed Obeth Edom, and all that pertayned vnto hym, because of the arke of God, and David went and brought the arke of God from the house of Obeth Edom, into the cite of David with gladnesse. <sup>on</sup> And there were in David seven hundred of his men, and calves for sacrifice. And when they that bare the arke of the Lorde had gone fyve spaces, he offered an ox, and a fat shepe. And David <sup>on</sup> played on harpe strings, and daunced before the Lorde with all his myght, and was geyded with a linnen Ephod. So David and all the house of Israel, brought the arke <sup>on</sup> of the Lorde with shoutynge, and trompet blowynge.

And it fortuned, that as the arke of the Lorde came into the cite of David, Michol Dauides daughter looked thorow a window, and sawe hyng David spyng, and daunce before the Lorde, and she despyled hym in her herte. And when they brought in the arke of the Lorde they set it in his place, even in the tabernacle of David which he had pitched for it. And David offered burnt offerings, and peace offerings before the Lorde. And as soone as David had made an end of offering burnt offerings, and peace offerings, he blessed the people in the name of the Lorde of hosts, and gave amonge al the folke, eue amonge the hole multitude of Israel, as well to the women as men, to every one a cake of bread, and a peece of fleshe, and a flasket of bynke. And so al the people departed every one to his house.

Then David returned to blesse his household, and Michol the daughter of Saul came oute to mete David, and sayde: O howe glorious was the hyng of Israel this daye, which was unconquered to daye, in the eyes of the maydens of his seruantes, as yf it had bene a lyght dayned fellowe unconquered. And David sayde vnto Michol: I thought to dance before the Lorde, which chose me rather then thy father, and al his kyn, and commaunded me to be ruler ouer all the people of the Lorde, euen ouer Israel. And therfore wyl I play before the Lorde. And wyl yet be more hyle then so, and wyl be lode in myne owne syght, and of the very same maydes seruantes, which thou hast spoken of, wyl I be had in honour. Therfore Michol the daughter of Saul had no chyld, vnto the daye of her death.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

<sup>on</sup> David was the first that was anointed by the spirit of God.

It fortuned, that as the kynge sat in his house after the Lorde had gyuen hym rest rounde about fro all his enemies, he sayd vnto Nathan the prophet: behold, I dwell now in an house of Cedar trees, but the arke of God dwelleth within curtayne. And Nathan sayd vnto the kynge: go, and do all that is in thine herte, for the Lorde is with thee.

And it fortuned the same nyght, that the word of the Lorde came vnto Nathan, saying: go, and tell my seruant David, thus sayeth the Lorde: wylt thou buyld me an house to dwell in for I haue not dwelt in any house syns I came that I brought the chyldre of Israel out of Egypt vnto this daye: but haue dwelt in a tent & tabernacle. In all the places wherin I haue walked with all the chyldren of Israel, spake I none word with anye of the trybes of Israel syns I commaunded the iudges to feed my people Israel, saying: why buyld ye not me an house of Cedar trees? Howe therfore so saye vnto my seruant David: thus sayeth the Lorde of hosts. * I toke the from the shepheardes (as thou wast folowynge shepe) that thou myghtest be ruler ouer my people Israel. And I was with the in al that thou wentest to, & haue destroyed all thine enemies oute of thy syght, and haue made the a grete name, lyke vnto the name of the grete men that are in the earth. And therfore I wyl appoynte a place for my people Israel, and wyl plant it, that they may dwell in a place of theyr owne, and moue nomore, neythre shall wycked people trouble them anye more as they dyd at the begynnyng: syns the tyme that I set iudges ouer my people of Israel. And I wyl gyue the rest from all thine enemies. And the Lorde telleth the, & he wyl make an house.

And when thy dayes be fulfilled, thou shalt slepe with thy fathers, and I wyl sette by thy seed after the, which shall procede out of thy body, and wyl stablysh his kyngdome. * He shall buyld an house for my name, and I wyl stablysh the seate of his kyngdome for euer: & I wyl be his father, and he shall be my sonne: & yf he syn I wyl chaunge hym with such a rodde as men be chastened with, and with suche plagges as the chyldren of men be plagued with. But my mercy shall not departe a waye from him, as I toke it fro Saul, whom I put downe before the. And thine house and thy kyngdome shall endure with out ende after the, * and thy seate shall be stablyshed for euer. Accordynge to all this vpsion, dyd Nathan speake vnto David. Then wente David in, and set hym downe before the Lorde, and sayd: what am I, O lord God, and what is my house: that thou shouldest haue brought me this far forth? And this was yet a small thyng in thy syght, O Lorde God, but thou hast spoken also of thy seruantes house for a grete whyle to come: for this is the yle of man, O Lorde God. And what can David saye more vnto the: for thou, Lord God knowest thy seruant. Euen for thy wordes sake, and accordynge to thine owne hert hast thou done all these grete thynges, to make them knownen vnto thy seruant.

Wherfore thou art grete, O Lorde God: for there is none lyke the: * neythre is there any god save thou, accordynge to all that we haue heard with our eares. * And what one people in the earth is lyke thy people Israel: whose God went & deliuered them, & they myght be his people, and I demyght make hym a name, & to be grete & terrible thynges in the earth, for thy people: which thou ordeinest to be out of Egypt: euen the people with thy goddes. for thou hast ordeyned thy people Israel to be thy people for euer.

And

The viii. Chapter
David overcometh the Philistines.

David setteth all the tribes of Saul, to signify baker the house of Jonathan.

C.M. 10331-

For yha had fyfene sonnes, and twentye seruauntes. Then sayd yha vnto the kyng: Accor-dyng to all y my loude the kyngs hard chynauded his seruauit, so that thy seruauit do. Well (sayd the kyng) Wyllyboletsh shall eate vnto my table, as one of the kynges sonnes. Wyllybo-letsh had a sonne that was yonge named Wicha and all that dwelled in the house of yha were seruauntes vnto Wyllyboletsh. And Wyllyboletsh dwelte in Jerusalem, for he dyd eate euer at the kynges table: and was lame on both his feete.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

The messenger of David set by lapidously enteered at the house of Ammon.

3 Y happened after this, y the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, and hand his sonne reigned in his steede.

Then sayd David: I will shew kind-nesse vnto hand y sonne of Nahas, as his father shewed kindnesse vnto me. And Da-uid sent to comfort him by the hande of his seruau-tes ouer <sup>the death of</sup> his father. And Davids seruauntes came into y land of the chyldren of Ammon, and the lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayde vnto hanon they lord: thynkest y that Dauid doth honour thy father, that he hath sent comfortours to the? hath not Dauid rather sent his seruauites vnto the, to searche the cytye, and to spy it out, and to ouerthrowe it?

4 Wherefore hanon toke Davids seruauites, and waied of the halfe of euery manner beeste, and cut of theyr garments in the myddle, euen harde to the buttockes of them, and sente them a waye. When they tolde it vnto Dauid, he sent to mete them (for they were men exceedingly ashamed) and the kyng sayde: tarpe at Jericho, vntill your herdes be growen, y then retorne.
And when the chyldren of Ammon sawe, that they stanke in the sight of Dauid, they sent and hired the Syrians of the house of Rehob, and the Syrians of ioba twenty thousand foemen, and of kyng Daacha a thousande men, and of Ithob twelue thousand men. And when Dauid hearde of it, he sent Joab y all the host of strong men. And the chyldren of Ammon came out, and waged battayle at the entrynge in of the gate, and the Syrians of iobab, of Rehob, Ithob, y Daacha were by them selues in the felde.

5 When Joab sawe that the fronte of the bat-tayle was agaynst hym, before y after, he chose of all the frech yonge men of Israel, and put the in aray agaynst the Syrians. And the rest of y people he deliuered into the hande of Abisaihis brother, y he myght put them in aray agaynst the chyldren of Ammon. And he sayd: yf the Syrians be stronger then I, thou shalt helpe me.
But yf the chyldren of Ammon be to strong for the, I will come and succoure the. Therfore quyte the lyne a man, and let vs stand by the our people, and for the cyties of oure God. And the Lord bothat wher he is good in hym owne eyes. And Joab proceeded forth, and the people that was with hym to fight with the Syrians.
But they fled before hym. And wher the chyldren of Ammon sawe that y Syrians were fled, then fled they also before Abisai, and entred into the cyyte. And so Joab returned fro the chyldren of Ammon and came to Jerusalem. And when y Syrians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they gathered them together.

And hadarzer sent, and brought out the Syrians that were beyonde the ryuer. And they came with theyr armye, and iobab y captayne of the host of hadarzer, went before them.

And when it was shewed Dauid, he gathered all Israel together, and passed ouer Jordan and came to helam: And the Syrians set them selues in aray agaynst Dauid, and fought with him: y the Syrians fled before Israel. And Da-uid destroyed seuen hundred charettes of the Syrians, y fourtye thousande horsemen, and smote iobab the captayne of theyr host, wherch also dyed there. And when all the kynges (that were seruauntes to hadarzer, sawe y they were put to the worse before Israel, they made peace w them, and serued them. And so the Syrians feared to helpe the chyldren of Ammon any moze.

¶ The .xi. Chapter.

The adouource of David with Bethsabe the wyfe of Urias.

6 As it came to passe, that (after the yeare was expyred) in the tyme wher kynges w to go forth to battayle, Dauid sent Joab and his seruantes with hym, y all Israel, which destroyed the chyldren of Ammon, and besieged Raba. But Dauid tarped byll at Jerusalem. And it chaunced in an eueninge that Da-uid arose oute of his bed, and walked vpon the roofe of the kynges palace, and from the rooffe, he sawe a woman y wasшыng her selfe: and the woman was very beautifull to loke vnto. And he sente to enquire what woman it shoulde be, sayinge: is it not Bethsabe the daughter of E-liam, and wyfe to Urias the hetbite? And Da-uid sent messengers, y fet her. And she cam in vnto him: he laye w her. And <sup>immediatly</sup> she was purified from her uncleannes, and returned vnto her house. And y woman conceyued, and set y told Dauid, y sayd: I am y chyldre. And Dauid sent to Joab (sayinge:) sende me Urias the he-tbite. And Joab let Urias to Dauid. And wher Urias was come vnto him, Dauid demaunded of him how Joab dyd, and how the people fared and how the men of warre prospered. And Da-uid sayde to Urias: goo downe to thyne house, and wash thy feete. And Urias departed oute of the kynges palace, and there folowed him a seruante fro y kynges table. But Urias kept at the dore of

doze of the kynges palae: with all the seruantes of his lord, and wet not downe to his house.

Which when they had tolde Dauid sayinge: Elias went not downe into his house. Dauid sayd vnto Elias: Camest thou not fro thy house? why dydest thou not go downe then vnto thyne house? Elias answered Dauid. The arhe of Israel and Juda dwel in paulions: & my lord Joab and the seruantes of my lord lye vpon the hat earth, and shall I then go into myne house, to eate and drynke, and lye with my wyfe? By thy lyfe, and by the lyfe of thy soule, I will not do this thyng. And Dauid sayde vnto Elias: I carpe here vpon thyngte also, and tomozowe I will let the departe. And so Elias abode in Jerusalem that daye, and the mozowe. And when Dauid had called hym, he dyd eate and drynke before hym, & he made hym drynke. And at euen he went out to lye on his couch with the seruantes of his lord, but wet not downe to his house. On the mozowe Dauid wrote a letter to Joab, and sent it by the hande of Elias. And he wrote thus in the letter, sayinge: put Elias in the forefront of the charper vnto the temple, and come ye backe from hym, that he may be smythen, and dye. So when Joab besieged the cite, he assigned Elias vnto a place, where he wyfte, that stronge men were. And the men of the cite came oute, and fought with Joab. And there were certayn ouerthowen of the people, and of the seruantes of Dauid: and Elias the Hethite dyed also.

Then Joab sente, and tolde Dauid all the thynges concerning the warre, and charged the messenger, sayinge: when thou haste made an ende of telling the matters of this warre vnto the kyng, pfe be begynne to lurne, and say vnto the: wherfore approached ye so nye vnto the cite, when ye dyd thyngte? wyll ye not that they wold hurle and throte from the wall? Who smote Abimelech sonne of Jeroboam? Dyed not a woman cast a peece of a mplystone vpon hym fro of the wall, and he dyed in Thebes? Why wente you nye the wall? Then saye thou: thy seruante Elias the Hethite is deed also.

So the messenger went, & came and the wed Dauid all that Joab had sent hym for: and the messenger sayd vnto Dauid: the men preyed agaynst vs, & came out vnto vs into the felde, & we dyd (with violence) kache vnto them, euen vnto the entring of the gate. And the shoters shot fro the walles vpon thy seruantes, and some of thy kynges seruantes be ded. And thy seruante Elias the Hethite is deed also. And Dauid sayde vnto the messengers: thus shalt thou say vnto Joab: let not the thyng trouble the. For the chauce of warre is byers, and the sword deuoureth one as well as an other: make thy battayle moze stronge, agaynst the cite to ouerthowe it, and se that thou courage Joab. And when the wife of Elias herde that her husbände was deed, she mourned for hym. And when the mourninge was past, Dauid sent & fet her to his house, and she became his wyfe, and bare him a sonne. But this thyng that Dauid dyd, displeased the Lord.

¶ The xii. Chapter.

Dauid is captured for the sin of Uriah.
The child conceived in adultery, dyeth.
After it is shown how.

And the Lord sent Nathan vnto Dauid. And he came vnto hym, and tolde hym: there were two men in one cite, the one rich, and the other poore: the riche man had exceeding many shepe and oxen. But the poore had nothyng, save one litle shepe which he hadde bought, and nourished vp. And it grew vp with hym and with his chyldren also, and dyd eat of his owne meate, and dranke of his owne cuppe and slept in his bosome, and was vnto hym as his daughter. And there came a straunger vnto the riche man. And he coulde not fynde in his herde to take of his owne shepe, and of his owne oxen to drysse for the straunger that was come vnto hym. But toke the poore mans shepe, and dryssed it for the man that was come to hym. And Dauid was exceeding wroth with the man and sayde to Nathan: as surely as the Lord lyueth, the man that hath done this thyng is the chyld of death. He shall restore the lambe fourfold, because he dyd this thyng, and had no pite. And Nathan sayde to Dauid: thou arte the man. Thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: I annoynted the kyng ouer Israel, and ryd the out of the hand of Saul, I gaue the thy masters house, and thy masters wyues into thy bosom, and gaue the the house of Israel, and of Juda, and myght (pfe that had bene to litle) haue gyven the so moche moze. Wherfore then haste thou despyed the comaundement of the Lord, to do wyche dwelle in his syght: thou hast lyed Elias the Hethite with the swerde, and hast taken his wyfe to thy wyfe, and haste slayne hym with the swerde of the chyldren of Ammon.

Now therfore the swerde shall neuer departe fro thyne house, because thou hast despyed me, and taken the wife of Elias the Hethite to be thy wyfe. Wherfore thus sayeth the Lord: behold, I will styre by cupill agaynst the, euen out of thyne owne house, & wil take thy wyues before thyne eyes, & gyue the vnto thy neighbour, & he shall lye with thy wyues in the sight of the sunne. For thou dydest it secretly. But I wil do this thyng before all Israel, & in the open sunne lyght.

And Dauid sayd vnto Nathan: I haue synned agaynst the Lord. And Nathan sayd vnto Dauid: the Lord also hath put away thy syn, thou shalt not dye. Howbeit, because in doinge this dede, thou hast gyue the enemies of the Lord a cause to ryle, the chyld is borne vnto the that surely dye. And Nathan departed vnto his house. And the Lord stroke the chyld of Elias wyfe bare vnto Dauid, and it spekened soze. Dauid therfore besought God for the chyld, and fasted and went in, and laye all nyght vpon the earth. And the elders of his house arose, and went to hym, to take him vp from the earth. But he wold not, neyther dyd he eate meate with them.

And it happened the seven daye, that the chyld dyed. And the seruantes of Dauid durst not tell hym that the chyld was deed. For they sayde: behold, whyle the chyld was yet aliv, we spake vnto hym, and he wolde not hearken vnto oure boyc. Howe will be then were hym selfe of we tell hym that the chyldre is deede. And David se-ing his seruantes whysayng perceyued that the chyldre was deede. And David sayd vnto his seruantes: is the chyldre deede? They sayde: yea.

And David arose from the earth, and washed and annoynted hym selfe, and chaunged his apparel, and came into the house of the Loide, and waiched, and afterwarde came to his owne house, and had that they shoulde set byed before hym, and he byd eate. Then sayd his seruantes vnto hym, what thyng is this, that thou haste done? Thou bydest fast and wepe for a chylder, whyle it was alive, and as soon as it was deede thou bydest eate vp, and eate meate. He sayde: whyle the chyldre was yet alive, I fasted, and wept: for this I thought, who can tell whether God wyll haue mercye on me, that the chyldre maie lyue. * But now seinge he is deede, tober-foze shoulde I fast? Can I bynge hym agayne any moze? I shall go to hym, rather then he shal come agayne to me. And David cōforted Bethsabe his wyfe, and wente in vnto her, and laye with her, & she bare a sonne, and called his name called his name * Jedidia, of the Loide's behalfe.

Joab fought agaynst Raba the cytye of the chyldren of Ammon, and toke the cytye of the kyngdome. And Joab sent messengers to David sayinge: I hau made assaut at Raba, and haue taken the cytye with waters. Now therfore gather the rest of the people together, and besiege the citie, that thou mayest take it, lest I take it, & call it after my name. And David gathered all the people together, and went agaynst Raba, and besieged it, and gate it. * And he toke the kynges crowne from of his heed, whych wayed an hundred weyght of golde, and in it were precious stones. And it was set on Davids heed: & he brought out the spoyle of the cytye in exceedyng great aboundaunce. And he caried out people that was therein, and put them vpon sawes, & vpon yron barowes, and vpon axes of yron, and thrust them into the tyll kynde. Thus byd he to all the cyties of the chyldren of Ammon. And so Da-uid & all the people returned vnto Jerusalem.

The xiii. Chapter.

2 Sam. 13. 1.
2 Sam. 13. 2.

After this chaunced, that Absalom the son of David had a fayre syster, named Thamar, whos Amnon the son of David loved: and he was so foze wrecked he fell synche for the loue of his syster Thamar: for she was a virgin, and he thought it harde for him to haue his purpose of her. But Amnon had a frende called Jonadab, the son of Dimead Davids brother: and Jonadab was a very wyse man. And he sayd vnto hym: how comest thou, that thou being a kynges sonne art thus cōsumed every day? Wyle thou not tel me? Amnon answered hym: I loue Thamar my brother Absaloms syster. Jonadab sayd vnto hym: lape the downe on thy bedde, and make thy selfe synche. And when thy father is come to le the, saye vnto hym: Oh, let my syster Tha-mar come, and geue me meate, & dresse it in my synche, that I maye le it, and eate it of her hande.

And so Amnon laye downe, and made hym selfe synche. And when the kyng was come to le hym, Amnon sayde vnto hym: Oh lette Tha-mar my syster come, and make me a couple of feyters in my synche, that I maye eate of her hande. Then David sent home to Thamar, saying: go now to thy brother Ammons house, and dresse hym meate. So Thamar went to her brother Ammons house, and he was layed downe.
And she toke flour, and made paste, and dresed feyters in his synche, and byd bake them, & toke a platter, and poured them out before hym: but he wolde not eate. And Amnon sayde: haue out all men from me. And they went all out from him.
And Amnon sayde vnto Thamar: bynge the meate into the chābre, that I maye eate of thyne hande. And Thamar toke the feyters, whych she had made, and brought them into the chamber to Amnon her brother: And when she hadde set them before hym to eate, he toke her, & sayde vnto her: come lye with me my syster. And she answered hym: naye my brother, doo not foze me, for there hath no suche thyng be done in Israel: do not thou this abhominacyon. For why-ther shal I be able to go w my shame. And thou shalt be as one of the soles in Israel. O speake vnto the kyng, and he shal not denye me vnto the.

Howbeit, he wolde not hearken vnto her voyce but toke her, and * forced her, and lay with her.
And then Amnon hated her exceedyngly: so that the hate wherewith he hated her, was greater then the loue, whiche he before loved her.

And Amnon sayde vnto her: vp, and gette the hence. She answered hym: thou hast no cause.
This euyl that thou puttest me away, is greater then the other, that thou bydest vnto me.

Reuerthelesse, he wolde not heare her, but called his boye that serued hym, and sayde: put awaye this woman from me, and halte the doze after her. And she had a hyzle of dyuers colours vpon her: for with such were the kynges doughters (that were virgins) appareled. Thā his seruaunte brought her out, & locked the doze after her. And Thamar toke, & put ashes on her heed and rente her gape hyzle that was on her, and layed her hand on her heed, & so went, and as she went, cryed. And Absalō her brother sayd vnto her: hath Amnon thy brother bene w the? Now yet be still my syster: he is thy brother. Let not this thyng geue thyne herte. And so Thamar remayned desolate in her brother Absalōs house.
But when kyng David herde of all these thyngges, he was very wroth. (And he wolde not venge the synche of Amnon bys sonne, for he loved hym, because he was his firstborne.) And Absalom sayde vnto his brother Amnon, neyther good nor badde. Howbeit: Absalom hated Amnon, because he had forced his syster Thamar.

And it happened after two yere, that Absalō had * sheperders in a playne of hazel besyde the trybe of Ephraim, & had all the kynges son-nes

ned, and came to the kyng & sayde: beholde, thy seruauit hath thepsebreers, let the kyng & his seruantes come to thy seruauit: The kyng answered Absalom: nape my sonne. We wyl not go all, no; be chargeable vnto the. And Absalom laye soze vpon hym: howbeit, he wolde not go, but blessed hym. Then sayde Absalom: If thou wylt not come, then let my brother Amnon go with vs. And the kyng answered hym: What nedeth it, that he go with the? But Absalom made such instance, that he let Amnon and all the kynges chyldren go with hym.

Now had Absalom commaunded his yongme sayng: make when Amnon is here is mery wpyne, & when I byd you smyte Amnon, then kyl him: and feare not, haue not I bydden you: beholde therfoze, & play the men. And the yong men of Absalom byd vnto Amnon, euen as Absalom had commaunded. And all the kynges sonnes arose, and euery man gat hym vp vpon his mule, & fled: And it fortuned, & while they were yet in & way, tpynges came to Dauid, saying Absalom hath slayne all the kynges sonnes, & there is none left alyue. The Dauid arose, and tare his garmettes, & laye alonge on the earth, and all his seruantes stode by wth theyr clothes rent. And Jonadab the son of Shimeach Dauids brother answered and sayde: let not my lord suppose & they haue slayne all the yonge men the kynges sonnes, saue Amnon onely is dead. For & hath ben determined in Absaloms mynde, syns he forcerd his sister Thamar. Now therfoze let not my lord the kyng take the thyng so greuouslye, to thynke that all the kynges sonnes are dead, saue Amnon onely is dead.

But Absalom fled. And the yonge man that kept the watche lyfte vp his eyes, & looked. And beholde, there came moche people by a wape, alonge by the hynder part on an hylls syde. And Jonadab sayd vnto the kyng: beholde, & kynges sonnes come. As thy seruante sayde, so it is. And as soone as he had left speakyng, beholde, the kynges sonnes came, and lyfte vp theyr voyces, and wept. The kyng also and all his seruantes wept exceedingly. But Absalom escaped & wēt to Thalmat the sonne of Amihur kyng of Gethur. And Dauid mourned for his son eury day. And so Absalom escaped and went to Gethur, & was there thre yeres. And kyng Dauid despyed to go sooth vnto Absalom: For where as Amnon was dead, he was comforted ouer hym.

The. xliii. Chapter.

Why the wo. Come of the woman of Thihos, Absalom is called agayne.

The sonne of Tharus perceived, & the kynges heere was toward Absalom, and he sent to Thihos, and sette thence a wyse woman, and sayd vnto her: sayne thy selfe to be a mourner, and put on mournynge apparell. And amayne not thy self with oyle. But be as a woman that had longe tyme mourned for some deed body. And come to the kyng, and speake of thy manner vnto hym. And so Joab taught her what she shoulde saye.

And when the woman of Thihos had fallen on her face to the grounde, and done obersaunce, she sayde vnto the kyng: helpe me, O kyng.

The kyng sayde vnto her: what a pite the? She answered: I am a wyddowe, and my husband is dead. And thy handmayde had two sonnes, and they two fought together in the felde (where was noman to go betwene them) but the one smote the other, and slue hym. And beholde, the hole kyndred is ryfen agaynst thyne handmayde, and they sayde: * deliuer vs hym that smote his brother: that we maye kyl hym, for the soule of his brother whome he slue. We wyl destroye the heire also. And so they shall quench my sparkle whiche is left, that he shall spire vp (to my husbände) neither name nor issue vpon the earth. And the kyng sayde vnto & woman: go home to thyne house, I wyl grue a charge for the. And the woman of Thihos sayd vnto the kyng: My lord, O kyng, this trespass be on me, and on my fathers house, and the kyng and his seate be gyltlesse. And the kyng sayde: If any man saye ought vnto the: bynge hym to me, and he shall hurt the nomye. Then sayde she: Let the kyng remember his Loyde God, that the auenger of the bloode gather not on heapes together to destroye, and that they slay not my sonne. And he answered: as sure as the Loyde lyueth, * there shall not on heare of thy sonne fall to the earth.

The woman sayde: let thyne hande mayde speake one worde more with my Lord the kyng. And he sayd: saye on. The woman sayd: wherefoze then haste thou determinede suche a thyng agaynst the people of God? For the kyng doth speake this thyng as one which is faulte, that he shoulde not set home agayne his banyshe. For we must nedes dye, and perlyke as water spyt on the grounde, which cannot be gathered vp agayne. Neyther doth God spare any soule. Let the kyng therfoze fynde the meanes, that his banished be not utterly expelled from him. Now therfoze am I come, to speake of this thyng vnto the kyng my lord. For they that be of & people wyl feare me. And thy handmayde sayde: Now wyl I speake vnto the kyng, peradventure the kyng wyl perfourme the request of his handmayde. And the kyng, that heare his handmayde, to deliuer her out of the hande of & man that wolde haue destroyed me, and also my son out of & heritance of God. And thyne handmayde sayde: the worde of my Loyde the kyng shall now be comfortable. For my lord the kyng is as an adgel of God in hearyng of good and bad therfore the Lorde thy God be to the.

E. v. and bad:

Then the kynge answered, and sayde vnto the woman: hyde not from me (I praye the) the thyng that I shall aske the: And the woman sayde: let my lord be the kynge now saye on. And the kynge sayde: Is not the bande of Joab with the in al this matter? The woman answered, & sayde: as sure as thy soull lyeth my lord kynge there is eis noman (on the ryghte bande nor on y left) but as my lord be the kynge hath spoken, thy seruauant Joab he hadde me, and he put all these wordes in the mouth of thyne handmayde. For to the intent that I shoulde alter my communication, hadd thy seruauant Joab done this thing. And my lord is wylle euen as an Angel of God to vnderstande all thynges that are in the erth. And the kynge sayde vnto Joab: beholde: I am content to do this thyng. So and set home the chyldre Absalom agayne. And Joab fell to the grounde on his face, and bowed hym selfe, and blessed the kynge. And Joab sayd: now thy seruauant knoweth, that I haue found grace in thy syghte (my lord, O kynge) in that the kynge hath fulfilled the request of his seruauant. And so Joab arose, and went to Gethur, and broughte Absalom to Jerusalem. And the kynge sayde: let him turne to his owne house, and not se my face. And so Absalom retourned to his owne house, and sawe not the kynges face.

¶ But in all Israel there was not so goodly a man as Absalom, for he was verie beautifull in somoch that from the sole of his foote to the toppe of his head, there was no blemish in hym. And whil he shaued his head (for at euery yeres ende he shaued it, because the heere was deuy on hym, and must needes shaued it) the heere of his head waped two hundred cycles after the kynges weyght. And this Absalom had thye sones borne hym, and one daughter named Thamar: whiche was a fayre woman to loke vpon. So Absalom dwelt two yeres in Jerusalem, & saue not the kynges face. Therfore Absalom set for Joab, to haue sente hym to the kynge. But he wold not come to hym. And when he set agayne he woulde not come, therfore he sayd vnto his seruantes: beholde, Joab hath a parcel of lade fast by my place, & hath baile therein. So, & set it on fyre. And Absaloms seruantes set it on fyre.

¶ Then Joab arose, and came to Absalom vnto his house, and sayde vnto hym: Wherefore haue thy seruantes buent my selde with fyre? And Absalom answered Joab: beholde, I sette for the, despyng the to come, because I wolde haue sent the to the kynge, for to saye: wherfore am I come from Gethur? It had bene better for me to haue ben there still. Nowe therfore wold I se the kynges face. And yf there be anye trespass in me, kyl thou me. And so Joab came to the kynge, and tolde hym: whiche when he had sent for Absalom, he came to the kynge, and fell to the grounde on his face before hym. And the kynge kyssed Absalom.

¶ The xv. Chapter.

¶ Absalom maketh insurrection agaynst his father, and is slayne by the sword of hym.

After this he fortuneth, that Absalom gat hym chariots & horses, and sprey men to runne before hym. And he arose vnto early in the mornynge, and rode in the place of the entrynge in of the gate. And euery man that had any matter, and came to the kynge for iudgement, hym dyd Absalom call vnto hym, and sayd: of what cite art thou? He answered: thy seruante is of one of the tribes of Israel. And Absalom sayd vnto hym: se the matter is good and ryghteous, but there is no man deputed of the kynge to heare the. Absalom sayd mozeouer: O that I were made iudge in the lande, that euery man which hath any ple and matter in the lawe, myght come to me, and that I myght do hym iustice. And when anye man came nye to hym, and dyd hym obeylaunce, he put forth his hand and toke hym to hym, and kyssed hym. And on this maner dyd Absalom to all Israel, that came to the kynge for iudgement: and he stole the hertes of the me of Israel. And after fourtye yeres it fortuneth, that Absalom sayd vnto the kynge: let me go nowe to hebron, and paye my vowe which I haue vowed vnto the Lorde, for thy seruante vowed a vow (when I was in Gethur, in the lande of Siria) sayinge: Yf the Lorde shall byynge me agayne from Jerusalem, I wyll serue the Lorde. And the kynge sayd vnto hym: go in peace. And so he arose, and went to hebron.

¶ But Absalom sent spyes thorowout all the trybes of Israel, sayinge: as soone as ye heare the voyce of the trumpet blowe, ye shall saye: Absalom raygneth kynge in hebron. And with Absalom went two hundred men out of Jerusalem, that were called. And they wente with pure hertes, not knowynge of any thyng. And Absalom sent also for Ahithophel the Gilonite Dauids counsailer, that he shoulde come out of his cite Silo, whyle he offered sacrifices. And there was wroughed stronge treason. For the people wente, and entreated with Absalom in multitude. And there came a messenger to David, and sayd: the hertes of the men of Israel are turned after Absalom. And David sayde vnto all his seruantes that were with hym at Jerusalem: by, that we maye be gone, for we shal not els escape from Absalom. Make speede, to departe, lest he come sodaynly & catche vs, & bringe some mischefe vnto vs, & smyte the cite with y edge of the sword. And thynge seruantes said vnto him: beholde, thy seruantes are redy to do what soeuer my lord the kynge shall appoynt.

¶ And the kynge and all his household, departed on fote, and left behynde hym: ten concubines to kepe the house. And so the kynge and all the people went out on fote, & tarped in a place that was a farr of. And all his seruantes went aboute hym. And all the Gethites and all the phelethites and al the Gethites (euen fyre hundred men which were come on fote from Geth) went before the kynge. The sayd the kynge to: Jethai the Gethite: wherfore comest smallest thou with vs: Returne & abyde with the kyng, for thou art a straunger, and arte remoued from thyne owne place. Thou cameste but yesterdays, and shouldest I disquiete the to daye to go with vs? I wyl go whither I can. Therfore retourne thou, and carie agayne thy brethren. Werye and true.

¶ And Ithai answered the kyng, & sayd: as truly as God liueth, and as my lord the kyng lyueth, in what place my lord the kyng shalbe whether in death or lyfe, euen there also wil I be. And Dauid the kyng sayde to Ithai: come then, and goo forwarde. And Ithai the Gethite went forth, and all his men, and all the chyldren that were wth hym. And all the countrey wepte with a loude voyce, and so dyd all the people that went forth. The kyng also hym selfe passed ouer the brooke kyrdon. And all the people went toward the waye that leadech to the wilderness. And Sadok and all the Leuytes were with hym, and bare the arche of the appoyntemente of God. And there they set downe the arche of God: And Abiathar wyl vp vntyll the people were all come ouer, out of the cytie. And the kyng sayde vnto Sadok: Carie the arche of God agayne into the citie. Yf I shal fynde fauoure in the eyes of the Lorde, he wylle bring me agayne, and shewe me both it and the tabernacle therof. But if the Lorde thus saye I haue no lust vnto the, beholde, here am I: let hym do with me, what semeth good in his eyes.

¶ The kyng sayd also vnto Sadok the priesst: Art not thou a * leaue? Returne into the cytie in peace: and take your two sonnes with you, Abiamaaz thy sonne, and Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar. Beholde, I wyl tarie in the felde of wilderness, vntyll there come some worde fro you to be tolde me. Sadok therfore and Abiathar caried the arche of God agayne to Ierusalem, and they taried there. And Dauid wente vpon mount Oliuet, and wept as he went, and had his head couered, and went barefoote. And all the people that was with hym had euery mā his heade couered, and as they went vp, they wept also. And one tolde Dauid, sayinge: Abithophel is one of them that haue chyspyed with Abisalom. And Dauid sayd: O Lorde turne the counsaile of Abithophel into foolysnesse.

¶ When Dauid was come to the toppe of the mount he worshypped God: and behold, Husai the Archite came agaynst hym wth his coote tozue, and hauinge earth vpon his head. Vnto whome Dauid sayde: yf thou go with me, thou shalt be a burthe vnto me. But yf thou returne to the citie, and saye vnto Abisalom: I wyl be thy seruante, O kyng: (as I haue this longe ben thy fathers seruante, so am I now thy seruante) thou mayest for my sake destroye the counsaile of * Abithophel. And thou hast there with the Sadok and Abiathar the priesstes, vnto whom thou shalt shewe all that thou canst heare out of the kynges house. And behold, they haue there with them their two sonnes, Abiamaaz Sadoks sonne, and Jonathas Abiathars son: by them also shalt ye sende me al that ye can heare

And so * Husai Dauids frende gat hym to the cytie. And Abisalom also entered into Ierusalem.

The xvi. Chapter.

¶ This chapter sheweth howe Dauid was pursued by his sonne Abisalom, and howe he was rescued by Husai the Archite.

¶ Now when Dauid was a litle past the toppe of the hyll: beholde, Abithophel the seruant of Abithophel came to mete hym, with a couple of asseyes saddled, and vpon them two hundre bowes, and one hundre bowches of reysynges, and an hundre clusters of dyed rynges, and a battell of wyne. And the kyng sayd vnto Abithophel: what meanest thou with these? And Abithophel sayd: They be asses for the kynges household to ryde on, and byade and frute for the yonge men to eat, and wyne, that suche as be fayne in the wilderness may dync. And the kyng sayde: where is thy masters sonne? Abithophel answered vnto the kyng: beholde, he tarieth yet at Ierusalem. For he sayd: this daye shall the house of Israel restore me the kyngdome of my father: then sayd the kyng to Abithophel: beholde, thyne are all that pertayned vnto * Abithophel. And Abithophel sayde: I do homage to the: I beseeche the, that I maye fynde grace in thy sight my lord, O kyng.

¶ And when kyng Dauid came to Bahurim beholde, then came out a man of the kynred of the house of Saul, named * Semai the sonne of Gera. and he came out cursyng. And he cast stones at Dauid, and at all the seruantes of kyng Dauid. And all the people also, and all the men of warre were on his ryghte hande, and on his lefte. And thus sayde * Semai when he cursed: come forth, come forth thou bloodshedder: and thou man of Belial. The Lorde hath brought vpon the all the bloode of the house of Saul, in whose steade thou hast raygned, and the Lorde hath deliuered the kyngdome into the hande of Abisalom thy sonne. And behold, thou art come to thy myschance, because thou art a bloodshedder.

¶ Then sayde Abisalom the sonne of Zaria vnto the kyng: why doest this dead dogge curse my lord the kyng? let me go now and take of the head of hym. And the kyng sayd: what haue I to do with you, ye sonnes of Zaria: let him curse: for the Lorde hath bydden hym curse Dauid.

¶ Who darre then saye: wherfore hast thou done so? And Dauid sayd to Abisalom, and to all his seruantes beholde, my sonne which came of myne owne bodie, seeketh my lyfe. how canne he more then make this sonne of Zaria doo it? Suffre hym to curse, * for the Lorde hath bydden hym: happely the Lorde wyl loke on my wepyng eyes and wretchednesse, and do me good for this cursyng this daye. And as Dauid and his men went by the waye, Semai went alonge on the hylls syde ouer agaynst hym, and cursed as he went, and threw stones at hym, and cast dust. And the kyng and al that were with him came werye, and refreshed them selues there.

¶ And Abisalom and all the people of the mt of Israel came to Ierusalem, and Abithophel was with hym

St. B. 11. 11.

And as soone as Husai the Archite Dauid's friend was come vnto Absalom, he sayd vnto hym: God saue the kynge, God saue the kynge. And Absalom sayd agayne to Husai: is this the kyndenesse thou owest to the kynge? Will thy witte tell thou not with hym? Husai answered vnto Absalom: naye not so: but whome the Lord & this people and all the men of Israel chuse, wyll I be, and whome they wyll I wyll. Wherefore, vnto what shal I do? I am a stranger here, and I am a sonner. And as I was seruante before the kyng, so shal I be with the. The kyng Absalom to Ahithophel gyue counsell what is best for vs to do. And Ahithophel said vnto Absalom get the in vnto thy fathers concubines, which he hath left to kepe his house. And all Israel shal heare, that thou arte cast out of thy father: then shal the handes of al that are with the be stryde. And so they pyched Absalom a tente vpon the toppe of the house. And he went in vnto his fathers concubines in the sight of all Israel.

And the counsaile of Ahithophel which he counsailed in those dayes, was as a man had asked counsaile of God: euen so was all the counsaile of Ahithophel, both with Dauid and with Absalom.

The xlii. Chapter.

Ahithophel sought by counsaile to slay Dauid of Husai, and for that, hanged hym selfe.

Ahithophel sayde to Absalom: let me chuse out nowetwelve men. And I wyll vpon a solow after Dauid this nyght, & I wyll come vpon him whyle he is weyry & weake hadded, and wyll slea hym, and all the people that are with him shal slea. And so I wyll smyte the kyng only, & wyll bring agayne al the people vnto the, euen as causely as yt I wolde bring any other thyng. And when I haue slayne the man whom thou sekest, al the people shal haue reste. And the sayinge pleased Absalom wel, and all the elders of Israel. The kyng Absalom: cal also Husai the Archite, and let vs heare his counsaile. When Husai was come to Absalom, Absalom spake vnto hym, saying: Ahithophel hath gyuen such counsaile: shal we do after his saying, or no? tell thou.

Husai answered vnto Absalom, the counsaile that Ahithophel hath gyuen, is not good at this tyme: For (sayde Husai) thou knowest thy father, and his men, how that they be strong. And they be chafed in theyr mynde, and are euen as a beere robbed of her whelkes in the feld. Thy father is a man also practysed in the warre, and maketh no carpyng with the people. Wholde, he lurketh now in some caue, or in some other, (stronger) place. And though some of his men be ouertaken at the first bynnte: yet they that beare it wyll saye: The people that folowe Absalom be put to the worse. And the best men thou hast whose bettes are as the bettes of yds, shal theynne thereat. For all Israel knoweth, that thy father is a myghty man, and they whiche be with hym, are all men of warre.

Therefore my counsaile is, that all Israel be gathered vnto the, first vnto Bethleha (which are as the sande of the sea in number) and that thou go to battayle in thine owne person. For so shal we come vpon him in one place or other, where we shal fynde hym, and we wyll vpon hym euen as thicke as the dewe falleth on the ground. And of all the men that are with hym, we shal not leaue hym one. Moreover, yf he be gotten in to a towne, then shal al the men of Israel bring ropes to that cytie, & we wyll drawe it into the ryuer, vntill there be not one stone found there. And Absalom & all the men of Israel sayd: the counsaile of Husai the Archite is better, then the counsaile of Ahithophel. For it was euen the Lordes determinacion to destroye the good counsaile of Ahithophel: for the Lord myghte bringe euill vpon Absalom. The kyng Dauid vnto Zadok & Abiathar the prestes: of this and of maner byd Ahithophel and the elders of Israel counsaile Absalom. And thus & thus haue I counsailed. Now therefore send quychly, and let we Dauid, saying: saye not al nyght in the feldes of the wyldernesse, but get the ouer, least the kyng be deuoured and all the people that are with hym. Now Jonathas and Ahimaaz abode by the well of Rogel: (for they myght not be seene to come into the cytie.) And a wenche wente, and tolde them. And they wet and thewed hym Dauid.

Nevertheless, a lad sawe them, and tolde it to Absalom. But they went both of them a waye quychly, and came to a mans house in Bahurim, whiche had a well in his yerde, into the whiche they went downe. And a womā toke and spred a couerlet ouer the welles mouth, and strowed furmentye corne thereon. And the chynge was not espyed. And whē Absalom's seruantes came to the wyfe to the house, they sayde: Where is Ahimaaz & Jonathas? The woman answered them: they be gone ouer the lytle brooke of water. And when they had sought them, and could not fynde them, they returned to Jerusalem. And as soone as they were departed, the other came out of the well, and went and tolde hym Dauid, and sayde vnto hym: vp, and get thou quychly ouer the water, for such counsell hath Ahithophel gyuen agaynst you: Then Dauid arose, and all the people that were with hym, & they were comynge ouer Jordan by that it was daye: so that there lacked not one of them, that was not come ouer Jordan. And when Ahithophel sawe, that his counsaile was not folowed, he saddled his asse, and arose, and gat him home to his owne house, and to his owne cytie, & put his household in orde, and hanged hym selfe, & dyed, & was buryed in the sepulture of his father.

Then Dauid came to Mahanaim. And Absalom passed ouer Jordan, he and all the men of Israel with hym. And Absalom made Amasa captayne of the host in the stede of Joab, whiche Amasa was a mannes sonne named Iethra an Israelite, that went into Abigail the daughter of Nabal, syster to Zeruia, Joabs mother. So Israel and Absalom pyched in the land of Gilead. And when Dauid was come to Mahanaim, Abiathar the sonne of Ahias out of the cytie of the chydys of Ammon, and Achis the the sonne of Amiel out of Lodher. and * Serzelai & Gleadite out of Rogli broughte beddes, basens, erthe vessels, wheat and barley flour, and parched come, beanes, rye, oilnele honp, butter, wepe, and chele of kyne, for dauid and all the people that were with hym, to ease for they sayde: the people is hungry, weep and they ste in the wyldernesse.

Che. xviij. Chapter.

Abisai is overcome in battayle. He is hangen by the tree in an oke. He is kylled and put in a diche. Dauid is so comforted for the death of Absalom, he weepeth.

And Dauid nombred the people that were with him, and set captaynes of thousandes & of hundredes ouer them.
 And Dauid sent forth the thyrde part of the people vnder the hande of Joab, and an other part vnder the hande of Abisai the sonne of serua Joabs brother, and the other thyrde parte vnder the hand of Ittai the Gethite. And the kyng sayd vnto the people: I wyl go with you also. And the people answered. Thou shalt not goo for the: for yf we slye, oure aduersaries wyl not care for vs: neyther shall they regarde vs though halfe of vs were slayne: but thou art worth ten thousande of vs: wherefore it is better, that thou succoure vs out of the cytie. And the kyng sayde vnto them: What semeth you best, that I wyl do.

And the kyng rode by the gate syde, and al the people came out by hundredes and by thousandes, and the kyng commaunded Joab and Abisai, and Ittai, sayinge: entreate the yong man Absalom gently for my sake. And al þe people herde that the kyng gaue all the captaynes charge concernyng Absalom. And so the people went oute in the felde agaynst Israel, and the battayle was in the wood of Ephraim: where the people of Israel were put to the worse before the seruautes of Dauid, and there was a great slaughter that day, euen of twentye thousandemen. For the felde was foughte there in byners places, all abyode vpon the earth. And the wood deuoured mo people that day the dyd the swerde. And Absalom came before the ser-uautes of Dauid, rydying vpon a mule, whiche carped hym vnder the thyeche bowes of a greute oke. And his hed was caught of the oke, and he was lyfte vp betwene heauen and earthe: and the mule that was vnder hym went his waye.
 And one that sawe it tolde Joab, sayinge: Be-holde, I sawe Absalom hange in an Oke, and Joab sayde vnto the man that tolde hym: Yf thou dydest se hym, why dydest not thou ther smyte hym to the ground, and I wold haue gyuen the ten sheles of syluer, and a gyrdle.

The man sayd vnto Joab: though thou wol-dest lape a thousande sheles of syluer in myne hande, yet wolde I not stretche out myne hand agaynst the kynges sonne. For we herde with oure eares, when the kyng charged the, and A-bisai, and Ittai, sayinge: Beware, that none touchethe the yonge man Absalom. Where ouer, yf I had done it, I woulde haue done agaynst myne owne lyfe: for there is no matter yd fro the kyng: yea, and thou thy selfe woldest haue bene agaynst me. Then sayd Joab: I maye not stande thus tarynge with the.

And he toke foure speares in his hande, and thrust them thorow Absalom, while he was yet alpye on the body of þe tree. And ten seruates that bare Joabs weapons, touned & smote Absalom, and slue hym. And when Joab blew the troppe, the people returned from folowynge Israel. For Joab spared the people. And they toke Absalom, and cast him into a great pyt in the wood, and layed a myghty grete heape of stones vpo hym. And all Israel fled to thyr cities.

And thus Absalom yet in his lyfe tyme: & toke con-sayle: & reaced vpo a pyller, whiche is in kynges dale. For he sayde: I haue no son. And therefore, to kepe my name in remembrance do I it. And he called the pyller after hys owne name. And it is called vnto this daye: Absaloms pyller.

Then sayde Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock: let me runne now, and beare the kyng tidinges howe that the Lorde hath iudged hym quyte of the hande of his enemyes. And Joab sayd vnto hym: thou art no man to beare good tydynge to day: thou shalt beare tydynge an other tyme but to daye thou shalt beare none: bycause the kynges sone is dech. Then sayd Joab to Chusi: Soo, and tell the kyng, what thou hast seene.

And Chusi bowed hym selfe vnto Joab, and ranne. Then said Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadoc agayne to Joab: come what come wyl, let me also runne after Chusi. And Joab sayd: Wherefore wylt thou runne my sonne: seing that for þe tydynge thou shalt haue no reward: wel sayd he: come what wyl, let me runne. He sayde vnto him: runne. Then Ahimaaz ranne by the plaine waye, and came before Chusi.

And Dauid sat betwene the two gates. And the watcheman wente vp to the rooke ouer the gate vnto the wall, and lyfte vp hys eyes, and sawe, and beholde, there came a man runnyng alone. And the watcheman cryed, and tolde the kyng. And the kyng said: yf he be alone, there is good tydynge in his mouth. And he came, & drew nepe. And the watcheman sawe an other man runnyng, and he called vnto the poster, and sayde: beholde, there cometh an other marunnyng alone. And the kyng sayd: he is also a tydynge beynger. And the watche man sayd me thynketh the runnyng of the formost is like the runnyng of Ahimaaz the sonne of Sadock.
 The kyng sayd: he is a good man, and cometh with good tydynge. And Ahimaaz called, and sayd vnto the kyng: good tydynge, and he fel downe flat to the earth vpon his face before the kyng, and saide: blessed be the Lorde thy God, which hath thus vpo the men that lyfte vp theyr handes agaynst my lord the kyng. And the kyng sayde: Is the yonge man Absalom safe?
 Ahimaaz answered: when Joab sent (Chusi) the kynges seruaunte, and me thy seruaunte, I sawe moche ado: But I wot not what it was.
 And the kyng sayd vnto hym: turne, and stand here. And he turned, and stode still.

And beholde, Chusi came also, and sayde: Good tydynge my lord the kyng, for þe Lorde hath quyte

both quite the this daye out of the hande of all them that rose agaynst the. And the kynge sayd vnto Chusi: Is he yonger man Absalom late? Chusi answered: The enemyes of my lord the kynge, and all that rise agaynst the to doo the hurte, be as that yonger man is. And the kynge was moued, and went vnto a chamber ouer the gate, and wept. And as he went, thus he sayde: O my sonne Absalom, my sonne, my sonne Absalom, wolde God I had dyed for the: O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

¶ The xix. Chapter.

David is returned to his kingdom and brought againe to Ierusalem.

And it was tolde Joab: Beholde, the kynge mourneth and wepeth for Absalom. And the vycroiy of that daye was turned into mourning vnto all the people. For the people hearde saye that day howe the kynge sojowed for his soue. And the people stode awake that daye from goinge into the cite, as people confounded to steale awape when they slepe in battayle. But the kynge byd his face, and cryed with a loude voyce. O my sonne Absalom, O Absalom my sonne, my sonne.

And Joab came into the house to the kynge and said: thou hast shamed this daye the faces of all thy seruantes, which this daye haue laued thy lyfe, & the lyues of thy sones & of thy daughters, & the lyues of thy wyues, & of thy concubines, in þ thou louest thyne enemies, & hatest thy frendes. For thou hast declared this day, þ thou regardest neither the lordes nor seruantes. And this daye I perceyue, þ yf Absalom had liued, & all we had dyed this daye, þ had pleased the wel. Now therefore by, & come out, and speake kindly vnto thy seruantes: For I sweare by þ lord, excepte thou come out, there wyll not tarpe one man with þ this night. And that wyll be worse vnto the, then all the euyl þ fell on the from thy youth vnto this houre. Then the kynge arose, & sat downe in the gate. And they tolde vnto all the people, saying: Beholde, the kynge doth sit in the gate. And all the people came before the kynge. But Israel fled euery man to his tent.

C And it fortuned, that all the people were at stryfe the whole out all the trybes of Israel, saying: the kynge laued vs out of the hand of oure enemies, he deliuered vs out of the hand of the Philistines, and now he is fled out of the lande for Absalom. But Absalom whom we anoynted ouer vs is dead in battayle. Therefore why are ye so still, þ ye bypunge not the kynge agayne? And kynge David sent to Zadok & Abiathar þ priestes, saying: Speake vnto the elders of Iuda and saye: why are ye behynd to bypung the kynge agayne to his house, seing that such a bypunges is come from all Israel vnto the kynge, euen to his house? (For the kynge had sayde: I wold I had the people of Iuda.) Pe are my brethren, my bones and my flesh: wherfore then are ye the last þ bypunge the kynge home agayne? And say ye to Amala: art thou not of my bones & of my flesh? God do so & so to me, yf thou be not captayn of the hoste to me for euer in the counse of Joab.

And he bowed þ berres of al þ men of Iuda, tye as the best of one man: so þ they sent this woide to þ kynge: Returne thou to all thy seruantes. So the kynge returned, & came to Iordan. And Iuda came to Gual, for to go downe to mete the kynge, & to charye hym ouer Iordan. And Amiel the sonne of Sera, þ son of Jemini, wyded was of Sadurim, hasted and came with þ men of Iuda to mete kynge David, and there were a thousand men of Ben Jamin with him, and Jiba the seruante of þ house of Saul, and his xv. sones and twente seruantes with hym. And they went quychly ouer Iordan before þ kynge. And there went ouer a boze that carped ouer þ kynges householde, and they dyd hym pleasure.

And Simai the sonne of Sera, fell before the kynge (as he was comouer Iordan) and sayde vnto hym: let not my lord impute wychednes vnto me, nor remembre the thynges that thy seruante dyd wychedly when my lord the kynge departed out of Ierusalem, that the king wold take it to bert. For thy seruante doeth knowe: how that I haue done amysse. And therefore beholde, I am the first this daye of al the house of Ioseph, that am come to go downe, to mete my lord the kynge. But Abisai the sone of Neria answered, and sayde: Shall not Semai dye for this, because he cursed the Lordes anoynted? And David sayd: what matter is betwene you and me, ye sonnes of Neria? For this daye ye be aduersaries vnto me. What there any man dye this daye in Israel? Doo not I knowe, that I am this daye kynge ouer Israel? And therefore the kynge sayd vnto Semai: thou shalte not dye and the kynge swore vnto hym.

And Hiphiboseth the sone of Saul came also to mete the kynge, and had neyther washed his feet, nor shauen his bearde, nor washed his clothes from the tyme the kynge departed, vntill he came agayne in peace. And it fortuned, þ when he was come to Ierusalem, and met þ king the kynge sayd vnto him: wherfore wentest thou with me Hiphiboseth? he answered my lord, O kynge, my seruante disceyued me. For thy seruante sayd: I wolde haue myne asse saddled to ryde thereon, for to go to the king, because thy seruante is lame. And Jiba hath falsly reported of thy seruante vnto my lord the kynge. And my lord the kynge is as an angel of God do therefore what semeth good in thyne eyes. For all my fathers house were but dead men before my lord þ kynge, and yet dydest thou put thy seruante among them þ did eat at thyne owne table. What ryght therefore haue I yet, to crye any more vnto the kynge. And the kynge sayde vnto him: why speakest thou yet in thyne owne cause? (As it is decreyned, that) I haue sayd: thou & Jiba deuyde the lande betwene you. And Hiphiboseth sayd vnto the kynge: yea, let him take all: for so moche as my lord the kynge is come agayne in peace vnto his owne house.

And Bersai the Giliadite came downe fro Rogitim, and wente ouer Iordan to the kynge, to charye hym ouer Iordan. Bersai was a very aged man, euen fourescore yere olde, & ppyoued the

¶ The kyng of Iustinaunce, while he laye at Gethsemani: for he was a man of verie greete subdanee. And the kyng sayd vnto Berseiai: come thou with me, and I will leade the with me in Ierusalem. And Berseiai sayd vnto the kyng: I am thus olde, and howe am I able to go vnto the kyng vnto Ierusalem? I am this day fourescore yere olde: and can I decerne betwene good or euill? hath thy seruante any taste in that he eateth or drynketh? Can he heare any moze the voyce of Iynge men and women? wherfore shouldest thou seruante be yet a burthen vnto my lord the kyng? Thy seruante wyl go a lytle waye ouer Iordan with þy kyng and why wyl the kyng recompence it me with suche a rewarde? ¶ Let thy seruante turne backe agayne, that I maye dye in myne owne cite, and be buried in the graue of my father and of my mother. Beholde, here is thy seruante Chimameam, let hym go with my lord the kyng, and do to hym what shall please the.

¶ And the kyng answered: Chimameam shal go with me. And I wyl do to hym that thou shalt be content with. And whersoever thou shalt requyre of me, that same wyl I do for the. And all the people went ouer Iordan. And when þing was come ouer Iordan, he kissed Berseiai, and blessed hym, and he went backe agayne vnto his owne place. And then þy kyng went to Gilgal, and Chimameam went with hym, and so dyd all the people of Iuda, and brought ouer the kyng, and there were but halfe the men of Israel.

¶ And behold, all the men of Israel came to þy kyng, and said vnto hym: why haue our brithers þy men of Iuda stolen the away, & haue brought the kyng & his household, and all Dauides men to hym ouer Iordan? And all the men of Iuda answered þy men of Israel the kyng is nere of kyn to vs: wherfore be ye angry for þy mater? thinke ye þy we rate of the kynges cost, or þy we take vs any gyftes? And þy men of Israel answered the men of Iuda, & sayde: we haue ten partes in the kyng, & haue thereto moze ryghe to Dauid then ye. Althow the dyd ye despise vs, that our aduysers shuld not be fyrst had, in restoring our kyng a gayner? And the wordes of þy men of Iuda were clearer then the wordes of the men of Israel.

¶ The .xx. Chapter.

¶ Seba the sonne of Bichai rayled against Dauid: Joab kyllerh Amasa traynously the head of Seba is beynge red to Joab: Dauides wyfues are numbred.

¶ When there came thither a certayne man of Belial (named Seba the sonne of Bichai, a man of Gemin) he blew a troy-per, & sayde: we haue no part in Dauid, neither haue we inheritaunce in the sonne of Iai, let the men of Israel depart vnto thei: sentes. And so euery man of Israel went from Dauid & folowed Seba the sonne of Bichai. But the men of Iuda claued fast vnto thei: kyng, from Iordan to Ierusalem. And Dauid came to his house to Ierusalem, & he toke the ten women his concubines, & he had left behinde hym to kepe the house, and put them in ward, and fedde them: but lape no moze with them. And so they were enclosed vnto the day of their death, lpyung in wyddowhed.

¶ Then sayde the kyng to Amasa: cal me the men of Iuda together agaynst the thei: dape and be thou here also. And so Amasa wote to gather the men of Iuda together: but tarped longer the thei: tyme which he had appoynted hym. And Dauid sayd to Abisai: now what Seba the sonne of Bichai do vs moze harme, the dyd Abisai. Take thou thereto thei: loydes seruantes and folowe after hym, lest he get hym walled cities, and escape vs. And there went out after hym Joabs me, and the Crethites & the Iherlemites, and all the myghtyest men. And they departed out of Ierusalem, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichai. And whyle they were at the great stone in Sibeon, Amasa went before thei. And Joabs garmente (that he had about hym) was gyrded vnto hym, and he had gyrded theron a knyfe, which was gyrded fast to his loynes in such a wyse, that (as he went) it fel sometimes out. And Joab said to Amasa: art thou in helyth my brother? And Joab toke Amasa by the chin with the ryght hand to kysse hym. But Amasa toke no heed to the knyfe that was in Joabs hand, for therewith he smote hym in the horte ryddes, and shed out his bowels to the ground, and thrust at hym no moze and he dyed.

¶ And Joab & Abisai his brother folowed after Seba þy son of Bichai: & one of Joabs men stode by him, & sayd: he þy beareth any fauour to Joab or good wyll to Dauid, let hym go after Joab. And Amasa laye wallowed in bloode in þy myddes of þy way. And there was a ma which when he sawe & þy all the people stode styll, he rowled Amasa out of þy way into the feild, & cast a cloth vnto hym, because he sawe that euery one þy cam stode styll by hym. And alsoone as he was tombed oute of the waye, all the people went after Joab, to folowe after Seba the sonne of Bichai.

¶ And he went thowhe all the tribes of Israel vnto Abel, and Bethmaacha and al the places of Barim. And they gathered together, & went after hym. And they came, and belleged hym in Abel, and Bethmaacha. And they caste vp a banke agaynst the cite that stode in the valley. All þy people that was with Joab, thrust at the wal to ouerthrowe it. Thei cryed a wyfe woma out of þy cite: heare, heare, byd Joab come hither & I may speake w hym. When Joab was come vnto her, þy woman said vnto hym. Art not thou Joab? And he answered, I am. And she sayde to hym: heare the wordes of thyne handmayde. And he answered: I do heare: & she sayd agayne: They spake in the olde tyme, saying: men must aske after peace is set, how moche rather shulde they do so? I beleve so have they continued (hitherto): I am one of them, that are peaceable and lawfull in Israel: and then goest about to destroy a cytie and a mother in Israel. Why wilt thou devour the inheritance of the Lord?

And Joab answered, and sayd: God forbid, God forbid it me, that I shulde cry her down by the sword. The matter is not so: but a man of mount Ephraim (Siba the sonne of Achish by name) hath lyft up his hand agaynst thy kyng, and agaynst David. Deliver vs him onely, & I wyl depart from the cytie. And a woman sayd vnto Joab: Beholde, his heed shalbe throwen to the outre the wall. And then the woman wente vnto all the people wher he dwelt. And they smote of the heed of Siba the son of Achish, and cast it out to Joab. And he blew a trumpet, and they scattered fro the cytie, every man to his tent. And Joab returned to Jerusalem vnto the kyng.

Joab was over all the hoste of Israel. And Banaia the son of Jehoiada was over the Cretians and Phelistians. And Aburam was over the tribute. And Jehoiaphat the sonne of Achish was recorder. Senua was scribe. And Sadock and Abiathar were the prestes. And Ira the Jaser was Davids prest.

The. xxi. Chapter.

The bones of Saul. The vengeance of the synners of Saul lynged on his sonnes, which are hanged. Some greates baptistes which David had agaynst the Philistines.

When there fell an hungre in the dayes of David, they peares together. And David enquired of the Lord. And the Lord answered: it is for Saul, and for house of blond, because he slue the *Gibaonites.
And the kyng called the Gibaonites, and sayde vnto the: Now (if Gibaonites were not of the *chylidren of Israel, but a remnant of the Amorites, and the chylidren of Israel swore vnto them:
And Saul sought to slay the: for a zeile that he had to the chylidren of Israel & of Juda. Wherefore David sayd vnto them: what shal I do for you, & wherewith shal I make the attonement for me, that I maye blesse the inheritance of the Lord?

The Gibaonites answered him: We wyl have no sylver, nor golde, of Sauls nor of his house: neyther is it our mynde that thou shouldest kill any man in Israel. He sayd: what saye then? What do for you? They answered saying the man that consumed vs & imagined to byng vs to nought, him wyl we destroy, that nought of him continue in any of the costes of Israel. Let seven men of his sonnes be delivered vnto vs, and we wyl hange them vp vnto the Lord, in Gibeah of Saul, whom the Lord dyd chose.
And the kyng sayde: I wyl gyve them you.

But the kyng had compassion on Giphtho seth the sonne of Jonathan the sonne of Saul, because of the Lordes othe, that was betwene them: even betwene David and Jonathan the sonne of Saul. So he toke the two sonnes of Rizpa the daughter of Aia (whom he bare vnto Saul) even Armoni and Chimholoth, and the fyve sonnes of Michol (the daughter of Saul) whom she bare to Abiel the sonne of Nerai, the Gheolathite. And he delivered them vnto the handes of the Gibeonites, whiche hanged the in the hill before the Lord. And they fell all together, and were slayn in the dayes of hauell: eue in the first dayes, and in the begyn-nyng of barley harvest.

And Rizpa the daughter of Aia toke sackcloth & hanged it vp for them vpon the rocke, euen fro the begynnyng of harvest, vntill rayne dropped vpon the out of heauen, & suffered neyther & by-des of the ayre to fall on them by day, nor bedes of the seide by nyght. And it was tolde David, what Rizpa the daughter of Aia the concubine of Saul had done, & David wyl & toke the bones of Saul & of Jonathan his sonne from the men of Jabes in Gilead (which had stollen them from the strete of Bethlan wher the Philistines had hanged them when the Philistines had slayne Saul in Giboa.

And he broughte thence the boones of Saul and the bones of Jonathan his sonne, and they toke vp the boones of them that were hanged.
And the bones of Saul and Jonathan his sonne buried they in the countrey of Ben Jamin in ze-la, in the sepulchre of Cis his father. And when they had performed all that the kyng comma-ded, God was then at one with the lande.

It fortuned, that the Philistines had yet war agayn with Israel. And David went downe, and his seruantes wyth hym, and foughte a-gayn the Philistines. And David wared sam-ite, and Isby of Abob one of the sonnes of the giauntes (the yron of whose speare wayed thye hūdred scyles, and he beinge gyrded with a newe sword) thought to haue slayne David. But Abilai the sonne of zarua succoured hym, and smote the Philistine, and killed hym. Then the seruantes of David swore vnto hym saying: Thou shalt go no more out with vs to battayl that thou quenche not the lyght of Israel. And yet after this, there was a battayle w the Philistines at Abob, and then Sibebechai the husathite slue Sapp, whych was one of the sonnes of the Gyauntes.

And there was yet an other battayl in: God with the Philistines, where Elhanan the sonne of Jaere Ogim, a Bethlehemite slue one Solia a Gethite: the staffe of whose speare was as greate as a weauers cloth beame.

And there was yet an other battayl in Geth where was a man of a great stature, and had on every hand. vi. fingers, & on every fote. vi. toes, xxiii. in all. And was borne also of a mayde of the gyauntes of Geth. And when he defyed Israel, Jonathan the sonne of Simeon the brother of David slue him. These foure gyauntes were borne in Geth, and fel into the hande of David and into the handes of his seruantes.

* I wyl cal on the Lorde which is my strength, and so shal I be saued from myne enemies. For the corruptions of death closed me aboute: the foudes of Belial put me in feare. The sorowes of hell compassed me aboute: the snares of death ouertoke me. In my tribulation wyl I call vpon the Lorde, and crye to my God. And he shall heare my voyce out of hys temple, and my crye shall enter into his eares. The earth trembled and quaked: the foundacions of heauen moved and shoke, when he was angry.

¶ Simohe went vp in his wrath, & consuming fyre out of his mouth, coles were kindled thereof. And he bowed heauē, & came downe, & there was darkenesse vnder his fete. And he sat vpon Cherub & dyd flye, he was sene carped vpon the wynges of the wynde. He made darknesse a tabernacle rounde about hym, & waters gathered together in the cloudes. Thow shal byghtenelle of his ptesence were the fyre coles kindled. God thundred from heauen, & he that is moost hye, doeth put out his voyce. He shot arrows, & scattered them: he hurled lightening, & ouerthrew them. The flownges of the see appeared, & the foundacions of the world were sene, by reason of the rebukynge of the Lorde, & thow shal the blasfemye of the breath of hys nostrilles. He shall sende fro heauen, & fet me, he shall plucke me out of many waters. He shal deliuer me from my myghtye aduersarye, & from myne enemies, for they are to stronge for me. When they had ouertaken me, in the day: of my calamitie the Lord stayed me vp. For he brought me out into coseth he deliuered me, because he had a loue vnto me.

* The Lorde wyl rewarde me accordynge to my ryghtousnesse: accordynge to the purenes of my hades wil be recompence me. For I haue kept the wayes of the Lord, & done no wychednes agaynst my God. For all hys lawes are in my myghte, and his statutes wyl not I put away from me. In hys myghte also haue I bene vndefyled, & haue kept me from myne iniquitie.

And the Lorde dyd to me agayne, accordynge to my ryghtousnesse, euen after my purenesse in hys eye syght. Wylth the godlye thou shalt be godly, and with the mē that is vncorrupt, thou shalt be vncorrupt. With the pure thou shalt be pure, and with the frowarde thou shalt be frowarde. And the poore people that are in aduersite, thou shalt helpe. And on the proude shalt thou caste thynne eyes. Thou arte my myghte, O Lorde: the Lorde shall lyght my darkenesse.

For with thynne helpe I wyl runne thow shal be an host of men, and in my God wyl I spyng out a wall. God is vncorrupt in his waye: the waye of the Lorde is tryed in the trye: he is the defender of all them that trust in hym.

For who is a God like the Lorde: and who is myghtye, like our God? God strengtethed me to power, and rydded the waye in battayle cleare before me. He maketh his fete lyke the perfect fete, and stremeth me fast vpon my horse.

* He stretcheth my handes to fyghte, that euen a house of steele is to weake for myne armed.

Thou hast gyuen me the hyde of thy saluaciō, and with thy louynge me hennelle thou doest multiplie me. Thou shalt make me space to walke in, & my legges shall not fayle me. I wyl folowe vpon myne enemies & destroye them, & turne not agayne vntyl I haue consumed them. I wyl waste them and smyte them, that they shall not be able to aryse: yea, they shall fall vnder my fete.

Thou hast gyded me aboute with myghte to battayle, and them that arose agaynst me, & thou subdued vnder me.

And thou madest myne enemies, (and them that hated me) to turne theyr backs to me that I myghte destroye them. They loke for helpe, but there is none to saue them: yea, euen vnto the Lorde do they crye, but he heareth them not.

I wyl beate them as small as the dust of the earth: I wyl stampe them as the dust of the streete and wyl spredde them abroad.

Thou shalt deliuer me from the dissension of my people, thou shalt helpe me to be an hee over nacions: the people to whiche I knewe not, shall serue me.

¶ Strange chyldren shall assemble wyth me. At the hearinge of the eare they o bepe me.

Strange chyldren wyl theyr ake away, and they shal be smytten wyth feare in theyr pryate chambie. God is almyghty, & blessed be my maker: magnified be God, my moost stronge saluaciō. It is God that auengerth me, & bringeth downe the people vnder me. He deliuereth me from myne enemies, thou also shalt lyft me vp on hye from them that crye agaynst me, thou shalt deliuer me from the wyched men.

And therfore I wyl prayse the (O Lorde) amonge nacions, & wyl syng vnto thy name. Which sheweth great saluacion for his kyng, & dealeth mercifully wyth hys anoynted: euen wyth David, and with his seede for euermore.

The. xlii. Chapter.

The last communicaciō of David, and the description of the myghtye men to hym belongynge.

In these be the last saynges of David, Dauid the son of Isai sayde: And the man (which was made, the anoynted of the God of Jacob, & the noble psalmist of Israel) sayde: the spyrite of the Lord spake by me & dyswade was in my tonge. The God of Israel spake of me, euen the moost myghtye of Israel sayde: he that beareth rule ouer men, ought to rule iustlye in the feare of God. And as the moynynge lyght when the sunne is vp, a moynynge in whiche are no cloudes to let the byghtenelle, & as the grasse of the earth is by the vertue of the rayn. Shal not my house be so with God? For he hath made with me an euertlastynge covenant, partye & sure in all poyntes: and thyng is truly all my healt and all my desyre, that it growe but not as grasse. But I vngodly mē of Belial shall be as a thorne cleane plucked up.

sayd vnto hym: Wylt thou haue seven yeares hungre to come in thy lande, as wylt thou fyve iii. monethes before thyne enemyes, they folowynge the, or that there be thye dayes pestilence in thy lande: Howe therfore aduise the, and se, what answer I shall gyue to hym that sente me: and Dauid said vnto Gad: I am in extreme trouble. * Wylt thou fall nowe into the hande of the Lord, for moche is his mercy, and let me not fall into the hande of man.

And so the Lord sent a pestilence in Israel, from the moynynge vnto the tyme appoynted. And there dyed of the people fifti thousande men. And when the angell stretched out his hande vpon Ierusalem to destroy it, the Lord had compassion to do that enyl, and sayde to the angell that destroyed the people: it is nowe sufficient: holde thyne hande. And the angell of the Lord was by the thersynge place of Arefna the Jebusyte. And Dauid spake vnto the Lord (when he sawe the angell that smote the people) and sayde: lo, it is I that haue synned, and I that haue done wychediye. But these shepe, what haue they done: let thine hande (I praye the) be agaynst me and agaynst my fatheres house.

And Gad came the same daye to Dauid, and sayd vnto hym: go vp, and reare an altare vnto the Lord in the thersynge flooze of Arefna the Jebusyte. And Dauid, accordynge to the sayinge of Gad, went vp, as the Lord commaunded. And Arefna looked, and sawe the kyng and his seruantes commynge towardes hym. And Arefna went oute: and bowed hym selfe before the kyng that on his face vpon the groude, and Arefna sayde: wherfore is my lord the kyng come to his seruante: Dauid answered: to bye the thersynge flooze of the, and to make an altare vnto the Lord, that the plage maye cease from the people.

And Arefna sayde vnto Dauid: let my lord the kyng take & offre what semeth hym good in his eyes. Beholde, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and sheades, and the other instrumentes of the oxen for wood. All these thynges byd Arefna gyue vnto the kyng, and sayd mozeouer vnto the kyng: the Lord thy God accept the. And the kyng sayd vnto Arefna: not so, but I wyl bye it of the at a pryncer, and wyl not offre sacrifice vnto the Lord my God of that which doeth cost me nothyng. And so Dauid boughte the thersynge flooze, and the oxen for fiftie sheles of syluer. And Dauid buyt there an altare vnto the Lord, and offered burnt sacrifices and peaceofferynges. And so the Lord was intreated for the lande. And the plage ceased from Israel.

The ende of the seconde boke of Samuel: or her wylle called the seconde boke of the kynges.

The thyrde boke of the kynges after the reckenyng of the L. sunites, which thyrde boke and the fourth also, is but one with the hebreues.

The fyrst Chapter.

The yonge virgin Abisag kept Dauid in his extreme age. Adonia occupieth the crowne unrightfully to his father. Salomon is anoynted kyng, and so Adonia getteth hym awaye.

And kyng Dauid was olde & strephen in yeres, so that whē they couered hym with clothes, he caughte no heate: wherfore his seruantes sayd vnto him: let there be sought for my lord the kyng a yonge mayden, to stande before the kyng, and to cheryshe hym. And let her lye in thy bolome, that my lord the kyng maye get heate. And so they sought for a saye dame sell thowout all the coostes of Israel, and founde one Abisag a sunamite, and brought her to the kyng. And the dame sell was excedynge fayre, and cheryshed the kyng, and mynistred to him. But the kyng knewe her not.

And Adonia the sonne of Hagith exalted him selfe, sayinge: I wyl be kyng. And he gat hym charettes & hoyslemen, & fiftie men to ranne before hym. And his father wolde not displease hym at any tyme, nor sayd so moche to hym, as: why doest thou so? And he was a goodly man, & his mother bare hym next after Adalom. And he toke counsaile of Joab the son of Zeruia, and of Abiathar the prest. And they helped Adonia. But Sadoc the prest, Banaiahu the son of Je holada, Nathan the prophete, Semel, and Rei, and all the men of myght which were with Dauid, fauoured not Adonia. And Adonia sacrificed shepe and oren, and fat cattel, by the founte of sobeleth, which is fast & by the well of Rogel, & called all his birthen the kynges sonnes, and the men of Iuda the kynges seruantes. But Nathan the prophete, and Banaiahu, and the other myghtye men, and Salomon his brother be called not.

Wherfore Nathan spake vnto Bathshebe the mother of Salomon, sayinge: hast thou not herde howe Adonia & sonne of Hagith doth raigne: and Dauid our lord knoweth it not? Nowe thys foze come, & I wyl gyue the counsaile, howe to saue thyne thine other lyfe, and the lyfe of thy sonne Salomon. So and get the to vnto kyng David, and saye vnto hym: Bydest not thou (my lord, O kyng) swaere vnto thy handmaide, sayng: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, & he shall sit vpon my seate, why when Adonia kynges? Behold, whyle I yet talkest there w the kynges I wyl come in after the, & cōsume thy wordes.

C And Bethsabe went in vnto the kyng into the chambze. And the kyng was very olde, and Abiag the Eunamite ministered vnto the kyng. And Bethsabe stouped & made obsequie vnto the kyng. And the kyng sayd: what is the matter? He answered him: my lord, thou swarist by the Lo:de thy God vnto thyne handmaide: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, and he shall sit vpon my seate. And behold, now is Adonia kyng, and my lord the kyng wote it not of it. And he hath offered oxen, fat catel, and many shepe, and hath called al the sonnes of the kyng, & Abiathar p̄reist, & Joab the captayne of the host. But Salomon thy seruauit hath be not bydden. And now my Lo:de (O kyng) the eyes of all Israel waite on the, that thou shouldest tell them, who ought to sit on the seate of my lord the kyng after hym. For els when my lord the kyng shall slepe with his fathers, I and my sonne Salomon shalbe synners.

D And whyle he yet talkest with the kyng, Athan the prophete came also. And they told the kyng, sayng: behold, here cometh Athan the prophete. And when he was come in to the kyng he made obsequie before the kyng vpon his face on the ground, & Athan sayd: O my lord (O kyng) hast thou sayd: Adonia shall raygne after me, & shall sit vpon my seate? For he is gone downe this dape, & hath slayne many oxen, and fat shepe, & hath called all the kynges sonnes, & the captaynes of the host, & Abiathar the p̄reist. And behold, they cate & dvyne before him, and saye: God saue kyng Adonia. But me thy seruauit, and Sadok the p̄reist, and Banaiab the sonne of Jehoiada, and thy seruauit Salomon hath be not called. Is this thyng done of my lord the kyng, and thou hast not shewed it vnto thy seruauit, who shouldest sit on the seate of my lord the kyng after hym?

E Then kyng David answered, and sayd: call me Bethsabe. And she came into the kynges presence, and stode before hym. And the kyng swaere, sayng: As true as the Lo:de liueth (that hath gyf my soule out of al aduersitie) rill as I swaere vnto the by the Lo:de God of Israel sayng: Salomon thy sonne shall raygne after me, & he shall sit vpon my seate for me, so wyl I do this day. Then Bethsabe bowed on her face to the earth, and byd reuerence vnto the kyng, & sayd: I praye God that my lord kyng David maye lyue euer. And kyng David sayd: call me Sadok the p̄reist, & Athan the prophete, and Banaiab the sonne of Jehoiada: And they came before the kyng. The kyng also sayd vnto them: take w you the seruantes of your lord, & let Salomon my sonne vpon myne owne mule, & carry hym to come to Sihon. And let Sadok & p̄reist & Athan the prophete anshure hym there kyng ouer Israel. And blowe ye wyth trumpettes, & saye: God saue kyng Salomon. And thea come vp after him, & he may come & sit vpon my seate. For he shall be kyng in my stede. And I wyl commaunde hym to be captayne ouer Israel & Iuda. And Banaiab the sonne of Jehoiada answered the kyng, & sayd: Amen. I praye God & the Lo:de God of my lord the kyng saye so to. And as God hath ben w my lord the kyng, euen so be he w Salomon also, & make his seate greater, then the seate of my lord kyng David hath ben.

And so Sadok the p̄reist, and Athan the prophete, and Banaiab the sonne of Jehoiada, and the Crethites and Phelithites wet downe, and sette Salomon vpon kyng David's mule, and brought him to Sihon. And Sadok the p̄reist toke an hoine of oyle out of the tabernacle, and anoynted Salomon. And all they of the people blew trumpettes, and sayde: God saue kyng Salomō. And al the people came vp after him, ppyng wyth pyppes and reioysyng greatly, so that the earth rang with the sounde of them.

And Adonia and al the gesses that he had called vnto hym, herd it, euen as they had made an ende of eatyng. And when Joab herd the soude of the trompet, he sayde: how happeneth it that there is suche a noyse in the cytye? And as he yet spake, behold, Jonathas the sonne of Abiathar p̄reist came. And Adonia sayd vnto him: come in, for thou arte a valyaunt man, and byngest good rydnges. And Jonathas answered, & said to Adonia: Verily our lord kyng David hath made Salomō kyng. And the kyng hath sent with hym Sadok the p̄reist, & Athan the prophete, and Banaiab the sonne of Jehoiada, and the Crethites, and the Phelithites, & they have set him vpon the kynges mule. And Sadok the p̄reist, and Athan the prophete, have anoynted him kyng in Sihon. And they came vp agayne and reioyled, that the cytye byd soude agayne. And that is the noyse that ye haue heard. And Salomon sprett on the seate of the kyngdom. And mozeouer, the kynges seruantes came to blesse our lord kyng David, sayng: thy God make the name of Salomō moze honorabile than thy seate. And the kyng bowed him selfe vpon the bed. And thus sayd the kyng: Blessed be the Lo:de God of Israel: whiche hath made one to sette on my seate this dape, myne eye seinge it.

And all the gesses that were wyth Adonia were afraied, and rose vp, and went euery man bys waye. And Adonia fearyng the presence of Salomon, arose, and went, & (into the tabernacle of the Lo:de) and caught hold on the hornes of the altare. And one tolde Salomon, sayng: Behold, Adonia doth feare kyng Salomon: for he hath caught holde on the hornes of the altare, sayng: let kyng Salomon swaere vnto me this dape, that he wyl not slaye his seruante wyth the swerde.

And Salomon sayde, yf he wyl be a chyld of vertue, there shall not an heere of him fall to the earth. But yf wiche dwelle be found in hym, he shall dye. And so kyng Salomon sent, and they brought

The. ii. Chapter.

Counte dyeth. Salomon cometh to have Salomon to his chere, and therfore Salomon cometh to have hym. Salomon is in put from his penitence. Salomon and Joab are slayd.

In the dayes of Dauid durwe we that he shulde dye, and he charged Salomon hys sonne, sayinge: I go the waye of all the worlde, * be thou stronge therfore, and shewe thy selfe a man. kepe thou the watche of the Lorde thy God, that thou walke in his wayes, and kepe his statutes, and his pre-ceptes, his iudgements, and his testimonies, euen as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses: that thou mayest prosper in all that thou doest, and in euery thyng that thou meddest wythall.

That the Lorde also maye make good hys worde whiche he spake vnto me, sayinge: of thy chyliden take hede to theyr waye, & they walke before me in truthe, wyth all theyr hertes, and wyth all theyr soules, * then shalt thou not be wythout a man on the seate of Israel.

* Moreover, thou wotest how Joab the sone of Zeruia serued me, & what he dyd to that two captaynes of the hostes of Israel: vnto Abner the sonne of Ner, & vnto Amasa the sonne of Je-ther: who he slue, & shed bloode in tyme of peace, (euen as it had ben in warre) and put the blood of warre vpon hys gyrdle that was about hys loynes, and in hys shoes that were on hys feete.
Deale wyth hym therfore accordyng to thy wyledome, & bynge not his hooze heed downe to the graue in peace. * but shewe kynnesse vnto the sonnes of Bersaias the Gileadite, & they maye eat at thy table. For they came to me whē I fled from Absalom thy brother.

* And beholde, thou hast wyth the Semel the sonne of Gera, the sonne of Gemin, of Badurim, which cursed me wyth an horrible curse in the daye when I went to Mahanaim. But he came to mete me at Iordane, and I swore to hym by the Lorde, sayinge: I wyll not slaye the wyth the swerde: but thou shalt not count hym as vngylte. For thou art a man of wyledome, and knowest what thou oughtest to doo vnto hym. hys hooze heed shalt thou bynge to the graue wyth blood.

And so * Dauid slepte wyth his fathers, and was buryed in the cytie of Dauid. And 5 dayes which Dauid raygned vpon Israel, were four-tye yeres: seuen yeres raygned he in Hebron, and thirtie & thre yeres raygned he in Ierusalem.

* Then sat Salomon vpon the seate of Dauid his father, and hys kyngdome was stablyshed myghtelye. And Adonia 5 sone of Hagith came to Bethsabe the mother of Salomon. And she sayd: * Comest thou peaceably? And he said pra-ceably. he sayd moreover: I haue somewhat to saye vnto the. She sayd: saye on. And he sayd: I knowest that the kyngdome was myne, & that all Israel set their faces on me, & I shuld raygn, howbeit, the kyngdome is turned away, and gyuen to my brother: for it is apoynted him of the Lorde, & now I aske a petition of the: heare me not. And she sayde vnto hym: saye on. And he sayde: Speake, I praye the, vnto Salomon the kyng, for he wyll not slaye the naye, that he geue me Abisag 5 Sunamite to wyfe. And Bethsabe sayd: well, I wyll speake for the vnto 5 kyng.

Bethsabe therfore went vnto kyng Salomon, to speake vnto hym for Adonia. And the kyng rose to mete her, & bowed hym selfe vnto her, and sat hym downe on hys seate. And there was a seate set for the kynges mother, & she sat on hys ryght syde. Then she sayd: I desyre a lytle petition of the, I praye the slaye me not naye.
And the kyng sayd vnto her: Aske on my mother, for I wyll not slaye the naye. She sayde: let Abisag the Sunamite be gyven to Adonia thy brother to wyfe. And kyng Salomon answered and sayd vnto hys mother: why doest thou aske Abisag 5 Sunamite for Adonia? aske for him the kyngdome also: for he is myne elder brother, and hath for him Abiathar the prest, and Joab the sonne of Zeruia. Then kyng Salomon swore by the Lorde, sayinge: God do so, and so to me, of Adonia hath not spoken thys worde agaynst hys owne lyfe. Now therfore as trulpe as the Lorde lyneith, whiche hath ordeyned me, and set me on the seate of Dauid my father, and made me an house, as he promysed, Adonia shall dye thys daye. And kyng Salomon sent by the hande of Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, and he smote hym that he dyed.

And vnto Abiathar the prest sayd the kyng: get the to Anathoth vnto thyne owne felides: for thou arte worthy of deathe: but I wyll not at this tyme hyl the, because thou barest the arke of the Lorde God before Dauid my father, and because thou hast suffred wyth my father in al his afflictions. And so Salomon put awaye Abiathar from beinge prest vnto the Lorde, that he myght fulfill the wordes of the Lorde whych he spake ouer the house of Eli in Silo. Then tydynges came also to Joab: for Joab had turned after Adonia though he turned not after Absalom. And Joab fled vnto the tabernacle of the Lorde and caught holde on the hornes of the altare. And it was tolde kyng Salomon, how 5 Joab fled vnto 5 tabernacle of the Lorde, & stode by the altare. Then Salomon sent Banaiahu the sonne of Jehoiada, sayinge: go, & fall vpon hym.

And Banaiahu came to the Tabernacle of the Lorde, and sayd vnto hym: Thus sayth the kyng: come out. And he sayde: naye, but I wyll dye euen here. And Banaiahu brought the kyng worde agayne, sayinge: thus sayde Joab, and thus he answered me.

And the kyng sayd. Do euen as he hath sayd smyte hym, and burye hym, that thou mayest take awaye the blood whiche Joab shed cause-lesse, from me, and from the house of my father.
And the Lorde shal bynge his blood vpon hys owne heed, for he smote two men ryght ouer 5 better than he, & slue them wyth the swerde, my father Dauid not knowyng therof: euen Abner the sonne of Ner, captayn of 5 host of Israel, & Amasa the sonne of Jether captayn of the host.

of the blood shall therefore returne on the head of the sinner, and on the head of his seed for ever. And upon his seed, & upon his house, & upon his seed, & upon his house, & upon his seed, & upon his house, peace for ever of the Lord. And the sonne of Jehoiada went by, & saw him, & shut him, & buried him in his owne house in the wall beresse. And the kyng put Banataba the sonne of Jehoiada in his rounce over the hooste, & put Shadon the pyest in the rounce of Abiathar.

And the kyng sente, and called Semel, and sayd vnto him: buyde the an house in Ierusalem, and dwelle there: and se that thou goo not for the thence anye whither. For be thou sure, that the daye that thou goest oute, and passest o'er the ryuer of Cedron, thou shalt dye that daye, & thy blood shall be vpon thyne owne heed. And Se-mel sayd vnto the kyng. This is a good thyng as my lord the kyng hath sayd: so will his ser-uaunt do. And Semel dwelt in Ierusalem many dayes. And it chaunced after thie peres, that two of the seruantes of Semel came awaye vnto Achis, sonne of Maacha kyng of Geth.
And they tolde Semel, saying: beholde, thy seruauntes be in Geth. And Semel stode vp, and saddled his asse, and gat hym to Geth to Achis, to seeke his seruantes, and returned, & brought his seruantes agayne from Geth.

And it was tolde Salomon, howe that Se-mel had gone fro Ierusalem to Geth, and was come agayne. And the kyng sent & called Se-mel, and sayd vnto hym. Wyldest thou charge the by the Lord with an othe, and testified vnto the, saying: be sure, that whensoever thou goest out, & walkest abroad any whither, thou shalt dye the death? And thou saydest vnto me: it is good thynges that I haue herd. Why then hast thou not kept the oth of the Lord, and the commaundement that I charged the withall?

11. Kyng. 1. 1. 1.

The kyng sayd moreover to Semel: Thou remembrest al the wickednesse which thyne herte knoweth, that thou dydest to Dauid my father. The Lord also shall bypunge thy wickednesse vpon thyne owne heed: and kyng Salomon shall be blessed, and the seate of Dauid stablyshed before the Lord for ever. So the kyng comaunded Banataba the sonne of Jehoiada: which went out & smote him that he dyed. And the house was stablyshed in the harte of Salomon.

The. iii. Chapter

Salomon taketh Pharaos daughter to wyfe. The Lord appeareth to hym, and giveth hym wysdom. The plea-ring of the two harlots, who shalbe one the kynges childe, and Salomons sentence therein.

Salomon made affinitie with Phraos kyng of Egypte, and toke Phraos daughter, and brought her into the cytye of Dauid, vntill he had made an ende of buydyng his owne house, & the house of the Lord, & the wall of Ierusalem rounde about. Only the people sacrificed in altars made on hylls, because ther was no house buyt vnto the name of the Lord, vntill those dayes. And Salomon loued the Lord, & walked in the ordinaces of Dauid his father, save only that he sacrificed and offered incense vpon altars in hylls

* And the kyng went to Gibeon to offer there, for it was a speciall offering place. And a thousande burnt offerings dyd Salomon offer vnto that altare: & in Gibeon the Lord appeared to Salomon in a dreame by nyght. And God said vnto him: what thou wylt, that I maye geue it the.
And Salomon sayde: thou hast the word vnto thy seruaunt Dauid my father great mercede, wher he walked before the in truth, in ryghteousnes, & in playnesse of heart with the Lord. And thou hast kept for him this greates mercede, that thou hast geuen hym a sonne, to sit on his seate: as it is come to passe this daye. * And now, O Lord my God, it is thou that hast made thy seruante kyng in steede of Dauid my father. * And I am but yong and wote not howe to go out & in. And thy ser-uaunt is in the myddell of the people, whiche thou hast chosen. And verely the people are so many that they can not be told: nor no bred for multitude. * Geue therefore vnto thy seruant an understandyng herte, to iudge the people, that I maye deterne betwene good and bad. For who is able to iudge this, thy so myghty a people?

And this pleased the Lord well, that Salomon had desired this thyng. And God sayde vnto hym: because thou hast asked this thyng, & hast not asked longe lyfe, neyther hast asked richesse, nor the soule of thyne enemies, but hast asked understandyng & discretion in iudgement.

Beholde, I haue done accordyng to thy petition. For I haue geuen the a wyse & an understandyng herte, so that there was none lyke the before the, neither after the shall any ayle lyke vnto the. And I haue also geue the, that whiche thou hast not asked, euen ryches and honour, so that there shall be no kyng lyke vnto the al thy dayes. And if thou wilt walke in my wayes, to keepe myne ordinaunces and my commaundemen-tes, * as thy father Dauid dyd walke, I wyl lengthen thy dayes. When Salomon awoke, behold it was a dreame. * And he came to Jerusalem, and stode before the arke of the testamēt of the Lord, & offered burnt offerings & peace of-frynges, and made a feast to all his seruantes.

* Then came there two women, that were harlots, vnto the kyng, and stode before him.
And the one woman sayd: O my lord: I & this woman dwell in one house. And I was deliue-red of a chyld with her in the house. And the thyrde day after that I was deliuered, she was deliuered also: and we were togyther, and no straunger with vs in the house, save we two.

And this wyse chyld dyed in nyght, for she smothered it. And she rose at mydnyght, & toke my sonne from my syde, whyle thyne hand mayde slepte, & layed it in her bosome, and put her ded chylde in my bosome. And wher I rose vnto geue my chyld sucke, behold, it was dead. But wher I had loked vpon it in the morning, behold, it was not my sonne, which I dyd beare.

The other woman sayde: it is not so: but my sonne lyueth, and thy son is dead. And she sayde agayne: So, but thy sonne is dead, and myne is alyue. And thus they pleaded before the kyng.
Then sayde the kyng: the one sayeth, this that

And al they of Israel herd of the iudgement, which the kyng hadde iudged, and feared the kyng: for they sawe that the wysdome of God was in hym to do iustyce. R

¶ The. iiii. Chapter.

¶ The princes and rulers vnder Salomon. The purvey-ance for his vytrayles. The nombre of his horses, and of his charrettes.

AD kyng Salomon was kyng ouer all Israel. And these were hys lozdes. Azariab the sonne of Sa-doche the prest, Elisheph & Abiah the sonnys of Sisa, scribes. Jehosaphath the sonne of Ahilud, the recorder. Ba-nabab the son of Jehoiaada was ouer the doost.
Sadocke and Abiathar were the prestes. And Azariab the sonne of Nathan was ouer the officers. And zabud the sonne of Nathan was a prest, the kynges companon. And Abisar se-warde of houtholde. And Adoniram the sonne of Abda was ouer the tributes.

And Salomon had twelue officers ouer all Israel, which prouyded vytrayles for the kyng and hys houtholde: eche man hys moneth in a yeare, made prouision for necessarie thynges.
And these are they: names: the sonne of hur in moist Ephraim: the sonne of Dehar in Mahaz, and in Saalbin and Berthames, Elon & Berthhanan: the sonne of Heled in Aruboth, to whom perterneyd Socho and al the land of Hepter: the sonne of Adinadab in al y region of Dor, which had Tapher the daughter of Salomon to wyfe.
Baane the son of Ahilud was ouer Chaanach, and Magidde, and ouer all Bethsan, whiche is by zarthana beneth Iserael, sed Bethsan, to the playne of Nehola, euen vnto the place that is ouer agaunst Jeriched: the sonne of Saber had Ramoth Gilead, and hys were the townes of Jair, the sonne of Manasse, which are in Gilead, and vnder him was the region of Argob which is in Basan thesioze greute cyties with wal-les and barres of brasse.

Adinadab the sonne of hiddo had Mahenaim. Ahimaaz was in Bepehalim, and he toke Basmath the daughter of Salomon to wyfe.
Baana the sonne of husai was in Aler and in Moeth. Jehosaphat the sonne of Paruah was in Iserach. Bemei the sonne of Ela was in Ben-Jamin. Saber the sonne of Azy was in the cootrye of Gilead, the lande of Sechon kyng of the Amoytes, and of Og kyng of Basan, & was officer alone in the land. And Juda and Israel were many, euen as the sande of the see in nobye eatyng, drynyng, and mahyng merpe. * And Salomon raygned ouer al kyng domes, fro the ryuer vnto the lande of the Philistines: eue vnto the bordre of Egypte, and they brought presentes, & serued Salomon al the dayes of his life.

And Salomons breed for one daye was. xxx quarters of manchet flour, and thesioze quarters of meale: ten stalled oxen, and. xx. out of the pastures, and an hundred shepe, besyde hertys, bukkes, and wyde gootes, and capons. For he ruled in all the region on the other syde Euphrates, from Thiblah to * Ala, ouer al the kynges on the other syde the ryuer. And he had peace w all his seruantes on euery syde. And Juda and Israel dwelt wythoute feare, euery man vnder hys vyne and vnder his fygge tree, from Dan, to Berseba, al the dayes of Salomon.

And Salomon had * xl. G. stalles of hostes for charrettes, and. xii. G. horsemen. And the officers prouyded vitayle for kyng Salomon, & for all y came oute of any place to kyng Salo-mons table, euery man his moneth, so that there lacked nothyng. Early also & late for the hosles & mules, brought they vnto the place where the officers were, euery man in his office.

And God gaue Salomon wysdome and vnderstandyng exceeding moche, and a large herte, euen as the lande that is on the see thore: and Salomons wysdome excelled the wysdome of all the chyldren of the Eastre countrey, and all the wysdome of Egypte. For he was wysse then all men: yea, then Erhan the Etrabite, and herman, Chalcol, and Darda the sonnes of Babil. And his name was spoke of thorow out al nacions on euery side. And Salomon spake thre thousand prouerbes. And his songes were a thousande and fyue. And he spake of trees, eue from the Cedar tree that groweth in Libanon, vnto the Plope that spryngeth oute of the wall.
he spake also of beastes, of foules, of wormes, & of fyttes. And there came of al nacions to heare the wysdome of Salomon, & from al kynges of the earth, which had herde of hys wysdome.

But now the Lord my God hath gyue me rest on every syde, so that there is neither aduersary, nor any euill plage. And behold, I am determined to buyde an house vnto the name of the Lord my God, as the Lord spake vnto David my father, sayinge: thy sonne whome I wyl set vpon thy seat for the, he shal buyd an house vnto the name of the Lord his God. And thou shalt do me a pleasure agayne, yf thou minister fode for myne house. And so Hiram gaue Salomon cedar trees and fyre trees accordyng to al his desyre. And Salomon gaue Hiram twenty thousand quarters of wheate for foode to his household, and twenty butters of pure oyle. Thus moche gaue Salomon to Hiram yere by yere.

And the Lord gaue Salomon wysdome as he promysed him. And there was peace betwene Hiram and Salomon, and they twa were confederat togyther. And kyng Salomon rayled a summe out of all Israel. And the summe was thyrty thousand men, whom he sent to Libanon ten thousand a moneth by course, so that when they had bene one moneth in Libanon, they abode two monethes at home.

And Adoniram was ouer the samme. And Salomon had thyscore and ten thousand that bare burthens, and fourscore thousand malses in the mountaynes, besydes the lordes, whome Salomon appoynted to ouerse the worke, euen thre hundred and thre hundred, whiche ruled the people (and them) that wrought in the worke. And the kyng commaunded the to bypunge great bones free stones, and he wed stones for the foundation of the house. And Salomons masons, and the masons of Hiram ded hewe the wylde the workemen of the corners. And so they prepared both tymber and stones for the buydunge of the house.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

¶ And when the temple was buyden.

And it came to passe that in the four hundred and foure score yere (after the chyldren of Israel were come out of the lande of Egypte) and in the fourth yere of the raygne of Salomon kyng Israel, and in the moneth yisse, whiche is the seconde moneth he beganne to buyde the house of the Lord. And the house which Salomon buyt for the Lord, was thre score cubytes longe, and twenty cubytes bryde, and thyrty cubytes hye. And he made a porche before the bodye of the temple, which was twety cubytes longe after the brydth of the house, and ten cubytes bryde, euen in the forefront of the house. And in the house he made wyndowes, bryde without, and narrowe within.

And in the wall of the house, he made chambers rounde aboute, (euen in the walles of the house) rounde about the temple and the quere, and made sydes rounde about. The nethermost chamber was fyue cubytes bryde, and the thyrde was fyue cubytes bryde. For without in the wall of the house he layed beames rounde aboute, that the beames of the chambers shoulde not be fastened in the walles of the house. And the house was buyt of stone, made perfyte al the bye before it was buyd, so that there was neyther hammer nor axe, nyther any toole of yron herde in the house, whyle it was in buydunge.

The doze of the myddle chamber was in the ryght syde of the house: and went vp with wyndyng steres into the myddle chamber, and oute of the myddle into the thyrde. And so he buyt the house and finished it, and roult it with beames of Cedar tymber. And thā he buyt chambers to all the temple of fyue cubytes brygh, and they were ioynted to the house, with beames of Cedar.

And the worde of the Lord came to Salomon sayinge: concerning the house which thou arte in buydunge, yf thou wylt walke in myne ordynances, and creuse my lawes, and kepe al my commaundementes, to walke in them: then wyl I make good vnto the my promise, which I promysed David thy father. And I wyl dwell amonge the chyldren of Israel, and wyl not forsake my people Israel. Salomon therfore buyt the house, and finished it, and spled the walles of the house within with bordes of cedar tree: euen from the pavement of the house vnto the roofe he spled the walles of it within with cedar tree, and boarded the flooze of the house with plankes of fyre.

And he spled twenty cubytes in the sydes of the quere of the temple, both flooze and walles, with bordes of Cedar, and dressed it within in the secret place of the temple, euen in the moost holy. And the fyrst house, that is to say: the body of the temple without was forty cubytes long. And the Cedar of the house within, was hewed with knoppes, and grauen with flowers, and al was cedar tymber: so yf no stone was sene. And the quere that was within the temple, he prepared to set there the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord. And the quere before, was twenty cubytes longe, and twenty cubytes in brydth, and twenty cubytes in brygh. And he spled it with pure golde, and boarded the altare with Cedar.

And Salomon also spled the house within with pure gold. And he made golden barres runne alonge the quere, which he had covered with golde

And

And the whole house he overlaid with golde, vntill he had ended it. And the vaulture that was in the quyre he overlaid with golde also.

And within the quyre he made two Cherubims of olue tree, ten cubytes hie. A yue cubytes longe was a wyng of the other Cherub: so that from the uttermost parte of one wyng vnto the uttermost parte of the other, were ten cubytes. And the other Cherub was ten cubytes hie also: so that bothe the Cherubs were of one measure and one fyle: For the length of the first Cherub was ten cubytes, and so was it of the other. And he put the Cherubs within the inner house. And the Cherubs stretched out theyr wynges, so that the one wyng of the one touched the one wal, and the one wyng of the other touched the other wal. And the other two wynges of them touched one another in the myddes of the house. And he overlaid the cherubs with golde.

And in all the walles of the house round aboute, he made figures of carued & scyled worke as namelie, pictures of Cherubs & pauline trees, and grauen flowers, both within in quyre and without in the temple. And the floore of the house he couered with golde, both within in the quyre, and also without in the temple. And in the entringe of the quyre he made two doores of olue tree: And bothe the vpper and two syde postes were fyue square. The two doores also were of olue tree, and he graued them with grauyng of Cherubs and pauline trees: and grauen flowers and couered them with golde, and layde thynne plates of golde vpon the Cherubs and pauline trees. And in like maner did he in the doore of the temple, sculping that the postes were of olue tree fyue square. The two doores were of fyre tree, and eche doore with two folding leues, he graued thereon Cherubs, pauline trees and flowers and couered them with golde, which was layed thynne vpon the carued worke.

And he buylt a pinner court with three rowes of hewed stone, and one rowe of Cedar wodde.

In the fourth yere was the foundation of the house of the Lorde layde: euen in the moneth iij. And in the leauenth yere, in the moneth iij. (which is the eighth moneth) was the house full finished thowoe out all the partes thereof, according to all the fashion of it, and so was he seuen yere in buyldynge it.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

The buyldynge of the house of Salomon. The house of Pharaons daughter. The louent of the pillars of brass, of the brasen sea &c.

IN the sixth yere Salomon was buyldynge his owne house thysene yere, and finished it all. And he buylte the house in the wood of Libanon, an hundred cubytes longe, and fyfte cubytes broude, and thysene cubytes hie. And (it stode) vnder four rowes of Cedar pylers, and cedar beames (were layed) vpon the pylers. And the rooffe was Cedar above vpon the beames that lape on the pylers, euen xlv. beames in fyftene rowes. And there were wyndowes in three rowes, and the wyndowes were one against another thre fold. And the doores with the syde postes, and the vpper postes, were foure square, & had wyndowes one agaynst another thre fold.

And he made a porche by the pylers (the bare by the house) fyfte cubytes longe, and xxx. cubytes broude, and the porche was before those, & the other pylers. For there was a thicke tre set before them. Then he made a porche to lye and iudge in, scyled with Cedar thowout all the pamentes. And his owne house (that he kept residence in: and that was in another court without the porche) was made of the same woode. And then Salomon made an house for Pharaons daughter: (whome he had taken to wyfe) vnto the fashion of the porche.

And all these were of the best stones, hewed after a measure, and sawed with sawes, within and without, from the foundation vnto the beames (that lay above, after the measure) and eue so on the outsyde towards the great court. And the foundation was layed vpon fyue stones, and that very great stones, wherof some were ten cubytes, and some eghter cubytes. And a boue were good stones, squared after a certayn rule, and couered with Cedar. And the greates court round about was with three rowes of hewed stones, and one rowe of Cedar planks, after the maner of the inner court of the house of the Lorde, & of the porche of the temple. And kynge Salomon sente, and set ore Hiram out of Tyre, a wyddowes sonne of the trybe of Reubyn, his father being a man of Tyre which Hiram was a craftelman in brasle: full of wysdom, vnderstandynge and cunnyng: to worke all maner of woode in brasle. And he came to kynge Salomon, and wrought all his worke. For he faste two pylers of brasle of xlv. cubytes hie a pece, and a stringe of twelue cubytes byd compass ether of them aboute. And he made two head peeces of molten brasle (after the fashion of a crowne) to set on the toppes of the pylers. The length of the one head pece contained fyue cubytes, and the length of the other head pece contained fyue cubytes also: he made also net worke & garlandes of chaine worke vpon the head peeces that were on the toppe of the pylers euen seuen (rowes) vpon the one head pece, and seuen on the other. And so he made the pylers, and two rowes rounde about, in the one wyethen worke to couer the head peeces that were vpon the pomgranates. And thus dyd he also for the other head pece. And the head peeces that were on the toppes, of the pylers couered he above, with a curyous worke of roses towards the palace by the space of foure cubytes. Lpke wyle vnder the head peeces in those two pylers beneth, ouer agaynst the myddes, and before the net worke: And vpon the seconde head pece were there two hundred pomgranates in two rowes rounde about. And he set vpon the pylers in the porche of the temple. And when he had set vpon the eighth piler, he called the name thereof. * Iachin: & when he had set vpon the left piler, he called the name thereof. * Boaz. And in the toppe of the pylers was a worke of roses, and so was the woorkeman, & ppe of the pylers finished.

And he made a molten lautoy, ten cubites byderleam bym to bym, rounde in compasse, & fyue cubites hie. And a stringe of the xij cubites byd compasse it aboute, and vnder the bym of it there were knoppes round about ten in one cubite: and they compassed the lautoy rounde aboute. And the knoppes were caste wth it, in two rowes, when it was caste. And it stode on twelue oren: of wyche thye loked towarde the north thye towarde the weste, thye towarde the south and thye towarde the easte, and the lautoy stode vpon them, and all they bynderpartes were inwarde. It was an hande breadeth thyeke, and the bym wrought lyke the bym of a cup wth flowres of lylles. And it conteyned two thousande Bannes.

And he made ten sohettes of byasse, four cubites long, and four cubites broade a pece, and thye cubites hie. And the worke of the sohettes was on this maner: They had sydes, and the sydes were betwene the ledges. And on the sydes that were betwene the ledges, were lyons, oren and Cherubs. And lyke wyse vpon the ledges were aboute and beneath y lyons and oren, were certayne addicions made of thynne worke. And vnder euery sohet were four byass wheles, and bozdes of byasse. And in the foure corners thereof, were vnder setters (vnder the lautoy) cast the ouer agaynst his felowe.

And the skalle of the lautoy was in the myddle of it, (where it is sent on the our syde) one cubite hie, and a cubite and an halfe rounde, and in the hepyth of it were grauen wothes whose sydes were made foure square, and not rounde. And vnder the sides were foure wheles, and the axeltrees iopned faste to the bottome. And the hepyth of euery whele was a cubite and an halfe. And the workmanthyp of the wheles was lyke the worke of a charret whele. And the axeltrees, the nauelles, spokes and shaftes were all molten. And there were foure vnder setters in foure corners of one sohet: and the vnder setters were of the very bottome selfe.

And in the hepyth of the bottome was there a rounde compasse of halfe a cubite hie: and in that hepyth of the bottome, there proceeded bothe ledges and sydes out of the same. For in the bozdes of the ledges and on the sides he had grauen pictures of Cherubins, lyons and palmetrees, one by another round about. Thus made he the ten sohettes after thys maner: And they had al one fasthyon of castyng: one measure, and one lyke. This made he tē lauers of byasse, one lauer contaynyng fouerty Bannes: and one lauer was foure cubites, and vpon euery one of the ten sohettes, he put one lauer. And he put fyue of those sohettes on the right side of the house, and other fyue on y left. And he set the lautoy on y right syde of y house eastwarde & towarde the south.

And hiram made pottes, Houelles and basens, and so finished all the worke that he made kyng Salomon for the house of the Lord: that is to saye, two pylers and two rounde headpieces that were to be set on the toppes of the two pylers, and foure hundred pomegranates for the two net wothes, (euen the rowes of pomegranates in one net worke) to couer y two headpieces that were to set on the toppes of the pylers: And the ten sohettes, and ten lauers on the sohettes. The lautoy, and twelue oren vnder it, & pottes, Houelles and basens. And all these vesselles which hiram made to kyng Salomon for the house of the Lord, were of bygght byasse. In the playne of Jordan dyd the kyng cast the euen in y thyeke claye betwene Moab & zarthā. And Salomon made all the vesselles vntwaped because they were so exceeding many, neyther founde they out the wepyght of the byasse.

And so Salomon made all the vesselles that perteyned vnto the house of the Lord: the golden altare, and the golden table whereon the shewbread was: And fyue candellsticks, for the ryght syde, and fyue for the left, before y quyre of pure golde: with flowers, lampes, & snuffers of golde: and boules, flat peeres, basens, spones and masours of pure golde: & bindges made be of gold both for the bozdes of the quyre (the place most holy) and for the bozdes of the temple also.

And so was ended all the worke that kyng Salomon made for the house of the Lord. And Salomon brought in the thynge which Dauid his father had dedicated: eue the spiner, gold and vesselles, and layed them vp amonge y treasures of the house of the Lord.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

¶ The arke is borne into the temple. A cloude fylleth the temple. The temple is blessed.

When Salomon gathered together the elders of Israel, all the heddes of the trybes, (and them that were captaynes among the fathers of the chyldren of Israel) vnto him in Jerusalem y they myght bypunge vp the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord out of the cyte of Dauid, which is Zion. And all the men of Israel assembled vnto kyng Salomon to the fraith that fallerth in the moneth Ethanim, which is the seuenth moneth. And all the elders of Israel were come and the prestes toke vp the arke. They bare y arke of the Lord into the tabernacle of wytnesse, and all the holy vesselles that were in the tabernacle: those dyd the prestes and Leuytes bere. And kyng Salomon and all the congregation of Israel that were assembled vnto hym (and went with hym before the arke) dyd offer shepe and oren, that could not be tolde nor numbyed for multitude.

And so the prestes brought the arke of the appoyntment of the Lord vnto his place: euen in the quyre of the temple and place most holy, vnder the wynges of the Cherubs. For the Cherubs stretched out they wynges ouer the place of the arke, and couered both it and also the stauens therof a hie vpon it. And they drew out the stauens, that the endes of the myght appeare out of the holy place within the quyre, but they were not sene without. And ther they haue bene vnto this daye, and there was nothynge in the arke, save the two tables of stone which Moyses put there at Horeb, in y which (tables) y Lord made an appoyntment w the chyldren of Israel, whi

He brought them out of the lande of Egypt.

And it fortuned thus when the prestres were come out of the holy place, the cloud filled the house of the Lorde, that the prestres could not stande and minister, because of the cloud for the glory of the Lorde had filled the house of the Lorde. Then spake Salomon: the Lorde said that he wolde dwell in the darcke cloude. I haue buyte the an house to dwell in, an habitation for the to abyde in for ever. And the kyng turned his face, & blessed al the congregacion of Israel, & all the congregacion of Israel stode still, and he sayde.

Blessed be the Lorde God of Israel, whych spake wth his mouth vnto Dauid my father, & hath wth his hande fulfilled it, saying: Since the daye that I broughte my people Israel out of Egypt, I chose no cytie of al the trybes of Israel, to buyde an house that my name myght be therein: But I haue chosen Dauid to be ruler ouer my people of Israel.

And it was in the herte of Dauid my father to buyde an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel. And the Lorde sayde vnto Dauid my father: Where as it was in thy herte to buyde an house vnto my name, thou dydest wel, that thou wast so mynded. Neuertheless thou shalt not buyde the house, but thy sonne shall come out of thy loynes, he shall buyde the house vnto my name. And the Lorde hath made good his woide that he spake. And I am risen vp in the towne of Dauid my father, and sit on the seat of Israel, as the Lorde promysed, & haue buyte an house for the name of the Lorde God of Israel. And I haue prepared therein a place for the Ark, where in is the conuauant of the Lorde whych he made wth our fathers, wher he broughte them out of the lande of Egypt. Salomon stode before the altare of the Lorde in the syght of all the congregacion of Israel, and stretched out his handes toward heauen, and sayd: * Lorde God of Israel, there is no God lyke the in heu above, or in the earth beneath, thou that hepest conuauant & mercy for thy seruantes that walke before the wyth all they herte: thou that hast hepte wth thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou promysedst hym. Thou spakest also wth thy mouth and hast fulfilled it wth thyne hande as it is come to passe this daye. Therefore nowe Lorde God of Israel, kepe with thy seruant Dauid my father, that thou promysedst hym, saying: * Thou shalt not be without a man in my syght to sytte on the seate of Israel: so that thy chyldren take heed to they waye, & they walke before me, as thou hast walked in my syght. And nowe (O God) of Israel, let thy woide be verified, whych thou spakest vnto thy seruant Dauid my father.

Will God in dede dwell on the earth? Beholde the heauens, and heauens of all heauens are not able to contayne the: And howe should the house do it that I haue buyted? I haue thou therfore respecte vnto the prayer of thy seruant, & to his supplication (O Lorde my God) to heare the voyce and prayer before the, this daye: that thyne eyes maye open toward thy house, nyght and daye, euen to wards this place (of whych thou hast sayde, * My name shall be there.) That thou mayest hearken vnto the prayer whych thy seruant prayeth in this place: And regarde thou the supplication of thy seruante and of thy people Israel when they pray in this place: And heare thou in heauen thy dwelling place, and when thou hearest, haue mercy. * If any man trespasse agaynst his nryghbour, and there go an othe be: wene them, and the one compell the other, and come swearyng before thyne altare in this house, the hearken thou in heauen & worke & iudge thy seruantes, that I condemne the vngodly to by paye by a waye vpon his head and iustifye the ryghteous to geue hym accorde byng to his ryghteousnesse. * When thy people Israel be put to the worse before the enemy, because they haue synned agaynst the, and afterwarde turne agayne to the, and knowledg vnto thy name, and praye and make supplication vnto the in this house: then heare thou in heauen to be mercifull vnto the synne of thy people Israel and byng them agayne vnto the lande, whych thou gauest vnto they fathers.

* If heau be shut vp, and there be no rayne because they haue synned agaynst the: yet if they praye in this place, & knowlege vnto thy name and turne from they synne, thou owe the scourginge of them: then heare thou in heauen, and be mercifull (vnto the synners) of thy seruantes and of thy people Israel, & thou shewe them a good waye to walke in & geue rayne vpon the lade & thou hast geuen to thy people to encrease.

If there be in the lande dearth, or pestilence, or drought, blastinge, grethopper, or caterpillar, or if they enemy belege them in the lade of they cyties, or what so euer plage or spekenes chaunce: then what prayers and supplication so euer be made of any man of al thy people Israel, whych shall knowlege euery man the plage of his owne herte, and stretch forth his handes toward this house. Heare thou then in heu, eue in thy dwelling place, and be mercifull, and worke, & geue euery man accorde byng to his wayes, (euen as I that only knowest his herte, for I only knowest the hertes of all the chyldren of men:) that they maye feare the as longe as they lyue in the lande. Whych thou gauest vnto our fathers. And lyke wyse, if a stranger that is not of thy people Israel, come out of a farre countrey for thy names sake, for they shall heare of thy great name, and of thy myghtye hande and of thy stretched out arme, and shall come and pray in this house. Therefore heare thou, in heauen thy dwelling place, and do all that the stranger calleth to the for: that all nations of the earth may know thy name and feare the, as do thy people Israel: and that they maye knowe that thy name is called vpon in this house that I haue buyte.

If thy people go out to batayl agaynst they enemy, whycher so euer thou shalt sende them, and shall praye vnto the (O Lorde) toward the waye of the cytie whych thou hast chosen, & toward the house that I haue buyte for thy name (heare thou in heauen they prayer and supplication

1 Kings 11 If they come agaynst the (forther is no m<sup>o</sup> that synned not) and thou be angrie wth the and deliuer them into the hande of they enemyes. so that they carry them awaye prisoners vnto the lande of they enemyes, eyther farre or neare, yet if they tourne agayne vnto they bertes in the lande (to the whych they be carryed awaye captiue.) and retorne and praye vnto f in the lande of they enemyes, sayeng: we haue synned, we haue done wychedly, and haue com mytted vngodlynes, and so turne agayne vnto the wth all they bertes, and all they soule, in f lande of they enemyes (whych led them awaye captiue) and praye vnto the, towarde the waye of they lande, which thou gauest vnto they fathers, & towarde the cytie whiche thou hast chosen, and towarde the house whych I haue buyt for thy name: the heare thou they? & praye and supplication in heauen thy dwellyng place, and iudge they cause: and be merciful vnto thy people that haue synned agaynst the, and vnto all they iniquities (whereby they haue done wychedly agaynst the) & get thou them the fauour of those whych led them awaye captiue, f they may haue compassion on them. For they be thy people, & thyn inheritaunce, whych thou broughtest out of Egypt, euen from the myddest of the fornace of p<sup>o</sup>zon. And let thyne eyes be ope vnto the prayer of thy seruaunt, and vnto the prayer of thy people Israel: to hearken vnto them, in al that they call for vnto the. For thou dydest separte them from among all nations, of f erth, (to be thyne owne inheritaunce) as thou saydest by f m<sup>o</sup> of Moses thy seruaunt, wh<sup>e</sup> f broughtest our fathers out of Egypt. 1 Kings 11 12 The Lord God.

1 Kings 11 13 And when Salomon had made an ende of prayenge al thys prayer and supplication vnto the Lord, he arose from before the altare of the Lord, and from kneylinge on hys knees, & from stretchynge of hys handes vnto heauen, & stode and blessed all the congregation of Israel wth a loude voyce, sayenge: Blessed be the Lord f hath gyuen rest vnto hys people Israel, accordynge to all that he promysed: & there hath not failed one worde of al the good promysse whych he promysed by the hande of Moses his seruaunt. The Lord our God be wth vs, as he was wth our fathers, and forsake vs not, neyther leaue vs, but that he maye bowe our bertes vnto him that we maye walke in all his wayes, and kepe hys commaundementes, hys statutes, and hys lawes, whych he commaunded our fathers. And these my wordes whych I haue prayed before the Lord, be nye vnto the Lord our God daye & nyght that he defende the cause of hys seruaunt & the cause of hys people Israel (what thyng so euer chaunce at any time) that al nacys of f erth maye knowe that the Lord is God, and none but he. Let your bertes therfore be perfect wth the Lord our God, that ye walke in hys statutes, & kepe hys commaundementes, as thys day.

the Lord, and he offered vnto the Lord xlii. thousande oxen, and an hundred & twenty thousande shepe: And to the kyng and all the chyldren of Israel dedicated the house of the Lord. The same day dyd the kyng halowe the mydle of the court, that was before the house of the Lord: for there be offered burnt offeringes, meat offeringes, and the fat of the peace offeringes. he cause the brasen altare that was before f Lord was to p<sup>o</sup>le to receyue f burnt offeringes, meat offeringes, and the fat of the peace offeringes.

And Salomon helde that same tyme an hye feast and all Israel wth hym, a very great congregation, euen fro the entrynge in of Iherusalem vnto the ryuer of Egypt, before the Lord our God, & seuen dayes and seuen dayes, euen. xlii. dayes. And the viii. day he sent f people away. And they blessed f kyng and wente vnto they tentes ioyous and with glad hert, because of al the goodnesse that the Lord had done for Dauid hys seruaunt, and for Israel hys people.

The .ii. Chapter.

1 Kings 11 15 The Lord appeareth the seconde tyme to Salomon. Salomon getheth colones to Dyr. The Canaanites become tributaries. He stibeth wyse for gold. He buyeth many cyties.

1 Kings 11 16 And when Salomon had synylised the buydyng of the house of f Lord & the kynges palace, and all that he did in hys mynd, and was appoynted to make: the Lord appeared vnto hym agayne as he appeared vnto hym at Gibeon. And the Lord sayde vnto hym: I haue herde thy prayer and thy intercession, that thou hast made before me. For I haue halowed this house (whych thou hast buyt), to putte my name there for ever, and myne eyes, and myne herte, shall be there perpetuallye. And if thou wilt walk before me (as Dauid thy father walked, in purenes of herte, and in ryghteousnesse) to do al that I haue commaunded the, and wilt kepe my statutes, and my lawes, then wilt I stablyshe the seate of thy kyngdome vpon Israel for ever, as I promysed to Dauid thy father sayenge: & Thou shalt not be wthoute a man vpon the seate of Israel.

But and if ye and your chyldre turne away from me, and wilt not kepe my commaundementes and my statutes (whych I haue set before you) but go and serue other goddes, & worshyp them: then wyl I wede Israel oute of the lande which I haue giue the: And this house which I haue halowed for my name, wyl I call out of my sight, and Israel shall be a p<sup>o</sup>uerbe & a fable amonge all nacys. And this house shall be taken away: so that every one that passeth by it, shall be astonyed, and shall bylle: and they shall saye: whych hath the Lord done thus vnto this lande and to this house? And they shall answer because they forsoke f Lord they God, whych brought they fathers out of the lande of Egypt and haue taken holde vpon other Goddes, and haue worshypped them, and serued them: therfore hath the Lord brought vpon them all this euil. & And if fortuneth, that at the ende of thys tye peres, Salomon synylised the buydyng of the two houses, that is to wete, the house of the Lord

Lozde and the kynges palace. And hiram the kyng of Tyre, broughte Salomon timber of Cedar, and fyre trees, golde, and what so euer he desired: And Salomon againe gaue him xx. cyties in the lande of Galile. And hiram came out from Tyre to the cyties whiche Salomon had geuen him, and they pleased him not. And he sayd: what cyties are these whiche thou hast gyuen me, my brother? & he called the the lande of Cabul vnto this daye. And hiram sent the kyng. vii. scoze hundred weyght of golde. And this is the summe, whiche kyng Salomon raysted for a trybute when he builded the house of the Lozde, and his owne house, and Gillo, and the walles of Ierusalem, and Hazor, and Megiddo, and Gazat.

¶ And Pharaos kyng of Egypt went vp, and toke Gazat, and burnt it with fyre & slue the Canaanites that dwelte in the cytie, and gaue it for a presente vnto his daughter, Salomons wyfe. And Salomon buylt Gazat and Beth honon & netzer: and Baalath and Thamar in the wyldernesse and in the lande: & all the trea sure cyties that Salomon had, & (and were vnmalted, whiche he made strong) and cyties for his charrettes, and cyties for his horsemen, and all that Salomon desired and wolde buyde in Ierusalem, in Libanon and in all the land of his dominion.

¶ And all the people that were left of Amorit, herhit, cheret, hitit, hitit and Jebusites, whiche were not of the chyldren of Israel: theyr chyldren that were left after them in the lande, whome the chyldren of Israel also were not able to destroye. Those bydde Salomon compell to bypge trybute vnto this daye.

¶ But of the chyldren of Israel bydde Salomon make no bondme. But they were mē of warre, his mynistres, his lordes, his capteynes, & rulers of his charrettes & his horsemen. And these were the lordes, that were set ouer Salomons worke: euen syue hundred were they and fyfty, & they ruled the people that wrought the worke.

¶ And Pharaos daughter came out of the cite of Dauid vnto the house whiche Salomon had buylt for her. And then byd he also buyde Gillo. And this is a yere byd Salomon offer burnt offerings and peace offerings vpon the altare whiche he buylt vnto the Lozde: And he burnt incense vpon the altare that was before the Lozde and so he synished the house.

¶ And kyng Salomon made a napp of hyppes in Thib Gaber which is beside Eloth, & the bynche of the red see, in the lade of Edom. And hiram sent by hypp also of his sernautes, that were hyppmen, and had knowledge of the sea, with the sernautes of Salomon. And they came to Ophir and fet from thence one & twentie scoze hundred weyght of golde, and brought it to kyng Salomon.

¶ The x. Chapter.

¶ The queene of Saba cometh to heare the wysdome of Salomon, whiche sayd also is here desired.

¶ And the queene of Saba hearing fame of Salomon (concernyng the name of the Lozde) came to proue him with hard questions. And she came to Ierusalem with a very great trayne: with Camels & bare swete odoures, and golde exceeding much, and pccious stones. And she came to Salomon, & commaunded with hym of all that was in her herte. And Salomon declared vnto her all her questions, so that there was not one thyng byd from the kyng, whiche he expounded not vnto her.

¶ And the queene of Saba considered al Salomons wysdome, and the house that he had buylt, and the meate of his stable, and the sytting of his sernautes, the ordre of his mynistres, & theyr apparel, his dynke & his burnt sacrifices that he offered in the house of the Lozde, & she was astonyed. And she sayd vnto the kyng. It was a true worde that I herde in myne owne lande of the sapenges: & of thy wysdome. howbeit I beleued it not tyl I cam, & sawe it with myne eyes. And beholde the one halfe was not tolde me: for thy wysdome & prosperitie exceedeth the fame whiche I herde of the. happy are thy men: & happy are these thy sernautes, which stande euer before the Lozde, & heare thy wysdome. Blessed be the Lozde the God, which loued me, to set me on the seat of Israel, because the Lozde loued Israel for euer & made the kyng, to do equitie & righteousnes.

¶ And she gaue the kyng syxe scoze hundred weyght of golde, & of swete odoures exceeding much, and pccious stones. There came nomore suche aboundaunce of swete odoures, as the queene of Saba gaue to kyng Salomon. The nauye also of the hyppes of hiram (that carped gold from Ophir) brought likewise great plenty of Almuge tree and pccious stones. And the kyng made of the Almuge trees, pillars for the house of the Lozde and for the kynges palace, & made harpes & psalteries for lyngers. There came no more suche Almuge trees, nor were anye more sene vnto this daye. And kyng Salomon gaue vnto the queene of Saba accordyng to all her desire what soeuer she asked: besydes that he gaue her of a free wyll with his owne hande. And so she retourned vnto her owne countreys: both she, and her sernautes.

¶ The weyght of golde that came to Salomon in one yere, was syxe hundred thre scoze & syxe talentes of gold, besydes that he had of chappyn and of marchautes & of poricaries, & of all the kynges of Arabye, & of the lordes of the countrey. And kyng Salomon made two hundred bucklers of beaten golde, syxe hundreded speles of golde went to a buckeler. And he made thre hundred thyldes of beaten golde, thre pounde of golde wente to one thyld, & the kyng put them in the house of the wood of Libanon.

¶ And the kyng made a great seate of ruer and covered it with the beste golde. And the seate had syxe steppes. And the toppe of the seate, was rounde behynde, & there were pomels on eche syde on the place of the seate, & two Lyons stode besyde the pomelles. And there stode xii. Lions on the steppes. vi. on a syde. There was none lyke (worke) sene in any kyngdome. And all the kyng Salomons dynkyng vessels were of golde, and lykewise al the vessels of the house of the of the mouth of Libanus were of pure golde. And as for the temple, it was nothing worth in the dayes of Salomon. For the kynges naup of thynnes wente on the sea unto Charis with the naup of hiram thynnes: euen ones in the pease sent the naup to Charis, and broughte gold and syluer Elephantes teeth, apes and peacocks. * And so kyng Salomon exceeded all the kynges of the earth both in ryches and in wysedome. And all the world resorted to Salomon, to heare his wysedome, which God had put in his hert. And broughte hym euery man hys presente, vessels of syluer, and vessels of golde, rayment, harnesse, and sweete odoures, and horses and mules, here by pere. And Salomon gathered together charrettes and horsemen: and he hadde a thousande and foure hundred charrettes, and .xii. thousande horsemen, whome he bestowed in the charret cyrtis, and with the kyng at Ierusalem.

* And the kyng made syluer in Ierusalem as plenteous as stones, and Cedar as plenteous as the wild figge trees that growe abundantly in the felde. The bypnyng of horses also out of Egypte: and the collectio of the warres: byd the kynges marchauntes take agayne, & solde the stuffe for a pypce. A charret came out of Egypte for .vi. hundred cycles of syluer, that is, one horse for an hundred and fyftee. And euen so for all the kynges of the hethites and for the kynges of Siria, byd they bypnyng them out the rowe they haden.

The .xi. Chapter.

Salomon hath seven hundred Quenes and the hundred concubynes, whiche broughte hym to Idolatrye, bys aduersaries rebell agaynst hym. He dyeth.

But kyng Salomon loved many oute landyshe women: and the daughter of Pharaos: and women of the Moabites, Ammonites, Edomites, and Sidonites and hethites. Where as yet (concernyng these nations) the Lorde sayde vnto the chyldren of Israel: * come not ye at them, nor let them come at you. Elles wyl they turne your hertes after theyr goddes. Nevertheless, Salomon claued vnto them in lone. * And he had seven hundred Quenes, and the hundred concubynes, & bys wyues turned away his herte. For it came to passe, when Salomon was olde, bys wyues turned hys herte after other gods: and his herte was not perfecte with the Lorde hys God, as was the herte of Dauid hys father: For Salomon folowed Asaroth the God of the sidons, and Milcom the abhominacion of the Ammonites. And Salomon wroughte wychednes in the syght of the Lorde, and folowed not the Lorde perfectly, as byd Dauid hys father. For the byd Salomon buyde an hys place for Chamos the abhominacion of Moab, in the hille that is be fore Ierusalem, and vnto Moloch the abhominacion of the chyldren of Ammon. And lyke wyse byd he for al his outlandyshe wyues which burnt cens and offered vnto theyr goddes. And the Lorde was angry with Salomon, because hys herte was turned fro the Lorde God of Israel: whiche had appeared vnto him wyse and gaue hym a charge (concernyng thes thynge) that he shulde not folowe other goddes. But he kepte not that, whiche the Lorde commaunded hym: wherfore the Lorde sayd vnto Salomon for a synne that is done of the, and thou hast not kepte myne appoyntment, and my statutes (whiche I commaunded the) I wyl rent thyng dome from the, and wyl gyue it to thy seruauit. Notwithstandyng in thy dayes, I wyl not do it, because of Dauid thy father but wyl take it from the hnde of thy sone. howbeit I wyl not take awaye all the kyngdome: But wyl gyue one trefte to thy sone, because of Dauid my seruauit, & because of Ierusalem which I haue chosyn.

And the Lorde stirred vp an aduersary vnto Salomon: euen one hadad an Edomite, of the kynges seide, whiche was in Edom. For when Dauid was in Edom, and Joab the captayne of his host was gone vnto bury them that were slayne, he smote all the men chyldren in Edom. For .vi. monethes byd Joab remaine there and all Israel, tyll he had destroyed all the men chyldren of Edom. And thys hadad fled and certain other Edomites of hys seruantes with hym, to come into Egypte: hadad beyng pet a lytle chyld. And they arose out of Arabia, and came to Paran, and toke men with them oute of Paran, and came to Egypte vnto Pharaos kyng of Egypte, whiche gaue hym an house, and apoynted hym bytaries, and gaue hym lande.

And hadad gat greate fauour in the syght of Pharaos, so that he gaue hym to wyfe the syster of hys owne wyfe, euen the syster of Chabenes the quene. And the syster of Chabenes, bare hym Semubath hys sonne, whom Chabenes noyshed in Pharaos house. And Semubath was at Pharaos household amoge the sonnes of Pharaos. And when hadad herde in Egypte, that Dauid was layd to slepe with hys fathers and that Joab the captayne of his host was dead also, he sayd to Pharaos: let me depart, & I maye go to myne owne countrey. Pharaos sayd vnto hym: what hast thou lacked here with me, that thou woldest thus go to thine owne countrey? he answered, nothyng: howbeit let me go. And God stirred hym vp another aduersary, one Rezon the sonne of Eliada, whiche fled fro hys lorde hadad beyng kyng of zoba. And he gathered men vnto hym, and became captayne ouer the company, when Dauid slue them. And they went to Damasco, and dwelte there, & raygned in Damasco. Therefore was he an aduersary to Israel all the dayes of Salomon. And thys was the myschefe, in that hadad byd abhorre Israel, and raygned ouer Siria.

And Ieroboam the sone of Nebat an Ephraimite of zareda, whose mother was called zeruah, whiche was a wyddowe, and he Salomons seruauit lyfte vp hys hande agaynst the kyng. But thys was the cause, that he lyfte up hys hande agaynst the kyng: Salomon buyt Meloch, and mended the broken places of the ctyte of Dauid hys father. And thys felow Ieroboam was a man of warre. And Salomon sawe the poyng man that he was able to do the worke, he made hym ruler ouer al the charges of the house of Ioseph

Joseph. And it chaunced at that crason, that Jeroboam wente out of Ierusalem, and the prophet Ahias the Shilonite met hym by the waye; carryinge a newe mantell on hym, & they two were alone in the felde. Ahias caughte the newe mantell that was on hym, and rent it in twelue peces, and sayd to Jeroboam: take the ten peces. For thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: behold, I wyl rent the kyngdome out of the handes of Salomon, and wyl gyue ten tribes to the: & and he shall haue one, for my seruante Dauid sake, & for Ierusalem the cytie whych I haue chosen out of all the tribes of Israel: because they haue forsake me, and haue worshypped vnto Astaroth the God of the sidons, and Chamos the God of the Moabites, and Milcom the God of the chyldren of Ammō: & haue not walked in my wayes (to fulfyll my pleasure, my statutes and my lawes) as dyd Dauid my father.

I wyl not take the whole kyngdome out of hys hande: but I wyl make hym chiefe all hys lyfe longe, for Dauid my seruantes sake, whō I chose: because he kepte my commaundmentes and my statutes. * But I wyl take the kyngdome out of hys sonnes hande, and wyl gyue it vnto the, euen ten tribes of it, & vnto hys sonne wyl I gyue one tribē that Dauid my seruante maye haue a lyght alwaye before me in Ierusalem, the cytie whych I haue chose me, to put my name there. And I wyl take the, and thou shalt raygne accordyng to al that thy soule desyret, and shalt be kinge ouer Israel. And yf thou berken vnto all that I comaunde the, & wylt walke in my wayes and do that is ryght in my syght, that thou kepe my statutes & my comaundmentes (as Dauid my seruante dyd) then wyl I be wylth the, and buyde the a sure house that shall continue, as I buyde for my seruante Dauid, & wyl gyue Israel vnto the. And I wyl for thy offence (whych the Salomon hath committed) vexe the seide of Dauid, but not for euer.

Salomon soughte therefore to kyl Jeroboam, and Jeroboam arose, and fled into Egypte vnto Nisak kyng of Egypte, and continued there in Egypte vntill the deathe of Salomon. The rest of the wordes that chcerne Salomon, and all that he dyd, and hys wysdome: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the wordes of Salomō?

The tyme that Salomon raygned in Ierusalem vpon all Israel, was fourtye yere. And Salomō slepe & he layd hym wylth his fathers & was buryed in the cytie of Dauid his father & Rehoboam hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

¶ The xiiij. Chapter.

The kyngdome is deuptyd. Rehoboam raygneth ouer the ten tribes, and Jeroboam ouer the xiiij. tribes, & heauiyng the golden calves.

¶ Rehoboam went to Sichem: for al Israel were come to Sichem, to make hym kyng. And Jeroboam & some of Astaroth whych was yet in Egypte berde of it: & for he fledde to Egypte from the presence of kyng Salomon, and dwelt in Egypte. So they sent and called hym: and Jeroboam and al the congregation of Israel came, and spake vnto Rehoboam, saying: thy father made our yoke greuous nowe therfore, make thou the greuous scrupce of thy father and hys yoke yoke whych he put vpon vs, lyghter, and we wyl serue the. And he sayde vnto them: departe yet for the space of thre dayes, and then come agayne to me. And the people departed.

And kyng Rehoboam toke counsell with the olde men that stode before Salomon hys father, whyle he yet lyued, and sayd: what counsell gyue ye, that I maye haue matter to answer thes people? And they sayd vnto hym: If thou be a seruante vnto thes people thes daye, and folowe theyr myndes and aunswere them, and speake hynde wordes to them: they wyl be thy seruantes for euer. But he forsoke the counsell that the olde men had gyuen hym, and called vnto hys counsail yonge men, that were growen up wylth hym, and wayted on hym.

And he sayd vnto them: what counsell gyue ye, that we maye answer thes people (for they haue communed wylth me, saying: make yoke whych thy father dyd put vpon vs, lyghter. And the yonge men that were growen up wylth hym, spake vnto hym sayinge. Thus shalt thou speake vnto thes people (that haue sayde vnto the: thy father made our yoke heuye, but make thou it vs lyghter.) Euen thus shalt thou saye vnto them: My lytle fyrger shalbe wayghter then my father was in the loynes. And nowe where as my father dyd lade you and put a greuous yoke vpon you, I wyl make it heuyer. My father also corrected you wylth scourges, but I wyl chastyce you wylth scorpions. And so Jeroboam and all the people, came to Rehoboam the thyrde daye, as the kyng had appointed, saying: come to me agayne the thyrde day. And the kyng answered the people chosly, and lette the olde mens counsell (that they gaue hym) and spake to them after the counsell of the yonge men, saying. My father made yokes yokes greuous, and I wyl make it greuouser. My father also chastysed you wylth whypes, but I wyl chastyse you wylth scorpions. And the kyng berkened not vnto the people: for it was the ordynance of God, that he myght perfourme his sayenge, whych the Lorde spake by Ahia the Shilonite vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat.

And so when al Israel saw that the kyng regarded them not, the people answered the kyng wylth these wordes, sayinge: what porciō haue we in Dauid? we haue no inheritaunce in y sonne of Iui. To your tentes, O Israel, nowe se to thynne owne house Dauid. And so Israel departed vnto theyr tentes howbeit ouer the chyld of Israel whych dwelt in the cytie of Iuda, dyd Rehoboam raygne still. The kyng Rehoboam sent Adoram receyuer of the tribute. And all they of Israel stoned hym to deathe. But kyng Rehoboam made spede to get hym up to hys charit, & to fflye to Ierusalem. And they of Israel rebelled agaynst y house of Dauid, vnto this day. And whē al Israel hearde that Jeroboam was come agayne, they sent & called hym vnto y multitude, & made hym kyng ouer al Israel: & there was no tribē y folowed the house of Dauid, but Iuda

¶ And when Jeroboam had come to Jerusalem, he gathered all the house of Juda with the tribe of Ben Jamin an hundred & four thousand of chosen men (which were good warriors) to fight against the house of Israel and to bring the kingdome agayne to Jeroboam the sonne of Salomon.

¶ And the worde of God came vnto Semai the man of God, saying: speake vnto Jeroboam the sonne of Salomon kyng of Juda, and vnto all the house of Juda & Ben Jamin, and to the remnant of the people, saying: Thus sayeth the Lorde. Ye shall not go vp, nor yet fighte agaynst your bretherne the chyldren of Israel, returne euery man to his house, for this thyng is my doyng. They hearkened therefore to the worde of the Lorde & returned to depart, according to the worde of the Lorde. Then Jeroboam buylt Sichem in mount Ephraim, & dwelt therin. And went from thence, & buylt Bethel.

And Jeroboam thought in his herte: nowe shall the kyngdome returne to the house of Dauid. For if this people go vp & do sacrifice in the house of the Lorde at Ierusalem shall the herte of this people turne agayne vnto the Lorde. Jeroboam kyng of Juda: & so he called his sonne and go agayne to Jeroboam kyng of Juda.

¶ And he took two calves of golde, & sayd vnto them, It is muche for you to go vp to Ierusalem. Beholde, O Israel: these are thy goddesses, which brought you out of the lande of Egypt. And he set the one in Bethel, and the other set he in Dan. And this thyng turned to synne, for the people went (because of the one) as farre as Dan. And he made an howse of hyl aultares, & made vestres of the lowest of the people, which were not of the sonnes of Levi. And Jeroboam made a feast the xv. daye of the eyght moneth, lyke vnto the feast that is in Juda, & offered on the aultare. And so dyd he in Bethel, to offre vnto the calves he had made. And he put in Bethel the prestes of the hyl aultares, which he had made. And he offered burnt offrynges vpon the aultare, which he had made in Bethel, the xv. daye of the eyght moneth: euen in the moneth which he had purposed: euen in his owne herte: and made a solempne feast vnto the chyldren of Israel, and offered vpon the aultare, and burnt incense.

Jeroboam doyn sacrifice vnto the calves, & reprehendeth of the prophete. He sayeth vnto him, whiche he putteth out agaynst the prophete. The prophete is killed, & hurled.

¶ And beholde, there came a man of God out of Juda (by the word of the Lorde) vnto Bethel, & Jeroboam stood by the aultare to put incense. And he cryed agaynst the aultare in the wordes of the Lorde & sayd. O aultare aultare, thus sayeth the Lorde: Beholde, a chyld shall be borne vnto the house of Dauid, (Josiab by name) & vpon the shall be offer the prestes of the hyl aultares that burnt incense vpon the, and memmes bones shall be burnt vpon the. And he gaue a token the same tyme, saying: This is the token, that the Lorde hath spoke. Behold the aultare shall rente, and the ashes that are vpon it, shall fall out.

And when the kyng herd the sayenge of the man of God (which had cryed agaynst the aultare in Bethel) he stretched out his hande from the aultare, saying: holde hym. And his hande which he put forth agaynst hym, dyed vp, and he coulde not put it in agayn to hym: the aultare also claued asunder, & the ashes fell oute from the aultare, according to the token which the man of God had giuen by the word of the Lorde. And the kyng answered, & sayd vnto the man of God. Oh praye vnto the Lorde thy God, & make intercession for me, that my hand may be restored me agayne. And the man of God besought the Lorde, and the kynges hande was restored agayne, and became as it was afore.

And the kyng sayde vnto the man of God, come home with me, that thou mayst dyne, and I wyl geue thee a rewarde. And the man of God sayd vnto the kyng: if thou woldest geue me halfe thyne house, I wyl not go in with thee, neyther wyl I eate breade or drynke water in this place. For so was it charged me, that I shoulde the worde of the Lorde, saying: eate no breade nor drynke water, nor turne agayne by the same way that thou camest. And so he went another way & returned not by the way that he came to Bethel. And there dwelt an olde prophete in Bethel and his sonnes came, and tolde hym all the wordes, that the man of God had done that daye in Bethel, and the wordes which he had spoken vnto the kyng tolde they the father also. And they the father sayd vnto them: what waye wente he? And his sonnes answered hym what waye the man of God wente, which came from Juda. And he sayd vnto his sonnes: salue me the ass. Whiche when they had salued, he gat hym vp thereon, and wente after the man of God, and founde hym sittinge vnder a tre. And he sayde vnto hym: arte thou the man of God that camest from Juda? And he sayde: I am.

He sayd vnto hym: come home with me, and eate breade. He answered: I maye not returne with thee, to go in with thee, neyther wyl I eate breade or drynke water with thee in this place. For it was sayd to me in the wordes of the Lorde Thou shalt eate no breade, nor drynke water there, nor turne agayne to go by the waye that thou camest. He sayd vnto him: I am a prophete also as well as thou, & an angell spake vnto me in the name of the Lorde, saying: bringe hym agayne to the into thyne owne house, & he maye eate breade & drynke water. And he lyed vnto hym. And so he went agayne with hym, & dyd eate breade in his house and drinke water.

And it soynned, & as they sat at the table, the wordes of the Lorde came vnto the prophete, that brought him agayne. And he cryed vnto the man of God & came from Juda, saying: thus sayeth the Lorde: because thou hast disobeyed the wordes of the Lorde, & hast not kepte the commandment which the Lorde thy God commaunded thee: but camest backe agayne, & hast eaten breade & drinke water in the place (concernynge the which the Lorde

Lord byd say vnto the. Thou shalt eat no bread nor drynke anye water: thy carhaffe shall not come vnto the sepulchre of thy fathers.

And so it came to passe, & when he had eaten bread and dronke, the p[ro]phet whiche brought hym agayne, saddled hym an asse. And when he was gone, * a l[ye]n met hym by the waye, & slue him, and his carhaffe was cast in the waye, and the asse stode thereby, and the l[ye]n stode by the coo[se] also. And men p[as]sed by, sawe the car-casse cast in the way, and the l[ye]n standing ther by: and they came & tolde it in the towne where the olde p[ro]phet dwelt. And when the p[ro]phete that brought hym backe agayne from the way heard thereof, he sayde: it is the man of God. he was disobedient vnto p[ro]f[et] worde of the Lord, and therefore the Lord hath deliuered hym vnto the l[ye]n, whiche hath rent him and slayne hym, according to the worde of p[ro]f[et] Lord, whiche he spake vnto hym. And he spake to his sonnes, sayinge: saddle me an asse: and so they byd. And he went and foude his body cast in the waye, and the asse and the l[ye]n stode by the coo[se]. And the l[ye]n had not eaten the carhaffe nor hurt the asse. And the p[ro]phet toke vp the body of the man of God and layed it v[er]y the asse, and brought it agayne and the olde p[ro]phete came to the c[ri]p[te], to lament, and bury hym. And he layed hys bodie in his owne graue, and they lamented ouer him: (Alas, my brother.)

And when he had buried hym, he spake to his sonnes, saying: When I am deed, se that ye bu-rye me in the sepulchre wherein the man of God is buried: laye my bones besydes hys bones.

* For the saying whiche he cryed at the worde of the Lord agaynst the altar in Bethel (and a-gaynst all the houses of hylaulters which are in the c[ri]p[te] of Samarie) shall come to passe.

Howbeit, for all that, Jeroboam conuerted not from his wicked waye: but turned backe, & made of the lowest of the people, p[re]stres of the hylaulters. And whoso pleased hym, he fylled his hande, and became p[re]st of the hylaulters.
And this thyng turned to syn vnto the house of Jeroboam, euen to destroye hym, and to byngne hym to nought from the face of the earth.

C The. xliii. Chapter.

Jeroboams wyfe aseth counsaile of Abia the p[ro]phet. Jeroboam dyeth. Salathiel kyng of Iuda: and how the house of the Lord. Jeroboam dyeth, and Abiam succeedeth hym.

That tyme Abia the sonne of Jeroboam fell sick. And Jeroboam sayd vnto hys wyfe: vp (I praye the) and disguise thy selfe, & thou be not knowen to be p[ro]f[et] wyfe of Jer-oboam, & get the to Silo. For there is Abia p[ro]p[et] whiche tolde me * I should be kyng ouer this people. And take w[ith] the ten loues & craknels, & a cruise of honny, and go to hym, & he maye tell the what shall become of the chyld. And Jeroboams wyfe byd so: and arose, and wente to Silo, and came to the house of Abia. But Abia could not se, for his eyes were wahren by myne for age.

And the Lord sayd vnto Abia: Behold, the wyfe of Jeroboam cometh to aske a thyng of the for her son, for he is sick. But thus shalt thou saye vnto her: And when she came in, she feyned her selfe to be an other woman. But w[hen] Abia herde the sounde of her feet as she came in at the doore, he sayde: come in thou wyfe of Jeroboam, why feynest thou thy selfe to be an other? I am sent to the to the we the deuyse thynges.

So tel Jeroboam, thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: (It repecteth me) forasmuch as I altered the fro amonge the people, and made the prynces ouer my people Israel: I byd r[em]e the kyngdom away fro the house of Dauid, & gaue it the:
Neuerthelesse, thou hast not bene as my seruaunt Dauid, whiche kept my commaundementes, and folowed me with all his herte, to do that whiche is right in myne eyes: but hast done euill aboue all that were before the, for thou hast gone and made the other goddes, and molten ymages, to prouoke me, and hast cast me behynde thy backe: therefore behold, I wyll byngne euill vpon the house of Jeroboam, and wyl roote out from Jeroboam, euen hym that * pylleth agaynst the wall, and hym that is in pylon and forsaken in Israel, and wyl take awaye the remnaunte of the house of Jeroboam, as a man taketh awaye donge, tyll he hath carped out all.

* Whoso euer of Jeroboams house dye in the towne, hym shall the dogges eat: and he p[ro]f[et] in the seide that the foules of the ayre eat: for the Lord hath sayde it. Al[so] therefore, and gette the to thyne house. Behold, whiche thy fote entred into the c[ri]p[te] the chyld shall dye. And all they of Israel shall mourne for hym, and bury hym: for he only of Jeroboam shall come to the sepulchre, because in hym there is founde goodnesse toward the Lord God of Israel: in the house of Jeroboam. Whereouer, the Lord shall sp[re]e hym vp a kyng ouer Israel whiche shall destroy the house of Jeroboam in that daye. But what is it nowe? For the Lord shall smyte Israel, as when a reed is waken in the water, and he shall wede Israel oute of this good lande, whiche he gaue to theyr fathers: and shall scatter them beyonde the riu[er], because they haue made them groues, and angred the Lord. And he shall g[ra]ue Israel vp, because of the synnes of Jeroboam, whiche byd synne, and made Israel to synne.

And Jeroboams wyfe arose, and departed, and came to Thirzah, and when she came to the thresholde of the doore, the chyld was deed. And all Israel buried hym, and lamented hym, according to the word of the Lord whiche he spake by the hand of his seruaunt Abia the p[ro]phete.
And the rest of p[ro]f[et] wordes that came Jeroboam, howe he warred, and how he raygned. Behold, they are wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And the dayes wherof Jeroboam raygned were. xxi. yere. And when he was layed aſſepe with his fathers, Nadab his ſonne raygned in his ſtede.

Rehoboam the ſonne of Salomon raygned in Juda, and Rehoboam was. xli. yere old whē he begā to raygne, and raygned. xlii. yere in Jeruſalem: the cytie which the Lord dyd choſe out of al the tribes of Iſrael, to put his name there: his mothers name was Raama an Ammonite. And Juda wrought wickedneſſe in the ſpyght of the Lord: and angered hym in moſt thynges then theſe fathers dyd in the p. ſynnes which they ſinned. For they alſo made them hylaulters, ymagēs, and groues on euery hyl, & vnder euery thyeke tree. And there was a ſtues of male chylidien in the lande, and they dyd accordyng to all the abhominacions of the nations which the Lord caſt out before the chylidzen of Iſrael. And it ſo tyned, & in the fyfte yere of kyng Rehoboam: Sifaſak kyng of Egypt came vpon agaynſt Jeruſalem, & toke away the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, and the treaſures of the kynges houſe, & ſpoyled all that was to be had. And he toke away the ſpydes of golde * which Salomō had made. In whole ſtede kyng Rehoboam made braſen ſpydes, and commytted them vnto the handes of the keepynge of the captaynes of the garde, which wayted at the doze of the kynges houſe. And when the kyng went into the houſe of the Lord: they of the garde bare them, and brought them agayne into the garde chambze.

The reſt of the wordes that concerne Rehoboam, and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam all theſe yeres. And Rehoboam ſlepte with his fathers, and was buryed beſyde his fathers in the cytie of Dauid. His mothers name was Raama an Ammonite. And Abiam his ſonne raygned in his ſtede.

The. xv. Chapter

Wherof Abiam raygned ouer Juda, and righteous Ala ſuccedeth in his counte. The battayle betwene Ala and Baſa. Jeroboam ſuccedeth Ala. Nadab ſuccedeth Jeroboam. Baſa ſlayeth Nadab.

In the. xlii. yere of kyng * Jeroboam the ſon of Nadab, raygned Abiam ouer Juda. Theſe yeres raygned he in Jeruſalem, & his mothers name was Maacha the daughter of Abiſalom. And he walked in all the ſynnes of his father, which he had done befoze him: and his hert was not perfect w the Lord his God * as the herte of Dauid his father. Neuertheleſſe, for Dauids ſake dyd the Lord his God gyue hym a lyght in Jeruſalem, that he ſet vp his ſonne after hym, and to ſtablyſh Jeruſalem, becauſe Dauid dyd that which was ryght in the ſpyght of the Lord, and turned from nothyng that he commaunded hym, all the dayes of his lyfe, * ſane only in the matter of Alas the heethen. And there was warre betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam as long as they lyued. The reſt of the wordes that concerne Abiam, and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And there was war betwene Abiam, and Jeroboam. And Abiam ſlepte with his fathers, and they buryed hym in the cytie of Dauid. And Ala his ſonne raygned in his ſtede.

In the. xi. yere of Jeroboam kyng of Iſrael raygned Ala ouer Juda. xli. yere raygned he in Jeruſalem, and his mothers name was Maacha, the daughter of Abiſalom. And Ala dyd ſermed ryght in the eyes of the Lord, as dyd Dauid his father. * And he toke away the whozekeepers out of the lande, and put away all the abhominable ydols that his father had made. And he put downe * Maacha his mother from bearyng rule, becauſe ſhe had made ymagēs in groues. And Ala deſtroyed her ymagēs, and burnt them by the brooke Cedion. But the hylaulters were not put downe. Neuertheleſſe, Ala ſas herte was perfecte with the Lord all his dayes. He brought in the holy veſſels of his father (and ſhe had dedicate) vnto the houſe of the Lord: golde and ſyluer, and iewels. And there was warre betwene Ala and Baſa, kyng of Iſrael all theſe dayes.

And Baſa kyng of Iſrael wente vpon agaynſt Juda, and buyt Rama, ſo ſhe wold let none go out of in, to Ala kyng of Juda. Then Ala toke all the golde and ſyluer ſhe was left in the treaſures of the houſe of the Lord, & the treaſures of the kynges houſe, & deliuered them into the handes of his ſeruantes, and Ala ſent them to * Benhadad the ſonne of Tabrimon the ſonne of hezion kyng of Siria (that dwelte at Damalco) ſaying: there is a bonde betwene the and me, betwene my father and thy father. And behold, I haue ſente vnto the a preſent of ſyluer, and gold, & thou come & bzeake the bonde & thou haſt w Baſa kyng of Iſrael, ſhe may departe from me. So Benhadad berkened vnto kyng Ala, & ſet the captaynes of the hoſtes (which he had) agaynſt the cyties of Iſrael, and ſmote Hion, & Dan, & Abel, Beth, Maacha, & al the regyon of Ceneroth, with all the lande of Naphtali. And when Baſa herde therof, he left buydyng of Rama, and dwelt in Thirza. Then kyng Ala made a proclamacion thozowout al Juda, that none ſhulde be excuſed. And ſo they toke the ſtones of Ramah, and the rpuer (where with Baſa had buyded) & kyng Ala buyt with the the hyl of Ben Jamin and Gizza. The remnant of all the wordes ſhe concerne Ala, and all his myght and all that he dyd, & the cyties which he buyded, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? Neuertheleſſe, in his old age he was diſealed in his fete. And Ala ſlepte with his fathers, and was buryed beſyde his fathers in the cytie of Dauid his father.

And * Jeroboam his ſon raygned in his ſtede. And Nadab the ſonne of Jeroboam beganne to raygne vpon Iſrael the ſeconde yere of Ala kyng of Juda, and raygned vpon Iſrael two yere. And he dyd euyl in the ſpyght of the Lord, walking in the waye of his father, and in his ſynne wherwith he made Iſrael ſin. And Baſa ſon of Abia of Abia (which was of the house of Isachar, conspired agaynst hym, and Baasa smote hym at Gibbethon which is a cite of the Philistines, for Nabab and all Israel layed siege at Gibbethon. Even in the thyrtye yere of Asa kyng of Juda, dyd Baasa slaye hym, and raygned in his stede.

* And it fortuned, that when he was kyng, he smote all the house of Jeroboam, and lette hym nought that breathyd, untill he hadde put hym cleane out, accordyng to the saying of the Lord which he spake by his seruauunt Ahia the Silonite: because of the synnes of Jeroboam wherewith he synned, and made Israel syn, wher he was his prouocacion angred the Lord God of Israel.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Nabab and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And there was warre betwene Asa and Baasa kyng of Israel, all theyr dayes.

So in the thyrtye yere of Asa kyng of Juda, began Baasa the sonne of Abia to raygne ouer all Israel in Thirza. xxiii. yere. And he dydde that whiche is euyl in the syghte of the Lord, walkyng in the waye of Jeroboam, and in his synne, which made Israel to synne.

¶ The. xvi. Chapter.

Yehu prophesyeth agaynst Baasa, whom Ela succeeded. Zimri killeth his master Ela, and destroyeth the house of Baasa. Abab succeeded Zimri, and taketh to wife Isebel.

Ihen the worde of the Lord came to Jehu the sonne of Hanani agaynst Baasa, sayinge: forasmuche as I exalted the oute of the dust, and made the captayne ouer my people Israel, and thou hast walked in the way of Jeroboam, and hast made my people Israel to synne, to angre me with theyr synnes: Beholde, I wyll rote out the posterite of Baasa, and the posterite of his house, & wyll make his house lyke the house of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat. * That man of Baasa whiche dyeth in the cite, hym shall the dogges eate: and that man of hym which dyeth in the felde, shall the foules of the ayre eate.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Baasa and what he dydde, and his power, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And so Baasa slept with his fathers, and was buryed in Thirza. And Ela his sonne raygned in his stede. And by the hande of the prophet Jehu the sonne of Hanani, came the worde of the Lord agaynst Baasa, and agaynst his house, and agaynst all the wyckednesse that he dyd in the sight of the Lord (in angrynge hym wyth the wyche of his owne handes) that he shoulde be lyke the house of Jeroboam, and because he killeth hym: (That is to saye Jehu the sonne of Hanani the prophet.)

The. xxvi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Ela the sonne of Baasa to raygne ouer Israel in Thirza, two yere. And his seruauunt Zimri, whiche was captayne of halfe his charrettes conspired agaynst hym, as he was in Thirza drynking: and was doun in the house of Arza garde of his house in Thirza. And Zimri came and smote hym, and killeth hym in the xxvi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda, and raygned in his stede.

And it fortuned that when he was kyng, & and late on his leate, he shure all the house of Baasa, not leauing thereof one to pisse agaynst a wal. Yea, he shure his kynfolkes and frendes also. And thus dyd Zimri destroye all the house of Baasa, accordyng to the worde of the Lord whiche he spake agaynst Baasa by the hande of Jehu the prophet, for all the synnes of Baasa, and synnes of Ela his sonne, whiche they synned and made Israel to synne, and angred the Lord God of Israel with theyr vanities. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ela, and all he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

In the. xxvii. yere of Asa kyng of Juda dyd Zimri raygne. vii. dayes in Thirza, and the people was then in the host besieginge Gibbethon a cite of the Philistines. And the people of the hoste hearde one saye: Zimri hath conspired, and slayne the kyng: wherefore all they of Israel made Amri (the captayne of the hoste) kyng ouer Israel that same daye, even in the hoste. And Amri departed by from Gibbethon, and all Israel with hym, and they besieged Thirza. And when Zimri sawe, that the cite must nedes be taken, he went into the palace of the kynges house, and burnt him selfe and the kynges house with fyre, and so dyed for his synnes whiche he synned, in doing that which is euyl in the syghte of the Lord, and in walkyng in the waye of Jeroboam and his synnes whiche he dyd, and in that he made Israel to synne.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Zimri, and the treason that he wrought, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. Then were the people of Israel deuyded into two partes, for halfe the people followed Tibni the sonne of Sinath making him kyng and the other halfe followed Amri. But the people that followed Amri preuailed agaynst the people that followed Tibni the sonne of Sinath. And so Tibni dyed, and Amri raygned.

In the. xxxi. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Amri to raygn ouer Israel twelue yere. Syxe yere raygned he in Thirza. He bought the byll Schomron of one Seccomar for two talentes of syluer, and buylt in the byll, and called the name of the cite which he buylt after the name of Seccomar, which had ben owner of the byll Schomron. But Amri wrought that whiche was euyl in the eyes of the Lord, and dyd worse then all that were before hym. For he walked in all the way of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, and in his synnes that made Israel synne: to angre the Lord God of Israel with theyr vanities. The rest of the wordes that concerne Amri, and all that he dyd, and his strengthe that he shewed: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And so Amri slepte wyth his fathers, and was buryed in Schomron, and Abab his sonne raygned in his stede.

In the. xxxiii. yere of Asa kyng of Juda began Abab the son of Amri to raygne ouer Israel, & the same Abab the sonne of Amri raygned ouer

G. ii. Israel

Israel in Samaria. xlii. years. And Ihab the sonne of Imer dyd eyn in the syght of the Lord aboute all that were before hym. For he semed vnto him but a lyght thing to walke in the synnes of Ieroboam the sonne of Nabat. He toke Jezabel also the daughter of Ethbaal kynge of the Sidonites to wyfe, and * wene and serued Baal, and worshipped hym. And he reared vp an altier of Baal in the temple of Baal, which he had buylded in Seomron. And Ihab made groues, and proceeded further in angerunge the Lorde God of Israel, then all the kynge of Israel that were before hym.

In his dayes dyd hiel of Bethel buyde Jericho. And it * cost hym Ibiram his eldest sonne when he layed the foundation, and hys pongest sonne Segub, when he set vpon the gates, accordinge vnto the worde of the Lord: * whiche he spake by Iosua the sonne of Nun.

The xvii. Chapter.

Elia is nourished and fed of rauens, and after is sent to zarphath: otherwys called tharphat) to a woman whiche chydre he caried to lyfe.

AD Elia the Thersure (which was of the inhabitours of Gilead) sayde vnto Ihab: * as truly as the Lord God of Israel liueth, before whom I stand * there shalbe neither dewe nor rayne these yeres, but accordig to my word.

And the worde of the Lorde came vnto hym saying: get the hence, & turne the eastward, and hyde thy selfe in the brooke: Cherith, for it is that lyeth before Iordā: Thou shalt drynke of the water: & I haue commaunded the rauens to fede the there. And so he wnt, & dyd accordyng vnto the worde of the Lorde. For he went, and dwelt by the broke Cherith for he was before Iordan. And rauens broughte him byed & flesch in the morning, and lykewyse byed and flesch in the evening, and he drank of the brooke. And it chaunced after a while, for the brooke dried vp, because there fell no rayne vpon the earth. * And for worde of the Lorde came vnto hym, saying: * vp, and get the to zarphath, which is in Iudā, and dwell there.

Beholde, I haue commaunded a wyddowe there, to sustayne the. So he arose: & wnt to zarphath. And whē he came to the gate of the cytie the wyddowe was there gathering styches. And he called to her, and sayd: * set me I praye the, a lytle water in a vessel, for I maye drynke. And as she was going to fet it, he cryed after her, and said: drynge me I praye the, a morsell of byed also in thyne hande. She sayde: As truly as the Lorde the God lyueth, I haue no byed readye but one an handefull of meale in a barell, and a lytle oyle in a cruse. And beholde, I am gatheringe two styches for to go in, and drysse it for me and my sonne, that we maye eate, and dye.

And Elia sayd vnto her: feare not, come and do as thou hast sayde, but make me therof a lytle cake fyrste of all: and drynge it vnto me, and afterwarde make for the, and thy sonne. For thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: the meale in the barell shal not be wasted: neyther shal the oyle in the cruse be diminished, vntyl the Lorde haue sent rayne vpon the earth. And she went, and dyd as Elia sayde. And she and her house dyd eate a good space, and the meale wasted not out of the barell, neyther was the oyle spent out of the cruse, accordyng to the word of the Lord, which he spake by the hande of Elia. †

* And after these thynges it happened, that the sonne of the wyfe of the house fell sycke. And his sycknesse was so soze, for there was no beryth left in hym. And she sayd vnto Elia: what haue I to do with the, O thou man of Gods art thou come vnto me to call my synne agayne to remembrance, and to slaye my sonne? he sayde vnto her: gyue me thy sonne, and he toke hym out of her lappe, and caried hym vp into a loft, where he abode, and layed hym vp in his owne bedde, and called vnto the Lord, and sayd: O Lorde my God, haste thou punished also this wyddowe (with whom I dwell as a stranger) and haste slayne her sonne? And he stretched hym selfe vpon the chyldre thre tymes, & called vnto the Lorde, & sayde: O Lorde my God: let this chyldes soule come into him agayne. And the Lorde herde the voyce of Elia, and for soule of the chyldre came in to hym agayne, and he reuyned. And Elia toke the boye, and brought him downe out of the chābze into the house, and deliuered hym vnto his mother, and Elia sayd: beholde, thy son lyueth. And the womā sayd vnto Elia: now I knowe that thou art a man of God, and that the word of the Lorde in thy mouth is true. †

The xviii. Chapter.

Elia is sent to Ihab. Obadiah (otherwys called Obadia) byeth an hundred prophetes. Elia kyllyth al Baals pphetes, and afterwarde obtayneth rayne.

After proceffe of manie dayes, the worde of the Lorde came to Elia, in the thyrde yere, sayinge: go we we thy selfe vnto Ihab, and I * wyl sende rayne vpon the earth. And Elia went to the wyfe hym selfe vnto Ihab, and there was a great famishment in Seomron. And Ihab called Obadiah, whiche was the gouernoure of his house: & Obadiah feared God greatlye: For when Jezabel destroyed the prophetes of the Lorde, he toke an hundred prophetes, and hid them, bytyme men in one caue, and bytyme in an other, and prouided byed and water for them. And Ihab sayde vnto Obadiah: go into the lande, vnto all the fountaynes of water and vnto all the brookes, for bytyme we maye fynde grasse to save the horses and the mules, & that we destroye not some of the beastes. And so they descended the lande betwene the to walke thowse it. And went one waye by hym selfe, and Obadiah went an other waye by hym selfe. And it

E And it chaunced, that as Obadia was in the waye, Elia met him. And Obadia kne we him: and fell on his face, and sayde: arte not thou my lord? Elia. And he answered hym: I am he. So and tel thy lord: beholde, Elia is here. He sayd: what haue I sinned, that thou woldest deſpue thy ſeruaunt into ſhand of Ahab, to ſlaue me? As truly as the Lord thy God liueth, there is no nation of kyngdom, whither my lord hath not ſet to ſeke the. And when they ſayd: he is not there, he toke an oth of the kyngdom and nation, wher he founde the not. And now thou ſayeſt: go and tell thy lord, that Elia is here. And as ſoone as I am gone from the, the ſpyte of the Lord ſhal caſt the into ſome place that I doo not knowe, and ſo when I come, and tell Ahab, and he can not fynde the, he ſhall ſlaue me. But I thy ſeruaunt feare the Lord fro my youth vp. Was it not tolde my lord, what I dyd when Jezabel ſlew the Prophetes of the Lord, how I had an hundred men of the Lordes Prophetes, ſyſtpe men in one caue, and ſyſtpe in another, and prouided them of bredd and water? And now thou ſayeſt: go thou now and ſewe thy lord, behold Elia is here, that he maye ſlaue me?

E And Elia ſayde: as trulye as the Lord of hoſtes lyueth, beſore whome I ſtande, I will ſewe my ſelfe vnto hym this daye. So Obadia went to mete Ahab, and tolde hym. And Ahab went to mete Elia. And it ſortuned, that when Ahab ſawe Elia, he ſayde vnto hym: arte thou he that troubleth Iſrael? He answered: it is not I that haue troubled Iſrael, but thou, and thy fathers houſe, in that ye haue forſaken the commaundementes of the Lord, & thou haſt ſolowed Baal. Nowe therfore ſende, and gather to me all Iſrael vnto mount Carmel, & the prophetes of Baal: foure hundred and ſyſtpe, and the prophetes of the groves foure hundred, whiche eate of Jezabels table. So Ahab ſente vnto all the chyldren of Iſrael: and gathered the prophetes toggyther vnto mount Carmel.

E And Elia came vnto al the people, and ſayd: howe longe haſte ye betwene two opynions? If the Lord be God, folowe hym: but yf Baal be he, then go after hym. And the people answered hym not a worde. Then ſayd Elia vnto the people agayne: I onely remaine a Prophete of the Lord: But Baals prophetes are foure hundred and ſyſtpe. Let them therfore gyue vs two oxen, and let them choſe the one, and cut hym in peeces, and laye hym on wood, and put no fyre vnder, and I will dryſſe the other oxen, and laye hym on wood, and will put no fyre vnder. And call ye on the name of your god, and I will call on the name of the Lord: and then the God that answereth by fyre, let hym be God.

E And all the people answered, and ſayd: it is well ſpoken. And Elia ſayd vnto the prophetes of Baal: choſe you an oxen, and dryſſe hym fyrſt, (for ye are many) and call on the name of your goddes, but put no fyre vnder. And they toke the one oxen that he did gyue them, and they dryſſed it, & and called on the name of Baal, from morninge to noone: ſaying: O Baal heare vs.

But there was no voyce, nor one to anſwere. And they lept vpon the alter that they had made. And at noone it ſortuned, that Elia mocked them, and ſayd: crye loude, for he is a god: peradventure he is talking or occupied (in folowing of his enemyes) or is in his iourneye, or haplye he ſlepeſh, and muſt be awaked with your crye. And they cryed loude, and cutte them ſelues as they maner was, with knyues and launcers, tyll the blood folowed on them. And it chaunced, that when myddaye was paſſed, they prophced, vntyll the tyme of the euenynge ſacrifyce. But there was neyther voyce nor one to anſwere, nor any that regarded them.

And Elia ſayd vnto all the folk: come to me. And all the people came to hym. And he repared the aultare of the Lord that was broken. And Elia toke xii. ſtoones, accorpyng to the nombze of the xii. trybes of the ſones of Jacob, (vnto whom the worde of the Lord came, ſaying: * Iſrael ſhal be thy name. And with the ſtoones he made an aultar in ſ name of ſ Lord. And he made a ditcheround about the alter, as bzyde agt two ſozowes of the cozne felde. And he put ſ woode in ordze, and drewed the oxen in peeces, and laped hym on the wood, & ſayd: fylle foure barels with water, and poure it on the burntſacrifyce, and on ſ woode. And he ſayd: do ſo agayne. And they dyd ſo the ſecond tyme. And he ſaid agayne: doo it the thyrde tyme. And they dyd it yet the thyrde tyme. And the water ranne round about the aultare: & he fylled the pyt with water alſo.

And it ſortuned, when the tyme came (wherin the burntſacrifyce of ſ euenig vſed to be offered) Elia the prophet came, & ſayd: Lord God of Abraham, Iſaac & of Iſrael, it ſhall be knowne this daye, that thou arte the God of Iſrael, and that I am thy ſeruaunt, and that I haue done al theſe thynges at thy commaundement. Heare me (O Lord) heare me, ſ this people maye knowe that thou art the Lord God, and that thou haſt turned the people hert agayne now at the laſt. And the fyre of the Lord fell, and conſumed the burntſacrifice, the wood, the ſtoones and the duſt, and lyched vpon the water that was in the pytte. And when all the people ſawe it, they fell on theyr faces, and ſayd: The Lord, he is God: the Lord he is God. And Elia ſayd vnto them: Take the prophetes of Baal, & let not one of them eſcape. And they toke them, and Elia brought them to the bzyoke wylde, and ſlew them there. And Elia ſayde vnto Ahab: Get the vp, and eate & drynke: for there is a ſounde of moche rayne. And ſo Ahab wente vp, to eate and to drynke, and Elia wente vp to the toppe of Carmel. And he layed hym ſelfe flatte vpon the earth, and put his face betwene his knees, and ſayd to his ſeruaunt go vp (I praye the) and loke towarde the way of the ſee. And he went vp and looked, and ſayd: there is nothyng. And he ſayd: go agayne ſeuenty tymes. And it ſortuned, that at the ſeuenthy tyme, he ſayde: beholde, there aryſeth a lytle cloude of the ſee lyke a mannes hande. He ſayde: Go, and ſape vnto Ahab: Wake ſalle thy charette, and get the downe, that the rayne ſtoppe not.

And it came to passe, that in the meane whyle, that heauen was blacke with cloudes, & wynde and ther was a great rayne. And Ahab gat vp and came to Jezrael. And the hand of the Lord was on Elia, and he gyrded vp his loynes, and ranne before Ahab tyll he came to Jezrael.

The xix. Chapter.

Elia flying from Jezabel, is nourished of the angell of God, and is commended to Amos, Iehu, and Eliseus, whome the Iudeas call a lisa.

Ad Ahab tolde Jezebel, all þe Elia had done, and how he had slayne all the prophetes with the swerde.

Then Jezebel sent a messenger vnto Elia, sayinge: so and so let the goddes do to me, yf I make not thy soule lyke one of theys by tomozowe this tyme. When he sawe that, he arose, and wet for his lyfe, and came to Beersheba in Iuda, and left his seruants there. But he hym selfe went a dayes iournepe into the wilderness, and came and sate downe vnder a Juniper tree, and despyred for his soule, that he might dye, and sayd: it is now pough (O Lorde) take my soule, for I am not better, then my fathers.

And as he laye and slept vnder the Juniper tree, beholde, an angell touched hym, and sayde vnto hym: vp, and eate. And when he looked aboute hym beholde, there was a lofe of bryled bread, & a vessel of water at his heed. And he did eate and drynke, and layed hym downe agayne to slepe. And the Angell of the Lorde came agayne the seconde tyme, and touched hym, and sayd: vp and eate, for thou hast yet a great iourneye. And he arose, and did eate and drynke, and walked in the strength of that meate & fouretye dayes and fouretye nyghtes, euen vnto horeb the mount of God. When he came thither in to a caue, he lodged there in all nyght.

And beholde, the worde of the Lorde came to hym, & sayd vnto hym: what doest þe here Elia? And he answered. I haue ben gelous for þe Lord God of hostes sake. For the chyldren of Israel haue forsaken thy couenaunte, & broken downe thyne alters, & slayne thy prophetes with the swerde, & I only am left, & they seke my lyfe to take it away. And he sayd: come cut, and stande vpon þe moit before the Lord. And beholde, the Lord went by a myghty strong wynde, & felt the moitaynes, & brake þe rockes before the Lorde. But þe Lord was not in þe wynde. And after the wynde came an earthquake. But the Lord was not in the earthquake. And after the earthquake came fyre: but the Lord was not in the fyre. And after þe fyre came a small syl voyce. And when Elia herd it, he couered his face wth his mantel, & wet out, & stode in hearing in of the caue: And beholde, there came a voyce vnto hym, & sayde: what doest thou here Elia? And he answered: I haue bene gelous for the Lorde God of hostes sake, because the chyldren of Israel haue forsaken thy couenaunt, cast downe thyne alters and slayne thy prophetes wth the swerde, & I only am left. And they seke my lyfe to take it away. And the Lord sayd vnto hym: go & turne thy way to the wyldernesse vnto Damasco, & thou mayest anoynt þe hazael kyng ouer Siria. And: Iehu the sonne of Nimshi shalt thou anoynt kyng ouer Israel. And Elisa þe son of Saphat of Abel Meholah shalt þe anoynt to be Diophete in thyroune. And it shall come to passe, yf who so escapeþ þe swerde of hazael, him shalt Iehu slaye: & yf any man escape þe swerde of Iehu hym shalt Elisa put to death. And therio: I haue left me vii. in Israel, of which neuer man bowed his knees vnto Baal, nor kyssed hym with his mouth.

So he departed thence, & founde Elisa the son of Saphat plowing, & hauyng twelue poke of oren before him, and he wth the twelue. And Elia wet by him, and cast his mantel vpon him. And he left þe oren, & ran after Elia, & sayd: let me I praye the, bysse my father & my mother, & then I wyll folowe the. He sayd vnto hym: go backe agayne, for what is it yf I haue done to the? And when he went backe agayne: from him, he toke a couple of oren, & slue them, and bzelled the flesh wth the instrumentes of the oren, and gaue vnto the people, and they dyd eate. And then he arose and went after Elia, and mynistred vnto hym.

The xx. Chapter.

The fyrst and seconde tyme that Samaria was beliedged of Benhadad kyng of Siria.

Ad Benhadad the kyng of Siria gathe red all the host together, hauyng. xxxii. kynges with him, and hoxles, & charets: and went vp, and beliedged Samaria, & warred agaynst it. And he sent messengers to Ahab kyng of Israel, into the cite, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayeth Benhadad: Thy syluer and thy golde is myne, and the sayest of thy wyues, and of thy chyldren be myne. And the kyng of Israel answered, and sayd: My lorde kyng accordyng to thy sayinge, I am thyne, and all that I haue.

And when the messengers came agayne, they sayd: thus sayeth Benhadad: For as moche as I haue sent vnto the, saying: thou shalt deliuer me thy syluer and thy golde, and thy wyues and thy chyldren: I wyll therfore sende my seruantes vnto the tomozow this tyme: and they shall searche thyne house, and the houses of thy seruantes. And whatsoeuer is pleasaunt in thyne eyes, they shall take it in theyr handes, and bring it away. Then the kyng of Israel sent for all the elders of the lande, & sayd: take heere I praye you, and se how this felow goth about mischefe. For he sent vnto me for my wyues, for my chyldren, for my syluer and for my golde: and I denyed hym not. And all the elders and all the people sayde, heken not vnto hym, nor consent.

Wherfore he sayde vnto the messengers of Benhadad: tel my lorde the kyng, all that thou byddest send for to thy seruant at þe fyrst tyme that I will do, but this thing I may not do. And the messengers departed and brought answer agayne. And Benhadad set vnto hym agayne, and sayde: thus and thus do the goddes to me, yf the dust of Samaria be pough for al þe people that folowe me, to take eueryman an handfull. And the kyng of Israel answered, and sayde: tell hym: Let not him that putteth on his harness boost him selfe, as he that putteth it of. And it

And it fortuned, that when Benhadad hearde, that sydinges as he was with the kynges drinking within the pavilions, he sayd vnto his ser-uantes: put on your harnesse, and they set them selues in aray agaynst the ctyte.

And beholde, there came a prophete vnto Ahab kyng of Israel, saying: thus sayth the Lord hast thou sene all this greete multitude? Behold, I wyl deliuer it into thyne hand this day and thou shalt knowe, that I am the Lord.

And Ahab sayd: by whom? he sayd: thus sayth the Lord: euen by the seruantes of the gouer-nours of the Syryes. he sayd agayne: Who shall optye the battayle? and he answered: thou. Tha he nombred the seruantes of the gouernours of the Syryes, and they were two hundred, & xxii.
And after them, also he nombred all the people, all the chyldren of Israel euen seven thousande.
And they wente oute at noone: but Benhadad dyd dymne till he was dymnen in the paupers, bothe he and the kynges: euen. xxxii. kynges, that holpe hym. And the seruantes of the gouernours of the Syryes went out fyrt.

And Benhadad set out, and they thewed him, sayinge: there are men come oute of Samaria.

he sayde: Whether they be come oute for peace, take them aloue: or whether they be come out to fght, take them yet aloue. And so those ponge men of the gouernours of Syryes came out of cylie, & the host after them, and they slue euery one his enemye & came in his way. And the Si-rians fled, and they of Israel folowed after the.
And Benhadad the kyng of Siria escaped on an horse with his horsemen. And the kyng of Israel went out, and smote the hostes & charre-tes, and w a great slaughter slue he & Syrians.

And there came a Prophet to the kyng of Israel, and sayde vnto hym: goo forth, and playe the man, be wyse and take hede what thou dost: for when the peare is gone aboute, the kyng of Siria wyl come vp agaynst the. And & seruantes of the kyng of Siria sayde vnto hym: The goddess of the hylls are they: goddesses, and the foze they had the better of vs: but let vs fghte agaynst the in the playne, and for what ye wyl, we shall haue the better of them. And this doo: take the kynges away, euery man oute of his place, and put dukes in they: rourmes. And doo thou nombe the an host, lyke the host & thou hast lost suche hostes and such charrettes, and we wyl fght agaynst the in the playne, and thou shalt se vs get the better of them. And he hee-ned vnto they: voyce, and dyd euen so.

And it fortuned, that after the yere was gone about, Benhadad nombred & Syrians, & went vp to Aphek to fght agaynst Israel. And the chyldren of Israel were nombred, and w they:
hole nombe went they agaynst them, and the childe of Israel pyched before them, lyke two lytle foches of hyddes: but the Syrians fylled the countrey: And there came am of God, and sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: thus sayeth the Lord: Becaue the Syryans haue sayde: The Lord is but God of the hylls, & not God of the valleyes: therfore wyl I deliuer all this great multitude into thyne bande, and ye shall knowe that I am the Lord. And they pitched one ouer agaynst the other seven dayes, & it came to passe that in the seventh daye the battayle was toynd.

And the childe of Israel slue of the Syrians an hundred thousande footemen in one daye. But the rest fled to Aphek into the ctyte. And there fel a wall vpon. xxvii. thousand of the men that were left. And Benhadad fled, and came into the ctyte, from chambze to chambze.

And his seruantes sayd vnto hym: Behold, we haue herd say: & the kynges of & house of Israel are merciful kynges. We wyl therfore put sackcloth about our loynes and ropes about our neches, & go out to the kyng of Israel: yf happely he wyl saue thy lyfe. And so they gyard sackcloth about they: loynes, and put ropes aboute they: hedes, & came to the kyng of Israel, & sayd Thy seruant Benhadad sayth: I praye the let me lyue. he sayde: is he yet aloue? he is my brother. And they toke that word for good lucke, & hastly caught it out of his mouth, and sayd: yea thy brother Benhadad. he sayd: go, bying him byther. And Benhadad came out vnto hym, & he caused hym to come vp vnto & charret. And he sayd vnto him: the ctytes which my father toke fro thy father I wyl restore agayne. And thou shalt make stretches for & in Damasco, as my father dyd in Samaria. And I wyl make an ap-poyntment with the, & sende the away. And so he made an appoyntment w hym, & sent him away.

And there was a certayne man of & childe of the prophetes, which sayd vnto his neyghbour in the worde of the Lord: smyte me I praye the.
And & ma wold not smyte him. Tha sayd he vnto him: becaue thou hast not hearkened vnto the voyce of & Lord, behold, alsoone as thou art departed fro me I yon shall slaye the. And it came to passe, & alsoone as he was departed fro hym, a l yon found him & slue him. Then he found an other man, & said: smyte me I praye the. And & ma smote him, so & in smyting he wadded hym. So the prophet went forth, & wayted for & kyng by the way, & put him selfe out of knowledge w althes which he layed vpo his face. And when the kyng came by, he cryed vnto & kyng, & sayd: thy seruant went out in & myddes of the battayl: & beholde, there went a way a man, who an other man brought vnto me, and sayd: kepe this man.
And if he be missed or lost, thy life shal go for his or els thou shalt paye a talent of syluer. And as thy seruait had here & there to do, he was gone.
And & kyng of Israel sayd vnto him: eue so shal thy iudgement be, as & hast defyned it thy selfe.

And he hasted, and toke the althes away fro his face: and the kyng of Israel knew him that he was of the prophetes: And he sayd vnto him thus sayth the Lord: becaue thou hast let go a man that is in my curse, thy lyfe shal go for his lyfe: and thy people for his people. And & kyng of Israel wente to his house, waywarde and in displeasure, and came to Samaria:

The. xxi. Chapter.

Israel commended to Ahab, in the bynde of the that he refused to sell to Ahab. Behold sayd very Ahab, and he repented.

After these thynges it chaunced, & Naboth the Jezrabelite had a vine yard in Jezrahel, hard by the palace of Ahab kyng of Samaria. And Ahab spake vnto Naboth, saying: Give me thy vineyard, that I maye make me a garden of herbes thereof, because it lyeth so nye myne house: and I wyl gyue the for it a better vineyard then it is: or rather yf it please the, I wyl gyue the, the worth of it in moneye. And Naboth sayd to Ahab the Lorde sayd that fro me, that I shoulde gyue the enheritaunce of my father vnto the.

And Ahab came into his house heuy and euill apayed, because of the worde whiche Naboth the Jezrabelite had spoken vnto hym, for he had sayd: I wyl not gyue the the enheritaunce of my fathers. And he layed him downe vpon his bed, and turned away his face as to the wall & wolde eate no bryed. And Jezabel his wyfe cam to him and sayd vnto him. why is thy spyrite so wayward, that thou eatest no bryede. And he sayde vnto her: For I spake vnto Naboth the Jezrabelite, and sayd vnto hym: Give me thy vineyard for moneye, or els yf it please the, I wyl gyue the an other vineyard for it. And he answered: I wyl not gyue the my vineyard.

C And Jezabel his wyfe sayd vnto hym: Doe thou thus gouerne the kingdome of Israel, & eat bryed, and set thynne hert at rest. I wyl gyue the the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrabelite. And so he wrote a letter in Ahab's name, and sealed it with his seale, and sent the letter vnto the elders, and to the nobles that were in his cite dwellynge with Naboth. And he wrote in the letter, saying: Proclayme a fast, and let Naboth on hys amonge the people, and set two vnthyrstes before hym, to beare witness agaynst hym, sayinge: thou dydest blaspheme God and the kyng. And then carpe hym oute, and stonoe hym to death.

D And the men of hys cite, that is to saye: whych dwelte in hys cite, dyd as Jezabel had sent vnto them: as it was wyrtten in the letter, whiche she had sent vnto them. They proclaymed fastyng, and set Naboth amonge the chiefe of the people, and there came in two men (the chyldren of Belial) and sat befoze him. And the two vnthyrste personnes wytnelled agaynst Naboth in the presence of the people, sayinge: Naboth dyd blaspheme God and the kyng.

And they caried hym out of the cite, and stoned him with stones, that he dyed. And wha they sente to Jezabel, sayinge: Naboth is stoned to death. And it fortuned, when Jezabel herd that Naboth was stoned to death, she sayd to Ahab: vp, and take possession of the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrabelite, whiche he denyed to gyue the for moneye, for Naboth is not alpyne, but dead. And when Ahab herde that Naboth was dead, he stode vp to go downe to the vineyard of Naboth the Jezrabelite, to take possession of it.

E And the worde of the Lorde came vnto Elia the Tsebuite, sayinge: vp, and goo downe to meete Ahab kyng of Israel, whiche is in Ba-maria. For so, he is gone downe to the vineyard of Naboth: to take possession of it. And therfore shalt thou saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde: hast thou kyled, and gotten possession? And thou shalt speake vnto hym, sayinge: thus sayth the Lorde: * in the place where dogges lyched the bloode of Naboth, shall dogges lychen thy bloode also. And Ahab sayde to Elia: haste thou founde me, O thou myne enemye. He answered: I haue founde the: for thou art euen sold to worke wickednesse in the syghte of the Lorde. Beholde, I wyl bypunge euill vpon the, & wyl make cleane yddauce of thy posterite, and wyl * destrope from Ahab, euen him & maketh water agaynst the wall, and hym that is wnt vp, and lyste behynde in Israel, and wyl make thynne house lyke the house of Jeroboam the son of Ahab: and lyke the house of Baasa the sone of Aha, for the pironocayon wherewith thou hast pironoked, and made Israel to synne.

And of Jezabel spake the Lorde, sayinge: * dogges shall eate Jezabel, in the possession of Jezrahel. And he that dyeth from Ahab in the towne, hym shall dogges eate: and he that dyeth in the feldes, hym shall the foules of the ayre eat. But there was none lyke Ahab, whiche dyd euen sell hym selfe, to worke wyckednesse in the syghte of the Lorde: and that because that Jezabel hys wyfe pyched hym for ward. He dyd excedyng abominably, in folowynge foule ydols, accorbyng to all thynges as dyd the Ammorites, whome the Lorde cast out befoze the chyldren of Israel.

And it fortuned, that when Ahab herd those wordes, he rent his clothes, and put sackcloth about his fleshe, and fasted, and laye in sackcloth and went barefoote. And the worde of the Lorde came to Elia the Tsebuite, sayinge: seest thou howe Ahab humbled hym selfe befoze me: because he submytteth hym selfe befoze me, I wyl not bypunge that euill in hys dayes: but in hys sonnes dayes, wyl I bypunge euill vpon hys house. And they contynued the yere wythoute warre betwene Syria and Israel.

The xxi. Chapter.

Four hundred falsse prophetes too counsaile Ahab and Jehosaphat to warre agaynst Moab. Suche falsse prophetes the turke, for whiche he is famous, and put in prison. Of Ahasia otherwyse called Jehosia.

Ad in the thyrde yere dyd Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda, come downe to the kyng of Israel. And the kyng of Israel sayde vnto hys seruantes: knowe ye not that Ramoth in Gilead is ours: and we lyt still, and take it not out of the hande of the kyng of Syria. And he sayde vnto Jehosaphat: wylte thou come wyth me to battayle agaynst Ramoth in Gilead? And Jehosaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: * I wyl be as thou arte, and my people shal be as thynne, and my horses as thynne.

And Jehosaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: * alke counsaile, I praye the, at the worde of the Lorde todaye. And then the kyng of Israel

Israel gathered the prophetes together vpon * a four hundred men, and sayd vnto them: Shall I go agaynst Ramoth in Gilead to battayle, or shall I let it alone? And they sayd go vp for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the handes of the kyng. And Jehosaphat sayde, is there here neuer a prophet of the Lorde more, for we myght enquyre of hym? And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jehosaphat: there is yet one man (Michea sonne of Jimla) by whom we maye aske counsaile of the Lorde. But I hate him, for he doth not prophecie good vnto me, but euyl. And Je-hosaphat sayd: let not the kyng say so. Then the kyng of Israel called a chamberlayne, and sayd let Michea the sonne of Jimla hyther at ones.

And the kyng of Israel and Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda set either in his seate, and they apparell on them: in a voyde place besyde the ing in of the gate of Samaria, and all the prophetes prophecied before them. And Jechia sonne of Canaana made hornes of yron, and sayd: thus saith the Lorde: with these hornes shalt thou push the Syrians, vntill thou haue made an ende of them. And all the prophetes prophecied euen so: sayenge: Go vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and prosper, for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the kynges hande.

And the messenger that was gone to cal Michea, spake vnto hym, saying: beholde, the wo-rdes of the prophetes speake good vnto the kyng with one mouth: let the word therfore (I praye the) be lyke the woordes of euerye one of them, to speake that which is good. And Michea sayde: as truly as the Lorde liueth, whatsoeuer the Lorde saith vnto me, that will I speake. And so he came to the kyng: and the kyng sayd vnto hym Michea, ought we to go agaynst Ramoth in Gilead to battayle: or to be still? he answered vnto hym: * go, and prosper, the Lorde shall de-liuer it into the hande of the kyng. And the kyng sayd vnto hym. So and so many tymes do I charge the, that thou tell me nothyng, but that which is true in the name of the Lorde. he sayd.
I sawe all them of Israel scattred vpon the hil-les, as shepe that haue not a shepheard. And the Lorde sayd: these haue no master, let euery man returne vnto his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jehosaphat: dyd I not tell the, that he wolde prophecie no good vnto me, but euyl? And he sayd agayne: heare thou therfore the worde of the Lorde. I sawe the Lorde sit on his seate, and all the host of heauen stode about him on his ryght hand & on his left. And the Lorde said: * Wholshal perswade Ihab that he maye go and fall at Ramoth in Gilead? And one sayde on this maner: and an other on that.
And there came forth a certayne spryite, & stode before the Lorde, and sayd: I wyl perswade hym.

And the Lorde sayd vnto hym wherewith?
And he sayd: I wyl go out, and be a false spirit in the mouth of all his prophetes. he sayde: thou shalt perswade him, and meane while, go forth then, and doo euen so. Nowe therfore beholde the Lorde hath putte a lyenge spryite in the mouth of all these thy prophetes, and the Lorde hath spoken euyl towards the.

But Jechia the sonne of Canaana went to and smote Michea on the cheke, and sayd: when went the spryite of the Lorde from me, to speake vnto the? And Michea said: behold, I shall be in 5 day, when thou shalt go from chabze to chambze to hyde the. And the kyng of Israel saide: Take Michea and carry him vnto Amon the go-uernour of the cite, and vnto Joab the kynges sonne, and say, thus sayth the kyng: Put this se-lowe in prison house, and fede him with brede of affliction, and with water of trouble, vntill I returne in peace. And Michea sayd: if thou returne in peace, the Lorde hath not spoken by me.
And he sayd: hearken ye people euery one of you.

And so the kyng of Israel and Jehosaphat the kyng of Iuda went vp to Ramoth in Gilead, and the kyng of Israel sayd to Jehosaphat chaunge the when thou goest to warre: and put on thyne apparell. And the kynges of Israel chasged hym selfe, and went to battayle. But the kynges of Syria commaunded the. xxii. capitaynes (that had rule ouer his charrettes) sayinge. fyghe neyther with small nor greates, save onely agaynst the kynges of Israel. And when the capitaynes of the charrettes sawe Jehosaphat they sayd: surely it is the kyng of Israel, & they turned to fyght agaynst hym. And Jehosaphat cryed. And so it came to passe, that when the capitaynes of the charrettes sawe that he was not the kyng of Israel, they turned backe from him:

And a certayne man dreyne a bowe ignorantly and (by chaunce) smote the kyng of Israel betweene the rybbes and his harnesse. Wherefore he sayde vnto the dyuer of his charrettes: turne thy hande, & carry me out of the hoste, for I am (sore) hurt. And the battayle increased & dore and the kyng stode styl in his charret agaynst the Syrians, & dyed at euen. And the blood ran out of the wounde into the myddeste of the charret.
And there went a proclamation thorowout the hoste, about the going downe of the sunne, saying: euery man to his cytie, & to his owne coun-tre. And so the kynges of Israel dyed: and they came to Samaria, and buried hym there. And one washed the charret in the pole of Samaria & the dogges licked vp his blode: (and bar-lottes washed by the pooles syde) accordyng vnto the worde of the Lorde whiche he spake.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Ihab and all that he dyd, and the puzze house which he made, and all the cities & he buylded, are they not writte in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And so Ihab slepe with his fathers: and Ihabia his son reigned in his stede.

* Jehosaphat son of Aza began to reigne vpon Iuda in the fourth yere of Ihab kyng of Israel: and Jehosaphat was. xxv. yere olde, wher he began to reigne, and reigned. xxv. yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name was Iuba the daughter of Shibi. And he walked in all the wayes of Aza his father, and bowed not therefrom: but dyd that which was right in the eyes of the Lorde. Nevertheless, the high alters were not taken out of the waye: for the people offered and burnt incense yet in the high places. And Jehosaphat made peace with the kyng of Israel.

G The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehosaphat, and the myghte that he used, and how he waited: are thei not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And the remnant of the sturres of the males, which remayned in the dayes of his father, he put cleane out of the lande. There was the no kyng in Edom. And Jehosaphat made x. shippes in the sea, to come thowowe Tharsis to Ophir for golde, but they went not, for the shippes brake at Orlon Gaber. Then sayd Ahazias the sonne of Ahab unto Jehosaphat: let my seruantes go with thy seruantes in the shippes. But Jehosaphat wolde not. And Jehosaphat dyd slepe in his fathers, & was buried in his father in the cite of David his father. And Jehoia his son reigned in his stede.

Ahazias the sonne of Ahab began to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria, the seuententh yere of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, and raygned two yeres ouer Israel. But he dyd euill in the syghte of the Lorde, and walked in the waye of his father, and in the way of his mother, and in the waye of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, which made Israel to syn. For he serued Baal, and worshipped hym: and prouoked the Lorde God of Israel unto wrath, according vnto all that his father had done.

The fyfth Chapter.

E The captaynes ouer fyfthe wyth theyr souldiers are burnt in fyre from heauen, by the power of Elia. Ahazias is reproued of Elia, & dyeth: and Jehoram his brother succedeth hym.

And Moab dyd wretchedly agaynst Israel after the deyth of Ahab: and Ahazias fel thowowe a lattrell wyndowe of his upper chambere that he had in Samaria: and while he was in his synneste, he sent messengers, & sayde vnto the go, & enquire of Belzebub the god of Ekron, whether I shal recover of this my diseale. But the angel of the Lorde spake to Elia the Thesbite: Arise, & go vp agaynst the messengers of the kyng of Samaria, and save vnto the: Is there not a God in Israel, that ye goo to aske counsaile at Belzebub the god of Ekron? Wherefore, thus sayth the Lorde: thou shalt not come downe fro the bedde on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And Elia departed.

And when the messengers touchted backe a gayne vnto him he sayd vnto them: why are ye nowe come? They answered hym: there came a man vp agaynst vs, and sayd vnto vs: go, and turne agayne vnto the kyng that sent you, and save vnto hym: Thus sayth the Lorde: Is there not a God in Israel, that thou shouldest to enquire of Belzebub the god of Ekron? Therefore thou shalt not come downe fro the bed on which thou arte gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And he sayd vnto them: what maner of man was that which came vp in your way, and told you these wordes? And they answered hym: it was an heere man, & and gyrded w a gyrdle of lether about his loynes. And he sayd: it is Elia the Thesbite.

E The kyng sent vnto him a captayne ouer fyfthe (with his fyfthe men) and beholde, he sat on the toppe of an hyl. And he spake vnto hym: Thou man of God, the kyng hath sayde: come downe. Elia answered, and sayd to the captayn ouer the fyfthe: ys I be a man of God, fyre come downe from heauen, and consume the and thy fyfthe. And there came fyre of God, and consumed hym and his fyfthe: And the kyng went agayne, and sent an other captayne ouer fyfthe, with his fyfthe. And he answered, and sayd vnto him: O man of God, thus hath the kyng said make haste, and come downe: Elia answered and sayd vnto them: ys I be a man of God fyre come downe fro heauen, and consume the and thy fyfthe. And there came fyre of God downe from heauen, and consumed hym and his fyfthe.

D And the kyng wente agayne, and sent the thyrde captayne ouer fyfthe with his fyfthe men. And the thyrde captayne ouer fyfthe toke vp and came, and fell on his knees before Elia, and besought hym, and sayd vnto hym: O ma of God let my lyfe and the lyfe of the fyfthe, thy seruantes be precious in thy sight. Behold, there came fyre downe from heauen, and burnt vp the two foze captaynes ouer fyfthe with theyr fyfthes: therefore let my life now be precious in thy sight. And an angel of the Lorde sayd vnto Elia: goo downe w him, & be not afraid of him. And he arose, and went downe with him vnto the kyng.

E And he said vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde: for as moche, as thou hast sente messengers to aske counsaile at Belzebub the god of Ekron, as though there hadde bene no God in Israel, whose word thou mightest seke after: therefore thou shalt not come downe of the bed on which thou art gone vp, but shalt dye the death. And so he dyed according to the worde of the Lorde which Elia had spoken. And Jehoram (his mother) began to raygne in his stede, in the seconde yere of Jehoram the sonne of Jehosaphat kyng of Juda, because he had no sonne. The rest of the wordes that concerne Ahazias, what thynge that he dyd, are they not wyrtel in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel?

The ii. Chapter.

E Elia prayeth the heuens with hym manrell. He is taken vp into heauen. The byrre and vengence whiche he doeth. The thynge that moche is spoken of (other wyse called Elia) and sent in pte.

And

As it chaunced, that when the * Lorde wolde take vp Elia in to heuē by a whyrlewind: Elia went with Elisa from Silgal, & Elia sayd to Elisa: tary here, I praye, for the lord hath sent me to Bethel. Elisa sayd vnto hym: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth: I wyl not leaue the. And they came downe to Bethel, and the chyldren of the prophetes that were at Bethel, came out to Elisa, & sayd vnto hym: knowest thou not, howe that f. Lorde wyl take a waye thy master fro thyne head this daye?
 he sayde: I knowe it also: holde ye your peace.

And Elia sayd vnto hym, Elisa, tarye here,
 I praye the, for the Lorde hath sent me to Jericho. He said: as surely as f. Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth I wyl not leue the. and so they came to Jericho. And the chyldren of the proph-etes that were at Jericho came to Elisa, & sayde vnto hym: knowest thou not, that the Lorde wil take a waye thy master fro thyne head this daye?
 he answered: I knowe it also: holde ye your peace. And Elia sayde vnto hym, tarye I praye the here, for the Lorde hath sent me to Iordan. he sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth, and as thy soule lyueth. I wyl not leaue the. And so they two went togyther. And f. men of the son-nes of the prophetes came & stode on the other syde as farre of, and they two stode by Iordan.

And Elia toke his mantell, and wrapt it to-gyther, and smote the waters, and they were de-uided, parte the one waye, and parte the other:
 so that they two wente ouer thowowe the drye lande. And it fortuned, that as sone as they were ouer, Elia said vnto Elisa: aske what I shal do for the, per. I be taken awaye from the. And Elisa sayde: I praye the, let thy spyrite be double vpon me. And he sayd: thou hast asked an harde thyng. Neuerthelesse, yf thou se me when I am taken awaye from the thou shalt haue it so: yf thou do not, it shal not be. And it fortuned, that as they went walkyng and talkyng, beholde there appeared a charret of fyre, and hoxses of fyre: & departed them both a sondre. * And Elia went vp thowowe the whyrlewynde into heaue.
 And Elisa sawe, & cryed: O my father, O my father, the charette of Israel, and the hoxsemen therof, and he sawe him no more: and he toke his owne clothes, and rent them in two peces.

he toke vp also the mantell of Elia that fell from hym, and wente backe agayne, and stode by Iordans syde, and toke the mantell of Elia (that fell fro hym,) and smote the waters: and they departed not a sondre. * he sayd: where is f. Lorde God of Elia, and he hym selfe? And whē he had smitten the waters, they parted this waye, and that waye: and Elisa went ouer. And when the chyldren of the prophetes whiche were at Jericho sawe hym from a farte, they sayde: the spy-rite of Elia doth rest on Elisa, and they came to mete hym, and fell to the grounde before hym, and sayde vnto hym: Se, there be with thy ser-uantes fyfteen stronge men, let them goo, and seke thy master: happily the spyrite of the Lorde hath taken hym vp, & cast hym vpon some moutayne, or into some valey. And he sayde: ye shal sende none. And when they layd vp hym, yll he was a shamed, he said, sende. They let therfore fyfteen men, whiche sought hym thre dayes, but found him not. And when they came agayne to hym, which taryed at Jericho, he sayd vnto the dyd not I saye vnto you, that ye shulde not go?

And the men of the cytie sayde vnto Elisa, beholde: Sye, the dwellynge of this cytie is pleasaunte, as thou thy selfe seest: But the water is noughte, and the grounde barren. he sayde Bynge me a newe cruse: and put salte therein.
 And they brought it to hym. And he went vnto the spyng of the waters, and cast the salte in thither, and sayd: thus sayth the Lorde: I haue healed this water, there shal not come herefo: th cyther dearth, or barrenesse. So the waters were healed vntill this daye, accordyng to the sayng of Eliseus whych he spake.

And he went vp from thence vnto Bethel.
 And as he was goyng by the waye, there came lytle chyldren out of the cytie, and mocked him, and sayd vnto hym: Go vp thou balde head, go vp thou bald head. And he turned backe, and loked on them, and cursed them in the name of the Lorde. And ther came two shebears out of that wood, and tare. xlii. chyldren of them. And he went from thence to mounte Carmel, and from thence he turned agayne to Samaria.

The iii. Chapter.

The kynges of Israel, Iuda and Edom lacke water,
 wherby they obtayne through the prayer of Eliseus.
 For a myge of Moab ryghther agaynst Israel.

The kynges of Israel, Iuda and Edom lacke water, wherby they obtayne through the prayer of Eliseus.
 For a myge of Moab ryghther agaynst Israel.
 Ehozai the sonne of Abi, began to rapne vpon Israel in Samaria, the xviii. yere of Ieholaphat kyng of Juda, and rapned twelue yeres. And he wrought euell in the sight of the Lorde, but not lyke his father & lyke his mother: for he put a waye the ymages of Baal that his father had made. Neuerthelesse, he cleued vnto the synnes of Ieroboam, the sonne of Nabat (whych made Israel to synne) and departed not there from.

And Mesa kyng of Moab was a Lorde of thepe, and rendred vnto the kyng of Israel an hundred thousand lambes, and an hundred thousande rammes with the woll. But when a hab was dead, it fortuned, that the kyng of Moab rebelled agaynst the kyng of Israel, and kyng Ichozai went oute of Samaria the same season, and nombred all Israel, and went, and set to Ieholaphat the kyng of Iuda, sayinge: the kyng of kyng of Moab hath offended agaynst me, wilt thou come with me agaynst Moab to battayle? he answered: I will come vp, for as I am, so art thou: and as my people be so are thy people and thy horses as myne. And he sayde: What waite shall we goo vpon? And he answered, The waite thowowe the wylbernesse of Edom.

And so the kyng of Israel toke hys iourney and the kyng of Iuda, and the kyng of Edom. And when they had compassed the waite seven dayes, they had no water for the hooft, and for the cattell that folowed them. And the kyng of Israel sayde: Alas, the Lorde hath called these thre kynges together, to deliuer them ouer into the hande of Moab. But Jeholaphat sayde

* is there not here a prophete of the Lorde, that we maye enquire of the Lorde by hym? And one of the kynges of Israel's seruantes answered, and sayde: here is Elisa the sonne of Saphat, whiche powred water on the handes of Elisa. And Jeholaphat sayd: Is not the worde of the Lorde with hym? And so the kynges of Israel, and Jeholaphat, and the kyng of Edom went downe to hym.

And Elisa sayde vnto the kynges of Israel: what haue I to do with the? For the to the prophetes of thy father and to the prophetes of thy mother. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto him: Oo, naye. For the Lorde hath called these thre kynges together to deliuer them into the hand of Moab. And Elisa sayde: as sure as the Lorde of hostes lyueth (in whose syght I stande) and it were not, that I regarde the presence of Jeholaphat the kyng of Iuda, I wolde not loke towards the, nor yet se the.

But nowe bynge me a mynstrell. And when the mynstrell played, the hande of the Lorde cam vpon hym. And he sayde: thus sayeth the Lorde: Make this playne grounde full of byches. For thus sayeth the Lorde: ye shall se neyther wynde nor rayne, and yet the brooke shall be fylled with water, that ye maye drynke: both ye and your brasties, and your cattell. And this is yet but a small thyng in the syghte of the Lorde, for as moche as he will geue ouer the Moabites also into your handes. And ye shall synke euery stronge towne and euery goodly cite, and shall sell euery pleasaunt tree, and stoppe euery well of water, and marre euery good plot of ground with stonnes. And in the moynynge when the meat offering was offered, it fortuned, that there came water by the way from Edom: and the countrey was fylled with water.

And when all the Moabites herde that the kynges were come vp to fight agaynst them, they gathered all together, from the youngeste that was able to putte on harness, and so vponwarde, and stode in the border of the lande.

And they were vp early in the moynynge and the sunne shone vpon the water, that the Moabites sawe the water as red as blood and they sayde: this is the blood of slaughter: the kynges are slayne, and one hath syneten an other: now therefore Moab get the to the spoyle. And when they came to the hooft of Israel, the Israelites stode vp, and smote the moabites, so that they fledde before them, but they folowed vpon them, and smote Moab. And they ouerthrew the cyties: and on euery good parcell of lande cast euery man his stone, and fylled it, and they stoppe all the welles of water, and felled all the good trees. Dnelpe in the cite of byche left they the stonnes therof: howbeit they went about it with synge, and smote it.

And when the kyng of Moab sawe that the battayle was loze agaynst hym, he toke with hym seven hundred men that dyne the sweate to haue goone thowowe, euen vnto the kynges of Edom: but they could not. And then he toke hys eldest sonne (that shoulde haue raygned in his stede) and offered hym for a burnt offering vpon the wall. And there was greates indignacion agaynst Israel, and they departed from him, and returned to theyr owne lande.

Chap. iii. Chapter.

God geueth a certayne poore woman oyle and flour, by which shea. Helicous (whome the recte callith Elisa) a daughter of God a child for by a hostelle: whiche dyeth, and is after raised to lyfe. He maketh there the portage: and multiplyeth the loues.

And there cryed a certayne woman of wyues of the prophetes vnto Elisa, saying: thy seruante my husbnde is dead, and thou knowest, that thy seruante dyd feare the lorde.

And I credittour is come to set my two sonnes to be his bondemen. Elisa sayd vnto her: tel me what I shall do for the? what hast thou in thyne house? She sayd: thyne handmayd hath nothing at al in the house, save a ppycher of oyle. He said vnto her: go, and bozowe vessel for the of them that are withoute, euen of all thyne neighbours, empty vessels: and that not a fewe. And when thou arte come in, thou shalt put the doze after the and after thy sonnes, and poure out into all those vessels, and set asyde that which is full.

And so the woman went from hym, and shut the doze after her, and after her sonnes. And they brought to her, and she poured out. And it came to passe, when the vessels were full, she sayde vnto her son: bring me yet a vessel. And he sayd vnto her: I haue no mo. And she oyle crased. The she came and told the man of God. And he sayd go, & sell the oyle, & paye them for thou art in det vnto, but lyue thou and thy chyldre of prest.

And it fel on a daye, that Elisa came to Sunem, where was a great woman that toke hym in for to cate bread. And so it came to passe, that fro that tyme forth (as oft as he cam that way) he turned in thither to cate bread. And he sayd vnto her husbnde: Beholde, I perceyue, that this is an holpe man of God that cometh so oft by our place. Let vs make him a chabber (I pray the) with walles, and let vs set hym there a bed and a table and a stole, and a candlestyeke: that he may turne in thither when he cometh to vs.

And it fortuned on a day, that he came thither and turned into the chambze, & laye there, and sayd to Sebej his seruante: call this Sunamite. And when he called her, she prest her selfe before hym.

fore him. And agayne he sayd vnto him: tel her Beholde, thou hast ben carefull for vs, and hast made all this prouised. What shall we now do for the: wouldest thou be spoken for to the kyng or to the capytayne of the host? She answered: I dwell amonge myne owne people. And he sayd again: what is to be done for her? Gehazi answered: Merely she hath no chylde, & her husbnde is old. And he sayd: call her. And whā he had called her, she stode in þe doze. And he sayd: by such a tyme, and as soone as the frute can lyue, thou shalt embrace a sonne. And she sayd: Oh naye, my lord, thou man of God, do not lye vnto thy handmayde. And the wyfe concyued, and bare a sonne that same season that Eliseus had sayd vnto her, as soone as the frute coulde haue lyfe.

And when the chylde was growen, it fell on a dape, that he went out to his father, and to the reapers. And he sayd to his father: my head, my head. And he sayd to a lad: Carry hym to his mother. And when he had carryed him and brought him to his mother, he sat on her knees tyll none and then dyed. And she went vp, and layed him on the bed of the man of God, and shut the doze aboute hym, and went out, and called vnto her husbnde, and said: sende with me (I praye the) one of the ponge men and one of the asses. For I wyll runne to the man of God, and come agayne. And he sayde: wherfore wylt thou go to him, seinge that to day is neyther ne we moone nor Sabbath dape? She answered: for health. The she saddled an asse, and sayd to her seruauant leade away þe asse, and make her not go slowly. (bycause I lye vpon her) but when I byd the.

And so she went, and came vnto the man of God to mount Carmel. And it fortuneth, that when the man of God saw her farre of, he sayd to Gehazi his seruauant: Beholde, ponder is the Sunamite. Runne therfore to mete her, & saye vnto her: Is all wel with the and with thy husbnde, & with the lad? And she answered: All is well. And when she came to the man of God vp to the hyll, she caught hym by the fete. But Gehazi went to her, to thrust her awaye. And the man of God sayd: let her aloone, for her soule is deved within her, and the Lorde hath byd it frome, and hath not tolde it me. Then she sayd: did I despye a sonne of my lord, or dyd I not requyre the, that thou shouldest not disceyue me?

Then he sayd to Gehazi: *gyde by thy loynes, and take my staffe in thyne hande, and go thy waye. * If thou mete any man salute hym not. And if any salute the, answer hym not a gayne. And lay my staffe vpo þe face of the childe. And the mother of þe childe sayd, * as sure as the Lorde lyueth, & as thy soule lyueth, I wyll not leaue the. And he arose, & folowed her. Gehazi went before them, & layed the staffe vpo þe face of the childe. But there was neyther voyce nor any feling: wherfore he wnt agayn to mete him and tolde hym, saying: þe childe is not awaked.

And when Elisa was come into the house, beholde, the childe was dead, and layed vpon his bed. He went in therfore, and shut the doze to the lad and hym, and prayed vnto the Lorde

* And went vp, and laye vpon the lad, and put his mouth on his mouth, and his eyes vpon his eyes, and his handes vpon his handes, and whē he so laye vpon the chylde, the flesch of the childe waxed warme. And he went agayne, & walked ones vp and downe in the house, and then wnt vp and layed hym selfe vpon hym agayne. And then the childe gasped seuen tymes, and opened his eyes. And he called Gehazi, and sayde: Call for this Sunamite. So he called her, whiche when she was come in vnto hym, he sayde vnto her: * Take thy sonne. Therfore she wente in, and fell at his feete, and bowed her selfe to the ground, and toke vp her sonne, and went out. Elisa came agayne to Silgal, and there was a dearth in the lande, and the chylidren of the prophetes dwelt with hym. And he sayde vnto his seruante: Set a greute potte on the fyze, and make pottage for the chylidren of the prophetes and one went oute into the felde, to gather herbes, and founde (as it were) a wyld wyne, and gathered therof wyld Coloquintidas bys lap full, and came and thred them into the potte of pottage: for they knewe it not. So they poured oute for the men to eate. And it fortuneth, that whē they tasted of the pottage, they cryed oute, and sayd: O thou man of God, there is death in the pot: and they coulde not eate therof. But he sayde: byynge me. And he cast it into the pot, and sayde: I praye for the people, that they maye eate, and there was nomore harme in the potte.

There came a man from Baal Salise, and brought the man of God bread of the fyrst frutes, euen twety loues of barley, and newe corne, which was yet in his bagges, and sayde: Gyue vnto the people, that they maye eate. And bys mynister answered: why shall I let this before an hundred men? he sayd agayne: gyue it vnto the people & they maye eate. For thus sayeth the Lorde, * they shal eate, and there shalbe left ouer. And so he byd let it before them, & they did eate, and left ouer: accordyng to the word of þe Lorde.

¶ The. v. Chapter.

Naaman the Syrian is healed of his leprosie. Gehazi is stricken with leprosie, because he toke mansyfe, and rayment of Naaman.

Naaman capytayne of the hoste of the kyng of Siria, was a greute man, and honourable in the syght of his master: bycause that by hym the Lorde had gyuen healthe vnto Siria. he also was a myghty ma and experte in warre, but he was a lepre. And the Sirians had gone oute by companyes, and had brought out of the countrey of Israel a lytle mayde, and she was with Naamans wyfe. And he said vnto her lady: I wolde to God my lord were with the prophete that is in Samaria, for he wold deliuer him of his leprosie. And he went in, and tolde his lord, saying: thus and thus sayde the mayde that is of the lande of Israel. And the kyng of Siria sayde: Come, and enter in, and I wyll sende a letter vnto the kyng of Israel: And he came, and toke with hym ten talentes of syluer, and fyre thousande peces of golde, and ten chaunge of raymentes: & broughte the the letter to the kyng of Israel containing this tenour: As the whiche this letter is come vnto the beholde, I haue therewith sent Naaman my seruaut to the, that thou mayest rpe him of his leprosie. And it is fortuneth, that when the kyng of Israel had red the letter, he rct his clothes, and De. xxi. l. sayd: I am I God, that shoulde slaye and make alyue. For he doeth sende to me, that I shoulde deliuer a man from his leprosie: Wherefore consydre (I praye you) and se how he sekerth a quarrell agaynst me. Which when Elisa the man of God had hearde howe that the kyng of Israel had rent his clothes, he sent vnto the kyng saying: wherefore hast thou rente thy clothes? Let hym come nowe to me, and he shall knowe, that there is a Prophet in Israel.

And so Naaman came with his hoxses, and with hys charrettes, and stode at the doze of the house of Elisa. And Elisa sent a messenger vnto him, saying: go & wash the in Jordā. vii. tymes and thy flesh shal come agayne to the, and thou shalt be cleansed. But Naaman was wroth and went awaye, & sayd: Beholde, I thought w my selfe: he wolde surely come out, & stand, & call on the name of f Lord his God, and put hys hande on the place, that he myght heale the leprosie. Are not Abana & parphar, ryuers of Damascus better then all the waters of Israel? If I wash me also in them, shall I not be cleansed? And so he turned hym, and departed wpth displeasure. And his seruantes came, and communed with hym, and sayde: Rather yf the Prophet had bid den the do some great thyng, oughtest thou not to haue done it? Howe moche rather then, when he sayth to the: wash, and be cleane? Then went he downe, and washed hym selfe seuen tymes in Jordā, accordyng to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh chaunged, lyke vnto the flesh of a lytle chyld, & he was cleansed.

And he turned agayne to the man of God, he and all his company, and stode before him & sayd Beholde, I know now f there is no God in all the worlde, but in Israel. Now therfore take a blessing of thy seruaut. But he sayde: as surely as the Lorde lyueth (before whom I stand) I wyl receyue none. And when the other woulde haue cōstrayned hym to receyue it, he wold not. And Naaman sayd: (euen as thou wilt: but I desire not.) Shal there not be gyuen to thy seruaut as moche of this earthe as two mules may beare? For thy seruaut wyl henceforth offer neyther burnisacrifice nor offeryng vnto any other god save vnto f Lorde. But herein the Lorde be merciful vnto thy seruaut, f when my master goeth into the house of Rimmon, and doeth worshyppe there, and leaneeth on myne hand, and I also worshyp in the house of Rimmon. (When I do worshyp, I saye:) in the house of Rimmon the Lorde be mercifull vnto thy seruaut because of this thyng. Vnto whom he sayd: go in peace. And whē he was departed from hym as it were a forlonge of grounde, Sebeï the seruaut of Elisa the man of God sayd: beholde, my master hath spared Naaman thys Syrian, f he wolde not receyue of hys hande thos thynges, that he *offred. As surely as the Lorde liueth, I wil run after hym, and take some what of hym. And so Sebeï folowed Naaman. And when Naaman saide hym cūnyng after hym, he lighte downe from the charette to mete hym, and sayde: * is all well? He answered: All is wel. Beholde, my master hath sent me, saying: He, there be come to me, euen nowe from mounte Ephraim two younge men of the chyldrene of the Prophetes: gyue them I praye the, one talent of silver, and two chaunge of garmentes. And Naama sayd with a good wyll. Take two talentes: & he compelled hym to bynde two talentes of silver in two bagges, w two chaunge of garmentes, & layed them vpo two of his seruantes, to beare them before hym. And when he came into a secrete place, he toke the syd thep had, & bestowed it in the house, & the mē were let go: & they departed.*

*But he went in, and stode before his master. And Elisa sayd vnto hym: whence comest thou Sebeï? he sayd: thy seruaut went no whither. But he said vnto him: wlt not myne hert w the when the man tourued agayne from hys charet to mete the? Is it nowe a tyme to receyue moneye, to receyue garmentes, olyue trees, vyneyardes, sheepe and oxen, men seruantes, and mayde seruantes? The leprosie therfore of Naaman shall cleane vnto the, and thy seed for euer. * And he went out from hys presence a lye whyte as snowe.*

¶ The. vi. Chapter.

Elisus maketh prion to swymme about the waters. The Syrians besyge Israel, so that two women agree together to save thrys owne chyldren.

The children of the prophetes said vnto Elisa: Beholde, f place where we dwel with the is to lytle for vs. We wil therefore goe vnto Jordā, & take thēc every man a beme, & buyde vs a place to dwell in. And he answered: go. And one said: he cōtent (I pray the) & com w thy seruantes. And he answered: I wil come, and so he wlt w them. And whē they came to Jordā they cut downe wood. But it fortuneth, that an one was felling downe of a tree, the axe head fell into the water. And he cryed and sayd: alas master, it was lent me. And the man of God said: where fel it? And he shewed hym the place. And he cut downe a stycke, and cast it in thither, and immediatly the prion dyd swym. Therfore sayde he: take it vp. And he stretched out his hand, & toke it vp.

But f kyng of Siria warred agaynst Israel & toke cōsail w his seruantes, and sayd: In pōze secrete place shal be my remayning. And the man of God sent vnto the kyng of Israel, saying: Beware that thou go not ouer to such a place, for there the Syrians are lurking. Therfore the kyng of Israel sent to the place which f man of God told him, and warned hym of, and saved hym selfe from it, not ones, nor twyse.

And the hert of the kyng of Siria was troubled for this thyng, & he called for his seruantes and sayd vnto them: wyl ye not shew me which of our men (besyde me) to the kyng of Israel? And one of his seruantes sayde: none my Lorde O kyng, but Elisa f prophet that is in Israel telleth tellethe the kyng of Israel: yea, even the wo-den þ thou spakest in thy dreym chabze. he sayde go, and espye where he is, þ I may send and fet him. And one told him, saying: beholde, he is in Dorham. Therfore sente he threther hoxes, and charettes, and a myghty hooke. And they came by nyght, and compassed the crite about.

And whē þ seruauant of the mā of God arose by early to go out, beholde, there was an hooke roude about the towne with hoxes & charettes.
And his seruauant sayde vnto hym: Alas maister what shall we do? he answered: * feare not, for they þ be with vs are mo the they þ be with the.
And Elisa prayed, and sayd: Lord (I beseech the) open his eyes, þ he may se. And the Lord opened the eyes of the yongeman. And beholde the mostapne was ful of hoxes & charettes of fyre round about Elisa. And whē they came downe to hym, Elisa prayed vnto the Lord, and sayde: Sympte this people I praye the, with * blynd-nesse. And he smote them with blyndnesse, accor-dyng to the desyre of Elisa. And Elisa sayd vnto them: this is not the way, neyther is this the towne: folowe me, and I wyl byngye you to the mā whō ye seke. But he led them to Samaria.

And it soxtuned, that when they were come to Samaria, Elisa sayd: Lord, open theye eyes that they may se. And the Lord opened theye eyes, and they sawe. And beholde, they were in the myddest of Samaria. And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Elisa whē he sawe them: Wy lather, shal I sympte them: And he answered: thou shalt not sympte the: But sympte them that thou hast taken with thyne owne swearde, and wpythyne owne bowe. But rather set byerd and water befoze them, that they maye eate and drynke and go to their maister. And he prepared a great refection for them. And when they had eate and dronken, he sent them awaye: and they went to theyr mayster. And so the souldyers of Syria came nomore into the lande of Israel.

After this it chaunced, that Benhadad king of Siria gathered all his hooke, and went vp, & besyged Samaria. But there was a greates derth in Samaria: and behold, they besyged it vntyll an a fless head (was solde) for foure scoze syluer pence, and the fourth parte of a cab of do-nes dunge, for fyue sylces. And as the kyng of Israel was goyng vpon the wall, there cryed a woman vnto him, sayinge: helpe, my Lord. O kyng, he sayde: yf the Lord do not succour the, wherwith can I helpe the: with the barne o: w the bynnysser. And the kyng sayde vnto her: what wilt thou? she answered: yonder womā sayd vnto me: byng thy son, that we maye eate hym to day, and we wyl eate myne to morowe.
And so we dyssed my sonne, and dyd eat hym.
And I sayd to her this order day: byng thy son that we maye eate him, and the hath dyd her son.
And it came to passe, that when the kyng herde the wordes of the woman, he rent his clothes, & went vp on the wall. And the people looked, and beholde, he had sackcloth vnder, vpon his fleshe.
Then he sayde: * God do so and so to me, yf the head of Elisa the sone of Saphat shall stand on hym this daye. But Elisa sat in the house, and the elders sat by hym, and the kyng sent a man befoze hym: But yet the messenger came to him he sayd to the elders: haue ye not sene how that the sone of this mā murtherer hath sent to take away myne head: be circumspect when the messenger cometh, and shut the doze, and hold hym at the doze: is not the sound of his masters feete behynde hym? Whyle he yet talked with them: beholde, the messenger came downe vnto hym, and sayd: beholde, this euyl is of the Lord, and what more shall I loke for of the Lord?

The. vii. Chapter.

Elisa propheseth plentifulnesse of vntayle and other thin-ges to Samaria. The Syrians come away, and haue no man folowynge them. The lord that would not beleue the wordes of Elisa is redden to death.

Then Elisa sayd: heare ye the woide of the Lord: thus sayth þ Lord: * to mo-rowe this tyme shal a busshel of fyne floure be sold for a sicke, & two busshels of barley for a sicke in þ gate of Samaria.
The a certayne lord (on whose hande the king leaned) answered þ mā of God, & sayde: beholde, yf þ Lord wold make windowes in heuē might this sayinge come to passe: he sayd: beholde, thou shalt se it with thyne eyes, but shalt not eat therof.

And there were foure leperouse men at the entreyng in of the gate. And they sayde one to an other: whyt we here vntyll we dye: yf we say we wyl entre into the cite: beholde, the derth is in the cite, & we shal dye therin. And yf we style here, we dye also. Howe therfore come, & let vs fall vpon the hooke of the Syrians: yf they saue our lyues we shal lyue: yf they kyll vs, the are we deed. And so they arose in the nyghte, to go to the hooke of the Syrians. And when they were come to the vernooste parte of the hooke of Siria, beholde, there was noman there.

For the Lord had made the hooke of the Si-rians: to heare a noyse of charettes, and a noyse of hoxes, & the noyse of a great host. In somoch that they sayd one to an other: lo, þ kyng of Israel hath byied a gaynst vs þ kynges of the he-thites, & the kynges of the Egipcians to come vpon vs. Wherfore they arose, & fled in the nyghte and left theyr tētes, theyr hoxes & theyr asses, & the fiede which they had pyched, eue as it was and fled for theyr lyues. And whē these lepers came to the edge of the hooke, they went into a tent, and dyd eate and drynke, and carped the syluer and golde, and ramente, and went and dyd it, came agayne, and entered into an other tent, and carped thence also, and went & dyd it.

Then sayd one to an other: We do not well this day, for asmoche as it is a day to byng good tydings, & we holde our peace. yf we tary tyll the day light, som mischete wyl come vpon vs.
How therfore come, that we may go, and tel þ kynges dontholde. And so they came, and called vnto the porters of the crite, and tolde them, sayinge: we came to the paupions of the Syrians: and se, there was noman there, neither voyce of man, but hoxes and asses tyed: and the tentes were euen as they were wont to be.

And so the man called vnto the porters, and they

they told the kynges house within. And the kyng arole in the nyght, and sayd vnto his seruantes: I will shewe you now, what the Syrians haue done vnto vs. They knowe þe we be hungrye, & therfore are they gone oute of the paultions, to hyde them selues in the felde, sayinge: whē they come out of the ctye, we shal catche the alpue, & get into the citie. And one of his seruantes answered, and sayde: Let men take (I praye you) fyue of the hoyses that remaine, and are lette in the multitude. Beholde, they are euen as all the multitude of Israel that are left in the ctye: be holde (I saye) they are euen as the multitude of the Israelites that are consumed, and we wyll sende, and se. They toke therfore the hoyses of two charettes, and the kyng sent after the hoste of the Syrians, sayinge: goo, and se. And they went after them euen vnto Iordā, and loe, all þe waye was full of clothes and vessels which the Syrians had cast from them in theyr hast.

D And the messengers returned, and told þe kyng. And the people wente out & spoyled the tentes of the Syrians. And so it came to passe, þa a busshell of fyne flour was solde for a sicke, and two busshells of barley for a sicke: according to þe word of the Lorde. And the kyng appointed þe Lorde (on whose hand he lene) to be at þe gate. And þe people trode vpon him in the gate, & he dyed: according to the worde of the man of God, which he sayd: when the kyng came downe to hym. And so came the thyng to passe, þe mā of God had spoken to the kyng, sayinge: two busshells of barley for a sicke: and a busshell of fyne flour for another, shalbe & to morowe this tyme in the gate of Samaria. Where vnto that lord answered þe man of God, and sayde: Yea, and yf the Lorde made wyndowes in heauen, myghte it come to passe. And he sayde, Beholde, thou shalt se it with thine eyes, and shalt not eate ther of. And euen so chaunced it vnto hym: for the people trode vpon him in the gate: and he dyed.

The viii. Chapter.

Elisa prophesyeth vnto the Chananites the deathe of Seuen yeres. After the deathe of Benhadad raygneth Hazael in Siria. Jehoash the sonne of Jehosaphat raygneth in Iuda. Edom falleth from Iuda. Shoziah succeedeth Jehoash.

Ihen spake * Elisa vnto the woman, (whose sonne he had restored to lyfe agayne) sayinge: vp, & go, thou, & thynne house, & sojourne whereloeuer þe canst, for the Lorde hath called for a deeth, and þe same shal come vpon the lande seuen yeres. And the woman arole, and dyd after the sayenge of the man of God, and wēt both she and her household and sojourned in the lande of the Philistines seuen yeres. And at the seuen yeres ende, it fortuneth, that the woman came agayne out of þe land of the Philistines, and went out to cal vpon the kyng for her house & for her lande. And the kyng talked with Schezi the seruant of þe mā of God sayinge: tel me (I praye þe) al the great deades, that Elisa hath done. he tolde the kyng, how he had restored a dead man to lyfe agayne: but in þe meane tyme the woman (whose chyld he had rayled vp agayne) cryed to þe kyng for her house and for her lande. And Schezi sayde. Wyf, loyd þe wyf, this is the woman, and this is her sonne whome Elisa rayled vp agayne. And when the kyng asked the woman, she told him. And so the kyng deliuered her a chamberlayne sayinge: restore thou vnto her, all that are hers: and all the frutes of the felde syns the daye that we left the lande, vntyll this tyme.

And * Elisa came to Damascus, and Benhadad the kyng of Siria was sycke. And one told hym, sayinge: The mā of God is com hithe. And the kyng sayd vnto Hazael: * take a presēt in thynne hande, and go mete the man of God, & thou mayest aske the Lorde by hym, whether I shal recouer of this disease. And so Hazael went to mete him, and toke the presēt with hym, and of euery good thyng of Damascus, eue as moche as fourtye camelles coulde beare, and came and presented hym selfe before hym, and sayd: Thy sonne Benhadad kyng of Siria hath sent me to the, sayinge: shal I recouer of this disease?

And Elisa sayde to hym: goo, and saye vnto hym: thou shalt recouer, howbeit, the Lorde hath shewed me, that he shal surceyue þe. And he looked asyde, and was ashamed, and the man of God wepte. And Hazael sayde: why weperst my loyd? he answered: for I knowe the cruel thynges that thou shalt do vnto the chyldren of Israel: for theyr stronge ctyes, shalt thou set on fyre, and theyr yonge men shalt thou slaye with the swerde, and shalt dash out the braynes of theyr suckynge chyldren, and all to teare theyr women with chyldre.

But Hazael sayd what is thy seruant a dog? that I shoulde do this great thyng? And Elisa answered: þe Lorde hath shewed me, & thou shalt be kyng of Siria. And so he departed fro Elisa and came to his master, whiche sayde to hym: What sayde Elisa to the? he answered, he tolde me that thou shouldest recouer. And on the morowe it fortuneth, that he tooke a thycke clothe, and dypte it in water, and spredde it on his face, and he dyed: and Hazael raygned in his stede.

The fyfth yere of Jehoash the sonne of Jhab kyng of Israel, Jehosaphat being also kyng of Iuda, Jehoash the son of Jehosaphat kyng of Iuda began to raygne. * xxiij. yeres olde was he, when he beganne to raygne: and he raygned cxxij. yeres in Jerusalem. And he walked in the wayes of the kynges of Israel, as they were of the house of Ahab, for the daughter of Ahab was his wyfe, and he dyd euyl in the syghte of the Lorde. And the Lorde woulde not destroye Iuda: and that because of Dauid his seruant: as he promysed him to geue him alway a light amonge his chyldren.

* In those dayes Edd dyd wyckedly when he was vnder þe hand of Iuda. For they made the a kyng of their owne. So Jehoash wēt to zair, he & al his charettes with hym. And he arole by nyght, and smote the Edomites whiche had rebelled him in with the captaynes of his charettes, and the people fled into theyr tentes. But Edd rebelled, so that he wolde not be vnder the hand of Iuda vnto this daye. And then Roboab began to be disobedient euen that same tyme.

The rest

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jo-ram all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in y<sup>e</sup> booke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And Jo-ram rested with his fathers, and was buried by his fathers in the cytie of Dauid. And Ahaziah his sonne reygned in his stede. In the
xii. yere of Jozā the son of Ahab kyng of Israel dyd Ahaziah the son of Jehoram kyng of Juda begyn to raigne. Two & twety yere old was Ahaziah when he began to raigne, and he raygned one yere in Jerusalem, & his mothers name Athaliah the daughter of Omri kyng of Israel. But he walked in the wape of the house of Ahab, and dyd euyl in the sight of the Lord, eue as dyd the house of Ahab. For he was the sonne in lawe of the house of Ahab.

And he went with Jo-ram the sonne of Ahab to war agaynst Hazael kyng of Siria in Ra-moth Gilead, & the Sirians wounded Jozā. And king Jozā went backe agayne to be healed in Jerusalem of y<sup>e</sup> woundes which y<sup>e</sup> Sirians had gūe him at Ramoth whē he fought agaynst Hazael kyng of Siria. And Ahaziah the son of Jehorā kyng of Juda went downe to se Jo-ram the son of Ahab in Jerusalem, because he was sycke there.

The ix. Chapter.

Jehu to make kyng of Israel, and kyllest Jehoram the kyng thereof, and Ahaziah, wheremye called Jehoiasa & the kyng of Juda also, & causeth Jezabel to be cast downe out of a window, & the dogges ate her.

And Elisa the prophet called one of y<sup>e</sup> children of the prophetes, and sayd vnto him: *gyde vp thy loynes and take this boxe of oyle in thy hande, & get the to Ramoth in Gilead. And whē y<sup>e</sup> comest thither, loke where is Jehu y<sup>e</sup> son of Jehosaphat, the sonne of Nimsi, & go to hym, & make hym aryse vp from amonge his brethren, and carie hym to a secreete chāber. Then take the boxe of oyle, and poure it on his hebd, and saye: thus sayeth the Lord: I haue annoynted the to be kyng ouer Israel. And then open the boxe, & slye wythout any taryng. And so the seruaunt of the prophet gat hym to Ramoth Gilead, and when he came in, beholde, the captaynes of the hostes were syttinge togyther. And he sayde: I haue an errande to the, O captayne. And Jehu sayde: vnto which of all vs: he sayde: to the, O captayne. And he arose, and wēt into the house.

And he poured the oyle on his hebd, and sayd vnto hym: thus sayeth the Lord God of Israel: *I haue anoynted the to be kyng ouer the people of the Lord, euen ouer Israel. Thou shalt lure the house of Ahab thy master, that I may aunge y<sup>e</sup> blood of my seruantes the prophetes, and the blood of all the seruantes of the Lord of the bande of Jezabel, for the whoole house of Ahab shall be destroyed: and *I wyl destroye Ahab, euen hym y<sup>e</sup> maketh water agaynst the wall, and hym that is pyloned and forsaken in Israel: and I wyl make the house of Ahab lyke the house of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, & lyke the house of Baasa the sonne of Ahia. And as for Jezabel, & the dogges shall eat her in the feide of Jezabel, and there shall be none to burye her.
And he opened the boxe, and fled.

Jehu came out to the seruantes of his lord and one sayde vnto hym: is all well? Wherfore came this man felow to the? And he sayde vnto them: ye know what maner of man it is, & what his comunicacyon is. They sayde vnto hym a-gayne: it is not so, tell vs: he sayde: thus & thus spake he to me, saying: Thus sayeth the Lord:
I haue annoynted the to be kyng ouer Israel.
Then they besyde the horologe fasted, & toke euery man his garment, and put it vnder hym, and blew with trompettes, saying: Jehu is kyng. And so Jehu the sonne of Jehosaphat the sonne of Nimsi conspyred agaynst Jo-ram kept Ramoth Gilead, he and all Israel because of Hazael kyng of Siria: and *kyng Jo-ram returned to be healed in Jerusalem of the wou-des which the Sirians had gūen hym, whē he fought with Hazael kyng of Siria.

And Jehu sayd: y<sup>e</sup> fit be your myndes, then let noman departe & escape out of the cytye, to go & tel in Jerusalem. So Jehu gat vp into a charet, & went to Jerusalem where Jo-ram laye, and Aha-ziah kyng of Juda was come downe thither to se Jo-
ram. And the watchman that stode in the towre in Jerusalem, spied the compaigne of Jehu as he came, and sayde: I se a compaigne. And Jehozā sayd: take a horseman and sende to mete them, y<sup>e</sup> he may aske whether it be peace. And so there wēt one on horsebacke to mete him, & sayd thus sayth the kyng: is it peace? and Jehu sayd: what hast thou to do wth peace? turne the behynde me. And the watchman tolde, saying: the messenger came to them, but he cometh not agayne.

Then he sent oute an other on horsebacke, which came to them and sayd: thus saith y<sup>e</sup> kyng is it peace? Jehu answered: what hast thou to do with peace? turne the behynde me. And y<sup>e</sup> watchman tolde, saying: he came to them also and cometh not agayne, & the dyspyng is lyke the dys-pyng of Jehu the son of Nimsi: for he dyspyeth y<sup>e</sup> charet as he were mad. And Jehozā sayd: make ready, and the charet was made ready. And Je-horam kyng of Israel & Ahaziah kyng of Juda wēt out of them in his charet agaynst Jehu, & met him in the foyle longe of Naboth the Jerusalemite. And it fortuneth, that whē Jehoram lawe Jehu: he sayd: is it peace Jehu? he answered: What peace shulde there be, so longe as the whoredomes of thy mother Jezabel, & her witch craftes are so greater? And Jehoram turned his handes, and fled, and sayd to Ahaziah: there is falschēd, O Ahaziah. And Jehu toke a bowe in his handes, and smote Jehozā betwene the armes, and the arrowe went thorow his hert. And he fel downe flat in his charet. Then sayd Jehu to Zedkar a captayne: take hym, and cast hym in the plot of grounde of Naboth the Jerusalemite.
For I remembre that when I and thou rode to-gyther in a charet after Ahab his father, y<sup>e</sup> Lord layed his bruydarten vpon hym. I haue se-nestherdape the blood of Naboth, & the blood of his sonnes, sayd the Lord: and I wyl quyte it the in this grounde, sayd the Lord: Now therefore take hym & cast him in the plot of the ground, ac-cordinge to the word of the Lord. But when Ahaziah

lett men without, and sayde: If any of the men whiche I haue broughte vnder your handes, escape he that letteth go, shall be for him.

And it fortuned, & ashoon as he had made an ende of offering the burnt sacrifice, Jehu layd to the men of warre, and to the captaynes: go in and sleve the, let none come out. And they smote them with the edge of the swerde. And the men of war and the captaynes cast them out, & were vnto the cite of the temple of Baal, & for the ymages out of the temple of Baal, & burnt them. And they brake ymage of Baal, & brake y house of Baal, & made a baste house of it vnto this daye. And so Jehu destroyed Baal out of Israel. But fro the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat which made Israel to synne, Jehu departed not neither fro folowynge of them, <sup>(neither fro the he)</sup> the golde calves that were in Bethel and in Da

And the Lord layde vnto Iehu: because thou hast done eynge well in byngynge to passe the thynge that is right in myne eyes, and hast done vnto the house of Ahab accordynge to all thynges that are in myne heart, therfore shal thy children vnto the fourth generation syt on the seate of Israel. But Iehu cared not for this, to walk in the lawe of the Lorde God of Israel with all his herte, so he departed not from the synnes of Ieroboam, which made Israel to synne.

In those dayes the Lord began to cut Israel shorte: and Hazael smote the in all the coastes of Israel, fro Jordan eastwarde, euen all plain of Gilead, the Gadites, & Rubenites, and the wert of Manasses, from Izer into the ryuer Arnon: euen Gilead and Basan. The rest of the wordes that concerne Iehu, and al that he dyd, and all his power, are they not wyrtten in the booke of Chronicles of kynges of Israel? And Iehu slepte wth his fathers, and they buried hym in Samaria, and Jehoahaz his sonne raygned in his stede. And the tyme that Iehu raygned vpon Israel in Samaria is. xxviii. yeres.

Chapter.

¶ Arborea putteth forth all the lynges sonnes, excepte Yonah the sonne of Shonah, which is hidde and after her death is made lyng.

And Achalia p'morher of Abayahu whē he saw þæt her son was deed he arose, and destroyed all the hynges seed. But Jehosaba the daughter of king Joaz, & sister to Abayahu toke Joaz's son of Abayahu, & scale hym in among þæt hynges sonnes þæt were slayne, & his name to him, out of a slepyng chamber, and byd hym from Achalia þæt he was not slayne. And he was to her byd in the house of the Lord for p'ce. And Achalia byd raigne ouer the lande.

And the vii. yere Jehoiaba sent and fet the let ye be with the kyng, as he goeth out and in.

And the captaynes ouer the hundreds dyd accordynge to all thynges þat Jeholada the preeſt comanded, ⁊ they toke euery man his meſſe that were to come in on the Sabbath daye to them þat ſhuld go out on þat Sabbath, and came to Jeholada the preeſt. And to the captaynes ouer hundreds dyd the preeſt geue hynges Dauides ſpeares and ſpyders that were in the temple. And they of the garde ſtoode, and euery man had his weapon in his hande rounde aboute the hynges, from the ryghte corner of the temple to the leſſe, alonge by the alter and the temple. And he brought out the kinges ſonne, and put the crowne vpon him and beſpured hym ⁊ the wytheſſe, and made hym king, and annoynted him. And they clapt theyr handes, and ſayde: God ſaue the hynges.

* And when Athalia herde the noyse of the ringing of the people. She came to þ people into the temple of the Lorde. And whē she looked, behold, the kyng stode by a pillar, as the manner was, & the syngers & the trepetters by the kyng, and all the people of the lande reioysed, and blew w̄ trepetters. And Athalia rent her clothes, and cryed trash, treason. But Jehoiada þ priest commaunded the captaynes of the hundredes that had the rule of þ host, and sayd vnto the: haue her out w̄ out þ temple, þ she may be within the ranges, and yf any folow her, kyll him with the sword: for þ priest had sayd: she may not be slayne in þ house of the Lord. And they layed haides on her tyl she came into the way, by the which the hoyses wēt into the kynges palace, & there was the slayne.

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene the Lorde & the kynge, and the people, & they shoulde be the Lordes people: & also betwene the kynge and the people. And all & people of the land went into the house of Baal, and destroyed it, his hialters also, & his images brake they downe into the sea, and the Gashan & priest of Baal before the alters. And the priests set a watch ouer the house of the Lorde: and toke the tulers ones hundreds, the captaynes, & them of the garde, and al the people of the land. And they brought & keng fro the house of the Lorde: & came by the way of the gate

the gate of them of the garde to the kynges palace. And he sat hym downe on the seat of a kynges. And al the people of the lande rejoyced, and the cite was in quiet. And the kyng Jehoiada the swerde besyde the kyng. And the kyng perre olde was Jehoas who he began to reigne.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Jehoas maketh promysse for the repairing of the temple: he is killed by one of his servants: and Amasiah carryeth in his dead.

And he began to raygne in f. xlii. yere of Jchu. xl. yere raygned he in Jerusalem, & his mothers name was Jeziab of Beerseba. And he dyd that whiche was good in the syght of f. Lord, as longe as Jehoiaada the prest entourned him. But the dilanities were not taken away, for the people offred & burnt incense vpon f. dilanities. And Jehoas sayd to the prestes: all the siluer of dedicate thinges that be brought to the house of the Lord in curraut money, that is to say: the money that every man is set at, & al the moneye f. every man with a wyllynge herte giveth & byngeth into the house of the Lord: let the prestes take it to them, every man of hys aquyntaunce: to repaie the broken places of the house: where soever anye decaye is found. And so it came to passe, that vnto f. xlii. yere of kynges Jehoas, the prestes had meded no thynge, that was decayed in the temple. Then kyng Jehoas called for Jehoiaada the byshop, & the prestes, & sayde vnto them: why repaie ye not the broken places of the temple? Now therfore: se that ye receyue nomore money of your aquyntaunce, excepte ye deliuer it to repaie the temple wythal. And the prestes consented to receyue nomore money of the people: except to repaie the decayed places of the temple.

But Jehoiaada the prest, toke a chest & boied an hole in the lyd of it, & set it besyde the altare, on f. right syde, as every man cometh into f. temple of the Lord. And the prestes f. kept the vessels, put therein al the moneye f. was brought into the house of the Lord. And it fortuned f. whe they sawe there was moche money in the chest, the kynges scribe & the bye prest came vp, and tolde the moneye f. was founde in the house of the Lord, & put it into a bagge. And they gaue the moneye sealed into f. handes of them f. executed the worke, and f. had the ouersyght of the house of the Lord: & they brought it out to the carpenters & buylders f. wrought vpon f. house of the Lord: & to masons & bewers of stone. And they brought tymber & freestone, to repaie the decay in the house of the Lord, & to all f. wente out to mend f. temple: howbeit there was not made for the house of f. Lord, bowris of siluer: instruments of musyke, basons, troyettes: or any vessels of golde, or vessels of syluer, of the moneye that was brought into the house of the Lord. But they gaue that to the workemen, and repayed there wyth the house of the Lord. Whereouer, they rehened not with the men, into whose handes they deliuered that moneye to be bestowed on workemen: for they dyd theyr busynesse faithfully. Howbeit trespasse moneye and synne moneye was not brought into the house of the Lord for it was the prestes.

Then came hazael kyng of Syria by, and fought agaynst Gedi and toke it, & hazael set his lace to goe vnto Jerusalem. And Jehoas kyng of Juda toke al the hallowed thinges f. Jeholaphat, Jehoazam, & Jhoiabu hys fathers kynges of Juda, had dedicate, and that he hym selfe had dedicated, and all the golde that was founde in the treasures of the house of the Lord: & in the kynges house, & sent it to hazael kyng of Syria, and so he departed from Jerusalem. The remnaunt of the wordes f. concerne Jehoas & all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda. And his owne seruantes arose & wrought treason, & slue Jehoas in the house of Hillo, wher he came downe to Hilla. Jozaber the sonne of Seameath: & Jehoabab the son of Somer his seruantes smote hym, & he dyed. And they buried hym wyth hys fathers in the cite of David. And Amaziabu his sonne raygned in his stede.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Jehoas the sonne of Jehoas is deliuered into the handes of the Syrians, and dyeth. Joas his son raygneth in his stede, & he dyeth.

In the. xlii. yere of Joas the sonne of Amaziabu kyng of Juda, Jehoabaz f. sonne of Jchu began to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria. xlii. yere. And he wrought f. which was euill in the sight of f. Lord, & folowed f. synnes of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, which made Israel to synne, & departed not therfrom. And the Lord was angry with Israel, & deliuered them into f. hande of hazael kyng of Siria, and into f. hande of Benhadad the sonne of hazael all theyr dayes. And Jehoabaz besought f. Lord, & the Lord heard him. For he considred the trouble of Israel, wherewith the kyng of Siria troubled them. And the Lord gaue Israel a deliuerer, so that they went out fro vnder the subiection of f. Syrians. And f. children of Israel dwelt in theyr tentes as before tyme. Nevertheless they departed not from the synnes of the house of Jeroboam which made Israel synne, but walked in them.

And there remayned a grone syl also in Samaria. Neither dyd he leaue of the people to Jehoabaz, but f. type house, ten charrettes, & ten thousand footemen, & for the kyng of Siria destroyed them, & made them lyke chesed dust. The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoabaz and all that he dyd, and his power, are they not wyrtten in the boke of the chronicles of the kynges of Israel. And Jehoabaz slept with his fathers, & they buried him in Samaria, and Joas hys sonne raygned in hys stede. In the. xlii. yere of Joas kyng of Juda, began Jehoas the sonne of Jehoabaz to raygne ouer Israel in Samaria f. xlii. yere, and dyd that which is euill in the sight of the Lord, and departed not from al the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, (that made Israel synne) for he walked therein.

ges of Israel: And Joas slept with his fathers, in Jeroboam's seate. And Joas was buried in Samaria among the kynges of Israel.

When Elisa was fallen speche of his speche nelle (whereof he dyed) Joas the kyng of Israel came downe vnto hym, and wepte before hym, and sayd: O my father, my father: the charret of Israel, & the horseman of the same. Elisa said vnto hym: take bowe and arrowes. And he toke vnto hym bowe & arrowes. And he sayde to the kyng of Israel: put thyne hand vpon my bow, & he put his hande vpon it. And Elisa put his hades vpon the kynges handes, and sayde: open a windowe eastwarde: & when he had opened it, Elisa sayd: shot, and he shot. And he sayd: the a-rowe of helth of the Lord, & the arrowe of helth agaynste Siria: for thou shalt smyte Siria in Aphek, till thou haue made an ende of them.

And he sayde: take the arrowes: and he toke them. And he sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: smyte the ground: and he smote thysle, and ceased. And the mā of God was angry wth him, and sayd: thou shouldest haue smytte syre of syre tymes. (as thou sayest) & then thou haddest smytten Siria, till thou haddest made an ende of the: where nowe thou shalt smyte Siria, but thysle. And also Elisa dyed, & they buried hym, & the souldiers of the Moabites came into the lande the same yere. And it chaunced as some of them were burying a man, & lpyed the souldiers, they cast the man into the sepulchre of Elisa. And when the man was tolled downe, and touched the bodye of Elisa: he reuiued and stode vpon his fete.

But Hazael reued Israel, all the dayes of Jehoabaz. And the Lord had mercy on them, & pyttied them, and had respect vnto them because of his appoyntment made with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob: and wold not destioye them, neither cast he them fro him as yet. So Hazael the kyng of Siria dyed: & Benhadad his son raygned in his steede. And Jehoas the sonne of Jehoabaz went agayne: & toke out of the hande of Benhadad the sone of Hazael, the cities whych he had taken away out of the hande of Jehoabaz his father in war for thre tymes: dyd Joas beat hym, & restozed the capties vnto Israel agayne.

The. xlii. Chapter.

Amaziabhu the kyng of Juda puteth to death the man quell: as of his father: and after smyteth Edom. Joas dyed, and Jeroboam his sone succeeded in his throne, and after hym raygned zachariah. Amaziabhu is killed in Lachis, and Jaria raygned in his steede.

¶ He. coude pere of Joas: son of Jeho-abaz king of Israel raygned Amaziabhu the son of Joas king of Juda: he was
xxv. yere old whē he began to raygne, & raygned. xlii. yere in Ierusalem, & his mothers name was Jeroboam: of Ierusalem. And he dyd that which is good in the syght of the Lord, yet not lyke Dauid his father, but dyd accordyng to all the kynges as Joas his father dyd. Rether were the hyllaulers taken awaye. For as yet the people dyd sacrifice and burnt incense on the hyllaulers. And alsoone as the kyngdome was settled in his hande: it came to passe that he slue disseruantes whych had killed his father

And the chyldren of those murderers he slue not, as it is written in that is wyrtten in the booke of the sayinge: let not the fathers dye for the chyldren, nor lette the chyldren be slayne for the father. But let euery man be put to death for his owne synne. He slue of Edom in the salte valleye ten thousande, and toke the castell on the roche in the same battel, and called the name of it Jothheel vnto this daye.

Then Amaziabhu sent messengers to Jehoas the sonne of Jehoabaz, sonne of Jehu kyng of Israel, sayinge: come, let vs eche order. And Jehoas the kyng of Israel sente to Amaziabhu kyng of Juda, sayinge: dyd not a thysle that is in Libanon, sende to a cedre tree that is in Libanon, sayinge: gyue thy daughter to my sonne to wyfe: And the wylde beaste that was in Libanon, went and trode downe the thysle. Thou hast smytten Edom, thyn herte hath made the proude: Enioye this gloire: and tarye at home.
Why dost thou pynoke to myschefe, that thou shouldest be ouerthrowen, and Juda wyth the?

But Amaziabhu wolde not heare. And Jehoas kyng of Israel went vp: and he and Amazi-abhu kyng of Juda sawe echer other at Bethzames whiche is in Juda. And Juda was put to worke before Israel, and they fled euery man to theyr tentes. And Jehoas kyng of Israel toke Amaziabhu kyng of Juda, the sonne of Jehoas the sonne of Abaziabhu: at Bethlames, and cam to Ierusalem, & brake downe the wall of Jerusalem fro the gate of Ephraim to the corner gate, four hundred cubytes. And he toke all the golde and syluer, & all the vessels that were founde in the house of the Lord, and in the treasures of the kynges house, and the chyldren toke he to be hys wardes: and returned to Samaria agayne.

The rest of factes of Jehoas whiche he dyd and hys power, & howe he fought with Amazi-abhu kyng of Juda, are they not wyrtten in the Chronicle booke of the kynges of Israel: And Jehoas slept with his fathers, and was buried at Samaria, amonge the kynges of Israel: and Jeroboam hys sonne raygned in his steede.

Amaziabhu the sonne of Joas kyng of Juda, lyued after the death of Jehoas sonne of Jeho-abaz kyng of Israel fylle yere. And the remnaunt of the wordes that concerne Amaziabhu, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of the kynges of Juda? But they conspyred treason agaynst him in Ierusalem, & when he fled to Lachis, they sent after him to Lachis: and slue hym there. And they brought hym on horses, & he was buried at Ierusalem with his fathers, in the cytie of Dauid. And al the people of Juda toke Jaria, whiche was. xvi. yere olde, & made hym kyng for his father Amaziabhu. He buylte a clath, & brought it agayn to Juda, after that the kyng was laped to rest with his fathers.

In the. xv. yere of Amaziabhu the sonne of Jo-as kyng of Juda, was Jeroboam the sone of Jo-as made kyng ouer Israel in Samaria, & raygned. xlii. yere: & wrought that which was euyl in the syght of the Lord. Rether turned he away
h. iii. from

from al the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. He restored the coast of Israel from the entering of Hemath, vnto the see of the wilderness, accordyng to the word of the Lorde God of Israel, whiche he spake by the bande of his seruante * Jonas the sonne of Amithai the prophete: whiche was of Geth hephber. For the Lorde saide vnto him that the affliction of Israel was exceeding bytter, in somuche that the pylsoned and the forsaken were at an ende. And ther was none to helpe Israel. * And the Lorde sayde not, that he wolde put oute the name of Israel from vnder heauē, but he helped them by the bande of Jeroboam the sonne of Joas.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jeroboam, and all that he dyd: & his strength whiche he executed in the warres: and how he restored Damasco, and Hemath to Juda in Israel: are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Jeroboam slepe wyth his fathers, cul with the kynges of Israel: and zacharia his sonne ragned in his stede.

The xx. Chapter

Azaria the kyng of Iuda began with a lyre. Of Iothan, Shallum, Menahem, Pekahia, Zacharia, and Azaria.

In the xxviii. yere of Jeroboam kyng of Israel began Azaria, son of Amazia kyng of Iuda to raigne. Sixtene yere olde was he when he was made kyng: and he ragned two and fyfthe yere in Jerusalem, and his mothers name was Iecholiah of Jerusalem. And he dyd that whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all thynges as dyd his father Amaziahu: save that the hylaulters were not put away: for the people offered, and burned incense still on the hylaulters. And the Lorde smote the kyng: and he was a leper vnto the daye of his death: * and dwelte in a senerall house at lybertye, & Iothan the kynges sonne governed the palace, & iudged the people of the land. The rest of the wordes that concerne Azaria & al he dyd: are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And so Azaria slepe wyth his fathers: & they buried hym wth his fathers in the cpye of David, & Iotha his sonne ragned in his stede.

xxviii. yere.

In the xxxviii. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda dyd zacharia the sonne of Jeroboam raigne vpon Israel in Samaria fyve monethes: and wrought that whiche was euyl in the syght of the Lorde, as dyd his fathers: & turned not away fro the synnes of Jeroboam the son of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Shallu the sonne of Iabes conspyred agaynst hym, and smote hym in the syght of the people, & kylled hym: & ragned in his stede. The rest of the wordes that concerne zacharia, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The rest also the wordes of the Lorde, whiche he spake vnto Jeru, saying: the sonnes shall sit on the seate of Israel in the fourth generacion after the. And it came so to passe.

Shallum the sonne of Iabes began to raigne in the xxxix. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda: and he ragned a moneth in Samaria. For Menahem the sonne of Gadi went vp from Thirza, & came to Samaria, & smote Shallum the sonne of Iabes in Samaria, & slue him, and ragned in his stede. The rest of the wordes that concerne Shallum, & the treason whiche he conspyred, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel. The same yere Menahem destroyed Ephrah, & al he were therein, & the colles therof from Tharlahy. And because they opened not to hym, he smote it & rapt vp all they women w<sup>ch</sup> chyldre. The xxxix. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda began Menahem the sonne of Gadi to raigne vpon Israel ten yere in Samaria. And he dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde, & turned not away al his dayes fro the synne of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel to synne. And Phul the kyng of Assiria came vpon the lande. And Menahem gaue Phul a. w. talentes of syluer, & bys bande myghte be with him, & stablysh the kyngdome in his hande. And Menahem made a proclamation for money in Israel, & al men of substance shoulde geue the kyng of Assiria fyfthe paye of syluer a pece. And so the kyng of Assiria turned backe agayne, & tarped not there in the lande. The rest of the wordes that concerne Menahem, and al that he dyd: are they not written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel? And Menahem slepe wyth his fathers, & Pekahia his sonne dyd in his stede succede hym in the kyngdome.

In the fyfthe yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda, began Pekahia the son of Menahem to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria two yere, & dyd that whiche was euyl in the syght of the Lorde: & left not of fro the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, whiche made Israel synne. But Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu: whiche was a capayne of his, conspyred agaynst hym, & smote him in Samaria: euen in the place of the kynges house with Argob & Aria: & with hym were fyfthe men of Siladites: & he kylled hym, and ragned in his roume. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekahia, & al he dyd, beholde, they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

In the liii. yere of Azaria kyng of Iuda, began Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu, to raigne ouer Israel in Samaria. xx. yere, & dyd euyl in the syght of the Lorde: & turned not away from the synnes of Jeroboam the sonne of Nabat, that made Israel synne. In the dayes of Pekah kyng of Israel, came Tiglath Pileser kyng of Assiria, & toke Iion, Abel, Bethmaacha, Janoah, Kedesh, Hazor, Gilead, Galile, & all the lande of Rephad, & caried them away to Assiria. And Hoia the sonne of Ela conspyred treason agaynst Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu: & smote hym, & slue hym: & ragned in his stede in the twentieth yere of Iotham the sonne of Aziahu. The rest of the wordes that concerne Pekah and al that he dyd: beholde they are written in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Israel.

The seconde yere of Pekah the sonne of Remaliahu kyng of Israel, began Iotha the son of Aziahu kyng of Iuda to raigne. Fyne and twentieth yere olde was he when he began to raigne.

rapyne: and he ragned sytene yere in Ierusalem. his mothers name was Jerusa the daughter of sadoch. And he dyd that whiche is ryght in the syght of the Lozde: euen accordyng to all as dyd his father Aiahu, so dyd he. But þe hyllaulters were not put away: for the people offered and burnt incense still in the hyllaulters: he buyit the hygher doore of the house of the Lozde. The rest of the wordes that concerne Iotham, & al that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of þe kynges of Iuda: In those dayes the Lozde began to sende vnto Iuda Rezin the kyng of Siria, and Bechab the sonne of Remaliabu. And Iotham slepte with his fathers, and was buryed with his fathers in the cytye of Dauid his father, and Aha3 his sonne ragned in his stede.

C The. xvi. Chapter.

Cha3 kyng of Iuda consecrath his sonne in fyre, and hath many battayles agaynst the kyng of Assir, In the ende of Aha3 ragneth Bezechia his sonne.

The. xvii. yere of Bechab the sonne of Remaliabu kyng of Israel, * Aha3 the sonne of Iotham kyng of Iuda, began to ragnye. Twentye yere olde was he, whē he was made kyng, & ragned sytene yere in Ierusalem, & dyd not that which was ryght in the eyes of þe Lozde his God: lyke Dauid his father: But walked in the waye of the kynges of Israel, yea, & made * his sonne to go thowto the fyre, after the abhominacions of the heythen, whome the Lozde cast oute befor the chylde of Israel. And he offered & burnt incense in þe hyllaulters & on the hylls, and vnder every tpeche tree. * Then Rezin kyng of Siria and Bechab son of Remaliabu kyng of Israel came vp to Ierusalem to fyght. And they fought agaynst Aha3, but could not ouercome hym. At the same tyme Rezin kyng of Siria broughte Elath agayne to Siria, and rydde the Jewes thence. And the Sirians * came to Elath, and dwell therein vnto this daye.

So Aha3 sent messengers to Thiglathelezer kyng of Assiria, sayinge: I am thy seruante and thy sonne, come vp, & deliuer me out of the hande of the kyng of Siria, and out of the hande of the kyng of Israel whiche ryse vp agaynst me. And Aha3 toke the siluer & the golde that was folde in the house of the Lozde, & in þe treasures of þe kynges house, & sent a rwarde vnto the kyng of Assiria. * And the kyng of Assiria shent vnto hym. For þe kyng of Assiria went vp agaynst Damasco. And whē he had takē it: he carped the people away to Ezy, & Aha3 Rezin.

And kyng Aha3 wente vnto Damasco to Cmete Thiglathelezer kyng of Assiria. And when kyng Aha3 sawe an autler that was at Damasco, he sent to Aia the priest the paterne of the autler, and the fashion of it, and all the workemanship therof. And Aia þe priest made an autler in al poyntes lyke to þe paterne which kyng Aha3 had sent from Damasco. Euen so dyd Aia the priest make it: agaynst king Aha3 came from Damasco. And so when the kyng was come from Damasco, he sawe the autler: & the kyng went to it, and offered thereon. And he burnt his burnt offryng, and his meate offryng, and poured his drynke offryng, & spynkled the blood of his peace offrynges besydes the autler that was by þe byasen autler whiche was befoze the Lozde, and set it without the temple betwene the autler and the temple of the Lozde: and put it on the north syde of the autler.

And kyng Aha3 comaunded Aia the priest and sayd: vpon the great autler set on fyre in the moynynge the burnt offryng, and in þe euen the meate offryng, and the kynges burnt sacrifice & his meate offryng, with the burnt offryng of all the people of the lande, and the drynke offryng, & the drynke offrynges: and poure therby all the blood of the sacrifice offrynges. But þe byasen autler wyl I come and se. And Aia þe priest dyd accordyng to al thynges as kyng Aha3 comaunded hym. * And kyng Aha3 brake the sydes of the bottomes, and toke the lauer from of them, and toke downe the lauatoys from þe byasen oven that were vnder it: and put it vpo a pavement of stones. And the veyle for þe Sabbath (that they had made in the house) and the kynges entre withoute tourned he to the house of the Lozde, for feare of the kyng of Assiria. The rest of the wordes þe concerne Aha3, what he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the chronicles of the kynges of Iuda: And Aha3 slepte with his fathers: and was buryed with his fathers in the cytye of Dauid: and Bezechia his sonne ragned in his stede.

Cha3 kyng of Israel is taken. And he and all his realme brought to the Assirians.

In the. xii. yere of Aha3 kyng of Iuda beganne Hosia the sonne of Ela, to ragnye in Samaria, vpon Israel. ix. yere, and dyd that which was euill in the syght of the Lozde, but not as the kynges of Israel, that were befoze hym. And Salmansar kyng of Assiria came vp agaynst hym, and Hosia became his seruante, & gaue hym presentes. And the kyng of Assiria founde treason in Hosia: for he had sent messengers to the kyng of Egypt, & brought no present vnto þe kyng of Assiria, from yere to yere: & therfore the kyng of Assiria toke hym: and put hym in prison.

* And then the kyng of Assiria came vpthorowout all the lande, and gat vp agaynst Samaria, and besieged it the yere. In the nyntieth yere of Hosia, the * kyng of Assiria, toke Samaria, & carped Israel away vnto Assiria, and put the in Gala, in Iaboz by þe ryuer of Goza: &

In the cities of f Ordes: For it came to passe, that the chyldren of Israel synned agaynst the Lord theyr God, whiche had brought them out of the lande of Egypt, from vnder the bande of Pharaon kyng of Egypt: & feared other goddes. And they walked in the ceremonies of the heythen, whome the Lord cast out before the chyldren of Israel: & in the ceremonies, which the kynges of Israel had made. And f chyldren of Israel went about to hyde those thynges that were not wel, from the Lord theyr God. And they buylt them hylalters in al theyr cyties, both in the towres where they kept watche, and also in the stronge townes. And they made them ymages and groves in every hye hyll, & vnder every thyche tree. And there they burnt incense in all the hylalters, as dyd the heythen (whom f Lord caried away before them) and wrought wyched thynges to angre the Lord withall: For they serued moost vyle ydolles: wherof the Lord had sayde vnto them: ye shall do no suche thyng.

C And the Lord testified in Israel, and in Iuda by al the prophetes, and by al the sears, saying: *Turne fro your wyched wayes, and hepe my commaundementes and my statutes: accordyng to all flawe which I commaunded your fathers, and which I sente to you by my seruantes the prophetes. For withstandyng, they wolde not heare, & but rather hardened theyr neckes, lyke to the stubburnes of theyr fathers, that dyd not beleue in the Lord theyr God. For they refused his statutes and his appoyntment that he made with theyr fathers, and f wienelles (wherewith he wyttnesst vnto them) and they folowed vanitye, and became vayne, and went after f he then that were rounde about them: concernyng whome, the Lord had charged them, that they shoulde not do lyke them. But they left the commaundementes of the Lord theyr God, & made them ymages of metall, & even two calves, and made groves, and worshipped all the hoste of heauen: and serued Baal. And they sacrificed theyr sonnes and theyr daughters in fyre, & vied wythcheraste and enchauntmentes, & even sellynge them selues: to worke wychednesse in the syght of the Lord, and to angre hym.*

And the Lord was excedyng wroth wth Israel: & put them out of his syght, & that there was left but the trybe of Iuda only. Neuerthelesse, Iuda also kepte not the commaundementes of the Lord theyr God, but walked in ceremonies of Israel, which they made. And the Lord cast vp all the seed of Israel, and vexed the, and deliuered the into the handes of spoylers, vntyl he had cast the out of his syght. For Israel heuyed them selues from f house of Dauid, & made them a kyng, euen Ieroboam the sonne of Nebat. And Ieroboam & dyne Israel a waye (that they shoulde not folowe the Lord) and made the syn a great syn: for f chyldren of Israel walked in al the synnes of Ieroboam which he dyd, and departed not therefro, vntyl f Lord put Israel a way out of his syght, as he had sayde by all his seruantes the prophetes.

E And so was Israel caried a way out of theyr owne lande, to Assyria, euen vnto this daye.

And the kyng of Assyria brought men from Babylon, fro Cutha, fro Anna, from Manath, & from Sepharuaim, and put the in the cyties of Samaria in stede of the chyldren of Israel. And they possessed Samaria, & dwelt in the cyties therof. And it fortuned, yat f beginning of theyr dwelling there they feared not the Lord. And the Lord sent Lyons amonge the, whych slue the libertore, men sayde to the kyng of Assyria. The nations which: thou hast translated, & put in the cyties of Samaria, knowe not the lawe of f god of f land, therfore he hath sent Lyons vnto the, & behold, they slepe the, because they knowe not f maner of worshippynge of f god of f land.

Then the kyng of Assyria commaunded, saying: carpe theyrder one of the wayne of the prestes wher ye brought thence, and let them go & dwell there and teache them the falsshon, howe to serue the god of the countrey. And than one of the prestes which they had caried thence came & dwelt in Bethel, and taught them how they shoulde feare the Lord. Howbeit, every nacion made them goddes of theyr owne, and put them in the houses of the hylalters which the Samarias had made, every nacion in theyr cyties, wherin they dwelt. The men of Babylon made Beelshazzar: the men of Cuth made Beelgal: & the me of Hamath made Asima. The Iuites made Dibbaz, and Tharthak. And the Sapharaites burnt theyr chyldren in fyre for Tadmeclech, & Anamelech the Goddes of Sepharuaim. And so they feared the Lord, and made them prestes of the hylalters, whiche sacrificed for them in the houses of the hylalters. And so they feared the Lord, and serued theyr owne goddes after the maner of the people whom they caried thence.

And vnto this day they do after the olde maner: & neyther feare God, neyther do after theyr ordinaunces and customes, & after the lawe and commaundement which the Lord commaunded the chyldren of Jacob & whom he called Israel. And the Lord made an apoyntment with them, and charged the, saying: *feare none other goddes, nor bowe your selues to them, nor serue the, nor sacrifice to the: but feare f Lord which brought you out of the lande of Egypte with greate power, and a stretched out arme: hym feare, and to him bowe, and to him do sacrifice. The statutes ordynaunces, lawe, and commaundement whiche he wrote for you, se that ye be diligent to do for evermore: and feare not any other goddes. And the apoyntment that I haue made with you, se ye forget not, & feare none other goddes: but the Lord your God ye shall feare, & he shal deliuer you out of the handes of al your enemyes. Howbeit, they dyd not heare, but dyd after their old custome. And so these nations feared the Lord, and serued theyr ymages also: lyke as dyd theyr chyldren, and theyr chyldrens chyldren. Euen as dyd theyr fathers: so do they vnto this daye.*

The xliij. Chapter.

Ezekia kyng of Iuda purged before the heauen the temple, and destroyed the ydolles. He commaunded Iherem the prophet to the Assyrians. The blasphemy of Samaria, & Samaria.

In the thyrde yere of holca, sonne of Eia kyng of Israel, it came to passe, that hezekia the sonne of Abaz kyng of Iuda raygned. * Twenty and fyue yere olde was he when he began to raygne, and reyned. xxiij. yere in Ierusalem. hys mothers name also was Ibi the daughter of zacharia. & he dyd that whych is ryght in the syghte of the Lorde, accordyng to all as dyd Dauid hys father. * He put awaye the hyllalters, and bryke the ymagis, and cut downe the groves, and all to bryke the * byasen serpent that Moyses hadde made. For vnto those dayes the children of Israel did burne sacrifice to it, & he called it Nehustan. He trusted in the Lorde God of Israel: so that after hym was none lke hym amonge all the kynges of Iuda, neither wer there any lch before hym. For he claue to the Lorde and departed not from hym, but kepte hys commaundementes, whych the Lorde commaunded Moses. And the Lorde was wryth hym: so that he prospered in all thynges, whych he toke in hnde And he rebelled agaynst the kyng of Assyria, and serued hym not. He smote the Philistines euen vnto Aza, and the coastes therof, both castles where they kepte watches: & strong cyties.
* And in the fourth yere of kyng hezekia: (whych was the seventh yere of holca sonne of Eia kyng of Israel) it fortuneth, that Salmanazar kyng of Assyria, cam vp against Samaria, and belleged it. And after thre yeres, they toke it: euen in the xijth yere of hezekia:
that is to saye, the nyuth yere of holca kyng of Israel. And Samaria was wonne. And the kyng of Assyria dyd carpe awaye Israel vnto Assyria, and put them in halah and in haboz, by the ryuer of Gosan, and in the cyties of the Medes: because they wolde not herken vnto the voyce of the Lorde theyr God: but transgressed his appoyntment, and al that Moyses & seruant of the Lorde commaunded, and wolde neyther heare them nor do them.

* Therfore, in the xliij. yere of kyng hezekia dyd Sennacherib kyng of Assyria come vp agaynst all the strong cyties of Iuda, and toke them. And hezekia kyng of Iuda, sente to the kyng of Assyria to Lachis, sayenge: I haue offerred: departe from me and all that thou put-test on me, that wyl I beare. And the kyng of Assyria appoynted vnto hezekia kyng of Juda thre hundred talentes of syluer, and thyrty ta-lentes of golde. * And hezekia gaue him al the syluer that was founde in the house of the Lorde, and in the treasures of the kynges house. At the same season dyd hezekia rent of the dores of the temple of the Lorde, and the pylers (whych the sayd hezekia kyng of Iuda had couered ouer) and gaue them to the kyng of Assyria.

And the kyng of Assyria sent Tharthan & Rablaris, and Rabshake from Lachis to kyng hezekia wryth a great host, agaynst Ierusalem And they went vp, and cam to Ierusalem, and gat them vp, and stode by the conduyte of the upper poole, whych is in the waye of the fullers felde. And when they had called to the kyng, there came out to them, * Eliakim the sonne of Eikia whych was steward of household, and Sobna the scribe, and Ioab the son of Asaph the recorder. And Rabshake sayd vnto the: Tell ye hezekia I praye you: thus sayeth the grete kyng, euen the grete kyng of Assyria: What confydence is this that thou haste? Wouldest thou speake such a lyght word in dede? By counsell and power I wyl be ready to make warre. On whom then dost thou trust, that thou rebellest agaynst me? * dost thou trust to the staffe of this broken reede Egypte, on whych yf a man leane, it wyl goo into hys hande, and pearce it. Euen so is Pharao kyng of Egypt vnto al that trust on hym. * Yf ye saye vnto me: we truste in the Lorde our God: Is not that he whiche hyllalters and hys other alters, hezekia hath put downe, and hath sayd to Iuda and Ierusalem: ye shall worshyp before this altare here in Ierusalem?

Howe thefore, deliuer ye wardes to my lord the kyng of Assyria, that ye rebell not. & I wyl deliuer ye two thousande horses yf thou be able to set ryders vpon them: Althowgh thou scorne at the presence of one of the lest dukes of my maysters seruantes, and trauest to Egypt for charettes and horsemen? Hozeour, am I nowe come wrythout the bydding of the Lorde to this place, to destroye it: the Lorde sayde to me: go vp to this land, and destroye it. And he-liakim the sonne of helia and Sobna, and Joab sayd vnto Rabshake: speake (I praye the) to thy seruantes in the Assyrians language, for we vnderstande it: and talke not wryth vs in the Jewes tongue, in the eares of this people that are on the wal. And Rabshake said vnto them: hath my master sent me to thy master and to the, to speake these wordes? Hath he not sente me because of the men whiche spt on the wall, & they maye eatr theyr owne donge, and dyspnye theyr owne pylle wryth you?

And so Rabshake stode, & cryed wryth a loude voyce in the Jewes language, & spake, sayeng: heare the sayeng of the grete kyng of Assyria.
Thus sayeth the kyng: let not hezekia beggyle you, for he shall not be able to deliuer you oute of my hande: neyther let hezekia make you to trust in the Lorde, sayenge: the Lorde shall liue ye deliuer vs: this cite shal not be gryn ouer into the hnde of the kyng of Assyria: he shal not vnto hezekia, for thus sayth the kyng of Assyria.

Deale kynndly wryth me, and come out to me.
And the eate euery man of hys owne vyne, & of hys owne fygge tree, and dyspnye euery man of
the

thy nostrylles, & my bryt in thy lippes, and wyl byng f bakke agayne f same way thou camest

And thys shalbe a signe vnto the (O hezekia) ye shall eate thys peare of such thynges as growe of them selues: and the nexte peare, such as come vp of thost f dyd growe of they owne accoide. And the thysde peare sowe ye & reape: plant vnyerders, and eate the frutes therof.

And it that is escaped and leste of the daughter of Iuda, shall yet agayne take rooptyng downe warde, and beare frute vpywarde. For out of Jerusalem shal go a remnaunt: and a nombze that shall escape out of mount Syon: the zeile of the Lord of hostes shal byng thys thyng to passe

6 wherfoze, thus sayth the Lord concerning the kyng of Assiria: he shall not come to thys cytte, nor shote an arrow into it, nor come befoze it wyth shyldes, nor caste banke agaynst it: but shall go bakke agayne the way he came: & shal not come into thys cytte, sayeth the Lord: For I wylle defende thys cytte to saue it, for myne owne sake: and for Dauid my seruauntes sake.

And so it cam to passe, f the selfe same nyght the aungell of the Lord went out and smote in the host of the Assirians an hundred foure score and thye thousande. And when the remnaunte were vpy early in the moynynge: they sawe, they were all deade coozles. * And so Sennacherib kyng of Assiria auoyded and departed, & went agayne: and dwelte at Ninive. And it fortuneth that as he was in a temple wothpyppynge As-roch hys God, Adramelech and Sarezar hys owne sonnes smote hym wyth the sword. And they escaped into the lande of Armenia, and Sa-sarhadon hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The. xx. Chapter.

Ezekia is syche, and receyved the sygne of hys healtie. he receyved remembrance of Berochach, and is repynned of I say, because he shewed hym the treasure. he dyeth, and Manasse hys sonne raygneth in hys steade.

7 About that tyme * was hezekia sick vnto death. And the prophete I say f sonne of Amoz came to hym, & sayd vnto hym Thus sayeth the Lord: put thy household in an ordze, for thou shalt dye, and not lyeue. And hezekia tourned hys face to the walle, and prayed to the Lord, sayenge: I beseeche the now, O Lord, remember howe I haue walked befoze the in truth and wyth a perfyte herte, and haue done that which is good in thy syghte: and hezekia wepte soze.

8 And it fortuneth, that afore I say was gone out into the myddle of the court, f woide of the Lord came to hym, sayeng: turne agayne, and tell hezekia the captayne of my people: Thus sayeth the Lord God of Dauid thy father: I haue herde thy prayer, and sene thy teares. And beholde, I wylle heale the so that on the thysde daye, thou shalt go vpynto the house of f Lord And I wylle adde vnto thy dayes yet fyftene yeare, and wylle deliuer the and this cite out of the hande of the kyng of Assiria, and wylle bestee the thys cytte for myne owne sake, & for Da-uid my seruauntes sake. And I sayd: Take a lump of fygge. And they take it and layed it on the soze, and he recovered.

And hezekia sayd vnto I say: what shalbe the signe that the Lord wyl heale me, and that I shal go vpynto the house of the Lord f thys daye? I say answered: this sygne shalt thou haue of the Lord, that the Lord wyl do that he hath spoken. * Shall the shadowe goo forwarde ten degrees, or go bakke agayne ten degrees? hezekia answered: it is a light thyng for f shadow to go downe ten degrees. * (noted is that my desyre) but yf the shadowe go backward ten degrees, it is no lyght thyng. And I say the prophete called vnto the Lord, * and he broughte the shadowe ten degrees backward by wyth: he it had gone downe in the byall of Ahas.

* The same season Berochach Saladam the sonne of Saladam kyng of Babylon, sent letters and a present to hezekia, for he had hearde howe that hezekia was syche. And hezekia was glad of them, and shewed them al hys treasure house, spiner, golde, odours, precious ornement, all the house of hys armour, and al that was foude in hys treasures: there was nothing in hys house, and in al hys realme, that hezekia shewed them not.

And I say the prophete came vnto kyng hezekia, and sayd vnto hym: What sayd these me and from wher came they to the? And hezekia sayd: they be come from a farre countrey, ene from Babylon. And he sayd agayne: what haue they sene in thys house? hezekia answered, all the thynges that are in my house haue they sene there is nothyng among my treasures, that I haue not shewed them: And I sayd vnto hezekia: heare the woide of the Lord: Beholde, the dayes come, that al that is in thy house, and what soeuer thy fathers haue layed vp in store vnto thys daye, * shalbe carryed into Babylon, and nothyng shalbe left sayeth the Lord: And of thy sonnes: that shall procede out of the, and whych thou shalt beget: shall they take a wyfe, and they shal be chamberlaines in the palace of the kyng of Babylon. And hezekia sayd vnto I say, welcome be the woide of the Lord which thou hast spoken. And he sayd: shal there not be peace and truerth in my dayes?

The remnaunt of the woide that concerne hezekia, and all hys power, and howe he made a poole and a condyte, and broughte water into the cytte: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda: * And hezekia slept wyth his fathers: and Manasse hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The. xxi. Chapter.

Ezekia on an alle rebueth agayne the Thols, and after by cru, in whiche steade Simon hys sonne succeeded, whiche is syche of hys owne treasures. after hym raygneth I sayd full Julia, whome we see to cal Julia, or Juliane.

Manasse * was. xii. yere olde when he beganne to raygne, and raygned fyftye and fyue yeare in Ierusalem: hys

* he dyd cruell in the syght of f Lord even after the abhominacion of the deydyl whos the Lord cast out befoze f schyldene of Israel For he went and buyt the byplanters, * whych hezekia his father had destroyed. And he rered by altars for Baal, and made groves (as dyd Ahab kyng of Israel,) and worshipped al the doost of heauen and serued them. And he buylt altars in the house of the Lorde, of wyche the Lorde sayd: * In Jerusalem wyll I put my name. And he buylt altars for all the doost of heauen, euen in twoo courtes of the house of the Lorde. * And he offered hys sonnes in fyre, and gaue hede vnto wychecraft and sozterpe, and maintayned workes with spyrites and tellers of fortunes: and brought much wychednesse in the syght of the Lorde to angre hym.

E And he put an ymage of a groue (that he had made) euen in the temple, of wyche the Lorde had sayd to Dauid and to Salomon hys sonne, * in this house, and in Ierusalem: (wyche I haue chosen out of all trybes of Israel) wyll I put my name for euer. Kether wyll I make the fete of Israel more any more out of the lande, wyche I gaue theyr fathers: so that they wyll obserue and do all that I haue commaunded them: and accordynge to al the lawe that my seruaut Moyses commaunded them. But they hearkened not, and Manasse led them out of þ way, to do moze wychedly then dyd the hepyen people, to whome the Lorde destroyed befoze þ children of Israel.

E And the Lorde spake by hys seruantes the prophetes, sayenge: because Manasse kyng of Iuda hath done such abhominacions, and hath wrought moze wychedly then all that the Amorites (which were befoze him) dyd: * hath made Iuda synne also wyth hys Idolles. Therefore, thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel. * Behold I wyll bypunge suche euill vpon Ierusalem and Iuda, that whoso heareth of it, both hys eares shall tynge. And I wyll stretch ouer Ierusalem, the squeringe lyne of Samaria: and the plimmet of þ house of Ahab. And I wyll wype out Ierusalem, as a man wyppeth a byshe, & wht he hath wypped it, tounerth it vplide downe. And I will leaue the remnaunte of myne euerlastaunce, and deliuer them into the hande of theyr enemies, & theyr shalbe robbed and spoyled of all theyr aduerlaryes, euen because they haue done euill in my syghte, and haue angred me, syns the tyme theyr fathers came out of Egypt vntil this day.

D And Manasse shed innocent bloude exceeding much, tyll he repleynshed Ierusalem from corner to corner, helpe hys synne where wyth he made Iuda to synne, and to do euill in the syght of the Lorde.

The reste of the wordes that concerne Manasse, and all that he dyd, and hys synne that he synned: are they not wyrtten in the boke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And Manasse slepe with his fathers, and was buryed in hys owne house, euen in the garden of Asa: and Amon hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

E Amon was. xxi. yere olde, wht he began to raygne, and he raygned two yere in Ierusalem. hys mothers name also was Heselmeth the daughter of Harum of Iosbe. And he dyd euill in the syght of the Lorde (as hys father Manasse dyd) and walked in all the waye that hys father walked in: and serued the Idolles þ hys father serued, and worshipped them. And he for sake the Lorde god of hys fathers: and walked not in the waye of the Lorde.

E And the seruantes of Amon conspyred agaynst hym, & slue the kyng in his owne house. And the people of the lade slue al them that had conspyred agaynst kyng Amon, and the people made Jolia hys sonne kyng, in hys stede. The reste of the wordes that concerne Amon, what thynges he dyd: are they not wyrtten in þ booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Iuda? And they buryed hym in hys sepulchre, in þ gard of Asa: and Jolia his sonne raygned in hys stede.

The. xxii. Chapter.

After Jolia hearde of the boke of the lawe that was founde in the temple, he sendeth to Shaphan the scribe for counsell.

Jolia was. * xviij. yere olde when he began to raygne, and he raygned. xxi. yere in Ierusalem. hys mothers name also was Jedida þ daughter of Adaia of Bozath. he dyd that wyche is ryght in the syght of the Lorde, and walked in al the wayes of Dauid hys father: and bowed neyther to the ryght hande, oz to the left.

E And it came to passe, that in the. xviii. yere of the raygne of kyng Jolia, the kyng sent Shaphan the sonne of Azalia the sonne of Mesalam the scribe to the house of the Lorde, sayenge: * go vp to helkia the hye prest: that he may summe the silver wyche is brought into þ house of the Lorde, wyche the hepers of the porche haue gathered of the people, and let them deliuer it into the hande of them that do the worke, and that haue the ouer syghte of the house of the Lorde, and let them gyue it to them that woork in the house of the Lorde: (to repayre the decayed places of the temple) euen vnto carpenters and masons, and workes vpon the walles: and for to bye tymber, and fre stone to repayre the temple. howbeit, let no rechenynge be made wyth them of the money that is deliuered into theyr hande for theyr vse is to deale faithfully.

E And helkia the hye prest sayde vnto Shaphan the scribe: I haue founde the boke of the lawe of the house of the Lorde, and helkia gaue the boke to Shaphan, and he red in it. And Shaphan the scribe came to the kyng, and brought hym woide agayne, & sayd: the seruantes haue bestowed the money (that was founde in þ temple: ) and haue deliuered it vnto the that do the worke, and that haue þ ouer syghte of the house of the Lorde. And Shaphan þ scribe shewed the kyng, sayenge: helkia the prest hath deliuered me a boke. And Shaphan red in it befoze þ kyng.

E And it fortuneth, þ when the kyng had herd the wordes of the boke of the lawe, he rent hys clothes. And the kyng commaunded helkia the prest, and Abiam the sonne of Shaphan, & Ichobor the sonne of Michaia, and Shaphan þ scribe and Asabia a seruant of the kynges, sayenge: * go ye and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for the people, and for all Iuda, concernynge þ wordes of this boke that is founde. For grete is þ wrath of the Lorde that is kindled agaynst vs, because our fathers haue not hearkned vnto the word wordes of thys booke, to do archynges vnto all that whych is wyrtten therein for vs.

Do helkia the hye priest and Azabab, the hoi & Shaphan, and Ahabia went vnto Prophecie the wyfe of Sulman, the sonne of Thilna, the sonne of Harhan keeper of the rope: whych prophecie dwelt in Ierusalem in the house of the doctryne, and they communed wyth her. And she answered them: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: Tell the man I sente you to me, thus sayeth the Lorde: behold, I wyl brynge euil vpon thys place, and on the inhabiters thereof: (eue at the wordes of the booke whych the kyng of Iuda hath red) because they haue forsake me, & haue burnt incense vnto other god-des, to anger me wyth all the woorkes of theyr handes. My wrath also shalbe kindled against thys place, and shal not be quenched.

But to the kyng of Iuda (whych sent you to ask the counsell of the Lorde) so shall ye say: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel, as touchynge the wordes whych ye haue heard: Because thyn-berte did melt: & because thou hast humbled thy selfe before me the lord, wher thou herdest what I spake agaynst thys place, & agaynst the inha-biters of the same: howe theyr shuld be destroyed & accursed: and hast rent thy clothes, and wept before me: of that also haue I herd, sayeth the Lorde: Beholde, therefore I wyl receyue the vnto thy fathers, and I wyl be put into thy grave in peace, and thyn eyes shal not see all the euill, whych I wyl brynge vpon thys place. And they brought the kyng wordes agayne.

¶ The xxiii. Chapter.

¶ Jolia readech Deuteronomy before the people. He putted downe the booke, after he had hyld the people thereof. He depreth the tenet. He was hyld in magdo, and his sonne Jehozabaz raygned in thys reade. After he was taken, his sonne Jehozabab was made kyng.

Ad then the kyng sent, and there gathered vnto hym all the elders of Iuda & of Ierusalem. And the kyng went vp into the house of the Lorde, with all the men of Iuda and all the inhabitours of Ierusalem, with the prestes and prophetes, and all the people both smal & great.
And he red in the eares of them: all the wordes of the booke of the covenant: whych was found in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stoode by a pyller, & made a couenaunt before the Lorde, & theyr shuld walke after the Lorde, and kepe his commandmentes, his wytnesses, & his statutes, wyth all theyr herte, and all their soule, and make good the wordes of the sayd appoyntment: & were wyrtten in the forsayd booke. And all the people consented to the appoyntment.

5 And the kyng commaunded helkia the hye priest and the inferior hye prestes, and the keepers of the ornamente, to brynge out of the temple of the Lorde, all the vessels that were made for Baal, for the groues, and for all the hooste of heauen. And he burnt them withoute Ierusalem in the felde of Cedion, & carped the ashes of them into Bethel. And he put downe the ministers of Baal, whos the kynges of Iuda had forsed to burne incense in the hyllaulters & cyties of Iuda, that were rounde about Ierusalem: & also them that burnt incense vnto Baal, to stone the ymagines, to burne incense, & to all the hoost of heauen. And he brought out the groue frst the Lorde withoute Ierusalem vnto the hyll of Cedion, & burnt it there at the brooke Cedion, & stampit it to powder, and cast the dust thereof vpon the graues of the chylidren of the people. And he brake downe the crilles of the males slues that were by the house of the Lorde, where the women wone hangynge for the groue.

And he broughte all the prestes out of the cy-ties of Iuda, and despyed the hyllaulters where the prestes had burnt incense: euen from Geba to Beerseba: and destroyed the alters of the gates, that were in the enterynge in of the gate of Jolia the gouernoure of the cytie whych were (as a man goeth in) on the lefte hande of the gate of the cytie. Neuer thelesse the prestes of the dilaulters came not vp to the altar of the Lorde in Ierusalem, save only theyr dydeat of the swete bread amonge theyr brethren.

And he despyed the Tophet: whych is in the valley of the chylidren of hymn: because no man shuld offre his sonne or his doughter in fyre to Molech: he put downe the hoiles & the kinges of Iuda had gyuen to the sonne at the enterynge in of the house of the Lorde, by the chylidren of Ra-thamelech, the chambrelayne whych was culer of the suburbs, & burnt the charrettes of the sunne wyth fyre. And the alters that were on the toppes of the parloure of Abaz (whych the kynges of Iuda had made) and the alters whych Hanaie had made in the two courtes of the house of the Lorde did the kyng brake downe & ranne thence: & cast the dust of the in the brooke of Cedion.

And the hyllaulters that were before Ierusalem on the ryght hande of the mount Olmete, & whych Salomon the kyng of Israel hadde buiold for Ashtaroth the Idoll of the syons, and for Chamos the Idoll of the Moabites, & for Milcom the abhominable Idoll of the children of Ammon: those the kyng despyed: and brake the ymagines, and cut downe the groues & fylled theyr places wyth the bones of men.

Whereafter the altar that was at Bethel, the hyllaulter made by Jeroboam, son of Na-bat (whych made Israel synne) both the altar & also the hyll, he brake downe and burnt the hyllaulter and stampit it to powder, and burnt the groue. And as Jolia turned hym selfe, he spied the graues, that were in the mount, and sent & fet the bones out of the graues, and burnt them vpon the altar to polute it, accordynge to the woorde of the Lorde that the man of God proclaymed: whych tolde the same wordes.

Then he sayde what graue stone is ponder that I see: And the men of the cytie tolde hym, it is the sepulchre of the man of God, whych came from Iuda, and tolde the selfe same thynges that thou hast done to the altar of Bethel. And he sayd let hym be: se that no man moue his bones.
And so his bones were saued with the bones of a prophecie that came out of Samaria.

And all the houses of the hyllaulters in the cytie

cities of Samaria which schames of Israel had made to engre. (the Lorde) withhall: those Jolia put out of the way, & dyd to them accordyng to all the actes & he had done in Bethel. And he sacrificed all the ydell of the bylaunters & were there, ruin upon the altres, and burnt mens bones upon them, and returned to Jerusalem.

E And the kyng commanded all the people, saying: * kepe the feaste of passeouer unto the Lorde your God, as it is written in the booke of this covenante. * There was no passeouer holden lyke that from the dayes of the Judges that iudged Israel, and in all the dayes of the kynges of Israel, and of the kynges of Juda. In the xviii. yere of kyng Jolia was this passeouer holden to the Lorde in Jerusalem.

And ther to workers with spytted and loth-sapens, ymages, ydols, & all the abominacions that were espyed in the lande of Juda and Jerusalem, those dyd Jolia put out of the way, to perfourme the wordes of & lawe whiche were written in the booke & helkia the prest founde in the house of the Lorde: lyke unto hym was there no kyng before hym, that turned to the Lorde with all his hert, with a'l his soule, and al his might accordyng to all the lawe of Moyses, neyther after hym arose there any such as he.

Not withstanding, the Lorde toumed not fro & fearcenesse of his great wrath (wher with he was angry agaynst Juda) bycause of al the prouocations that Manasse had prouoked him withall. And the Lorde sayd: * I wyl put Juda also out of my syght, as I haue done a wyse Israel: and wylle caste of this cytie Jerusalem: whiche I haue chosen, and the house of which I sayd: my name shalbe there.

E The rest of the wordes that concerne Jolia, and all that he dyd: are they not wyrtten in the booke of the Chronicles of the kynges of Juda?

* In his dayes Pharaos Necho kyng of Egypt went vp agaynst the kyng of Assyria to the ryuer Euphrates. And king Jolia went agaynst hym, and was slayne of hym at Magiddo, wher he had sene him. And his seruantes caried him deed from Magiddo, and brought hym to Jerusalem, and buried hym in his owne sepulchre. And the people of the lande, toke Jehoahaz, the sonne of Jolia, and annointed hym, & made hym kyng in his fathers steede.

E Jehoahaz was. xxiij. yere olde wher he began to raygne, and raygned thre monethes in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Hamiel the daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he did euill in syght of the Lorde, accordyng to al thinges as his fathers had doone. And Pharaos Necho put hym in bondes at Ribla in the lande of Hamath, & he shoulde not raygne in Jerusalem, and put the land to a tribute of an hundred talents of syluer, and a talent of gold. And Pharaos Necho made Eliahim the sonne of Jolia kyng in & roume of Jolia his father: and turned his name to Jehoakim, and toke Jehoahaz away, which when he came to Egypt, dyd there.

And Jehoakim gaue the syluer and the gold to Pharaos, and tared the lande, to geue the money accordyng to the request of Pharaos requyryng of euery man (accordyng to theyr abilitie) syluer and golde: euen of the people of the lande to geue vnto Pharaos Necho. Jehoakim was xxiij. yere olde wher he began to raygne, & he raygned. xi. yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name also was Jebuda the daughter of Prechia of Rama. And he dyd that whiche was euill in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all thinges, as his fathers had done.

The xxiij. Chapter.

Jehoakim dyeth. Jerusalem is deliuered of the Chaldeans. Jehoakim pethers hym selfe to the kyng of Babylon. And in his coume came Shophan wher was called Jechiah.

E In his dayes came Nabuchodonosor, kyng of Babylon vp, and Jehoakim became his seruant the yere, and the turned, and rebelled agaynst him. And the Lorde sent vpon hym men of warre from amonge the Caldees from amonge the Assyrians out of the Moabites, and from the chyldren of Ammon, and sente them agaynst Juda, to destroye it, accordyng to the sayeng of the Lorde whiche he spake by his seruantes the prophetes. Onely at the byddynge of the Lorde happened it so to Juda, to put them out of his syght, for the synnes of Manasse, accordyng to all that he dyd, and for the innocent blood that he shed, and fylled Jerusalem with innocent blood: and the Lorde wolde not be reconcyled.

The rest of the wordes that concerne Jehoakim and all that he dyd, are they not wyrtten in the boke of Chronicles of the kynges of Juda? And so Jehoakim slepte with his fathers: and Jehoachin his sonne raygned in his steede. And the kyng of Egypt came nomore oute of his lande: for the kyng of Babylon had taken fro the ryuer of Egypt, vnto the ryuer Euphrates, all that pertayned to the kyng of Egypt. Jehoachin was eyghtene yere olde, and raygned in Jerusalem thre monethes. Hys mothers name also was Nechusta, the daughter of Elnathan of Jerusalem. And he did that which was euill in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to all as his father had done. * In & tyme came the seruantes of Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babylon vp agaynst Jerusalem, and the cite was besieged. And Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babilon came agaynst the cite, and his seruantes dyd besiege it. * And Jehoachin the kyng of Juda came out to the kyng of Babylon, he and his mother, his seruantes, his lordes, and his chambelaynes. And the kyng of Babylon toke hym in the xvj. yere of his raygne.

* And he caried out thence all the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kynges house: and brake all the vessels of golde whiche Salomon kyng of Israel had made in the temple of the Lorde, as the Lorde had sayd. And he caried away all Jerusalem, and al the lordes, and all the stronge men of warre, euen ten thousande into captiuitie: and all craftsmen and hepers, none remeyning save the poore common people of the lande.

* And he carped a waie Jehoaichim to Babylon, and the kynges mother, and the kynges wyues, hys chaberlaynes, and them that were myghtye in the lande: those carped he a waie in to captiuite from Ierusalem to Babylon. And all the actiue men of warre, euen. vii. thousand and craftes mē & porters a. All y were strong and apt for war, dyd y kyng of Babylon bringe to Babylon captiue. And the kyng of Babylon made Marthanias hys fathers brother, king in his steade: & chaunged his name to zedekia.

* zedekia was. xxi. yere olde when he began to rapgne, and he rapgned eleuen yere in Ierusalem. Hys mothers name also was hamitall the daughter of Jeremia of Libna. And he dyd euell in the syght of the Lorde, accordyng to al as Jehoachim had done. For y wrath of y Lorde was moued agaynst Ierusalem and Iuda vntill he cast them out of his syghte. And zedekia rebelled agaynst the kyng of Babylon.

The. xxv. Chapter.

Ierusalem is besieged of Nabuchodonosor, otherwyse called Nabuchadnezer, and it & the temple are both burnt. The sonnes of zedekia are slayne before hys eyes, and after are hys owne eyes put out. Iuda is brought to Babylon, & after is Jehoachim exalted.

Ad it fortuneth, * that in the nynthe yere of hys rapgne, the tenth daye of the tenth moneth: Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon came, he and all his hoste agaynst Ierusalem & pitched agayn it: and made engyns agaynst it on euery syde. And the ctyte was besieged vnto the eleuenth yere of kyng zedekia. And the nynthe daye of the moneth, there was so greute hunger in the ctyte: that there was no bread for the people of the lande.

And the ctyte was broken by: and all the men of armes fledde by nyght, by a waye thorow a gate, whiche is betwene two walles by the kynges gardeyne: the Chaldees spenge aboute the ctyte.

And the kyng wente the waie towarde the playne. And the souldyers of the Chaldees folowed after the kyng, and toke hym in the playne of Jericho, and all his armye were scatterd a waie from hym, & (and lette hym.) So they toke the kyng, and brought hym to Nabuchadnezer the kyng of Babylon to Babil, where they reasoned wth hym. And they slewe the sonnes of zedekia before hys eyes: and he put oute the eyes of zedekia, & fettered hym wth two chaynes and carped hym to Babylon.

And the. vii. daye of the. v. moneth whiche is the. xii. yere of kyng Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon, came Nabuzaradan a seruante of the kyng of Babylon, and chefe captayne of y men of warre, vnto Ierusalem: and burnte the house of the Lorde, and the kynges house and al the houses of Ierusalem, and all greute houses burnte wth fyre. And all the souldyers of the Chaldees that were wth the chefe captayne of the men of warre broke downe the walles of Ierusalem round about. But the rest of the people that were left in the cty, & them that were fled to the kyng of Babylon, & the remnant of the comon people, dyd Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne of the men of warre carpe a way: but the captayns of y souldyers left of the poore of the lande to dwelle the vyues, and to tyll the lande.

* And the pylers of brasle that were in the house of the Lorde, and the sockets, and the basen lauatorye y was in the house of the Lorde did the Chaldees breake, and caried all the brasle of them to Babylon. And the porters, howels, dyel syng hynes, spones, & al the vessels of y brasle that they mynstred in, toke they a waie. And y fyre pannes, & basens, & suche thynges as were of golde, and of syluer, them toke the chefe Captayne a waie: euen two pylers, one lauatorye, & the sockets whiche Salomon had made for the house of y Lorde. The brasle of all these vessels was without wayghte. The height of the one pyller was. xviij. cubytes, and the brasle thereon was brasle, and the cubytes by y vpon y head was there a wyrtel wyrtel and pomegranates rounde about all the brasle. And of the same las wyon was the second pyller, & a wyrtel wyrtel

And the chefe captayne of the men of warre, toke Sarais the chefe Dyctre, & zephonias the byest pycke saue one, and the thre keepers of the polt thynges. And out of the cite he toke a chaberlayne, that had the ouersyght of the men of warre, and. v. men of them that were cuer in the kynges presence, whiche were founde in y cite: and hym that was scrybe to the captayne of the host, whiche brought out the people of the land to warre, and the scole men of the people of the lande, that were founde in the cite. And Nabuzaradan the chefe captayne of the men of warre toke these, & brought them to the kyng of Babylon to Babil. And y kyng of Babylon smote them, & slue them at Babil in y hand of Banach. And so Iuda was caried away out of the lande.

Howbeit, there remayned people in y lande of Iuda, whome Nabuchadnezer kyng of Babylon left, and made Gedalia the sonne of Ahikam the son of Baphan ruler ouer them. And all the captayns of the souldyers and other men harde, that the kyng of Babylon had made Gedalia gouernour: & there cam to Gedalia at Mizpah: Ismael the sonne of Netanias, Johana the sonne of Kareah, Sarais the sonne of Chananieth the Netophathite, And Jazania the sonne of Maachati, and they men. And Gedalia swore to them, and to the men whome they had wth them, and sayde vnto them: feare not ye because ye are the seruauntes of the Chaldees, dwell in the lande, and serue the kyng of Babylon, and ye shall be well.

But it chaunced in the seventh moneth, that Ismael the sonne of Netanias the sonne of Eliama, of the kynges bloode, came, and ten men wth hym, and smote Gedalia, that he died: and so dyd he the Jewes, and y Chaldees that were wth hym at Mizpa.

And all the people both small and greute, & the captayns of warre arose, & came to Egypt for they were afrayde of y Chaldees. Notwith standyng yet in the leuen and thyrty yere after Jehoachim kyng of Iuda was caried away the

¶ The .v. Chapter

¶ The genealogie of Ruben and Gad, and of the halfe tribe of Manasse.

Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel: for as moche as he was the eldest, and had despised his fathers bed by his right was given vnto the sonnes of Joseph the sonne of Israel. Howbeit, the genealogie is not renewed after his byright. For Juda, he presapied aboue his brethren, and of this tribe came the chiefe, and the byright was given to Joseph. The sonnes of Ruben the eldest sonne of Israel were Henoeh Phalu, Herson and Charmi. The sonnes of Joel Samaiab his sonne, Sog his sonne, and Sembi his sonne, Micah his sonne, Reata his sonne, and Baai his sonne. Beera his son: whom Thiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria carped away: for he was a grate loyde amonge the Rubenites. And when his brethren in theyr kynredes, reckened the genealogie of theyr generacions: Jeiel and zachariab were the chiefe.

S And Baal the sonne of Azan, the son of Sem the sonne of Joel dwelle in Aroer: and so forth vnto Beba and Baalmeon. And eastwarde, he inhabited vnto fentrengie in of the wyldernes from the ryuer Euphrates, for they had moche cattell in the lande of Silead.

And in the dayes of Saul they warred with the Hagarites, whiche were overthrowen into theyr hande. And they dwell in theyr tentes thorowout all the east lande of Silgal.

And the chyldre of Gad dwelle ouer agaynst them in the lande of Basan: euen vnto Balcha. And in Basan Joel was the chiefe, and Sapham the nexte, then Janai and Saphat. And theyr brethren of the household of theyr fathers were Michael, Mesusa, Serba, Jojai, Jachasia, Eder, seuē. These are the chyldren of Abihail: the son of Huri, the sonne of Jeroab, the son of Silead, the sonne of Michael, the sonne of Jeisai, the sonne of Jabbu, the sonne of Wuz. Jsi (the sonne of Abihail) the sonne of Sumi, was a captayne of the household of theyr fathers. And they dwell in Silead in Basan, and in her townes, and in all the suburbs of Aaron, and in theyr borders.

All these were reckened by kynredes in the dayes of Jorham kynge of Juda, & in the dayes of Jeroboam kynge of Israel. The sonnes of Ruben and of Gad, & the halfe tribe of Manasse were fyghtynge men and able to beare shylde, & swerde, and to fote with bowe, excerples in warre, euen foure and fourtye thousande, seuē hundred and thye scoze, & went out to the warre. And they fought with the Hagarites, with Ietur, Rephis and Rodab. And they were helped of the Lozde agaynst them, and the Hagarites were deliuered into theyr hande, and so were all that were with them. For they cryed to God in the battaile, and he heard them, because they put theyr trust in hym.

And they took of theyr cattell, and of theyr camels fyfte thousand and two hundred, and fyfte thousand shepe, and two thousand asses, and of the soules of men an hundred thousande, and there fell many wounded, because swarre was of God. And they dwell in theyr stedys vntill the tyme that they were carped awaye.

And the chyldren of the halfe tribe of Manasse dwell in the lade from Basan vnto Bialhermon, and Semir, & vnto mounte Hermon: for they were growen to a great multitude. And these were the heedes of the householdes of theyr fathers: Ephraim and Jeli, Eliel and Jziel, Jeremia and Hobauia, and Jophiel, strong men and valeant famous men, and heedes of the householdes of theyr fathers.

And they transgressed agaynst the God of theyr fathers, and wente awoyng: after the goddes of the people of the lande, whome God destroyed before them: and God spured by the spyrte of Phul kynge of Assiria. And the spyrte of Thiglath Pilneser kynge of Assiria, and carped them awaye: euen the Rubenites, the Gadites, and the halfe tribe of Manasse, & brought them vnto halah haboz, Hara: and to the riuer Golan, vnto this daye.

And Serchia the sonne of Ala, the sonne of Elcana that dwelt in the byllages of the Arthopaites.

* The porters were Salu, Achub, Talmo, Abimon, and theyr brother, Salum was the chiefe. For they watched bythero, eue unto the hynges gate eastwarde, thowout the tentes of the child of Leui. And Salu the son of Corah the son of Abiasaph the sonne of Corah, and his brethren the Cozathites (of the house of their father) had theyr busynesse & office to kepe the portes of the tabernacle, and theyr fathers the host of the Lord, kept the enterpyng. And Pheneben the son of Eleazar was theyr foregyde, & the Lord was with him. And zacharia the sonne of Uelelema kept the watche before the doore of the tabernacle of wisnesse. All these were chosen men to kepe the threholdes, euen two hundred and twelue, and thowout al the genealogye were they nombred in theyr byllages. And them dyd David & Samuel the sear institute, because of theyr fidelite. So they & theyr children had the ouersyght of the gates of the house of the Loide, euen of the tabernacle to keper the.

* In foure quarters dyd they kepe the watche toward the east, west, north & south. And theyr brethren remayned in the country, and came after seven dayes from tyme to tyme with them. For the Leuites (which had the ouersyght of synnges and treasures of house of God) were vnder the custodie of foure notable porters, and they laye rounde aboute the house of God: because the keeping ther of pertayned to them, and they had the keyes to ope euery moynyng. And certayne of them had the rule of the mynistryng vessels, and brought them in and out by tale. Some of them were appoynted to ouerle synnges and al the ornamentes of the sanctuarie and of the house, wyne, oyle, skalesence, and sweete odours. And certayne of the sonnes of the priestes made oynmentes of sweete odours.

And Warthia one of the Leuites which was eldest son of Salum: the Cozathite, had the ouersyght of the synnges & were made in the syngyng. And other of theyr brethren the sonne of Cabah had the ouersyght of the wyrd which they prepared euery labboth. These are the synnges, euen ancient fathers of the Leuites, which dwelte in separate chambres, & were fre: for they had to do (in the tyle) both day and nyght. These were ancient fathers of the Leuites in theyr generacions: & dwelt at Jerusale.

And Gibeon dwelt at Abi Gibeon, and Jehiel

The .x. Chapter.

The battayle of Saul agaynst the philistines, in which he dyed and his sonnes also.

And the philistines fought agaynst Israel. * And the me of Israel fled before the philistines, and were ouertaken & wounded in mounte Gilboa. And the philistines folowed, and were scarce after Saul & his sonnes, and the philistines smote Jehonathan, & Abinadab, and Malchisua the sonnes of Saul: And the battayle was lost agaynst Saul, and the archers founde hym, and he was wounded of shoters. Then sayd Saul to his weaponbearer drawe thy swerde, and thrust me thorow therewith, that these vncircumcised come not and do me shame, but his weaponbearer wolde not, for he feared exceedingly. So Saul caught a swerd & fel vpon it. And when his harnessebearer sawe Saul was deed, he fell on a swerde also, & dyed.

And thus Saul and his thre sonnes, and all they of his house dyed together. And when all the men of Israel that were in the valley, sawe how they fled, & that Saul and his sonnes were deed, they forsoke theyr cyries, and ran awaye, and the philistines came, and dwelt in them.

* And it fortuned, that on the morowe when the philistines came (to strep the deed bodies) they founde Saul and his sonnes ouerthrowen in mounte Gilboa. And when they had strepte hym, they toke his heed and his harnesse, & sent them into the lande of the philistines round aboute to shewe them vnto theyr ydols, & to the people. And they put his harnesse in the house of their God, & set vp his heed in the temple of Dagō.

And when all they of Iabes in Gilead hearde all that the philistines had done to Saul, they arose (all the strongest of them) and set a waye for body of Saul, and the bodies of his sonnes, and broughte the to Iabes, and buried the bones of the vnder an oke in Iabes: & fasted seuen dayes.

So Dauid dyed for his trespass, that he trespass agaynst the Lorde, in that he kepte not the worde of the Lorde, and in that he soughte, and asked counsaile of a woman that wrought with a spyrite, and asked not of the Lorde. And therfore he lue hym, and turned the kyngdome vnto Dauid the sonne of Ilat.

The .xi. Chapter.

After the death of Saul is Dauid anointed in Hebron. The philistines rebel agaynst Dauid, from whiche he rescued the citie of Gyon. His men are nombred.

After all Israel gathered them selues to Dauid vnto Hebron, & saying: behold we be thy bones and thy fleshe. And moreover, in tyme past, euen when Saul was kyng I leddest Israel out & in: And thy Lorde thy God sayde vnto the: thou shalt rule my people Israel, and thou shalt be captayne ouer my people Israel. Therfore came all the elders of Israel to the kyng to Hebron, and Dauid made a couenaunt with them in Hebron before the Lorde. And they annointed Dauid kyng ouer Israel, & accordyng to the worde of Lorde by the hande of Samucl.

And Dauid and all Israel wente to Jerusalem, which is Jebus: where as were the Jebusites, the inhabitours of the lande. And the inhabitours of Jebus sayde to Dauid: thou comest not here. Answereth he, Dauid wanne the castell of Gyon, which is called the cytie of Dauid. And * Dauid sayde: whosoener smyteth the Jebusites fyre, shall be the principall captayne, and a lord. So Ioab the sonne of Zeruia went fyre vp, and was made chiefe captayne. And Dauid dwelte in the castell of Gyon, and therfore they called it the citie of Dauid. And he buyt the cytie on euery syde, euen from Willo round about. And Ioab repayred the rest of the cytie. And Dauid prospered, and waxed greate. And the Lorde of hostes was with hym.

* These are the principal men of power who Dauid had, and he claue to hym in his kyngdom with all Israel, to make hym kyng: accordyng to the worde of the Lorde vnto Israel. And this is the nombre of the myghty men whome Dauid had: Josobeam the sonne of Nachmoni, & chiefe amonge threty: he lyfte vp his speare agaynst the hundred, and wounded them at one tyme.

After him was Eleazar his vncles son an E-hothite, which was one of the myghtyest. He was w Dauid at Pasdamin, & there the philistines were gathered together to battayle. And there was there a parcel of ground full of barly, & people fled before the philistines. And they (as aforesayd) strept forth into the myddes of the felde, and saved it from burninge, and slue the philistines. And the Lord gave a great victorie.

And the thre of the threty chiefe captaynes went to a roche to Dauid, into the cane Abullā. And the hooste of the philistines abode in the valley of Rephaim. And when Dauid was in the holde, the philistines warthe was at Beth-lehem.

lehem the same tyme. And David longed and 14. Capde. * Ch. that one mighte gettome hurle of the water of the well that is at the gate of Beth lehem. And the thre brake thropes the doore of the Philistines, and bare water oute of the well that was by the gate of Bethlehem, and toke it and brought it to David. And he refused it, and wolde not drynke of it, but rather offered it to the Lord, and sayde: my God forbyd it me, that I shoulde do this thyng. Shall I drynke the blood of these men, that have put theyr lyues in jeopardy? (For wyth the jeopardy of theyr lyues they brought it.) Therfore he wolde not drynke it, and this dyd these thre myghtyest.

E And Abisai the brother of Joab, he also was captayne amonge thre: for he lyft up his speare agaynst iii. C. and wounded them, & had a name amonge thre. Pea, amonge thre he was moze ho nourable than two, for he was thre captayne.
 Howbeit he attayned not vnto the thre.

E Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada (the sonne of a very strong man) dyd greater actes then Cab ziel: for he slue two lyons of Moab, and wente downe, and slue a lyon in a ppe in tyme of snow.
 And he slue an Egyptian, whose stature was euen fyue cubytes longe, and in the Egyptians hande was a speare lyke a wevers beame. And the other went downe to hym with a waister, & plucked the speare out of the Egyptians hande, and slue hym with his owne speare. Such thin ges dyd Banaia the sonne of Jehoiada, and had the name amonge the thre myghtyest, and was honourable amonge thre, but attayned not vnto the fyfte thre. And David made hym of his counsaile.

E The other men of armes were these: Asahel the brother of Joab, Elhanan his uncles sonne of Bethlehem. Sammoth the Harodite: Belez of Elnaam, and Jithma a Moabite. Eliel and and Jethai a Githaite.

The xii. Chapter.

What they were that went with David when he fled from Saul.

E These are they that came to David to shilleg, whyle he yet kepte hym selfe close, because of Saul the son of Cis: and they were very stronge helpers in battayl: They were we poned wyth bowes, and coule hurle stones w the ryght hande and with the left: and shot a rowes out of a bowe, and were of Sauls bie thren, euen of Ben Jamin. The chiefe were A bieser and Joas the sonnes of Simaa a Gibe onite: and Jeziel and Belet the sonnes of Asa neth: Seracha and Jehu of Anathoth. And Si maa a Gibeonite a myghty man amonge thre tyte, and moze then the thre tyte. Jeremia, Je haziel, Johanan and Jolabad of Gedai, Eleu sai, Jerimoth, Scalia, Semaria, and Sepha tia the Haraphites, Elcana, Jesia, Azrael, Jo ezer, Jolebeam, Hahozim, Joela and Jabadiah, the sonnes of Jeroam of Gedai.

And of the Gadites there separated them sel ues, some vnto David into the holde of the wyl dernesse, men of myght, and men apt for warre and that coule handle wynde and speare, whose faces were lyke the faces of lyons, & they were as swyfte as the roes in the mountaynes: Ezer the fyrst, Obadia the second, and Eliah the thir d, Asmana the fourthe, Jeremia the fyfth, A thai the syxth, Eliel the seventh, Johanan the eyght, Elisabath the nynt, Jeremia the tenth, Wacheani the eleuent. These were the sonnes of Gad, & were captaynes ouer the men of war, the small pursued an hundred, and the greates a thousande. These are they that went ouer Jo dan in the first moneth when he had fylled ouer all his bankes. And they put to flyght all them of the valley, both towarde the east and weste.

And there came of the chyld of Ben Jamin, and Juda to the holde vnto David. And David went out to mete them, and answered and sayd vnto them: Wyse be come peaceably vnto me, to helpe me, myne heart shal be knyt vnto you. But and yf you come to betray me to myne aduersa ries (for there is no wickednesse in myne han des) the God of our fathers loke thereon, and re buke it. And the spyrite came vpon Amasai, whiche was the chiefe amonge thre, and he sayd: thyne are we David, and on thy syde thou sonne of Isai. * Peace, peace be vnto the, and peace be vnto thyne helpers, for thy God is thy helpe. Then David receyued them, and made them heedes of companies of the men of warre.

And there fell some of Manasse to David, when he came to the Philistines agaynst Saul to battayl, & but they helped them not. For the lordes of the Philistines toke aduersment, and sent hym a waie agayne, saying: he wyll fall to his master Saul to the jeopardy of our heedes.
 As he went to shilleg, there fell to hym of Ma nasse: Adna, Jolabad, Jediel, Michael, Jola bad, Elu and Jithai, heedes of the thousandes that

that were of Manasse. And they holpe David against the routs. For they were all myghty men of warre, and captaynes in the hoste. For at that tyme there came one or other to David day by day to helpe him: vntyl it was a great host, lyke the hoste of God.

And this is the numbze of the chiefe captaynes that were prepared to battayle, and came to David to Hebron to tourne the kingdome of Saul to hym, accordyng to the word of the Lorde.

The chyldren of Juda that bare shilde and speare were syxe thousande and eght hundred readye prepared to the warre. Of the chyldren of Simeon men of myght to warre, seuen thousande and one hundred. Of the chyldren of Leui foure thousande and syxe hundred. And Jehosada was the chefe of them of Aaron: and wryth hym thre thousande and seuen hundred. And Jakob a yonge man stronge and valpant, and of hys fathers housholde. xxi. capitaynes. And of the chyldren of Ben Jamin the brythre of Saul thre thousande. And a great parte of them (byd vnto that tyme) folowe the house of Saul.

And the chyldren of Ephraim: xx. thousande and eght hundred myghty men of warre, and famous men in the housholde of theyr fathers.

And of the halfe tribbe of Manasse. xviij. thousande, which were appoynted by name to come and make David kyng. And of the chyldren of Issachar whiche were men that had vnderstandyng in the ryght tyme, to knowe what Israel ought to do. The herdes of them were two hundred, and all theyr brythren were at theyr wyll. And of Zabulon that went out to battayle, and proceded forth to the war: wryth all maner instrumentes of warre, fyfthe thousande that were prepared to the war wryth out any doublenesse of herte. And of Reubeha a thousande captaynes, and wryth them wryth and speare. xxxvii. thousande. And of Dan prepared to battayle. xxviii. thousande and syxe hundred. And of Aser that went out to warre and kepte the fore fronte of the battayle, fourthe thousande. And of the other syde of Jordan of the Rubenytes and Gaddeytes, and of the halfe tribbe of Manasse wryth all maner of instrumentes of war, a hundred and twenty thousande.

All these were men of warre, heppuge the fore fronte of battayle wryth perfect herte, & came to Hebron to make David kyng ouer all Israel. And all y rest of Israel was of one accord, to make David kyng. And there they were w David. iij. dayes eating & drynkynge, for theyr brythre had prepared for the. Moreouer they were wryth the vntyl Isaac, Zabulon and Reubeha brought bread on asses, camels, mules, & oxen and meat, flour, fyngers, reysynges, wyne and oyle, ote & shepe abundantly. For ther was ioy in Israel.

¶ The. xliiij. Chapter.

The arche is brought agayne from Kirjath Jearim to Jerusalem. Uza (whiche was called Uza) dyed.

And David counsayled with the captaynes of thousandes and hundredes, and wryth all the lordes, and sayd vnto all the congregation of Israel: If it seme you good, and to be of f Lyke oure God we will take and sende vnto oure brythren, that are left in all the lande of Israel: and wryth them also, to the pperites and Leuytes whiche are in theyr cyties and suburbs, to gather them togyther vnto vs. And we will bypunge agayne the arche of the Lorde to vs, for we regarded it not in the dayes of Saul. And all the congregation was content that he shoulde do so, for the thing seemed good in the eyes of all the people.

So David gathered all Israel togyther fro Sidon in Egypt, vnto the entreyng of Hemath, to bypunge the arche of the Lorde from Kirjath Jearim. And David went by and all Israel to an hye place towardes Kirjath Jearim, that was in Juda, to set thence the arche of the Lorde God that dwelleth betwene the cherubes wher his name is called on. And they carped the arche of God in a newe carte out of the house of Abinadab. And Uza and his brother gubbed y cart. And David and all Israel played before y arche of God w all theyr myght, wryth synnyng and harpes, psalteryes, and tymbrels and trompettes. And when they came vnto the chesibynge floore of Chidon, Uza put forth his had to hold the arche, for the oxen (whiche were synnyng) stabled. And the Lorde was wryth wryth Uza, & smote hym, because he put his hande to the arche. And there he dyed before God. And David was out of quyet, because the Lorde had rent a rente in Uza, and he called the name of that place the chesynge of Uza vnto this daye. And David was afrayed of God that daye, sayng: howe shal I bypunge the arche of God home to me? And so David brought not the arche home to hym to the cytye of David: but carped it into the house of Obed Edom a Gethite. And the arche of God remained wryth Obed Edom, euen in hys house thre monethes. And the Lorde blessed the house of Obed Edom, and all that he had.

¶ The. xliiij. Chapter.

Uziam smote wood and workmen to David, whiche were the best vntaynes of the Philistines.

Uziam the kyng of Tyre sent messengers to David, and tymbze of Cedre reses, wryth masons and carpenters to buyde hym an house. And David perceyued that the Lorde had confirmed hym kyng vpon Israel, and that his kyngdom was lye vpon hye, because of his people Israel. And David toke yet mo wyues at Jerusalem, and begat mo sonnes and daughters. These are the names of his chyldren whiche were borne vnto him at Jerusalem: Samma, Sobab, Rath, and Salomon: Jibhar, Elisua & Eliphalet, Hoga, Repheg & Japhia, Elisama, Biliada, and Eliphalet. And when the Philistines heard that David was annoynted kyng vpon Israel: all the Philistines went vnto seeke David. And David herde of it, and went out agaynst them. And the Philistines came in, and prauced in vnto the vale of Rephaim. And David asked counsaile at God, sayng: Shall I go agaynst the Philistines, and wryth thou deliuer them in to myne hande? And the Lorde sayd vnto hym: I. y. go by go up, for I will deliver them into thine hand. And to they came up to Baal Perazim and David smote them there. And David sayde: God hath deuyded myne enemies with myne hand, as a man would deuyde water. And therefore they called the name of that place: Baal Perazim. And when they had left they goddes there David gaue a commaundement, and they were burned with fyre.

D And the Philistines came together agayne, & rushed into the valleye. And David alked agayne at God. And God sayd to hym: go not up after them, but turne away fro them, that thou mayest come vpon them ouer agaynst the pectrees. And when thou hearest a sounde, goe in the toppes of the pectrees, then go out to bat taye: for God is gone forth befoze the, to smite the host of the Philistines. David therefore dyd as God commaunded hym: and they smote the host of the Philistines from Gibeon to Gazer. And the fame of David went out into all landes and the Lozde made all nacions feare hym.

The .xv. Chapter.

The Levites bring the ark agayne. David buildeth the temple. He is despised of his wife Achisai.

A And David made him houses in the cite of David, & prepared a place for the arke of God, & pitched for it a tent. Then David sayd: the arke of god ought not to be caried, but of the Levites: for they hath the Lozde chosen, to beare the arke of the Lozde, and to minister vnto hym for euer. And David gathered all Israel together to Jerusalem to fetch the arke of the Lozde vnto his place whiche he had ordeyned for it.

And David brought together the chyldren of Aaron and the Levites. Of the sonnes of Caath was Uziel the chyefe, and of his brethren there were an hundred and twenty. Of the chyldren of Merari, Asai the chyefe, and of his brethren two hundred and twenty. Of the sonnes of Gerson, Joel the chyefe: and of his brethren an hundred and thyrty. Of the chyldren of Elisaphan, Semai the chyefe: and of his brethren two hundred. Of the sonnes of Hebion, Eliel the chyefe, and of his brethren lxxx. Of the sonnes of Uziel: Aminadab the chyefe: and of his brethren an hundred and twelue.

And David called Zadock and Abiathar the pyles and the Levites, Uziel, Asai, Joel, Semai, Eliel, and Aminadab: and sayde vnto they that are the principal fathers of the Levites: that ye be holie with youre brethren, that ye maye bring in the arke of the Lozde God of Israel, vnto the place that I have prepared for it. For because ye were not there at the first, the Lozde our God made a rent amonge vs, for that we sought hym not, as the fashion ought to be. So the pyles & the Levites sanctified them selves to set the arke of the Lozde God of Israel. And the chyldren of the Levites bare the arke of God vpon their shoulders wth staves theron, as Moses commaunded: accordyng to the worde of the Lozde.

Levites: that they shoulde appoynt certayne of they brethren to synge with instrumentes of musyke, psalteries, harpes and cymbales: that they myght make a sounde, and to synge on the lyth to pynesse: And the Levites appoynted heman the sonne of Joel: and (of his brethren) Asaph the sonne of Serachia: and of the sonnes of Merari and of they brethren: Erhan & sonne of Chusaiah. And with them they brethren of the seconde degree: zachariahu, Ben Jaaziel, Semiramoth, Jediel, Anni, Eliab, Benaiahu, Masias, Matthaihu, Eliphalehu, Wythiahu, Obed, Edom, and Isaiel porters. So heman Asaph and Erhan the lyngers made a sounde wth cymbales of brass: And zachariahu, Jediel, Semiramoth, Jediel, Anni, Eliab, Masias, & Benaiahu played with psalteries on an Alamoth. Matthaihu, Eliphalehu, Wythiahu, Obed Edom, Jediel and Isaiiah, played vpon harpes an eyght above with courage. And Chenaniahu the chefe of the Levites, was master of the song, for he taughte other to synge, because he was a man of vnderstandynge.

Berechia and Elhana kepte the doze of the arke. And Merarihu, Jehosaphat, Serachiel, Amasai, zachariahu, Benaiahu, and Elizer, the pyles dyd blowe with trompettes befoze the arke of God. And Obed Edom and Isai, were the keepers of the doze of the arke.

* And David and the elders of Israel and the capytaynes ouer thousandes, went to set the arke of the appoyntment of the Lozde out of the house of Obed Edom with gladnesse. And when god helped the Levites that bare the arke of the appoyntment of the Lozde, they offered seven oxen and seven ramminges. And David had on hym a linnen garment, lyke as had also all the Levites that bare the arke, and so had the syngers & Chenania the ruler of the song with the syngers. And David had vpon hym an Ephod of linnen. And all they of Israel brought the arke of the Lozdes couenant with shouting and blowing of the shawme and trompettes making a noyse with cymbales, psalteries and harpes.

And as the arke of the appoyntment of the Lozde came into the cite of David, Michol the daughter of Saul looke oute at a wyndowe sawe synge David dauncyng and playng, & she despyed hym in her herte.

The .xvi. Chapter.

David ordereth Asaph and his brethren to minister befoze the Lozde. He hym selfe playeth the lyth God of Israel.

S Other brought in the arke of God, & set it in the myddes of the tente, that David pitched for it, and they offered burnt sacrificies and peace offeringes befoze God. And when David hadde made an ende of offryng the burnt offrynges and peace-offrynges, he blessed the people in the name of the Lozde. And he deale to all Israel (both man and woman) a craknel of bread, & a good pyere of fleshe, and a flack of wyne.

And he appoynted certayn of the Levites to minister befoze the Lozde, and to repeate and to thanke and prayse the Lozde God of Israel.

And

And Asaph was the chefe, and nexte to hym Zacharia, Jehiel, Semiramoth, Jehiel, Matthan, Eliab, Benai, * Obed EDOM, and Jehiel to the psalteries and harpes. But Asaph made a sound with cymbales. Banaian and Jadaziel preestes, blew with trompettes continually before the arke of the couenaunt of God.

And that same tyme David byd appoynte the hym to thanke the Lord by Asaph and his brethren. * O gyue thanks vnto the Lord, call vnto his name, make his actes knowen among people. Synge vnto hym, and playe vnto hym: talke of all his wondrous dedes. Retopse in his holy name: let the hartes of them that seke the Lord be glad. Seke the Lord and his strength: seke his presence alwaye.

Remembre his maruayles whiche he byd, and his wonders, and the iudgements of his mouth. The seed of Israel are his seruantes the chyldren of Jacob are his chosen. He is the Lord our God, in all landes are his iudgements. Thynke on his appoyntment for euer: (and on the worde which he commaunded to a thousand generations) whiche he made with Abraham, and of his oyle to Isaac: which he set before Jacob for a decree, and to Israel for an euerlasting couenaunt, saying: to the wyl I gyue the lande of Chanaan, to be the porcion of your enheritaunce. When ye were fewe, and small in nomber, and sojourners therein. And they walked from nation to nation, and from one kyngdom to an other people. He suffered none to do them wronge: but rebuked euery kynge for theyr sake. Touch not myne annoynted, and do my prophets no harme.

* Synge vnto the Lord all the earth, and shewe from dape to dape his saluation.

Tell of his gloire amonge the hepten: his wondrous dedes amonge all nations.

For great is the Lord, and worthy to be praysted exceedingly, he is to be feared aboue all gods.

For all the goddes of the people are of no value. But the Lord made heauen.

Prayse and honour are in his presence, strength, and gladnesse are in his place.

Ascribe vnto the Lord ye hundreds of people: Ascribe to the Lord, gloire and dominion.

Ascribe vnto the Lord the gloire due vnto his name: by synge sacrifices and come before hym, and worshippe the Lord with holy honour.

Let all the earth feare hym, although the chaffe of the earth be stablished that it can not be moued: let the heauens reioyse, and lette the earth be glad, and let men tel amonge the nations, that the Lord is kyng.

Let the see reioyse, and the fulnesse thereof: let the feldest reioyse and all that is therein.

Then shall the trees of the wood reioyse at the presence of the Lord, because he cometh to iudge the earth: O gyue thanks vnto the Lord for he is good, for his mercy endureth for euer: and save ye: save vs (O God) of our saluation, gather vs togyther, & deliuer vs from amonge the hepten, & we may giue thanks to thy holy name, & triumph in the prayse of the. Blessed be the Lord God of Israel for euer and euer: and let all people saye: Amen: and prayse the Lord.

And so he sette there before the arke of the Lordes couenaunt Asaph & his brethren, to minister before the arke continually, in suche thynges as were to be done dape by dape: (and that) by theyr courses. And Obed EDOM & his brethren thre score and eght: and Obed EDOM the sonne of Jeduthun, and hola, were appoynted to be porters. And Zadok the preest and his brethren the preestes, were before the Tabernacle of the Lord, in the hye place that was at Gibeon, to offer burnt offrynges vnto the Lord, vpon the burnt offryng alter perpetually, in the mornynge and euenynge: accordyng vnto all that which is wyrtten in the lawe of the Lord, which he commaunded Israel. And with them were heman, and Jeduthun, & other that were chosen (whose names were exprest) to gyue thanks to the Lord, that his mercy laste for euer. And with them byd heman and Jeduthun synge with the trompettes and cymbales, making a swete melody with instrumentes of musike and goodlye songes. And the sonnes of Jeduthun were porters. And all the people departed, euery man to his house: & David returned to blesse his house.

The. xvi. Chapter.

David is forbidden to buye an house vnto the Lord. Chute is promysed vnder the tygure of Salomon.

As it fortuneth, that when David dwelt in his house, he sayd to Nathan the prophete: lo, I dwell in an house of Cedar tre, but the arke of the Lordes couenaunt remaineth vnder curtaynes: And Nathan sayde to David: do all that is in thyne hert for God is with the.

And the same tyme it fortuneth, that the word of God came to Nathan, saying: So, and tell David my seruant, thus sayth the Lord: thou shalt not buyde me an house to dwell in. For I haue dwelt in no house, syns I daye I brought oute the chyldren of Israel vnto this dape: but haue gone from tent to tent, and from one habitation to an other. And wher soeuer I haue walked with all Israel, spake I mer one worde to any of the iudges of Israel (whom I commaunded to be my people) saying: why haue ye not buyt me an house of Cedar tre? Now therefore thus shalt thou saye vnto my seruant David: thus sayth the Lord of hostes: I take the oute of the pastures when thou wentest after shepe, that thou that thou shouldest be capitaine ouer my people Israel. And I haue bene wyth the wyth the loeuer thou hast walked, and haue weeded out all thyne enemyes out of thy spede, and haue made the a name, lyke the name <sup>(of me)</sup> of the greatest men that are in the earth. And I haue ordeyned a place for my people Israel, & made it fast, so that now they maye dwel in theyr place, and moue nomore: Kether that the chyldren of wickednesse were them any more, as at the begynnynges. And thus the tyme that I commaunded iudges to be ouer my people Israel: I haue subdued all thyne enemyes, and I told the, that the Lorde woulde buyde the an house.

C This also shal come to passe: when thy dayes be crypted, that thou must go vnto thy fathers. I wyl raise vp thy seed after the, wyth whalbe of thy sonnes, and wyl prepare for hym the kynngdome: he shal buyde me an house, and I wyl stablish his seate for euer: I wyl be his father and he shalbe my sonne: and I wyl not take my mercy awaye from hym, as I toke it from him that was before the. But I will let him in mine house, and in my kynngdome for euer, and his seate shalbe sure for euermore.

Accoording to all these wordes, & accoording to all this visid, did Batha tel king David. And David the kynge came and sat before the Lorde and sayd: what am I (O Lorde God) and what is myne household, that thou hast promysed me thus farre? And yet this seemed lyke in thine eyes, O God, But thou hast also spoken of thy seruantes house, for a great while to come: and hast looked vpon me as vpon a man of hye degre. (O Lorde God.) What shall David desyre more of the for the honoure of thy seruant? O Lorde for thy seruantes sake, I ent accoording to thyne owne verte, hast thou done all this magnificence to thewe all great thinges, Lorde, there is none lyke the: neyther is there any god save thou: accoording to all that we haue herde with oure eares. Woouer, what nation on the earth is lyke thy people Israel, to whom God hath vouchsafed to come and redeme the to be his owne people, and to make thy name of an excellencie and terribleness, with castyng out nations from before thy people, to whom thou hast deliuered out of Egypt.

D Thy people Israel dyddest thou make thyne owne people for euer, and thou becomest theyr God. Therefore now Lorde, let the thyng that thou hast spoken concernyng thy seruant and his house, be true for euer, that thou do as thou hast sayd: let it come to passe, that thy name maye be magnified for euer, that it maye be said the Lorde of hostes is God of Israel: euen the God of Israel: and the house of David thy seruant endureth stable before the. For thou (O my God) hast told thy seruant, that thou wilt buyde hym an house. And therefore thy seruant hath founde in his heart to pray before the. And now Lorde thou art God, and hast promysed this goodnesse vnto thy seruant. Nowe therefore, let it be thy pleasure, to blesse the house of thy seruante, that it maye continue before the for euer. For whom thou blessest (O Lorde) the same is blessed for euer.

C. The. xviii. Chapter.

The battayle of David agayn the philistynes.

After this it fortuneth, that David smote the philistynes, and subdued them, and toke Geth, and the towncs that longed thereto, oute of the hand of the philistynes. And he smote Moab, and the Moabites became Davids seruantes, and payed hym trespoute. And David smote Hadarezer kyng of zoba vnto hanath, as he went to stablish his dominion by the ryuer Euphrates. And David toke from hym a thousand charettes, and seuen thousand horsemen, and twenty thousand foemen: and lamed all the charet horses, and reserued of them and hundred charettes. And when the Syrians of Damasco came to helpe Hadarezer kyng of zoba: David slue of the Syrians. xxi. thousand and David subdued Siria Damasco. And the Syrians became Davids seruantes: & brought hym trespoute. And the Lorde preferred David in all that he went to:

And David toke the chyldes of golde that were on the seruantes of Hadarezer, & brought them to Ierusalem. And from Gebath, and from Chun (cities of Hadarezer) brought David exceedinge moche byasse. Wherewith Salomon made the brasen lauatozie: the pylers and the vessels of byasse.

And when Thou kynge of hemath herd how David had beaten all the strength of Hadarezer kyng of zoba, he sente Haduran his sonne to kynge David, to make peace wyth hym, and to blesse hym, because he had fought agaynst Hadarezer, and beaten hym (for Thou had warre with Hadarezer) and David brought al maner iewels of golde, spiner and byasse wyth hym. And kynge David dedicated them vnto the Lorde, with the spiner and golde that he brought from all nations: from Edom, from Moab, from the chyldren of Ammon, from the philistynes, and from Amaleche. And Abisai the sone of Neria slue of the Edomytes in the salte valleie. xvi. thousande, and put souldyers in Edom, and all the Edomytes became Davids seruantes. Thus the Lorde kept David in all that he toke in hande.

And David ragyned ouer Israel, and executed iudgements and coryptuousnesse amonge all his people. And Joab the sonne of Neriah was ouer the host. And Jedosaphat the sonne of Achub recorder: and Zadoch the sonne of Abitob, and Abimelech the sonne of Abiathar were the pierces, and Bauesla was scribe; and Banai the sonne of Jedosada was ouer the Cherubites and Shelethites, and the eldest sones of David were next vnto the kynge.

C. The. xix. Chapter.

Howe kynge of the sonnes of Ammon both gnat marries to the seruantes of David.

After this it chaunced, that a Rader the kynge of the chyldren of Ammon dyed, & his sonne ragyned in his orde. And David sayd and sayde: I will thewe kyndnesse unto Hanon the son of Nabal: because his father hath bene wylde wylde. And David sente messen-geers to comforte hym over the death of his father.

And the seruantes of David came into the lande of the chyldren of Ammon to Hanon, to comforte hym. But the lordes of the chyldren of Ammon sayde to Hanon: thyneest thou that David doth honour thy father in thy sight, that he hath sente comforters vnto the? Are not his seruantes come to search, to loke & spy out the land?

Wherefore Hanon toke Davids seruantes (and yelde them) and shamed them, & cut of theyr clothes harde by theyr buttockes, and sent them away. And there wente certayne and tolde David: howe the men were serued. And the kynge sent to mete them (for the men were exceedingly ashamed) and the kynge sayd: tary at Jericho vntill your beards be growen: & then returne.

And when the chyldren of Ammon sawe that they stank in the synne of David, Hanon and the chyldren of Ammon sent a thousande talentes of siluer, to buye them charettes and horsme out of Mesopotamia and out of Siria, Maacha, and out of Zoba. And they buyed xxiiij. thousande charettes, and the kynge of Maacha and his people, which came and pitched before Zoba. And the chyldren of Ammon gathered the selues together fro the cyties, and came to batayle. And when David herde of it, he sent Joab and all the host of stronge men. And the chyldren of Ammon came out, and put them selues in a rase to battayle before the gate of the cite. And the kynge that were com, kept them by them selues backe in the felde.

When Joab also sawe that the fronte of the battayle was agaynst him before and behynde he chole out all the chosen men of Israel, and put them in a rase agaynst the Sirians. And first of the people he deliuered vnto the hand of Abisai his brother, & they put them selues in a rase agaynst the chyldren of Ammon. And he sayde: If the Sirians be to stronge for me, thou shalt succour me: and if the chyldren of Ammon preuaile agaynst the, I will helpe the: blunche vp thine hert, and let vs play the men: for our peoples sake and for the cyties of our God, and the Lorde shall do that which is good in his owne sight. So Joab and the people that were with hym: due nye before the Sirians vnto the battayle, and they fledde before hym. And whil the chyldren of Ammon sawe that the Sirians were fled, they ranne awaye lyke wynde before Abisai his brother, and gate them into the cite. And Joab came to Jerusalem.

And when the Sirians sawe that they were put to the worse before Israel, they sent messen-geers and set out the Sirians that were beyond the ryuer, and Soppach the captaigne of the hoste of Hadarezer wente before them. And it was tolde David: and he gathered all Israel, & went together ouer Jordan, and came & set vpon them. And when David had put hym selfe in a rase agaynst the Sirians, they foughte with hym.

But the Sirians fled before Israel. And Da-uid destroyed of the Sirians sent thousand charettes, and xl. thousande footemen, & kylled Soppach the captaigne of the hoste. And when the seruantes of Hadarezer, sawe that they were put to the worse before them of Israel: they made peace with David, and became his seruantes. Neither wolde the Sirians helpe the chyldren of Ammon any moze.

The xx. Chapter.

The thir most vntowynous battayles of David.

And it came to passe after the yere was expired (* about the yere that the kynge go out a warre:) Joab caried out the army of the host, & destroyed the countrie of the chyldren of Ammon, and came and besieged Rabba and destroyed it. But David tarped at Jerusalem whyle Joab smote Rabba and destroyed it. * And David toke the crowne of theyr kynge, from of his heed, & founde that it had the wryght of a talent of golde, and there were precious stones in it: and it was ordeyned for Davids head.

And he broughte also exceedingly moche spolie out of the cytie. And he broughte out the people that were in it: & toymented them with sawes, and harowes of yron, and with other sharpe instruments, and so dealt David with all the cyties of the chyldren of Ammon. And David and all the people came agayne to Jerusalem. * After this it fortuned, that there arose warre at Gazer with the Philistines. It whyle the yere Sookai the husathite slue Shippai, that was of the chyldren of the Rephaim: they were subdued.

And there was battayle agayne with the Philistines: and Elhanan the sonne of Jaie slue Labemi, the brother of Goliath the Gethyite, whose speare was lyke a weavers beame. And there chaunced yet agayne warre at Geth, where as was a man of a great stature, with xxiiij. fingers and toes. vi. on every hand and vi. on every foote: and was the sonne of Raphah. But when he defyed Israel, Jehonathan the sonne of Dauid his brother slue hym. These were bozne vnto Raphah at Geth, & were overthowen in the hande of David: and in the hande of his seruantes.

The xxi. Chapter.

David caused the people to be nombred, and there were lxx. thousande men of the peblisme.

And Nathan rode vp agaynst Israel & prouoked David to nombze Israel. And David said to Joab: & to the rulers of the people: go ye and nombze Israel fro Beerseba to Dan, and bring it to me: I may know the nombze of them. And Joab answered: the Lorde make his people an hundred tymes so many as they be. But my lord, what thing are they not all my lordes seruantes? why shal doth my lord requyre this thynge? why wylle my lord be a cause of trespass to Israel.

Reuerse the kynge wolde preuaile agaynst Joab. And Joab departed and toaketh thowse out all them of Israel, and came to Jerusalem agayne, & gaue the nombze of the count of the people vnto David. And all they of Israel were

were a thousande, and an hundred thousande men that dyewe swordes: and I haue sent xxx thousande men that dyewe swordes. Was the Leuites and Ben Jamin counted he not among them. For the kynges wyorde was abominable to Joab. And the Lord was displeased with this thyng: and smote Israel. And Dauid sayd vnto God: I haue sinned exceedinglye in do yng this thyng. And nowe (I beseeche the) do a waye the wickednesse of thy seruaunte, for I haue done very foolyshly.

25 And the Lorde spake vnto Gad Dauides seer, sayenge: go and tell Dauid, sayenge: Thus sayeth the Lorde: I gyue the, the choyle of the thynges: chose the one of them, that I maye do vnto the. And Gad came to Dauid, and said vn to him. Thus sayth the Lorde: Chose the eyther the yrates sampliment, or the monethes to be destroyed before thyne aduersaries, and the swardes of thyne enemyes maye ouertake the or els the swardes of the Lorde and pestilence in the lande thar dayes: and the aungel of the Lord destroying thowownt all the coostes of Israel And now aduise thy selfe, what wooyde I shal brynge agayne to hym that sente me. And Da-uid sayd vnto Gad: I am in an exceeding strait.
Let me nowe falle into the hande of the Lorde, for passyngre great are hys mercies, but let me not fall into the hande of men.

So the Lord sent pestilence vpon Israel and there were ouerthrowe of Israel. lxx. thousand men. And God sent the aungell into Ierusalem to destroy in it. And as he was about to destroy the Lord behelde, and had compassion on Ierusalem and sayd to the aungell I destroyed: it is ynough let now thy hande ceasse. And the aungell of the Lord stode by the thierthynge floore of Dymen the Ierulsite. And Dauid lyft vp his eyes, and sawe the angell of the Lord stand betwene the earth and heauen, haupnge a bryden swerde in hys hande, stretched out towards Ierusalem. Then Dauid and the elders of Israel, whiche were clothed in sacke, fel vpon theyr faces. And Dauid sayd vnto God: Is it not I that commaunded the people to be nombred? If I if that haue synned and done euyl in bede, what haue these shepe done? Let thynge hande (O my God) be on me and my fathers house, but not on thy people that they shoulde be punysed.

And the angrill of the Lord remained Gad to saye to Dauid, that Dauid shulde go vp, and set vp an alter vnto the Lord in the threshingynge flooze of Oyan the Jebusite. And Dauid went vp accordynge to the saying of Gad, whiche he spake in the name of the Lord. And Oyan turned about, and sawe the angrill, & his fourte sonnes were with hym, and byd them selues: But Oyan was threshing wheat. And as Dauid came to Oyan, Oyan looked and sawe Dauid and went out of the threshing flooze, & bowed hym selfe to Dauid with his face to the ground.

D of the thershyngs tooke, that I maye buyde an altar therin unto the Lorde. Thou shalt gyue it me for as moche monney as it is woorth.

And so Dauid gaue to Dymon for that place sicles of golde. vi. hundred by wayght. And Da uid buyle there an altare vnto the Lozde, and offred burntoffrynges and peacoffrynges, and called vpon the Lozde, and he herde him fro hea uen in tyme vpon the altare of burntoffryng.
And when the Lozde had spoken to the angel, he put vp his swerde agayne into the shethe of it. At that tyme when Dauid sawe that y Lozde had hearde hym in the thershyng floure of O nan the Jebusite, he used to offre there: For the Tabernacle of the Lozde wyche Moyses made in the wyldernes, and the altare of burntoffe ryng were at that season in the hill at Gibeon And Dauid coude not go befoze it to aske coun saile at God, for he was afrayed of the swerd of the Iungell of the Lozde.

© The. III. Chapter.

Crane wyllith bys lanne Salomon to buythe the temple of the Lorde, whiche thyng he byn selfe was fastyden to do.

And Dauid sayde: this is the house of the Lorde god, and this is the altar for the burntofferinge of Israel: And Dauid commanded to gather together the strangers that were in the land of Israel, and he set masons to hew free stone for the building of the house of God. And Dauid prepared plenty of yron for nagles, and doores of the gates, & to layne with al and aboundance of brasse without wayght and cedre trees without nombre. For the zidon and they of Tyre broughte moche Cedar wood to Dauid. And Dauid sayde: Salomons my sonne is younge and tender, and the house that is to be built for the Lord, must excede in greatnesse that it maye be spoken of, & prayed in all lades, I will therefore make ordinance for it. And so Dauid prepared many thinges before his deeth.

And he called Salomon his sonne, and charged hym to buyde an house for the Lorde God of Israel. And David sayde to Salomon: my sonne, I thoughte (as it was in myne herte) to buyde an house vnto the name of the Lord my God. But I wolde of the Lorde came to me saying: thou hast shed much blood, and hast made great battayles: thou shalt therfore not buyde an house vnto my name: for I haue shed moche blood vpon the earth in my lyght. Beholde, a sonne is bozne to the, and he shall be a ma of rest, for I will geue hym rest from all hye enemyes rounde about. For his name is Salomon: and I will send rest & peace vpo Israel in hye dayes. He shall buyde an house for my name, and he shall be my sonne, and I wyll be his father, and will prepare the frate of his hyngdome vpon Israel for euer. Nowe therfore my sonne, the Loide be with the, and prosper the, and I shall build the house to the name of the Lord, thy God: as he hath said of the. And the Lord shall give the wisdom and understanding, and shall give the commandments for Israel, that he may keep the law of the Lord thy God. For then thou shalt prosper: even when thou takest heed, and fulfillst the statutes and laws which the Lord charged Moses with for Israel. Blush up thine heart therefore, and be strong, beade not, nor be discouraged. Beholde, in myne advertisement I also prepared for the house of the Lord, an hundred thousand talents of golde, and a thousand thousand talents of silver, and as for brass and iron it can not be numbred, for it is verie moche. And I have prepared tymber and stone, and thou mayst proude more therto. Moreouer, thou hast workmen with the ynough, and masons, and carpenters to worke in stone and tymber, and many men that be active for every worke. And of golde, silver, brass, and iron, there is no numbre. Up therefore, and be doinge, and the Lord shall be with the.

And David commanded all the lordes of Israel to helpe Salomon his sone sapenge: Is not the Lord your God with you? hath he not given you rest on every side: for he hath given the inhabitours of the land into my hand, and the land is subdued before the Lord and before his people. Nowe therefore let your hartes and soules to like the Lord your God. Up, and build ye the temple of the Lord God to bring the arke of the covenant of the Lord and the holy vessels of God into the house so built for the name of the Lord.

The xxiii. Chapter.

David beinge olde, ordeyned Salomon kynge. He caused the Levites to be numbred, and assigned them to their offices.

When David was olde and fulle of dayes, he made Salomon his sonne kynge over Israel. And then he gathered together all the lordes of Israel with the prestes and Levites. And the Levites were numbred from the age of xxx. yere and above, and the nombre and summe of them was xxx. and viii thousand and xl. Of which xxiii thousand were set to further the worke of the house of the Lord. And xii thousand were officers and iudges. Four thousand were porters, and four thousand praysed the Lord with such instrumentes as was made to prayse withall.

And so David put an ordre amonge them deuyng them in partes. Of the chyldren of Levi, Serion, Cabath, and Merari: Of the Serionites was Laada and Semei. The sonnes of Laada the chiefe was Jehiel, yethan and Joel thre. The sonnes of Semei: Selomith, Haziel and Harai thre. These were the auncient fathers of Laada. And the sonnes of Semei were Japhath, Zina, Jeus, and Beria: these four were the sonnes of Semei. And Japhath was the chiefe, Zina the seconde. But Jeus and Beria had not many sonnes, therefore they were in one rekenyng accordyng to their fathers householde, reckned for one auncient household. The sonnes of Cabath, Amas, Japhar, Hebron and Uzziel four. The sonnes of Merari: Aron and Moses. And Iach was separated to haue the rule of the holy thynges in the place moost holy he and his sonnes for ever, and to burne incense before the Lord, and to minister vnto hym, and to blesse in his name for ever. Moses also the man of God, and his chyldren, were named with the tribe of Levi. The sonnes of Moses, Serion, and Eliezer. Of the sonnes of Serion: Schuel was the chiefe. The sonnes of Eliezer Rehabia the chiefe. And Eliezer had none other sonnes: But the sonnes of Rehabia were very many. The sonnes of Japhar, Salomith the chiefe: The sonnes of Hebron: Jeriah the first, Amaria the seconde, Jachziel the thirde, and Jecaniam the fourth.

The sonnes of Uzziel: Michai the first, and Issa the seconde. The sonnes of Merari: Mahli and Gusi. The sonnes of Mahli, Eleazar and Cis. And Eleazar dyed, and had no sonnes, but doughters, and they brethren the sonnes of Cis toke the. The sonnes of Gusi: Mahli, Eder and Jerinorh, thre. These are the chyldren of Levi after the householde of their fathers, and the auncient of the fathers accordyng to their offices, and after the nombre and summe of the names of them that dyd the worke in the seruyce of the house of the Lord from the age of twentye yeres and above. And David said: the Lord God of Israel hath given rest vnto his people, that they may dwell in Ierusalem for ever. That the Levites also shoulde now nomore beare the tabernacle, and all the vessels for the seruyce thereof: for accordyng to the last wordes of David: the Levites were numbred from twentye yere, and above, and their office was vnder the handes of the sonnes of Iach, for the seruyce of the house of the Lord, in the courtes and celles, and in purifying of all holy thynges, and in the worke of the seruyce of the house of God. In the wewe bread, in the fyne flour, in the meat offeringe, in the wafers of swete bread, in the syping panne, in the gredyon, and in all maner of measures and cyle, and to stande euery daye in the morninge, to thanke and prayse the Lord, and so to the wyle at euen. And to offre al burnt sacrifices vnto the Lord, in the Sabbothes, in the newe moones, and on the feast full dayes by nombre and custome continually: as they were commanded before the Lord. And that they shoulde waite on the tabernacle of wytnesse, and on the holpe place, and on the sonnes of Aaron their brethren in the seruyce of the house of the Lord.

The xxiii. Chapter.

David assigned officers vnto the sonnes of Aaron.

These are the deuisions of the sonnes of Aaron. The sonnes of Aaron: Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. Nadab also and Abihu, dyed before their father, and had no chyldren: But Eleazar and Ithamar executed the prestes office. And David ordeined them on this maner: Zadock of the sonnes of Eleazar, and Abimelech of the sonnes of Ithamar were accordyng to their offices in their ministracion. And there were no auncient men folde amonge the sonnes of Eleazar, then the sonnes of Ithamar. And thus were they ordeined together.

Rem. xlii. a.

there: Amonge the sonnes of Eleazar there were thre: Amos, the sonne of Eleazar, and the sonne of Amos, and the sonne of Amos. And thus were they put in order by lot the one sorte from the other, and so were there rulers in the Sanctuary and lodges before God as wel of the sonnes of Eleazar as of the sonnes of Eleazar. And Semei the sonne of Nathan the scribe, of the hundred of Levites wrote them before the kynge & the lordes, and before Zadock the priest, and Ahimelech the sonne of Abiathar, & before the ancient fathers, before the elders and Levites, one principal household being reserved for Eleazar & one for Jethamar.

And the first lot fell to Jehoiarib, and the seconde to Jedai. The thirde to Harim, and the fourth to Seboim. The fyfth to Melchiam, and the sixte to Otham. The seventh to Hachan, and the eyght to Abia. The nynt to Jesua, and the tenth to Secaniam. The eleventh to Eliahyb, and the twelwth to Jakim. The thirteenth to Jhupa, & fourteenth to Jesebeab. The fyfteenth to Bilga, & the sixteenth to Immer. The seventeenth to Hezir, and the eyghteenth to Hapiez. The nynteenth to Barabai, and the twentieth to Jechiel. The xxi. to Jachin, and the xxii. to Samul. The xxiii. to Delaihu, and the xxiiii. to Waastahu.

These are the ordynances of them in theyr offices, wher they cam into the house of the Lord according to theyr maner under Aaron theyr father as the Lord God of Israel had commaunded hym.

The rest of the sonnes of Levi are these: of the sonnes of Amram, Subael, of the sonnes of Subael, Jechiabu. Of the sonnes of Reubia: the first Jelia. Of the Jezababites, Selomoth. Of the sonnes of Selomoth, Jechab. His sonnes Jechiabu the first, Amariabu the seconde. Jachiel the thirde, and Jekameam the fourth. Of the sonnes of Eliel, Wicha. Of the sonnes of Wicha, Samir. The brother of Wicha was Jilia. Of the sonnes also of Jilia, zechariabu. The sonnes of Wera were Wabli and Wusi. The sonnes of Jachiahu, Beno. The sonnes of Wera: Jachiahu, Beno, Sobel, zacur and Jbi. Of Weli came Eleazar, and he had no sonnes. Of his: the sonnes of his, Jerahmeel. The sonnes of Wusi: Wabli, Eder and Jerimoth.

These are the chyldren of the Levites after the household of theyr fathers. And these cast lottes next to theyr brethren the sonnes of Aaron, in the presence of David the kynge, of Zadock and Ahimelech & the ancient fathers, priests, and Levites: even the principall fathers before theyr younger brethren: (the lot made equall apportionment among them all)

The xv. Chapter.

The synagogs are appointed, with theyr places and offices.

And so David and the captaines of the host appointed out to do service: the sonnes of Asaph, Heman, and Jeduthun when they dyd prophesie, with harpes, psalteries, & cymbales. And there was a multitude of the me that were appointed to the service and mynistration. Of the sonnes of Asaph: zacur, Joseph Raethania, and Merca that waited on Asaph which prophesied by the kynge.

Of Jeduthun: the sonnes of Jeduthun, Gedelabu, zeri, Jesaiabu, Asabiabu, and Athabathabu, fyve: under the bandes of theyr father Jeduthun, which prophesied with an harpe, for to give thanks and praise unto the Lord. Of Heman: the sonnes of Heman: Wabliabu, Wabathabu, Wziel, zebuel, Jerimoth, Hanania, Hanani, Eliatha, Gedaldi, Romathi, Ezer, Josbekasa, Walochi, Hothir & Wabaziorh. All these were the sonnes of Heman which was the kynge's ear in the wordes of God to lift up the hoine of the regall dignitie. And God gave to Heman xlii. sonnes, and thye daughters. All these also were at the hand of theyr father synnyng in the house of the Lord with cymbales, psalteries & harpes, when Asaph, Jeduthun and Heman executed the service in the house of God at the kynge's hande. And the multitude of the which theyr brethren that were instructed in the songes of the Lord, even all that were conynge, were two hundred foure score and eyght. And they caste lottes among them selues how they shuld waite as wel for the smal as for the great, for the scholar as well as for the scholemaster.

And the first lotte in Asaph, fell to Joseph, the seconde to Gedelabu (with his brethren, and sonnes) which men were twelue. The third fell to zacur with his sonnes and brethren, being twelue personnes. The fourth to Jbi with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes.

The fyfth to Raethaniahu with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The sixth to Wabliabu with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The seventh to Jesarela with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes.

The eyght to Jesaiabu with his sonnes & brethren, twelue personnes. The nynt to Wabathabu with his sonnes & brethren, twelue personnes. The tenth to Semei with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The eleventh to Azarai with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xii. to Asabiabu with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The thirteenth to Subael with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The fourteenth to Athabathabu with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The fyfteenth to Jerimoth, with his sonnes & brethren, twelue personnes. The sixteenth to Hananiahu with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The seventeenth to Josbekasa with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The eyghteenth to Hanani with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xix. to Walochi, with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xx. to Eliathab with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xxi. to Hothir with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xxii. to Gedaldi with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xxiii. to Wabaziorh with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes. The xxiiii. to Romathi, with his sonnes and brethren, twelue personnes.

The

The posters of the temple are ordered, every man to the gate which he should hope.

The fourth captayne for the fourth moneth was Asael the brother of Joab, and sabadiah his son after hym. And hys course were. xxiij. thousand. The fyfth captayne for the fyfth moneth, was Sambut the Jezrabite: and in hys course were. xxiij. thousande. The syxth captayne for the syxth moneth was Ica the sonne of Ichesa the cheknyte: and in hys course were. xxiiij. thousand. The seventh captayne for the seventh moneth was Helez the Pelonite, of the chyldren of Ephraim: and in his course were. xxiiij. thousand

The eighth captain for the eighth month was Shimeai an Ishachite of the kindred of Zari: and in his course were. xlii. thousand. The ninth captain for the ninth month was Abiezer an Anathothite of the sonnes of Beniamin: and in his course were. xlii. thousand. The tenth captain for the tenth month, was Adonai, the Netophathite of the Zarahites: and in his course were twenty and four thousand. The eleventh for the eleventh month was Banaia the Pirathite of the children of Ephraim: and in his course were. xlii. thousand. The twelfth captain for the twelfth month was Helai the Netophathite, with Othoniel: & in his course were. xlii. thousand. And the rulers over the tribes of Israel were these. Amonge the Rubenites was Eliezer the sonne of Jechei. Amonge the Simeonites also was Saphathiah & sonne of Maacha. Amonge the Leuites: Basabab the sonne of Lemuel. Amonge the Iudaites: Zabod. Amonge them of Iuda: Elihu of the brethren of David. Amonge them of Issachar: Omri the sonne of Michael. Amonge them of Zabulon: Jesaiabab the son of Obadiabab. Amonge them of Asephthal: Jerimoth the sonne of Azriel. Amonge the children of Ephraim: Hesea the sonne of Azariabab. In the halfe tribe also of Manasse: Joel the sonne of Phediabab. Of the halfe tribe of Manasse in Gilead, Jido the sonne of Zachariabab. Amonge them of Beniamin: Jaasiel the son of Abier. Amonge them of Dan: Azarel the sonne of Jerodan. These are the lordes of the tribes of Israel.

But David toke not the nombre of them vnder. xx. yere: because the Lord sayd he wolde encrease Israel like vnto the floures of the shepe. And * Joab the sonne of Zaria beg an to nōbe: but he finished it not, because & there fell warre for it agaynst Israel, neyther was the nombre put into the Chronicles of kynge David.

D Over the kynges treasures was Amasai the sonne of Abiel. And over the treasures of the felde in the cyties & villages & castels was Jehonathan the sonne of Azabab. And over the workemen in the felde that tilled the ground was Eri the sonne of Chelub. And the oversight of the vineyardes had Semiel the Ramathite. Over the encrease also of the vineyardes and over the wyne sellers, was Sabdi the Haliphunite: and over the olyuetrees and mulberry trees that were in the valleyes, was Baal Hanan the Gederite. And over the treasure of oyle was Joab: Over the oxen that fedde in Sharon, was Betari the Maronite. And over the oxen that were in the valleyes, was Saphat the sonne of Adai. Over the camels, Obai the Ismaelite. And over the asses, was Jobadiabab the Geronothite. Over the shepe, was Jazis the Hagerite. All these were the rulers of the substance of kyng David. And Jehonathan Dauides vncle a man of counsaile and of vnderstanding, was a scribe, and Jehiel the sonne of Bachmoni was with the kynges sonnes: instructyng them. And Abitophel was of the kynges counsaile. And Hui the Arachite was the kynges com-panyon. And next to Abitophel was Jehoiada the sonne of Banaia and Abiathar. And captain of the kynges warre was Joab.

THE xxviii. Chapter.

Because David was forbidden to buy the temple, he exhorted Salomon and the people to performe it.

And David gathered together all the lordes of Israel: the lordes of the tribes, & lordes of the companies that ministered to the kyng by course, the captains over thousandes and over hundredes, and the lordes that had the oversight over all the substance, and possession of David, his sonnes, with the chamberlaynes: all the myghty and valyaunt, and all actyue men vnto Ierusalem. And kynge David stode vp vpon his fete, and sayde.

Hear my brethren and my people: * I had in my herte to buyde an house of rest for the arke of the couenaunte of the Lord, and for the foorstole of our God, and had made redy for & buydyng. But God sayd vnto me: * thou shalt not buyde an house for my name, because thou hast ben a man of warre, and hast shed blood. * Whereover, the Lord God of Israel * chose me before all the house of my father, to be kynge over Israel for ever, for in Iuda wolde he chose a captain, and of the householde of Iuda is the house of my father, and amonge the sonnes of my father he had a luste to me to make me kynge over all Israel. And of all my sonnes (for the Lord hath gyfte me many sonnes) he hath chosen Salomon my sonne to sit vpon the seate of & kingdom of the Lord in Israel. And he sayde vnto me: * Salomon, thy sonne, he shal buyde me an house & courtes I haue chosen hym to be my son, and I wil be his father. I wil stablish his kingdom for ever: & he wil be stronge to do my commandementes & my lawes, as it goeth this day. Now therefore in the syght of all Israel the congregation of the Lord, & in the audience of our God: hepe and seke for all the comaundementes of & Lord your God, that ye may enioy a good lande, and leaue inheritaunce for your children after you for ever. And thou Salomon my son, knowe thou the God of thy father, & serue hym with a pure herte, and with a sweete courage. * For the Lord searcheth all hertes, and vnderstandeth all the ymaginacions of thoughtes. And yf thou seke hym, he wyll be founde of thee. But yf thou forsake hym, he wyll cast thee off for ever. Take hede now, for the Lord hath chosen thee, to buyde hym an house of a sanctuary: & be stronge therfore, and playe the man.

And David gaue Salomon his sonne the pattern of & porch (of the temple also) and of the houses that lodged thereto. of the store houses, upper chambers, inner parlours, & of the house of mercyseate: and the example of all that he had in his mynde, for the courtes of the house of the Lord, and for all the celles rounde about, for the treasures of the house of God, & for the treasures of the dedycate thynges, & for the dryunges of the priestes and Leuites that waited by course, and for all the workemen whiche shoulde serue for the house of the Lord, and for all the vessels that shulbe serue in the hous: of the Lorde. For gold and for the wayght of golde, for all vessels of sondre ministracions: for all maner of vessels of silver in wayght, and for all vessels wharsoeuer purpose they serued vnto. The wayght of golde for the candlestyches, and the golde for the lampes, wch the wayght for euery candlestych, & for the lampes therof. And for the candlestyches of silver by wayght, both for the candlestych and also for her lampes, accordyng to the diuersitie of the vse of euery candlestych. And by wayght: <sup>(the same)</sup> golde for the tables of shewbread, euen for euery table: and the wyse silver for the tables of silver. And golde for the shokes cuppes, and dynyng pottes. And pure gold in wayght for basen: eue for euery basen. And like wyse silver by wayght for euery basen of silver. And for the alter of incense pure gold by wayght. And golde for the paterne of the charret of the cherubs that stretched out theyr wynges, and covered the arke of the couenaunte of the Lorde. All (sayde he) was gyuen by wytyng of the hande of the Lorde, which made me vnderstande al the workmanthyp of the patrene.

And Dauid sayde to Salomon his sonne: be stronge, and do manlye, feare not, nor be fayne hearted: for the Lord God, euen my God, is with the, and he shal not fayle the nor forsake the. Vntyll thou hast finished all the worke that must serue for the house of the Lorde. Beholde, the priestes and Leuites are deuyded in companies for all maner of seruyce that pertayneth to the house of God: they are wyth the for all maner of workmanthyp, and so are all that excel in wisdom for any maner of seruyce. Thou hast also lordes and all the people for euery thyng that thou hast nede of.

¶ The xxix. Chapter.

The offering of Dauid and of the princes for the building of the temple. Dauid dyed, and Salomon his sonne reigned in his steade.

And Dauid the kyng sayde vnto all the congregacion: * God hath specially chosen Salomon my son which is yet yong & tender, and the worke is grete: for the house shall not be for man, but for the Lorde God. Moreover, I haue prepared withal my might for the house of God, golde for vessels of golde, silver for them of silver, brasse for thynges of brasse, yron for thynges of yron, and wood for thynges of wood and ony stones: and stones to be set, gyftrynge stones and of diuers colour, and al maner of precious stones, and marble stones in great aboundance. And because I haue lust to the house of my God: I haue of myne owne propre good, golde and silver which I haue seuerally gyuen to the house of my God, besyde all that I haue prepared for the holy house, euen the thousand talentes of golde of Ophir, and seven thousand talentes of tryed silver to ouerlape the walles of the house wythall, the golde for thynges of golde, silver for them of silver, and for all maner of worke by the handes of artificers. And whosoever is wyllyng may this day consecrate his hande vnto the Lorde.

And so the auncient fathers & the lordes of the tribes of Israel, the captaynes of thousandes & hundredes, with the lordes that were rulers ouer the kynges worke, were wyllyng, and gaue for the seruyce of the house of God, fyue thousande talentes of golde, and ten thousand peces of golde, and ten thousande talentes of silver, and xviij. thousande talentes of brasse, and one hundred thousande talentes of yron. And they with whome precious stones were founde, gaue them to the treasure of the house of the Lorde, by the hande of Jehiel the Serfionyte.

And the people reioysed when they were so wyllyng to gyue theyr goodes, and with a perfect herte they offered vnto the Lorde. And Dauid the kyng reioysed with great gladnesse. And Dauid blessed the Lorde before all the congregacion, and sayd: Blessed be thou Lord God of Israel our father for euer & for euer. Thyne (O Lorde) is greatnesse and power, glorie, victory and prayse: for all that is in heauen and in earth is thyne, and thyne is the kyngedome (O Lorde) and thou excellest aboue all, euen as the heed of all. And rychesse and honour come of the, and thou raynest ouer all, and in thyne hande is power and strength, and in thyne hande it is to make great, and to gyue strength vnto all.

And nowe our God, we thanke the, & prayse thy glorious name. But who am I and what is my people, that we shulde enforce oure selues to gyue these thynges so wyllyngly? But all thynges come of the: and of that which we receyued at thyne hande, we haue gyuen the. * For we be but straungers before the, and sojourners, as were all our forefathers. Our dayes on the earth also are but as a * shadowe, and there is none abyding. O Lorde our God, at this stuffe that we haue prepared to buyde the an house for thyne holy name, cometh of thyne hande, and is a thyne. (I wrote also my God) & thou tryest the dectes, and hast pleasure in vnfaynednesse. And in the vnfaynednesse of myne herte, I haue wyllyngly offered all these thynges. And nowe haue I sent thy people which are founde here, to offer vnto the wyllyngly and wyth gladnesse. O Lord God of Abraham, Isaac and of Israel our fathers kepe this for euer as the begynning of the thoughtes of the herte of thy people, and prepare theyr hertes vnto the. And gyue vnto Salomon my sonne a perfecte herte to kepe thy commaundementes, thy testimonyes, and thy statutes, and to doo all, and to buyde the house for the which I haue made prouision.

And Dauid sayde to all the congregacion: Nowe blesse the Lord you: God. And al the congregacion blessed the Lord God of theyr fathers, & bowed downe theyr bredest, and worshipped the Lorde and the kyng. And they offered offerings vnto the Lorde. And on the morowe after the sayde daye, they offered burnt offerings vnto the Lorde, euen a thousande ponge of oyle, a thousande rammes, and a thousande sheepe, with theyr dynke offerings. Many sacrefices offered they for all Israel, & yd eate and dynke before the Lorde the same daye with grete gladnesse.

¶ And

And they made Salomon the sonne of Dauid kynge the seconde tyme, & anointed hym prince befoze the Lozde, and Zadoc to be the hie priest. ii. reg. i. 11. And Salomon sat on the seate of the Lozde, and was dyng in seide of Dauid his father, and prospered: & all they of Israel obeyed hym. And all the lozdes & men of power, and all the sonnes of kynge Dauid submittet them selues: and wer vnder kynge Salomon. And the Lozde magnified Salomon in dignitie, in the syght of al the of Israel, & gaue hym so glorious a kyngdome, as no kynge had befoze hym in Israel. ii. reg. i. 12.

¶ And so Dauid the sonne of Isay ragued ouer all Israel. And so space that he ragued ouer Israel was xl. yere: leui. yere ragued he in hebr. and. xxxiii. yere ragued he in Ierusalem: & he dyed in a good age: full of dayes, riches and honour. And Salomons son ragued in his seide. The actes of Dauid the kynge fyrst and last: behold, they are writen in the boke of Samu. & Iear, & in the boke of Nathan p. prophet, & in the boke of Gad the sear, with al his kyngdom & power, and tymes that went ouer hym, & ouer al Israel and ouer all the kyngdomes of the earth.

The fyrst Chapter.

¶ The offering of Salomon in the bylanter at Sibeon, where he receyued an answer of God, what wysdome shoulde be graun hym with the nombre of his charrettes and hoyses.

¶ And Salomon the son of Dauid waxed strong in his kyngdome: & the Lozde his God was w. hym, and magnified him in the dignitie. And Salomon spake vnto all Israel, to f. captaynes ouer thousand, to f. captaynes ouer hundred, to f. iudges, & to euery officer in al Israel, and to the ancient fathers. And so Salomons, & all the congregacion with him: went to the hie place that was at Sibeon: for there was the tabernacle of f. witness of God: which Moses the seruaunt of the Lozde made in f. wyldernes. But the arke of God: had Dauid brought fro hy. at Ierim. into f. place whiche Dauid had prepared therfoze. For he had pitched a tent for it at Ierusalem. Where ouer, the byasen aulter: that Bezalet the sonne of Uri, the sonne of Hur had made, was there befoze f. tabernacle of f. Lozde. And Salomon & the congregacion went to byasen. And Salomons gat up there befoze f. Lozde to f. byasen aulter that was befoze f. tabernacle of witness, & offered a thousand burnt sacrifices vpon it. And the same nyght dyd God appare vnto Salomon, & sayd vnto hym: aske what I shall graue the. And Salomon sayd vnto God: thou hast shewed great mercye vnto Dauid my father, and hast made me to ragne in his seide. Now therfoze, O Lozde God, let thy promise whych thou madest vnto Dauid my father, be true. For thou hast made me kynge ouer a people which is lyke the dust of the earth in multitude: wherfoze graue me now wysdome & knowledge, that I maye be able to go in and out befoze this people: for who is able to iudge this people that be so great? And God sayde to Salomon: because this was in thyne herte, & because thou hast not asked treasure, riches, & honour, and thynges of thyne enemyes, neyther yet longe lyfe: but hast asked wysdome & knowledge for thy selfe to iudge my people, ouer which I haue made f. kynge: wysdome & knowledge is graited vnto the, and I wyll graue the treasure & riches and gloze: so that amonge the kynges that haue ben befoze the: or after f. none was or shalbe lyke the. And so Salomon came from the bylanter (that was at Sibeon) to Ierusalem, from the tabernacle of witness, & ragued ouer Israel: And Salomon gathered the charrettes & hoysmen: and he had a thousand & foure hundred charrettes, and xli. hoysmen, whom he bestowed in the charrettes, & with the kynge at Ierusalem. And the kynge made syluer and golde at Ierusalem, as plenteous as stoncs: and cedre trees made he as plente as the mulberpe trees that growe in the valeys: & the hoyses whiche Salomon had, were brought hym out of Egypt by the kynges marchantes that were togyther, whych beinge of one compaign, toke them out at a pryce. They came also and brought out of Egypt a charret for syxe hundred peces of syluer: euen an hoise for an hundred and fiftye. And so brought they hoyses for all the kynges of the hebreues, and for the kynges of Assyria by thei. owne hande.

The ii. Chapter

¶ Salomon leaueh to Hiram the kynge of Tyre for wood and workmen.

¶ And Salomons determined to build an house for f. name of the Lozde, and an house for his kyngdom: and Salomons told out therfoze x. thousand me to beare burthens, & foure scoze thousand men to beue stoncs in the mountayne: and thye thousand and syxe hundred to ouerle them. And Salomon sent to Hiram the kynge of Tyre, saying: As thou dydest deale with Dauid my father, & dydest sende hym cedre wood to bylde hym an house to dwel in, euen so deale with me. For I am about to byld an house for the name of the Lozde my God, to offe vnto hym holy thynges, and to burne sweete incense, and to let the wynd befoze him continually: to offe offer burnt sacrifices for the morning and evening: on the Sabbath dayes, in the first day of every new moone, and in the solempne feastes of the Lorde our God: for it is an ordinance to be continually kepte of Israel. And the house whych I buyde shalbe grate, for great is our God above al goddes. But who is able to build hym an house: when that heauen, and heauen above all heauens is not able to receiue hym?

What am I that I shuld buyde hym an house? nay, but euen to burne sacrifice before hym, shal this buydyng be: sende me now therfore a conynge man that can worke in golde & syluer, in brasse and yron, in purple, crymosen and pelowe sylke, & that can shap to graue & the conynge me that are with me in Iuda and Ierusalem, whom Dauid my father dyd prepare. Sende me also Cedre trees, Syne trees & Almuge trees out of Libanon. For I wot that thy seruantes can shap to hewe tymber in Libanon. And beholde, my men shalbe wyth hym, that they maye prepare me tymber ynough. For the house whych I am determyned to buyde shalbe wonderful grate. And beholde, for the vse of thy seruantes senters and the beders of tymber I haue gyft. xx. thousand quarters of beaten wheate, and .xx. thousand quarters of barley, and .xx. thousand bates of wyne, & .xx. thousand bates of oyle. And Hiram kynge of Tyre answered in wyrtynge which he sent to Salomon: Because the Lorde hath loued his people, therfore he hath made the kynge ouer them. And Hiram said mozeouer: blessed be the Lorde God of Israel which made heauen and earth, and that hath gyuen Dauid the kynge a wyse sonne, & one that hath discretion, prudence and vnderstandynge to buyld an house for the Lorde, & a palace for hym selfe. And now I haue sent a wyseman, and a man of vnderstandynge (whome my father Hiram dyd use) & the son of a woman of the daughters of Dan, & his father was a man of Tyre, & he can shap to worke in golde and syluer, in brasse and yron, in stone, and tymber, in purple and pelowe sylke, in syne whyte and crymosen: and can graue sondry maner of graunpes, and fynde out dyuers maner of subtyl worke that shall be sette before hym, with thy conynge men, and with the conynge men of my lorde Dauid thy father. Nowe therfore the wheat and barley, oyle and wyne, which my lorde hath spoken of, let hym sende vnto his seruantes. And we wyl cut wood in Libanon as moche as thou shalt nede, and wyl byynge it to the in wyppes by the see to Iapho, fro wher thou mayest cary them to Ierusalem. And Salomon nombred all the straungers that were in the lande of Israel, after the nombre of them whom his father Dauid had nombred. And they were founde an hundred and .liii. thousande, and syxe hundred. And he sette .lxx. thousande of them to beare burthens, and .lxx. thousand to hewe stones in the mountayne: and thye thousande and syxe hundred officers to see the people a worke.

¶ The .iii. Chapter.

¶ The temple of the Lorde, and of the porch and hyphos, with other thynges thereto belonging.

And Salomon began to buyld his house of the Lorde at Ierusalem, in mount Moriah: where the Lorde appeared vnto Dauid his father, euen in the place that Dauid prepared in the threshyng floore of Oman the Jebusite. And he began to buyld in the seconde daye of the seconde moneth: & the fourth yere of his reygne. And these are the paterne wherby Salomon was instruct to buyld the house of God. The length was threescore cubytes after the olde measure, and the bredth .xx. cubytes. The porch, & was in bredth as large as the temple, had .xx. cubytes: & the heygth was an hundred and .xx. cubytes. And he overlaid it on the inner syde with pure golde.

And the greater house he syled with syretr which he overlaid with the best gold, and graued thereto palmetrees & chaynes. And he overlaid the house wyth pteuous stone beautifull. And the golde was golde of Parauaim. The house (I saye) the beames, pooles, walles, and doores therof overlaid he with golde, & made grauen worke vpon the walles.

And he made the house mooste holpe, whose length was .xx. cubytes lyke the bredth of the house, and the bredth therof was also .xx. cubytes. And he overlaid it with good golde, eue to syre hundred talentes. And the weygth of the naples of golde was fyfte species. And he overlaid the vpper chambres with golde.

And in the house mooste holpe he made two Cherubins of ymage worke lyke chyldren, and overlaid them wyth golde. And the winges of the Cherubs were .xx. cubytes longe. The one wyng was .v. cubytes reachyng to the wall of the house, & the other wyng was lyke wyse fyue cubytes, reachyng to the wyng of the other Cherub. And euen so the one wyng of the other Cherub was .v. cubytes, reachyng to the wall of the house, & the other wyng was .v. cubytes also, & reached to the wyng of the other Cherub. So that the winges of the sayd Cherubs were stretched out .xx. cubytes, and they stode on their feet and looked inwarde. And he made a foze hanginge of pelowe sylke, purple, crymosen, and synewhyte, and caused the pictures of Cherubes to be bydded thereon. And he made before the house two pylers of .xxv. cubytes hie. And the heed that was about on the top of euery one of them was .v. cubytes, and he made chaynes of wyerden worke for the quere, & put them on the heedes of the pylers, & made an hundred pomegranates, and put them on the chaynes. And he reared vp the pylers before the temple: one on the right hand, and the other on the left, and called the ryght Iachin, and the left Boaz.

¶ The .iiii. Chapter.

¶ The altare of brasse, the laver, the vessels to burne incense, the candlestickes, &c.

And he made an altare of brasse .xx. cubytes longe, and .xx. cubytes byde, and ten cubytes hie. And he cast a brasse lande of ten cubites from bym to bym, rounde in compass, and fyue cubytes hie: and a syne of thye cubytes dyd compass it rounde aboute.

And vnder it was the fashion of oren which byd compass it rounde about: with ten cubites byd they compass the lauatory rounde about, & there were two rowes of oyl which were cast of lyke moile woike. And it stode also vpon twelve oyl, the lower towards the north, the toward the west, the toward the south, & the toward the east and the lauatory was set vpon them, & al they backes were toward the lauatory. And the thir best of it was an hand biede, and the bym lyke the bym of a cup, with floures of lilies. And it receyued, and helde the thousande bates.

B sleep. vllc

And he made ten lauers, and put fyue on the ryght hande, and fyue on the lefte, to washe and clynse in them suche thynges as they offred for a burnt offrig. But the great lauatory was for the priestes to wash in. And he made ten candlestyches of golde (accordyng to the paterne that was gauen of them) and put them in the temple fyue on the right hand, and fyue on the left. And he made also ten tables, and put them in the temple fyue on the ryght syde, and fyue on the lefte. And he made an hundred basens of golde. And he made the court of the priestes, and the greates court and doores to it: and overlaped the doores of them with brasse. And he set the greates lauatory on the right side of the east ende ouer agaynst the south. And Hiram made pottes, shouels and basens, and finished the woike that he was appointed to make for kynge Salomon in the house of God. The two pylers, the court pynges of two heedes on the toppes of the pylers, and the two wycthes to couer the two scalpes of heedes that were on the toppes of the pylers: and foure hundred pomegranates on the two wycthes, two rowes of pomgranates on one wycthe to couer the two toppes of heedes, that were on the pylers. And he made two botomes: and lauers made he vpon the botomes: the greates lauatory, and twelve oyl vnder it. Pottes also and shouels, shethokes, and all these vessels byd Hiram (his father) make to kynge Salomon for the house of the Lorde of bright brasse. In the playne of Jordan byd the kynge caste them, euen in the claye grounde that is betwene Moab and Jarebatha. And Salomon made all these vessels in great aboundance, for the wayght of brasse couide not be reckened.

And Salomon made all these vessels that were for the house of God: the golden altar also and the tables to set shewbryd vpon. Moreover, the candlestyches, with they lampes (to burne after the maner before the quere) and that of precious golde: and the shouers and the lampes, and the incensers made he of golde, and that perfect golde, and the bysmyng knyues, basens, spoures, and censers of pure gold. And he made the doore of the temple, and the inner doores with in the place mooste holy, and the inner doores of the temple were gylded. And so was all the woike that Salomon made for the house of the Lorde synished.

The. v. Chapter.

The order to be kept in the temple, saying in which way the people of the Lorde.

Also all the woike that Salomon made in the house of the Lorde was synished, and Salomon brought in all the thynges that Dauid his father had dedicated with the syluer and golde, and all the iewels, and put them amonge the treasures of the house of God.

Then Salomon gathered the elders of Israel together, and all the heedes of the tribes & ancient fathers of the byld of Israel vnto Jerusalem to bring the ark of the couenant of the Lorde out of the cite of Dauid, which is iion. (Wherefore al the men of Israel resorted vnto the king in the feast, eue in the vii. moneth. And al the elders of Israel came, & the Leuites toke vp the ark, and the priestes, and the Leuites brought a way the ark & the tabernacle of wyctnesse, and all the holy vessels that were in the tabernacle, and they bare them. And kynge Salomon and all the congregation of Israel were asssembled vnto hym before the ark, offered shepe & oren, so many, that they couide not be tolde nor nombred for multitude.

And the priestes brought the ark of the appointment of the Lorde vnto his place, euen in to the quere of the temple, within the place mooste holy, and set it vnder the wynges of Cherubs that the Cherubs stretched out they wynges ouer the place of the ark, and the Cherubs couered bothe the ark and her barres aboue on hye. And the barres of the ark were so long, that the heedes of the barres were sene without the ark in the quere, but not without. And there the ark remayned vnto this dape. But there was nothing in the ark save the two tables which Moyses put therein at Horeb, when the Lorde made a couenant with the chyld of Israel, after they were come out of Egypt. And it fortuneth, that whē the priestes were come out of the holy place (the Sanctuarye was fylled with smoke) for al the priestes that were present were sanctified and dyd not then wayte by course, that bothe the Leuites and the syngers vnder Asaph, Heman and Jeduthun were appointed to sonde offryces, with they chyldren and bycthen, and were arrayed in fyne whyte, haungyng cymbales, plateries and harpes, and stode at the east ende of the altar, and by them an hundred & twenty priestes blowyng with trompettes. And the trompet blowers, and the syngers so agreed, that it seemed but one voyce, in prayyng and thankyng the Lorde. And when they lyft up they voyce with trompettes, cymbales, and ocher instruments of musyke: and when they prayed the Lorde, on (and sayd) how that he is good, and his mercy lasteth euer: the house of God was fylled with a cloude, so that the priestes could not endure to ministrate by the reason of the cloude. For the multitude of the Lorde had fylled the house of God.

The. vi. Chapter.

The wordes of Salomon to the people, and the praye that he made vnto God.

Salomon sayd: The Lorde hath spoken, howe that he wyll dwell in the cloude. And I haue buylt an habitation for the, and a place for thy dwelling.

for ever. And the kyng turned his face, & blessed the hole congregation of Israel, & al the congregation of Israel stode. And he sayde: blessed be <sup>the</sup> Loide God of Israel, whych hath w his handes fulfilled it, & he spake w his mouth to my father Dauid, saying: thus the day that I brought my people out of the land of Egypt, I chose no cite among al the trybes of Israel to buyld an house in, that my name myght be there, neyther chose I anye man to be a ruler ouer my people Israel: sayunge <sup>that</sup> I haue chosen Ierusalem, & my name myght be there, & haue chosen Dauid to be ouer my people Israel. * And whē it was in <sup>the</sup> heart of Dauid my father to buyld an house for <sup>the</sup> name of the Loide God of Israel, the Loide sayd to Dauid my father: for asmoche as it was in thy heart to buyld an house for my name: I dyddest well that thou so thoughtest in thy heart. For with this dyng, thou shalt not buyld <sup>an</sup> house, but thy son whiche is pceded out of thy loynes, he shall buyld an house for my name. The Loide therfoze hath made good his saying that he hath spoken: & I am risen vp in the roume of Dauid my father, & am set on the seate of Israel, as <sup>the</sup> Loide promysed, and haue buyld an house for the name of the Loide God of Israel. And in it haue I put the arke wherein is <sup>the</sup> couenaunt of <sup>the</sup> Loide, that he made w the chyldre of Israel. And the kyng stode before the altare of the Loide, in <sup>the</sup> pcesence of all the congregation of Israel, and stretched out his handes. For now Salomon had made a brasen pulpyr of fyue cubites longe, and fyue cubytes wyde, & thre of heyghte, & had set it in the myddes of the great court, and vpon it he stode, and kneeled downe vpon his knees before all the congregation of Israel, and stretched out his handes toward heauē, and sayd: * O Loide God of Israel, there is no god lyke the in heauen and earth, which kepest couenaunt, and shewest mercy vnto thy seruantes, that walke before the with all theyr hertes. Thou whiche haste kepte with thy seruant Dauid my father, the thynges that thou promysedest him, thou saydest it with thy mouth, and haste fulfilled it with thy handes, as it is to se this daye.

And now Loide God of Israel, kepe with thy seruant Dauid my father, & thynges that thou promysedest hym, & sayinge: thou shalt in my lycht not be without a man that shall spt vpon the seate of Israel: so that thy chyldre take hede to theyr wayes, to walke in my lawe, as thou hast walked before me. And now Loide God of Israel, let thy saying be true whiche thou spakest vnto thy seruant Dauid. And wyl God in verye dede dwell wpeh men on earth? Beholde, * heauen, and heauen aboue all heauens do not contayne the: how moche lesse the house whiche I haue buylded? Let it be thy pleasure therfoze to turne to the prayer of thy seruant, and to his supplication (O Loide my God) to hearken vnto the voyce & prayer whych thy seruant prayeth before the, and let thine eyes be open towardes this house daye & nyght ouer this place, wherein thou hast sayd: that thou woldest put thy name, to hearken vnto the prayer whiche thy seruant prayeth in this place: hearken vnto the prayers of thy seruant, and of thy people Israel which they praye in this place: heare thou (I saye) out of thy dwelling place, euen out of heauen, heare and be mercifull. * If a man synne agaynst his neyghboure, and take not an othe agaynst hym, and make hym to sweare, and they bothe come before thine altare in this house, then heare thou from heauen, and worke, and iudge thy seruantes, that thou rewarde the vngodly and recompence hym his waye vpon his heed, and iustifye the ryghteous, and gyue hym accordyng to his ryghteousnesse.

And if thy people Israel be put to the worst before the enemye, bycause they haue synned agaynst the. Yet if they turne & gyue thankes vnto thy name, & make intercession & praye before the in this house, then heare thou from heauen, & be mercifull vnto the synne of thy people Israel and byngne them agayne vnto the lande which thou gauest to them and to thy fathers.

* When heauen is shutte vp, and there be no rayne, bycause they haue synned agaynst the: yet if they praye in this place, & confesse thy name, & repente for theyr synne, for the whiche thou chastenest them, then heare thou in heauen, and be mercifull vnto the synne of thy seruantes, and of thy people Israel, and gyde thou them into the good waye to walke in, & sende rayne vpon thy lande, which thou hast gyuen vnto thy people for an enherytaunce.

And if there be dearth in the lande of pestilence, corruption, or blaspmyng of corne, grethoppers, or caterpillers, or that theyr enemyes besiege them in the cyties of theyr lande, or whatsoeuer plage or synneth it be. Then what supplications & prayers soeuer shall be made of any man, and of al thy people Israel which shall know euery man his owne soze, and his owne greife, & shall stretch out their handes toward this house, thou shalt heare fro heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, and shalt be mercifull, and gyue euery man accordyng vnto all his wayes, euen as I doo know euery mannes herte: for thou onely knowest the hertes of the chyldren of me: that they may feare the, & walke in thy wayes as longe as they lyue in the lande whych thou gauest vnto theyr fathers.

* Moreover, the straunger which is not of thy people Israel, if he come from a fere lande for thy great names sake, & thy mighty hand, & thy stretched out arme. If they come (I saye) & pray in this house: thou shalt heare from heauen, euen from thy dwelling place, & shalt do accordyng to all that the straunger calleth to the for: that all people of the earthe maye knowe thy name, and feare the as doeth thy people Israel, & that they may know, how that in this house whych I haue buyld, thy name is called vpon.

If thy people go out to warre agaynst theyr enemyes, by the way that thou shalt send them, and they praye to the, in the way towardes this cite whiche thou hast chosen, euen towardes the house whiche I haue buyld for thy name: then heare thou from heauen theyr supplication and prayer prayer, and helpe them in theyr ryght.

S * If they syn agaynst the: as there is no milt but he doth sinne, and thou be angry with them and deliuer them ouer before their enemies, and they take them and lede them away vnto a land farre of: yet if they repent in theyr herte in the lande where they be in captiuitie, and turne and pray vnto the in the lande of theyr captiuitie, saying: we haue synned, we haue done euill and wychedly: and turne agayne to the with al theyr herte, and all theyr soule, in the lande of theyr captiuitie, where they hepe them in bondage, and so praye towarde theyr lande whych thou gauest vnto theyr fathers, euen towarde the cytie whych thou hast chosen, & towarde the house whych I haue buylte for thy name. Then heare thou from heauen, euen fro thy dwellyng place theyr supplicacion and theyr prayer, and iudge theyr cause, and be merciful vnto thy people which haue synned agaynst the.

Nowe my God, let thyn eyes be open, & thyn eares attente vnto the prayer that is made in this place. Nowe vp, O Lorde God into thy resting place, thou and the arke of thy strength. O Lorde God, let thy prestes be clothed with dealeth: and let thy sayntes reioyse in goodness. O Lorde God turne not away the face of thyn annoynted. Remembre the mercyes whiche thou hast promysed to Dauid thy seruaunt.

¶ The vii. Chapter

¶ The fyre consumed the sacrifice. The Lorde appeared vnto Salomon the second tyme.

Ad * When Salomon had made an ende of praying, there came downe fyre from heauen, and consumed the burnt offeringe and the sacrifices. And the house was fylled with the glorye of the Lorde, and the prestes coulde not go into the house of the Lorde, because the glorye of the Lorde had fylled the Lordes house. And when al the children of Israel saw how the fire and the glorye of the Lorde came downe vpon the house, they fell downe flat vpon theyr faces to the earth, vpon the pauement, and worshipped and cosselled vnto the Lorde, that he is gracious, and that his mercy lasteth euer.

And the kynge and al the people offered sacrifices before the Lorde. And kynge Salomon offered a sacrifice of .xxii. thousande oxen, and an hundred and twenty thousande shepe. And so the kynge and all the people dedicated the house of God. And the prestes wayped on theyr offerynges, and the Levites had the instrumentes of musyke of the Lorde, whiche kynge Dauid had made to confesse vnto the Lorde, that his mercy lasteth euer: playinge a Psalme of Dauid with theyr banke. And the prestes blew with trumpettes before them: and all they of Israel stode.

And Salomon halowed the myddle of the court that was before the Lorde, for there he offered burnt offerings, and the fat of the peace offerynges, because the brasen altar whiche Salomon had made, was not able to receiue burnt offerynges, and the meate offerynges, and the fat. So at the same tyme Salomon kept a feast of seven dayes, and all they of Israel with hym an exceeding great congregacion, euen from the entering in of Hamath: vnto the ryuer of Egypt. And in the eighth daye they made a gathering: for they kept the dedication of the altar .seuen dayes, and the feast .seuen dayes. And the .xxii. daye of the seventh moneth he let the people departe into theyr tentes: glad and mery in herte: for the goodnesse that the Lorde had shewed to Dauid & to Salomon, and to Israel his people.

And Salomon finished the house of the Lorde, and the kynges house, & al that came in his herte to make in the house of the Lorde, & in his owne house, went prosperously forwarde.

And the Lorde appeared to Salomon by nyght and sayd to hym: I haue herde thy petition, and I haue chosen this place for my selfe, to be an house of sacrifice. ¶ I put vp heauen that there be no rayne: or if I commaunde the locustes to deuoure the lande: or if I sende pestilence amonge my people: and if they that are of my people, among whom my name is called vpon, do humble them selues, and make intercession, and seeke my presence, and turne from theyr wyched wayes: then wyl I heare from heauen, and be mercifull to theyr synne, and wyl heale theyr lande.

And from henceforth myne eyes shal be open, and myne eares attente vnto the prayer that is made in this place. And therefore nowe I haue chosen and sanctified this house, that my name be there for euer: and myne eyes and myne herte shal be there perpetually.

And if thou wylt walke before me, as Dauid thy father walked, to do al that I haue commaunded the, and shalt obserue my statutes and my lawes, then wyl I stablysh the seate of thy kyngdome, accordyng as I made the couenaunt with Dauid thy father, saying: thou shalt not be without a man to be ruler in Israel. But and if thou turne away, and forsake my statutes, and commaundmentes whiche I haue set before you, and shalt go and serue other goddes, & worshyppe them: then wyl I plucke them vp by the rootes, out of my lande whiche I haue gyven them, and this house whiche I haue sacrificed for my name wyl I cast out of my syght, and wyl make it to be a prouerbe and a iest amonge all nacyns.

And every one that passeth by shal be astonied at this house whiche belonged to the moost hye God, and shall saye: why hath the Lorde delt on this fashon with this lande, and with this house? And they shall aunswere: because they forsake the Lorde God of theyr father, whiche brought them oute of the lande of Egypt, and caught holde on other goddes, and worshipped them, and serued them: euen therefore hath he brought all this euill vpon them.

¶ The viii. Chapter.

¶ The cyties that Salomon buylde after that the house of God was finished.

Ad * it is fortunyd, that after .xx. yere wyl Salomon hadde buylte the house of the Lorde, and his owne house: he buylte the cyties that Hiram gaue hym, & put of the children of Israel in the. And Salomon went to Hamath mach zoba, & streghed it. And he buylt Thadmos in þe wyldernesse, and repayred of þe stee-ties which were in Hamath. And he built Beth bozon the upper, & Bethbozon the nether, strong cittes, haupnge walles, gates and barres. And Baalab, and all the stee cities that Salomon had, and all the charett cittes. And the cittes of the horsemen, & every pleasaunt place that Salomon had lust to buyde in Jerusalem, & Libanon, & thowout al the lande of his dominion.

B And all the people that were leste of the he-thites, Amozites, Pherezites, Heuites, and Jebusites, whiche were not of the chyldren of Israel: but were the chyldren of them whych were leste after them in the lande, and were not consumed of the chyldren of Israel, them dyd Salomon make to paye tribute vntyll this daye.

But of the chyldren of Israel dyd Salomon make no bondmen for his worke: but they wer m of warre, and rulers, and great lordes wylh hym, and captaynes ouer his charettes & horsemen. And kynge Salomon offycers that ouer sawe, and ruled the people, were two hundred and fiftie. And Salomon brought þe daughter of Pharaos oute of the cite of Dauid, into the house that he had buylded for her. For he sayde: my wyfe shall not dwelle in the house of Dauid kyng of Israel, for it is holy: because that the Arke of the Loyde is come vnto it.

C Then Salomon offred burnt offerynges vnto the Loyde, on the analtare of the Loyde, which he had buylt before the porche, doyng euerie thyng in his due tyme, and offeryng accordyng to the commaundement of Moyses, in the Sabbodes, newe Moones, and solemne feastes, * the tymes in the yere, that is to saye: in the feast of swete bread, in the feast of weekes, and in the feast of Tabernacles.

And Salomon set the sortes of prestes to theyr offycers, as Dauid his father had ordred them, and the Leuites in theyr watches, for to praye & minster before the prestes day by day and the porters by course, at euery gate.

D * For so had Dauid the man of God comaun-ded. And they ompted not the comaundement of the kyng vnto the prestes and the Leuites, concernyng any maner of thyng, and concernyng the treasures. For Salomon made promisy on for the charges, from the fyrste day that the foundacyon of the house of the Loyde was laid, tyl it was fynished, that the house of the Loyde was perfyete. Then went kyng Salomon to Eylon Gaber, and to Elath to the serfyde in the lande of Edom. And hiram sent hym by the handes of his seruantes, myppers, and seruantes þe had knowlege of the see: & they came to the seruantes of Salomon to Ophir, and carped thence four hundred and fiftie talentes of golde, & brought it to kyng Salomon.

C The ix. Chapter.

C The communication of Salomon with the queene of Saba and the gyftes that she oone gaue the other. The heauie of Salomon, after whome successeth his sonne.

Ad * When the queene of Saba hearde of the fame of Salomon, she came to proue hym in harde questyons at Jerusalem, with a verie great company, with camels that bare spyes and plenty of golde, and precious stones. And when she was come to Salomon, she commaunded wylh hym of all that she had in her herte. And Salomon soled her all her questyons, and there was not one woide byd frome Salomon, whiche he tolde her not.

And when the Queene of Saba had sene the wysdome of Salomon, and the house that he had buylt, & the meate of his table, the fyttyng of his seruantes, and the standyng of his way-ters, theyr apparell, his buttelers, theyr apparell, his goynge by, by the whiche he went into the house of the Loyd, there was no moze spere in her. And she sayde to the kyng: the saying which I heard in myne owne lande, of thyne actes, and of thy wysdome, is true. I beleued not the wordes of them, vntyll I came, & myne eyes had sene it. And behold the one halfe of thy wysdome was not tolde me: for thou erredest the same that I herde. Happy are thy men, and happye are the lethe seruantes whiche stande before þe alway, and heare thy wysdom. Blessed be the Loyde thy God, which had lust to the, to set the kyng on his seate, that thou myghtest be kyng, ordeined by the Loyd thy God. Because thy God loueth Israel, and hath helye: & to make them contynue euer: therfore made he the kyng ouer them: to do ryght and equyte.

And she gaue the kyng an hundred and xx. talentes of golde, & of spyes exceadynge great aboundaunce and precious stones, neyther was there any moze such spye, as the Queene of Saba gaue kyng Salomon. And the seruantes of hiram, & the seruantes of Salomon which brought golde fro Ophir, brought also Almuge wood and precious stones. And the kyng made of the Almuge wood, steyres in the house of the Loyd, and in the kynges palace, and harpes and psalteryes for syngers. And there was no such wood sene before in the land of Iuda. And kyng Salomon gaue to the Queene of Saba euerye pleasaunte thyng she asked, but not so muche as she brought vnto the kyng. And so she turned & went away to her owne lade with her seruantes.

D The weyght of golde that came to Salomon in one yere, was fyve hundred. lxxvi. talentes of golde, besydes that which chapmen & marchantes brought: and all the kynges of Arabia & rulers of that countree, brought golde and syluer to Salomon. And kyng Salomon made two hu-dred bucklers of beaten golde, and fyve hundred scales of beaten golde were spent vpon one bucler, and the hundred scales made be of beaten golde, and one scale cost the hundred peces of golde, and the kyng put them in the house that was in the forrest of Libanon.

And the kyng made a great seate of Iuoy & ouerlaid it with pure golde. And there were fyve steyres to the seate, with a fotebole of golde fastened to the seate: and pommels on eche syde of the fyttyng place, and two Lyons standyng by the pommels. And the Lyons stode on þe one syde and on the other vpon the fyve steyres, so there was no such work made in any kingdom
h. v. And

E And all the dynnyng vessels of kyng Salomon were of golde, and all the vessels of the house that was in the temple of Salomon were of precious golde: for syluer was counted nothing worth, in the dayes of Salomon. For the kynges shippes went to Tharsis with the seruantes of Ihyam: euerie three yere onecame the shippes to Tharsis, and brought golde, syluer, Iuoy, and apes, and peacockes.

II. CH. 2. 10. * And kyng Salomon passed all the kynges of the earthe in rycheesse and wysdome. And all the kynges of the earthe sought the presence of Salomon, to heare his wysdome that God had put in his bert. And they brought euerie man his present, vessels of syluer, & vessels of golde, rayment, harness, spyes, horses, and mules, & what so euer myght be gotten yere by yere.

II. CH. 2. 15. * And Salomon had foure thousand stables for horses, and charettes, and twelue thousand horsemen, whome he bestowed in the charettes cytyes, and some were with the kyng at Ierusalem. And he raygned ouer all the kynges that were from Euphrates vnto the lande of Philistynes: and to the border of Egypte.

II. CH. 2. 18. * And the kyng made syluer in Ierusalem, as plenteous as stones. And Cedar trees as pleceous as the moultrepe trees that growe in the valleyes. And they brought vnto Salomon horses out of Egypte, and out of all landes.

II. CH. 2. 19. * The rest of the actes of kyng Salomon first and last, are they not wyrtten in the saynges of Ieremias the prophete, and in the prophete of Ihuah the Silonite, and in the visions of Ido the sear of visyons agaynst Ieroboam & sonne of Abat: And Salomon raygned in Ierusalem vpon all Israel fourty yeres. And Salomon slepte with his fathers, & they buried hym in the cite of Dauid his father: and Rehoboam his sonne raygned in his steade.

II. CH. 2. 20. C The .x. Chapter.

C The faulte of Ieroboam, and the bewaile of his reame.

II. CH. 2. 21. Ad Rehoboam wente to Sichem: for to Sichem were all Israel come together, to make hym kyng. And when Ieroboam the sonne of Abat (which was fled into Egypte from the presence of Salomon the kyng) hearde it, he returned out of Egypt. And they sent and called hym. And so Ieroboam and all they of Israel, came and shunned with Rehoboam, sayenge: Thy father sayd a greuous yoke vpon vs now therfore remyt thou somwhat of the greuous seruyce of thy father, and of his heuy poche that he put vpon vs: and we wyl serue the. And he said to them: come agayne vnto me after thre dayes. And the people departed.

II. CH. 2. 22. And kyng Rehoboam counsailed with the elders that had sanded before Salomon his father, whyle he yet lyued, and he sayde: What counsaile gynneth me, to answer this people agayne? And they tolde hym, sayeng: If thou be kynde to this people, and thoue thy self lowly to them, and speake lowngre wordes to them: they wyl be thy seruantes for euer. But he left the counsaile whiche the elders gaue hym, and toke counsaile with the ponge men that were growen vp with him, and that stode in his presence. And he sayd vnto them: what aduise gynneth me, that we maye answer this people, whiche haue shunned me, sayeng: abate somwhat of the poche whiche thy father vnd put vpon vs.

II. CH. 2. 23. And the ponge men that were growen vp with hym, spake vnto hym, sayeng: Thus shalt thou answer the people that spake to the, sayeng: Thy father made oure poche heuy: but make it somwhat lighter for vs. Thus shalt thou say vnto them, my lytle synger shall be heuyer then my fathers loynes. * For wher my father put a heuy poche vpon you, I wyl put more to your poche. my father chastyled you with whippes but I wyl chastise you with scorpions.

And so Ieroboam and all the people came to Rehoboam the thryde day, as the kyng had sayeng: come agayne to me the thryde daye. And the kyng answered them cruelly: & kyng Rehoboam left the counsell of the aged men, & answered them after the aduise of the ponge men sayeng: My father made your poche greuous, and I wyl adde thereto: my father chastised you with whippes, but I wyl chastise you with scorpions. And so the kyng berkened not vnto the people, but the occasion came of God that the Loide myght make good his sayeng, * whiche he spake, by the hande of Ahia the Silonite to Ieroboam & sonne of Rebat. And when all they of Israel sawe the kyng wolde not agre vnto them: the people answered the kyng, sayeng, what part haue we w Dauid, or enheritaunce w the sonne of Ihuah? let euery man of Israel go to his tent. * And now Dauid, se to thyn owne house. And so all Israel gat them to thre tentes, so that Rehoboam raygned ouer no mo of the children of Israel, the dwelt in the cities of Iuda. The kyng Rehoboam also sent Hadurā & was ruler ouer the tribute, & the chyldren of Israel stoned hym with stones & he dyed. But kyng Rehoboam made spede to get hym vnto his charet, to fye to Ierusalem. And they of Israel rebelled agaynst the house of Dauid vnto this daye.

C The .xi. Chapter.

C Ieroboam is shewen to fygge agaynst Rehoboam. He hath .xiii. wyues, and .lx. concubynes, and by them .xiii. sonnes, and .lx. daughters.

II. CH. 2. 24. Ad when Rehoboam was come to Ierusalem, & he gathered of the house of Iuda and Ben Iamin, nine scope. & chosen men of warre to fygge agaynst Israel, and to byng the kyngdome agayne to Rehoboam. And the woorde of the Loide came to Achetab the man of God, sayeng: speake vnto Rehoboam, the sonne of Salomon kyng of Iuda, & to all them of Israel that are in Iuda, and Ben Iamin, and saye: thus sayeth the Loide. Ye shall not go wpon Ihuah: for ye haue despised my wordes: returne euery man to his house for this thing is done of me. And they obeyed the wordes of the Loide, and returned to go agaynst Ieroboam.

And Rehoboam dwelt in Ierusalem, & built stronge cities in Iuda he builded vp Bethel, and and Erham, and Theho: Berhur, Socho, and Adullam: Gath, and Marsha: and Jiph Abrahim, Lachis and Aseba: zorea, Aialon and Hebron, which is in Juda and Ben Jamin, strong cities. And he repayed the stronge holdes and put captaynes in them, and store of vntaple, and wyne, and oyle. And in all cities he put shylbes and speares, and made them exceeding strong haupnge Juda and Ben Jamin on hys syde.

And the prestes & the Levites that were in all Israel, resorted vnto hym out of all theyr costes. For the Levites left theyr suburbs & theyr possessiō, and came to Juda and Ierusalem: * for Jeroboam & his sonnes had cast them out from minystrunge vnto the Lorde. * And he ordeyned hym prestes for the hyllaulers, for shewels and for the calues whiche he had made. And after the Levites there went of all the trybes of Israel, suche as submytted theyr hertes to seke the Lorde God of Israel, and came to Ierusalem to offer vnto the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And so they strengthened hys kyngdome of Juda, & made Rehoboam the sonne of Salomon myghtye, this yere long, for this yere they walked in hys waye of David and Salomon.

And Rehoboam tooke hym Babelath the daughter of Jerimoth the sonne of David to wyfe, & Abihail the daughter of Eliab the sonne of Isai, which bare hym chyldren Ieus. Samaria, and Japha. And after her he tooke * Maacha hys daughter of Absalon whiche bare hym Abia, Attai, Jiza, and Selomith. And Rehoboam loved Maacah the daughter of Absalon above all hys wyues and concubines, for he toke cyghtyne wyues, and thye scoze concubynes, and begate xxviii. sonnes, and thye scoze daughters. And Rehoboam made Abiah the sonne of Maacah the chiefe ruler among his bethzen, and to haue the ouersyght of the kyngdome. And he playde wyfely, and scattered all hys chyldren thorowout all the countreys of Juda and Ben Jamin vnto euery stronge cite. And he gaue them abundance of vitaple, and obtayned many wyues.

¶ The xlii. Chapter.

¶ Shesac kynge of Egypte tooke the temple of the Lord. Rehoboam dyeth, and Abia hys sonne succedeth hym.

¶ And it came to passe, & when Rehoboam had stablished the kyngdome and became myghtye, he forsoke the lawe of the lorde, and all Israel with him. * And it fortuned hys sonne in the xviij. yere of kyng Rehoboam, Shesac the kynge of Egypte came vpon agaynst Ierusalem, because they had transgressed agaynst hys Lord. xlii. Chapter. ¶ And the people were without nombr, & came vnto hym out of Egypte Lubim, Suchim, & the blacke moyses. And they toke strong cities in Juda, & came to Ierusalem.

¶ Then came Semela the prophet to Rehoboam & to the lordes of Juda, that were gathered together within Ierusalem for Shesac, and said vnto them: thus sayeth the Lorde, ye haue left me, and therfore haue I also left you in the handes of Shesac. Alther vpon the lordes of Israel, & the kyng humbled them selues, and sayde: the Lorde is cyghteous. And when the Lorde sawe that they submytted them selues, the word of hys Lorde came to Semela, sayeng: They submit them selues, therfore I wyll not destroye them. But I wyll deliuer them some what, and my wyathe shall not burne vpon Ierusalem by the hand of Shesac. Nevertheless, they shall be his seruauntes, to knowe what difference is betwene my scrupce, and the scrupce of the kyngedomes of the world. And so Shesac kynge of Egypte came to Ierusalem, and toke awaye the treasures of the house of the Lorde, and the treasures of the kynges house: he toke euen all. And he carped awaye the shylbes of golde, & which Salomon made. In steade of whiche, kyng Rehoboam made shylbes of byasse, and comytted them to the handes of the captaynes: whiche had the ouersyght of the four men, and that kept the entrance of hys kynges house. And it came to passe that when the kyng entred into the house of the Lorde the garde came and fet them and brought them agayne vnto the garde chabber. And when he humbled hym selfe, the wyathe of hys Lorde turned from hym, that he wolde not destroye altogether. And in Juda all was well.

¶ And so kyng Rehoboam waxed myghtye, & raygned in Ierusalem. And Rehoboam was xlii. yere olde, when he began to raygne, & raygned xlii. yeres in Ierusalem, the cytye whiche the Lorde had chosen out of all the trybes of Israel to put his name there. And hys mothers name was Raama an Ammonites. * And he dyd euell because he prepared not hys hert to seke hys Lord.

¶ The actes also of Rehoboam, fyrst and laste, are they not wyrtten in the sayenges of Semela the prophete, and of Iddo the sear, whiche noted the genealogie: and there was warre alway betwene Rehoboam and Jeroboam. And Rehoboam slepe with hys fathers, and was buryed in the cytye of David, and Abia hys sonne raygned in hys steade.

¶ The xliii. Chapter.

¶ The victory of Abia agaynst Jeroboam.

¶ In the xliii. yere of kyng Jeroboam began Abia to raygne ouer Juda and he raygned thye yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name also was Michaiab the daughter of Elriel of Gibeon. And there was warre betwene Abia & Jeroboam. And Abia made prouision for the warre, hauing valiant & experie men of warre en. lxxx. chosyn m. And Jeroboam set him self in aray to fyght agaynst hym. xliii. Chapter.

¶ yete

ppete men whych were stronge & men of armys.

And Abia stode vp vpon yemera: in an hyll, whiche is in mount Ephraim, & sayde: heare me thou Jeroboam & al Israel. Do not you knowe howe that the Lord God of Israel gaue þing dome ouer them of Israel, to Dauid for euer, euen to hym and to hys sonnes wch a salued covenant: And Jeroboam the sonne of Nebat þe seruant of Salomon the sonne of Dauid is risen vp, and hath rebelled against his Lord. And there gathered to him leude men the chyldren of Belial, & pryncypled agaynst Rehobad the sone of Salomon, wch Rehobad was ponge and tender hearted, & coude not stande before them.

And nowe þe saye, þe be able to prynciple a gaynst the kyngdome of the Lorde, whych is in the handes of þe sonnes of Dauid, & þe be a great myrtynde, & haue the golden calves & whiche Jeroboam made pou for goddes. * And haue þe not caste out the prestes of the Lorde the sonnes of Aaron, and the Leuites, and haue made pou prestes after the maner of the nacjons of other landes: so þe whosouer cometh & consecrateth hys hand wth a ponge oxe & vii. rams, & same may be a prest of them that are no goddes.

But we belonge vnto þe Lorde our god whome we haue not forsaken, & the prestes are þe sonnes of Aaron whych minystrer vnto the Lorde, and the Leuites waite vpon the office. They burne vnto the Lorde euery moynynge and eueryngne burnt sacrificies & swete incense, & we we breade set the in order vpon a pure table: & prepare the candlestyeke of golde wch the lampes of the same to burne euer at euen. And truelve we hepe the watche of the Lorde our God: but þe haue forsaken hym. And behold, God hym selfe is our cap tapne, and hys prestes blowe wynd the * trompettes, and crye alarum agaynst pou. Ope chyldren of Israel, fyghe not agaynst the Lord god of your fathers, for it wyl not prosper to pou.

But for all that, Jeroboam conueyed me presently aboute, to come behynde them: and so they were before Juda, and the lyers in waite were behynde them. And when they of Juda looked aboute, beholde the battayle was before and behynde, and they cryed vnto the Lorde, and þe prestes blew wynd the trompettes, and the men of Juda gaue a shout. And as the men of Juda shoured, it came to passe, that God smote Jeroboam and Israel before Abia & Juda. And the chyldren of Israel fled before Juda, and God de lyured them into the hande. And Abia & hys people slue a greete slaughter of them: there fell downe wounded of Israel. & c. w. chosen men. And in the chyldren of Israel were broughte vnder at that tyme: & the chyldren of Juda pryncypled: because they leaned vnto the Lorde God of they fathers. And Abia folowed after Jeroboam, and toke cities from hym, Bethel, with the towne belygging therto Iesana & the towne that lyged therto, & Ephraim & her townes. And Jeroboam recovered no city agayn in þe dayes of Abia. And the Lorde plagued hym, & he dyed.

But Abia wared myghtie, & married. xiiii. wyues, & begat. xxii. sonnes & xvi. daughters.

The rest of the actes of Abia, his customs & hys sayenges ar wyte in þe booke of þe prophet Ido.

¶ The xiii. Chapter.
Cot the booke of Ido.

S Abia slepte with hys fathers, and they buried hym in the cite of Dauid and * Abia hys sonne raygned in hys stede: In whose dayes the lande was in quyetnesse ten yere.

And * Abia dyd that was good and ryght in the eyes of the Lorde his God: for he toke away strange alters & the bilyalters, & brake downe the ymages, and cut downe the groues, and commanded Juda to seke the Lorde God of they fathers, and to do accordyng to the lawe & commandement: And he put away out of al cityes of Juda the bilyalters and the ymages, and the kyngdome was quiet before hym. And he buylt stronge Cities in Juda: because the lande was in rest, and he had no warre in those yeres. For the Lorde had gyuen hym reste.

¶ Therfore he layd to Juda: let vs buyld these Cities and make aboue them walles, towres, gates, and barres, for the lande is yet in rest before vs, because we haue sought the Lorde our God: we haue sought hym, and he hath geue vs rest on every syde: and so they buylte and it prospered wyth them. And Abia had an army of me that bare spydes and speares oute of Juda the hundred thousande: and out of Ben Jamin that bare spydes and dyne bowes, two hundred and foure scoze thousand, al these were valiant men.

And there came out agaynst them zarah, the blacke Mozyan * with an hoste of ten hundred thousand and the hundred charettes, and came as farre as Marefa. And Abia went oute before hym, and they ioynd the battayle in the valley of zephata belyde Marefa. And Abia cryed vnto the Lorde hys God, and sayde Lorde: * it is no harde thyng wyth the to helpe eþer many, or them that haue no power: helpe vs therfore, O Lorde our God, for we trust to the, & in thy name we go agaynst this multitude. Thou arte the Lorde our God, and no man shall prynciple agaynst the. So the Lorde smote þe blacke mozes before Abia and Juda, and the blacke mozes fled. And Abia and the people that was wyth hym followed after them vnto Serer. And the blacke mozes hoste was overthrowen, that there was none of them lefte, but were destroyed before þe Lorde and before his hoste. And they caried away a myghtye greete praye. And they smote al the cityes rounde about Serer. For the feare of the Lorde came vpon them. And they spoyled all the cityes, and there was exceedyng muche spoyles in them, they smote also the traires of cat tell, and caried awaye plenty of shepe and camels, and returned to Ierusalem.

¶ The xiv. Chapter.

¶ Chyrge Abia by the monnyon of the prophete Asaia carryd out to the Lorde. He begyneth hys monnyon from the monnyon.

And the spete of God came vpon Asaia: the sonne of Obed. And he wente oute to mete Abia, and sayde vnto hym: heare me Abia, and all Juda, and Ben Jamin. The Lorde

As thyth you, whyle ye be wyth hym, and when ye leue hym, he wyll be founde of you, & agayne when ye forsake hym, he also wyll forsake you. And truly for a longe season in Israel no man sought the true God, no man regarded the priest that taught them, no man cared for the lawe. And whē any man in his trouble dyd turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel, and sought hym, he was found of them. And in that tyme ther was no peace to hym, that dyd go out & in: but great sedicion was there amonge all the inhabytens of the earth. And nacion was destroyed of nacion, and cite of cite: for God dyd moue all aduersite amonge them. Plase ye therfore f men and let not your handes slacke, for your worke shall be rewarded.

And when Asa heard those wordes, and the prophesye of Azaria: the sonne of Obed the pphete, he toke courage, and put a waye the abhominable ydols oute of all the lande of Juda and Ben Jamin, & out of the ctyes which he wanne in mount Ephraim, and renued the Altare of the Lorde, that was befoze the porch of f Lord. And he gathered al Juda & Ben Jamin, and the straungers wyth them oute of Ephraim. Manasse and Simeon. For there fell many to hym out of Israel, when they saw that the Lorde his God was wyth hym. So they assembled to Jerusalem the thyrde moneth, the fyfteenth yere of the reygne of Asa. And they offered vnto f Lord f same tyme of f spoyle which they had broughte vii. hundred oxen, and vii. thousand shepe.

And they made a couenaunt to seke f Lorde God of they fathers, wyth all they herte, and all they soule. And who so euer wolde not seke the Lorde God of Israel, shulde dye for it: whe ther he were small or great, man or womā. And they sware vnto the Lorde wyth a loude voyce shouting and blowing wyth trompettes and shawmes. And all they in Juda reioyced at the othe, for they had sworne vnto the Lorde wyth all they herte, and soughte hym wyth all they lust, and he was founde of them. And the Lorde gaue them rest rounde about on euery syde.

And kyng Asa put Maacha his mother out of auctoryte, because she had made an abhominable ydoll: (as wharpos) in a groue: & Asa brake downe der ydoll, & stamped it, & burnte it at the byoke Cedron. But all the hyllanters were not taken awaye out of Israel: though the hert of Asa was perfyte all his dayes. And he brought into the house of God the thynges that his father had dedycate, & that he hym selfe had dedycate: euen syluer, and golde, and Jewelles. And there was no moze warre vnto the .xxxv. yere of the reygne of Asa.

The .xvi. Chapter.

Asa the sonne of Baasa kyng of Israel, maketh a couenaunt wyth Benhadad kyng of Syria.

In the .xxxvi. yere of f reygne of Asa came Baasa kyng of Israel vpon agaynst Juda, & buyt Rama to then tent f he wolde let none passe oute of it: so Asa kyng of Juda. And Asa let out golde and syluer, oute of the treasures of the house of f Lord, & of the hyngers house & sent to Benhadad kyng of Syria f dwelle at Hama, & sayde: There is a confederacion betwene me & the, betwene my father & thyne. Beholde, I haue sent the syluer & gold, that f wyle come & breake thine appoyntment wyth Baasa kyng of Israel f he maye departe fro me. And Benhadad graunted vnto kyng Asa, & sent to the captaynes of his army to the ctyes of Israel. And they smote Iion, Don, & Abelmain, and the strong ctyes of Rephehal. And whē Baasa heard this, he lefte buyldynge of Rama, and let his worke cease. And then Asa f kyng toke all Juda, & carped away the stones & tymber of Rama wher wyth Baasa was a buylding and he buylt therwyth Seba and Mizpa.

At that same tyme Hanani the sear came to Asa kyng of Juda: & sayd vnto hym: because f hast trusted in the kyng of Syria, & not rather put thy trust in the Lorde thy God, therfore is f holte of the kyng of Syria escaped out of thine hāde. * had not the blacke Voyes, & Lubim an exradynge greute holte wyth many charettes and horsemē: And yet because f trustedest in the Lorde, he deliuered them into thyn hande. For the eyes of the Lorde beholde all f earth to strength them f are of perfyte herte toward him. * herin thou hast done foolishlye, & therfore shouldest thou shalt haue warre. And Asa was wroth wyth f sear, & put hym into a pryso house for he was dyspleased w hym, because of thys thyng. And Asa destroyed certayn of f people the same reason. And behold, these dedes of Asa first and last, are wyrtten in the boke of the hynges of Juda and Israel. And Asa in the .xxxix. yere of his reygne fell syche in his fete, and that bysease conyned verpe longe. And in thys sykness, he soughte not the Lorde, but physicions. And Asa slept wyth his fathers, and died in f .xli. yere of his reygne. And they buried him in his owne sepulchre, whiche he had made for hym selfe in the Cite of Dauid, and lapde hym in the bed which he had fylled wyth dyuers kindes of spices & swete odoures, made by f cratte of the potecaryes. And they burnte verp moche spycer aboute hym.

The .xvii. Chapter.

Jeholaphat causeth the feare of the Lorde to be knowne amonge the people.

As Jeholaphat his sonne reygned in his stead, and preuailed agaynst Israel. And he put souldiers in al f strong ctyes of Juda, and set rulers in the lande of Juda & in f ctyes of Ephraim, which Asa his father had wonne. And f Lord was wyth Jeholaphat, because he walked in the olde wayes of his father Dauid, and soughte not Baalim. But soughte f Lorde God of his father, and walked in his commandmentes, and not after the doinges of Israel. And the Lorde stablyshed the kyngdome in his hande, & all they that were in Juda, broughte hym presents, so that he had aboundaunce of ryche and honoure. And he lyft vp his hert vnto f wayes of the Lorde, & he put downe yet moze of the hyllanters.

ambassadors and groined oute of Iuda.

In the thirde yere of his reygne he sent to his lordes, euen to Benhai, Obadiah, zacharia, Achabiel, and to Michaahu, that they shoulde teache in the cities of Iuda, and wryth them he sent Leuites: euen Semetiah, Achabiah, zabadihu, Ithiel, Semiramoth, Jedonathan, Adoniah, Tobiah, & Tubadonia, and wryth them Elisamah and Jehozababed. And they taught in Iuda, and had the booke of the lawe of God with them, and went about thowout al the cities of Iuda, and taught the people.

And the feare of the Lorde fell vpon all the kyngdomes of the landes that were rounde aboute Iuda, & they fought not agaynst Jeholaphat, & some of the Philistines brought Jeholaphat gyftes & tribute silver. And thereto the Arabians brought hym camel: euen. vii. C. & vii. C. rams & vii. C. & vii. C. hegores. And so Jeholaphat prospered & grew vpon an hye. And he dwelt in Iuda, castles & stronge cities, & he had grate substaunce in the cities of Iuda, but the men of armes and strongest souldyers were in Ierusalem.

And these are the officers of the in the houses of they fathers, the captayns ouer thousandes in Iuda. Adna the captayne, and wryth hym of syghing men. iii. C. & vii. C. And nexte to his hande was Jehobananah a captayne, & wryth hym. ii. C. & lxxx. & vii. C. And next hym was Amasia son of ichi, which of his owne good wyl offered hym selfe vnto the Lorde & wryth hym. ii. C. & vii. C. myghty men of warre. And of the chyldren of Ben-Jamin, Eliada a man of myght, and had wryth hym armed men wryth bowe & spyde. ii. C. & vii. C. And nexte hym was Jeholabad, & wryth him an C. lxxx. & vii. C. & were prepared for the war. These wayted on the kyng, besydes those which the kyng put in strong cities thowout al Iuda.

The xviii. Chapter.

Chap. xviii. Ahab had a chylde called Abimelech, which was a chylde of an adulter.

And Jeholaphat had aboundaunce of ryches and honoure, & turned as synne with Ahab. And after certayne yeres he wote downe to Ahab to Samaria. And Ahab slue many there & oren for him, and for the people that he had wryth hym, and entreated him to go vpon him vnto Ramoth in Gilead. And Ahab kyng of Israel sayd to Jeholaphat kyng of Iuda: wylt thou go wryth me to Ramoth in Gilead? And he answered hym: I wyl be as thou & my people shall be as thyne, and we wyl go wryth the to the warre.

And Jeholaphat sayde vnto the kyng of Israel: as the counsell I pray the at the word of the Lorde the same daye. Therefore the kynges of Israel gathered together of prophetes. iii. C. men, & sayd vnto them, Shall we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fight, or shalbe Ierusalem? And they sayd go vpon, & God shall deliuer it into the handes of whome he wyl. But Jeholaphat sayde, is there yet here neuer a prophete more of the Lorde that we myghte aske of hym? And the kyng of Israel sayd vnto Jeholaphat: there is yet one man, by whom we maye aske the Lorde. But I hate him for he neuer wordedeth me good, but alwaye euell, & the same is Micah the sonne of Jimia, and Jeholaphat sayde: let not the kyng saye so.

And the kyng of Israel called one of his chylde berlayus, & sayde fetch he thither quickly Micah the sonne of Jimia. And the kynges of Israel, & Jeholaphat kynges of Iuda sate cyther of them on hye seats in theyr apparell, in a thershyng house besyde the gate of Samaria, and all the prophetes propheted before them. And one Jechia the sonne of Chanana had made hym a bowe of yron, and sayde: thus sayeth the Lorde, whiche shalt thou ouerthrowe Syria, vntyl they be brought to nought. And all the prophetes propheted euen so, sayenge: Go vpon Ramoth in Gilead, and it shall prosper wryth the: for the Lorde shall deliuer it into the handes of the kyng.

And a messenger went to cal Micah spake to hym, sayenge: behold, the wordes of the prophetes speake good to the kynges wryth one assent let the wordes therfore be lyne one of theyr, & thou speake that which is pleasaunt. And Micah sayde: as truly as the Lorde lyeth, cut what my God faith I wyl I speake. And wher he was come to the kynges, the kynges sayde vnto hym: Micah, shall we go to Ramoth in Gilead to fight, or leaue of? And he sayde: go vpon, & al shall be well: and they shall be deliuered into your handes. And the kynges sayde to hym: So and so many tymes do I charge the, that thou say nothing but the truth to me: in the name of the Lorde.

Then he sayde: I byd all them of Israel scattered in the mountayns, as theye have no shepheard. And the Lorde sayd: these haue no matter let them retorne euery man therfore to his house in peace. And the kyng of Israel sayde to Jeholaphat: byd I not tell the, & he wold not prophete good vnto me: but euell. But he sayd agayne therfore heare ye the wordes of the Lorde. & I saw the Lorde sate vpon hye seat, & al the company of heauen stode on hye seate hande & on hye left. And the Lorde sayde: who shall decaue Ahab kyng of Israel: & he maye go vpon & be ouerthrowen at Ramoth in Gilead. And he said: one sayeth the, another sayeth. And here came out a spytte & stode before the Lorde, & sayd: I wil decaue him. And the Lorde sayde vnto hym: Wherfore? And he sayde: I wyl go out, and be a lyeng spytte in the mouth of all his prophetes. And the Lorde sayde: thou shalt decaue hym: & shalt prynciple go out and do euen so. And now therfore behold, & the Lorde hath put a lyenge spytte in the mouthes of all these thy prophetes, & the Lorde hath spoken euell agaynst the. And Jechia the sonne of Chanana went to, & smote Micah vpon the cheke: & sayd, by what way wentest thou of the Lorde to me, to speake thus? And Micah said: I wyl se the daye when I shall go in from chylde to chylde, for I fynde the lyse. And the kynges of Israel sayd: take ye Micah, & byng hym to Amos the gouernour of the cite & to Joas & bynges him and ye shall saye, thus sayeth the Lorde, put this felowe in the prison house, & feede hym wryth bread of affliction & water of trouble vntyl I come & gaue in peace. And Micah sayd: & I come & gaue in gaine in pence, then hath not the Lorde spoken to me. And he sayd berke to pe people eury one of you. And so the kynge of Israel and Jehosaphat the kynge of Juda went up to Ramoth in Gilead. And the kynge of Israel sayde vnto Jehosaphat: I must change me, when I go to the batayle: but se that thou haue thine owne apparell vpon the. And the kynge of Israel chaunged hym selfe, and they came to batayl. But the king of Siria had commaunded the captaynes of the charretts to were with him, sayinge: se ye syght not agaynst small or great, saue agaynst the kynge of Israel onely. And when the captaynes of the charretts sawe Jehosaphat, they sayde: it is the kynge of Israel, & therefore they copassed about hym to syght. But Jehosaphat cryed out, & the Lorde helped him, & God chased them away fro hym. For it came to passe when the captaynes of the charretts perceyued that it was not the kynge of Israel, they turned backe agayne from hym. And a certayne man dyde a bowe with al his myght, & smote the kynge of Israel betwene the shoulteres, & he sayd to his charretman, turne thine hande, that thou mayest carrye me out of the fild, for I am wounded. And the batayle ceased that daye. Howbeit the kynge of Israel caused the charretts to stande still agaynst the Syrians vntyll euen. And about the tyme of the sunne goyng downe, he dyed.

The. xix. Chapter.

After Jehosaphat was rebuked by the prophet Jehu, he called againe the people to the house of the Lorde.

And Jehosaphat the king of Juda came home agayne in pence to Ierusalem. And Jehu the son of Hanani the sear went out to mete him, & sayd to king Jehosaphat: Woldest thou helpe the vngodly, & lone them that hate the Lorde: & therefore is wrath come vpon the from before the Lorde. Neuer theles, there are some good actes found in the, in that thou hast bene downe & groues out of the lande and hast prepared thine heart to seeke god. And so Jehosaphat dwelt at Ierusalem: and turned and went out to the people from Beerseba to mount Ephraim, and brought them agayne vnto the Lorde God of the fathers. And he set Judges in the land thowout al the strong cities of Juda, citie by citie: & sayde to the Judges: take hede what ye do, for ye execute not the iudgements of man, but of God, whiche is with you in the iudgement. Wherfore now, let the feare of the Lorde be vpon you and take hede, and be doynge the thing that pleaseth hym: for there is no vngodly counsel with the Lorde our God: that he should haue any respecte of persones, or take rewardes.

Whereouer in Ierusalem dyd Jehosaphat set of the Leuites, & of the prestes & of the auncient fathers ouer Israel, in the iudgement & cause of the Lorde. And they returned agayne to Ierusalem. And he charged them sayinge: Thus shal ye do in the feare of the Lorde, in the truth and in pure herte: What cause so euer come to you of your brethren that dwell in the cities, betwene blood & blood, betwene lawe & commaundment, betwene statutes & ordinaunces, ye shal warn them that they trespasse not agaynst the Lorde, & so wrath come vpon you & on your brethren. Thus do ye shall not offende. And behold, Amarias the prest is amonge you in al matters of the Lorde. & Jechabias the son of Ithiel, a ruler of the house of Juda, he is ouer such busynesses as concerne the kynge: there be officers of the Leuites also before you. Take courage to you therefore, & be doynge manfully: & the Lorde shalbe with such as be good.

The. xx. Chapter.

The mercurious victory that the Lorde gaue Jehosaphat kynge of Juda agaynst the Ammonites, and the chyliden of Ammon, and them of Seir.

After this also, it fortuned that the chyliden of Moab & the chyliden of Ammon and with them other of the Ammonites came agaynst Jehosaphat to battayle. And there came some that tolde Jehosaphat sayinge: there cometh a great multitude agaynst the from the other syde of the sea, & out of Siria. And behold they be in the passon Thamar, which is engadi. And Jehosaphat feared: and set hym selfe to seeke the Lorde and proclaimed fastynge thowout all Juda. And they that were in Juda, gathered the selfes together to aske counsell of the Lorde. And they came out of al the cities of Juda to make intercession to the Lorde. And Jehosaphat stode betwene the congregacion of Juda and Ierusalem in the house of the Lorde before the new court. & sayd. O Lorde God of our fathers, art not thou God in heauyn, & rapnest not thou on al the kynngdomes of the earth: And in thine hande is power & myghte, & there is no man that is able to withstande the. Art not thou our God, which dydest cast out the inhabitants of this lande before thy people Israel, & gauest it to the sede of Abrahams thy louer for euer: And they dwelt therein, & haue dwelt in a temple therein for thy name, sayinge: * If euill come vpon vs, as if swerde of iudgement, or pestilence, or hunger, the if we stand before this house in thy presence, for thy name is in this house, & cry vnto the in our tribulacion, heare thou and helpe.

And now beholde, the chyliden of Ammon & Moab, & mount Seir, by whom I woldest not let them of Israel go, wher they came out of the lande of Egypt: but they departed from them, & destroyed them not. Se, how they rewarde vs, to come for to cast vs out of thy possessiō, which thou hast geuen vs to inheret. O our God wilt thou not iudge them: for we haue no myghte agaynst this great company that cometh agaynst vs. Neither woe we what to do: but our eyes be vnto the. And al Juda stode before the Lorde with theyr yonger ones, theyr wyues, & theyr chyliden: and there was Jehasiel the sonne of Zacharia the sonne of Banaias the sonne of Jehiel the sonne of Gathania, a Leuite of the sones of Asaph, and vpon hym came the sperte of the Lorde, euen in the myddes of the congregacion. And he sayd berken al Juda, & ye inhabitants of Ierusalem, and thou kynge Jehosaphat: Thus sayeth the Lorde vnto you: be not afrayde, nor saynte herted by reason of this great multitude: for the battayle is not yours, but Goddes. To morowe go ye downe agaynst them for they come vpon at this tyme.

pe shall fynde them at the ende of þe broke before the wyldernesse of Ieruel. þe shall not nere to fynde in this battayle: but they forsook and stand and beholde the helpe of the Lord which is with you: feare not. nor let your heartes faile you. O pe of Iuda and of Ierusalem. To morowe goo out agaynst them. for þe Lord wilbe with you. And Jehosaphat bowed his face to the earth: and al Iuda and the inhabitants of Ierusalem fel be fore the Lord. worshyping the Lord. And the Lewites of the chyldren of the Capathites & of the chyldren of the Corathites stode vp, to prayse the Lord God of Israel: with a loude voyce on hye. And when they arose early in the mornynge, they gat them out vnto the wyldernesse of Thekoa. And as they went oute, Jehosaphat stode & sayd: heare me, O Iuda, & ye inhabitants of Ierusalem. Put your trust in þe Lord your God, that ye maye be founde sayth full. Geue credence to his prophetes, and so shall ye prospere. And he gaue the people councel, and let some to synge vnto the Lord, & to prayse hym in the bewyche of holynes, and to go out before þe armie, as they went, and to saye, prayse þe Lord for his mercye lasteth euer. And what tyme as they began to laude and prayse, then the Lord stered vp certayne of the chyldren of Ammon & Moab, whych layde wayte for them that were of mount Seir: which were come agaynst Iuda. And they were ouerthrowen with strokes among them selues. For the chyldren of Ammon and Moab rose agaynst the inhabitants of mount Seir. And they slewe and destroyed them: And when they had made an ende of the inhabitants of Seir, euerye one helped to destroye an other amonge them selues.

And when Iuda came to the edge of the wyldernesse, they looked vnto the multitude. And behold, they were dead carcases fallen to þe earth, and none escaped, and wher Jehosaphat and his people came to take awaye the spoyles of them: they found amonge them aboundance of goodes, rayment & pleasant Jewels, whych they toke for themselves, more then they coulde carry awaye: so that they were thre dayes in gatheringe of the spoyles, it was so moche. And the fourth daye they assembled in the valley of blesynge, for there they blessed the Lord. And therfore they called the name of the same place, the valley of blesynge vnto this daye. And so all the men of Iuda and Ierusalem returned with Jehosaphat they heeb, for to go agayne to Ierusalem with gladnesse, for the Lord had made them to reioyce ouer they enemyes. And they came to Ierusalem with psalteries, and harpes and shawmes, euen vnto the house of the Lord. And the feare of God fel in the kyngdoms of all landes, when they hadde heard that the Lord fought agaynst the enemyes of Israel. And so the realm of Jehosaphat was in tranquyltye: and his God gaue hym rest on euery syde.

And Jehosaphat raygned vpon Iuda, and was, xxxv. yere olde when he began to raygne and raygned, xxv. yere in Ierusalem, and his mothers name was Absa the daughter of Sil

hi. And he walked in the wayes of Asa his father, & bowed not ther from, doynge that whych was right in the syght of the Lord. Howbeit the bylanters were not taken awaye, for þe people had not yet prepared theyr bettes vnto the God of theyr fathers. The rest of factes of Jehosaphat first & last beholde they are wyrtte amonge the sayenges of Iehu þe sonne of Hanani which noted the in þe booke of þe kynges of Israel.

After this dyd Jehosaphat kyng of Iuda ioyne hym selfe with Ahaziah kyng of Israel whose mynde was to do wychedly. he coupled hym selfe with hym, to make shippes to go to Charis. And they made the shippes in Ezion Gaber. And Eliezer the sonne of Dodanah of Marcia prophesied agaynst Jehosaphat, sayenge: because thou haste ioynd thy selfe with Ahaziah, the Lord hath broken thy workes. And the shippes were broken, that they were not able to go to Charis.

The. xxi. Chapter.

Jehosaphat dyeth, and Jehoram succedeth hym, whiche killeth his brethren, and is oppressed of the Iudhees, and heeth of the Tyres.

Jehosaphat also slepte wth his fathers and was buryed with his fathers in þe cite of David, and Jehoram his sone raygned in his steade, & he had byrth whiche were þe sones of Jehosaphat, Azaria, Jehiel, zacharia, Alaria, Michael, & Serphatiabu. All these were the sones of Jehosaphat kyng of Iuda. And theyr father gaue them many great gystes of gold & syluer & other special subtilties with stronge cyties in Iuda: but the kyngdom gaue he to Jehoram, for he was the eldest. And Jehoram rose vp agaynst the kyngdome of his father, and preyed, and due all his byrth wth the swearde, & dynerle of the Lordes of Israel. Jehoram was, xxxii. yere olde when he began to raygne, & he raygned, viii. yere in Ierusalem. And he walked in the wayes of þe kynges of Israel, lyke as dyd the house of Ahab, for he had þe daughter of Ahab to wyfe, & he wrought euil in the eyes of the Lord. Howbeit, þe Lord wolde not destroye the house of David, because of the couenaunte that he had made with David, as he promysed to geue a lyght to hym, and to his sones for euer. In his dayes þe Edomites rebelled wher they were vnder þe dominion of Iuda, & made them selues a kyng. And Jehoram went forth wth his Lordes, & all his charets were with hym: & he rose vp by nyght, & smote þe Edomites, whiche chasled him in, & the captayns of the charets. But Edom rebelled styll, for they wolde not be vnder þe hande of Iuda vnto this daye. That same tyme also dyd Libna departe fro beyng vnder his hande because Jehoram had forsaken þe Lord God of his fathers. Wherefore he made bylanters in þe cities of Iuda, & caused þe inhabitants of Ierusalem to chynge fornicatio, & prouoked Iuda to Idolatre. And there came a wyrtynge to hym from Elia þe prophete sayeng Thus saith þe Lord god of David thy father because þe hast not walked in þe wayes of Jehosaphat thy father, & in þe wayes of Asa hig of Iuda, but walkedst in þe wayes of þe kynges of Israel, & hast made Iuda and the dwellers of Ierusalem to go a whoring, lyke to the whoredome of the house of Ihab, and hast slayne the byetymen, even the fathers house, whiche were better then thou: behold, with a great plague wyll the Lozde smyte the folke, the chylde, the wyues, & the goodes. And thou shalt suffre great payne: cut a disease of thy bowels vntyl thy guttes fall out by reason of thy synfull daye by daye.

And so the Lozde stered vpagaynst Jehozab the wyf of the whilistines, and the Arabians: were despyde the blake mores. And they came vpon Iuda, and wasted it, and caried awaye all the substance that was founde in the kynges house, and his sonnes, & his wyues: so that there was neuer a sonne left hym save Jehohab, whiche was the yongest amonge his sonnes. And after all these thynges, the Lozde smote hym in his bowels with an incurable disease. And it came to passe, that in processe of tyme, cut after the ende of two yeres, his guttes fell out in his synnes: & so he dyed of very cruell diseases. And they made no burning for him lyke the burninge of his fathers. When he beganne to raygne, he was xxii. yere olde, and raygned in Ierusalem viii. yere, and lyued wretchedly, howbeit, they buried hym in the sepulchre of Dauid, but not amonge the sepulchres of the kynges.

The xxii. Chapter.

Abaziah raygneth in the house of Iehozab. Jehu kyng of Israel killeth Abaziah. Athalia purrers to deathe all the kynges lynges: Iudas escapeth.

And the inhabytens of Ierusalem made Abaziah his yongest son king in his stede. For the men of warre that came w the host of the Arabians, had slaine al his eldest sonnes. And so Abaziah the sonne of Jehozab kyng of Iuda was made kyng. Two and fouertye yere olde was he when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned one yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name was Athalia the daughter of Amri. And he walked also in the wayes of the house of Ihab, for his mother, by her counsel, entyled hym to do wickedly. Wherefore he dyd the which was cruell in the syght of the Lozde, as dyd they that were of the house of Ihab: for they were his counsellers after the deathe of his father, to his destruction.

And he walked after theyr counsel, and went with Jehozab the sonne of Ihab kyng of Israel to fight agaynst Hazabel kyng of Siria at Ramoth in Gilead: and the Siria smote Ioram. And he returned to be healed in Jezrael, of the woundes which were gyuen him at Rama, when he fought wyth Hazabel kyng of Siria. And Abaziah the sonne of Jehozab kyng of Iuda wente downe to se Jehozab the sonne of Ihab at Jezrael, because he was diseased. And it cam of God, that Abaziah shuld be despyed for his commynge to Jehozab: for when he was come, he went out wyth Jehozab agaynst Jehu the sonne of Ami, whom the Lozde had anoynted to destroye the house of Ihab.

And so he came to passe that when Jehu was executing iustice vpon the house of Ihab & had slaine the lozdes of Iuda and the sonnes of the byetymen of Abaziah & wayted on Abaziah, he slue them. And he sought Abaziah, & they caught hym where he was hyd in Samaria, & brought hym to Jehu. And wher they had slayne him, they buried hym: because sayde they, he is the son of Jeholaphat, whiche sought the Lozde wyth all hys herte. And the house of Abaziah had no power to hepe vntill the kyngdome.

But when Athalia the mother of Abaziah sawe that her sonne was deed, she arose & destroyed all the kynges seed in the kyntes of the house of Iuda. And Jeholabeth the daughter of the kyng toke Joas the sonne of Abaziah, and stole him from amonge the kynges sonnes that were slayne, and put him and his nurse in a pappes chambze. And so Jeholabeth the daughter of king Jehozab the wyf of Jehoiada the prest and the syster of Abaziah hyd him from Athalia that he was not slayne. And so he was w them hydde in the house of God syx yere. And Athalia raygned ouer the lande.

The xxiii. Chapter.

Joas the sonne of Abaziah is made kyng. Athalia is put to deathe.

And in the seventh yere, Jehoiada the bringer holde, toke the captaynes of hundredes, Abaziah the sonne of Jehozab, and Ismael the sonne of Jehobanan, Azariah the sonne of Obed, Maathab the sonne of Abaziah, & Elizaphat the sonne of Ichai, and made a bonde w them. And they went about in Iuda, and gathered the Levites out of al the cyties of Iuda, and the auncient fathers of Israel: and they came to Ierusalem. And all the congregacion made a bonde wyth the kyng in the house of God. And he sayde vnto them: behold, the kynges sonne muste raygne: as the Lozde hath sayde of the chyliden of Dauid.

This is it therefore that ye shal do. The thirde parte of you shal (on the Sabboth) come to the prestes, Levites, and keepers of the porches. And an other thirde parte shalbe in the kynges house, and an other thirde parte shalbe at the gate of the foundation, and all the people shal be in the court of the house of the Lozde. But there shal none come into the house of the Lozde, save the prestes, and they that mynistre vnto the Levites. They shal go in, for they are holy: but all the people shal kepe the watch of the Lozde. And the Levites shal compass the kyng rounde about, and euery man shal haue his weapon in hys hande, and what other man so euer doeth come into the house of the Lozde, he shalbe slayne, and let them be wyth the kyng, when he cometh in, and when he goeth out.

And the Levites and al Iuda dyd accordyng to al thinges that Jehoiada the prest had commaunded, and toke euery man his men that came on the Sabboth, wyth them that went oute on the Sabboth daye, neyther dyde Jehoiada the prest let the companyes departe. And Jehoiada the prest delyuered to the captaynes of hundredes, speeres, shyldes, and bucklers that had pertayned to kyngs Dauid, & were in the house of God. And he set all the people every man having his weapon in his hand, to the left side of the temple, to the left side of the temple alonge by the altar & the temple rounde about the kynge.

And they brought out the kynge's son, and put upon him the crowne, and the testimonye, and made him kynge. And Jehoiada & his son-nes anointed him, & sayd: God save the kynge.

(and they gave him in his hand, the latter that was to be kept)

When Athaliah heard the noise of people running and praying the kynge, she came to the people into the house of the Lorde. And she looked, and behold, the kynge stood in his place at the entering in, and the lordes and the trepettes were by the kynge, & all the people of the lande reioyced, blowing with trepettes, & dyd playe with instruments of musyke, & taught to synge and prayse. But Athaliah rente her clothes, & sayd: treason, treason. And Jehoiada the priest went out to the captaynes of hundreds that were gouveneres of the host, & sayd vnto them: haue her out withoute the doore of the temple: and whoso foloweth her, let him be slayne with the swerde. For the priest sayd that they shoulde not slay her in the house of the Lorde. And they laid handes on her, til she was come to the entering of the house gate, besyde the kynge's house and there they slue her.

non. reg. 11. 1

* And Jehoiada made a bonde betwene him and all the people, and the kynge, that they shoulde be the Lorde's people. And all the people went to the house of Baal, and destroyed it, & brake his alters and his ymages, and slue Mathan the priest of Baal, before the alters. And Jehoiada put the officers for the house of the Lorde, under the handes of the priestes and Leuites, * as Da-uid had distributed them in the house of the Lorde, to offere burnt offrynges vnto the Lorde, * as it is wyrtten in the lawe of Moyses, with reioy-syng and synnyng, as it was ordeyned by Da-uid. And he set potters by the gates of the house of the Lorde, that none which was vncleane in any thyng, shoulde entre in.

And he toke the captaynes of hundreds, and all the nobles, and the gouernours of the people & all the folke of the lande, and caused the kynge to come downe out of the house of the Lorde, and they came thowte the hys gate into the kynge's house, & set the kynge vpon the seate of the kynge-dome. And all the people of the lande reioyced, & the cyte was in tranquillite, after that they had slayne Athaliah with the swerde.

THE xxiii. Chapter.

Thus buryng the lyfe of Jehoiada hereth the latter, but after his death he ordeyneth it not. He helieth zacharia the prophet. Joas is killed at his owne request: after him reygnyth Amaziah.

iii. reg. 11. 1

Joas was seven yere olde when he began to reygne, & he reygned four tye yere in Ierusalem. His mothers name also was Ioba of Beer Seba.
And Joas did that which was right in the sight of the Lorde, all the dayes of Jehoiada the priest. And Jehoiada toke hym two wy-ues, and he begat sonnes and daughters.

And it chaunced after this, that Joas was imposed to reigne in the house of the Lorde, and he gathered togethe the priestes and the Leuites and sayd to them: go out vnto the cyties of Juda, and gather of all Israel money to repayre the house of your God, from yere to yere, & let that be halfe the thyng: howbeit the Leuites were slacke. And the kynge called Jehoiada, & was the chiefe, and sayde vnto him: why requyrest thou not of the Leuites to byng in out of Juda & Ierusalem, the collection of monye, accordyng to the commaundment of Moyses the seruant of the Lorde: and the congregacion of Israel shoulde offre it for the tabernacle of wytnesse, for wy-ked Athaliah and her chyldren brake vp the house of God, and all the thynges that were dedicate for the house of the Lorde, dydde they bestowe for Baalim.

And at the kynge's commaundment * they made a chest, & set it withoute at the gate of the house of the Lorde: & made proclamation thowte Juda and Ierusalem, to byng into the Lorde the taxacion of money, that Moyses the seruant of God set vpon Israel in the wyldernes. And the lordes and all the people reioyced, & brought in, & cast into the chest, vntill it was full. And it fortuned, that at the same tyme they brought in the chest vnto them which were in the kynge's bu-synes, by the hande of the Leuites. And whē they sawe that there was moche money, the kynge's scribes & one appoynted by the hys priest, came and emptyed the chest, and toke it, and caried it to his place agayne: thus they dyd day by day, and gathered moche moneye.

And the kynge and Jehoiada gaue it to such as dyd the labour and worke in the house of the Lorde, and byed masons and carpenters to repayre the house of the Lorde, and so dyd the ar-tisyces in yron and bras, to amende the house of the Lorde. And so the workemen wrought, and the worke amended thowte they handes:
and they made the house of God as it ought to be, and strenghted it. And when they had synp-led it, they brought the rest of the moneye before the kynge and Jehoiada, and there wyth were made vesselles for the house of the Lorde: euen vesselles to mynister withall, & to serue for burnt offrynges, chargers & spones, vesselles of golde, and syluer. And they offered burnt offrynges in the house of the Lorde continually all the dayes of Jehoiada: But Jehoiada wated olde, & dyed full of dayes. For an hundred and thirtie yere olde was he whē he dyed. And they buryed hym in the cytie of Dauid amonge the kynge's, because he dealt well with Israel, and wyth God and with his house. And after the death of Jehoiada, came the lordes of Juda, and made obey-saunce to the kynge. And the kynge dearkened vnto them. And so they left the house of the Lorde God of their fathers, and serued groues and y-dolles. And then came the wrath of God vpon Juda and Ierusalem, for this they trespassed lake. And he sent prophetes to them, to byng them agayne vnto the Lorde. And they testified vnto them: But they wolde not heare.

And the spyrite of God came vpon zacharia ria the sonne of Jehoiada the prest, which stode by the people, and sayd vnto them. Thus sayeth God: why transgresse ye the commandmentes of the Lorde, that ye can not prospere? For because ye haue forsake the Lorde, he also hath forsaken you. * And they conspyred agaynst him and stoned him with stones at the commaundement of the kyng: euen in the court of the house of the Lorde. And so Joas the kyng remembred not the kynnesse whiche Jehoiada hys father had done to hym, but slue hys sonne.

6 And when he dyed, he sayde: the Lorde loke vpon it, and requyre it. And when the pere was out, it fortuned that the host of Siria came vpon agaynst him, and they came agaynst Juda and Jerusalem, and destroyed all the lordes of the people from amonge the people, and sent all the people from vnto the kyng of Damasco, for the Sirians came with a smal company of me. and the Lorde deliuered a very great host into thei hande, because they had forsaken the Lorde God of thei fathers. And moreover, they serued Joas accordyng to hys dedes.

And when they were departed fro hym, they left hym in grete diseases, and * his owne seruantes conspyred agaynst hym for the bloode of the chyldren of Jehoiada the prest, & slue hym on his bed, & he dyed, and they buried him in the citty of Dauid: but not in the sepulchres of the kynges. And these are they that conspyred agaynst him: sebad the sonne of Simeathan Ammonite and Jehosabad the sonne of Simrich, a Moabite, and his sonnes. And the summe of the race that was rayed in his tyme, and there rayyng of the house of God: behold, they are wyrtten in the booke of the boke of the kynges. And Amaziah hys sonne raygned in his stede.

The xxv. Chapter.

Amaziah ouercometh the Edomites. And Joas kyng of Israel ouercometh Amaziah.

3 Amaziah was xxv. yere olde, when he began to raygne, and he raygned xxv. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name was Jehoadan of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which is right in the syght of the Lorde, but not with a party bert. And as sone as he was satled in the kyngdome, he slue his seruantes, that had kyled the kyng his father. But he slue not thei chyldren because it is wyrtten thus in the lawe and booke of Moses, where the Lorde comaunded, sayinge: the fathers shall not dye for thei chyldren, neyther shall thei chyldren dye for thei fathers, but every man shall dye for hys owne synne.

4 And Amaziah gathered Juda together, and made them capaynes ouer thousandes, & ouer hundredes, accordyng to the houses of thei fathers, thowout all Juda and Ben Jamin. And he nombred them from twenty yere olde & aboue, and founde amonge them, the hundred thousand chosen men, able to go to battayle, and that coulde handle speare and shylde. He byed also an hundred thousande syght pence stronge men out of Israel, for an hundred talentes of syluer. And there came a man of God to hym, and sayd: O hyngre let not the armye of Israel come with the: for the Lorde is not w Israel, neyther with all the house of Ephraim. But if thou wilt nedes be saythlesse, come on, & take the battayle in hande, and God shall make the fail before the enemye. For God hath power to helpe, and to cast downe. And Amaziah sayde to the man of God: what shall we do then for the hundred talentes whiche I haue gyuen for the host of Israel. The man of God answered: the Lorde is able to gyue the moche more then they be.

And Amaziah leuured them to farmy that was come to hym out of Ephraim, to go home agayne. Wherefore they were extordyng with Juda, and returned home in grete anger. And Amaziah toke bert, & carped out his people, and went to the salt valley, and smote of the chyldren of Seir: ten thousande. And other ten thousand dyd the chyldren of Juda take aloue, and carped them vnto the toppe of a rocke, and cast them downe from the top of the rocke, that they all to burst: but the souldyers of the armye whiche Amaziah sent awaye, that they shoulde not go with his people to battayle, fel vpon the ctyes of Juda from Samaria vnto Berchoz and smot. iii. of them: and toke moch spoye.

And it chaunced, after that Amaziah was come from the slaughter of the Edomites, he brought the goddes of the chyldren of Seir, and set them vnto be his goddes, & bowed himself before them: and burned incense vnto them. Wherefore the Lorde was wroth with Amaziah, and sent vnto hym a prophete, wyche sayde vnto him: why hast thou sought for goddes of the people, whiche were not able to deliuer thei owne people out of thy hande? And it chaunced that as the prophete talked with hym, the kyng sayde vnto hym: haue men made the of the kynges counsaile/ cease, why wilt thou be beaten? And the prophete ceased, and sayde: I am sure the Lorde is mynded to destroy the, because thou hast done this, and agreest not vnto my counsaile.

5 Then Amaziah kyng of Juda toke aduys, and sent to Joas sonne of Jehoabam the sonne of Jehu kyng of Israel, and sayde: come that we maye se eyther other. And Joas kyng of Israel sent to Amaziah kyng of Juda, sayinge: a thyfste that is in Liban sent to a Cedar tree of Libanon, sayinge: * gyue thy daughter to my sonne to wyfe. And there came a wilde beaste of Libanon, and trode downe the thyfste.

6 Thou sayest that thou hast beaten the Edomites, and thynest that thou hast made the proude to glory thy selfe. Now therefore byde at home: wpy doest thou prouoke vnto euyl, that thou mayest perishe, both thou and Juda with the.

7 But Amaziah wolde not hearken to hym: for it came of God, euen to deliuer them into the hande of their enemyes, because they sought counsaile at the goddes of Edom. And so Joas the kyng of Israel came by: and they sawe eyther other, both he and Amaziah kyng of Juda at Bersames, whiche is in Juda. And Juda was put to the worse before Israel, & they fled euery man to his tent. And Joas the kyng of Israel toke Amaziabū kyng of Juda son of Joas the son of Joasbas of Berthamed: & brought hym to Jerusalem, and tate the wall of Jerusalem from the gate of Ephraim vnto the gate that was ouer against it foure hundred cubites. And he toke awaye also all the golde and syluer, and all the iewelies that were founde in the house of God with Obed Edom, and the treasures of the kynges house, and the ponge wardes, and returned to Samaria. And Amaziabū the sonne of Joas kyng of Juda dyed after the death of Joas sonne of Jehoaham kyng of Israel syxtene yere. The rest of the actes of Amaziabū kyng last, are they not wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Juda & Israel. And after the tyme that Amaziabū dyd coune awaye from the Lorde, & they conspyred treason agaynst hym in Jerusalem: and whē he was fled to Lachis, they sent to Lachis after hym, and slue hym there: and brought hym vpon wyth hoxles, and buried hym wyth hys fathers in the cytie of Juda.

The xxvi. Chapter

After the death of Amaziabū sayneth Uthahu (others wyll call it Uthah) whiche is sayn: heu wyth the lepre, & Jotham sayneth in his counte.

When all the people of Juda toke Uzia which was a syxtene yere olde, and made hym kyng in the roume of his father Amaziabū. And he buylt a loth, & broughte it agayne to Juda after that the kyng was layde to slepe wyth his fathers. Syxtene yere olde was Uzia, when he began to raygne, and he raygned lxxi. yere in Jerusalem. His mothers name also was Jecholiah of Jerusalem. And he dyd that which was ryght in the syghte of the Lorde, accordyng to all, as dyd his father Amaziabū. And it came to passe that he soughte God in the dayes of Zachariabū (whiche maynteyned the feare of God) as longe as he soughte the Lorde: God made hym to prosper.

And he went to battayle agaynst the Philistynes and brake downe the wall of Geth, and the wall of Jabne, and the wall of Alood and bulle cyties aboute Alood, and amonge the Philistynes. And God holpe hym agaynst the Philistynes, and agaynst the Arabians that dwelt in Gurbaal and Hammehunith. And the Ammonytes gaue tribute to Uzia, & hys name spreade a brode, euen to the entreyne in of Egypte, for he playde the ma' exceedyngly. Moreover, Uzia buylt towres in Jerusalem by the corner gate, and by the valley gate, and at the turning of the wall: and made them stronge. And he buylt towres in the wyldernesse, and dygged many welles. For he had much cattel in the valleys & playnes, plowmen, and vynesellers in the mountaynes, and in Charnel: for he loued husbandrye.

And Uzia had an host of sygging men that went out to warre in the armye, accordyng to the nombre of theyr office vnder the hāde of Jechiel the scribe, and Maaziabū the ruler, and vnder the hande of Hananiabū, whiche was one of the kynges lordes. And the whole nombre of the queneient fathers, and of the me of myght, were two. M. and lxxi. hundred: and vnder the hande of them was the army of the men of warre, eue the hundred and seven thousande, and syue hundred that made warre w the powder of an army, helppinge the kyng agaynst the enemyes. And Uzia prouyded them thowowt all the booke, sheldes, speares, helmettes, habergyns, bowes and synghes for to cast stones. And he made subtyll engyns in Jerusalem, whiche he inuented & layed on the towres & corners, so thote aro wes and great stones wythball. And hys name spreade farre a brode, because he was helpd so excellent lyre, so that he became very myghty.

But in his strenght his herte arose to hys destruction. For he trasgressed agaynst the Lorde his God, and went into the temple of the Lorde to burne incense vpon the altare of incense. And Azariabū the prest went in after hym, & wyth him foure scoze prestes of the Lorde, that were valiaunt men. And they stode by Uzia the kyng and sayde vnto hym: * it pertayneth not to the Uzia to burne incense vnto the Lorde, but to the prestes the childre of Aaron, that are consecrated for to offer incense: Come therfore out of the Sanctuary for thou hast trespassed, and it is no wythp to the befoze the Lorde God.

And Uzia was wroth, and had insence in his hande to burne it: and so whyle he had indignacion agaynst the prestes, & the leprose sprang in his forehead befoze the prestes in the house of the Lorde, euen besyde the incense altare. And Azariabū the chiefe prest, wyth all the other prestes looked vpon hym, and beholde, he was become a lepre in hys forehead, and they vered him thence. And he was sayne to go out, because the Lorde had synneth hym. And Uzia the kyng continued a lepre vnto the daye of his death, and dwelt seuerall, in an house beinge a lepre, & went out of the house of the Lorde. And Jotham hys son had the gouernaunce of the kynges house, and iudged the people of the lande. The rest of the actes of Uzia kyng and last, dyd Ilay the prophet the son of Amos wyte. And so Uzia slept wyth his fathers, & they buried him wyth his fathers, in the felde of the buriall which was besyde the sepulchres of the kynges. For they sayd: he is a lepre. And Jotham hys son raygned in his stede.

The xxvii. Chapter.

Jotham sayneth, and ouercometh the Ammonites. When his sonne raygneth in his stede.

Jotham was syue and twenty yere olde, when he began to raygne, and raygned syxtene yere in Jerusalem. Hys mothers name was also Jerusa the daughter of Zadoc. And he dyd that which was ryght in the syghte of the Lorde in all poyntes as dyd his father Uzia, saue that he came not into the temple of the Lorde, and the people dyd yet wychevlye. He buylt the bre gate of the temple of the Lorde, and on the wal (where the house of adonias was) he buylt moche. Moreover, he bulle cyties in the mountaynes of Juda, and in the wood countreys he buylt castles and towres.

He fought with the kyng of the chyldren of Ammon, and preuayled agaynst them. And the chyldren of Ammon gaue hym the same yere an hundred hundred talentes of syluer: and ten thousande quarters of wheate, and ten thousande of barley. So moche dyd the chyldren of Ammon geue hym the second yere and the thyrde also. So Joatham became myghty, because he directed hys waye before the Lorde hys God.

The rest of the actes of Joatham, and all hys warres and his conuersacion, lo, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Israel, and Iuda. He was .xxv. yere olde when he beganne to raigne, and raigned sytene yere in Jerusalem. And Joatham slepte with hys fathers: and they buryed him in the cytie of Dauid. And Ahaz his sonne raigned in his stede.

¶ The .xxviii. Chapter.

Ahaz was .xx. yere olde when he began to raigne, and raigned sytene yere in Jerusalem: and he dyd not whiche is ryghte in the syghte of the Lorde, as dyd his father Dauid. For he walked in the wayes of the kynges of Israel, and made molten ymages for Baalim. He offered incense in the valley of the sonnes of hinno, and burnt hys chyldren in fyre, after the abhominacions of the hepyen, whom the Lorde cast out before the chyldren of Israel. He offered also and burnt incense in bylaunters, and on mountaynes, and vnder every grene tree.

Wherfore the Lorde his God deliuered hym into the hande of the kyng of Assyens: which bet hym, and carped awaye a greate multitude of hys captiue, and brought them to Damasco. And he was deliuered into the hand of the kyng of Israel, which smote him with a great slaughter. For Decah the sonne of Remahahu, slue in Iuda an hundred and twenty thousande in one daye, which were al fyghtyng men, and that because they had forsaken the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And Zichu a myghty man of Ephraim slue Maaslahu the kynges sonne: And Africa gouernour of the house, and Eleana that was nexte to the kyng. And the chyldren of Israel toke prysones of theyr brethren, two hundred thousande women, sonnes and daughters, and carped awaye moche spople of them, & brought the spople to Samaria.

But there was a prophete of the Lordes, (whose name was Obed) and he went out before the hoost that came to Samaria, and sayde vnto them: Beholde, because the Lorde God of your fathers is wrauth wth Iuda, he hath deliuered them into your hande. And ye haue slayne them wth cruelnesse, that reacheth vp to heauen. And now ye purpose to kepe vnder the chyldren of Iuda and Jerusalem, and to make them bondmen and bondwomen. And do ye not lade your selues with synne in the syght of the Lorde your God? Now heare me therefore, and deliuer the captiues agayne, whiche ye haue taken of your brethren, for els shall the greate wrauth of God be vpon you.

Wherfore certayne of the heedes of the chyldren of Ephraim, as Azaria the sonne of Jehohanan, Berechiah the sonne of Mesilemoth, and Jeheshiah the sonne of Shallum, and Amasa the sonne of Hadlay, stode vp agaynst them that came from the warre, and sayd vnto them: byngre not in the captiues hyther. For where as we haue offended towarde God alreadye, we entende to adde moze to our synnes & trespasse. For our trespasse is great alreadye, and there is a searce wrauth agaynst Israel. And vpon that, the men of armes left the captiues & the spople, before the lordes and all the congregation.

And the men that were nowe rebearshd by C name, rose vp and toke the prysones, and wroth the spople clothed all that were naked amonge them, and arayed them, and shoed them, & gaue them to eate and drynke, and annoynted them, and carped all that were feble of them vpon asses, and brought them to Jericho (the cytie of Paulmetters) to theyr brethren: and then they returned to Samaria agayne.

At that same tyme dyd kyng Ahaz sende vnto the kynges of Assur, to haue helpe of them. And the Edomites cam agayne, & slue the sonnes of Iuda, and carped awaye captiues. And the Philistines inuaded the cyties in the lowe country, and toward the South of Iuda, and toke Bethsames and Aialon. And Gederoth & Soccho, wth the townes longyng therto, & Chimna, wth the townes of the same: Gumsa, and the townes therof, and dwelt there. For the Lorde brought Iuda lowe, because of Ahaz kyng of Iuda, whiche made Iuda naked, & transgressed soe agaynst the Lorde. And Tiglath Pilneser kyng of the Assyrians came vpo hym and troubled him rather then strenghted him: For Ahaz toke awaye a porcion out of the house of the Lorde and out of the kynges house, and out of the lordes houses, and gaue vnto the kyng of the Assyrians, and yet it helped hym not. And in the very tyme of hys tribulation dyd kyng Ahaz trespasse yet moze agaynst the Lorde.

For he offered vnto the goddes of them of Damasco, whiche bette hym, and he sayd: because the goddes of the kynges of Syria helpe them, therefore wil I offre to them, that they may helpe me also. But they were hys destruction, and destruction of all Israel. And Ahaz gathered together the vesselles of the house of God, & brake them, and putte vpo the doores of the house of the Lorde, and made hym *aulters in euery corner of Jerusalem. And in all the cyties of Iuda, he made bylaunters, to burne incense vnto other goddes, and angered the Lorde God of hys fathers. The rest of hys actes, and hys workes fyrste and last: beholde, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Iuda, and Israel. And Ahaz slepte wth hys fathers, and they buryed hym in the cytie of Jerusalem: but brought him not vnto the sepulchres of the kynges of Israel. And Jerckia his sonne raigned in hys stede.

Jerckia: wherby he called Jerckia (as Jerckiahu) rethorned vnto the temple of the Lorde all the byrges that had not ben regarded of his predecessors.

L.iii. Jerckia

II. CHRONICLES.

II. CHRONICLES.

Ezekia began to raigne, when he was thre and twenty yeres olde, and reigned nyne and twenty yere in Ierusalem. And his mothers name was Abia the daughter of zachariahu. And he did that whiche was ryght in the syght of the Lorde, in al poyntes as dyd Dauid his father, he opened the doores of the house of the Lorde (in the fyrste yere and fyrste moneth of his raigne,) and repayed them. And he brought in the priestes & the Leuites, and gathered them together into the east strete, and sayde vnto them: heare me ye Leuytes, and now be sanctified and halowe the house of the Lorde God of youre fathers, byngge sythynesse oute of the holpe place. For our fathers haue trespassed, and done euyll in the eyes of the Lorde our God, and haue forsaken hym, and turned away theyr faces from the habitation of the Lorde, and turned theyr backs on it. And be ye that, they haue put vp the doores of the porch, and quenched the lampes, and haue neither burntincense, nor offered burnt offerings in the holy place vnto the God of Israel.

Wherfore the wrath of the Lorde fell on Iuda and Ierusalem: and he hath brought them to trouble, to be wounded on, and to be hyllid at, euen as we se with our eyes. For so, our fathers were ouerthrowen wth the swerde, and our sonnes, our daughters and our wyues were carried away captiue for the same cause. And now it is in mine hert, to make a couenaunt with the Lorde God of Israel: that he may turne away his deuy indignation from vs. Nowe therfore my sonnes, be not negligent: for the Lorde hath chosen you to stand before hym, and for to minister and serue hym, and to burne incense.

Ethen the Leuytes arose: Mahath the sonne of Amasai, and Joel the sonne of Saraiahu of the Gabaithites. And of the sonnes of Merari, his the sonne of Abdi, and Saraiahu the sonne of Jehalciei. And of the sonnes of the Gerfonites, Iobab the sonne of Simma, & Eden the sonne of Joab. And of the sonnes of Elizaphan, Sumri, and Jehiel. And of the sonnes of Asaph, zachariahu, and Wataniahu. And of the sonnes of heman, Jehiel, and Semel. And of the sonnes of Jeduthun, Semai and Uzziel. And they gathered theyr brethren, and purgfyed them selues, and came accorpyng to the commaundement of the kyng, and the wordes of the Lorde for to cleanse the house of the Lorde. And the priestes went into the inner partes of the house of the Lorde, to cleanse it, & brought ouer all the vncleynesse that they founde in the temple of the Lorde, into the court of the house of the Lorde.

And the Leuites toke it, to cary it out into the broke Cedion. They beganne the fyrst daye of the fyrst moneth to purify, and the epyght day of the moneth came they to the portch of the Lorde: and poured the house of the Lorde in epyght dayes: and in the fyrste daye of the fyrst moneth they made an ende. And they went in to Hezekia the kyng, and sayd: we haue cleansed al the house of the Lorde, the altare of burnt offeringe, wth all his vessels, and the shewbryd cable, wth al his apparell: and all the vessels whiche kyng Abaz dyd cast asyde wherin he ragged, & transgressed, them we haue prepared and sanctified: and beholde, they are before the alter of the Lorde. And Hezekia the kyng rose early, and gathered the lordes of the cytie, and went vp to the house of the Lorde. And they brought leuen oxen, seuen rammes, seuen shepe, and seuen begootes, to be a synoffryng for the kyngdome, for the sanctuary, and for Iuda. And he commaunded the priestes the sonnes of Aaron, to offer them on the altare of the Lorde.

And they slue the oxen, and the priestes receyued the blood, & spynkled it vpon the altare: lyke wyse, when they had slayne the rammes they spynkled the blood vpon the altare: they slue also the shepe, and they spynkled the blood vpon the altare. And then they brought forth the begootes for the synoffryng before the kyng & the congregacyon, and put theyr handes vpon them. And the priestes slue them, and w the bloode of them they clensed the altare to make satisfaction for al Israel, for the kyng commaunded that the burnt offeringe and the synoffryng shoulde be made for al Israel.

And set the Leuites in the house of the Lorde wth cymbales, psalteries, and harpes, & accorpyng to the commaundement of Dauid, & Gad the kynges sear, and Nathan the prophete. For so was the commaundement of the Lorde, thow the hande of his prophetes. And the Leuites stode haung the instrumentes of Dauid, & the priestes helde the trompettes. And Hezekia commaunded to offer the burnt offering vpon the altare. And when the burnt offering began, the songe of the Lorde beganne also, and the trompettes, wth the instrumentes that were ordeined by the hande of Dauid kyng of Israel. And all the congregation worshipped, syngyng a songe & blowyng wth the trompets, & al this continued, vntill the burnt offering was synpyed.

And when they had made an ende of offering the kyng and all that were present wth hym bowed them selues, and worshipped. And Hezekia the kyng and the lordes spake to the Leuites to praye the Lorde wth the wordes of Dauid, and of Asaph the sear. And the Leuites sang prayes wth gladnes, & the other bowed them selues, and worshipped.

And Hezekia answered, and sayde: now ye haue consecrate your handes to the Lorde: go to therfore, and byngge in the sacrifices & thank offrynges into the house of the Lorde. And the congregacion brought in the sacrifices, and thank offrynges and burnt offrynges, as many as were of free lyberal hert. And the nombre of the burnt offrynges which the congregacion brought was. lxx. oxen, an hundred rammes, & two hundred shepe: which were al for the burnt offering of the Lorde. And there were dedicated syre hundred oxen, and thre thousand shepe. And the priestes were to sewe to slape all the burnt offrynges: but they brethren the Leuites dyd helpe them, till they had ended the worke: and vntill the priestes were sanctified. For the Leuites were purer hereto the child of Israel returned every man to his possessions, and to their own cities. And Hezekia appointed sundry companies of priests and Levites after the behest of the king: every man according to his office, both priests and Levites, for the burnt offering and peace offerings, to minister, & to give thanks, and praise in the gates of the house of the Lord. And the king's portion of his substance that he gave, were daily burnt offerings in the morning and evening, and burnt offerings for the Sabbath days, new moons, and solempne feastes, according as it is written in the lawe of the Lord. And he had the people that dwelt in Jerusalem give the parts to the priests, and Levites, that they might substantially apply them selves to the lawe of the Lord.

And alsoone as the kinges commandment came abroad, the children of Israel brought abundance of first frutes, of coine, wine, oyle, honie, and al manner of frutes of the felde, & the types of all manner of thynges, brought they in plentifully. And the children of Israel & Juda & dwelt in the cities of Juda, they also brought in the types of oren and figes, & other holpe thynges which were consecrate unto the Lord: the God they dyd offre, & brought them all by heapes. In the thirde moneth they beganne to laye the heapes (in manner of a foundation) and finished them in the seventh moneth. And when Hezekia and the lordes came, and sawe the heapes they blessed the Lord & his people Israel. And Hezekia questioned with the priests and the Levites, concerning the heapes. And Azaria the chiefe priest of the house of Zadok answered him and said: syns the people beganne to bring the bevestofferings unto the house of the Lord: we also have had ynough to eat, there remayned so moche: for the Lord hath blessed his people and this heape is left. And Hezekia had prepare the chambres in the house of the Lord. And they dyd prepare them, and carped in the first frutes, the types, and the dedicate thynges faithfully.

Over whiche Conaiahu the Leuite had the rule, and Semei his brother nexte to hym. And Ichiel, Azariahu, Barzab, Asael, Jerimoth, Josabab, Eliel, Jesmachabiu, Wabath, & Banaiahu were overseers ordeyned by Bonaniahu, & Semei his brother was an officer of Hezekia the kynge, and Azaria was the ruler of the house of God. And Choze the sonne of Jimna the Leuite & porter of the east doore: had the oversight of the thynges that were offered of a fre will unto God: and were gyven in manner severally unto the Lord: and over the thynges most holy. And under his hand were Eden, Wamamin, Jehu, Semei, Amaciahu, and Sechaniahu, in the cities of the priests appointed of their fidelitie to give to the brethren their portions: as well to the small as to the great. Except that to the males there were rehewed from thence: and above (among all that went into the house of the Lord): they shoulde give hape by doye, for mynistracion, and for the kinges graving attendaunce, and for the kinges ducerie waptynges by course. And to the priests & Levites throughout the household of the king's fathers from twenty yere and above, to waite when courses came.

And to the families of all the babes, wyves, sonnes and daughters thow we all the congregation. For upon the fidelitie of them were the holy thynges bestowed. And to the children of Aaron, the priests which were in the felde and suburbs of the cities, cytie by cytie, the men (whose names were expellid afore) shoulde give portions, even to al the males amonge the priests, and to all the Levites, according to their nombre. And of this manner dyd Hezekia throughout al Juda, & wrought it that is good, and ryght and true, before the Lord his God. And in all the wyches that he beganne for the fruite of the house of God, for the lawe and for the commandementes, he sought his God and that dyd he with all his herte, and prospered.

The xxii. Chapter.

Sennacherib (or Sancherib) besieginge Jerusalem in the thirde yere of Hezekia the kynge, after whom succeeded Manasse.

After that these dedes were faithfully done: Sennacherib kynge of Assur came and entred into Juda, and compassed the stronge cities, and thought to wynn them for hym selfe. And so when Hezekia sawe that Sennacherib was come, and that he was purposed to fight agaynst Jerusalem, he toke counsaile with his lordes and me of myght, to stoppe the water of the fountaynes without the cytie: and they dyd helpe hym. For there gathered many of the people together, and stoppe all the welles, and the broke that ran thorow the myddes of the lande sayinge: why shall the kynge of Assur come, & fynde moche water? And Hezekia wente to Iustrip, and buylt by all the wall where it was broken, and made ordinaunce upon the towres and to the other wall without, and repayred Billo in the cytie of Dauid, and made manye daries & sheldes. And he set captaynes of warre over the people, and gathered them together to him in the large strete of the gate of the cytie, and spake gently to them, sayinge: Bluche vpon your hertes, & be stronge. Be not afrayed nor discouraged, for the kynge of Assur, & for all the multitude that he hath wth hym: for there be mo wth vs then with hym. With hym is an arme of flesh. But with vs is the Lord our God, for to helpe vs, & to fight our battayles. And the people toke a courage thow so the wordes of Hezekia king of Juda

After

* After this dyd Sennacherib king of Assur sende of his seruantes to Jerusalem (but he him selfe remayned besyde Lachis: hauinge all hys power with him) vnto Hezekia king of Iuda: vnto all Iuda that were at Jerusalem, sayinge: Thus sayeth Sennacherib the kyng of Assur: wherein do ye truste, O ye that dwell in Ierusalem which is besieged: Doth not Hezekia entyce you to gyue ouer your selues vnto death, hūgre and thyrst, sayinge: the Lorde our God shall ryd vs out of the hande of the kyng of Assur: hath not the same Hezekia put downe his hye places and hys alters, and commaunded Iuda & Ierusalem, sayinge: Ye shall worshyp before one aulter and burne incense vpon the same.

Knowe ye not what I and my fathers haue done vnto the people of all landes? Were the gods of þe people of other landes able or mighty to saue theyr landes out of my hande: whych of al the goddes of those nations (that my fathers destroyed) coule deliuer his people oute of myne hande: And shal your God be able to deliuer you out of myne hande: Wherefore now, let not Hezekia deceyue you, nor perswade you of thys falsshyp, nor perbelue hym.

For as no god amonge all nacjons & kyngdomes was able to rid his people out of my had and out of the hande of my father. Howe moch lesse shal your goddes be able to kepe you out of my hande: And yet mo thynges dyd his seruantes speake agaynst the Lorde God, and agaynst his seruante Hezekia. And (Sennacherib) also wrote a letter, to raple on the Lorde God of Israel & spake agaynst him, sayinge: as the gods of the nations of other landes haue not ben able to deliuer their people out of my hand. Eue so shal not the god of Hezekia deliuer his people out of myne hande. And they cryed w a loude voyce in the Iewes speache vnto the people of Ierusalem that were on the wal to feare them and to make them saynt herred, and that they myght so take the cite. And they spake agaynst the God of Ierusalem as agaynst þe goddes of the nations of the earth, which were þe workes of þe handes of men.

But Hezekia the kyng, and the prophet Iai the son of Amos prayed agaynst þe blasphemie and cryed vp to heauen. And the Lorde sente an aungel which destroyed all the men of war, and the lordes and captaynes of þe hoost of thyrkyng of Assur, that he turned his face agayn w shame towards hys owne lande. * And when he was come into the house of his God, they that came of his owne body slue hym ther with the sword. And so the Lorde saued Hezekia and the inhabitants of Jerusalem out of the hand of Sennacherib kyng of Assur, and from the hande of al oþer, and mayntayned them on euery syde. And many brought offrynges vnto the Lorde to Jerusalem, and presentes to Hezekia kyng of Iuda. so that he was magnified in the syght of all nacjons from thence forth.

* In those dayes Hezekia was syche vnto the death, and prayed vnto the Lorde, which answered him: and shewed him a wondreful myracle. But Hezekia dyd not agayne vnto God according to it þe had shewed him for his bett arose and there came wrath vpon hym, and vpon Iuda and Jerusalem. Notwithstandyng Hezekia submytted hym selfe: after that his bett was risen vp) he, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem: and the wrath of the Lorde came not vpon them in the dayes of Hezekia.

And Hezekia had exceeding moch ryches and honour. And he gat him treasures of siluer, and golde, pccious stones and spyrres, wyldes, and of all maner of pccasaur ierwels: and made store houses for þe frutes of cojne, for wyne and ople: and stalles for all maner of beastes, and foldes for shepe. And he made him cities, & had of shep and oxen great aboundaunce. For God had gyuen hym substance exceeding moch. This same Hezekia stopped the vpper water springes of Syon, and brought the downe to the west side of the cite of Dauid. And Hezekia prospered in al his workes. And when the prynces of Babylon sent vnto hym embassadors, to enquire of the wondze that chaunced in the land, God left hym: to trye hym, and that all that was in hys bette myght be knowen.

The rest of the dedes of Hezekia, and his goodnes, beholde, they are wyrtten in the vyssion of Iai the prophet the sonne of Amos in the booke of the kinges of Iuda and Israel. And Hezekia slept with his fathers, and they buried hym in the moost worthy place of the sepulchres of the sonnes of Dauid: and al Iuda & the inhabitants of Jerusalem dyd hym worshyppe at his death. And manasse hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

The xxxiii. Chapter.

Manasse is taken prisoner, and after that he cometh out, he destroyeth the phols. He dyeth: and after hym succeedeth Amos, which is spyled of hys stout people, & Josias hys sonne raygned in hys stede.

Manasse was xii. yere olde * when he beganne to raygne, and he raygned syue and fyfte yere in Jerusalem: but dyd euill in the syght of þe Lorde lyke vnto the abhominacions of the heythen, whome the Lorde caste out before the chyldzen of Israel. For he went to, and buylte the hylaulter: which Hezekia his father had bryd downe. And he reared vp aulteres for Baali, and made grones, and worshypped al the hoste of heauen, and serued them.

And he buylte aulteres in the house of þe Lorde where as the Lorde yet had sayd: * in Jerusalem shall my name be for euer. And he buylded aulteres for all the hoost of heauen in the two courtres of the house of the Lorde. And he burnt hys chyldzen in fyre in the valley of þe sonnes of hin non. he was a forcerer: he regarded the trynges of wydes, vied in chauntmentes, and mayntayned workes with spyrtes, & sears of fortunes: and wrought moch euill in the syght of þe Lorde so angre hym wythall.

And he put the hcrued ymage and ydol which he had made in þe house of God. Of which house God had sayde to Dauid and to Salomon hys sonne: in this house and in Jerusalem, whych I

After this he builde a wall without the citie of David, on the west side of Sion, in the valey as they come to the syth gate, and so and about Ophel, & brought it vp of a very great height, and put captaines of warre in all the strong cy-ties of Iuda. And he toke awaye straunge god-des and pimages out of the house of God, and all the altiers that he had builde in the mount of the house of God, & Ierusalem, and cast them out of the citie. And he prepared the alter of the Lorde, and sacrificed thereon peaceoffrynges, & thankoffrynges, and charged Iuda to serue y Lord God of Israel. Neuerthelesse, the people dyd offer styll in the hyaulters, howbeit, vnto the Lorde they God onely.

of them that spake to him in the name of  $\text{f}$  Lord hym in his owne house: And Amon his son raygned in his rounge. Amon was two and twenty yere olde when he began to raygne, and raygned two yere in Ierusalem. But he dyd euyl in the syght of the Lord, lyke as dyd Manasse his father. for Amon sacrificed to al the heuened ymages, whiche Manasse his father had made and serued them, and submytted not hym selfe before the Lord: as Manasse his father hadde meakened him selfe. But Amon trespassed greatly. And his owne seruantes cōspyrred agaynst hym, and slew hym in his owne house. But the people of the lande slue all them that had cōspyr-red agaynst kyng Amon. And  $\text{f}$  same people of the land made Iosia his son king in his rounge.

Chapter.

He shall deliver the foolish, and restore the temple in which is founded the house of the living. He sendeth us forth the prophets for example.

Isa was cyght yere olde when he began to raygne, and he reigned in Jerusalem. xxi. yere. And he dyd þe which was ryght in the sight of the Lozde, and walked in the wayes of Dauid his father, and bowed neyther to the ryght hande nor the lefte. In the cyght yere of his raygne (when he was yet a chyld) he began to seke after the God of Dauid his father. And in the tweluech yere he began to pource Iuda, and Ierusalem from hyaulsters, groues, kered ymages, and ymages of metall: and they bzahe downe the autlers of Baalun, euen in his ptesence: and other ymages, that were in greater honour then they, he caused to be destroyed. And þe groues, kered ymages, and ymages of metall, he bzahe and made dust of them, and strowed it vpon the graues of them that had sfered vnto them. And he burnte the bones of the preastes vpon the autlers of them, and cleansed Iuda and Ierusalem. And euen so dyd he in the ctytes of Danasse, Ephraim, Symeon, vnto Repehali. And in the wyldernesles of them, rounde aboute, he plucked a sondre the autlers and the groues, and did beate them and stampe them to pouldre, and beate downe all the ymages thorowoute all the lande of Israel: and he turned to Ierusalem agayne.

In the xviii. yere of his reigne when he had poured the lande and the temple, * he sent Sa pban the sonne of Amaziabu, and Manfiah the gouvernour of the cytye, and Joab the sonne of Joabaz the recorder, to repaie the house of the Lorde bys God. And when they came to Ier liab the hye priest, they deliuered them the mo neye that was boughte into the house of God, whiche the Leuites that kepte the enteryes, had gathered of the bande of Manasse, & Ephraim, and of al that yet remayned in Israel, and of al Juda and Ben Jamin, and of the inhabytants of Jerusalem. And they put it in the bandes of the workemen that had the ouerlyghte of the house of the Lorde: and they gaue it to the labourers that wrought in the house of the Lorde: to re paie and amende the house. Euen to masons & carpenters gaue they it, to get stone and timber for couples and for beames of the houses, which the kynge of Iuda had destroyed: And the me nyd the worke saythfully.

And the overseers of them to contrage them forwarde, were Jahath, Obadiahu Leuytes, of the children of Merari: and Secharia, & Wesullam, of the children of the Cahathuytes, and other of the Leuytes: whiche all coulde skilful of instruments of musike. And over the bearers of burthens, and over all that brought, in whatso ever workmandship it were, were these scribes, officers, and porters of the Leuytes.

And when they brought out the money that was brought in to the house of the Lord, Heliah the parit & founde the booke of the lawe of the Lord given by Moses. And Heliah answer-red & sayd to Saphan the scribe: I have found the booke of the lawe in the house of the Lorde, and helkia gaue the booke to Saphan. And Saphan caried the booke to the kyng, and brought the kynges worde agayne, sayeng: all that was committed to thy seruantes, that do they. And they haue gathered together the monye & was founde in the house of the Lorde, and haue deliuered it into & hādes of & overleas of the worke and to the handes of the workemen. And then Saphan the scribe shewed the kyng, sayeng: helkia the prelat hath gyven me a booke, and Saphan red in it befoze the kyng.

And it fortuned, that when the kyng had herd the wordes of the lawe, he tare his clothes and the kynges commaund helkia and Ithiam the sonne of Saphan, and Abidon the sonne of Micah, and Saphan the scribe, and Isaia a seruant of the kinges, sayenge: go and enquire of the Lorde for me, and for them that are left in Israel and Juda, concerning the wordes of the booke that is founde. For great is the wrath of the Lorde that is fallen vpon vs, because our fathers haue not kept the worde of the Lorde, to do after all that is wyrtten in this booke.

And helkia and they that the kyng had appointed, went to hulda a prophetesse the wyfe of Salum, the sonne of Tobath, the sonne of Hasa keeper of the wardrobe (for she dwelte in Jerusalem within the seconde wall) and so they commaund with her. She answered them: thus sayeth the Lorde God of Israel: tel ye the man that sent you to me. Euen thus sayth the Lorde beholde, I wil byng euil vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitants thereof: euen all the curses, that are wyrtten in the booke which they haue red befoze the kyng of Juda) because they haue forsaken me, and offered vnto other goddes, to anger me with all manner workes of theyr handes: therefore is my wrath set on fyre agaynst this place: and shall not be quenched. And as for the kyng of Juda which sent you to enquire of the Lorde, so shall ye saye vnto hym: thus sayth the Lorde God of Israel, concerning the wordes which thou hast herde.

Because thyn hart was meate, and thou didest meke thy self befoze God wher thou herdest his wordes against this place and against the inhabitants thereof: and humbledst thy self befoze me and tarest thy clothes, and weperst befoze me that haue I herde also sayth the Lorde. Behold I wil take the to thy fathers, and thou shalt be put in thy graue in peace, and thyn eyes shall not se all the myschefe that I wil byng vpon this place, and vpon the inhabitants of the same. And they brought & king word agayne. * Then the kyng sent and gathered together all the elders of Juda & Jerusalem. And the kyng went vnto the house of the Lorde, and all the men of Juda, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and the prestes and Leuites and all the people great and smal, and the king vnder read in theyr eares all the wordes of the booke of the couenant that was founde in the house of the Lorde. And the kyng stode at his standynge, and made a couenant befoze the Lorde, to folowe the Lorde, and to kepe his commaundmentes. his wyrtnesses, and his statutes: with all his herte, and with all his soule, and to fulfyl the wordes of & appoyntment wyrtten in the same booke.

And he set in theyr coume all them that were founde in Jerusalem, and Ben Jamin, and the inhabitants of Jerusalem vnder accordynge to the couenant of the Lorde God of theyr fathers. And Jolia put away al maner of abhominacions out of all landes that pertayned to the chyldren of Israel, & brought in al that were founde in Israel to worshippe and to serue & Lorde theyr God. And they turned not asyde from after the Lorde God of theyr fathers as long as he lyued.

The xxxv Chapter.

Jolia holdeth passeouer. He syngeth agaynst the kynges of Egypt, and dyeth. The people be marle hym.

And Jolia helde the * feast of passeouer vnto the Lorde in Jerusalem, & they slue passeouer in the xiiii. daies of the fyfthe moneth. And he set the prestes in theyr offices, and ayded them in the seruice of the house of the lord. And he sayd vnto the Leuites (that taught al Israel and were sanctified vnto the Lorde) put the holy arke in the house which Salomon the sonne of Dauid kyng of Israel dyd buyde, there shall no other burthen be layed vpon your shulders: But now we serue the Lorde your God and his people Israel. And prepare your selues by your auncient householdes and compaynes, accordynge to the wyrtynge of Dauid kyng of Israel, and the wyrtynge of Salomon his sonne, and stande in the holy place accordynge to the deuision of the auncient householdes of your brethren the chyldren of the people, and after the deuision of the auncient householdes of the Leuites, kyll passeouer, and sanctify, & prepare your brethren that they may do accordynge to the word of the Lorde by the hande of Moyses.

And Jolia gaue to the people flockes of shepe and kyddes, all for passeouer, and for all & were present thyrty thousand by tale, & thre thousand oxen, & these were euen of the kynges substance. And his lordes gaue wyllynge both vnto the people and to the prestes, and vnto the Leuites helkia also, zatharia and Iehiel, rulers of the house of God, gaue vnto & prestes for passeouer offrynges, two thousand & fyve hundred shepe, and thre hundred oxen: Conania and Semeiah and Sethanel his brethren, and Isabiah and Jaiel, and Josobad, rulers of the Leuites gaue vnto the Leuites passeouer offrynges, eue thre thousand shepe, and fyve hundred oxen.

And so the scrupce was prepared, & the prestes stode in theyr places, & the Leuites in theyr distinct compaynes at the kynges commaundment. And they slue passeouer, and the prelat synghed the blood with theyr hande, & the Leuites pulled of the skynnes of the beastes. And they set away the burnt offrynges to gyue them vnto the people that were decayed by auncient houses, and that they shuld offre vnto the Lorde lyke as it is wyrtten in the booke of Moyses. And to dyd they with the oren also. And they wel-shed the Passouer with fyre, as the maner was.

And the other dedycate beastes sod they in pottes, cauldernes, and pannes, and denyded them amonge all the people. And afterwarde they made redy for them seluers and for the preastes, for the chyldren of Aaron were busied in offer-ryng of burnt offrynges, & the fat butyl nyght, therfore the Levites prepared for them seluers, & for the preastes the sonnes of Aaron.

C And the spongers the chyldren of Asaph stode in theyr standyng: accordyng to the commaun-dement of Dauid, and Asaph, Heman, and Je-duthun the kynges sear: and f. postres wayted at eury gate, and myght not depart from theyr seruyce: for theyr brethren the levites prepared for them. And so all the seruice of the Lord was prepared the same daye, to offre Passouer, and to offre burnt offrynges vpon the aultare of the Lorde, accordyng to the commaundemente of kynge Josia.

And so the chyldren of Israel that were present offered Passouer the same tyme and kepte the feast of swete bread seven dayes, and there was no Passouer lyke to that kepte in Israel, from the dayes of Samucl the prophet: neither dyd al the kynges of Israel holde suche a Passouer feast as dyd Josia & the preastes & Levites and all Juda, & Israel that were presente, & the inhabiters of Jerusalem. This Passouer was holden in the .xviii. yere of the ragnye of Josia.

D * After this, when Josia had prepared the temple, Necho kynge of Egypt came vp to fight agaynst Carcasis besyde Euphrates, and Jo-sia went out agaynst hym: which sent messengers to hym, and sayd: what haue I to do with the thou kynge of Juda? Be not thou agaynst thy selfe this day: for my warre is agaynst an other house, and God bad me make hast. Leue of therfore and medle not with God whiche is with me, lest he destrope the. Reuercheless, Jo-sia woulde not turne his face from hym, but rather toke a duple to fyght with hym, & herkened not vnto the wordes of Necho out of the mouth of God, and came to fyght in the valley of Wagedo, and the shoters shot darteres at kynge Jo-sia. And the kynge sayd to his seruauntes: carry me away, for I am soze wounded. His seruauntes therfore had hym out of that charet, and put him in an other charet that they had.

And whē they had brought hym to Jerusalem he dyed, and was buried in the sepulchre of his fathers. * And all Juda and Jerusalem mourned for Josia. And Jeremia lamented Josia, and all synnginge men and synnginge women mourned for Josia in theyr lamentacions to this daye and made the same lamentacions and ordinaunce in Israel, and beholde, they be wyrtten in the lamentacions. The rest of the actes of Josia and his goodnes which he dyd in folowynge the wytyng of the lawe of the Lorde, and his saynges fyrst and last: beholde, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Israel and Juda.

C The .xxvi. Chapter.

After Josia was dead, Necho, after Jehoahaz, Jehoahaz after Jehoahaz, Jehoahaz, after Jehoahaz, Jehoahaz. In these years all the people were carryed away to Babylon and were brought agayne the fourthe yere after by king Cyrus, otherwys called Cyrus.

And the people of the land toke Jehoahaz the sonne of Josia, & made him kynge in his fathers stede in Jerusalem. And Jehoahaz was .xxiii. yere olde when he began to ragnye and he ragned thre monethes in Jerusalem.

And the kynge of Egypt put hym downe at Jerusalem, & merced the lande in an hundred taltes of syluer, and a talent of gold. And f. kynge of Egypt made Eliakim his brother kynge vpo Juda and Jerusalem, and turned his name vnto Jehoahaz: and Necho toke Jehoahaz his brother, and carryed hym to Egypt. Jehoahaz was
xxv. yere olde when he began to ragnye, and he ragned .xi. yere in Jerusalem: and vndeuill in the syght of the Lorde his God.

Agaynst hym then came vp Nabuchodonosor kynge of Babylon, and bounde hym with two chaynes to carrie hym to Babylon. The kynge * Nabuchodonosor also caried of the vessels of the house of the Lord to Babylon and put them in his temple at Babylon. The rest of the actes of Jehoahaz, and his abominacions which he dyd, and carued ymages that were layed to his charge, beholde, they are wyrtten in the booke of the kynges of Israel & Juda. And Jehoacin his sonne ragned in his stede. Jehoacin was .xviii. yere olde when he began to ragnye, & he ragned thre monethes and ten dayes in Jerusalem: and dyd euill in the syght of the Lorde. And when the yere was out, kynge Nabuchodonosor sent, and fet hym to Babylon with the goodly vessels of the house of f. Lorde, & made zedekia (his fathers brother) kynge ouer Juda and Jerusalem.

* zedekia was .xxi. yere olde, when he began to ragnye, and ragned .xi. yere in Jerusalem.
And he dyd euill in the syghte of the Lorde his God, and humbled not hym self before Jeremia the prophet at the mouth of the Lorde. And he rebelled agaynst Nabuchodonosor, which had receyued an othe of hym by God. But he was syfneched, and to hard herted to turne vnto the Lorde God of Israel. Wherefore, all the rulers the preastes and the people trespassed moze, synnyng after all maner of abominacions of the heythen, & polluted the house of the lord which he had halowed in Jerusalem.

* And the Lorde God of theyr fathers sent to them, by his messengers, cōsynge up by tymes and sendyng, for he had compassion on his people, and on his dwellynge place. But they mo-ked the messengers of God, & despyled his wodes, and mysused his pyhetes, vntyl the wrath of the Lorde arose agaynst his people, and eyll there was no remedy. And so * he brought vpo them the kynge of the Caldees, which sue the yong men with the swerde in theyr holy temple and spard neyther younge man, mayden, olde man, nor hym that stouped for age. He gaue them all into his hande.

And al the vessels of the house of God (bothe great

great and small) and the treasures of the house of the Lord, and the treasures of the kynge, and of his lordes: all these carried he to Babilon. And they burnt the house of God, and brake downe the wall of Jerusalem, and burnt all the places thereof with fyre, and destroyed all the goodly Jewelles therof. And the rest that had escaped sword were carried he to Babilon, where they were bounde to hym and his chyldren, vntill y<sup>e</sup> tyme that Persia had the Empire. To fulfill y<sup>e</sup> word of the Lorde: by y<sup>e</sup> mouth of Jeremia, vntill the land had her pleasure of her Sabbothes: for as longe as the laye desolate, she kept Sabboth, vntill seuentye yeres were fulfilled.

* And the fyrst yere of Cyrus kyng of Persia (when the woorde of the Lorde spoken by the mouth of Jeremia was fulfilled) the Lord stirred up the spirit of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that he made a proclamation thorowout all his kyngdom, and that by writing, saying: Thus sayeth Cyrus kyng of Persia: all the kyngdomes of the earth hath the Lord God of heauen gyuen me, and hath charged me to buyld him an house in Jerusalem that is in Iuda. Wherefore whosoever is amonge you of all his people, the Lorde his God be with him, and let hym go vp.

The fyrste Chapter.

Cyrus Emperour agayne the people that was in captiuitie, and returned them their holy vessels, and commaunded them to buyld agayne the temple.

In the first yere of Cyrus king of Persia (that the woorde of the Lorde spoken by the mouth of Jeremia might be fulfilled) the Lorde stirred up the spirit of Cyrus kyng of Persia, that he caused to be proclaimed thorowout all his empire, and to be written, saying: Thus saith Cyrus the kyng of Persia: The Lord God of heauen hath gyuen me all the kyngdomes of the earth, and hath commaunded me to buyld hym an house at Jerusalem, wherch is in Iuda.

Whosoever nowe amonge you is of his people the Lorde his God be with him, and let him go vp to Jerusalem in Iuda, and buyld y<sup>e</sup> house of the Lorde God of Israel. he is the God that is at Ierusalem. And whosoever remaineth yet in any maner of place (where he is a stranger) let the men of y<sup>e</sup> place helpe hym with siluer and golde, with good and cattel, besyde that wherch they wyllyngly offre, for the house of God that is at Ierusalem.

Then gat vp the principall fathers of Iuda and Ben Jamin, and the prestes and Leuites, and all they whose spirit God had rapted to go vp, to buyld the house of y<sup>e</sup> Lord which is at Ierusalem. And all they that were about the strengthed their hande, with vessels of syluer and golde with good and cattel, and iewels: in so much that euery one shewed hym selfe lyberall. And kyng Cyrus brought forth the vessels of the house of the Lorde: which Nabuchodonosor had taken out of Ierusalem, and had put in y<sup>e</sup> house of his God. Those did Cyrus y<sup>e</sup> kyng of Persia bring forth by the hande of Mishadates the treasurer, and nobred them vnto Selsazar the prince of Iuda.

And this is the nombre of them. xxx. chargers of gold. vi. chargers of syluer. xxix. knyues. xxx. basens of golde: and of other siluer basens. lvi. and of other vessels. vi. All y<sup>e</sup> vessels of gold and siluer were. v. vi. and lvi. All these did Selsazar carry a way with the that came vp out of the captiuitie of Babilon vnto Ierusalem.

The ii. Chapter.

The nombre of them that returned from the captiuitie.

These are the chyldren of the lande that went vp out of the captiuitie (whom Nabuchodonosor kyng of Babilon had carried away vnto babilon) and came agayne vnto Ierusalem, and into Iuda, euery one vnto his cite. ### Chapter III.

After the foundation of the temple ones remain, they sacrifice unto the Lord.

Ad when *f seventh moneth came and the chylde of Israel were now in their cities: the people came togy ther (euen as one man) vnto Jerusalem. And there stode vp Iesua *f sonne of Iosheer: and his biezhen the pzeastes, and iozobabel the sonne of Salathiel, and hys biezhen, and builde the aultare of the God of Israel, to offre burnt offrynges thereon, as it is wytten in the lawe of Moyses the man of God, and the aultare set they vpon his sockettes (for there was a fearfullnesse amog them, bycause of the nations *f landes) therfore they offered burnt offrynges thereon vnto the Lord *f in *f mornynge and at euen. And they heid the feast of tabernacles *f as it is wytten: and offered burnt sacrificy-es *f dailie, accozdyng to the nombze and custom daye by daye. Afterwarde they offered daylye burnt offrynges also, and in the newe monethes and in all the feast dayes that wer consecrate vnto the Lord, *f for all them which dyd (of they owne free wyll) offre vnto the Lorde.

From the fyfte daye of the seventh moneth began they to offer burnt sacrifices vnto the Lorde: euen when the foundacion of the temple of the Lord was not yet layed. They gaue money also vnto the masons, & carpenters, & meat and drynke: and oyle vnto them of ybidon and of Tyre, to buyng the Cedre tymber from Liba-nus.

CIn the second yere of theyr comyng vnto the place of the house of God at Jerusalem in the second moneth began zojobabel the sonne of Sa-lathiel, and Jesua the sonne of Josedec, and the remnant of theyr brethren the prestes and Le-uites, & all they that were come out of the captiuetye vnto Jerusalem, & appoynted the leuites from twenty yere olde and aboue, to se that the worke of the house of the Lorde went forwarde.
And Jesua stode with his sonnes and brethren: and Cadmiel with his sonnes, and the chyldren of Juda, to further the workmen of the house of God, euen the chyldren of Henadab, with theyr brethren, and theyr brethren the Leuites.

And when the buylders layed the foundation of the temple of the Lorde, the prestes stode in theyr array with trumpets. And the Leuites the chyldren of Asaph with cymbales: to prayse the Lorde: after the maner of Dauid kynge of Israel. And they sang together when they gaue praise & thankes vnto the Lorde, because he is gracious, & because his mercy endureth for euer vnto Israel. And all the people shouted loude, in prayse of the Lorde, because the foundation of the house of the Lorde was layed. Many also of the prestes & Leuites and auncient fathers whiche had sene the first house (when the foundation of this house was layd before their eyes) wept with a loude voyce. And many shouted with ioye: so that the noyse gaue a great sounde: in so muche that þe people coulde not discerne þe ioyful sounde & gladnes, from the noyse of the weeping among the people: for the people shouted with a loude crye: and the noyse was herde farre of.

The. liii. Chapter.

The buyldyng of the temple is hyndred and let.

But the aduersaries of Juda and Ben-Jamin heard, that the chyldren of the captiuitie buylded the temple vnto þe Lorde God of Israel. And they came to zojobabel, & to the principall fathers, and sayd vnto them: We will buylde with you: for we see the Lorde your God lyke as ye do. And we haue done sacrifice vnto hym syns the tyme of Asozbad the kynge of Assur: which brought vs up hyther. And zojobabel, and Jesua, and the other auncient fathers of Israel, sayde vnto them: it can not be, that you and we together, shoulde buylde the house vnto our God, for we our selues wyl buylde alone vnto the Lorde our God of Israel, as Cyrus the kynge of Persia hath commaunded vs.

And it came to passe, that the folke of the land hyndred the people of Juda, and troubled them as they were buyldyng, and byzed counsailers agaynst them, to hyndre theyr deuyce, as longe as Cyrus the kynge of Persia lyued, vntill the raygne of Darius kynge of Persia. And in the raygne of Darius (euen in the begynning of his raygne) wrote they vnto hym a complaynte agaynst the inhabytors of Juda and Jerusalem.

And in the dayes of Artaxerxes, wrote Bi-thaiab Tabael, & the other of his counsell vnto

Artaxerxes the kynge of Persia & sayde wordes And the scripture of the letter was wyrtten in the Syriack speche, and interpreted in the language of the Syrians. Rehum the recorder and Samas the scribe wrote a letter from Ierusalem to Artaxerxes the kynge: as it foloweth.

Then Rehum the recorder, and Samas the scribe, and other of theyr compaignes of Bena, of Arphasath, of Charpia, of Persia, of Arach, of Babylon, of Susa, of Deba, of Elan, & other of the people: whom the great and noble Acha-bar broughte ouer: and set in the cyties of Samaria, and other, that are now on this side the water. This is the coppe of the letter that they sent vnto kynge Artaxerxes.

The seruantes and the men that are now on this syde the water. Be it knowen vnto þe kynge that the Jewes whiche came vp from the eo-we, are come vnto Jerusalem (a cytie sedicious and frowarde) and buylte the same, and set vp the walles therof, and laye the foundations. Be it knownen now also vnto the kynge, that þe cytie is buildd, and the walles therof made vp a gayne, then shall not they geue tolle, tribute, & custome, and the kynges propyete shall incurre dāmage. And now in the meane season we haue destroyed the temple, and wolde no longer se þe kynges dishonoure. Therefore sent we oute also and certified the kynge: that it maye be soughe in the booke of the Chronicles of thy progeni-tours, and so shalt thou fynde in the booke of the Chronicles, and perceyue that this cytie is seditious and noplome vnto kynges & landes, and that they cause other also among them to rebell of olde, and for the same cause was this cytie destroyed. Therefore do we certifie the kynge that þe cytie be buylded agayne, and the walles therof made vp: thou shalt hereafter haue no poison on this syde the water.

Then sent þe kynge an answer vnto Rehum the recorder, & Samas the scribe, & to the other of their compaignes that dwelt in Samaria, & vnto the other that were beyond þe water, in Elan & Chebeth. The letter whiche he sent vnto þe hath-den openly red before me, & I haue considered to make seache: & it is founde: þe cytie of olde, hath made insurrection agaynst kynges, & that rebellion & sedition hath bene committed therein.
There haue ben myghty kynges also at Jerusalem, whiche haue raygned ouer all countreys beyond the water: and tolle, tribute, & custome was gyven vnto them: & yue ye now therefore commaundement, that the same men be forbyddē and that the cytie be not buylded agayne, till I haue gyven an other commaundement. Take hede now that ye be not negligent to do this: for why shoulde the kynge haue harme therethrogh?

Nowe when the coppe of kynge Artaxerxes lette was red before Rehum and Samas the scribe, and theyr compaignes, they went vp in all the haste to Jerusalem, vnto the Jewes and forbadde them with violence and power. Then ceased the worke of the house of god at Jerusalem: and contynued so vnto the seconde yere of Darius kynge of Persia.

The v. Chapter.

At the exhortation of Aggeus and zacharye to the temple buylded agayne.

In the prophetes Aggeus and zacharye the sonne of Iddo prophesied vnto the Jewes that were in Iuda, and Jerusalem: in the name of the god of Israel.

Ethen gat vp zojobabel the sonne of Sala thiel, and Iesua the sonne of Joseder, and began to buyde the house of God at Jerusalem: and with the were the prophetes of God, which bel- ped them. At the same tyme came to them Eath- nat, whiche was captayne on this syde the wa- ter, and Starbazani, & theyr companions, and sayd thus vnto them: Who hath commaunded you to buyde this house, and to make vp these walles? Then tolde we them the names of the men that made this buyldynge. But the eye of the god was vpon the elders of the Jewes, that they coude not cause them to cease, tyl the matter was brought to Darius, and then they answered by letters ther vnto.

This is the copy of the lettre, tha: Eathnai (whiche was captayne on this syde the water) and Starbazani, & the counsailers of Apha- sab, which were on this syde the water, sent vn to kyng Darius. And the matter that they sent vnto hym, was written thus within the lettre: Vnto Darius the kyng, al peace. Be it knowen vnto the kyng, that we went in to the lande of Jewe, to the house of the great God, which is builded with mighty great stones, and beames are layed in the walles, and the worke goth fast forth, & prospereth in theyr handes. Then ased we the elders, & sayd vnto them as it followeth: Who commaunded you to buyde this house: and to make vp the walles therof? We asked theyr names also, that we myght certifye the, & wryte the names of the men that were theyr rulers.

But they answered vs with these wordes, & sayd: We are the seruantes of hym that is God of heauen & earth, and buyld the house that was buylded many yeres ago, which a great kyng of Israel buylded, & set vp. But after our fa- thers had prouoked the God of heu vnto wrath, he gaue them ouer into the hand of Nabucho- donozor the kyng of Babilon, & of the Chaldees, whiche brake downe this house, and carped the people awaye captiue vnto Babilon.

But in the fyrst yere of Cyrus the kyng of Babilon, the same kyng Cyrus gaue commaun- dement concernynge this house of God, that it shuld be buylded agayne. And he velleys of golde and silver of the house of God, which Nabucho- donozor toke out of the temple that was at Je- rusalem, & brought them into the temple at Ba- bilon, those dyd Cyrus the kyng take out of the temple at Babilon, & and they were deliuered vnto one Hasbazar by name, whome he made captayne, & sayd vnto hym. Take these vessels and go the way, and set them in the temple that is at Ierusalem, and let the house of God be buylded in his place. Then came the same Hasbazar and layed the foundation of the house of God, whiche is at Jerusalem. Duns that tyme also vntyl now hath it be in buyldynge, and yet is it not finished. If it please the kyng now we ther- fore let there be sette made in the kynges libza- ry wher is there at Babilon, whether it haue ben kyng Cyrus commaundement, that this temple of God at Jerusalem shuld be buylded, and let hym sende vs the kynges mynde concer- nyng the same matter.

The vi. Chapter.

At the commaundement of Darius kyng of Persia, after the temple was buylded and dedicate, the chyliden of Israel hope the feast of vniuersed bread.

Ethen commaunded kyng Darius, and they made searche in the libzaire, euen in the place where they layed vp the treasure at Babilon. And there was founde in a coffer (in the place that is in the land of the medes) a volume, and therein was it thus wrytten, & such a memoiall: In the fyrst yere of kyng Cyrus, gaue the same kyng Cyrus com- maundement concernynge the house of God at Jerusalem, that the same house shuld be buylded in the place where they offere the sacrifices, and to loyne the walles togyther of thescore cub- ytes depgth, and thescore cubytes bredth. The rowes of rough stones, & one rowe of tymber, and the expences shall be gyuen of the kynges house. And let the gold and silver vessel of the house of God, (whiche Nabuchodonozor toke out of the temple at Jerusalem and brought vn to Babilon) be restored, and brought agayne vnto the temple at Jerusalem to theyr place in the house of God.

Set you far from them therfore, thou Eath- nai captayne beyonde the water, and Starba- zani, and your counsailers and Apher Sechel, which are beyonde the water, get ye away from them. Let the worke of the house of this God a lone, that the captayne of the Jewes and their elders maye buyde the house of God in his place. I haue comaunded what shall be done to the el- ders of Iuda for the buyldynge of the house of God, that there shall be diligent hede taken of the kynges goodes, euen of the rentes beyonde the water, and gyue vnto the men, that they be not hyndred. And if they haue neede of calves, rammes, & lambes for the burnt offryng of the God of heauen, wheate, salte, wyne, and oyle, after the custome of the prestres at Jerusalem, let the same be gyuen them daily without anye delay: that they maye offere swete sauours vnto the God of heauen, and pray for the kynges life and for his chyliden. And such a commaunde- ment haue I giuen: that what man soeuer he be that altereth this worde, there shall a beame be taken from his house, and set vp, and he shal be hanged thereon, and his house shall be made a donge hill, for the same thynge.

And the God that set his name there, destroy al kynges and people that put to theyr hand to alter, & to breake downe the house of God wher is at Jerusalem. I Darius haue commaunded, that this be done wryth speche.

Ethen Eathnai the captayne of the country beyonde the water, and Starbazani with their counsailers counsaillers (to whom kynge Darius had sent) did they diligence. And the elders of the Jewes buylded, and they prospered thorow the prophesyinge of Aggeus the prophet, and zachary the sonne of Iddo: and they buylded and layed up the foundacyon, accordyng to the commaundement of the God of Israel, and after the commaundement of Cyrus and Darius, and Artaxerxes kinges of Persia. And the house was finished the thyrtye day of the moneth Idar, even in the fyrte pere of the raygne of kynge Darius.

* And the chyldren of Israel, the preestes, the Leuites, & the other chyldren of captiuitie held the dedication of this house of God with ioye, and offered at the dedication of this house of God an hundred oxen, two hundred rāmes: foure hundred gootes, & for the reconcylyng of all Israel twelue hegootes: accordyng to the nombre of the tribes of Israel, and set the preestes in theyr sondry courses: and the Leuites in theyr dyuers offices to mynistrer vnto God at Jerusalem: as it is wyrtten in the boke of Moyses.

And the chyldren of the captiuitie helde passeouer vpon the fourteenth daye of the fyrst moneth, for the preestes and Leuites were purged, so that they were all cleane togyther, and kyled Pascheouer for all the chyldren of the captiuitie, & for their brethren the preestes, & for the selues. And the chyldren of Israel whych were come agayne out of captiuitie, and all such as had separated them selues vnto them, fro the fyrthynesse of the heptren of the land: to like the Lord God of Israel, dyd eate, and helde the feast of vnleuened bread seuen dayes with ioye: for the Lord had made them glad, & turned the berte of synge of Assur vnto them, to strengthen their bades in the worke of the house of God, eue the God of Israel.

¶ By the commaundement of Artaxerxes, Esdras taketh his companions the synners of Israel, and returneth to Jerusalem.

¶ After these actes, there was in the raygne of Artaxerxes kynge of Persia, one Esdras the sonne of Saria, the sonne of Alaria, the son of Helkiah, the sonne of Salum, the sonne of Iadoc, the sonne of Abitob, the sonne of Amaria, the sonne of Alaria, the sonne of Meraiorh, the sonne of Ierata, the sonne of Eli, the sonne of Buchi, the sonne of Abisua, the sonne of Phinehas, the sonne of Eleasar, the sonne of Iard the chiefe preest. This Esdras also went up fro Babylon, & was a perfect scribe in the lawe of Moyses, whych the Lord God of Israel dyd gyue. And the kynge gaue hym al that he requyred because the hande of the Lord his God was vpon hym. And there wente vpon certayne of the chyldren of Israel: of the preestes, Leuites, synners, porters, & of the Arthynims vnto Jerusalem, in the seuench pere of kynge Artaxerxes. And he came to Jerusalem in the fyrst moneth, even in the seuench pere of the kynge. For vpon the fyrste daye of the fyrst moneth, began he to go up fro Babylon, & on the fyrst day of the fyrst moneth came he to Jerusalem, because the good hade of God was vpon hym. For Esdras prepared hym bert to like the lawe of the Lord, & to do it, and teache the precept and iudgement in Israel.

And this is the coppe of the letter that kynge Artaxerxes gaue vnto Esdras the preest and scribe, whych was a wyrtter of the wordes and commaundementes of the Lord, & of his statutes ouer Israel. Artaxerxes a kynge of kynges.

Vnto Esdras the preest & scribe of the lawe of the God of heauen, peace & salutation. I haue commaunded, that all they of the people of Israel, & of the preestes & Leuites in my realme (whych are mynded of their owne good will to go vnto Jerusalem) go wyth the: and therfore art thou sent of the kynge & of his seuen counsaillers, to visit Iuda & Jerusalem, accordyng to the lawe of the God, which is in thy hande. And that thou shouldest take with the syluer & golde, whych synge & his counsaillers offere of theyr owne good wyl vnto the God of Israel (whose habitation is at Jerusalem) & all the syluer & golde thou canst fynde in all the countrey of Babylon, wyth it that the people offere of theyr owne good wyl, and the preestes gyue for the house of their God whych is at Jerusalem.

Take thou the same, & bye diligently wyth the same money, oxen, rāmes, and lābes, with theyr meatoffrynges and drynkeoffrynges: and thou shalt offer them vpon the auter of the house of your God, which is at Ierusalem. And loke what it speth the & thy brethren to do with the remnant of the money, that do after the wyl of your God. And the vessels that are gyuen the for the ministracion in the house of the God, those deliuer thou before God at Jerusalem.

And whatsoever thyng moze shalbe nedefull for the house of thy God, which is necessary for to spende, thou shalt receyue the charges out of the kynge's treasure house, I kynge Artaxerxes haue comaunded al the treasurers beyonde the water, that loke whatsoever Esdras the preest and scribe, in the lawe of the God of heauen, requyeth of you that ye fulfill the same speedily, vntyll an hundred talentes of syluer, vntyll an hundred quarters of wheate, and tyll an hundred bannes of wyne, and tyll an hundred bannes of oyle, and salte wythoute measure. Whatsoeuer also belongeth to the lawe of the God of heauen, let the same be done without any delay for the house of the God of heauen, & he be not wroth agaynst the realme, & agaynst the kynge, & his chyldren.

And we certifie you: that ye haue no authoritie to requyre tarynge and custome, & yearly rentes vpon anye of the preestes, Leuites, synners, porters, Arthynims, and ministers in the house of the God. And thou Esdras (after the wysdome of the God, that is in thy hande) set iudges and arbiters by my authoritie, to iudge all the people that is beyonde the water, euen al suche as knowe the lawe of the God, and them that knowe it not: those se that ye teache. And whosoever wyl not fulfill the lawe of the God, and the kynge's lawe, lette hym haue his iudgement without delape, whether it be vnto death, or to be rooted out, or to be condemned in goodes, or to be put in pryson.

I. E. 102. 15.

* Blessed be the Lorde God of our fathers, which so hath inspired the kynge here, to gather up the house of the Lorde that is at Jerusalem, and hath enclined his mercy vnto me, in the presence of the kynge & his counsaillers: and before all the kynge's brether. And I was comforted (euen as the hande of the Lorde my God was vpon me) and so gathered I the heedes of Israel together, that they myght go by word me.

The viii. Chapter

The nombre of them that returned to Jerusalem in the first.

102. 15.

These are the principall fathers of them, & this is theyr register that went up with me from Babylon, what tyme as kynge Artaxerxes ragned. Of the chyldren of Phinehes, Gersom: of the chyldren of Ithamar, Daniel: of the chyldren of Dauid, Hattus: of the chyldren of Zacharia: among the chyldren of Pharos, zachary: and whym were nombred an hundred and fyfthe men. Of the chyldren of the captayne of Moab, Elionai, the sonne of zerahia, and with hym two hundred men. Of the chyldren of zacharia the sonne of Johasiel, & with hym three hundred men. Of the chyldren of Adin, Abed the sonne of Jonathan, & with hym fyfthe men. Of the chyldren of Elam, Jlai the sonne of Athalia, and with hym seuentye men. Of the chyldren of Saphatia, zebadia the sonne of Michael, and with hym foure scoze men.

Of the chyldren of Joab, Obadia the sonne of Jebiel, and with hym two hundred and egyptene men. Of the chyldren of Melomith the sonne of Josephia, and with hym an hundred and thre scoze men.

Of the chyldren of Sebai, zachary the sonne of Sebai, and with hym egypte and twenty men. Of the chyldren of Algad, Johanan the sonne of Bahatan, and with hym an hundred and ten men. Of the chyldren of Idomicam, that were the last, whose names are these: Eliphelet, Jebiel & Samaiab, and with them thre scoze men. Of the chyldren of Bignai, Athai, & zabud, and with them seuentye men. And I gathered them together by the water that runneth toward Abana, and there abode we thre dayes. And I looked amonge the people & the prestes, and found there none of the chyldren of Levi. Then sent I to Eliezer, to Ariel, Demetia, Elnachan, Jarib, Elnachan, nathan, zachary, and to Melullam the rulers, and to Joiarib and Elnachan, which were men of vnderstandyng, and to those gaue I commaundemente: vnto Iddo the cheest at Calaphia, that they shoulde fetch the mynisters for the house of our God, and I tolde them what they shoulde saye vnto Iddo and to his brether the Reethims at Calaphia.

And (thow the good hande of our God vpon vs) they brought vs a wyse man from amonge the chyldren of Moab the sonne of Levi, the sonne of Israel: And Sarabia with his son and his brether, euen egyptene. And hababia, and with hym Jlai of the chyldren of Merari, with his brether, and theyr sonnes twentye.

And of the Reethims, whome Dauid and the princes gaue to mynister vnto the Lentes, to hundred and twentye of Reethims, which all were named by name.

And euen there at the water, besyde Abana, I proclaimed a fast, that we myght humble our selues before our God, and seke of hym a ryght waye for vs, and for our chyldren, and for al our substance. For I was ashamed to requyre of the kynge, souldiours and horsemen, to helpe vs agaynst the enemy in the waye: but we sayd vnto the kynge: The hande of our God is vpon all them that seke hym in goodnes, & he shal be vnto vs his violence and wrath is agaynst al them that forsake hym. So we fasted, and besought our God for this: and he herde vs.

And I toke out twelue of the cheste prestes: Sarabia, and hababia, and ten of their brether with them, & wayed them the syluer & gold, and vessels that were appoynted for the house of our God, which the kynge and his counsaillers, and his lordes, & all Israel that were there at hande had gyuen together. And I wayed vnto theyr hand fyve hundred and fyfthe talentes of syluer, and in syluer vessel an hundred talentes, and in golde, an hundred talentes: twentye basens of golde, of a thousand peeces, and two costly ornamentes of good brasie, as cleare as golde: and I sayd vnto them: ye are consecrate vnto the Lord, lyke as the vessels are holy also, and the golde & syluer are gyuen of a good wyll vnto the Lorde God of your fathers. Watche ye, and kepe it: for ye shall waye it downe before the cheste prestes and Leutes, & auncient fathers of Israel at Jerusalem in the treasures of the house of the Lord. Then toke the prestes and Leutes the wayed syluer and golde, and vessel to bynge it to Jerusalem, vnto the house of our God. And we brake vp from the water of Abana on the tweluth daye of the fyfthe moneth, to go vnto Jerusalem: and the hande of our God was vpon vs, and deliuered vs from the hande of the enemies and of such as layed wayte for vs by the waye. And we came to Jerusalem, and a boode there thre dayes. But on the fourth daye was the syluer & golde and vessel wayed in the house of our God by the hand of Meremoth the sonne of Azia the prest, & with him was Eleazar the sonne of Phinehes, & with them was Josabab the sonne of Jehua & Roobia the sonne of Benoi the Leutes. I coo byng to the nombre & weyght of every one, was the weyght all wyrtten vp at the same tyme.

And the chyldren of the captiuitie, which were come out of prison, offered burnt offrynges vnto the God of Israel, twelue bulloches, for all Israel, fyve and nyntye rammes, seuen and seuentye lammes, twelue degootes for a synoffryng, all to the burnt offryng of the Lorde. And they deliuered the kynges commissio vnto the kynges officers, and to the captaynes that were on this syde the water. And they promoted the people, and the house of God.

The ix. Chapter.

Estheres consolacion on the people that had turne them from God, and manye sayes.

102. 15.

When these thinges were done, the rulers came to me, & sayd: The people of Israel, & the prestes and Leuites are not separated from the people of the landes (as touchinge theyr abhominacions,) namelye, of the Cananites, herutites, Pherezites, Jebusites, Ammonites, Moabites, Egyptians, and Amorites. * Nor they haue taken the daughters of the same to them selues, & to their sonnes, and the holy seede is mixed with the nacyons in the lande, & the hande of the princes and rulers hath ben principal in the trespass.

* And when I hearde this saying, I rent my clothes and my garment, and pluckt of the heere of my heed, and of my beerde, & sat mourning. And there resorted vnto me all such as feared the wordes of the Lord God of Israel, because of the transgression of the people of captiuitie. And I sat mourning vntill the euening sacrifice. And aboute the euening sacrifice, I arose vpon my benyenes, and set my clothes and my rayment and fel vpon my knees, and spreade out my handes vnto the Lord my God, and sayde:

25 O my God, I am ashamed, and dare not lyfte my pynne eyes vnto my God: for oure wycked-nesses are growen ouer our head, & our trespasse is wared greate vnto the heauen. Whys y tyme of our fathers, haue we bene in greate trespasse vnto this day, & and bycause of our wyckednesses haue we and our kynges bene deliuered into the bande of the kynges of the nacjons, into the swerde, into captiuitie, into shame, and into confusion of face: as it is to sethys daie.

And now is there a lytle and todayne gracyousnesse come from the Lorde oure God, in causyng some of vs to escape, and that he may gyue vs a naye in hys holy place, and that oure God may lyght oure eyes, and gyue vs a lytle lyfe to saue breath in our bondage. for we are bondemen, & oure God hath not forsaken vs in our bondage, and hath enclyned mercye vnto vs in the syght of the kynge of Persia, to gyue vs lyfe, to let vs the house of oure God, and to redresse the desolation thereof. And to gyue vs a wall in Juda and Ierusalem.

And nowe ourr God, what shall we saye after this: For we haue forsaken thy commaunde-mentes which thou hast commaunded by thy seruantes the prophetes, saying: The lande vnto whiche ye go to possesse, it is an vncleane lāde because of the fylthyenesse of the people of y<sup>e</sup> landes, wherbye with theyr abhominacions haue made it ful of vncleannesse on euery syde. * Therfore that ye not gyue your daughters vnto their sonnes, & theyr daughters shall ye not take vnto your sonnes, nor selle the y<sup>e</sup> peace and wealth for euer, that ye maye be stronge and enioye the good in the lande, and that ye and your chyldren maye haue the inheritaunce of it for euermore.

D And after that all these things are come vpon vs, (because of our euill deeds, and great trespasses) thou our God hast thrust down our wickedness, and hast giuen vs a deliuerance, - commandementes, and make contract wth the people of these abominacions, w<sup>rite</sup> thou not then be w<sup>ith</sup> the people? And not without cause) t<sup>ill</sup> we be utterly consumed, to þ<sup>at</sup> nothinge remaine, and t<sup>ill</sup> there be no deliuerance. O Lo:d God of Israel, thou arte eygheious, for we remaine persecyded, as it is to le this day. Beholde also, in thy presence are we in our trespasses, and by cause of it maye we not stande before the.

The 11 Chapter.

E The people repent and turn, and put always their strange bowels.

Esdas prayed after this manner, & knowledged, wepte, & lay before the house of God, there rejoiced vnto hym oure of Israel a very greate congregation of men & women & chyldren: and the people wepte verrey soze. And Serchania s sonne of Iehiel one of the chyldren of Elam, answered: and sayd vnto Esdas: We haue trespassed against our God, and hau: taken straunge wyues of the people of the lande. Nowe there is hope yet in Israel concerning this thyng: for now we wpll make a cōnenaunte wyth our God, and put awaye all the wyues ( & such as are boine of them ) accordyng to the counsaile of the Lorde: & we wpl be in the feare of the cōmaūdemētes of our God, that we may do accordyng to s law. Ser the vp: for this matter belongeth vnto the: we also wpl be wyth the: be of good comforte therfore, and do it.

* Then arose Eldas: & took an oth of p̄che-priestes & Leuites, & of al Israel, that they shuld doe accordyng to this worde: and they sware.
 And Eldas stode vp fr̄ before p̄house of God & went into the chylde of Iohannan the sonne of Eluasib. And when he came thyrber, he dyd eate no bierd, nor drinke water: for he mourned, because of the transgression of the people that had ben in captiuitie. And they caused a proclamation to go thorowout Iuda and Ierusalem, vnto all the chylidzen whiche had ben in captiuitie, that they shuld gather them selues togyther vnto Ierusalem. And that whosoener cam not with in thre dayes accordyng to the decyle of the rulers and elders, al hys substance shulde be for-feyt, and he shulde be put forth from the congregacion of the captiuitie.

Then all the men of Iuda and Ben Iamin gathered them selues together vnto Ierusalem within thre dayes, euen the twentye daye of the nynty moneth, and al the people sat in the strete befoze the house of God, and trembled bycause of thys matter, and for the rayne. And Eldoz the preeste stood: vp, and sayde vnto them: * Ye haue transgressed, and haue taken strange wyues, to make trespass of Israel yet more: chaffe not thefore vnto the Lorde God of your fathers: & do his pleasure, & separate your selues fro the people of p lade, & fro the straunge wyues. And al the congregation answered, and sayd w a loude voyce: it shalbe so: & we wyl do as p hall sayde. But the people are many, & it is a raynye wyther, and the people are to saynte to tarpe without in the strete, neither is this a worke of one daye of the: say we haue offended very sore in this thyng. Let our fathers stande therefore in all synners, & let all them which haue sinned straunge wyues in our cyties, come at fyre appointed, and let the elders of euery cytye & their iudges be wth them, til they haue turned & wroth of our God a way fed us concerning this matter.

Then were appoynted Jonathan the sonne of Abiel, & Jachalia the son of Chikua ouer this matter. And Huldai & Shabathai the Levites helped them. And schylde of the captiuitie dyd euen so. And Edoas the priest, & the auncient heredes thowd & house of they fathers all men of great fame, separated them selues, & sat them downe in the fyfthe daye of the tenth moneth, to examine the matter. And vntyl the fyfth daye of the fyfth moneth they were finishing & busyness with all men that had taken straunge wyues.

And amonge the chyldren of the priestes there were men foude that had taken straunge wyues, namely amonge the chyldren of Iesua, the sonne of Joseder and of his brethren, Whasiab, & Elie-he wordes of Achemia the son of Jachalia. It fortuned in the moneth Chislen, in the twenty peare, that I was in the castell at Susan: and Hanani, one of my brethren came wth certayne men of Iuda, and I asked the how the Jewes dyd that were delynered and escaped from the captiuitie, and how it went at Jerusalem. And they sayd vnto me: The remnant of the captiuitie are there in the land in great misfortune and rebuke. * The wall of Jerusalem also is broken downe: and the gates therof are bzent with fyre.

It fortuned, that when I herde these wordes I late me downe and wepte, and moued certaine dayes, and fasted and prayed befoze the God of heauen, and sayd: O Lorde God of heauen, thou grete and terribble God, * thou that hepest couenaunt and mercy for them that loue the, and obseue thy commaundementes: let thyne eares hearken, I beseeche the, and let thyne eares be open, that thou mayest heare the prayer of thy seruauntes, which I praye now befoze the daye and nyght, for the chyldren of Israel thy seruantes, and knowledge the synnes of the chyldren of Israel, whych we haue synned agaynst the.

I and my fathers house haue synned: we haue ben vterlye dispersed from thy lawe, and haue not kepte thy commaundementes, statutes, and lawes, whiche thou commaundedest thy seruaunte Moses. I beseeche the, call to remembraunce the worde that thou commaundedest thy seruaunt Moses, and saydest: Pe wyl transgress, and I * wyl scatze you abrode amonge the nations. But pe retorne vnto me, and kepe my commaundementes, and do them: though pe were cast out vnto the uttermost part of beauen, yet wyl I gather you fro thence, & wyl bringe you vnto the place that I haue chosen, to let my name there. They are thy seruauntes and thy

¶ The. ii. Chapter.

After Bethemia had obteyned letters of Artabaces, he came to Ierusalem, and buylded the walles.

I fortun'd, that in the moneth & Alban in the twentyeth yere of kyng Artabaces, the wyne stode before him, & I toke vp the wine, and gaue it vnto kyng. And I was heuy in his presence. And the kyng sayd vnto me: why lokest thou so sadly, why art not speker, it is nothyng els, but that I arte heuie herted. And I was soze afraped, and sayd vnto the kyng, God saue the kynges lyfe for ever. Howe shulde I not loke sadly, why the cytie and place of my fathers buriall lyeth wast and the gates thereof are consumed wyth fyre. And the kyng sayde vnto me: what is then thy requeste? I made my prayer also to the God of heauen, & sayde vnto the kyng: yf it please the kyng: and yf thy seruauit haue founde sauoure in thy sight, sende me into Iuda vnto the cytye of my fathers buriall, that I maye buyde it.

And the kyng sayd vnto me (the queene hys wyfe sytynge by hym) how longe shal thy iourney continue, and when wilt thou come agayne? And it pleased the kyng to sende me, & I let him a tyme, and sayd vnto the kyng: yf it please the kyng, let hym gyue me letters to the captaynes which are beyonde the water, that they maye carry me ouer, tyll I come into Iuda: and letters vnto Alaph the lord of the kynges wood, that he maye gyue me symble to make beames for the gates of the palace (which is harde by the house) and for the walles of the cytie, and for the house that I shall entre into. And the kyng gaue me accordyng to the bande of my God, whych was good vpon me. And when I came to the captaynes beyonde the water, I gaue them the kynges letters. And the kyng sent captaynes and hostmen wyth me.

Sanabalat also the hozonpte, and Tobia a seruauit (the Ammonite) heard it, and it greued them soze, that there was come a ma which sought the wealth of the chyliden of Israel. And I came to Ierusalem, and was there thre dayes & I gat me vp in the night season, and a few me wyth me, neyther tolde I anye man, what God had gyue me in my hert to do at Ierusalem, and there was not one beast with me, save it that I rode vpon. And I departed in the nyght by the valley porte, before the draggon wel, and to the donge porte, and consyded the walles of Ierusalem howe they were broken downe, and the portes thereof consumed wyth the fyre. And I went ouer vnto the well porte, and to the kynges conduyte, and there was no roume for the beast that was vnder me to passe. Then wente I on in the nyght by the broke syde, and cōsyded the wall, and turned backe, and came home agayne by the valleye porte.

And the rulers knewe not whyther I wente or what I dyd, neyther dyd I as yet tell it vnto the Jewes, to the prestes, to the noble me to the rulers, & to the other that laboured in the worke. Then sayd I vnto them: ye se the myserye that we are in, howe Ietysail lyeth waste, & howe the gates thereof are hient wyth fyre: come therfore that we maye buyde vp the wall of Ierusalem, & that we be nomore a rebuke. And I told them of the bande of my God, (that it was gracypous ouer me) & the kynges wordes that he had spoken vnto me. And they sayde: let vs get vp, and buyde: & they strenghted theyr bande to good.

But when Sanabalat the hozonpte, & Tobia the seruauit (an Ammonite), and Selim the Arabian herde it, they laughed vs to scoine and mocked vs, and sayd: what is this that ye do? Wyl ye fall a waye from the kyng? Then answered I them, and sayd: the God of heauen, he it is that hath graunted vs prosperite: and we be hys seruantes. Let vs get vp and buyde. As for you, ye haue no portion nor ryght, nor remembraunce in Ierusalem.

¶ The. iii. Chapter.

The nombre of them that buylded the walles.

And Eliaib the hye prest gat hym I vp wyth his brethren the prestes, & they buylded the shepegate. They repayred it, and set vp the doores of it: and vnto the towre Nea repayred they it, & vnto the towre of Hananeel. Next vnto him also buylded the men of Jericho. And besyde hym Sachur the sonne of Amri. But the fyfthe porte dyd the chyliden of Sanna buyld, which also layed the beames thereof, & set on the doores lockes, and barres of it. And nexte vnto him buylded Herimoth, the son of Uria, the son of Hakoz: and next vnto them buylded Hefail the sonne of Barachia the sonne of Welsabeel: and next vnto him buylded zadoc the son of Sanna. And nexte vnto him buylded they of Thekoa. But the greate men y were amonge them, put not their neckes to the worke of their Lord.

The olde gate buylded Icholada the sonne of Pasah, & Hefail the sonne of Besodia, they layed y beames thereof, & set on the doores lockes & barres of it. Next vnto the buylded Melatiah of Sibcon & Jadon of Merano, me of Sibeon, & of Wilsa, wher he that was captain on this syde the water had a mansion. Nexte vnto hym buylded Asiel the sonne of Harabiah the gold smyth. Next vnto hym also buylded Harnania the sonne of Harakim, & they repayred Ierusalem vnto the brode well. Nexte vnto them buylded Raphaiah the son of Har, the ruler of the halfe parte of Ierusalem. Next vnto hym buylded Jedaiia the sonne of Harumaph ouer agaynst hys house: & next vnto hym buylded Hatus the sonne of Halabnia. But Welschia the sonne of Hartin & Halub the son of the captayne of Moab buylded the other pece, and the towre besyde the fornaces. Next vnto hym buylded Sallum a syngers sonne, the ruler of the halfe parte of Ierusalem, he and his daughters.

The valley gate buylded Hanum, & the city of zonoa. They buylded it, & set on y doores.

¶ The. iii. lockes

lockes & barres thereof, and a Cubytes on the wal, vnto the donge pozt. But the donge pozt buylded Melchiah the sonne of Rechab: the ruler of the fourth parte of Bethcharam: he repayed it, and set on the dozes, lockes & barres thereof. But the well gate repayed Shallu the sonne of Choldosah the ruler of the fourth parte of Gyspa: he buylded it, and layed the beames, and set on the dozes, lockes and barres thereof, and the wal vnto the poole of Siloah by the hinges garde, and vnto the steeppes that go downe fro the cite of Dauid. After him buylded Redemiah the sonne of Abob: the ruler of the halfe parte of Bethzur, vntill the other syde our agaynst the sepulchres of Dauid, and to the poole that was repayed, and vnto the house of the myghtye.

After hym buylded the Lewytes, Reham the sonne of Santi, and next vnto hym buylded Hasabiah the ruler of the halfe parte of Arliab in hym quarter. After hym buylded their brethren: Banai the sonne of Benadab the ruler of the halfe parte of Arliab: and after him buylded Ezer the sonne of Jesua the ruler of Gyspa the other pece harde our agaynst the goinge vp to the house of the ordinaunce that was in the corner. Agayne, after him byabe forth Saruch the son of Zachai of indignacyn, & repayed the other pece fro the turnynge corner, vnto the dooze of the house of Eliasib the hye prest. And after him also buylded Meremoth the sonne of Uzia the son of Haros, the other pece fro the doze of the house of Eliasib, euen as longe as the house of Eliasib extended. After hym buylded the prestes, the men of the playne. After hym buylded Ben Jamin and Hasab our agaynst theyr house, and after him wrought Asaria the sonne of Masia, the sonne of Anania, next vnto his house. After hym also buylded Senui the sonne of Banadab the other pece, from the house of Asaria vnto the turning of the wall, and vnto the corner.

After hym buylded Bala the sonne of Alai, our agaynst the corner & the hygh towre which lyeth out ouer from the hinges house, that was besyde the court of the prison. After hym buylded Bala the sonne of Pharhos (as for the Arthimins they dwelt in the stronge holde vnto the watergate, toward the east, & to the towre that lyeth out.) After him buylded they of Tekua the other pece ouer agaynst the great towre, that lyeth outwarde, vnto the wall of the stronge holde.

But from aboue the hozlegate forth buylded the prestes, euery one ouer agaynst his house. And after them buylded Zadoh the sonne of Immer ouer agaynst his house. After hym buylded also Semecia the sonne of Sechania the keper of the eastgate. After hym buylded Hanania the son of Selemia, & Hanan the sonne of Zalah the other pece. And after hym buylded Mesullai the son of Serachia ouer agaynst his hozehonse. After hym buylded Malachia the goldsmithes sonne, vntill the house of the Arthimins, and of the marchantes ouer agaynst the gate Sephad, & to the parlour in the corner. And betwene the parlour of the corner vnto the thepegate buylded the goldsmithes and the marchantes.

The. iiii. Chapter

The buyldinge of Iherusalem is hyndred and lxx, but the Jewes buylded it, beinge readye to be destroyed, for theyr enemyes shoulde invade them.

But when Sanabalat hearde that we builded the wal, he was wroth in hym selfe, & toke great indignacion, & moched the Jewes, & sayde befoze his brethren and the souldyours of Samaria: what do these impotent Jewes? will the heathen suffer them? shall they offer? shall they persour me it in one daye? shall they make stones whole againe that are brought to dust & wyte? And Tobiah the Ammonite was besyde him, and sayde: Though they buyld, yet if a foxe go vp, he shall bryake downe theyr stony wall. Heare (O our God) for we are despyed: turne their shame vpo theyr owne heed, and gyue them ouer into despyssing in the lande of theyr captiuitie. Coner not theyr wyckednesse, and let not theyr syn be put out in thy presence: for they haue prouoked the buylders. And so buylded we the wal, & it was ioynd hole togyther, vnto the halfe beygh thereof. And the people were mynded to labour.

And it fortuneth, that when Sanabalat, and Tobiah, & the Arabians, Ammonites, & Asodites hearde that the walles of Iherusalem were made vp, & that the gappes began to be stopped they were very wroth, & conspyred al togither to come & fight agaynst Iherusalem, & to make the people an hyndraunce therein. Neuerthelesse we made our prayer vnto our God, & set watchmen by them, which buylded day and nyght ouer agaynst them. And Iuda sayde: the strength of the bearers is to feble: and there is yet moche more moztter, & we are not able to buyld on the wal. And our aduersaries sayd: they shall not knowe neyther se, tyll we come in the myddes amonge them & slay them, and hynde the worke. But it fortuneth that when the Jewes (which dwelt besyde them) came, they told vs as good as ten tymes: that in all places where ye go vnto, they are appoynted to fall vpon vs. Therefore set I the people after theyr kynredes with theyr swerdes, speares and bowes beneth in the lowe places be hynde the wal, and I loked, and gas me vp: and said vnto the chiefe men, to the rulers, and to the other people, be not ye afrayed of them: * But thynke rather vpon your great Lord, which ought to be feared, and fyght for your brethren, your sonnes, your daughters, your wyues, and your houses, neuertheles, it chaunced that wher our enemyes herbe that we had gotten worde of it, God brought theyr counsell to nought: and we turned all agayne to the wal: euery one vnto hym labour. And fro that tyme forth it came to passe that the halfe parte of the yonge men byde the labour, and the other halfe parte of them held the speares, wyldes, bowes, & byestplates: and the rulers stode behynde all the house of Iuda, which buylded on the wal, & bare burthens from those that laded them. With one hande byd euery one worke: and with the other helde hym weapon. And euery one that buylded, had hym swerde byde by hym thygh, and so buylded they. And the trumpet blew besyde me.

And

D And I sayd vnto the principal me, to the rulers, and to the other people: the worke is great and large, and we are separated vpon the wall, one farr fro another. Loke in what place therfore ye heare the noyse of the trompet, resorte ye thither vnto vs, *and our God shall fyght for vs: and we wyll be labouryng in the worke. And the halfe part of them helde the speares fro the moornyng vnto ynnge: till the starres came forth. And at the same time sayd I vnto the people: euery one abyde wyth his seruaunt at Jerusalem, that in the night season we may watch, and labour on the day tyme. As for me & my brethren, my seruantes and the men of the watch (which were behynde me) we put neuer of oure clothes, nomore then the other dyd they: harnesse, save onely because of the water.

¶ The v. Chapter.

The people are vexed with hunger. He requyryth not the luyng of a captayne.

Ad there arose a greete complaynt of the people, and of they: wyues agaynst they: brethren the Iues. For there were some that layde: our sonnes and doughters and we are to manye therfore wyll we take coyne for them, that we maye eate and lyue. Some also there were that sayd: let vs let our landes: vnyepardes & houses to pledge & take by coyne in the dearth. But some there were & said: let vs bozowe money for the kynges tribute: and that vpon our landes and vnyepardes. Beholde, our bodies as the bodies of our brethren, & our chyldren as they: chyldren: els shuld we subdue our sonnes and doughters vnto bondage, and some of our doughters are subdued vnto bondage already and no strength is there in our handes, and other men haue our landes and vnyepardes.

B And when I harde they: complaynte & suche wordes, it displeased me soze, and I aduised so in my mynde, that I rebuked the counsellors, and rulers, & sayd vnto them. Euery one of you is to chargeable vnto his brother. And I brought a great congregation agaynst them, and sayde vnto them: we (after oure abillite) haue bought our brethren the Jewes, which were solde vnto the heathen. And wyll you sel your brethren agayne vnto the heathen, after that they haue ben solde vnto vs? Then helde they they: peace, and coulde fynde nothyng to answer.

C And Nehemia sayde: It is not good that ye do. Oughte ye not to walke in the feare of God, because of the rebuke of the heathen that are our enemies? I and my brethren, and my seruantes do lend them money and coyne: but as for vsurp let vs leaue it. Therfore, this same day I praye you that ye restore them they: landes agayne they: vnyepardes, oyle gardens, and their houses, and remyt the hundred parte of the mony of the coyne, wyne and oyle that ye haue towne of them. Then sayde they: we wyll restore them agayne, and wyll requyre nothyng of them: and wyll do as thou hast spoken. And I called f mylles, & toke an oth of them, that they shuld do so. And I chooke my lappe, & sayde. God make out every man after the same maner from his house labour that mayntayneth not this worde: eue that he be shak out, & voyde. And al the cōgregaciō sayd: Amen, & prayed the Lord: And the people dyd so. And from the tyme forth that (the kyng) commytted vnto me to be a captayne of them that were in the land of Iuda eue fro p. xx. yere vnto the. xxii. yere of kyng Artaxerxes, (that is. xii. yere) I with my brethren liued not of such substance as was giuen to a captayne. For the olde captaynes & were before me, had bene chargeable vnto the people, & had taken of them breed and wyne, & xl. species of syluer: pea, & they: seruantes had oppressed & people. But so dyd not I, & that because of the feare of God. But I laboured also in the worke vpon the wal, & bought no lande. And all my seruantes came thither together vnto & worke. Moreover they were at my table an. c. and. l. of the Jewes & rulers, which came vnto me fro among the heathen that are about vs. And there was prepared for me dayly an oxe, & fyve chosen shepe, & bydes, & euery ones in. x. dayes a great summe of wyne. Peter requyred not I the luyng of a captayn, for the bondage was greuous vnto the people.

* Thynke vpon me my God vnto the best, according to all that I haue done for this people.

¶ The vi. Chapter.

The buydyng is per agayne begun and let.

Ad when Sanabalat, Tobiah, and Gersam the Arabian, & the other of oure enemies herde that I had buylded the wall, and & there wer no mo gappes therein (howbeit, at the same tyme had I not baged the dozes vpon the gates) Sanabalat & Gersam sent vnto me, saying: come that we may mete and take counsel together in the vylages & are in the plaine of the cytic Ono. Acuerthelesse, they thoughte to do me euill. And I sent messengers vnto the, saying: I haue a greete busynesse to do, & I can not come downe. The worke shuld stand styll, if I were negligent, & came down to you. howbeit it, they sent vnto me as good as foure tymes after the same maner. And I gaue the the same answer. Then sent Sanabalat his seruant agayne vnto me the fyfth tyme, with an open letter in his hande wherein was written: it is tolde the heathen & Gersam hath sayd it, that & and & Iues thynke to rebel, for the which cause & buylded the wall that & mayst be they: kyng in these matters, & hast ordeyned the prophetes to preache of the at Jerusalem, and to saye: he is kyng of Iuda.

And now shal this come to the kynges eares, & come now therfore, & let vs take our counsell together. And I sent vnto him, saying: there is no such thyng done as thou sayest: for thou sayest them out of thyne owne heart. For they were all mynded to make vs afraied, saying: they shall withdraue they: handes fro the worke, that it shall not be finished. howbeit, I strenghted my hande the more. And I came to the house of Semeta the sonne of Dalaiā the sonne of Mehatabeel, & he had with hym selfe wythin, & sayde: let vs come together into & house of God, eue vnto & symbles of & temple, & & dozes of & temple. for they wyll come to slay & pea, eue in & nyght wyll ## ii. Edozas.

they come to put the to death. And I sayd: Guld any such man as I saye: Who is that, being as I am, that will go into the temple, to save his selfe: I will not go in.

C And I perceyved, that God had not sent hym. For spake he wrothepre upon me, neuertheless, Tobiah and Sanabalar had byed hym for money. Therefore toke he the money, that through feare I shulde so do, and synne: that they myght haue an euill report of me, to blasphemie me. My God thynke thou upon Tobiah & Sanabalar accorpyng vnto these theyr wordes, and of the prophet Aodias, & of the other prophetes that wolde haue put me in feare.

D And the wall was synplyshed on the fyue and twenty day of the moneth Elul, in two & fiftye dayes. And when all our enemyes herde therof, al þe heathen that were about vs, were afrayed, and their courage fayled them. And they perceyued, that this worke came of our God. And at þe same tyme were there many of the chiefe of Iuda whose letters went vnto Tobiah & agayne from Tobiah vnto them: for there were many in Iuda, that were sworne vnto hym, for he was the sonne in laue of Sechania, the sonne of Irah, and his sonne Jehonathan had the daughter of Mesullam, the sonne of Sarachia, & they spake good of him before me: & tolde him my wordes: and Tobiah sent letters to put me in feare.

¶ The vii. Chapter.

¶ After the wall once buylded, in the watche appoynted. They that returned from the captiuitie are nombred.

A And when the wall was buylded: I hangd on the doores also, and the porters, syngers & Leuites were appoynted. And I commaunded my brother Hanani and Hanania the ruler of the castell at Ierusalem: for he was a faithful man, and feared God more then dyd many other. And I sayd vnto them: let not the gates of Ierusalem be opened, vntyl the sunne be whote. And while they were standyng in the watch, they shut the doores, and barred them. And we appoynted certayne cytyzens of Ierusalem, to be watchemen, eery one to kepe his watche, and euery one to be ouer agaynst his house. As for the cytie, it was large of roume and greate: but the people were fewe therein, and the houses were not buylded.

B And my God gaue me in my heart, that I gathered together the principal men, & the officers and the people, to nombze them: and I founde a register of the nombze of them: which came vp before out of the captiuitie: and founde wyrtten therein: these are the sonnes of Ilande that went vnto the captiuitie of carrying away (whom Nabuchodonosor the kynge of Babylon had brought away) and came agayne to Ierusalem & Iuda: euery one vnto his cytie. of Barcoi, the chyldren of Bithra: the chyldren of Chamah, the chyldren of Reziab, the chyldren of Hatipba.

The chyldren of Salomons seruantes, the chyldren of Sotai: the chyldren of Sophereth, the chyldren of Pherida, the chyldren of Jaala, the chyldren of Barcon, the chyldren of Siddel, the chyldren of Saphatiah, the chyldren of Hattyl, the chyldren of Dochereth of Zabaini, the chyldren of Amon. All these Reubenims, and the chyldren of Salomons seruantes, were thye hundred, nyntye and two.

And the se wēt vp also of Thel, Wela, Thel Harfa, Cherub, Adon, & Immer: but they could not fynde theyr fathers house, nor theyr sēde, & that they were of Israel. The chyldren of Dalaiah: the chyldren of Thooia, and the chyldren of Rechoda, fyre hundred and two and fourtye.

And of the prestes the chyldren of Babpiah: the chyldren of Hatos, the chyldren of Bersilat: which toke one of the daughters of Bersilat the Giliatite to wyfe, and was named after their name. These sought theyr wytyng in the register of their generaciō, but they were not founde, therefore they were put from the presthode. And Hathirsata sayd vnto them: that they shoulde not eate of the most holy, tyll there came vp a prest whiche shulde be Azim and Chamim.

And so the hole congregatyon togther was two and fourtye thousande, thre hundred & thre scoie, besydes theyr seruantes and maydens, of whom there were. vii. thousand, thre hundred and. xxxvii. And they had two hundred &. xlvii. synnginge men and women. Theyr horses, seuen hundred and fyre and thyrtye, and theyr mules two hundred and fyue and fourtye. The camels foure hundred and fyue and thyrtye: fyre thousande, seuen hundred and twentye asses.

And certayne of the auncient fathers gaue vnto the worke. Hathirsatha gaue to the treasure a thousande pieces of golde, fyfthe bassers, fyue hundred and thyrtye pceastes garmentes. And some of the chiefe fathers gaue vnto the treasure of the worke, twenty thousand peces of gold and two thousand and two hundred pounde of syluer. And the other people gaue twenty thousande peces of golde, and two thousand pounde of syluer, and thre scoie and seuen prestes garmentes. And the prestes and Leuites, the porters and the singers and the other of the people and the Reubenims & all Israel, dwelt in theyr Cityes. And the seuenth moneth came, and the chyldren of Israel were in theyr cityes.

The viii. Chapter.

Esdras gathered togther the people, & readid to them the lawe. They kepte the feast of tabernacles as boches.

And al the people gathered the selues togther: as one man, in the strete that was before the watergate, and they sayde vnto Esdras the scribe, that he shuld sette the boke of the lawe of Moyses, whych the Lozde commaunded to Israel. And Esdras the preste brought the lawe before the congregacion both of men and women: and all that coude vnderstande vnderthen vnto it, vpon the fyrst day of the seuenth moneth, and he redde therein, in the strete that was before the watergate (from the moynynge vntyll the noone daye) before men & women that dyd harken to it: and the eares of all the people were inclyned vnto the booke of the lawe. And Esdras the scribe stode vpon an hye pulpyt of wood whych they had made for preachinge, and besyde hym stode Hatharbha, Sema, Anania, Arlah, Helkia, and Maaseta on his ryghte hande, and on his left hande stode Berdaia, Misael, Malchia, Hsulum, Halebada-na, Zachari, and Melulam.

And Esdras opened the boke before all the people, for he stode a bove all the people: And when he opened it, all the people stode vp. And Esdras prayled the Lozde the great God. And all the people answered: Amen, Amen, with theyr handes vp, and bowed them selues, and worshipped the Lozde fallynge downe vpon theyr faces to the grounde. And Iesua, Baam, Sotrabiah, Jamin, Acub, Sebatthai, Hadata, Maasla, Celita, Azaria, Jozabad, Hanan, Belata: & the Leuites caused the people to gyue hede vnto the lawe, and the people stode in theyr place. And they red in the boke of the lawe of God by synctiye and playnely, so that men vnderstode the thing that was red. And Nehemiah (whiche is Hathirsata) and Esdras the prest and scribe and the Leuites that caused the people to take hede, sayde vnto all the people: this daye is holy vnto the Lozde your God: be not you soyr, and wepe not. For al the people wepte, when they hearde the wordes of the lawe.

And he sayde vnto them: go youre way and eate of the fat, and drynke the wyte, and sende part vnto them also that haue not prepared the selues: for this daye is holy vnto our Lozde, be not ye soyr therefore: for the lope of the Lozde is your strength. And the Leuites stilled al the people, and sayde: holde your peace, for the daye is holy, be not ye your selues. And al the people went theyr waye to eate and drynke, and to sende parte vnto other, & to make great myghte because they had vnderstande the wordes that were declared vnto them.

And on the nexte daye were gathered togther the chiefe fathers amonge all the people and the prestes and Leuites, vnto Esdras the scribe that they myghte vnderstande the wordes of the lawe. And they founde wyrtten in the lawe, (whiche the Lozde had commaunded by Moyses) that the chyldren of Israel shoulde dwell in boches in the feast of the seuenth moneth, and they shoulde cause it to be declared and proclaymed in all theyr cityes and thowout Ierusalem, saying: go forth vnto the mount, and sette olyuebranches, pinebranches, myrtbranches, balmebranches, and branches of the che tre: to make boches, as it is wyrtten.

And so the people went forth, and set them & made them boches, euery one vpon the rofe of his house, and in theyr conctes, and in the courtes of the house of God, and in the strete by the watergate, and in the strete by porte Ephraim.

And

ii. Exodus

And al the congregaciō of them that were come agayne out of captiuitie made booties, and late vnder the booties: for ſins the tyme of Iofua the ſonne of Aun vnto this daye, had not the chyldren of Iſrael done ſo, and there was very great gladneſſe. And every daye from the fyrſt day vnto the laſt, red Exodus in the booke of the law of God. And ſeuē dayes helde they the feaſt, & on the eighthe daye they gathered together, accorpyng vnto the maner.

The ix Chapter.

The people repented, and forſake they ſtraunge worshipes. And thus receyued the benedictiōs of God, and the ſignes of the people.

In the xxiij. day of this moneth came the chyldren of Iſrael together agayne with faſting ſackclothes, and earth vpon the head, and they that were of the ſede of Iſrael were ſeparated, from all the ſtraunge chyldren, & ſtoode and knowledged they ſynnes and the wyckedneſſes of theyr fathers, and ſtoode vpon the place and red in the booke of the lawe of the Lord their God foure tymes on the day, and they knowledged and worſhipped the Lord their God foure tymes on the day. And the Leuites ſtoode on hye namely Ieſua, Baſi, Cadmiel Sabanah, Eum, Sarchiab, Baſi and Canani, & cryed loude vnto the Lord their God. And the Leuites, Ieſua and Cadmiel, Baſi, and Baſabnia, Seſebia and Hodia, Sebania & Phathabia ſayde: ſtande vpon, and prayſe the Lord poure God for euer: and let thankes be geuen vnto the name of thy glozy, whiche excelleth all thankſguyng and prayſe Thou arte Lord alone. Thou haſt made heauen, and the heauen of all heauens, wth all theyr hoſte, the earth: and all thynges that are therein, the ſee and all that is therein, and thou preſerueſt them all, and the hoſte of heuen worſhipper the.

Thou arte the Lord God, that haſt choſen Abrahā, and broughteſt him out of Chaldea: and calledeſt hym Abrahā, and foundeſt his hart faythfull befoze the: and madeſt a couenant wth hym, to geue vnto hym ſede the lande of the Cananites, heethites, Amoytes, Phereſites, Jebuſites and Gerſites, and haſte made good thy woordes: for thou arte cōpyngous. and haſte conſidered the miſery of our fathers in Egipte, and hearde theyr complainyng by the red ſee, and thewed tokens and wonders vpon Pharaos, and on al his ſeruauntes, and on al the people of thy lande: for thou kneweſt that they were preſumptuous and cruel agaynſt them, and ſo madeſt thou the a name, as it is this daye. And the red ſee dyddſt thou drye in ſondaye befoze them, ſo that they went thowowe the myddes of the ſea drye Godde: and their perſecuters theweſt thou in to the depe (as a ſtone) in the myghtye waters: and leddeſt them on the daye tyme wth a cloude pylle, and on the nyght ſeaſon in a pylle of fyre to ſhewe them the lyght in the waye that they wente.

Thou cameſt downe alſo vpon mount Sinai, and ſpakeſt vnto them from heauē, and gaueſt them right iudgements, true lawes, good commaundementes and ſtatutes, and declared deſt vnto them thy holy Sabbath, & commaundedeſt them preceptes, ordinaunces, and lawes, by the hande of Moſes thy ſeruaunt: and gaueſt them breade from heauen, when they were hungry, and broughteſt forth water for them out of the rocke, when they were thyrſte: and promyſedeſt them that they ſhulde go in, & take poſſeſſyon of the lande: ouer which thou haddeſt lyfte vpon thyne hande for to geue them.

But they and our fathers were proude and hardened: ſo that they folowed not thy commaundementes: and wolde not obeye, neyther were myndeſulle of the wonders that thou dyddeſt for them: but became obſtynat & heade, in ſome ch that they touned backe to theyr bondage for theyr diſobediēce. And thou my God forgaueſt, and waſt gracious, merciful, patient and of greaſe goodneſſe, and forſokeſt not them.

And though they made a molten calfe (ſayd This is thy god) that broughte the oute of the lande of Egipte) and dyd greaſe blaſphemyes, yet forſokeſt thou them not in the wilderneſſe, accorpyng to thy great mercy. And the cloude pylle departed not from them on the day tyme to leade them the waye, neyther the pylle of fire in the nyght ſeaſon, to ſhewe them the lyght in the waye that they went.

And thou gaueſt them the good ſpyrite to entourme them, & withheldeſt not thy Mana from theyr mouth, & gaueſt the water wher they were thyrſt. Fourtye yerres longe madeſt thou prouiſion for them in the wylderneſſe, ſo they lacked nothyng: theyr clothes waxed not olde, and theyr ſete ſwellid not. And thou gaueſt them kyngdomes and warryons, and parted deſt them accorpyng to theyr porcyons: ſo that they poſſeſſed the lande of Sehon kyng of Heſebon: and the lande of Og the kyng of Baſan. And theyr chyldren multiplyedeſt thou as the ſtarres of heauen, and broughteſt them into the lande: wherof thou haddeſt ſpoken vnto theyr fathers, that they ſhulde go into it, and haue it in poſſeſſyon.

And the chyldren went in, and poſſeſſed the lande, & thou ſubduedeſt befoze them the inhabiters of the lande, euen the Cananites: and gaueſt them into theyr handes, with theyr kynges and the people of the lande, that they might dowith them what they wolde. And they wone theyr ſtronger cityes and a fat lande, & toke poſſeſſyon of houſes, that were full of all maner of goodes: welles dygged out, vineyardes, oylegardens, and many fruteſul trees, and they dyd cate, and were fylled: and became fat, and lyued in welth thowowe thy great goodneſſe. Neuer the leſſe they were diſobedient, & rebelled agaynſt the, and caſt thy lawe behinde their backes and ſlue thy prophetes (which exhorted them earneſtly, that they myght byng them agayne vnto the) and dyd greaſe blaſphemyes. Therefore thou gaueſt them ouer into the hande of theyr enemyes that vexed them.

And in the tyme of theyr trouble when they cryed vnto the: thou herdeſt them from heauen: and thowowe thy great mercy thou gaueſt them ſanyons

saupours whych helped them out of the hand of theyr enemyes. But whē they came to tell theyr turned backe agayne, to do euell before the: theyr foe leftest thou them in the hande of theyr enemyes, so that they had the dominion ouer them. And when they converted and cryed vnto the: thou herdest them from heauen, & many tymes hast thou deliuered the accordyng to thy great mercy, and testifyedst vnto the that thou mygd test bynge them agayne vnto thy lawe.

E For withstandinge, they were proude, and hearkened not vnto thy commaundementes, but spined in thy lawes (whych ysaia do be thal syue in them) and turned the quylde away, and were styfnecked, and wolde not heare. And many peres dyddest thou forbeare them, and testifyedst vnto them thowow thy spyrite, euen by þ hande of the prophetes: and yet wolde they not heare. Therefore gauest thou them into þ hande of the nations in the landes. And for thy greates mercyes sake, thou haste not vterly consumed them neither forsaken them: for thou art a gracious and mercifull God.

E Nowe therefore our God, thou great God, myghtye and terrible, thou þ hepest couenaunt and merce, regarde not a lytle all the frauaple that hath happened vnto vs, and our kynges, our princes, our prestes, our prophetes and our fathers, and all thy people syns the tyme of the kynges of Assur vnto this day. And truly thou art iust, in all that thou hast brought vpon vs: for þ hast done ryghte. As for vs, we haue bene vngodlye, and our kynges and our princes, our prestes and our fathers haue not done after thy law, nor regarded thy commaundementes and thy earnest exhortacions wherwith thou haste exhorted them, and they haue not serued the in theyr kyngdome, and in thy great goodes that thou gauest them, and in the large and pleceous lande which thou gauest before them, and haue not converted from theyr wycked workes. Beholde, we are in bondage this daye: and lois þ lande that thou gauest vnto our fathers, to enioye the frutes and goodes thereof, behold, there are we bondmen. And great is the increas of it vnto the kynges whome thou hast set ouer vs, because of our synnes: and they haue dominion ouer our bodies and cattell (euen as they wyll them selues) and we are in greates trouble. And in al this make we a sure couenaunt, & wyte it, and our princes, Leuites & prestes seale vnto it.

¶ The .x. Chapter.

E The names of them that sealed the couenaunt betwene God and the people.

The sealers were Rehemiah (that is) hathirathia: the sonne of harhalia, and zebekia, Saraia, Asariah & Jeremy, Phasur, Amaria, Malchia, hatas, Sdbaniah, Malluch, harim, Merimoth, and Obadiah, Daniel, Jenthon, & Baruch, Melulam, Abia, and Miamin, Maasia, Belgai & Semria: these were prestes. The Leuites were Iesua the sonne of Azania, Benui, amonge the chyldren of Ihenedab and Cadmiel. And theyr brethren Sechania, Hodia, Celita, Delaia: hanan, Wicha, Rehob, and Isabiah, Sachur, Berebia, Sabania, Hodia, Bani and Benina.

The headres of the people were, Phares, the capayne of Moab, Elam, Zathu, & Bani Bani Agad, Schai, Adonia, Begoi, Adin, Iter, hezekia, Asur Hodia, Hasum, Selai, Harip, Anathoth, and Rebat, Magphias, Melulam he sir, Orisclabel, zador, Zaddua, Phalatia, hanā Anania, hofea, hāania, hasub, hatobes, Phalea, Sobek, Rehum, hasbna, Maasia, Abia, Jonan and Anan, Malluch, harim, & Baana.

And the other people, the Dystes, Leuites, porters, syngers, Aethinims, and all theyr that had separated them selues frome the people in þ landes vnto the lawe of God, with theyr wyues, theyr sonnes and theyr daughters, and as many as could vnderstande, and theyr lordes þ had rule of them, receyued it for theyr brethren.

* And they came to sweare and to bynde the selues w an oth to walke in Gods lawe, whych was geuen by Moses the seruaunt of God: and that they wolde obserue and do accordyng vnto all the commaundementes iudgements and statutes of the Loide our God: * and that we wolde not geue oure daughters vnto the people in the lande, neither to take theyr daughters for our sonnes. * And if the people of þ land brought warr on the Sabbath and al maner of vitauls to sell, that we wolde not take it of them on the Sabbath and on the holydayes: * and that we wolde let the seuerth pere be free, concernyng all maner of charge.

And we decreed a statute vpon our selues to geue perceyve the theyrde parte of a shele to the ministracion in the house of our God, to the shew bread, to the dayly meatofferyng, to the dayly burnt offeryng of the Sabbathes, of the new moones and feast dayes and to the thinges that were sanctifyed, and to the offerynges of attonement, to reconcile Israel withall, and to all the busynesse in the house of our God.

And we cast the lotte amonge the prestes, Leuites and the people, for offeryng of the wood to be brought vnto the house of oure God to pere: after the houses of oure fathers: that it myght be byente at tymes appoynted, vpon the altar of the Loide God, as it is wyrtten in the lawe: and to byng the fyrstfrutes of our lande and the fyrstfrutes of oure frutes of all trees: pere by pere vnto the house of the Lord: and the fyrstfrutes of our sonnes, and of our cattell, as it is wyrtten in the lawe, and the fyrstfrutes of our oxe and of our shepe, which we shuld byng to the house of our God, vnto the prestes that minister in the house of oure God: and that we shulde byng the fyrstfrutes of our dough and our beuoffer ynge, and the frutes of all maner of trees, of wyne also and of ople, vnto the prestes, to the chertres of the house of our God. And the tythes of our lande vnto the Leuites, that þ Leuites myght haue the tythes in all the cyties of our ministracion. And the Preste the sonne of Aaron shall with the Leuites, haue also of the tythes of the Leuites, so that the Leuites shall bynge by the tythes of theyr tythes vnto the house house of our god, to the store houses, and to the treasure houses. For the children of Israel, and the children of Levi that bring up the bene of sleeping of the corner, wine, and oyle, unto the store houses, there are the vessels of the sanctuary: and the priests that minister, and the porters and singers, þu we forsake not the house of our God.

¶ The 11. Chapter.

It was killed in Jerusalem after it was bought, and was in the care of Yuba.

 And the rulers of the people dwelte at Ierusalem. The other people also cast lottes, & among ten, one parte shulde go to Ierusalem into the holy citie to dwel, and nyne partes to be in the Cities: and the people thanked all the men that were willinge to dwel at Ierusalem.

These are the heades of the lande that dwelt in Ierusalem and in the Citie of Iuda, euer one in his possession, and in theyr citie: they of Israel, the priests, Levites, Aethiops, and chylidren of Salomons seruantes. And at Jerusalem dwelt certayne of the chylidren of Iuda and Ben Iamin.

Of the children of Juda: Athaiab the sonne of Asia, the sonne of zachari, the sonne of Ama ria, the sonne of Sapharia, the sonne of Waha lari: the children of Phares. And Masia the sonne of Farnuch, the sonne of Chai Holo, s<sup>on</sup>ne of Halaia, the sonne of Abaia, the sonne of Joia rib, the sonne of zachary, the sonne of Siloni.
All these were s<sup>on</sup> children of Phares that dwelt at Jerusalem, euen foure hundred threescore and eight valeaunt men.

B These are the children of Ben Jamin, Salu the sonne of Desullam, the sonne of Joed, & son of Bedaia, the sonne of Calasia, the sonne of Wania, the sonne of Jebiel, the sonne of Hui. And after hym Sabai, belai nine hundred and. xxviii. And Joel the sonne of Jichai had the oversight of them: and Juda the son of Senna was next over the citie.

1. Chron. 2. 3.
* Of the prestes: Jedaiab the sonne of Joia-rib, Jachin, Saraiab the sonne of Belchia: son of Melchiam, the sonne of Zadoc, the son of Meraioth, the sonne of Abitob, was Prymer in the house of God: and bys brether that perfonned the worke in the temple. viii. hundred and xxi.
And Adai the sonne of Jerobam, the sonne of Palatsei, the sonne of Amzi, the son of zachari-the sonne of Phasur, the sonne of Balchia: and his brether these among the fathers, two hundred and two and fourtye. And Amasai the son of Izrael, the sonne of Abasai, the sonne of Noselemoth, the sonne of Immer: and his brether were valaunt men: an hundred and eyght and fowntye. And they ouersear was zabdiel a son of one of the great men.

* Of the Leuites, Demeria the ſonne of Ha-ſab, the ſonne of Meriham, the ſonne of Haſabib, the ſonne of Bunni, and Sabarhai, and Joſabad of the chefe of ſ Leuites, had the ouerſight of the outwarde bulprieſte of the houſe of God.
 And Garſhanahu the ſonne of Qicha, the ſonne of Jabbai, the sonne of Asaph, was the principal to begynne the thankesgiving and prayer. And Sabbukiah the seconde amonge his brethren, & Jibda, the sonne of Samuina, the sonne of Sa-lail, the sonne of Jedathan. All the Leuytes in the holy cite were two hundred foure score and foure. * And the porters Acub and Talmo, and they brethren that kepte the portes, were an hundred and two and seuentye. As for the residue of Israhell, the Priestes and Leuytes, they were in all the ciities of Iuda, euerye one in his inheritaunce.

And the Artabanims dwelte in Opbel: and his son and Silpa was set ouer of Artabanims. The ouerseer of the Levites at Jerusalem was Eli. the sonne of Baani, the sonne of Asabi, of some of Nathania, the sonne of Micha.

Of the chyldren of Aſaph there were ſyngers about the buſyneſſe in the houſe of God, for it was the ſyngers commaundement concernynge them: that the ſyngers ſhoulde deale faythfull every daye as was accordeynge.

And Bathaia the sonne of Melababel of þe chyldezen of zerab the sone of Iuda next þe kyng in all matters concerning the people: and theþe byllages and landes. And some of the chyldezen of Iuda that were without the townes of there lande dwelt at Mariath Arbe. and in the byllages therof: at Didon, and in the byllages therof: and at Israhel, and in the byllages therof at Isna, Moladah, Bethphalet in þe towne of Sual, Berseba, and in theþe byllages: at Shiklag: Mochohah, and theþe byllages: and at Enremon, zarab, Jerimoth, zonoa, Obollam, and in theþe byllages: at Lachis and in þe felde therof: at Aska, and in the byllages therof: and theþe dwelt fro Berseba vnto þe valey of binyon.

The children also of Ben Jamin, of Seba, dwell at Nachman, Aia, Bethel, and in their byllages. And at Anathoth, Rob, Ananiab, Hazor, Ramah, Serhaim, Hadid, Jeboim, Abalahath, Lob and Ono, the carpenters vallepe. And the Levites had possession bothe in Juda, and in Ben Jamin.

The .xii. Chapter.

The priests and Levites whither came hither sheweth unto Jerusalem are numbered, and the wall is dedicated.

These are the prestes and Levites that went vp with zoiozababel the sonne of Salathiel, and with Iesua, Sararia Jeremy and Eloxas, Amaria, Wa-luch, hatas, Sechania, Rehum, Herimoth, Iddo, Genthoi, Abia, Giamin, Maaria, Selga, Semeia, Joiarib, Joiada, Salu, Amocke, Helkia and Jabeia: These were the heades among the prestes: and they: brethren in 8 dayes 15 of Iesua. The Levites were these, Iesua, Bennui, Cadmuel, Sarabia, Iuda, and Nathania, which was over the offyce of thankelsguyng he and his brethren, Barchukia: and Hinni, they: brethren, were about them in 8 watches.

Jesus begat Joakim: Joakim also begate Eliab: and Eliab begat Joiada: Joiada begat Jonathan: and Jonathan begat Judas. In
the

the dayes of Iohann were these chefe fathers amonge the prestes: vnder Baracia, Baracia, vnder Jeremy, Hanania, vnder Edoas, Melchisedech, vnder Amaria, Jehonadab: vnder Sallico, Jonathan: vnder Sebania, Joseph: vnder Harim, Hona: vnder Barasior, Helkia: vnder Iddo, zachari: vnder Senthon, Mesullam: vnder Ibia, sichi: vnder Miniamin, and Moabia, Piltai: vnder Belga, Samua: vnder Semcia, Jehonathai: vnder Jolarib, Nathanai: vnder Iadai, Asai: vnder Selai, Helai: vnder Imoh, Eder: vnder Ielchia, Ialabia: vnder Iadai, Rathanai. And in þe tyme of Eliasib, Jolada, Jothan and Iadua were the chefe fathers amonge the leuites and the prestes, wyrtten vnder the raygne of Darus the Persian. The chyldren of Levi, the principal fathers were wyrtten in the Chronicles vnto the tyme of Jonathan the son of Eliasib. And these were the chefe amonge the Leuytes: Ialabia, Seberia, and Iesua the son of Cadmiel, and they: brethren in they: prestee to geue prayse and thanks, accordyng as Dauid the man of God had ordeyned it, one watch ouer agaynst another, Barbania, Balbukia, Moabia, Mesullam, Talmon and Ithub were porters in the watche at the thyesholdes of the gates. These were in the dayes of Iohann the sonne of Iesua, the sonne of Jorider, and in the dayes of Achemia the captayne, and of þe prest Edoas the Scribe.

And in the dedication of the wall at Jerusalem: they sought the Leuites out of all they: places, that they myght be brought to Jerusalem to kepe the dedicacyon & gladnesse, with thanksgynges and synnyng with cymbales, psalteries and harpes. And the chyldren of þe synners gathered them selues together from euery syde out of the playne countrey about Jerusalem, and from the vyllages of Aetophathi, fro the house of Silgal, and out of the countreies of Seba, and Asmauerth, for the synners had buylded theym vyllages rounde about Jerusalem. And þe prestes and Leuites were purifyed, and censed the people: and the gates, and the wall.

And I brought the prynters of Iuda vp vpon the wall, and appoynted two grete queres of men to geue thanks, whiche went on the ryght hande of the wall towarde the donge gate, and after them went Holoia, and halfe of the prynters of Iuda, and Alaria, Edoas: and Mesullai Iuda, Ben Jamin, Semia & Jeremy: & certayn of the prestes chyldren wth trompettes, namely zachary the sonne of Jonathan, the sonne of Semcia, the son of Nathanai, the son of Michai the sonne of zachar, the son of Iaph and his brethren, Semcia, Asarai, Balalai, Silalai, Nathani, Rathanai, and Iuda & Hanani, wth symylcal instrumentes of Dauid the man of God.

And Edoas & scribe went befoze them and befoze the welgate, they went vpon agaynst them vpon the steepest of the cite of Dauid, at the goyng vpon of the wall beyonde the house of Dauid, vnto the water gate Eastwarde.

The other quere of them that gaue thanks went ouer agaynst them, and I after them, & the halfe parte of the people vpon the wal, beyonde the fowre gate vnto the byode wall, & beyonde the porte of Ephraim, and beyonde the olde gate beyonde the sythegate, and the tower of Hanani, and the tower of Ora, vnto the sythegate. And they stode stil in the pylson gate, & so stode the two queres (of them that gaue thanks) in the house of god: and I and the balfe of the rulers with me, and the prestes, namely Eliasib, Maasia, Miniamin, Michai, Eliezer, zachary, and Hanania: wth trompettes, and Asaia, Temiab, Eleasar, Asai, J:ohanan, Melchiah, Elam, and Ser. And the synners sang loude, haung Iestabiah for they: ouerleas.

And the same daye they offred grete sacrifices and reioyced: for God hadde geuen them great gladnesse, so that both the wyues & chyldren were ioyfull: and the myrth of Jerusalem was heard farre of.

At the same tyme were there men appoynted ouer the treasure houses, wherin were the heu: offrynges, the sythynge, and the tythes: that they shulde gather them out of the felde about the cite, to destribute them vnto the prestes and Leuytes, accordyng to the lawe: for Iuda was glad of the prestes and Leuytes, that they stode and waityd vpon the offer of they: god which is a pure offyce. And the synners and porters stode after the commaundement of Dauid and of Salomon his sonne, & for in the tyme of Dauid and Asaph, were the chefe synners founde, and the songes of prayse & thanksgyng vnto God. In the tyme of Iosobabel, and Achemiah dyd all they of Israel, geue porcyons vnto the synners and porters, euery daye dysporcyon, and they gaue tythes vnto the Leuytes, and the Leuytes gaue tythes agayn vnto the chyldren of Aaron.

¶ The. xiii. Chapter.

¶ The lawe is set, and when they haue herde it they seperate from them all draungers.

And that daye dyd they reade in the booke of Moyses, and the people hardened therto, and there was founde wyrtte & þe Ammonites, & Moabites shulde neuer come into þe congregacyon of God, because they met not þe chyldren of Israel with breade & water: & but byed Balaam agaynst them, that he shulde curse the and our God turned the curse into a blessing. Now when they heard þe lawe, it was turned, that they seperated from Israel euery one that had wyrtte hym selfe therein. And befoze this had the prest Eliasib the ouer sight of the treasure of the house of oure God, and he was hy: sman to Tobia: and had made hym a great chambze & there had they afoze tyme layd the offrynges frankensense, vesselle, and the tythes of coine, wyne and oyle (accordyng to the commaundementes geuen to the Leuites, synners and porters) and the heu: offrynges of the prestes.

But in all this tyme was not I at Jerusalem: for in the. xxii. yere of Artaxerxes king of Babilon, came I vnto the kyng, and after certayne dayes obtayned I licence of the kyng to come to Jerusalem. And I gat knowledge that Eliashib dyd vnto Tobia, in that he had made hym a chambre in the court of the house of God, and it griued me soze, & I cast forth all the vessels of house of Tobia out of the chambre, and comanded them to cleanse the chambers. And thether brought I agayne the vessels of house of God with the meat offering and the incense.

And I perceyued that the porcyons of the le-uites were not geue them, & that euery one fled to his lande, euen the Leuites and syngers that executed the worke. The reynoued I the rulers and sayde: wher is the house of God forsaken?
And I gathered them together, and set them in theyr place. Then brought all Iuda the tythes of corne and wyne, and oyle, vnto the treasurie.

And I made treasurers ouer the treasurie, euen Solemiad the prest, and Jadoe the scribe, and of the Leuites, Phadaia, and vnder theyr hande was Hanan the sone of Jachur the sone of Ma-thania, for they were counted faythfull, & theyr offyce was to distrybute the porcyons vnto theyr brethren. * Thynke vpon me, O my God herein & wyte not out my mercede that I haue shewed on the house of my God, and on the offycers therof.

1. Esth. 2. 1.

At the same tyme saw I some trebpyng wyne pysses on the Sabbath, & byngyng in theyres, and asses laden with wine, grapes, pygges and byngyng all maner of burthens vnto Jerusalem vpo the Sabbath day. And I rebuked the earnestly the same daye that they solde the vtitayles. There dwelte men of Tyre also therein which brought fsh and all maner of ware, and solde on the Sabbath vnto the chyldzen of Juda in Jerusalem. Then reynoued I the rulers in Iuda, and sayd vnto them: what euell thyng is this that ye do, and breake the Sabbath daye?
Vpd not your fathers euen thus, and oure God brought all this plage vpon vs, and vpon this citty: And ye make the wrath moze yet vpo Israell, in that ye breake the Sabbath.

And it fortuned that when the portes of Jerusalem began to be darke in the euenynge befoze the Sabbath, I comanded to shut the gates and charged, that they shuld not be opened til after the Sabbath: & some of my seruantes set Iar the gates, & there shuld no burthe be brought in on the Sabbath daye. Then remained the chapyn and marchauntes ones of tyme ouer nyght wout Jerusalem with all maner of wares. Then reynoued I them soze, & sayde vnto the: why care ye all nyght about the wall: If ye do it ones agayne, I wil laye handes vpon you. Fro that tyme forth came they nomoze on the Sabbath.
And I sayd vnto the Leuites: & they shuld close the selues, & that they shulde come and hepe the gates, to halowe the Sabbath daye. Thynke vpon me (O my God) concernyng this also, & spare me accordynge to thy great mercede.

And at the same tyme saw I Jewes that married wyues of Alood, of Ammon, and of Moab and theyr chyldzen spake dialle in the speache of Alood, and coude not speake in the Jewes language, but by the tonge myght a man perceyue euery people. The I reynoued them, and cursed them, and smote certayne men of them, & made them bare, and toke an oth of them by God: Ye shall not geue your daughters vnto theyr son-nes, neyther shall ye take theyr daughters vnto your sonnes, or for your selues. Wpd not Salomon the kyng of Israel synne for such: and yet amonge many be ythen was there no kyng lyke hym, whiche was deere vnto hys God, and God made hym kyng ouer Israel: and yet neuer the lesse, outlandyshe women caused hym to synne.

Shall we then obeye vnto you, to do all this greate euyl, and to transgreesse agaynst our god and many straunge wyues?

And one of the chyldzen of Jehoiada the son of Eliaf the hys prest had made a contracte to Sanabalat the horonite: but I chased hym frome: (O my God) thynke thou vpon them & defyle the presthode & the couenaunt of the prest hode & of the Leuites. Thus clenfed I them fro all suche as were outlandyshe, and appoynted the courtes of the prestes and Leuites euery one in hys offyce, and to offer the wood at tymes ap-poynted, and the fyrr frutes: Thynke thou vpo me (O my God) for the best. Amen.

The ende of the seconde boke of Esdras other wyse called: the booke of Nehemia

✠ The boke of Esther.

The fyrst Chapter.

Thynke Ahasuerus maketh a copall feast, wherunto he cometh Machi wyll not come, for whych cause she is dyspleased.

Fortuned, in the dayes of Ahasue-rus, which raygned from India vnto Ethiopia (ouer an hundred and se-nen and twenty landes) euen in these dayes when the kyng Ahasuerus sat on hys seate royall, whiche was in Busan the chefe cite, in the thyrde yere of his raygne, he made a feast vnto all hys prynces and seruantes.
And the myghtye men of Persia and Media, the capytaynes also and rulers of hys countyes were befoze hym, and he shewed the ryches and glozy of his kyngdome, & the glozious woshyppe of his greatnes many dayes longe: euen an hundred and lxxx. dayes.

And when these dayes were expyed, the kyng made a feast to all the people that were in Busan the chefe cite, bothe vnto greate and small seuen dayes longe in the court of the garden by
the

the kynges palace: where there hanged wythe grene and yelow clothe, fastened with cordes of fyne sylke, and purple in siluer rynges, vpon pylers of marbre stone.

C The benches also were of golde and syluer made vpon a pavement of grene, wythe, yelow and blacke marbre. And they dyanke in vessels of golde. And chaunged vessel after vessel. And the kynges wyne was muche accordyng to the power of the kyng. And the drynke was so apoynted, that none shulde compel any man, for to the kyng had comaunded by the officers of his house, that euery one shulde do, as it lyked hym. And the quene Vasthi made a feast also for the women in the palace of Ahasuerus. And on the seventh daye when the kyng was mery: after the wyne, he comaunded Mithan, Biztha, Harbona, Bigtha, Abagthan, Zethar, and Charchas, the seven chamberlaynes (that dyd seruyce in the presence of kyng Ahasuerus) to fetch the Quene Vasthi with the crowne regall into the kynges presence, that he myghte shewe the people and princes her fayrenesse, for she was beautiful. But the quene Vasthi wolde not come at the kynges woide, by his chamberlaynes. Then was the kyng very wroth, and his indignacion kyndled in hym.

D And the kyng spake to the wyse men, that had vnderstandyng in the ordynances of the lande, for the kynges matters must be handled befoze all suche as haue knoweledge of the lawe and iudgement: and the <sup>(these and)</sup> sette vnto hym were Cariona, Zethar, Admata, Charis, Dares, Marcena and Damican f seven princes of Persia and Media, which sawe the kynges face, and sat about in the kyngdome. What lawe (sayth the kyng) shulde be executed vpon the Quene Vasthi, because she dyd not accordyng to the woide of the kyng Ahasuerus, whiche he comaunded by his chamberlaynes. And Demican answered befoze the kyng and the prynces: the Quene Vasthi had not onely done euill agaynst the kyng but also agaynst all the prynces, and agaynst all the people that are in all f landes of kyng Ahasuerus: for this dede of the quene shal come abzode vnto all women, so f they shal despyse theyr husblandes, befoze theyr eyes, and shal saye: the kyng Ahasuerus comaunded Vasthi the quene to be brought in befoze hym, but she wolde not come. And so shal the pryncesses in Persia and Media, saye lyke wyse vnto all f kynges & princes whē they here of this dede of the Quene: thus shal there aryse to moche despytfulnesse and wyathe. If it please the kyng therfoze: let there goo a commaundement from hym, and let it be wytten accordyng to the lawes of the Persians, and Medians (and not to be transgressed) that Vasthi come nomoze befoze kyng Ahasuerus: and let the kyng gyue her kyngdome vnto another that is better then she.

E And when this commaundement of the kyng (which shalbe made) is published throuout all the empyre (which is great) all women shal holde their husblandes in honour both among great & small. This pleased the kyng and the prynces: and the kyng dyd accordyng to f woide of Demican. For he sent letters forth into all the kynges landes into euery land accordyng to f wytting therof, and to euery people after theyr language, that euery man shulde be lord in his owne house. And this caused he to be spoken after the language of his people.

The ii. Chapter.

After the quene is put away, certayn goodly yonge damels are leached out. Ahasa, otherwyse called Esther, pleasyng the kyng, & is made quene. Mardochus openeth vnto the kyng that she is his wyfe.

After these actes, when the dyspleasure of kyng Ahasuerus was now layd, he thought vpon Vasthi, and what she had don, and what was concluded agaynst her. Then sayd f kynges seruauntes that mynystred vnto hym: Let there be sayde yonge virgins sought for the kyng, and the kyng appoynted certaynemen in all the landes of his empyre, whome he charged that they shulde bringe together al f sayre yonge virgins vnto Susan the head cite, to f womens buyldyng, vnder the bande of Haggei the kynges chamberlayn, f kept the women, to geue them theyr apparell. <sup>(and other thynges neede)</sup> And that the damsel which pleased the kyng shoulde be quene in Vasthis stead. And this pleased the kyng: and he dyd so.

In the cite of Susan, there was a Jewe, whose name was Mardochus the son of Jair, the sonne of Semei, the son of Cis a man of Jerusalem, which was caried away from Jerusalem when Jehonias the kyng of Iuda was led away, (whome Nabuchodonosor the kyng of Babylon caried thence) & he nozrised Ahasa, that is Esther, his vncles daughter: for she had nether father nor mother, and she was a sayre and beautifull damsell: whome Mardochus (when her father and mother was dead) receyued for his owne daughter.

So it fortuneth, that when the kynges commaundement and commysion was published, and many damels were brought together in the cite of Susan, vnder the bande of Haggei: Esther was brought also vnto f kynges house vnder the hand of Haggei the keeper of f women and the damsell pleased hym, and she founde fauour in his syght. And he caused ornaments to be geuen her, and suche thynges as belonged to her, and appoynted her seven comely damelles out of the kynges house: and fauoured both her and her gentyl women yngheliche in the house of the women. But Esther shewed not her people & her kinned: For Mardochus had charged her, that she shulde not tel it. And Mardochus walked euery daye befoze the courte of the womens house, that he myght knowe how Esther dyd, and what shulde become of her.

And when the appoynted tyme of euery damsel came, that she shulde go into the kyng Ahasuerus, after that she had bene twelve monethes in the deckyng of the women: for theyr deckyng must haue so muche tyme, namelye, fyre monethes with balme and myrr, and fyre monethes with good speeres: so were the women beautified: then went there one damsell vnto the kyng and what soeuer she required (as she thought) that must be geue her, to go with her out of the womens building vnto the kynges palace. In the euening she wente, and on the morowe agayne into the seconde house of the women abyding vnder the bande of Baalgas the kynges chamberlayne, which kept the concubines: and she came into the kynges nomore, except it pleased the kyng to haue her, and she called her by name.

Now when the tyme came of Esther the daughter of Abiam the vncle of Harboreus: which had receaued her as his owne daughter) that she shoulde come into the kynges, she desired no thinge, but what haue the kynges chamberlayne the keeper of the women sayde.

And Esther founde fauoure in the syght of all them that looked vpon her. And Esther was take vnto king Ahasuerus into his house royal in the tenth moneth, which is the moneth * Tebeth, in the seuenth yere of hys reigne.

And the kyng loued Esther above all the women, and she founde grace & fauour in his sight before all the vyrgins: so that he set the crowne of the kyngdome vpon her heade, and made her Queene in the place of Vasthi. And the kyng made a great feast vnto all his princes & seruantes (whiche feast was because of Esther) & caused the landes to be in quietnesse, and gaue gyftes, as became the royaltie of a kyng.

And when the vyrgins were gathered together the seconde tyme, Harboreus was in the kynges gate. And as yet had not Esther becomen the kynged and people, accordyng as Harboreus had hydden her: for Esther dyd after the woide of Harboreus, like as he had bene pet vnder his gouernance. At the same tyme whyle Harboreus sat in the kynges gate, two of the kynges chamberlaynes, Bigthan and Teres, which kept the doore were wioth, and sought to lay their handes on the kyng Ahasuerus: wherof also Harboreus gat knowledge: and tolde it vnto Queene Esther, and Esther certified the kyng thereof in Harboreus name. And when inquisition was made, it was founde so. And they were both hanged on a tree: and it was written in the chronicles before the kyng.

The .iii. Chapter.

When the Machabean, after he was exalted, obtained of the kyng, that all the Jewes shoulde be put to death, because they had not done him worship as other had.

After these Actes dyd kyng Ahasuerus promote Haman the sone of Amadatha the Agagite, and sette hym on hye, and set his seate aboue all the princes that he had with him. And all the kynges seruantes that were in the kynges gate, bowed theyr knees, and worshipped Haman: for the kyng had so commaunded concerning hym. But Harboreus bowed not the knee, and worshipped hym not. Then the kynges seruantes which were in the kynges gate sayde vnto Harboreus: wherfore transgresseth thou the kynges commaundement? And when they spake this daye vnto hym, he folowed theym not, and they tolde Haman: that they myghte be done Harboreus matters shoulde endure, for he had tolde them, that he was a Jewe. And when Haman sawe that Harboreus bowed not the knee vnto hym, nor worshipped hym, he was full of indignacion. And thought it to lyte to lay handes onely on Harboreus: for they had shewed hym the nacpon of Harboreus, wherfore he soughte to destroye all the Jewes, that were thowout the hole empyre of Ahasuerus and that were of the nacpon of Harboreus.

In the first moneth (which is the moneth Nisan) in the tweluth yere of king Ahasuerus: they cast Pur (that is a lot) before Haman from day to daye, and from moneth to moneth, to the tweluth moneth, that is the moneth Adar: and Haman sayd vnto kyng Ahasuerus: There is here a people scattered abrode, & dispersed among all people in all the landes of thyne empyre, & they haue theyr lawes contrary from all people, and do not after the kynges lawes, neyther is it the kynges ppyte to suffer them after this maner. If it please the kyng, let it be written that they maye be destroyed, and so wyl I wey doone. I thousande talentes of syluer by the handes of the workemen, to be brought into the kynges treasury. And the kyng toke hys rynge fro his hand and gaue it vnto Haman the sone of Amadatha the Agagite the Jewes enemye. And the kyng sayd vnto Haman: Let the syluer be thynne, and do with that people as it pleaseth the.

Then were the kynges scribes called on the thirtieth daye of the first moneth (which is the moneth Nisan) and there was written (accordyng as Haman commaunded) vnto all the kynges officers, and to the captaynes that were in all the landes, and to the rulers of every people in the countreyes on every syde, accordyng to the wyrtynge of every nacpon, and after theyr language: in the name of kyng Ahasuerus was it written, and sealed with the kynges rynge. And the wyrtynge were sent by postes into all the kynges landes, to roote out, to kyll and to destroye all Jewes, bothe yonge and olde, chyldren and women, in one daye (namely, vpon the thirtieth daye of the tweluth moneth, which is the moneth * Adar) and to spoyle theyr goodes.

This was the same of the wyrtynge that they shoulde be a commaundement geuen in all landes, & published vnto all people, that they shoulde be ready agaynst the same day: and the postes went in all the haste, accordyng to the kynges commaundement. And in Susan the cite was the commaundement deuyled. And the kyng & Haman sat and drank, when in the mean tyme the cite of Susan was disquyeted.

The .iii. Chapter.

Harboreus ganeth the queene knowledge of the cruel hart of the kyng agaynst the Jewes.

When Harboreus perceyued all that was done, he reuer hys clothes, and putte on sackcloth, with ashes, and wente out in to the myddes of the cite, and crept lowde, and lamentable, and came before the kynges gate, but he myght myght not entre wpythin the kynges gate, by-cause he had sackcloth on. And in all landes, coun-treys and places, as farre as the kynges wyld and commaundement extended, there was greate lamentacyon amonge the Jewes, fastyng, wepyng and mournyng, and many laye in sack-clothes and in ashes. So Esthers damiels and her chambrelaynes came and tolde it her. Then was the Quene exceedingly astonnyed. And she sent rayment, that Wardochus shoulde put on, and lape the sackcloth from hym: But Wardochus wolde not take them. Then called Esther Hathath one of the kynges chambrelaynes (which stode before her) and gaue hym a commaunde-ment vnto Wardochus, that he myght knowe what it were, wherfore he dyd so. So Hathath went forth to Wardochus vnto the treate of the cytye, whych was before the kynges gate.

B And Wardochus tolde hym of all that had happened vnto hym, and of the summe of syluer that Haman had promysed to laye downe into the kynges tresurys because of the Jewes, yf he wolde destroy them (and he gaue hym the copy of the kynges commaundement that was be-nyed at Sulan, to destroy them, that he might shewe it vnto Esther) and so spake to her, and charged her, that she shoulde go into the kyng, and make her prayer and supplicatio vnto him for her people.

C And when Hathath came in, he tolde Esther the wordes of Wardochus. And agayne, Esther spake vnto Hathath, and commaunded hym, to saye vnto Wardochus: all the kynges ser-uautes and the people in the landes of the kyng knowe that whosoever cometh wthout the court vnto the kyng, whether it be man or woman, whych is not called, the commaundement is, that the same shall dye: except the kyng holde out the golden sceptre vnto hym, <sup>or (in token of gracifullnesse)</sup> for then he shall lyue. As for me, I haue not bene called to come now vnto the kyng thys thyrtye dayes.

D And they certified Wardochus of Esthers wordes: and Wardochus had saye agayne vnto Esther: thynke not to saue thyne owne lyfe, whyle thou arte in the kynges house, before all Jewes: for yf thou holdeste thy peace at thys tyme, then shall the Jewes haue helpe and deli-uerance oute of another place, and thou and thy fathers house shall be destroyed. And who knoweth whether thou art come to the kyngdome, for this cause sake: Esther had thys gyle War-dochus thys answer: God thou thy waye, and gather al the Iwes together that are found at Su-lan, and fast ye for me, that ye eat not & drynke in thys dayes, neyther day nor nyght. I and my damels wyll fast thys wyse, and so wyll I go into the kyng, whiche thyng is yet contrarye to the commaundement: and yf I perishe, I perish. So Wardochus went his waye, and dyd all that Esther had commaunded hym.

Chapter. v.

Esther entred into the kyng, and dyddeth hym and Haman to a feast. Haman perswades a galas to Wardochus.

And on the thyrday it fortuneth that Esther put on her royal apparell, & stode in the court of the kynges palace within, ouer agaynst the kyng-ges house. And the kyng sat vpon his royal seate in the kynges palace ouer agaynst the gate of the house. And when the kyng sawe Esther the quene standing in the court, he found grace in hys syght. And the kyng helde out the golden sceptre that was in hys hande: towarde Esther. So Esther strept forth, and touched the top of the sceptre. Then sayd the kyng vnto her What wyle thou Quene Esther: and what requyreth thou: aske euen the halfe of the empyre, if it shalbe gyven the. And Esther answered: yf it please the kyng, let the kyng and Haman come thys day vnto the banquet, that I haue prepared for hym. And the kyng sayde: cause Haman to make haste that he may do as Esther hath sayd.

So the kyng and Haman came to the banquet that Esther had prepared, and the kyng sayde vnto Esther at the banquet of wyne: what is thy petition, that it maye be gyven the? And what requyreth thou: yf it be euen the halfe of the empyre it shalbe done.

Then answered Esther, and sayde: my petition and desyre is, yf I haue founde grace in the syght of the kyng, and yf it please the kyng to gyue me my petition, and fulfill my request, chalet the kyng and Haman come to the banquet yf I shall prepare for them, and so wyll I do tomorowe, as the kyng hath sayde.

Then went Haman forth the same daye to-full and mery in his mynde. And when the same Haman sawe Wardochus in the kynges gate yf he stode not vp and knelled before hym, he was full of indignacion at Wardochus. Nevertheless, Haman refrayned hym self: and when he came home he sent, & called for his frendes, and zares his wyfe, and Haman tolde them of the glory of hys ryche, and the multitude of his chyldren, and all together howe the kyng had promoted him so greatly, & how that he had set him aboue the princes and seruautes of the kyng.
Haman sayd moreover: yea, & Esther the quene dyd let noman come in wth the kyng to the ba-net that she had prepared, except me. And tomorowe am I bydden vnto her also wth the kyng.
But in all thys am I not satisfied, as long as I see Wardochus the Iewe spring at the kyng-ges gate. Then sayd zares his wyfe and al hys frendes vnto hym: Let them make a galas of syfte cubytes hys, and tomorowe speake thou vnto the kyng, that Wardochus may be hanged thereon: and go thou in meryly wth the kyng vnto the banquet. And Haman was well content wthall, and caused the galas to be made.

Chapter. vi.

The kyng turneth ouer the Chyronyles, and syneth the faultes of Wardochus, & then to the confusio of Haman, & to the comfort of Esther.

E The same nyght coulde not the kyng slepe and he commaunded to bringe the Chyronyles & booke: whiche when they were red before the kyng, they happened on the place, where it was wyrtten howe Wardochus

chens had tolde, that Bigthana, and Thersa the kynges two chambelaines (whiche kepte the thurholdes) soughte to laye handes on kyng Ahasuerus. And the kyng sayd: what worshippe and good haue we done to Mardocheus therefore? Then sayd the kynges seruantes that ministered vnto hym: There is nothing at all done for hym. And the kyng sayd: Who is in court? (for Haman was gone into the court without, before the kynges house) that he myght speake vnto the kyng to hang Mardocheus on the tree that he had prepared for hym.) And the kynges seruantes sayd vnto him: behold, Haman standeth without in the court. And the kyng sayd: let hym come in. And when Haman came in, the kyng sayde vnto hym: what shalbe done vnto the man whom the kyng wolde sayne byying vnto worshippe? Haman thought in his hert: whom despyeth the kyng to byyinge vnto worshippe, moze then me? And Haman answered the kyng: Let the man whom the kyng please to byying vnto worshippe, be brought hyther: that he may be arayed with the royall garmentes, whiche the kyng vseth to weare: and the horse that the kyng rydeth vpon, and that the crowne royall may be set vpon his heed. And let this rayment and horse be deliuered vnder the hande of one of the kynges pynces, that they may aray the man withall: whom the kyng is disposed to byyinge to honour: and carry him vpon the horse thorow the strete of the cite, and proclayme before him: thus shall it be done vnto the man, whome the kyng please to byyinge to honour.

And the kyng sayd: make haste, and take as thou hast sayde: the rayment and the horse: and do euen so vnto Mardocheus the Jew, that standeth before the kynges gate, & let not bying sayle of all that thou hast spoken. Then toke Haman the rayment and the horse, and arayed Mardocheus, and brought hym on horsebacke thorow the strete of the cite, & proclaymed before hym: Euen this shal it be done to the man whome the kyng is disposed to honour. And Mardocheus came agayn to the kynges gate: but Haman gat hym home in al the haste mourning bareheaded and tolde zares his wyfe & all his frendes euery thinge that had happened hym. Then sayd zares wyfe men, and zares his wyfe vnto hym: If it be Mardocheus of the seed of the Jewes, before whom thou hast begon to sal, thou shalt not preuaile agaynst hym, but shalt surely fall before hym. And whyle they were yet talkyng wpyth hym, came the kynges chambelaines, and called Haman to make haste, to come vnto the banquet that Esther had prepared.

The vii. Chapter.

The queene rebuketh the kyng and Haman agayne and prayeth for her litle Jew people: she accuseth Haman, and he is hanged on the gallows, whiche he had prepared for Mardocheus.

And the kyng and Haman came into the banquet that Queene Esther had prepared: and the kyng sayde vnto Esther on the seconde daye at the banquet of wyne: What is thy petition, (Queene Esther) that it maye be graunted? And what requestest thou? For aske euery thinge of the empyre, and it shall be done. And Esther the Queene answered, and sayd: If I haue founde grace in thy syghte (O kyng) and if it please the kyng, then graunte me my lyfe at my desyre, and my people for my petition sake: for we are solde, I and my people, to be destroyed, to be slayne, and to perishe. And wolde God that we were solde to be bondemen, and bondwomen, then wold I holde my tongue: For the enemy pondreth not the kynges harme. The kyng Ahasuerus answered, and sayde vnto Queene Esther: Who is he, and where is he, that dare presume in his mynde to do after that manner? And Esther sayd: the enemy and aduersary is this wicked Haman.

Haman was exceedingly afrayed before the kyng. And the kyng arose fro the banquet and from the wyne in his displeasure: & went in to the palais garden. And Haman rode vp, and besought Queene Esther for his life: for he sawe that there was a myschance prepared for hym of the kyng already. And when the kyng came agayn out of the palais garden, into a place where they dranke wyne, Haman had layed him vpon the bed that Esther sat vpon. Then sayd the kyng: whyl be force I quene also before me in the house? As soone as the word went out of the kynges mouth, they couered Hamans face: and Harbona one of the chambelaines that stode before the kyng sayd: behold, there standeth a galous in Hamans house I. cubites hie, which he had made for Mardocheus, that spake good for the kyng. The kyng sayd: hang him thereon. So they hanged Haman on the galous, that he had made for Mardocheus. Then was the kynges wrath pacified.

The viii. Chapter.

After the death of Haman was Mardocheus exalted, and then are there comfortable letters sent vnto the Jewes.

The same daye byd kyng Ahasuerus grue the house of Haman the Jewes enemy vnto queene Esther. And Mardocheus came before the kyng: for Esther tolde howe she be seiged vnto her. And the kyng put of his kyng a ring which he had taken fro Haman, & gaue it vnto Mardocheus. And Esther set Mardocheus ouer the house of Haman. And Esther spake yet moze before the kyng: and fell downe at his feet wepyng, and besought hym that he wolde put a way the wickednesse of Haman the Agagite, & his deuyle that he had imagined agaynst the Jewes. And the kyng & (accordinge to the manner) helde oute the golden sceptre towarde Esther, & (whiche was declared a token of grace) Then arose Esther, and stode before the kyng, and sayde: If it please the kyng, and if I haue founde grace in thy syghte: and if it be acceptable before the kyng, then let it be wyttten that the letters of the deuyle of Haman the son of Amadatha the Agagite may be called againe whiche letters he wrote to destroye the Jewes, whiche are in all the kynges landes. For howe can I suffer and see the euyl, that shall happen vnto my people? Or howe can I loke vpon the destruction of my kyned?

And the kyng Ahasuerus sayd vnto queene Esther:

Ester and to Wardochus the Jewe: Behold, I have given Ester the house of Haman, who they have hanged upon a tree, because he layed hand upon the Jewes. Write ye also for the Jewes, as it is herth you in the kynges name, and seale it with the kynges ryng, (for the wytynges that were writen in the kynges name, and sealed with the kynges ryng, durst nomā disannull.) Then were the kynges scribes called at the same tyme, even in the thyrtyd moneth, that is the moneth Siuan, on the xxiij. daye.

And it was wytten (accoordinge to all as Wardochus commaunded) unto the Jewes and to the princes, to the deputies and captaynes in the lades which are from India unto Ethiopia namely an hundred and seuen and twentye landes, unto every one accoordinge to the wytynges therof, and to every people after theyr speache, and the Jewes accoordinge to theyr wytynges and language.

And he wrote in the kynges Ihasuerus name and sealed it with the kynges ryng. And by postes that rode upon horses, and swifte pounge mules sent he the wytynges wherein the kyng graunted the Jewes (in what cyties soever they were) to gather them selues together, & to stand for theyr lyfe, and for to roote oute, to slaye and to destroye al the power of the people and lande that wold trouble them with chyldren and women, and to spoyle theyr good upon one daye in all the landes of kyng Ihasuerus, namely, vpon the thyrtyenth daye of the tweluerth moneth, wherof is the moneth Adar.

The summe of the wytyng was, how there shulde be a commaundement gyven in all landes, and published amonge all people, and that the Jewes shulde be readye agaynst that daye, and to avenge them selues on theyr enemyes. And so the postes that rode vpon the swifte horses and mules made haste with all speede, to execute the kynges worde: and the commaundement was deupied in Susan the chefe cite.

And Wardochus went oute (from the palace,) from the kyng in top all apparell of pelowe and whyte, and with a great crowne of golde, beinge arrayed with a garment of sylke and purple, and the cytie of Susan reioysed and was glad, and unto the Jewes there was come (as a newe) lyght and gladnesse, lope and woxypp. In all landes and cyties, into what place soever the kynges worde and commaundement reached, there was lope and myght, prosperitie and good dayes amonge the Jewes: in somuche that many of the people of the lande became of the Jewes belefe, and the feare of the Jewes came vpon them.

Chapter.

At the commaundement of the kyng, the Jewes put theyr aduersaries to death. The sonnes of Haman are hanged. The Jewes have a feast daye in remembrance of theyr delivrance.

In the tweluerth moneth, that is the moneth Adar, vpon the thyrtyenth daye of the same, when the kynges worde and commaundement shulde be done, even vpon the same day that the enemyes shuld have destroyed the Jewes, to have oppressed them, it turned contrary wyse, even that the Iues shuld subdue theyr enemyes. For they gathered the Jewes together in theyr cyties within all the landes of kyng Ihasuerus, to lay hand on suche as wold do them euill, and no man coude withstande them: for the feare of them was come ouer all people. And all the rulers in the landes, and princes and deputies & officers of the kyng, promoted the Jewes, for the feare of Wardochus came vpon them. For Wardochus was great in the kynges house, and the report of him was noyed in all landes, how he encreased and grewe.

Thus the Jewes smote all theyr enemyes with a sore slaughter, and slue and destroyed and oyd after theyr wyll vnto suche as were theyr aduersaries. And at Susan the chefe cytie slue the Jewes, and destroyed fyue hundred men, and slue Pharlantatha, Dalpho, Alphatha, Pharaatha, Adalia, Aridatha, Pharmastha, Irilai, Irdat and Alizatha the ten sonnes of Haman, the sonnes of Hamadata the enemye of the Jewes: but on his goodes they layed no handes. At the same tyme was the kyng certified of the nombre of those that were slayne in the cytie of Susan. And the kyng sayd vnto quene Ester. The Jewes haue slayne and destroyed fyue hundred men in the cite of Susan, and the ten sonnes of Haman, what haue they done (thynkest thou) in other landes of the kyng? And what is thy peticion, that it maye be gyven the? Or what requyreth thou more to be done? Ester answered: If it please the kyng, let hym suffer the Jewes tomorrow also to do accoordinge vnto this dayes commaundement, that they maye hange Hamans ten sonnes vpon tree. And the kyng charged to do so, and the commaundement was drupied at Susan, and they hanged Hamans ten sonnes. For the Jewes that were in Susan gathered them selues together, vpon the fourtenth daye of the moneth Adar, and slue theye hundred men at Susan, but on theyr goodes they layed no handes: As for the other Jewes that were in the linges lades, they came togyther, and stode for theyr lyues, that they myght haue rest fro theyr enemyes: and slue of theyr enemyes fyue & seuen tye thousande: howbeit, they layed no hades on theyr goodes. This they dyd on the thyrtyenth daye of the moneth Adar, and on the fourtenth daye of the same moneth rested they: which day they helde with feastyng and gladnesse. But the Jewes that were at Susan came together, both on the thyrtyenth day, and on the fourtenth and on the fyfteenth daye of the same they rested, and held that day with feastyng and gladnesse. And therfore the Jewes that dwelt in the vylages and vnwalled towncs, helde the fourtenth daye of the moneth Adar, with gladnesse and feastyng, and kepte holy daye, and euery one sent gyftes vnto an other.

And Wardochus wrote these actes, & sente the wytynges vnto al the Jewes that were in all the landes of kyng Ihasuerus, both nye and far, that they shulde make a lawe amonge them selues; and holde the fourtenth, and fyfteenth daye of

The booke of Job.

The first Chapter.

Job is plaged of God by the loss of his goods and children.

In the lande of * was there was a man whose name was Job: and the same was a perfect and iuste man, suche one as feared God, and eschewed euill. And he hadde seuen sonnes, and thre daughters. * his substance also was seuen. * wepe, and thre. * cameis, spue. C. yoke of oxen and fyue hundred she asses, and a verpe greaie household, so that he was one of the moost principall men amonge all men of the East countre. And his sonnes went and made bankettes: one daie in one house, an other daie in an other, and sent for theyr thre sisters to eate and drynke with them. And it fortuned, that when they had passed ouer the tyme of theyr bankettyng rounde about, Job sent for them, and sanctified them, and gat vp early, & offered for euery one a burnt-offeryng: for Job sayde: lest peradventure my sonnes haue done some offence: and haue ben vnthankfull to God in theyr detes.

Thus dyd Job euery daie. And vpon a daie * when the chyldren of God came and stode before the Lorde, it fortuned that Satan came also amonge them. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: from whence comest thou? Satan answered the Lorde and sayd: * I haue gone about the lande, and walked thowowe it.

And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: Hast thou not confydred my seruauit Job, how that there is none lyke hym in the lande, a perfect and a iust man: such a one as feareth God, and escheweth euill. Satan answered, & sayd vnto the Lorde. Woth Job feare God for nought? hast thou not perserued hym & his house, & all that he hath on euery syde? Thou hast blessed the workes of his handes, & his possession is increased in the land. But lape thyn hande now vpon hym, & he shall curse thee to thy face. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: lo, all that he hath, be in thy power: onelye vpon hym selfe, se that thou lay not thy hand. And Satan went forth from the presence of the Lorde.

And vpon a certayne daie, it fortuned that his sonnes and daughters were eating & drynkyng wyne in theyr eldest brothers house, and there daye of the moneth Thar, as the dayes wherein the Jewes came to rest from theyr enemies, and as a moneth wherein theyr payne was turned to ioye, and theyr sorowe into an holpe daie, and that in those dayes they shoulde make feastes, and gladnesse, and one to sende gyftes vnto an other, and to distribute vnto the poore.

And the Jewes were content with it that they had begonne to do, and that Mardocheus wrote vnto them: how that Haman the sone of Hamadatha all the Jewes enemy, had deuyled agaynst the Jewes, how he myght destroye the, and caused to cast Phur (that is a lot) for to put them in feare, & to bynne them to nought, and how Esther went and spake to the kynge, that thowowe letters his wyched deuyse (whiche he ymagined agaynst the Jewes) might be turned vpon his owne heed, and how he and his sonnes were hanged on tree. For the whiche cause they called thys daie Phurim, because of the name of the lot, and because of all the wordes of thys wyptyng: and what they them selues had sene, and what had happened vnto them.

And the Jewes sette it vp, and toke it vpon them and theyr seide, and vpon all suche as loved them selues vnto them, that they wolde not misse, but obserue those two dayes yere, accordyng as they were wytten and appoynted: how that these dayes are not to be forgotte, but to be kept of chylders chyldren amonge all kynredes in all landes and ctyes. They are the dayes of Phurim, which are not to be ouerslypt amonge the Jewes, and the memoriall of them ought not to perishe from theyr seide.

And Quene Esther the daughter of Abihail and Mardocheus the Jewe wrote with all auctoritie (to confyrm the seconde wyptyng of Phurim) and sent the letters vnto all the Jewes in the hundred and seuen and twenty landes of the empyre of Basuerus, with frendly & faithful wordes, to confyrm these dayes of Phurim in theyr tyme appoynted, accordyng as Mardocheus the Jewe and Esther the Quene hadde appoynted them. And they bounde theyr soule and theyr seide to fastyng and prayer. And Esther stablyshed the wordes of these letters, as it is wytten in the booke.

And the kynge Basuerus layd tribute vpon the lande, and vpon the yles of the see. And all that he dyd by his power and auctoritie, and the great wordes of Mardocheus, whiche the kynge gaue hym, be they not wytten in the Chronicles of the kynges of Media and Persia: for Mardocheus the Jewe was the seconde next vnto kynge Basuerus, & great amonge the Jewes, and accepted amonge the multitude of his brethren, as one that seareth the welth of his people, and speaketh the best for all his seide.

The ende of the booke of Esther.

there came a messenger vnto Job, & sayd: whyle the oren were a plowing, and the asses goinge in the pasture besyde them, the Sabees came violently, & toke them away: pray they haue slayne thy seruantes with the edge of the swerde: and I onely ranne my wape to tell the.

Whyle he was yet speakinge, there came another, and sayd: The fyre of God is fallen from heauen, and hath byent vp all thy shepe and seruantes, and consumed them: and I onely ran away, to tell the. And whyle he was yet speakinge, there came another, and sayd: The Caldees made the armpes, and fell in vpon the camels, and haue caried them away: yea & slayne thy seruantes with the swerde: and I onely am gotten away to tell the. And whyle he was yet speakinge, there came another, and sayd: Thy sonnes and thy daughters were eatinge and drinkinge wyne in thy eldest brothers house, & behold, there came a myghty great wynde out of the south, & smote the foure corners of the house which fell vpon thy chyldren, and they are deed: and I am gotten away alone to tell the.

Then Job stode vp, and rent his clothes, and shaued his heed, fell downe vpon the grounde, worshypped, and sayde: * Naked came I out of my mothers wombe, and naked shall I tourne thither agayne. The Lorde gaue, and the Lorde hath taken awaye, on (euen as it hath pleased the Lorde, so it is come to passe) blessed be the name of y Lorde. * In all these thynges dyd Job not offende, nor murmured foolishly agaynst God.

¶ The ii. Chapter.

¶ Job is plagued with sore byles, and afterwarde is made king of his tyme. His frendes visite hym, and haue compassion on hym.

And the chyldren of God came and stode befoze the Lorde, and Satan came also amonge them, and stode befoze the Lorde. And the Lorde sayd vnto Satan: From where comest thou? Satan answered the Lorde, and sayd: I haue gone about the lande, and walked thowowe it.

And the Lorde sayde vnto Satan: hast thou not conspyed my seruant Job, for there is none lyke hym in the lande. For he is a perfecte & iust man: suche a one as feareth God, and escheweth euill, and continueth styll in his godlynesse. And thou mouedst me agaynst him, that I wold punyssh hym for nought. And Satan answered y Lorde, and sayd: Whynne for hymme: yea a ma wyl gyue all that cur he hath for his lyfe. But laye thyne hande now vpon hym, and touche euen his bone and flesch, and he shall curse the to thy face. And the Lorde sayde vnto Satan: lo, there hast thou him in thy power, but spare his lyfe.

So went Satan forth from the presence of the Lorde, and smote Job with maruailous soze byles, from the sole of his fote vnto his crowne sayd he late vpon the grounde, in the ashes: and scraped the spylth of his sozes with a postwarde.

Then sayd his wyfe vnto hym: & what thou steine yet in thy perfectnesse: curst God & dye. But Job sayd vnto her: thou speakest lyke a foolish womā. What we receyue prosperitie at the hande of God, and not receyue aduersitee: * In all these thynges dyd not Job syn w his lypes.

Nowe when Jobs frendes hearde of all the trouble that happened vnto hym, there cam thre of them, euerie one from his owne place, namely Eliphaz the Thermanite, Bildad the Shubite, and zophar the Naamathite.

And they were agreed togyther to come to see we they: compassyon vpon hym, and to comfort him. So when they lyft vp they: eyes a far of, they knewe hym not.

Then they cryed and wept, and euerie one of them rene his clothes, and spynkled dust vpon they: heedes in the ashe. They sat them downe by hym also vpon the grounde seuen dayes, and seuen nyghtes. Neyther was there any of them that spake one worde vnto hym: for they sawe, that his payne was very great.

¶ The iii. Chapter.

¶ The wordes of Job, wherein he declareth that this plectent lyfe is miserable, and that the death of the righteous is happy and sustainable.

After this opened Job his mouth, and cursed his daye. And Job answered, and sayd: lost be that daye, wherein I was bozne: and y nyght in the whych it was sayd: there is a man chyld conceived. The same daye be tournd to darknesse, and not regarded of God from aboue: neither let him thynke vpon it with light, but let it be stayned with darknesse, and the shadowe of death. Let the dymme cloude fall vpon it, and let it be lapped in withsnow on the daye time. Let the darke storme ouercome that night and let it not be ioynd vnto the dayes of y peere, nor counted in the monethes.

Desolate be that nyght, and withoute glabnesse, let them that curse the day, and that be rebytet or aple vpon mournynge, gyue it also they: curse. Let the starres of that nyght be dymme, thowowe darkenesse of it. Let it lorde for lyghte, but let it be none: neyther the ryfynge vp of the fayre moynynge, because it hath not vp y wombe that bare me. For then woulde the sorrowes haue bene hys from myne eyes.

Alas * why dyed I not in the byrth: why dyd not I perishe as soone as I came out of my mothers wombe? Why set they me vpon they: knees? why gaue they me souke wyth they: breasts? Then wuld I now haue lpen styll, I wuld haue slept, and bene at rest, lyke as the kynges and lordes of the earth, whych haue buyded the selues special places: Or as y princes y haue had great substaunce of gold & their houses full of siluer. Or why was I not dyd, as a chyng bozne out of tyme, eyther as yonge chyldren, whych neuer sawe slpyght: There must the wicked cease from they: tyanny, and there suche as be onerlaboured be at rest: there are those let out free, whych haue bene in pylson, so that they heare nomore the voyce of the oppressour. There are smal and great: and the seruant is free from his master.

Wherfore is the lyght gyuen to him that is in miserie: and lyfe vnto them y haue beny dyntes? Which longe for death, and thought it com not? woulde dyg it out of his places, whych also woulde be exceeding glad and reioyse, yf they coulde fynde they graue any where. That shall be tope to that man whose tope is hyde, and God heperth it backe from hym. For my syghes come before I eate, and my roynge sal out lyke the water. For the thyng that I feared is come vpon me: and the thyng that I was afraied of is happened vnto me: was I not happye? Had I not quietnesse? Was I not in rest? And now commeth such myserye vpon me.

The.iiii. Chapter.

Job to reprehende of impudence and vainglorie, and of the presumption of his owne righteousness.

Ad Eliphaz the Themanite answered, and sayde: If we begyn to commune with the, wilt thou be discontent? But who can withholde him selfe from speakyng? Beholde thou hast ben a chasterer of many, and hast comforted the wepynge handes.

Thy wordes haue set vp those that were fallen, thou hast refreshed the weake knees. But nowe that the plague is come vpon the, thou arte grieved: now that it hath touched thy selfe, thou arte saynte bected. * Is not this thy feare, thy stedfastnesse, thy patience, and the perfectnesse of thy wayes? Consydre (I praye the) who euer perished being an innocent? Or when were the godly destroyed? For as I haue proued by experience: they that plowe iniquitie, and so we wretchednesse, reape the same. With the blaste of God they perishe, and with the breath of his nostrylles are they consumed awaye. The ro-ynge of the lyon, and the voyce of the lyon, and the teeth of the Lyons whelpes are pulled out.
The lyon perissheth for lacke of praye, and the lyons whelpes are scattered abroad.

And to me came the worde secretly, and myne care hath receyued a tyele therof. In the thought tes and visions in the night (when slepe cometh on men) feare came vpon me, and drede whiche made all my bones to quake. The wynde passed by, before my presence, and made the breeces of my flesh to stande vp. He stode there, & I knewe not his face: an ymage there was before myne eyes, and in the stillnesse herde I a voyce. * What man be more iust then God? Or shall a man be purer then his maker? Beholde, he founde no truthe in his seruantes, and in his angelles there was folye: how moche more in them that dwell in houses of claye, and whose foundacyon is but dust, whiche shall be consumed as it were with a mothe. They shall be smytten from the moynge vnto the euenyng: yea, they shall perish for euer, when no man thynketh thereon. Is not thy roialtie gone awaye with them? thy hall by truely: and not in wysdome.

The.v. Chapter.

The cure of a soile. The reproche of God. The Lorde chasteneth him, and deliuereth them agayne.

Aye (I praye the) if happily there be any that wil answer the, & loke thou vpon any of the holy men. As for the folyshe man, displeasure hyl-eth hym, & anger sleeth & ignorancie I haue seene my selfe, when the folyshe was depe rooted, and sodaynly I cursed his habitacyon. his chylde were without prosperitie, and they were slayne in the gate, and there was no man to deliuer them. * His haruest was eaten vp of the hungrye, and the weaponed man spoyled it, and the chylyte drank vnto the labour. It is not the earth that byngeth forth iniquitie: neither commeth sorowe out of the grounde, but man is borne vnto labour, lyke as the sparkes flye vp out of the hote coles.

But I will aske counsaile at the Lorde, and will talke with God: which doth thynges that are vnsearchable, and maruils without nombre.
* He gyueth rayne vpon the earth, and poureth water vpon the streets, to set vp them that be of lowe degree, and that those whiche are in heuynesse may come to prosperitie. He destroyed the deuyces of the subtile, so that they handes are not able to perforce any stedfast thyng.
* He compasseth the wyle in theyr owne craftinesse, and ouerthroweth the counsaile of the wycked. In somoch, that they run vnto dark-nesse by saye daie, * and grope aboute them at the noone daie, lyke as in the nyght.

He shall deliuer the poore from the swerde, & frō the threatnynges of the vngodly, & from the violence of the mighty. He is the hope of the poore:
and the mouth of the wycked shall be stopped.

Beholde, * happye is the man whome God punyssheth: the foie refuse not thou the chastenyng of the almyghty. For though he make a wounde, he gyueth a playster: though he smyte, his hande maketh hole agayne.

He shall deliuer the in syre troubles, and in the seuered there shall no euill come to the. In hunger he shall save the from death: and when it is warre, from the power of the swerde.

Thou shalt be kept from the euill tonge, and wilt trouble cometh, thou shalt not nedde to feare.
In destruction & death thou shalt be merie, and * shalt not be afraid of beastes of the earth. For the stones of the land shall be confederate with the
and the beastes of the feilde shall gyue the peace.

And thou shalt knowe, that thy dwelling place shall be in rest, and thou shalt go & beholde thy habitacion, and shalt not synne. Thou shalt se also, that thy seed shall encrease, and that thy posteritie shall be as the grasse vpon the earth.
Thou shalt com also to thy graue in a saye age like as whē they take vp a coine there in due season. Lo, this we our selues haue proued by experience, and euen thus it is. Heken thou to it also, that thou mayest take heed to thy selfe.

The.vi. Chapter.

Job answered, that his payne is more grievous then his fault, yet notwithstanding he deliuereth them.

Ad answered also, and sayde: What the displeasure which I haue desired were truly wyed, and my punishment layde in the balaunces together: for nowe is it heavier then the sande of the see. And this is the cause that my wordes are so sorrowfull.
For the arrowes of the almyghty are round about me, whose indignacion hath dyonke vpon my spirit and the terrible feares of God are set agaynst me.
Doe

¶ Doeth the wilde oſſe roſe whe he hath graſſe?
Or cryeth the oxe when he hath foddre ynough?
That which is vnſauoury, ſhall it be eaten without ſalt? or is there any taſte in the whette of an egge? The thynges that ſomtyme I myght not awake withall, are nowe my meate for very ſorowe. O that I myght haue my deſire, and that God wolde graunt me the thyng that I longe for. O that God wolde begyne and ſmyte me: that he wolde let his hand go, and take me cleane awaye. Then ſhulde I haue ſome comfort: yea, I wolde deſyre hym in my payne, that he ſhulde not ſpare, for I wyl not be agaynſt the wordes of the holie one.

B For what power haue I to endure? And what is myne ende, that my ſoule myght be pacified? Is my ſtrength the ſtrength of ſtones?
Or is my fleſh made of braſſe? Is it not ſo, that there is in me no helpe: and that my ſubſtance is taken from me? he that is in tribulation ought to be comforted of his neyghbour: but the feare of the Lorde is cleane awaye. Myne owne brethren paſſe ouer by me as the water brooke, and as the ryuer of the water, do haſtely go awaye.
But they that feare the bozeſtroke, ſnowe ſhall fall vpon them.

C When they tyme cometh, they ſhall be deſtroyed and perith: whe they be ſet on fyre they ſhall be remoued out of their place for the parches that they go in, are croked, they haſt after vaine thynges, and ſhall perith. They turne them to the parches of Theman, and to the wapes of Saba, wherein they haue put theyr truſt. Confounded are they that put any confidence in them.
For when they come to obtayne the thynges þat they loke for, they are brought to confulſion.

D Euen ſo are ye alſo come vnto me: but nowe that ye ſee my myſerpe, ye are afrayed. Wyd I deſyre you to hyng vnto me, or to gyue me any of your ſubſtance? To deliuer me from the enmyes hande, or to ſaue me from the hande of tyrantes? Teach me, and I wil holde my tonge: and when I do erre, ſhewe me wherein. Howe ſtedfaſt are the wordes of trueth? And whych of you can rebuke and reprove them? Do ye take deliberation to cheeke mens ſaynges, and iudge a pooze word ſpoken in wayne? Ye ſal vpon the ſatherleſſe, and go aboute to ouerthrowe your owne frende. And therfore be contente, and loke nowe vpon me, and I wyl not lye before your face. Turne (I praye you) be indifferent iudges toure agayne, and ye ſhall ſee my vngyfteneſſe whether there be anye vngyfteneſſe in my tonge, or wayne wordes in my mouth.

The vii. Chapter.

¶ Thou ſayest that this lyfe is but a battayle, as warre.

¶ Iſt man any certayne tyme vpon earth?
* See not his dayes alſo lyke the dayes of an hyred ſeruaunt? For lyke as a bond ſeruaunt deſpyreth the ſadowe, and as an hyreling wolde ſayne haue an ende of his worke. Euen ſo haue I laboured hole mone-thes longe: (but in wayne) and manye a carefull nyght haue I tolde * when I laye me downe to ſleepe I ſay: O when ſhall I aſpe: Agayne, I longed ſore for the nyght.

And in the meane tyme am I full of ſorowes vntyll the twylyght. My fleſh is clothed with woymes and duſt of the earth: my ſhynne is wythered, and become horrible, * my dayes paſſe ouer moze ſpedely then a weurer can weare out his web, and are gone or I am aware. O remembre that my lyfe is but a wynde, and that myne eye ſhal nomoze ſee pleaſures therof: yea, and ſ none other mens eye ſhal ſee me any moze. For if thou faſten thyne eye vpon me, I com to nought. The cloude is conſumed and vaniſhed awaye, euen ſo be that goeth downe to the graue ſhall come nomoze by, nor tourne agayne vnto his houſe:
neither ſhall his face knowe hym any moze.

Therefore I wyl not ſpare my mouth, but wyl ſpeake in the trouble of my ſpyrite, & multiplie in the bytterneſſe of my mynde. Am I a ſe or a whaleſpyte, that thou kepeſt me ſo in priſon?
When I ſay: my bed ſhall comforte me, I ſhall haue ſome reſreſhyng by talkyng to my ſelfe vpon my couche. * Thou troubleſt thou me with dreames, and makeſt me ſo aſtayed thow vpon ſtrons, that my ſoule wyſher rather to perith and dye, then in bones to remayne.

I can ſee no remedye, I ſhall lye nomoze, O ſpare me this, for my dayes are but wayne: what is man, & thou haſt him in ſuche reputation, and ſetteſt ſo much by him? Thou viſiteſt him early
